

J. H. Ellis

RB341874

*Thomas Fisher
Rare Book Library*

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

A

Musical And Literary Entertainment
Will be held At

Missuro

on Wednesday Jan 7th At 7 Pm

The Programme Will consist of Vocal and instrumental

MUSIC

Readings And Recitations
With A cup of Tea or coffee

At The close.

Admission 25 cents.

come one come All

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2024 with funding from University of Toronto

<https://archive.org/details/grip00unse>

PUBLISHER'S
NOTE.

Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the Office, 35 King Street West, Toronto.

TERMS—$2 per annum; shorter periods at proportionate rates. Single copies, five cents. Advertising terms made known on application to Messrs. FISHER & TAYLOR, Agents, 35 YONGE Street.

Communications connected with the business department must be addressed to the MANAGER, care of Mr. A. S. IRVING, Exclusive Wholesale Agent, No. 35 King Street West.

A. S. IRVING, Wholesale Agent,
35 King St. West, Toronto.

OFFICE
and
DEPOT.

EVERY SATURDAY.

Five Cents.

For sale at all the Bookstores.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; the gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

VOL. 2.

TORONTO, MAY 23, 1874.

No. 26.

EDITOR'S
NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach the Editor not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to P. O. Box 958. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

CONTRIBUTIONS, when accepted, will, for the present, be paid for at the rate of Two DOLLARS per column. All articles for which payment is expected must be accompanied by the name and address of the author.

FRESH ARRIVALS.

PURE

MAPLE SYRUP

From the Sap, and choice

MAPLE SUGAR

IN BLOCKS.

FRESH ASPARAGUS

FROM CALIFORNIA.

Fresh Mushrooms & Green Peas

FROM FRANCE.

ALSO

FRESH GREEN CORN

AND STRING BEANS.

CARLING'S ALE

Down to $1.25 per dozen quarts.

Also in hhds., half-barrels, and quarter-barrels, for family use.

A Liberal Price paid for Ale and Porter Bottles.

Orders by mail or otherwise promptly executed.

THOS. GRIFFITH & CO.,

London and Italian Warehouse,

218 YONGE STREET,

CORNER ALBERT AND YONGE.

JAS. H. SAMO & CO.

(Late WELLS & STEWART)

Furniture Manufacturers,

Would respectfully invite the attention of the citizens of Toronto and surrounding towns to their well-selected stock of

FURNITURE, consisting of

PARLOR,
DRAWING ROOM,
DINING ROOM,
LIBRARY, and
BED ROOM SUITES.

We would call particular notice to our fine assortment of

REPS, TERRYS & COTELINES,

Suitable for covering Drawing Room Suites.

Our Stock of

WOOD AND CANE SEAT CHAIRS

is now complete for both

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

The only house in the city where the

Self-Adjusting Spring Bed

is to be purchased.

Hair, Wool, Mixed and Straw Mattresses

Constantly on hand and made to order.

SPECIAL ATTENTION

Paid to laying Carpets and Hanging Curtains.

UPHOLSTERING

IN ALL ITS BRANCHES.

WHOLESALE & RETAIL.

JAS. H. SAMO & CO.,

187 YONGE STREET,

TORONTO.

TORONTO WIRE WORKS,

(ESTABLISHED 1854)

68 KING STREET WEST.

W. H. RICE,

Manufacturer of

BRASS, COPPER, GALVANIZED & IRON
WIRE CLOTH.

Iron Bedsteads and Cots, Bird Cages, Window Guards, Cemetery Railing, Garden Fencing, Flower Stands, Baskets and Trainers, Coal, Sand, Gravel and Malt Screens, Mantle Stands, Steel Wire Brushes, Riddles, Sieves, Fenders, Fire Guards, Wire Rope, Sash Cords, Wire Cloth for Locomotives, Threshing Machines, Fanning and Smut Mills, &c. Meat and Cheese Safes.

G. J. GEBHARDT & Co.,

ENGRAVERS

AND

Lithographic Steam Printers,

13 Adelaide Street East,

TORONTO.

Queen's Birthday.

GRAND LACROSSE MATCH

ON THE

Toronto Lacrosse Club Grounds

Cor. Jarvis & Wellesley Sts.

TORONTOS VS. INDIANS,

AT 2.30 P.M.

ADMISSION, 25 CENTS; CHILDREN, 15 CENTS.

Grand Stand, 10c.

PORTRAITS.

LIFE SIZE IN OIL,

BY

BRIDGMAN & FORSTER

39 King St. West (over Ewing & Co.)

TORONTO.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabeſt Beas is the Bas; the grabeſt Bird is the Owl;
The grabeſt Fiſh is the Oyſter; the grabeſt Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, MAY 23, 1874.

PUBLISHERS' ANNOUNCEMENT.

Next week "GRIP" will appear enlarged to eight pages and illustrated with carefully prepared wood engravings. A gentleman of experience and ability has been engaged as Editor-in-Chief, and a staff of able writers secured. The publishers take this occasion to thank the patrons of "GRIP" for the very generous support and encouragement their enterprise has received in the past, and hope that, through a merited continuance of the same, they may be able shortly to announce further improvements. A canvass of the Dominion, for the purpose of securing a large subscription list is being inaugurated, and suitable persons (of either sex), are wanted as agents. To those who have any capacity at all for such work, the undertaking cannot but be very lucrative, as the commission is liberal and the "field" easily worked. All particulars can be learned from Messrs. CLEVER & ROGERS, subscription booksellers, 10 King street east, Toronto. "GRIP" will be mailed to any address for one year on receipt of $2. Address "GRIP," Box 958.

Grip's Sense of the Session.

May 11.—Senator's minds were exercised about the dismissal of certain officials on political grounds, and Hon. Mr. HOWLAN wanted Government (to use his own exquisitely grammatical expression) to "get up and state" that they would never do so no more.

In the Commons, Mr. CHEVAL thought twenty cent pieces a nuisance (who doesn't?), and asked if Government would abolish them, which GRIP is happy to say they will.

Major WALKER moved for statistics in connection with Civil Service Employees, and wants them to be subjected to the indignity of competitive examinations. Think of it, ye Tom Noddy's and FITZ NOODLE's who, according to Dr. TUPPER, are overworked and underpaid, toiling for an ungrateful country from 10 A. M. to 4 P. M.

May 12.—The Premier introduced his Pacific Railway Scheme, and made it rather warm for Sir JOHN in a speech, for which GRIP pats him on the back with an approving croak.

It is to be called "The-Canada-Pacific—part-of-the-way-by-rail-and-the-balance-by-water-in-the-summer-Company," and is intended to utilize those great lakes with unpronounceable names lying between this and the Rocky Mountains.

Of course, in winter, people can stay at home and drink tea (with the tax on), which will swell the revenue, and delight CARTWRIGHT.

$15,000 was asked for, for unforeseen expenses, but it's no use, ALECK, you can't buy up GRIP. And, at 11:40, members had the usual trouble with their latch keys.

May 13.—They decided in the Commons to sit on Saturday; industrious Legislators!

Mr. FORBES enquired if Government could afford to place a fog whistle on some remote island where one of his constituents lives, but Government wouldn't and couldn't.

Mr. McDUGALL wanted Government to interfere and restrict the St. Lawrence from flooding Three Rivers. Now, Mr. MACKENZIE—emulate CANUTE.

And here GRIP joins with Mr. HOLTON in deprecating the childish practice indulged in by members, of throwing books at one another.

"Some white man's going to get killed with jest sich d—d foolishness as this."

May 14.—Ascension Day, and a holiday. GRIP and the other members adjourned to the cricket match, in which the Commons came out victors.

Let SOUTHEY sing it—

And if you want to know the man
Who such a match did win,
'Twas he who bowled so straight and fast—
'Twas Dr. LANDERKIN.
JAMES YOUNG did well, but 'twas not he
Who won that famous victory.

In the Commons, smokers tried to get the duty off tobacco; failed by 118 to 46.

Old women tried to get the duty off tea—a vote resulted in the following analysis of the House: Old women, 51; others, 108.

What a pity women can't be members? Wouldn't they tuck it on to tobacco, and wouldn't it be "tuck" off the tea?

SMIKE.

PARLIAMENTARY SPEECHES.

It has been hinted that there is to be an official and exact report of all speeches made by members of the Parliament at Ottawa. GRIP regards this novelty with dismay. It is totally subversive of all his ideas of the value of things. These speeches are to be printed, and each member will get two bound volumes and six unbound volumes. GRIP supposes that each constituency will provide a safe—one of Taylor's of course—to hold these invaluable works, so that intellectual burglars shall not steal them. There will be great danger of that! Caw! Caw!! GRIP's well fed sides shake with laughter over that. But, behold what will follow. The Provincial legislators will next want their speeches reported accurately, and printed. Aldermen will follow suit, and the archives of the city of Toronto will be enriched with the eloquence of Blunt, Snivel, and Splurge. Lawyers will come in with their demand to be perpetuated; ministers probably, and the chairmen at debating societies certainly. The Pacific Railway is a boy's game compared with this scheme.

After half an hour's unwonted depression of spirits, GRIP has solved the problem of what it all means. Some friend of humanity has devised this plan for cleaning out the House. It is probably another deep laid plan of Sir John's for killing off the majority. Only let them believe their speeches are to be fully reported, he says, and they'll kill themselves talking. GRIP thinks they probably would, but they would take an awful amount of killing, and the story of the dog whose vital spark was quenched with butter rises to view.

After another thirty minutes' deliberation, GRIP abandons the above theory, and now believes that this is one of several steps in a subtle design to advance the interests of the Dominion. It has been already hinted that in the event of a Federal Union of all the portions of the Empire, it would be advisable to remove the center of gravity to some point in Canada, say Toronto; and bring the Queen, Lords, Commons, Squires, men on strike, poor houses, banks, Liverpool docks, Jenkins emigrant agency, everything in fact,—except "Punch," whom GRIP considers a regular allopah in comic practice—and that it would be a fine thing to have a Hansard ready-made for the use of old country wind bags. If it isn't this,—GRIP feels his head giving way—oh, oh, caw! caw!!

After another half hour's insensibility, in an epileptic fit, GRIP gives it up; there is somebody crazy, that's certain, thinks it must be somebody down at Ottawa, or somewhere. GRIP advocates that at the next election a qualification of candidates for parliament be that they shall understand the deaf and dumb alphabet, and be restricted to its use in the debates in the house. Ordinary members to be allowed five minutes each, and the Ministers ten in addressing the house. The reports to be printed in "Hansard" in the ancient Chaldean character. The scheme reminds GRIP of the colored pusson's conundrum—"Why is a rail fence like a hog?" Because it is straight on the whole but crooked in de-tail. We don't want speeches made of de-tail.

A LEGAL LAY.

BY A SPECIAL PLEADER.

My BLACKSTONE! Ah, 'tis with a sigh
I con thy pages tame;
And thou, O COKE, altho' so dry,
Thou feed'st not CUPID's flame!

There is a maiden fair indeed,
Without consideration;
No Notice have I yet to Plead,
Or file my Declaration.

Upon my Suit she seems to smile,
And at my firm adherence,
Should I a Declaration file,
She'll enter an Appearance.

Would that a Habeas Corpus writ
By CUPID signed, could gain her;
Content by my fire-side I'd sit
With such a fair Retainer.

Alas! some weary years I wait
Ere Freedom thou returnest,
Till law has settled in my pate,
And then—a lass in earnest!

SHALL an official report of Parliamentary debates be published?
This question has been Hansard.

"DIGNITY," WITHOUT "IMPUDENCE."

OLD MADAME SENATE—"I SAY, MR. LOWER-HOUSE MACKENZIE, WHO'S RUNNING THIS COUNTRY, ANYHOW?"

AMBITION'S THORNY PATH.

PUFFERY.

The Hamilton Spectator, in noticing the performance of Mr. T. C. King as Othello, takes occasion to insert in its critique the remark "this is not a puff." The system of "giving notices" has reached a disgraceful height, if it is really necessary for editors to make a statement of this nature in endorsement of superlatives. It is by no means reassuring to the reader of a newspaper to find that every species of performer from a Shaksperian actor to a nigger minstrel, is spoken of in terms of the most unequalled laudation, after fearful experience of some of the wretched frauds in the musical and dramatic line who visit our shores when unable to "draw" in the States. Now, every petty performer requires a "notice" of his or her previous career, as well as a flattering account of the pending performance before giving an advertisement; and the short-sighted newspaper proprietor, whilst haggling over the price of a line or two in the advertisement, readily consents to insert a "notice," forgetting that he thereby inserts a double advertisement, in addition to degrading his journal in a manner which the lowest class of European papers will hardly stoop to, and the better American ones are rapidly casting aside. As for musical or dramatic criticism, it is, of course, completely non-existent under the present state of affairs. The evil will however work its own cure, as the "opinions of the press" will soon, we fear, be regarded as merely advertisements, even if any take the trouble to read them at all. Even the most credulous readers can hardly be taken in by critiques which mostly appear before the performances have taken place.

A DOMESTIC BALLAD.

BY REV. CHAS. KINGSLEY.

Three women went shopping in King street west,
In King street west as the sun went down;
Nor thought of their husband's stern behest
To run no accounts in Toronto town.
Nor men must work, though it's rather steep,
Where there's little to earn and many to keep,
With the butcher's bill still owing.

Three men sat perched on three office stools,
And posted their books as the sun went down;
And little they knew, poor innocent fools,
Of the bills that were rolling up all over town.
But men must work, their spouses to keep,
Nor men must work, though it's rather steep,
And a whirlwind of debt they're sowing.

Three curses were heard when the New Year came,
When the New Year came, and the bills rolled in;
And three women sat wringing their hands in shame
At the way they'd wasted their husband's tin.
For men will swear both loud and deep,
And as women will sow, so must they reap,
In spite of conjugal blowing.

AN OTTAWA INCIDENT.

AS TRUE AS ANYTHING IN THIS WEEK'S PAPER.

THERE was a little man and he made a little pun,
And then his little face grew red, red, red,
For after he had spoke, nobody saw the joke,
And all remained as grave as the dead, dead, dead.

So the little man went home and related with a groan,
How he had just been talking to a very stupid lot,
And his wife said in a minute, "they were members of the Senate,
Now tell me little husband, were they not, not, not.

Then he said, "I own the corn, for as sure as I was born,
They all sit in the house called the upper, upper, upper,
Except one, most stupid there, who sits in a Commons chair,"
"Oh, that one," said his wife, "must be Tupper, Tupper, Tupper."

DEMOS MUDGE.

P. S.—If MILLS could be got to rhyme with upper, she would have said MILLS.

VERY ACCOMMODATING.

A London, Ont., paper, in announcing a lecture by a phrenologist in Spettigue Hall, the other evening, said: "the arguments would be illustrated by the examination of heads secured from the audience." The reporter who wrote the paragraph must have been experimented upon.

AN ANALOGY.

Suggested by a patient perusal of the Poets of the Canadian Monthly.

When they strive to write
They are like the wight
Who, down in a well,
Ere his bucket fell,
Saw the water shine
With a gleam divine.
To him there we turned
While our coppers burned,
And in thought we quaffed
A long delicious draught.
But when on the brink
We had stooped to drink,
Found no water there
More than in the air,
For the bucket leaked
While it upward creaked.
So when these do raise
Their ambitious lays,
To them turn our eyes—
We fancy poems rise.
But when we would drink,
Undeceived we shrink,
For the verse is naught.
Empty and untaught,
Passionless and weak,
They but make a creak.

A BURNING SHAME.

BY SMIKE.

It was on a bright summer evening that little FRANKIE lay a dying. For the doctor had said that ere tub-night came round again little FRANKIE would be where soap would be no longer an object.

Which was inconvenient for FRANKIE and rather rough on the angels.

He had always been what is called a good boy in the general acceptance of the term; he had grown up in preference to growing sideways, which was creditable to him, and he had never told the truth when a lie would answer his purpose.

Five cents would not have led him out of the paths of honesty, and he had gone on and waxed strong and got waxed, and won the esteem and the marbles of school-mates until the fatal Sunday morn when drowsy sleep coming on him in Church, he woke at "Amen," shouting "Knuckle down tight."

And remorse was now working its fell purpose on poor FRANKIE.

By his side sat his toothless and ritualistic mother, the eye that didn't squint gazing heavenwards, the other with equally good intention but defective aim resting somewhere between the key-hole and the door-mat.

"Mother," said little FRANKIE, "soon I shall be gone, and if you go to the cremation, mother, don't weep. (I know its a burning shame), but jaw the stoker, mother, and tell him to pour on the kerosene."

And with a smile on his little face as of one who sees the furnace "gates ajar"—he was gone.

When another spring time came round his weeping mother planted daisies round his little grave (confound it, that's not right), they dusted his little urn and thought of FRANKIE.

JOURNALISTIC COOKERY.

This advertisement is from the London Free Press :—

"Cook wanted. She must thoroughly understand the business. Wages $12 per month. Apply at this office."

Innocent outsiders, who have no idea of what it is to get up a political morning paper, will of course be at a loss to understand why the Free Press should advertise for a cook. But let such contemplate the experience and skill required in dishing up canards and rumours, and the matter is plain.

CORRESPONDENCE.—A spirited correspondent intimates that since the imposition of increased tariff on distilled liquors, for increase of revenue, the Premier has received a word of timely advice through a "Spirit medium," which is this: "Be careful not to spend at the bung what you save at the spigot." May the revenue be the gainer by this most timely reminder. It's wholesome as "bitter beer"!

A VOICE from the Maritime Provinces says: They tell us there are too many Heads of Departments at Ottawa. But no matter, provided they don't give us too many and long "tales for the Marines"!

NEW AND SEASONABLE.

Just received, a choice assortment of

CORONET BRAIDS, PLAITS, CHIGNONS
COILS, &c., &c.,In Hair, Jute, Mohair and Linen. Pads in sets of six. Pompadour Pads and Frisettes.

A New and General Variety of Switches.

Real and imitation goods made to order with despatch, to match any color, style or pattern.
Ladies sending their own hair can have it made to orderGEORGE ELLIS,
Wholesale and Retail. 179 Yonge St., Toronto.
Four doors from Queen St., East side.MINISTERIAL GALOP

WITH

LARGE PORTRAIT
OFHON. ALEXANDER MACKENZIE.IN PRESS. WILL BE READY IN A FEW DAYS.

Wholesale and retail by

THOS. CLAXTON, 197 Yonge St.TORONTO TEA COMPANY

ONLY PLACE OF BUSINESS

161 King Street East,

(East Market Square.)

The number of customers that daily crowd our store is a proof that we give great satisfaction.
Give us a trial and judge for yourselves.TO THE TRADE ONLYFOR LATEST PATTERNS IN
ALL KINDS OF REAL AND IMITATION
HAIR GOODS,

At Lowest Wholesale Prices.

APPLY TO THE

New Dominion Chignon Factory,96 YONGE ST, TORONTO,FRANCIS J. BORMUTH, *Proprietor.DANIEL SPRY, TEAS, COFFEES, SUGARS,

GENERAL GROCERIES,

WINES, LIQUORS,

AND PROVISIONS.

135 YONGE STREET, TORONTO.

VOLUME III.AGENTS WANTED*EVERYWHERE*To Canvass for Subscribers

TO

"GRIP,"

TO WHOM A

*Liberal Discount will be given.Special Rates to ClubsTerms on application to the Proprietors.Send FIVE CENTS for Sample Copy of the only Illustrated Comic Paper in Canada, every issue of which hereafter will have a DOUBLE PAGE OF ILLUSTRATIONS.J. W. BENGOUGH & Co.,

PROPRIETORS.

P. O. Box 958,

TORONTO.

CITY BANK,

MONTREAL.

SAVINGS BANK

DEPARTMENT,

262 YONGE STREET,

West Side, two doors north of Trinity Square.

SUMS OF FIVE DOLLARS & UPWARDS

RECEIVED ON DEPOSIT,

and interest allowed thereon at the rate of 5 per cent, subject to withdrawal without notice or rebate of interest.Sterling Bills from £5 upwards, and Gold and Currency Drafts on New York, sold at current rates.The office being open every evening from 7 to 8, and on Saturdays from 7 to 9, it offers great facilities to Mechanics and others who are unable to leave their occupations during the day.GRIP! GRIP!! GRIP!!!*OYSTERS!

AT

WHYTE'S MANSION,

69 KING STREET EAST.

JAMES WHYTE, in returning thanks to his customers, begs to inform the public generally that he has, by the advice of his friends, added to his establishment anOYSTER BAR.Parties favoring him with a call can be served with Oysters from the shell, of the best quality.

Hot Meat Pies at all hours.

TO PRINTERS.FOR SALE.—About 100 lbs. (Roman and Italic)
BREVIER, second-hand, part copperfaced, in case. Price 20 cents per lb. Specimens and particulars on application to

TYPE.

Care "Grip," Toronto.

THE NATION."The Nation," an independent Weekly Newspaper, devoted to National politics, National culture, and National progress.Published on Thursday of each week, in time for the English mails, at 5 cents per copy.SUBSCRIPTION PRICE.Canadian subscribers, per annum $2 00
American " " U.S. cy 3 00
British " " Stg .. 10s.Postage prepaid on British and American subscriptions at the office of publication.
Rates for other foreign countries furnished on application.J. M. TROUT,

Business Manager.

Office of "The Nation."
66 Church St., Toronto

THE NEW CONSERVATIVE.

SEE "THE GLOBE," WEDNESDAY, NOV. 4.

THE FARMING MAN IN A FIX; OR, THE TABLES TURNED.

ALFRED PEARSON & CO., AUCTIONEERS AND VALUATORS,

GOING!
GOING! GONE!

66 Adelaide St. West.
Advances made on Consignments.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE.

Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the Office, 35 King Street West, Toronto.

Terms—$2 per annum; shorter periods at proportionate rates. Single copies, five cents. Advertising terms made known on application to Messrs. CLEVER & ROGERS, Agents, 10 King St. East, by whom Subscriptions will be received.

Communications connected with the business department must be addressed to the MANAGER, P.O. Box 958, Toronto.

A. S. IRVING, Wholesale Agent,
35 King St. West, Toronto.
OFFICE
and
DEPOT.

EVERY SATURDAY.
Five Cents. Single
For sale at all the Bookstores.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; the gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

Vol. 3.

TORONTO, JUNE 13, 1874.

No. 3.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach the Editor not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to P. O. Box 100, Carleton, Quebec. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

CONTRIBUTIONS, when accepted, will, for the present, be paid for at the rate of Two DOLLARS per column. All articles for which payment is expected must be accompanied by the name and address of the author.

FRESH ARRIVALS THIS WEEK.

CLARETS, CLARETS.

A full assortment of Favorite Brands at Low Prices, Wholesale and Retail.

BELFAST GINGER ALE WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

STILL AND SPARKLING HOCK (OLD STOCK),

Will be closed off at cost.

THOS. GRIFFITH & Co.,
London and Italian Warehouse.

CHAMPAGNES (VARIOUS BRANDS),

At greatly Reduced Prices.

SPARKLING MOSELLES, (OLD IMPORTATION).

Various brands. Will close off at cost.

RASPBERRY SYRUP—Very fine for table use.
STRAWBERRY SYRUP " "
LEMON SYRUP " "
PINE APPLE SYRUP " "

CURACOA

In Quart and Pint Bottles.

FRESH SALAD OIL, VERY DELICIOUS.

All kind of Choice Groceries and nice things received daily at the

London and Italian Warehouse.

Orders by mail or otherwise promptly attended to.

THOS. GRIFFITH & CO.,
PROPRIETORS.

TORONTO STEAM LAUNDRY. Corner of Bay and King Streets, ENTRANCE ON BAY ST., EAST SIDE.

Average cost of Washing 50 cents per doz.
N.B.—Washing sent for and returned to all parts of the city. Orders may be left at J. W. SALES', corner of King and Bay Streets.

EDWIN POTTS,
Picture Framer & Dealer.
GILT, WALNUT & ROSEWOOD MOULDINGS, &c.
404 Yonge Street,
Two doors north of Hayter Street, Toronto.

TORONTO TO MONTREAL

1874.

1874.

The splendid Passenger Screw Steamer

AMERICA,

Leaves Higinbotham's Wharf, foot of Yonge Street, every Saturday afternoon throughout the season, calling at intermediate ports and arriving at Montreal Monday afternoon.

Meals, berths and attendance all that can be desired.

FARE SEVEN DOLLARS,
Including Meals and Stateroom.

For Tickets, etc., apply to

G. E. JAKUES & CO.,
No. 50 Front Street East.

THE WEBSTER SEWING MACHINE

embraces all the essentials of a First-class Machine; is the most simple in construction, and the least liable to get out of order.

Be sure you see it before purchasing

OFFICE:

No. 6 ROSSIN HOUSE BLOCK,

KING STREET.

GEO. NUNN, . . . Manager.

PORTRAITS.

LIFE SIZE IN OIL,
BY

BRIDGMAN & FORSTER
39 King St. West (over Ewing & Co.)
TORONTO.

TORONTO WIRE WORKS, (ESTABLISHED 1854)

68 KING STREET WEST.

W. H. RICE,

Manufacturer of

BRASS, COPPER, GALVANIZED & IRON
WIRE CLOTH.

Iron Bedsteads and Cots, Bird Cages, Window Guards, Cemetery Railing, Garden Fencing, Flower Stands, Baskets and Trainers, Coal, Sand, Gravel and Malt Screens, Mantle Stands, Steel Wire Brushes, Riddles, Sieves, Fenders, Fire Locomotives, Threshing Machines, Fanning and Snut Mills, &c. Meat and Cheese Safes.

G. J. GEBHARDT & Co., ENGRAVERS

AND

Lithographic Steam Printers,

13 Adelaide Street East,

TORONTO.

UNION MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE Co.

DIRECTORS' OFFICE,

153 Tremont Street, Boston.

Organized 1849.

President—Henry Crocker. Vice-President—Daniel Sharp; Secretary—Whiting E. Hollister; Assistant Secretary—Charles H. Brewer.

Statement for Year ending Dec. 31. 1873.

RECEIPTS.
Premiums, - - - - -	$1,670,205 13
Interest, - - - - -	501,791 51
Total Receipts, - - - - -	$2,371,996 64

DISBURSEMENTS.
Death Losses, - - - - -	$416,800 00
Paid for Surrendered Policies, - - - - -	189,368 24
Paid Return Premiums, - - - - -	345,401 17
Paid Matured Endowments, - - - - -	7,900 00

Total amount returned Policyholders, $959,649 41
Assets, $8,000,000; Surplus at 4 1/2 per Cent, $1,253,871.

This Company unites absolute safety to low cash rates; it is economically managed, and returns yearly all surplus revenue to its Policyholders. Its liberal features are equalled by few companies, and excelled by none.

A. H. McNAIRN, General Agent,
Temple Chambers, Toronto Street, Toronto.

AGENTS WANTED FOR "CANADIAN HOUSEHOLD GUIDE."

Send Address for Circular.

JAMES SPENCER,
65 Colborne St. Toronto.

Energetic Canvassers Wanted throughout Canada.

“ G R I P . ”

CANADA'S SUCCESSFUL COMIC CARTOON PAPER.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY, AT $2.00 PER ANNUM, IN ADVANCE.

PROSPECTUS VOL. III.

The Publishers of “GRIP” have great pleasure in announcing the first number of the third (half-yearly) volume. “GRIP” was started on the 24th May, 1873, and has, during the twelve months of its existence, attained a popularity and success quite unexampled in the annals of Canadian Comic Journalism. That it has become a power in the land is attested by the universal voice of the press, and the not unfrequent tributes to its influence uttered upon the floor of the House of Commons, or in other public places, by the most prominent men of all political parties. Its Cartoons have been distinguished for originality, power, and humour, and have made the name of “GRIP” a household word throughout the length and breadth of the land. The willingness of the people of Canada to support a publication of this class, if conducted honourably and ably, is beyond question. The large circulation which “GRIP” has had from its initial number up to the present, notwithstanding that but little effort has been made to obtain subscribers, is an evidence of this. The publishers purposely refrained from sending out canvassers up to the present time, as they desired to prove that “GRIP”—unlike its many predecessors—would be a permanent institution. The uniform interest manifested by the public in each succeeding number, and the undiminished applause with which the caricatures continue to be received, argue that, so far as the people are concerned, this permanency is assured; while the publishers have confidence that with the improvement they purpose making in the paper, and their increased facilities for its prompt and regular delivery to subscribers, there need be no abatement in “GRIP’s” popularity. The leading Cartoon will be carefully engraved by one of the best artists in the Dominion; and will be supplemented by several smaller caricatures in each number. The editorial management has been entrusted to a gentleman whose past performances in connection with a clever satirical journal of Canada are a guarantee of his fitness for the position. Contributors will be paid liberally for articles of merit, and writers of first-rate ability will hereafter be secured to furnish the literary department. “GRIP” will continue to occupy a position of complete independence in politics and all other matters; he will strive to sustain the reputation he has achieved as “the fearless corrector of public morals, and a wise director of public opinion, regardless of party.”

Liberal Commission to Agents, who will find Canvassing for Subscribers to GRIP a good paying business. Send for Terms and District desired to

CLEVER & ROGERS,

SUBSCRIPTION BOOKSELLERS,

10 King Street East, TORONTO.

G R I P.

EDITED BY MR. DEMOS MUDGE.

The grabeast Beast is the Jass; the grabeast Bird is the Owl;
The grabeast Fish is the Oyster; the grabeast Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, JUNE 13, 1874.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

GRIP begs to countermand the notice given last week with reference to contributions and exchange newspapers. Address everything as heretofore: Box 958, Toronto.

"Who struck Billy Patterson?"

N last Saturday's Globe there appeared an advertisement calculated to raise this old and vexed question. It was as follows:—

$25 REWARD for the man that struck Mr. W. PATTERSON, opposite the Mail office.

As it is not at all likely that the long sought miscreant has been found up to this writing, GRIP supposes it is not too late to furnish the advertiser with a clue which may "lead to the apprehension" of the fellow; and this he does without any thought of the $25. Herewith, then, Mr. P.'s friends will find a correct portrait of the individual "wanted." GRIP guarantees the truthfulness of the sketch—particularly the expression about the eyes. The nose, ears, and a few other minor characteristics of the phiz, have been sacrificed in favor of the white hat—a feature likely to be of the highest importance to the detectives, as it is traditionally associated with "the man that struck BILLY PATTERSON."

ciated with "the

The Zig-Zag Papers.

I.—ON A VERY OFFENSIVE CAD.

"YOU'LL REMEMBER ME."

We all know young men for whom our toes itch, they so evidently require several kicks behind. We do not wish those handsome fellows who ornament King street every afternoon, to imagine that we refer to them. We remember too well the days of our youth, when the cut of a coat was more important than the paying for it; when a crease in the trousers gave us inexpressible pain, and when the tie of a neck cloth was often repeated. Self-respect makes us think well of an honest dandy. We believe that no young fellow who does not take pride in his personal appearance can feel or act like a gentleman. The youths who slouch round in dingy wide-awakes, dimmed boots and soiled shirt-collars, can never be respectable members of society. They generally become politicians, speculators, railroad men, or something equally disreputable.

But there are many members of the great army of cads disguised under the harmless exterior of swells. They may be known by strange affectations of speech, by ultra fashionable apparel, by bragging of the acquaintance of great people, and generally by self-assertion and conduct not natural.

One of the most offensive of these we came across last week on our return from Malbaie-by-the-sea, where we had been making cheap arrangements for the summer residence of the wife of our bosom and six darling children.

A most uncomfortable eye-glass forced his face into frightful contortions, which caused an old Vermont lady who sat opposite, to offer her pain-killer, with the remark that he must "be pretty considerably griped." He rejected her proffered kindness with a silent contempt that abashed her, and continued to gaze round the car, unmindful of an impudent young Irishman who had fixed a penny in his eye, and was returning the stares with the utmost coolness and self-approval. A narrow forehead retreating under a carefully nursed wave of hair, dress quite perfect according to his conception of the latest fashion, and a very gorgeous rug completed the young gentleman's ensemble.

At a way station a lady whom he knew came aboard, and thereafter he addressed himself to her.

We sat behind and could not help hearing a large part of his discourse.

He was very entertaining, and told about Toronto—which he was honoring with his residence; about his "cattle," and about a new kind of dog-cart in which he was to drive the young lady originals of a number of photographs he then exhibited, and which was the envy of all the fellows whose envy was to be desired. We are afraid the readers of GRIP will be unable to grasp from mere description the original vehicle he expatiated on—which was not a dog-cart either single or double, nor any kind of ordinary wheeled thing seen in our little Dominion—which was coming out from England, that was delightfully high and fast, and altogether "stornary and esentrie," combining all the perfections of the most perfect trap, with the peculiar perfections of that young gentleman's designing."

He told his companion of his dining at Government House,—casually mentioning that he thought it his duty to recognize high placed public officials,—and how he and another man walked through the streets in the summer evening in full dress, carrying a light overcoat on their arms, and were not mobbed—which certainly was strange. Warming with his narration, he confided to the lady that Toronto was a disgusting place after all; few young ladies, none whose photographs he had not, and very, very few gentlemen. His friend who dined with him that evening at Government House was one of the very few, as was the speaker by implication.

You may imagine the horror with which we—who have from our earliest youth, regarded our native aristocracy with awe and envy—heard this young man mention the bluest blood of the Family Compact, all the great dignitaries of the Bench, Bar and Pulpit, with utter disrespect.

It was evident that he knew them all personally, for he was alike perfectly at home in the most recondite scandal and the newest gossip. His descriptions of people were by no means bad, and we were for a while at a loss to reconcile his cleverness in this respect with the vapidty of his other talk.

It is, however, by the catalogue of salient points that verbal descriptions of persons are made recognizable,—a fool is as likely as another to see these, and as he sees no more, he is able to throw off a caricature, while one who discerns the minutest shades of character, difficult to describe, finds it impossible to make a portrait.

It was some time before I discovered the vantage ground on which this young fellow imagined himself to stand, and which gave him superiority over the natives he was treating so contemptuously. But an allusion to English society, followed by a whole chapter of his experiences therein, gave the explanation. He had seen high life, he was intimate with the nobility, he knew celebrities of the very biggest kind. His lies and bragging were so frightful to hear that we sought refuge in the smoking car, and never left it till we arrived at Toronto station.

Thence we saw him whirled in the family carriage, with the fattest of coachmen on the box and a large footman behind.

Have you not all met people who, having had their little peep into the outside world, come back to relate wonders they have never seen?

Don't the village beau, after he has studied law in Toronto, and seen high life in a three-fifty boarding-house, go back to his native place bragging of his acquaintance with Local Legislators and other celebrities?

Don't he feel that he is exalted above the general merchant and village doctor, whom he used to look up to? And don't he get the conceit kicked out of him very soon?

We have all seen something of this kind, and the moral is for the local celebrities.

Doubtless Toronto society is perfectly justified in laughing at the village coterie, and it is just possible that there may be people so exalted that the pretentious bigwiggy, silly talk of birth and blood, and apish aristocracy of Toronto itself, appear very ridiculous to them.

Grip at Sea.

WERE we to read anything really funny in the Canadian Monthly, we should be shocked as by a laugh in a meeting-house. A writer in the last number of our grave and heavily respectable contemporary, feeling the incongruity of a joke between those solemn covers, rather needlessly apologises for a pun. His sin is much more in intention than in act, and he cannot be held guilty even on his own plea.

He says—the article is "British, American, and British-American ships":

"The Western farmer, that rank protectionist, who backed the legislation which swamped the tonnage of the seaboard States under burdens far beyond their carrying capacity—forgive the pun—who saw the Eastern shipowner, &c."

We have received thirty-nine letters asking us to show where the pun is. After a week of anguish we give it up, and refer our friends to the editor of the Monthly. A poor pun is a disgusting thing enough, but by no means so offensive as an unnecessary apology.

CIRCUS GENEROSITY.

Widow with small family, (log.)—"If you please, sir, the Bills says one of these Side-shows is Free; wich of 'em is it?"

Door "ORATOR" (urbanely)—Kee-rect you are! Free as the 'Merican eagle!—It's the out-side-show, Missus!!"

Toronto Adaptations.

A MELODY. AFTER MOORE

Loud and long were the oaths he swore,
And a bright rose tint on his nose he bore,
But, oh, his courage was far beyond
The oaths he swore, or the tint it donned.

"Oh, tell me, dost thou not fear to stray,
So corned and noisy through this bleak way,
Are Toronto rowdies so little bold
As not to go through you in hope of gold?"

(with hiccup.)

"Ole feller, I feel not the last alarm,
No pl—plug-ugly will offer me harm,
For though they are fond of the golden store,
They've gone through me several times before."

On he went, till he stopped to smile
At a well-loved bar that would trust awhile;
And safe forever was he who relied
On the empty pockets that fools deride.

Out Upon it.

"PSYCHOMANCY," OR SOUL CHARMING.—How either sex may fascinate and gain the love and affections of any person they choose instantly. This simple mental acquirement all can possess, free, by mail, for 25 cents, together with a Marriage Guide, Egyptian Oracle, Dreams, Hints to Ladies, &c. A queer, exciting book.

In our capacity of Censor of the Press—an office hereby assumed, to which Government should attach a fat salary—we object to the above advertisement, which is to be found at full in the majority of our country exchanges.

We omit the address of the swindlers who offer the publication, because it is barely possible that, on the long list of GRIP's subscribers, there may be the names of two or three pimply-faced, dough-complexioned youths, who would be likely to send for it.

There is a suggestiveness about the announcement that it is a queer exciting book, which leads us to hope that it will be seized in the post-office as an obscene publication. It may be a book of that sort, or the italicized words may be merely a bait to catch the lewd—in either case, no decent newspaper should admit the advertisement. It figures in a number of papers, the editors of which, we are sure, only require their attention drawn to its nature to insure its removal.

"Grip" among the Muses.

HE spacious pavillion at the Horticultural Gardens proves too small to accommodate the brilliant assemblages attracted by the performances of the English Opera Combination throughout the week. We have been literally revelling in melody. The singing of each evening has been, to quote the Globe, "simply beyond praise," and the whistling of operatic snatches with which the city has resounded in the intervals has been capital too—but we would rather not say anything to encourage it. BALFE's Bohemian Girl was chosen to lead the van, and in the person of M^{lle}. PAULINE CANISSA she did so very prettily. This opera, as everybody knows, is profusely gemmed with famous solos, which were rendered on Monday evening in such a manner that it was long past midnight before the measures of "I dreamt that I dwelt in Marble Halls" issued for the last time from the puckered lips of our citizens. On Tuesday night, Maritana, a comely young lady, otherwise known as Miss EDITH ABELL, challenged the plaudits of the audience. On this occasion it was the genial Mr. BROOKHOUSE BOWLER who gave the whistlers the key notes in the tenor solos; and long after the foot-lights had disappeared, languid individuals might have been heard here and there rendering, "Yes; let me like a soldier fall!"— but in the most un-Bowler-like fashion. VERDI had the floor on Wednesday night, when, in honour, doubtless, of the very lucid plot of "Il Trovatore," four hundred new comers added their patronage to that of Lieut.-Governor CRAWFORD. M^{lle} CANISSA shared the honours of the evening with Mrs. ANNIE KEMP BOWLER and Mr. W. H. TILLA. Azucena was, according to the critics, played and sung with consummate skill by the contralto; and Mr. TILLA whose performance of Manrico was all but impromptu, certainly won his spurs fairly. It is needless to say the singing of the Prima Donna was very good; our critic, who has a garden wall contiguous to his sleeping apartment says it was long enough after twelve before he could forget her beautiful rendering of the solo, "In this dark midnight hour."

This notice must be confined to reasonable limits, but we cannot in fairness conclude it without acknowledging the merits of the bartone, Mr. GUSTAVUS HALL, in this and all other performances of the week. Overlooking some shortcomings in the matter of pronunciation, GRIP congratulates the gentleman on his efforts as the Count de Luna in Il Trovatore; and does him the distinguished honor of illustrating his last words in that opera—"And I still live!"—which were spoken with great dramatic power. [NOTE.—This wood-cut is not the property of the Conservative Party.] The weather took a benefit on Thursday night and Martha was given Friday. The success of the company speaks well for the energy and ability of its manager Mr. KINROSS and his affable friend and co-laborer JONES.

In Earnest!

GRIP extracts the following from the pages of the Globe:

A SINGLE GENTLEMAN living independent is desirous of having a matrimonial correspondence with a respectable lady in a similar position; only those who have the same motive in view need apply; all correspondence strictly private. A. S. G., Toronto.

How eloquent, how touching, and withal how business-like! None of the flippantly premature wooing of the matrimonial advertisements in the New York press. "Spooning" would be as out of place in the awful columns of the Globe, as in the gallery of a church. This is none of your lover, "this is Erebus' vein." Let us hope for the sake of any lady who may be attracted by these inducements, it will not prove "a tyrant's vein."

The End Approaching.

A fiend recently proposed to issue a Punster's Dictionary, giving every possible pun on every word. The practicability of such an undertaking is questionable, its utility even more so. When GRIP thinks of the endless puns cast daily into his waste-paper basket, preparatory to cremation, he shakes his head sadly over a proposal which would probably result, if carried out, in his having to employ several additional clerks, and to erect a blast-furnace in his back yard. It is evident that the day will come when every possible pun shall have been made, and the supply, like that of coal, will arrive at an end. Then what will become of many who now set up as wits?

A "ROUGH DRAFT" OF THE TREATY.

Overheard in a Ball-Room.

(Downy young gentleman, not just escaped from the nursery, as one would at first sight suppose, but sadly, sully blase, waltzes blue lady round the room, and stops.)

DOWNY YOUNG GENTLEMAN (murmurs)—“Aw, this is the dance of the evening—aw—thanks. Shall we cool off on the stairs?”

(Green lady, pink lady, white lady, and yellow lady appear descend-ing.)

DOWNY YOUNG GENTLEMAN—“Confound it!—pardon. Here come the PLUFFERS. Late. Bad policy. Not like old Miss WALLFLOWER—brave old girl, present at the taking of Quebec, they say—she is always first in a room, and picks us out one by one as we arrive, with the deadly aim of a sharp-shooter. Irretrievably vulgar lot, the PLUFFERS! Went to a dance there last week for a lark—famous lush. Girls as ugly as sin, but I have a conscience, and suppose I must trot one or two of them out. Ha, SANDERSON! Going to dance with SANDERSON?”

(Blue lady is carried off. Downey young gentleman approaches pink lady.)

DOWNY YOUNG GENTLEMAN—“Devening. Pleasure of a dance? Hope your card isn't full.”

(Pink lady blushes, and looks round for green, white and yellow ladies.)

PINK LADY, timidly—“Oh, no, we have just come.”

DOWNY YOUNG GENTLEMAN—“Oh, by Jove! BLANK! I'll dance this with you, then.”

(They whirl round the room. Pink lady is light, and they whirl round again. They stop.)

DOWNY YOUNG GENTLEMAN, languidly—“Aw, this is the dance of the evening.”

In the City.A SONG BEFORE SUNRISE.

How sweet to rise ere yet the milkman's cry
Proclaims the day, with all its troubles, nigh;—
Ere the first newsboy, in sepulchral tones,
Shrieks “Globe and Mail!” across the echoing stones;—
Ere water carts pour out the sprinkling flood,
And turn the dust of yesterday to mud;—
Ere the rough maidens in the dim hotel,
With steaming soap-suds scrub the bar-room well.
How sweet, I say, to rise with pleasing thirst,
Induced by last night's half-remembered burst;—
To seize the wash-jug with an eager hand
And find it dry as heap of builder's sand,
To turn the faucet of the water trough,
And find some fiendish hand hath “cut it off.”
How sweet to stand in pleasing silence there,
Too much surprised for the familiar swear,
With burning coppers and with aching head
And utter loathing for the buggy bed;—
Then the reluctant trousers on to draw,
Tangling the toe-joints in the lining's flaw,
To clap a battered castor on the head
And rush for cock-tail, swift as arrow sped.
How sweet to see produced the shining tin,
And the soft sugar poured with judgment in,
With artful jerk to watch the bitters drop,
Then see descend two table-spoons of pop,
The yellow lemon's fragrant juices flow,
And render tart th' ingredients below.
The ingenuous bar-boy seeks your eager eye,
To that mute question is the answer, rye.
Straight from the bottle flows the golden store—
Six lumps of ice—ten shakes—his task is o'er.
How doubly sweet to feel the cooling flow,
Down the hot palate to the depths below!
The rattling ice proclaims enjoyment's close—
Then, oh how blissful,—to repeat the dose?
To search the pocket, pay the well-earned cash,
And slow returning, meditate on hash.

A STRAY SHOT.—The Sunday Times has, for several weeks, been publishing a “poem” entitled The Passover. GRIP thinks the verses excellently named, as they are systematically evaded by all the readers of the paper, who prefer rhyme with reason in it to the other variety.

Well Urned.

OTTAWA is about to erect a Collegiate Institute that will do credit to the capital of the Third Maritime Power of the world, and accordingly a copy of GRIP has been deposited in the corner-stone, which was laid by LORD DUFFERIN on Thursday, the 4th inst. The sprightly RAVEN of course appreciates the distinction thus conferred upon him, but his gratification cannot be perfect while he reflects that by such entombment, the present generation must suffer the loss of a neatly printed copy of No. 1., Vol. III, until some antiquarian of the future, searching amongst the crumbled ruins of the Institute shall find and restore it to the hearts of men. By that time how many hundreds of volumes shall have been issued!

“Where were the Police?”

The Oshawa Reformer thus details

“A ROWDY'S IDEA OF POLITENESS.—A young lady passing along King Street a few evenings since had the skirt of her dress trodden upon by a fellow who was the worse of liquor, and upon her turning her head on being thus impeded in her progress, was accosted by the following vulgar expression of this coward—(Here follow bad words).—This we heard and witnessed, and felt sorry that constable GURLEY was not present at the time, in order that he might have been made an example of.”

GRIP would suggest to the Editor and his fellow-citizens of Oshawa that it is not yet too late to “make an example of” Constable GURLEY: there is a good chance still to teach a wholesome lesson to bobbies who neglect their duty.

A Politician.

Take some smug lawyer versed in slow chicane,
Whose widest wishes all converge to gain,
One with a callous, shame-proof moral hide,
Impervious to truth and wit beside,
Ready to cant, carouse, blaspheme or pray,
At any season when 'tis like to pay.
Gift him with that low tact which wins the crowd,
The hand to shake, the ready laughter loud,
To please the pious—features grave as death,
For roughs—foul stories told below the breath,
A pat on head for children on the streets,
And gossip for the mothers whom he meets.
Give him some cry by ignorance held dear,
To chant it loud and catch the vulgar ear,
“No POPERY” or “WORKING PEOPLE'S FRIEND,”
Or “LOYALTY,” or aught that serves the end,
Or any cant by narrow fools embraced,
Whose uttered nonsense speaks a vulgar taste.
With tawdry rhetoric let him unfold
His borrowed arguments and jests of old—
He shall succeed—while better men stand by,
And mark his progress with contemptuous sigh.
He shall succeed—a politician placed
To mend the laws by such as he disgraced.
He shall succeed—but only till he's known,
Then slowly sink, as sinks in filth a stone.

To Whom it may Concern.

WOULD you woo a stout widow of forty years?
You must keep from sonnets, and sighs and tears,
You must show a round leg clothed neatly, neatly,
And a roll of big bills to soothe her fears.
Boldly, not coldly, talk her down,
Squeeze her to please her, fair or brown,
Press her, caress her,
Serve her with favor,
Then praise her complexion and she's your own!

“Nec Tamen Consumebatur.”

THESE words, surrounding a representation of the Burning Bush, form the legend of one of the branches of Presbyterianism in Canada. It must have occurred to some of the reverend gentlemen taking part in the Synod and Assembly debates at Ottawa this week, that it would be a happy thought to substitute a picture of the ‘Union Question’ for that of the Bush, as the problem seems to be as far from solution as ever. GRIP is of opinion that if it be not definitely settled before these grave conventions separate, the motto might as well be made to read, “Nec tamen consummate-ebatur.”

NEW AND SEASONABLE.

Just received, a choice assortment of

CORONET BRAIDS, PLAITS, CHIGNONS
COILS, &c., &c.,

In Hair, Jute, Mohair and Linen. Pads in sets of six. Pompadour Pads and Frisettes.

A New and General Variety of Switches.

Real and imitation goods made to order with despatch, to match any color, style or pattern. Ladies sending their own hair can have it made to order

GEORGE ELLIS,Wholesale and Retail. 179 Yonge St., Toronto.
Four doors from Queen St., East side.MINISTERIAL GALOP

WITH

LARGE PORTRAIT

OF

HON. ALEXANDER MACKENZIE.IN PRESS. WILL BE READY IN A FEW DAYS.

Wholesale and retail by

THOS. CLAXTON, 197 Yonge St.TORONTO TEA COMPANY*ONLY PLACE OF BUSINESS*161 King Street East,

(East Market Square.)

The number of customers that daily crowd our store is a proof that we give great satisfaction. Give us a trial and judge for yourselves.

TO THE TRADE ONLY

FOR LATEST PATTERNS IN

ALL KINDS OF REAL AND IMITATION

HAIR GOODS,At Lowest Wholesale Prices.

APPLY TO THE

New Dominion Chignon Factory,96 YONGE ST., TORONTO,*FRANCIS J. BORMUTH, Proprietor.*DANIEL SPRY,*TEAS, COFFEES, SUGARS,

GENERAL GROCERIES,

WINES, LIQUORS,

AND PROVISIONS.

135 YONGE STREET, TORONTO.VOLUME III.*AGENTS WANTED*EVERYWHERE*To Canvass for Subscribers

TO

"GRIP,"

TO WHOM A

*Liberal Discount will be given.Special Rates to Clubs*Terms on application to the undersigned.

Send FIVE CENTS for Sample Copy of the only Illustrated Comic Paper in Canada, every issue of which hereafter will have a carefully engraved CARTOON, and numerous SOCIAL CARICATURES.

CLEVER & ROGERS,AGENTS.

P. O. Box 2642,

TORONTO.

CITY BANK,MONTREAL.*SAVINGS BANK*DEPARTMENT.*262 YONGE STREET,

West Side, two doors north of Trinity Square.

SUMS OF FIVE DOLLARS & UPWARDS

RECEIVED ON DEPOSIT,

and interest allowed thereon at the rate of 5 per cent, subject to withdrawal without notice or rebate of interest.

Sterling Bills from £5 upwards, and Gold and Currency Drafts on New York, sold at current rates.

The office being open every evening from 7 to 8, and on Saturdays from 7 to 9, it offers great facilities to Mechanics and others who are unable to leave their occupations during the day.

GRIP! GRIP!! GRIP!!!OYSTERS!

AT

WHYTE'S MANSION,69 KING STREET EAST.

JAMES WHYTE, in returning thanks to his customers, begs to inform the public generally that he has, by the advice of his friends, added to his establishment an OYSTER BAR.

Parties favoring him with a call can be served with Oysters from the shell, of the best quality.

Hot Meat Pies at all hours.

TO PRINTERS.

FOR SALE.—About 100 lbs. (Roman and Italic) BREVIER, second-hand, part copperfaced, in case. Price 20 cents per lb. Specimens and particulars on application to

TYPE.

Care "Grip," Toronto.

THE NATION.

"The Nation," an independent Weekly Newspaper, devoted to National politics, National culture, and National progress.

Published on Thursday of each week, in time for the English mails, at 5 cents per copy.

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE.Canadian subscribers, per annum . . . $2 00
American " " " U.S. cy 3 00
British " " " Stg .. 10s.

Postage prepaid on British and American subscriptions at the office of publication.

Rates for other foreign countries furnished on application.

J. M. TROUT,

Business Manager.

Office of "The Nation,"
66 Church St., TorontoPrinted at the Office of the MONETARY TIMES,
64 and 66 Church Street, Toronto.

PUBLISHER'S
NOTE.

Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the Office, 35 King Street West, Toronto.

Terms—$2 per annum; shorter periods at proportionate rates. Single copies, five cents. Advertising terms made known on application to Messrs. CLEVER & ROGERS, Agents, 10 King St. East, by whom Subscriptions will be received.

Communications connected with the business department must be addressed to the MANAGER, P. O. Box 958, Toronto.

A. S. IRVING, Wholesale Agent,
35 King St. West, Toronto.
OFFICE
and
DEPOT.

EVERY SATURDAY.
Five Cents.

For sale at all the Bookstores.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; the gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

VOL. 3.

TORONTO, JULY 4, 1874.

No. 6.

EDITOR'S
(NOTE.)

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach the Editor not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to P. O. Box 958, Toronto, Ontario. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

CONTRIBUTIONS, when accepted, will, for the present, be paid for at the rate of Two Dollars per column. All articles for which payment is expected must be accompanied by the name and address of the author.

FRESH ARRIVALS
THIS WEEK.

CLARETS,
CLARETS.

A full assortment of Favorite Brands at Low Prices, Wholesale and Retail.

BELFAST GINGERALE
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

STILL AND SPARKLING HOCK
(OLD STOCK),

Will be closed off at cost.

THOS. GRIFFITH & Co.,
London and Italian Warehouse.

CHAMPAGNES
(VARIOUS BRANDS),
At greatly Reduced Prices.

SPARKLING MOSELLES,
(OLD IMPORTATION).
Various brands. Will close off at cost.

RASPBERRY SYRUP—Very fine for table use.
STRAWBERRY SYRUP " "
LEMON SYRUP " "
PINE APPLE SYRUP " "

CURACOA
In Quart and Pint Bottles.
FRESH SALAD OIL,
VERY DELICIOUS.

All kind of Choice Groceries and nice things received daily at the

London and Italian Warehouse.

Orders by mail or otherwise promptly attended to.

THOS. GRIFFITH & CO.,
PROPRIETORS.

TORONTO STEAM LAUNDRY.
Corner of Bay and King Streets,
ENTRANCE ON BAY ST., EAST SIDE.

Average cost of Washing 10 cents per doz.
N.B.—Washing sent for and returned to all parts of the city. Orders may be left at J. W. GALES, corner of King and Bay Streets.

EDWIN POTTS,
Picture Framer & Dealer.
GILT, WALNUT & ROSEWOOD MOULDINGS, &c.
404 Yonge Street,
Two doors north of Hayter Street, Toronto.

TORONTO TO MONTREAL

1874.  1874.

The splendid Passenger Screw Steamer

AMERICA,

Leaves Higinbotham's Wharf, foot of Yonge Street, every Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock, throughout the season, calling at intermediate ports and arriving at Montreal Monday afternoon.

Meals, berths and attendance all that can be desired.

FARE SEVEN DOLLARS,
Including Meals and Stateroom.
For Tickets, etc., apply to

G. E. J. J. J. & CO.,
No. 50 Front Street East.

THE WEBSTER SEWING MACHINE

embraces all the essentials of a First-class Machine; is the most simple in construction, and the least liable to get out of order.

Be sure you see it before purchasing

OFFICE:

No. 6 ROSSIN HOUSE BLOCK,
KING STREET.
GEO. NUNN, . . . Manager.

PORTRAITS.

LIFE SIZE IN OIL,

BY

BRIDGMAN & FORSTER
39 King St. West (over Ewing & Co.)
TORONTO.

TORONTO WIRE WORKS,
(ESTABLISHED 1854)

68 KING STREET WEST.

W. H. RICE,
Manufacturer of

BRASS, COPPER, GALVANIZED & IRON
WIRE CLOTH.

Iron Bedsteads and Cots, Bird Cages, Window Guards, Cemetery Railing, Garden Fencing, Flower Stands, Baskets and Trainers, Coal, Sand, Gravel and Malt Screens, Mantle Stands, Steel Wire Brushes, Riddles, Sieves, Fenders, Fire Guards, Wire Rope, Sash Cords, Wire Cloth for Locomotives, Threshing Machines, Fanning and Smut Mills, &c. Meat and Cheese Safes.

G. J. GEBHARDT & Co.,
ENGRAVERS

AND

Lithographic Steam Printers,

13 Adelaide Street East,

TORONTO.

UNION MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE Co.

DIRECTORS' OFFICE,

153 Tremont Street, Boston.
Organized 1849.

President—Henry Crocker; Vice-President—Daniel Sharp; Secretary—Whiting E. Hollister; Assistant Secretary—Charles H. Brewer.

Statement for Year ending Dec. 31. 1873.

RECEIPTS.
Premiums, - - - - -		$1,670,205 13
Interest, - - - - -		501,791 51

DISBURSEMENTS.
Total Receipts, - - - - -		$2,371,996 64

Death Losses, - - - - -		$416,800 00
Paid for Surrendered Policies, - - - - -		189,368 24
Paid Return Premiums, - - - - -		345,401 17
Paid Matured Endowments, - - - - -		7,900 00

Total amount returned Policyholders, $959,649 41
Assets, $8,000,000; Surplus at 4 1/2 per Cent, $1,253,871.

This Company unites absolute safety to low cash rates; it is economically managed, and returns yearly all surplus revenue to its Policyholders. Its liberal features are equalled by few companies, and excelled by none.

J. H. McNAIRN, General Agent,
Temple Chambers, Toronto Street, Toronto.

CLEVER & ROGERS,
DEALERS IN MERCANTILE & OFFICE STATIONERY

10 KING STREET EAST, TORONTO,
(Over Adam, Stevenson & Co.'s).

Orders for Blank Books, Printing, Bookbinding, etc., will receive careful attention. Every Description of Stationer's Supplies.

LAWN MOWERS.
AGRICULTURAL WAREHOUSE AND SEED STORE.
GET THE BEST—THE GENUINE PHILADELPHIA—NINE SIZES. SEND FOR PRICE LIST.
WM. RENNIE, 132 Adelaide St. East, Toronto.

Energetic Canvassers Wanted throughout Canada.

“ G R I P . ”

CANADA'S SUCCESSFUL COMIC CARTOON PAPER.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY, AT $2.00 PER ANNUM, IN ADVANCE.

PROSPECTUS VOL. III.

The Publishers of “GRIP” have great pleasure in announcing the first number of the third (half-yearly) volume. “GRIP” was started on the 24th May, 1873, and has, during the twelve months of its existence, attained a popularity and success quite unexampled in the annals of Canadian Comic Journalism. That it has become a power in the land is attested by the universal voice of the press, and the not unfrequent tributes to its influence uttered upon the floor of the House of Commons, or in other public places, by the most prominent men of all political parties. Its Cartoons have been distinguished for originality, power, and humour, and have made the name of “GRIP” a household word throughout the length and breadth of the land. The willingness of the people of Canada to support a publication of this class, if conducted honourably and ably, is beyond question. The large circulation which “GRIP” has had from its initial number up to the present, notwithstanding that but little effort has been made to obtain subscribers, is an evidence of this. The publishers purposely refrained from sending out canvassers up to the present time, as they desired to prove that “GRIP”—unlike its many predecessors—would be a permanent institution. The uniform interest manifested by the public in each succeeding number, and the undiminished applause with which the caricatures continue to be received, argue that, so far as the people are concerned, this permanency is assured; while the publishers have confidence that with the improvement they purpose making in the paper, and their increased facilities for its prompt and regular delivery to subscribers, there need be no abatement in “GRIP’s” popularity. The leading Cartoon will be carefully engraved by one of the best artists in the Dominion; and will be supplemented by several smaller caricatures in each number. The editorial management has been entrusted to a gentleman whose past performances in connection with a clever satirical journal of Canada are a guarantee of his fitness for the position. Contributors will be paid liberally for articles of merit, and writers of first-rate ability will hereafter be secured to furnish the literary department. “GRIP” will continue to occupy a position of complete independence in politics and all other matters; he will strive to sustain the reputation he has achieved as “the fearless corrector of public morals, and a wise director of public opinion, regardless of party.”

Liberal Commission to Agents, who will find Canvassing for Subscribers to GRIP a good paying business. Send for Terms and District desired to

CLEVER & ROGERS,

SUBSCRIPTION BOOKSELLERS,

10 King Street East, TORONTO.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. DEMOS MUDGE.

The grabest Beast is the Jass; the grabest Bird is the Ool;
The grabest Fish is the Oyster; the grabest Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, JULY 4, 1874.

Answers to Correspondents.

J. S., Woodstock.—Received your letter too late. See editor's note of this week.

INQUIRER.—Doctor TUPPER is said to have assisted Mr. BAGSHOT in the preparation of his book "Physics and Politics." The Doctor knows as much of one as of the other.

To Contributors.

Contributions are to be addressed to "Grip," Box 958, Toronto.

So Very True.

The art-critic of The Mail, in his remarks upon the recent exhibition, displayed the masterly hand, fine, fearless judgment and knowledge of painting which might be expected from—a local reporter well acquainted with signboards.

Not satisfied with giving to the public a critique, to which nothing by RUSKIN can be compared, he enlightens the world by the following historical information which shows very deep research indeed, but is a little—just a little—beyond GRIP.

"We must take some exception to the assertion of the catalogue, that 'Dolwyddelan Castle, North Wales, was built about the eighth century,' as there are no ante-Roman buildings existing in England or Wales until late in the Saxon times."

It's as clear as mud.

Fashionable Personal.

MRS. TIBBETS says her duties in connection with a peanut stand prevent her going to the sea side. Determined, however, to be fashionable, she has closed the blinds of her private residence on Dummer street, and locked the front door for the season. Every evening she stands in a large pork barrel with a foot of brine at the bottom, and gets her old man to blow on her, through the bung-hole, with a pair of bellows. She says "the salt air agrees with her wonderful."

Decidedly!

A CORRESPONDENT enquires:

If DOCTOR JOHNSON'S assertion that a man who makes a pun would pick a pocket, be true—does it necessarily follow that the man who laughs at one would be guilty of receiving stolen goods?

He verily would if he laughed at the puns of certain plaguey and plagiarising punsters.

"Smoke on the Land."

"Say, Stranger," said a tall American to the purser on board the "City of Toronto," as they were steaming up the bay on a sultry day, with the wind in the east; "What is the origin of the name of your city?" "Toronto, sir," replied the courteous purser, "is an Indian word signifying 'Trees in the water.'" "You ought to name it over again," replied the Yank. "Find out the Indian word for 'Smoke on the land,' for I'm blowed if it ain't the most smoky place I've seen this side of Pittsburg."

Some Consolation.

"BAZAINE leads a very uniform life," says an account of the captivity of the exiled Marshal, which is at present going the rounds of the papers. GRIP rejoices to know that they haven't stripped the old man of his military clothing as well as his honor and peace.

Letters on Men and Things.

CONCERNING A SCRUPULOUS TEMPLAR.

My dear O'Fozzle,—

If a man, in former ages, had a natural repugnance to applying himself steadily to hard work, the fighting market stood conveniently open, and he could hire out as a soldier, with a good conscience, and a better prospect of what heathen writers called plunder, and current Christianity recognises as loot. Or he might set up as a robber on his own hook; or go begging among the Monks, who had good kitchens and larders, and received with open arms such vagrant unfortunates as were necessitated to appeal to them for largess owing to a constitutional antipathy to bodily exertion. These, my dear boy, were the good old times—to the view of which distance lends hazy enchantment, and which well-conditioned persons are bound much to reverence because they know next to nothing about them. All human things however, as DRYDEN tells us, are subject to decay—good old times included. Except among dear relatives fighting is not so prevalent as it was. Beggars now are apt to get more kicks than half-pence; while as regards plunder—loot—if people take to it they discover (unless behind a church bazaar stall), that both the glamour and gleanings of Norman days are gone—and that they are summarily laid hold of by some base valet in the form of a hired constable, and anon shut up in prison, or sent out of the country, instead of founding a family and felonising their way to broad lands and an abbey. Society now-a-days discountenances rogues and vagabonds, unless they have a good character, wear broadcloth, attend public worship, and have a nice house, and plenty of money. Look which way I will, my O'Fozzle, I find nothing, in these hard prosaic times for the mass of ordinary folk—who do not know a Cabinet Minister, or are unable to strike out a new "Mission"—but to choose some honest occupation, and stick to it. 'Tis a nuisance,—but one wholly unavoidable—that we must eat and drink, and wear Nosey and Son's latest evolutions in coat and pants. In the good old times men donned a garment of blue paint, lived in caves and woods, and lunched on a raw root. But man is a progressive animal. He has a mind. He has reason. Innumerable inventions have now increased his happiness and necessities. The paint point is broken; caverns are left to the lizards; and we rejoice in stucco, shoddy, chicory, chignons, bone-dust, and other great and useful evidences and issues of civilised and ennobling enterprise.

And yet, my boy, even civilisation and honest exertion for one's bread and butter, are not all plain sailing, as has lately been discovered by one GEORGE BENJAMIN, of Bath, England,—by business a coal-dealer—by conviction a "Temperance" man—the latter being the new term in vogue to represent not, as most people would conclude, a moderate partaker of, but an entire abstainer from the beverages which cheer, and also inebriate. These alcoholic forerunners used to be known as Tee-(or tea) totallers, signifying probably, that they went totally for Tea—as their ordinary potation—blended at times with chicory, gingerette, pop, Temperance-Champagne, and other exhilarating and ingenious tipples, from which, while giving due meed of praise to their discoverer, I have found myself obliged to abstain owing to some unfortunate stomachic eccentricity, inherited from my ancestors. The name 'Totallers, however, has now gone out, and Temperance reigns in its stead. For myself, I preferred the original appellation, as being in accord with what CARLYLE would call the eternal realities; while "Temperance," as an alias for abstinence, seems to me an entire misnomer. However, the 'total (or temperance) BENJAMIN—call him what you will—navigating his commercial bark over the waters of industry, found himself suddenly entangled among the rocks and shoals of Casuistry. This, my dear O'Fozzle, was doubtless not an unexampled experience. One can easily conceive how nice points of scrupulosity must often prick tender souls, as, piloting their vessels over the glorious ocean of trade, they scan the dubious question what amount of sand in the last hoghead of sugar will be in harmony with current Christian ethics; or whether that barrel of chicory in the back office is in accord with holding the church plate on Sundays, and "leading" the dear brethren at Wednesday's prayer-meeting. Mr. BENJAMIN'S trouble was this. He did not drink any beer. But he supplied the coal, which warmed the boiler, which heated the water, which made the unclean potation. Pondering this distressing circumstance he resolved to avoid the appearance of evil. When the brewery-man sent an order for more heat—promoter the man of black-diamonds informed him that "as an abstainer and Templar, he could not consistently supply him "with any more coals for the manufacture of, etc., etc."

The ancient King COLE was a jolly old soul, but the modern King COAL—for Coal, my boy, is King, and no mistake in these days—has not inherited his mantle. Our friend BENJAMIN is, one fears, only at the commencement of his "testifying." The victim of casuistry, like the victim of jealousy, "doth make the meat he feeds on." The demands of "Conscience"—a conscience of the coal kind—momentarily appeased, are soon lively again. Every concession only makes them more exigent and insatiate. Mr. BENJAMIN will soon find himself nervously weighing the agonising question whether he can consistently continue to sell coal to the manufacturer of the barrels which that beer party uses in his trade. If he is a railway shareholder he will begin to be teased with the thought that he is annually pocketing dividends which have partly accrued from carrying beer. Ultimately one is afraid he will be driven to the distressing consideration whether he will be able to have transactions of any kind with anybody save a total Temperance Templar, seeing that part of the profits he makes may otherwise be connected with fermentation. As regards the expenditure of the local and general revenue, derived from Government taxation, or issue of licenses, many subtle points will arise. I should imagine that when my O'FOOZLE sees his way to enrolment among the tribe of BENJAMIN, he will never consent any more to walk to his place of business over a sidewalk or roadway constructed for his benefit out of fees paid by saloon-keepers; and that he would rather be robbed or assaulted than be protected by a policeman who, with such questionable connections, might be said to draw a staff redolent of what DICK SWIVELLER calls "the rosy," and to walk about the streets a deputy official BACCHUS.

If the 'total temperance punctilions extend to other schools of wisdom and virtue—if anti-tobaccoists, vegetarians, and what not decline "shop" transactions with anybody who may expend a modicum of his profits not in accord with universal abstinence from everything, we shall have a glorious, high old time. The mistake called civilization will be exploded. The nuisance known as society will be disintegrated. Every man his own ADAM, we shall return to a state of nature, drawing our guiltless feasts from the mountain's grassy side, and regaling ourselves from scrips well stuffed with herbs, washed down with water from the nearest spring. To this complexion it must certainly come; for how, my dear boy, could I have anything to do with anybody under the present regime? Snooks might bring his devious wheel to my door with the chronic inquiry whether I had "any razors or scissors to grind, O"; but how could I tell what he meditated doing with the tuppence pertaining to the renovating whirligig, when he had trundled his instrument beyond the ken of my moral optic? Should he invest it in beer, I am undone forever; while, if he went for the weed, a hot corner in the regions of retributive limbo would be my inevitable destiny.—Finis.

RICHARD DE DICKE.

A Brief Retrospect.

BY A SENTIMENTAL SOLICITOR.

Turning over papers,
Musing on each one,
An envelope of yellow
Shews itself a "dun."
Face of hostile Bailiff
Scarce had moved me so;
'Twas a bill for clothing,
Rendered long ago!

But to see the items—
Suits for Spring and Fall,
Principal and interest,—
Saddest sight of all.
Oh the clothes of childhood,
Breeches long and short;
Now are many breaches
Of another sort.

Oh the inexpensive suits
Made up by Mamma,
And the suits at present,
Furnished by the Law!
Happy, happy, boyhood,
Days of lollipops,
And the time when spinsters
Take the place of tops!

Oh that time when twenty-one,
On his bended knees
Comes to court for hearing
Of his special pleas!
Now a luckless Barrister,
By contradiction's laws,
Feels the effect of poverty
And yet he lacks a cause.

Turning over papers,
Musing on each one,
All these sad reflections
Brought on by a dun.

The Zig-Zag Papers.

III.—MY TRIP TO THE SEASIDE AND WHAT I SAW THERE.

WHEN I went down the St. Lawrence a few weeks since, in that search for a cheap watering place mentioned in my last paper, I noticed on the train, shortly after leaving Toronto, a sickly looking youth, who was so very thin and light that I feared to see him blown out of the open back door of the car every time the brakeman entered at the front. This catastrophe he, however, escaped till bed time, and I soon forgot him in the misery of my berth, which retained all the dampness of the last two or three occupants, and, like the city of Cologne,

"Some seventy different stinks all well defined."

After a night passed partly in failures to accommodate the chorus of the last popular song to the peculiar monotonous rattle of the car-wheels, partly in short and vivid nightmares, and partly in the half comatose condition which results from the stoppage of the train at stations, I turned out about three hours before my usual time of rising. On hearing that the train was two hours late and breakfast about sixty miles further on, I desperately went forward to the smoking car, where the stale smells of the previous night, assisted by a pipe of tobacco smoked on an empty stomach, made me so extremely sick that when the breakfast station was reached I could not eat anything. On the return of my fellow travellers I derived some consolation from their criticism of the meal, of which a commercial traveller in particular said "It was about the same as usual, and not a darned bit resherishy."

My misery was so great during the remainder of the run that I did not take my usual microscopic notice of companions. A few hours in Montreal devoted in part to the investigation of the chemical properties of cocktails, restore my normal condition of body and wonderful acuteness of observation.

After reaching the steamboat for Quebec, madly fighting three-quarters of an hour for a ticket, and being calmly snubbed by the purser before he condescended to take my money for berth and meal cards, I entered the "Gentleman's saloon." The first person on whom my glance rested was the sickly looking young man, who again looked so extremely light, that the portemonnaie on his lap appeared to act as a paper-weight. He astonished me two hours afterward by his knife and fork performance, when he put in a quantity of ballast sufficient to make the steward utter a fervent wish that "the boat wouldn't cant over if that young feller went too sudden to one side."

There was on board the usual miscellany of a steamboat.

Half a dozen commercial travellers in very loud trousers, very dingy linen, very goldine watch chains, and soft, rough, knowing little felt hats, who made it their business, first to discover the locality of the bar, then next to make the acquaintance of the bar-tender, and thereafter to exhibit to every one how infinitely they felt themselves at home.

There was a young couple on their wedding trip, who were very fond of scenery, and repaired to all sorts of quiet out of the way places, where they could indulge their raptures with the views.

There were several sporting Montreal merchants, with licenses for salmon fishing, who told of manifold hairbreadth escapes by flood and field, and talked about camping out and bush life so persistently that two overdressed Yankee women were led to believe themselves in the presence of some of those prodigiously valorous and hardy backwoodsmen of whom they had read in the New York Ledger.

The Yankee women made use of the expletive "Sakes alive!" and "Kinder guessed things was wild in this here country, and a sight behind the fixins to hum."

There were portentously respectable fathers going down to Cacouna to secure family cottages for the season, old fellows in stiff collars and black stocks, whose appearance made one wish to see their names on the back of a bit of stamped paper with one's own name at the end of the legend on the other side.

There were a number of scalliwag little boys who were in every one's way, as many molly-sop boys who staid with their mothers and were good, and half a score of prim little girls in sea-side hats, with blowing hair. There were three French priests in the sombre habit of their order, two of them paternal looking old boys who evidently did not greatly mortify the flesh, and one young Jesuitical bilious-looking bigot, who scowled diligently over his breviary.

There were French natives on the lower deck who danced to the whistling and clapping of their comrades, then got drunk, then quarrelsome, made any quantity of noise, swore the most frightful and fantastic oaths, spat on their hands, took off their shirts, made terrible and bloodthirsty demonstrations, and then, without striking a blow, calmed down, went to sleep on their backs, or engaged in bluff for plugs of tobacco.

Now all this description, the observations for which were made before I went to bed, of course don't interest the ordinary reader of GRIP in the least, but it shows that I have actually gone to the seaside, have been out of town at the proper season, and consequently stamps this paper as the production of a person entitled to consideration, and secures for it readers in the very best society. Moreover, it allows me to insinuate in my humorous way a dislike for commercial travellers, spooney married people, ridiculous old fogies who want to pass for sporting men, Yankee women, Romish priests and jabbering habitants, by which I gain the sympathy of gentlemen at large, all couples who have been married more than a year and all old maids, our own fair countrywomen, and the puissant proprietors of the Montreal Witness.

MINISTERIAL STRAWBERRIES-AND-CREAM.

Next morning on reaching Quebec, nearly all the passengers went up to the city, while the few who remained on board beheld with anxiety the boat for the lower ports puffing, whistling, working her paddles, and altogether making a furious pretence of immediate departure. As it was yet too early in the season for her captain to expect a large number of passengers, he of course did not think it worth while to draw his boat alongside ours. We were consequently compelled to find our way to his wharf, in which attempt four of the six who started, foolishly believing they had only a hundred yards to travel, lost their way, and are probably still wandering hopelessly around Lower Town, the streets of which are so crooked and narrow that all the local policemen and cab-drivers require to be squint-eyed. I, having been there before, jumped into a cab, told the driver to make haste, and was frantically whirled around forty corners, and over at least a mile of very rough streets. When I arrived at the steamer, she was puffing and whistling more violently, if possible, than when I first saw her, and all her gangways were drawn in. My carter wanted two dollars, and not being able to make change, pocketed the balance of the V. I handed him. About ten minutes afterwards, while I was still congratulating myself on having secured my passage, the gangways of the steamer were shoved out, her whistling ceased, and she settled down to a state of apathy for two hours, after which the thin young man, evidently more experienced than I in the ways that are dark, walked leisurely on board. During the trip down the river I saw very little of him, and he did not seem disposed to converse, evidently believing that his dignity required the ceremony of introduction.

On reaching Malbaie, I thought I had seen the last of him, for I saw no passenger but myself go ashore. What was my astonishment, after being driven to the hotel in one of those antediluvian rickety calèches, to see the youth ascending the stair just as I entered the hall.

"The season had not begun," Monsieur my landlord informed me, "but in a few days, ah then, when hot the cities became, when Messieurs les Américains travelled, we should see."

"Was no one here?" I asked.

"There was but one gentleman arrived yet, by the stimbot, the same who had just gone up stairs. This was his boxes, his valises," and Monsieur waved my attention to a heap of luggage. "Did Monsieur know the gentleman young and fair?"

"No, I did not," and I was piloted to my room.

The house was undergoing the last touches of the annual repair. The passages had each a causeway of boards for the preservation of the fresh paint on the floor, branch lines from which ran into each room, and prevented their doors from shutting. The whole house was odorous of turpentine. A more dismal outlook could not be imagined than that on the grounds. The swing-frames were ropeless. The merry-go-rounds were locked, as were all the gates but one. An empty theatre by daylight is not more cheerless than a watering place before the season opens.

Before supper was announced, I had got in a fine rage with everything. The appearance of the supper room did not soothe me—long and low—it looked like a tunnel, and the huge buffet at the farther end of it closed the vista like a box car. On it, Monsieur my host's pewter shone, vaguely refulgent. The table stretched away for a hundred yards, and on it the cloth for two looked like the last patch of snow at the end of a ploughed field. A dim twilight gloomed through a window opposite the plates, while overhead two coal oil lamps threw a glare downward from tin reflectors.

The thin young man occupied the chair opposite me, and we scowled speechlessly at everything and at one another. It struck me that life would be happier, if I could for a few minutes take him across my knees and exercise my right arm on the baggy part of his trousers. Dismissing the thought as unmanly, because of his emaciation, I turned my attention to the eatables.

No cooking can spoil fresh caught trout, and no human being can cook them as well as a French Canadian girl who can't cook anything else. This is a fact for which no reason can be given, but is vouched for by every one who has been down the St. Lawrence, when nothing is good but trout, and when they are better than anywhere else. Those before me were delicious, but supported only by cheesy potatoes, sodden toast, weak tea, and sliced onions, the last offered by JEANNETTE, the waiting maid, with much pride and evidently regarded by her as a very great delicacy, our refusal of which she could not at all understand.

I heard her afterwards speculating with Monsieur my host's mother, irreverently called by him La Vieille, as to the likelihood of our refraining from onions as a penance. The "old one" doubted whether the phenomenon was thus accounted for, but agreed there could be no other reason.

During supper there was a strict silence between the occupants of the table, observed by the thin young man because some one told him that "English gentlemen never talk to strangers"—which is a lie, as they are the most sociable of mortals when with people they don't know—and by me because I was in a very bad temper. Had I not been, it is probable I would have broken the ice, but, before the flavor of seven trout had restored my equanimity, the thin young man had retired. The first evening in Malbaie was only rendered endurable by potatoes that would have roused the angry godliness of twenty temperance societies, and ended in clouds of smoke.

(To be continued.)

Toronto Adaptations.

(AFTER CAMPBELL.)

On King Street, ere the sun was low,
All soulless passed the unmeaning show,
And dark as winter did they flow,
The dandies passing rapidly.

But King Street saw another sight
When GRIP came out at fall of night,
And bar-room lamps shone forth to light
The darkness of her scenery.

By curb and lamp-post fast arrayed,
Each newsboy instant profits made,
For gladly every passer paid,
To see the weekly devilry.

Then shook the air with laughter riven,
Then swore the fools to anger driven,
While loud and louder praise was given
To us and our artillery.

But better yet cartoons shall grow,
And knaves and dolts know deeper woe,
And wider circulation shew
GRIP's well earned popularity.

As wide as looks yon level sun
His name and fame will soon be run;
His fiery wit and furious fun
Shall shake the arching canopy.

Few fools shall 'scape whom he may greet,
Nor Grit nor Tory fail the sheet,
And every rogue and all deceit
Shall find a public pillory!

(AFTER TENNYSON.)

As to the band at eve we went
To listen with our ears;
We fell out, my wife and I,
O, we fell out—the cause was rye
And half a dozen beers.

But when we came where others whiled
The time with drink and cheers,
Then we, all penniless, even grave,
Then we became exceeding grave
And kissed again with tears.

(AFTER MOORE.)

COME rest in this flagon, my own slandered beer,
Though teetotallers d—n thee thy home is still here,
On thee do I dote as the froth rises fast,
And wish that the pleasure thou givest would last,

Oh, what was drink made for, if one cannot name
The tippie he longs for, and swig at the same?
I know not, I ask not a loftier part,
I know that I love thee wherever thou art.

Literary Intelligence.

A WHITBY publisher announces the following interesting and important works:

"DEW-DROPS FROM CABBAGE-HEADS: BEING A COLLECTION OF JEMS FROM THE GAZETTE," by W. H. H—GG—NS, Esq. Bound only in calf. 3 vols. $3.

"WEATHERCOCK WILLY; OR, THE NEW BOOK OF CHRONICLES." By CH—S T—L—R, Esq., author of "Good Grammar" and other Jokes. With illustrations by H—Y ARM—T—GE, Esq. One thick vol. $1.

"THE SEPARATION OF THE SEXES AT WHITBY PIC-NICS; AN ENQUIRY INTO ITS CAUSE." A Pamphlet. BAN ANXIOUS CITIZEN. Single copies 10 cents: $5 per cord. Second Edition.

NEW AND SEASONABLE.

Just received, a choice assortment of

CORONET BRAIDS, PLAITS, CHIGNONS
COILS, &c., &c.,

In Hair, Jute, Mohair and Linen. Pads in sets of six. Pompadour Pads and Frisettes.

A New and General Variety of Switches.

Real and imitation goods made to order with despatch, to match any color, style or pattern. Ladies sending their own hair can have it made to order

GEORGE ELLIS,

Wholesale and Retail. 179 Yonge St., Toronto.
Four doors from Queen St., East side.

MINISTERIAL GALOP

WITH

LARGE PORTRAIT

OF

HON. ALEXANDER MACKENZIE.

IN PRESS. WILL BE READY IN A FEW DAYS.

Wholesale and retail by

THOS. CLAXTON, 197 Yonge St.

TORONTO TEA COMPANY

ONLY PLACE OF BUSINESS

161 King Street East,

(East Market Square.)

The number of customers that daily crowd our store is a proof that we give great satisfaction. Give us a trial and judge for yourselves.

 TO THE TRADE ONLY

FOR LATEST PATTERNS IN

ALL KINDS OF REAL AND IMITATION

HAIR GOODS,

At Lowest Wholesale Prices.

APPLY TO THE

New Dominion Chignon Factory,

96 YONGE ST., TORONTO,

FRANCIS J. BORMUTH, Proprietor.

DANIEL SPRY,

TEAS, COFFEES, SUGARS,

GENERAL GROCERIES,

WINES, LIQUORS,

AND PROVISIONS.

135 YONGE STREET, TORONTO.

VOLUME III.

AGENTS WANTED

EVERYWHERE

To Canvass for Subscribers

TO

“GRIP,”

TO WHOM A

Liberal Discount will be given.

Special Rates to Clubs

Terms on application to the undersigned.

Send FIVE CENTS for Sample Copy of the only Illustrated Comic Paper in Canada, every issue of which hereafter will have a carefully engraved CARTOON, and numerous SOCIAL CARICATURES.

CLEVER & ROGERS,

AGENTS.

P. O. Box 2642,

TORONTO.

MACNIVEN &

CAMERON'S

PENS! PENS!

Waverley, Owl, Pickwick, Phaeton, Nile, and Hindoo.

SOLD EVERYWHERE.

Court Journal says,—“The ‘OWL’ Pen for fine writing is unsurpassed, and is par excellence the Ladies’ Pen.”

Standard says,—“The ‘WAVERLEY’ Pen will prove a treasure.”

Engineer says,—“The ‘PICKWICK’ Pen embodies an improvement of great value.”

Sun says,—“The ‘PHAETON’ Pen creates both wonder and delight, and must be termed a marvel.”

See “GRAPHIC” of 16th September, 1871, for the names of ONE THOUSAND British Newspapers that have strongly recommended MACNIVEN & CAMERON'S Renowned Pens to the Public. Beware of spurious imitations of these Pens.

ADAM, STEVENSON & CO.,

Wholesale Agents, Toronto.

THE NATION.

“The Nation,” an independent Weekly Newspaper, devoted to National politics, National culture, and National progress.

Published on Thursday of each week, in time for the English mails, at 5 cents per copy.

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE.

Canadian subscribers, per annum . . .	$2 00
American “ “ “ “ “ “ “ “ “ “ “ “	U.S. cy 3 00
British “ “ “ “ “ “ “ “ “ “ “ “	Stg .. 10s.

Postage prepaid on British and American subscriptions at the office of publication. Rates for other foreign countries furnished on application.

J. M. TROUT,

Business Manager.

Office of “The Nation,”
66 Church St., Toronto

Printed at the Office of the MONETARY TIMES, 64 and 66 Church Street, Toronto.

ALFRED PEARSON & CO.,
AUCTIONEERS AND VALUATORS,

GOING!
GOING! GONE!

66 Adelaide St. West.
Advances made on Consignments.

PUBLISHER'S
NOTE.

Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the Office, 35 King Street West, Toronto.

TERMS—$2 per annum; shorter periods at proportionate rates. Single copies, five cents. Advertising terms made known on application to Messrs. CLEVER & ROGERS, Agents, 10 King St. East, by whom subscriptions will be received.

Communications connected with the business department must be addressed to the MANAGER, P. O. Box 958, Toronto.

A. S. IRVING, Wholesale Agent,
35 King St. West, Toronto.

OFFICE
and
DEPOT.

EVERY SATURDAY.
Five Cents.

For sale at all the Bookstores.

EDITED BY
Mr. DEMOS MUDGE

London, E.: I. M. Rogers,
31 Bouverie Street.
N. York: American News
No., Nassau St.

EDITOR'S
NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach the Editor not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to P. O. Box 958, Toronto, Ontario. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

CONTRIBUTIONS, when accepted, will, for the present, be paid for at the rate of Two Dollars per column. All articles for which payment is expected must be accompanied by the name and address of the author.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; the gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

VOL. 3.

TORONTO, JULY 11, 1874.

No. 7.

FRESH ARRIVALS
THIS WEEK.

CLARETS,
CLARETS.

A full assortment of Favorite Brands at Low Prices, Wholesale and Retail.

BELFAST GINGER ALE
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

STILL AND SPARKLING ROCK
(OLD STOCK),

Will be closed off at cost.

THOS. GRIFFITH & Co.,
London and Italian Warehouse.

CHAMPAGNES
(VARIOUS BRANDS),

At greatly Reduced Prices.

SPARKLING MOSELLES,
(OLD IMPORTATION).

Various brands. Will close off at cost.

RASPBERRY SYRUP—Very fine for table use.
STRAWBERRY SYRUP " "
LEMON SYRUP " "
PINE APPLE SYRUP " "

CURACOA

In Quart and Pint Bottles.

FRESH SALAD OIL,
VERY DELICIOUS.

All kind of Choice Groceries and nice things received daily at the

London and Italian Warehouse.

Orders by mail or otherwise promptly attended to.

THOS. GRIFFITH & CO.,
PROPRIETORS.

TORONTO STEAM LAUNDRY.
Corner of Bay and King Streets,
ENTRANCE ON BAY ST., EAST SIDE.

Average cost of Washing 50 cents per doz.
N.B.—Washing sent for and returned to all parts of the city. Orders may be left at J. W. GALE'S, corner of King and Bay Streets.

EDWIN POTTS,
Picture Framer & Dealer.
GILT, WALNUT & ROSEWOOD MOULDINGS, &c.
404 Yonge Street,
Two doors north of Hayter Street, Toronto.

TORONTO TO MONTREAL

The splendid Passenger Screw Steamer

AMERICA,

Leaves Higinbotham's Wharf, foot of Yonge Street, every Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock, throughout the season, calling at intermediate ports and arriving at Montreal Monday afternoon.

Meals, berths and attendance all that can be desired.

FARE SEVEN DOLLARS,

Including Meals and Stateroom.

For Tickets, etc., apply to

G. E. JACQUES & CO.,
No. 50 Front Street East.

THE WEBSTER SEWING MACHINE

embraces all the essentials of a First-class Machine; is the most simple in construction, and the least liable to get out of order.

Be sure you see it before purchasing

OFFICE:

No. 6 ROSSIN HOUSE BLOCK,
KING STREET.
GEO. NUNN, . . . Manager.

PORTRAITS.

LIFE SIZE IN OIL,
BY

BRIDGMAN & FORSTER
39 King St. West (over Ewing & Co.)
TORONTO.

TORONTO WIRE WORKS,
(ESTABLISHED 1854)

68 KING STREET WEST.

W. H. RICE,
Manufacturer of

BRASS, COPPER, GALVANIZED & IRON
WIRE CLOTH.

Iron Bedsteads and Cots, Bird Cages, Window Guards, Cemetery Railing, Garden Fencing, Flower Stands, Baskets and Trainers, Coal, Sand, Gravel and Malt Screens, Mantle Stands, Steel Wire Brushes, Riddles, Sieves, Fenders, Fire Guards, Wire Rope, Sash Cords, Wire Cloth for Locomotives, Threshing Machines, Fanning and Smut Mills, &c. Meat and Cheese Safes.

G. J. GEBHARDT & Co.,
ENGRAVERS

AND

Lithographic Steam Printers,

13 Adelaide Street East,

TORONTO.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

DENTIST,
MR. R. S. TROTTER,
53 KING STREET EAST, - TORONTO.

HARPER & SON,
ARCHITECTS, &c.,
Offices—42 King Street East, - TORONTO

INDISPENSABLE TO ALL.

HANDBOOK

TO THE

DESK, OFFICE, AND PLATFORM

PART I.

A Complete Guide to Correct Speaking and Writing.

PART II.

The Dictionary Appendix, &c.

PART III.

A Dictionary of Synonyms, &c.

In one volume, neatly bound in cloth,
PRICE, $1.25.

AGENTS should send for sample copy. Terms liberal.

CLEVER & ROGERS,
10 KING STREET EAST, TORONTO.

LAWN MOWERS.

AGRICULTURAL WAREHOUSE AND SEED STORE.

GET THE BEST—THE GENUINE PHILADELPHIA—NINE SIZES. SEND FOR PRICE LIST.

WM. RENNIE, 132 Adelaide St. East, Toronto.

Energetic Canvassers Wanted throughout Canada.

“ G R I P . ”

CANADA'S SUCCESSFUL COMIC CARTOON PAPER.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY, AT $2.00 PER ANNUM, IN ADVANCE.

PROSPECTUS VOL. III.

The Publishers of “GRIP” have great pleasure in announcing the first number of the third (half-yearly) volume. “GRIP” was started on the 24th May, 1873, and has, during the twelve months of its existence, attained a popularity and success quite unexampled in the annals of Canadian Comic Journalism. That it has become a power in the land is attested by the universal voice of the press, and the not unfrequent tributes to its influence uttered upon the floor of the House of Commons, or in other public places, by the most prominent men of all political parties. Its Cartoons have been distinguished for originality, power, and humour, and have made the name of “GRIP” a household word throughout the length and breadth of the land. The willingness of the people of Canada to support a publication of this class, if conducted honourably and ably, is beyond question. The large circulation which “GRIP” has had from its initial number up to the present, notwithstanding that but little effort has been made to obtain subscribers, is an evidence of this. The publishers purposely refrained from sending out canvassers up to the present time, as they desired to prove that “GRIP”—unlike its many predecessors—would be a permanent institution. The uniform interest manifested by the public in each succeeding number, and the undiminished applause with which the caricatures continue to be received, argue that, so far as the people are concerned, this permanency is assured; while the publishers have confidence that with the improvement they purpose making in the paper, and their increased facilities for its prompt and regular delivery to subscribers, there need be no abatement in “GRIP’s” popularity. The leading Cartoon will be carefully engraved by one of the best artists in the Dominion; and will be supplemented by several smaller caricatures in each number. The editorial management has been entrusted to a gentleman whose past performances in connection with a clever satirical journal of Canada are a guarantee of his fitness for the position. Contributors will be paid liberally for articles of merit, and writers of first-rate ability will hereafter be secured to furnish the literary department. “GRIP” will continue to occupy a position of complete independence in politics and all other matters; he will strive to sustain the reputation he has achieved as “the fearless corrector of public morals, and a wise director of public opinion, regardless of party.”

Liberal Commission to Agents, who will find Canvassing for Subscribers to GRIP a good paying business. Send for Terms and District desired to

CLEVER & ROGERS,

SUBSCRIPTION BOOKSELLERS,

10 King Street East, TORONTO.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. DEMOS MUDGE.

The grabest Beast is the Ass; the grabest Bird is the Owl;
The grabest Fish is the Oyster; the grabest Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, JULY 11, 1874.

To Correspondents and Contributors.

ARCHER.—GRIP has learned to whistle "Then you'll remember me."
J. A. D., Toronto.—Thanks for suggestion.
W. S. B., Toronto.—Try again on some subject of living interest.

Grip as a Critic.

"CLARICE: AN OLD STORY OF THE NEW WORLD."

THIS capital burlesque on the "Flatulent School" of novelists, should really have been sent to us. It is strangely out of place in the columns of The Canadian Monthly, in the July number of which magazine it appears.

The plot is that old favourite much used by writers in Bow Bells, the New York Ledger, and publications of that class. The scene is laid at Quebec, in the year 1690, during the assault on that city by the English squadron under Sir WILLIAM PHIPPS. The hero, LEON ST. OURS, a young French officer of the garrison; and the heroine, CLARICE, niece to DE FRONTENAC, the commandant; whose respective fathers "made a compact, when these children were babies, to unite them at a suitable age in marriage, as a seal to their life-long friendship, and in order to bind in one their two estates," were united accordingly at the "suitable ages" respectively of fifteen and twelve years. They then part with sentiments of disgust, and very properly and conveniently, see or hear no more of each other till the date at which the story opens—when entirely unaware of their connection—they fall very much in love one with the other. After the stereotyped agonies, they discover their relationship, and of course are very much pleased. This framework has been happily chosen by the humorous author, who improves the many opportunities for parodying "gorgeous description" and windy dialogue.

BRET HARTE's "condensed novels" are not better in their way than this very funny extravaganza, and we are almost inclined to rank it with THACKERAY's burlesque of G. P. R. JAMES. In fact, the only fault which we can discover is a too close imitation of the style of the originals, which may lead a public not yet educated up to critical taste, to imagine that the tale is narrated in sober earnest. Of course, such a mistake would be very absurd, yet those who know the intense gravity usual to the articles in The Canadian Monthly, may refuse to believe that the publishers would insert anything so airily humorous as "CLARICE." It has even appeared possible to us that the editor himself has been deluded into the belief that the story is serious, for there is nothing but internal evidence to indicate its character.

We shall be very happy to welcome the author—whose attention we call to the munificent terms offered in our "Editor's Note"—as a contributor to GRIP.

Baby Showers.

The following went the round of the papers last week, dated Ottawa, July 2:—

"Among the humours of yesterday's celebration was the baby show at St. George's pic-nic. Eleven mothers, exhibiting children under twelve months, Mrs. J. Alland got the prize for the prettiest, healthiest, and most intelligent child."

If those fine children are boys, we advise their mothers not to let them get pipes or cigars before they are eight or nine years of age, and if girls, not to allow them to begin sparking before they are seven or eight. Moreover, we solemnly, seriously, truly, eagerly, compassionately, earnestly, and affectionately beg, pray, recommend, admonish, caution and entreat of the fond mothers to provide the most approved remedies for measles, whooping cough, croup, and scarlatina, and to have them ready in the house, so as not to have to incur the delay of waiting for the arrival of a doctor. We give this advice as a precautionary measure, because we never heard of an exhibited child living for twelve months after date of exhibition.

THE GIANT KILLER AT WALLACETOWN.

REDOUTABLE CHARLEY RYKERT has met and vanquished the foe. The towering giants of the Ontario Government, beneath whose tread the platform at Wallacetown trembled, fled in dismay from the presence of the Modern Giant Killer, being unable to withstand his prowess. MACKELLAR strode into the presence of his antagonist with all the affrontery and consequence of the unwieldy Philistine of old, but he received a stone in the forehead before he knew where he was. That is to say, CHARLES RYKERT touched him in a vital spot by rehearsing the Canoe Couch Scandal, and the reeking corruptionist of the Model Farm shrunk from the exposure of his unparalleled baseness. The giant HODGINS fared no better. So the host of honest yeomen, nearly all supporters hitherto of the "most corrupt Minister of modern times" (Mr. MOWAT) witnessed that day a signal rout of their own heroes. CHARLEY THE GIANT KILLER was transformed in a twinkling from the obstreperous nobody he has always been considered, into a valorous statesman—a varacious statesman—and a very probable future leader of the coming Conservative Government of Ontario. The spectacle of their utter discomfiture at the hands of one so small and insignificant would have been sufficiently humiliating to the Giants under any circumstances, but in this case it was aggravated by the fact that the Dwarf had been specially challenged to the combat.

GRIP awaits the coronation of the plucky little fellow who fought and won the battle of Pure and Economical Local Legislation at Wallacetown!

A Due+

(Translated from the Moorish.)

He.—

THE young May moon is beaming, love,
The policeman's lamp is gleaming, love,
As we gaily pass
The parting glass,
While each better half is dreaming, love.

Then awake and open the door, my dear,
'Twas never thus barred before, my dear,
You're mighty (hic) deep
To pretend you're 'shleep,—
But its rather too thin is that snore, my dear.

She.—

Nice hours these are that you're keeping, love,
Coming home when the day is peeping, love,
To plague the life
Of a loving wife,
Disturbing her when she's sleeping, love!

Let you in? not till rise of sun, my dear,
I'll teach you the glass to shun, my dear,
If you will get so tight,
You may stay out all night,
And I hope that you'll relish the fun, my dear!

Freedom!

MR. ADOLPHUS TOMNODDY is greatly exercised just now over the intelligence that

"MR. DISRAELI and Lord DERBY have had conferred upon them the freedom of the Merchant Tailors' Society, one of the most ancient and wealthy guilds of London."

He asks us for information as to the character of this "freedom." Does it obviate the payment of all bills for clothing in future? Is there such a guild in Canada? If so how can a fellow obtain the freedom of it?

GRIP must decline to answer these queries.

THE "SUN-SKIT" URCHIN AND HIS PLAYTHINGS.

The Zig-Zag Papers.

IV.—MY TRIP TO THE SEASIDE AND WHAT I SAW THERE.

(Continued from last week.)

WHEN I left Toronto, the city had been for a few days so hot and dusty that summer seemed fairly begun. But, as a Yankee woman said on the steamboat, "Law sakes, it was only a spell of weather." The sky clouded, rain drizzled, and the weather became so cold that all the people who had been too lazy to take down their stoves, bragged of their foresight in leaving them up.

Wealthy people—who go to the sea-side to show that they are wealthy; gentlefolks—who go for pleasure, and all the rabble, neither wealthy nor gentle, but merely genteel, who wish to be thought swells, staid in town awhile longer. At Malbaie the weather was positively cold. From the sea blew a fresh breeze that told of glittering icebergs. The few ladies who, in advance of the main body of their families, tenanted the cottages down the road, appeared in white jackets of cony skin—surely the prettiest of fur when left free from the abominable black tags that make it a cheap imitation of ermine. Little boys, who rashly tried to swim in the icy water, came out after one plunge, and shivered on their clothing.

Monsieur my host, his house void of visitors, vented his disappointment in an undertoned monologue, that fairly bristled with sacres. I walked furiously, fished for trout in every stream for miles, or rowed out on the billowy, half salt water, till my hands were blue and numb. All was no use; ennui was overwhelming me, and on the third day I desperately resolved to make the acquaintance of my cadaverous companion.

During nine solemn meals, each exactly like the last, we had sadly stowed away the necessary prog. The difficulty of addressing the thin youth increased as the square of the number of meals, whereby any ingenious person may easily calculate exactly how hard it was for me to break the ice. Had other visitors arrived, it is improbable that we, the first arrivals, would have spoken, one to the other, during the season. He was to me, as yet, only S. G. M., a thin youth, possessing a wonderful appetite, and much baggage on which these initials were evident.

Now, I determined to know more of him, and went into the tenth meal smiling in the most engaging manner. I might as well have r t u n e d the stern gravity befitting a correspondent of GRIP, for S. G. M. being engaged in the dissection of an unusually large trout, did not look round.

Passing him, I brought my hand down rather quickly on his shoulder. He rose, straddling his chair, as suddenly as if my hand had loosed a spring, and confronted me with surprise.

"It is plain," said I, "that we must shake hands and be friends, or be bored to death."

"Ah yes," he said, extending a hand that felt in mine like a bundle of boiled chicken bones, "yes, very glad, I'm sure. How are you?"

I assured him of my perfect health, and joined his attack on the provisions.

The pleasure of grumbling, in which we both indulged during the meal, added to the flavour of the trout, and detracted from the waxiness of the potatoes.

JEANETTE, on her entrance with the tea-pot, flew back to the kitchen with the information that we were talking quite rationally. La Virille opened the door a handsbreadth to satisfy herself of her handmaiden's veracity, and then, with effusion, brought in a double supply of onions, with the air of awarding naughty boys who have suddenly repented.

My new acquaintance informed me that his name was MARLY, but, as he did not mention who his father was, nor refer to any uncles who were prominent personages, I justly conceived an immediate contempt for him as not being a youth of family—a feeling which was the stronger because the peculiar vacancy of his expression had at first led me to believe him a young man brought up in the most distinguished circles of Toronto society.

My curiosity as to the cause of his emaciation somewhat abated, as I became convinced that he was not a person of importance, and it was not till, in the smoking room, I was puffing clouds from a large-bowled meerschaum, with MARLY lolling in a huge-backed, cane-seated rocking chair near the stove, that I questioned him concerning his illness. I was astonished and delighted to hear that he was convalescing from an attack of Syrian fever; astonished because I had fully expected to be told of some vulgar disease, and delighted because it seemed probable that he was, after all my doubts, a patrician youth.

"Caught it at Damascus, you know," he said, "was down with it there for five weeks. Riding knocked me up again. How I got back to England I hardly know."

"You are young," said I, "to have travelled, but I suppose you were with friends, or, perhaps, with a party of Cook's tourists?"

"No," said he, "entirely alone. You see I'm going into business next year. So my father wished me to see the world before I am tied down to the desk. I had letters to his English correspondents. They mapped out my journey and passed me on. With the dragon-man I had, there was no difficulty going anywhere. Come up and see some of the things I have brought back."

He had his pile of luggage sent to his room—the best in the house and quite comfortable, in pleasant contrast to my rigid outline of bed and floor, bare, except for a strip of rag carpet.

"You see," said he, pointing to the furniture, "I have some traps of my own here. Can't rough it as I used, you know. These things came down a week before me."

He did not at once proceed to display his acquisitions, and I suspected that he had brought me up from the smoking room as much that he might escape its unwholesome smell and the fumes of my pipe, as that he wished to shew his purchases.

We sat and chatted for a while over some very decent brandy which he produced, I questioning him concerning his journey and he answering as if the things and places he had seen had all been passed by in a dream. It was hard to discover what he had gained by travel.

Fresh from school he should have known native society before seeing the world.

As it was he had no standard of comparison.

It was some time before he proceeded to shew me his treasures. When he did my respect for him very much increased for it was evident that he had not been stinted in money. There were curious eastern weapons, jewels rarely set, diaphareous fabrics of Asiatic looms, all costly and peculiar.

His narrative became quite lively as he recounted each purchase, for he had a capital memory for a commercial transaction. Still he seemed to value the articles very little for the associations connected with them, they were shewn with the pride of a collector and not of a traveller. Not till he had finished did he display any enthusiasm, saying:

"You should see the Eastern dresses I have left at home, I shall always so glad to have taken that trip for the sake of those costumes. They will create such a sensation at masquerades on the skating rink."

Think for a moment on the mental condition of a human being, who, after travelling through Asia, was glad that he had done so "because he had acquired some good dresses for masquerades at the skating rink."

Yet do not many tourists pride themselves merely on the fact of their travel—having acquired no more than if they had journeyed with their eyes shut.

This young fellow was neither oppressively instructive nor absurdly vain.

Sometimes you meet people who come back from Rome fancying themselves Popes, at least in their native towns—you see others who, having visited Constantinople, are ready with any quantity of information as to the creed of JALAM, and look mysterious and wise, when the Eastern Difficulty is mentioned—saying "Ah, I've been there."

(To be continued.)

“THE GIPSY’S WARNING;”

OR, THE EDUCATION MAIDEN AND HER IRREPRESSIBLE LOVER.

GIPSY—(The Globe)—“TRUST HIM NOT!!”

Young Kanuck to Brother Jonathan.

4TH JULY.

EAR JONATHAN, from where I sit,
I hear your nasal cheers,
Break out in answer to the gun
That numbers off your years;
While, free above, your waving flag
Displays its stripes and stars,
And "YANKEE DOODLE" proudly played,—
Forgets the stars and bars.

Well, JONATHAN, as nations live,
You're yet the merest youth,
A knowing young one, I'll allow,
And quite well grown, in truth;
But yet a dissipated life
And your almighty greed,
Have left a look upon your face
Of running into seed.

Dear JONATHAN, I've lived so long
In hearing of your voice,
That I've half learned to sympathize
When yearly you rejoice;
Though over me the ensign waves
That's braved a thousand years,
Which I salute with filial pride,
And you with scornful jeers.

Dear JONATHAN, at bay I stood
Beneath that Union Jack,
When you to tear it from me strove,
And stoutly beat you back.
At Queenston Heights, and Lundy's Lane
And Crysler's Farm, you found
A grave was all a foeman earned
Of this Canadian ground.

And JONATHAN, when I resign
The flag I loved of yore—
As must be soon—'twill be because
I see a hand before
That beckons me to take my place
Beside my Saxon peers,
And enter boldly in the race
Of glory, through the years.

Then, JONATHAN, I hope that peace
May watch our harvests grow,
And that the strife she stirs will be
The only strife we know;
But should your Eagle scream for fight,
My Beaver to his wars
Will muster hosts of better men
Than ever bore your stars.

'Cute JONATHAN, in times gone by,
When mother held my strings,
You chiselled her completely out
Of many of my things;
But now, I rather guess, that when
We make another trade,
You'll find such bargains can't be got,
As those that mother made.

Dear JONATHAN, I heard you brag,
And thought 'twas no disgrace,
For never did performance fail
The promise of our race.
If you can brag, why shouldn't I?
For I can point with pride
Not only to my mother's deeds,
But brother, yours beside.

Among our Exchanges.

Believing as GRIP does that you have to go from home to hear the news, our readers can understand how earnestly we rake over our exchanges from the back woods for items in regard to the Government plans. In this connection it is refreshing to hear from the Truerton Watchman that "It is now hinted that Sir John Macdonald is to be appointed by the Municipal Government to the governorship of the West India Islands."

We are too modest to pry into the why and wherefore of this remark, but we would like to know how the Watchman—so far from the centre of civilization—came by the information. But perhaps the above is a local item, and the "Municipal Government" is a polite term for "Village Council". GRIP anxiously awaits explanation.

From the Lucknow Sentinel we clip this complimentary puff:—

"BRUBARB.—We return our thanks to Mr. John Hill, 10th con. Grey, for a bag full of tender rhubarb. Some people seem to know that editors are very fond of new fruit and young vegetables."

WILL CARLETON, in speaking of the representative editor, says:

"On vinegar, kind hearted people were feeding him every hour, Who saw not the work they were doing, but wondered that printers are sour."

The people around Lucknow are not satisfied with vinegar, but go to the extent of rhubarb—tender and by the bag full. Yet the editor seems to relish it.

Overheard on a Steamboat.

TABLEAU.

(YOUNG AMERICAN GENTLEMAN, with Byron in one pocket, and "New York Ledger" in the other, passing forward deck in an abstracted manner and meditating lofty verse. YOUNG AMERICAN LADIES, on stools, admiring young American gentleman, and believing him a poet. Moon behind a cloud. Scene only illuminated by lamps. Moon suddenly appears, lights up black clouds, lights up black river.)

YOUNG AMERICAN GENTLEMAN, with outstretched arm, suddenly: See! the moon!

(Young ladies see it.)

YOUNG AMERICAN GENTLEMAN, with strong action of the arm, rapturously: Heow grand! heow beautiful!! heow elegant!!!

YOUNG LADIES: Heow poetical!

COCKNEY GENTLEMAN, just out, staring: Heligant! How Hawful!!

Montreal Munificence.

HERE'S a very religious notice from the Witness:

"If the Lady who took my Black Silk Umbrella out of Miss Clendinning's store, Radegonde st., will call at 47 Metcalfe, she can have my Parasol also.

We consider that this indicates in the advertiser a too generous disposition. Benevolence should be very cautiously exercised, and we are not inclined to believe that the lady referred to can be a deserving object for charity. Scripture requires no more than the bestowal of our other coat, and we conceive that a person, after the loss of a black silk umbrella, would be perfectly justified in retaining a parasol.

A Startling Charge.

We clip the following from the city items of the Montreal Witness:

"EFFECTS OF THE HEAT.—Henry Thompson, 17, and Robert Wiggins, 17, were found sleeping in a hayloft. When asked by the Recorder why they chose such a sleeping place, they answered, 'Because the weather was so warm.' His Honor said, 'I'll send you to a cool place to sleep in,' and fined them $5 each, with the alternative of getting cool lodgings at Hochelaga."

GRIP croaks his indignation against the miscreants, THOMPSON and WIGGINS. The frightful crime of sleeping in a hayloft should have been visited with more severe punishment. The infliction of His Honor's exquisite irony, would have driven to the verge of madness anyone of sensibility, but persons sinful and degraded enough to sleep in a hayloft probably would not wince under it. We call the attention of those who are partial to naps in haylofts, to their liability to a fine, or "cool lodgings in Hochelaga," which alternative, we fear, may, in this hot weather, possess a fascination for many people, which will lead them to commit the dangerous offence of WIGGINS and THOMPSON.

Astronomical.

THE star humourist of our staff worried his brain for a long time to evolve a brilliant witticism on "our heavenly visitor," with which to fill this corner. He was forced to confess that he couldn't commit.

NEW AND SEASONABLE.

Just received, a choice assortment of

CORONET BRAIDS, PLAITS, CHIGNONS
COILS, &c., &c.,

In Hair, Jute, Mohair and Linen. Pads in sets of six. Pompadour Pads and Frisettes.

A New and General Variety of Switches.

Real and imitation goods made to order with despatch, to match any color, style or pattern. Ladies sending their own hair can have it made to order

GEORGE ELLIS,
Wholesale and Retail. 179 Yonge St., Toronto.
Four doors from Queen St., East side.

MINISTERIAL GALOP

WITH LARGE PORTRAIT
OF

HON. ALEXANDER MACKENZIE.

IN PRESS. WILL BE READY IN A FEW DAYS.

Wholesale and retail by
THOS. CLAXTON, 197 Yonge St.

TORONTO TEA COMPANY

ONLY PLACE OF BUSINESS

161 King Street East,

(East Market Square.)

The number of customers that daily crowd our store is a proof that we give great satisfaction. Give us a trial and judge for yourselves.

 TO THE TRADE ONLY

FOR LATEST PATTERNS IN

ALL KINDS OF REAL AND IMITATION

HAIR GOODS,

At Lowest Wholesale Prices,

APPLY TO THE

New Dominion Chignon Factory,

96 YONGE ST, TORONTO,

FRANCIS J. BORMUTH, Proprietor.

DANIEL SPRY,

TEAS, COFFEES, SUGARS,

GENERAL GROCERIES,

WINES, LIQUORS,

AND PROVISIONS.

135 YONGE STREET, TORONTO.

BUSINESS CARDS.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

And CERTIFICATES, under the New Marriage Act, July 1, 1874.

GEORGE THOMAS, ISSUER.
Office—40 CHURCH STREET, TORONTO.

Assurance for Everybody

At a trifling cost. Undoubted Security.

MUTUAL BENEFIT ASSOCIATION.

Capital, $100,000.

Single Membership Fee (insuring $5,000), $10;
Joint Membership Fee (insuring $10,000) $20. Members can insure to their heirs from $300 to $5,000, at a yearly payment of $7 per $1,000—less than one-third the rates charged by ordinary companies. For Book of Plan, Cost, and full particulars, call on or address WINGFIELD & BARKER, Managers, Trust and Loan Buildings, cor. Toronto and Adelaide Streets. MARRIAGE LICENSES issued by J. M. WINGFIELD.

VOLUME III.

AGENTS WANTED

EVERYWHERE

To Canvass for Subscribers

TO

“GRIP,”

TO WHOM A

Liberal Discount will be given.

Special Rates to Clubs

Terms on application to the undersigned.

Send FIVE CENTS for Sample Copy of the only Illustrated Comic Paper in Canada, every issue of which hereafter will have a carefully engraved CARTOON, and numerous SOCIAL CARICATURES.

CLEVER & ROGERS,

AGENTS.

P. O. Box 2642,

TORONTO.

MACNIVEN &

CAMERON'S

PENS! PENS!

Waverley, Owl, Pickwick, Phaeton, Nile, and Hindoo.

SOLD EVERYWHERE.

Court Journal says,—“The ‘OWL’ Pen for fine writing is unsurpassed, and is par excellence the Ladies’ Pen.”

Standard says,—“The ‘WAVERLEY’ Pen will prove a treasure.”

Engineer says,—“The ‘PICKWICK’ Pen embodies an improvement of great value.”

Sun says,—“The ‘PHAETON’ Pen creates both wonder and delight, and must be termed a marvel.”

See “GRAPHIC” of 16th September, 1871, for the names of ONE THOUSAND British Newspapers that have strongly recommended MACNIVEN & CAMERON'S Renowned Pens to the Public. Beware of spurious imitations of these Pens.

ADAM, STEVENSON & CO.,

Wholesale Agents, Toronto.

THE NATION.

“The Nation,” an independent Weekly Newspaper, devoted to National politics, National culture, and National progress.

Published on Thursday of each week, in time for the English mails, at 5 cents per copy.

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE.

Canadian subscribers, per annum . . .	$2 00
American “ “ “ “ “ “ “ “ “ “ “ “	U.S. cy 3 00
British “ “ “ “ “ “ “ “ “ “ “ “	Stg .. 10s.

Postage prepaid on British and American subscriptions at the office of publication.

Rates for other foreign countries furnished on application.

J. M. TROUT,

Business Manager.

Office of “The Nation,”
66 Church St., Toronto

Printed at the Office of the MONETARY TIMES,
64 and 66 Church Street, Toronto.

Marriage Licenses

and CERTIFICATES under the provisions of the new Marriage Act, July 1, 1874.

GEO. THOMAS, Issuer. Office—40 Church St., West Side, three doors south of King Street, TORONTO.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE.

Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the Office, 35 King Street West, Toronto.

TERMS—$2 per annum; shorter periods at proportionate rates. Single copies, five cents. Advertising terms made known on application to Messrs. JOH. ROGERS & Co., Agents, 10 King St. East, by whom Subscriptions will be received.

Communications connected with the business department must be addressed to the MANAGER, P. O. Box 958, Toronto.

A. S. IRVING, Wholesale Agent,
35 King St. West, Toronto.

OFFICE
and
DEPOT.

EVERY SATURDAY.

Five Cents.

For sale at all the Bookstores.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; the gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach the Editor not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to P. O. Box 958, Toronto, Ontario. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

CONTRIBUTIONS, when accepted, will, for the present, be paid for at the rate of Two DOLLARS per column. All articles for which payment is expected must be accompanied by the name and address of the author.

VOL. 3.

TORONTO, OCTOBER 10, 1874.

No. 20.

WHITE HART

Cor. Yonge & Elm.

PROPRIETOR,

BELL BELMONT

LATE OF

LONDON, ENGLAND.

VISITORS should not miss calling to see the

HANDSOMEST BAR

IN THE WORLD.

Pronounced by BARNUM and the Press to be

PRINCE OF BARS

MANAGERESS,

EMMA BELMONT.

Assistant—ANNIE LYON.

Spacious Billiard Rooms.

ERA, BELL'S LIFE and all London papers.

MACNIVEN &
CAMERON'S

PENS! PENS!

Waverley, Owl, Pickwick, Phaeton, Nile, and Hindoo.

SOLD EVERYWHERE.

Court Journal says,—“The ‘OWL’ Pen for fine writing is unsurpassed, and is par excellence the Ladies’ Pen.”

Standard says,—“The ‘WAVERLEY’ Pen will prove a treasure.”

Engineer says,—“The ‘PICKWICK’ Pen embodies an improvement of great value.”

Sun says,—“The ‘PHAETON’ Pen creates both wonder and delight, and must be termed a marvel.”

See “GRAPHIC” of 16th September, 1871, for the names of ONE THOUSAND British Newspapers that have strongly recommended MACNIVEN & CAMERON'S Renowned Pens to the Public. Beware of spurious imitations of these Pens.

ADAM, STEVENSON & CO.,
Wholesale Agents, Toronto

PORTRAITS.

LIFE SIZE IN OIL,

BY

BRIDGMAN & FORSTER
39 King St. West (over Ewing & Co.)
TORONTO.

PARLOR
SHOE STORE,
61 King St. East
TORONTO.

The Largest and Finest Shoe Store in Canada. Three widths to each size and half size, insuring perfect fit. Prices moderate. Remember the address.

KING & BROWN, 61 King St. East.

G. J. GEBHARDT & Co.,
ENGRAVERS

AND

Lithographic Steam Printers,
13 Adelaide Street East,
TORONTO.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

THE CANADIAN SPORTSMAN.

On the 16th October

Will appear the first number of a new Sporting Paper, giving the fullest information on Canadian sports. Sportsmen in all parts of the Dominion will find the CANADIAN SPORTSMAN an invaluable medium of information.

GOSSET & JOSE, Publishers,
85 & 87 Bay Street,
Toronto.

J. M. WINGFIELD, ISSUER OF MARRIAGE
LICENSES. Office, Trust and Loan Company's Buildings, opposite New Post Office. Residence—163 TERAULEY STREET.

INDISPENSABLE TO ALL.

HANDBOOK

TO THE

DESK, OFFICE, AND PLATFORM

PART I.

A Complete Guide to Correct Speaking and Writing.

PART II.

The Dictionary Appendix, &c.

PART III.

A Dictionary of Synonyms, &c.

In one volume, neatly bound in cloth,

PRICE, $1.25.

AGENTS should send for sample copy. Terms liberal.

JOHN ROGERS & Co.,
10 KING STREET EAST, TORONTO.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabest Beast is the Ass; the grabest Bird is the Owl;
The grabest Fish is the Oyster; the grabest Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1874.

"The Times are Out of Joint."

THE London Times just now is dead against emigration to Canada. It is the chief care of the Thunderer to thunder only in popular growls, reports and grumbings, and so it seeks to make capital for the time being by chiming in with the outcry against emigration. The principle upon which the Times argues, if affection, is certainly strange, and Canada may well be spared the presence of such as are influenced by it. For instance, it works upon the fears of the laborers it would keep in England for the benefit of the capitalists who delight in low wages; and as those over whom the thunder is rolled are starved in body and mind, the hope is felt that they will hear, tremble, and fear to move. Emigration it likens to a lottery in which, though there are many good prizes, there are also many terrible blanks. It pictures to the emigrant a chapter of accidents that may befall him, to his utter undoing, and closes by reminding him that there is no workhouse in Canada.

Emigration to Canada is to the Englishman a lottery in which there are "no blanks," unless indeed the emigrant himself be a blank; the mishaps so eloquently depicted by the Times are barely possible, scarcely probable; and the "uncertainty" alluded to in Canada is much to be preferred to the certainty of poverty, and, if accidents arise, pauperism, in England. People in Canada can only laugh at the idea of a leading newspaper of England preferring the certainty of the poor-house to the probability of independence.

Thank Heaven we have no poor-houses in Canada—excepting one, and that is of exotic growth, and entirely unnecessary. Our only work-houses are our gaols, where the inmates are taught how they may be honest by labor in a country where all may earn an independent living. Canadian civilization has not degenerated so far as the establishment of poor-houses, and even the enervated victims of the English system on breathing the free and inspiring air of the Dominion soon learn to be men. Here they can earn "a fair day's wage for a fair day's work," and climb the social ladder if they will; here they are not considered as so many machines to be worked at the least possible expense; and here we are spared the spectacle of a leading journal aiding in perpetuating their degradation in the spirit of that cursed commercial calculation that has been and continues to be Britain's bane. Every man has an inherent right to go where he pleases to better his condition; and especially is it his duty to leave a land where he is coolly consigned to the work-house, for one in which he is sure of a house of his own, where only bounteous nature is his steward and Providence his beadle, where, in short, he will forget the hard and grinding, bitter and pitiless Times of his native land.

May it ever be said, "There is no work-house in Canada."

Croaks and Pecks.

If the City Council will persist in destroying the Avenue, we must 'ave a new Council.

Two blacks don't make a white, but black and white have made it red in New Orleans.

It is a St. Catharines firm that advertises "Paris Green for Potato Bugs and Painters' Use."

BISMARCK proposes to Frenchify the name of Count Von ARNIM; then he can safely say D'ARNIM.

A CERTAIN class of politicians delight to go about talking of their co-religionists, who cannot be found this side the Styx.

ANOTHER comic contemporary in Montreal:

"Be'st thou a spirit of health, or Goblin damned?"

CONSIDERING the Utopian ideas with which "Canada First" is crammed, would it not be in order to call its latest institution the "Stuffed Club?"

On hearing that the Mail had appeared in a new "suit" of Scotch type, an eminent Irish barrister of our acquaintance remarked that it was "scotched, not kilt."

THE Globe declares that the writer of "Current Events" in the Canadian Monthly sees in "party" the root of all evil. That he is not blind is evidenced by the result of the late contested election cases, in which "the root of all evil" was pretty prominent.

A NEW YORK paper derides a spiritualistic revelation that the wife of its editor would be drowned if she sailed from Liverpool for New York on board a certain vessel, on the ridiculous ground that no such vessel existed. To our mind, the spirits were perfectly correct in their prophecy. We should not care to have a non-existent ship between ourselves and the bottom of the Atlantic and be left to cruise about like our ancestor in Noah's time.

THERE are some who hold that none of the constituencies in which the members have been unseated for corrupt acts at their election should again return these men, in order to show that the electors have no sympathy with bribery. There is another phase, however. By the rejection of the unseated candidates the constituency would be tacitly acknowledging that it was only through its venality these men were first returned. From the fact that each unseated candidate is re-nominated, it will be seen that the constituencies see it in the latter light.

Edward the Confessor.

HON. EDWARD BLAKE has made another speech. This fact of itself is nothing; but in the speech there is something which has created a sensation. Mr. BLAKE has advanced ideas, and he has advanced them. If their remarks upon this speech are honest, and we are bound to believe them so till future inconsistency proves them otherwise, Tories, Grits and Canada Firsters are all gratified to a degree. The Tories are pleased to discover in Mr. BLAKE's latest public utterances evidences that he is not in accord with the Reform party with whom he has hitherto been identified; Reformers are happy that he commends the policy of the governments in Ottawa and Toronto, severally led by Mr. MACKENZIE and Mr. MOWAT; while the Canada First infant crows with delight because he has been trying the strings which rock its patent cradle. The Reformers are inclined to hold to him because he holds to them, as far as they have gone; the Conservatives encourage him because they hope to see him create a division in the Reform ranks by an attempt to force his twentieth century views upon the leaders of the party in whose ranks he holds a prominent place; and the Canada First "no-party" party see in him the leader they have been longing for. He has dropped plums to all, and so long as such remains satisfied with its fair share it will please them and not hurt him; but when each begins to find fault with the pleasure of the others, then "look out for squalls." Each, after feasting upon what it has got, will be inclined to look for more, and will naturally desire the lion's share, and who fails to get it will raise an out cry.

Mr. BLAKE has a right to his opinions, as other men have to theirs, and we are glad to see him express them freely, and even forcibly. Cool and calm discussion will do good, not harm; but already we see each party delightedly dancing, not so much from the pleasure extracted from this speech as a whole as through gratification at advantages they may gain through discomfiture of the others. Even those who advocate a "no-party" doctrine are now ready to take rank as a party, by denouncing each of the others, and, in comparison with the wickedness of both proclaiming their creed as the summum bonum of political righteousness.

When will the carnage commence?

A Last Resource.

Father (expostulating with his son.) James I am grieved beyond expression, to see the bad way in which you have been going on ever since you left school. I have tried you at everything, and you have failed in everything. I put you into a merchant's office, and you were ignominiously dismissed, sent at once to the right about your business. I started you as a coal merchant, then as a wine dealer, and a general commission agent, but you didn't clear enough to pay for your shoe leather. At last I secured you a lucrative position in the Mutual Philanthropic Insurance and Loan Company's office, but even they would have nothing to do with you. In short you are utterly worthless, a miserable drone in the human hive, and therefore nothing is left me but to get you a situation under Government.

A Touching Ceremony.

MR. W. H. HOWLAND, on Thursday, the 1st inst., took the principal part in a most imposing ceremony. While the Dead March in Saul was softly hummed by the staff of the Nation, the corner stone of the National Club was lowered into position, and, in the unaccountable absence of Mr. BLAKE, Mr. HOWLAND buried his bantling. The stone was inscribed as follows:—

SACRED TO THE MEMORY
of
CANADA FIRST.

Man's life is short and mine was shorter,
I died for want of a supporter.

Suggestions for the "Canadian Monthly."

GRIP sympathises with the editor of the Canadian Monthly in his laudable desire to see the evils of partyism done away, and the millennium of peaceful coalition inaugurated. He has given a few moments of profound thought to the subject, and a few suggestions as to the best means of accomplishing the object in view have occurred to his mind. These he desires, with becoming gravity, to lay upon the table of "Current Events," and if they are found of any value, the consciousness of having done a patriotic thing will be considered ample reward.

1. By all means let Mr. M. C. CAMERON be taken into the cabinet. Let him be Attorney-General.
2. Let Mr. RYKERT also be transferred to the Treasury benches. Create a new office—say Minister of Slander—for him.
3. Let Mr. McKELLAR go to the other side of the House, not for opposition purposes, but to ensure the personal safety of such Minister of Slander.
4. Let Mr. CROOKS withdraw his libel suit against the Mail, and place the manager of that journal on the half-pay list.
5. Let Mr. GEO. BROWN and the Globe newspaper be sent abroad for a few years.
6. Let Mr. JAMES BEATY suspend the publication of the Leader, and give the Government fair play.
7. Let Mr. Atty.-Gen. MOWAT give up his boisterous manner of speaking, and cease forever from wholesale corruption.
8. Let Mr. LAUDER have a contract for a few miles of fencing, leaving the cost to his option.
9. Let Mr. BOULTBEE have a commission of 25 per cent. for buying chromos for the Government, and send him off on his travels.
10. Let Current Events be bound over to keep the peace for an indefinite period.
11. Let—— (This space is to let.)

"Grip."

BY P. P. C., BROCKVILLE.

The waters laved the rocky shore
Where I was left reclining;
And "by your leave," I said, I'll try
A little bit of rhyming.

My Muse has struck, by Union Leagues
Seduced, for higher wages,
So let her strike the lyre for GRIP—
For GRIP now all the rage is.

And let her tune her newest reeds,
To all their sweetest gushes—
Where milk-white water-lilies lie
Among the leaves and rushes.

"And who is GRIP," my Muse replies,
"That I must sing his praises,
While all adown the dog-day sky
The solemn sunlight blazes?"

Then I said, "Who is GRIP?" you ask!
"Why! GRIP's a very grave 'un,
A most sophisticated bird,
A knowing blue-black Raven;

A bird whose ready bill is bent
To peck at whom he pleases,
And holds with most tenacious nip
The wretch whom once he seizes."

Then quick my Muse, "The day is hot,
The waters gleam and glimmer;
Let's wait the hour of eventide,
When all their sheen is dimmer;

Let's wait until the risen moon
That distant isle hath crested,
And then I'll sing the praise of GRIP—
At least, if I am rested.

I'll sing his praise through all my days,
That bird of gracious omen,
Who never spares a boorish man
Nor yet a silly woman;

Who pecks his beak against each cheek
With most superb assurance,
And rups the politician till
His wound is past endurance.

Nor Tory, Grip, nor Liberal
Escapes his careful vision;
He hold's the canting Purist to
The light, for men's derision.

'Tis he exposes all their wiles,
On all their knavery tramples;
Of rogues, for others warning, he
Delights to make examples.

He's fond of chaff, he has his laugh,
He many a home makes brighter;
And many a heart already light
Has render'd all the lighter.

Then long live GRIP 'mid winter's snows,
Or summer's bright laburnum;
I'll sing his praise through all my days,
Floreat in eternum."

Well done, O Muse, now rest thee long
Upon this grassy pillow,
And stretch thy languid limbs beneath
This overhanging willow.

May breezes gently kiss thy brow—
A blessing for thy task—a Cooling draught from floating fields
Of ice about Alaska.

Already hast thou sung enough,
I thee no more require,
To whistle on thy penny-pipe,
Or strike thy sounding lyre.

Liberal Conservative Jingles.

BEDAD but the terrible BLAKE
Has made all Clear-Gritism shake!
Wid that spaych at Aurora
He gave thim, begorra,
A few bitter powthers to take!

Clear Grit—though he niver wud tell—
They thought him—but look what befel:
Of their foes he's the worst,
He's a Canada First,
And he'll knock all their Party to smithereens!

Retribution!

THOUGH the MILLER of Collingwood grinds slowly, yet he grinds exceedingly small, witness:—

BE ON THE LOOK-OUT.—There's a pup in Toronto, they call his name Grip, he is sure for to catch you should you happen to slip. I read in the paper just the other night, that our Collingwood poet got a very bad bite. I hope there's no poison at the end of his fangs, for out of his mouth comes a great many slangs. I can scarcely perceive whether cur, dog or hound, perhaps on the banks his puppy was found. To have him run at large it is a great pity, I believe in my heart he smells somewhat Gritty. The Mayor of Toronto will act as insane, if he ties not this pup with a good Tory chain. The way this brute howls, a lawyer t'would puzzle, if he barks any more we'll get him a muzzle.

A Paper of the Period.

ELORA has a new paper. In its prospectus it says:—"We intend to keep up the character of the paper as a Conservative journal of the first class, and we intend to show in all our dealings that we shall tell the wrong and do the right." This either means that the character of first-class Conservative journals is kept up by telling the wrong and "doing" the right, or that this paper will say one thing and do another. As a foretaste of what its readers may expect take the following sentiment from its editorial columns: "Truth is not perceptible to every person. 'Good.' Let it go!" Truth, however, is not like an egg, which dropped to earth will mingle with the mud. Truth will rise again; and they who let it go to seize on a refuge of lies, will fall while it ascends.

Serious Consequences.

THE London Free Press says:—"It is understood that Mr. WALKER, of British Columbia, has been so far successful in his mission to England, as to have been the cause of serious despatches to the Government." Does it mean to infer that the Colonial Secretary is ever guilty of sending a joking despatch, or does it merely announce the novelty that Mr. WALKER has at last been successful in being looked on seriously? It's wicked of the Free Press to try to make poor Mr. WALKER take courtesy for consideration, as he is only too apt to do.

MRS. MORRISON'S
GRAND
OPERA HOUSE
ADELAIDE ST. WEST.

*Mrs. MORRISON, - - Manageress.
Mr. COULDOCK, - Stage Manager.*

Saturday Oct. 10th 1874, at 2 O'clock,

A GREAT MATINEE.

Dominick Murray,
IN TWO PIECES.

THE COMIC IRISH DRAMA OF

MICKEY FREE,
AND THE ROARING FARCE OF

The Benecia Boy

Saturday Evening Mr. MURRAY will make his last appearance in the great new play of

QUIN THE ACTOR

On Monday Evening Oct. 12th

Will be presented Shakespare's

MERCHANT OF VENICE.

SHYLOCK - - MR. COULDOCK.

And a powerful cast of Characters. After which the Capital Farce of

A Phenomenon in a Smock Frock.

On Tuesday, October 13th, 1874,

The great English Commedienne, Miss

Carlotta LeClereq,

Of the Royal Princesses' Theatre, London, England, will make her first appearance in the beautiful play by Tom Taylor, entitled

MASKS AND FACES.

PEG WOFFINGTON - - MISS CARLOTTA LECLERCQ

BUSINESS CARDS.

WINES FROM THE WOOD.

Gentlemen requiring refreshment through the day can obtain a glass of wine, etc., pure as imported, and drawn from the original cask, by calling at 32 Church Street.

Woodward & Grant.

Engravers, Die Sinkers, Embossers, &c.

Furnish Five Quires Best Quality of Paper, and 125 square or oblong Envelopes, stamped in any color, with Lady's name, two letter monogram or initial, for $3, or $6 per ream. Work unequalled. Box 1593. No. 52 King Street East,
Toronto.

CHARLES SCHADEL, Importer and Dealer in Cigars and Tobacco, Snuff, Pipes, &c., No. 56
York Street, near Front Street, Toronto, Ont. A large stock of Domestic and Fine Havana Cigars.
Meerschaum Pipes in great variety.

HOME AND FOREIGN PATENT AGENCY.
ALEXANDER CHRISTIE, Solicitor of Patents, in Canada, United States, and Great Britain. Accountant, Commission and House
Agent, 32 King Street East, Toronto.

FORBES & DOW, Land, House, and General
Agents.—Rents and Accounts collected; house property carefully attended to, and good tenants procured. Loans to build houses advanced without delay. Special attention given to sale of Farm Property. No. 6 Victoria Street. P. O. Box
1984, Toronto, Ont.

USE THE
DIAMOND YEAST CAKE!

BURNING FLUID—NO SMOKE—NO CHIM-NEY. Suitable for Hotels and private dwellings. Splendid night light. HUGH MIL-LER, & CO., 167 King Street.

TO THE TRADE ONLY

FOR LATEST PATTERNS IN
ALL KINDS OF REAL AND IMITATION
HAIR GOODS,
At Lowest Wholesale Prices.

APPLY TO THE

New Dominion Chignon Factory,
96 YONGE ST, TORONTO,

FRANCIS J. BORMUTH, Proprietor.

JOHN LAIRD,

DEALER IN

Picture Frames, Looking Glasses, &c.

335 Yonge St., Opposite Elm St.,
TORONTO.

PICTURES KEPT ON HAND FOR SALE.

THOS. RUSSELL & SON

KEYLESS
WATCHES.

Silver Hunting Key-
less	$35
Silver Hunting Lever,
with Albert Chain.....	25
Silver Hunting Lever,
Nickle Movement.....	30
Silver Hunting Lever...	50
Gold Ladies' Hunting-
cased Lever	50
do. do. do.	60
Gold Keyless Ladies'
Cased Lever.....	90
Gold Gents' Hunting-
cased Lever	125
Gold Gents' Keyless do.
From	$200 to 300

Retail by all
PRACTICAL

WATCHMAKERS
in the Dominion.

WHOLESALE

No. 57 Yonge Street, Toronto.

TAYLOR & WILSON,

MANUFACTURERS OF THE

CHOICEST BRANDS OF CIGARS,

DEALERS IN TOBACCOS, SMOKERS' SUNDRIES, &c.,

Nos. 118 & 120 Yonge Street, - - TORONTO, Ont.
JOHN TAYLOR. SAMUEL WILSON.

Marriage Licenses and CERTIFICATES under the provisions of the new Marriage Act, July 1, 1874.

GEO. THOMAS, Issuer. Office—40 Church St., West Side, three doors south of King Street, TORONTO.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE.

Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the Office, 35 King Street West, Toronto.

Terms—$2 per annum; shorter periods at proportionate rates. Single copies, five cents. Advertising terms made known on application to Messrs. JOHN ROGERS & CO., Agents, 10 King St. East, by whom Subscriptions will be received.

Communications connected with the business department must be addressed to the MANAGER, P. O. Box 958, Toronto.

A. S. IRVING, Wholesale Agent,

35 King St. West, Toronto.

OFFICE and DEPOT.

EVERY SATURDAY.

Five Cents.

For sale at all the Bookstores.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; the gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach the Editor not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to P. O. Box 958, Toronto, Ontario. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

CONTRIBUTIONS, when accepted, will, for the present, be paid for at the rate of Two DOLLARS per column. All articles for which payment is expected must be accompanied by the name and address of the author.

VOL. 3.

TORONTO, OCTOBER 24, 1874.

No. 22.

MACNIVEN & CAMERON'S

PENS! PENS!

Waverley, Owl, Pickwick, Phaeton, Nile, and Hindoo.

SOLD EVERYWHERE.

Court Journal says,—“The ‘OWL’ Pen for fine writing is unsurpassed, and is par excellence the Ladies’ Pen.”

Standard says,—“The ‘WAVERLEY’ Pen will prove a treasure.”

Engineer says,—“The ‘PICKWICK’ Pen embodies an improvement of great value.”

Sun says,—“The ‘PHAETON’ Pen creates both wonder and delight, and must be termed a marvel.”

See “GRAPHIC” of 16th September, 1871, for the names of ONE THOUSAND British Newspapers that have strongly recommended MACNIVEN & CAMERON’S Renowned Pens to the Public. Beware of spurious imitations of these Pens.

ADAM, STEVENSON & CO.,

Wholesale Agents, Toronto

READY THIS WEEK!

THE SPEECH

OF THE

Hon. Ed. Blake, M.P.,

AT

AURORA,

With the Comments of the Canadian Press thereon.

PRICE - - 25 Cts.

Orders from the Trade should be sent in at once.

E. A. PERRY,

Publisher, Ottawa.

JOHN S. GRASSICK & CO.,
FAMILY GROCERS,
WINE & SPIRIT MERCHANTS.
167 Yonge Street, Toronto.

OYSTER BAY.

GEO. A. WRIGHT

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in Fruit, Oysters, Confectionery, AND CANNED GOODS.

277 Yonge Street, Toronto.

ALL KINDS OF GAME IN SEASON.

PARLOR
SHOE STORE,
61 King St. East
TORONTO.

The Largest and Finest Shoe Store in Canada. Three widths to each size and half size, insuring perfect fit. Prices moderate. Remember the address.

KING & BROWN, 61 King St. East.

G. J. GEBHARDT & Co.,
ENGRAVERS

AND

Lithographic Steam Printers,
13 Adelaide Street East,
TORONTO.

DENTIST,

MR. R. S. TROTTER,
53 KING STREET EAST, - - TORONTO.

TERRAPIN SALOON,

AND

BILLIARD PARLOR

WITH RESTAURANT ATTACHED,

89 King Street East, Toronto,

M. REDDINGTON, Proprietor.

J. M. WINGFIELD, ISSUER OF MARRIAGE
LICENSES. Office, Trust and Loan Company's Buildings, opposite New Post Office.
Residence—163 TERAULEY STREET.

SCARTH, COCHRAN & CO.,

STOCK BROKERS,

Real Estate Agents,

38 TORONTO ST., TORONTO.

W. B. SCARTH, J. L. SCARTH R. COCHRAN.

J. COX & SON,

Pastry Cooks and Confectioners,
165 YONGE STREET.

REFRESHMENTS AT ALL HOURS.
Oysters served up in every style.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grubest Beast is the Jass; the grubest Bird is the Olul;
The grubest Fish is the Oyster; the grubest Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1874.

"37 Vic., Cap. 38, Sec. 11."

(SEE CARTOON).

PATTESON, PATTESON, ill-used man,
Print that clause as oft as you can;
Quote it, repeat it, a troublesome flea
It will prove in the ear of Grit leaders to be.

Reflections on Collections.

TIME was when the church demanded one-tenth of the substance in the whole land; and we can even fancy that in the form of a legal tax the tithe was generally given cheerfully, though there were undoubtedly then, as now, many old curmudgeons who growled at the amount their "religion" cost them. It is sweet to think of the simple faith of our ancient progenitors, to look far back in the past and see in our mind's eye the good old patriarchs acknowledging by their actions that they were indebted to Providence for all the good things of earth, and with calm resignation counting out the tenth part of their worldly possessions. We cannot in making the retrospect help wondering if the old Jews ever dreamed of the immense present advantages of assessing upon a low valuation, as it would certainly be the first thought to enter the mind of the Christian now-a-days.

How many to-morrow with thankful hearts will bless kind Heaven for all the favours bestowed on them throughout the week, sing loudly the hymns of praise, listen attentively to the Word, and devoutly drop the smallest piece of silver into the collection plate!

Those whose consciences are apt to be roused and hearts warmed by a good sermon will probably have provided themselves with the little coins and take no other money to church with them. Such people to-night may be seen changing their quarters, half-dollars, or bills, so as to be provided with the required five-cent piece for the morrow. If there is one thing more than another which displays the democratic sentiment of the community, it is the perfect equality with which high and low, rich and poor, drop small silver into the church offertory.

Should one happen by some oversight, or fit of absent-mindedness to attend church with a gradation of coins in pocket, there may occur a mental and moral struggle. It generally ends in a deposit of the smallest, because the giver can't afford a larger sum. Yet many, yes most, if not all, of those who prevail upon themselves that they cannot afford to give ten cents to the Gospel cause, do not hesitate to spend many times the amount next day in the gratification of some whim, or the purchase of some article utterly superfluous. There are even cases occurring weekly in which church-goers squander the greater part of a dollar in treating their friends in some bar-room, on Saturday evening, after seven o'clock too, and on attending church next day persuading themselves without difficulty that they cannot afford to increase the collection to more than five cents. Men have even been known to conscientiously deposit their smallest coin in the collector's plate at Church, and on their way home expend several times the amount in the purchase of liquid refreshments in some law-breaking whiskey dispensary.

Frugal house-wives are known to keep a store of small silver for "church money," and if by any accident this is expended on Saturday afternoon the family can't go to church on Sunday. When the desire to attend to the outward ordinances is very strong, and a note must be broken to procure the necessary small change, few are sufficiently careless of probable observation to boldly ask for the required "bits;" but they get over the difficulty by purchasing some small article, not that they want it, but that they want the change, and don't like to ask for it on Saturday night. They could never go to church and give nothing, you know.

It is simply surprising what an effect the scarcity of small change has upon the attendance at our churches; and at such times traders who require a quantity of broken money eagerly search for church collectors and church treasurers. For the same reason we often see the office of treasurer in the church occupied by some person who in his worldly occupation requires a large amount of small money. When they can't get it there's none in circulation; and you may waver the churches are far from being well filled.

The above "reflections" on church-goers naturally leads to the remark that the generality of them are at collection time like an unmerciful enemy in battle; they give no quarter.

Where's Barnum?

"CANADA FIRST" is as great a curiosity as Barnum's what is it? There are few who have not tried to place it according to their views of rationally constituted things; but all have failed. No two can agree upon a character for it, or place it in any genus. It defies classification and seems utterly devoid of any character. "The eternal fitness of things" seems to give place to the eternal unfitness of this thing, and, consider it as you may, it remains a "What-is-it." It can't even define itself, and though the power of utterance is by no means denied it, out-Tilting THEODORE it "talks and talks, and says nothing." Like GEORGE FRANCIS TRAIN it is everything mighty; still nothing. Calling itself the "National Party" it ignores party; it denies being a know-nothing, and we are inclined then to believe it, for evidently it don't know itself; with a great show of independence it shrinks from professing Independence; accused of a desire for annexation it disacknowledges the soft impeachment. It breathes, it lives, it sleeps, it wakes, it tells its dreams, and delights in their narration, fancying there's something in them; but if so it's "one of those things no fellow can find out." It attaches much significance to these visions but loses itself in any attempt to express its interpretation of them. It is simply a curious, amusing, perplexing, "What-is-it." We want imagination; that's what we want. Old JOHN WILLET tried to instil it into us many and many's the time; but we ain't made for it; that's the fact. If we only had Mr. WILLET's imagination we might, by deep cogitation, and a kettle to look at, figure it out so as to finally express an opinion in relation to the sentiment. Not having any imagination, and being silly, we can't fathom the mystery of the "What-is-it." We guess, however, it's a howl—and—nothing more.

PROSPECTUS OF THE CANADA CHARITY COMPANY—ESTABLISHED 1874.

Trade Mark:

"WHITEWASH, LIKE CHARITY, COVERS A MULTITUDE OF SINS."

Patron	- - - -	Sir JOHN MACDONALD.
President	- - - -	Hon. GEORGE BROWN.
First Vice-President	- - - -	Hon. ALEX. MACKENZIE.
Second do	- - - -	Hon. O. MOWAT.
Solicitor	- - - -	KENNETH MCKENZIE, Q. C.
Leading Artists	- - - -	The Globe and Mail .
Secretary-Treasurer	- - - -	C. J. WHELLAMS, Esq.

FEELING the growing want of an establishment which will afford untold advantages to many of the most prominent politicians and people of the country, the Canada Charity Company launches its bucket upon the tide of Time, and solicits the patronage of all in want of a first-class coat of whitewash. Look at the array of talent comprised in our list of Directors—every man an artist of the first water. In these degenerate days, when the characters of the best and most honored of the land are open to abuse, and even the fear of libel suits and State Trials does not protect the virtuous and upright from being attacked and misrepresented, it behooves this fair Dominion to fold to its bosom and encircle in its brawny arms a Company which has for its object the regilding and rehabilitating of threadbare reputations. The Canada Charity Company undertakes to fill the bill, and empty the bucket. Arrangements have been effected by which the lowly and down-trodden may once more raise their heads to smiling heaven, and waltz about in an entire new suit of lily-white lime and bubbling water. Special contracts will be made for large undertakings. Mediocre reputations whitewashed upon the shortest notice and most reasonable terms. Country orders will receive prompt attention. Samples may be seen at the office of any of the Directors. Parliamentary work made a specialty, and private families supplied at their residences. A new era is dawning upon the country. Every man may yet become his own whitewasher. Weep no more ye blighted and blasted of the earth; bid defiance to the world and use our compound. Stock books are now open; children, half-price.

While the brush holds out to whiten
Man may err, but hope will brighten;
While the bucket holds the wash,
"Orders must contain the cash."

We are permitted to refer to the following patrons who have used our whitewash, and a perusal of a few recommendations may interest intending applicants. We possess thousands more of a similar tenor, but these will suffice. Full directions on the inside wrapper; none genuine without the signature:

TESTIMONIALS.

Canada Charity Company—

Since using your wash I can truly say "These hands are clean."
Send me another ten thousand pounds.

JOHN A. MACDONALD, Kingston.

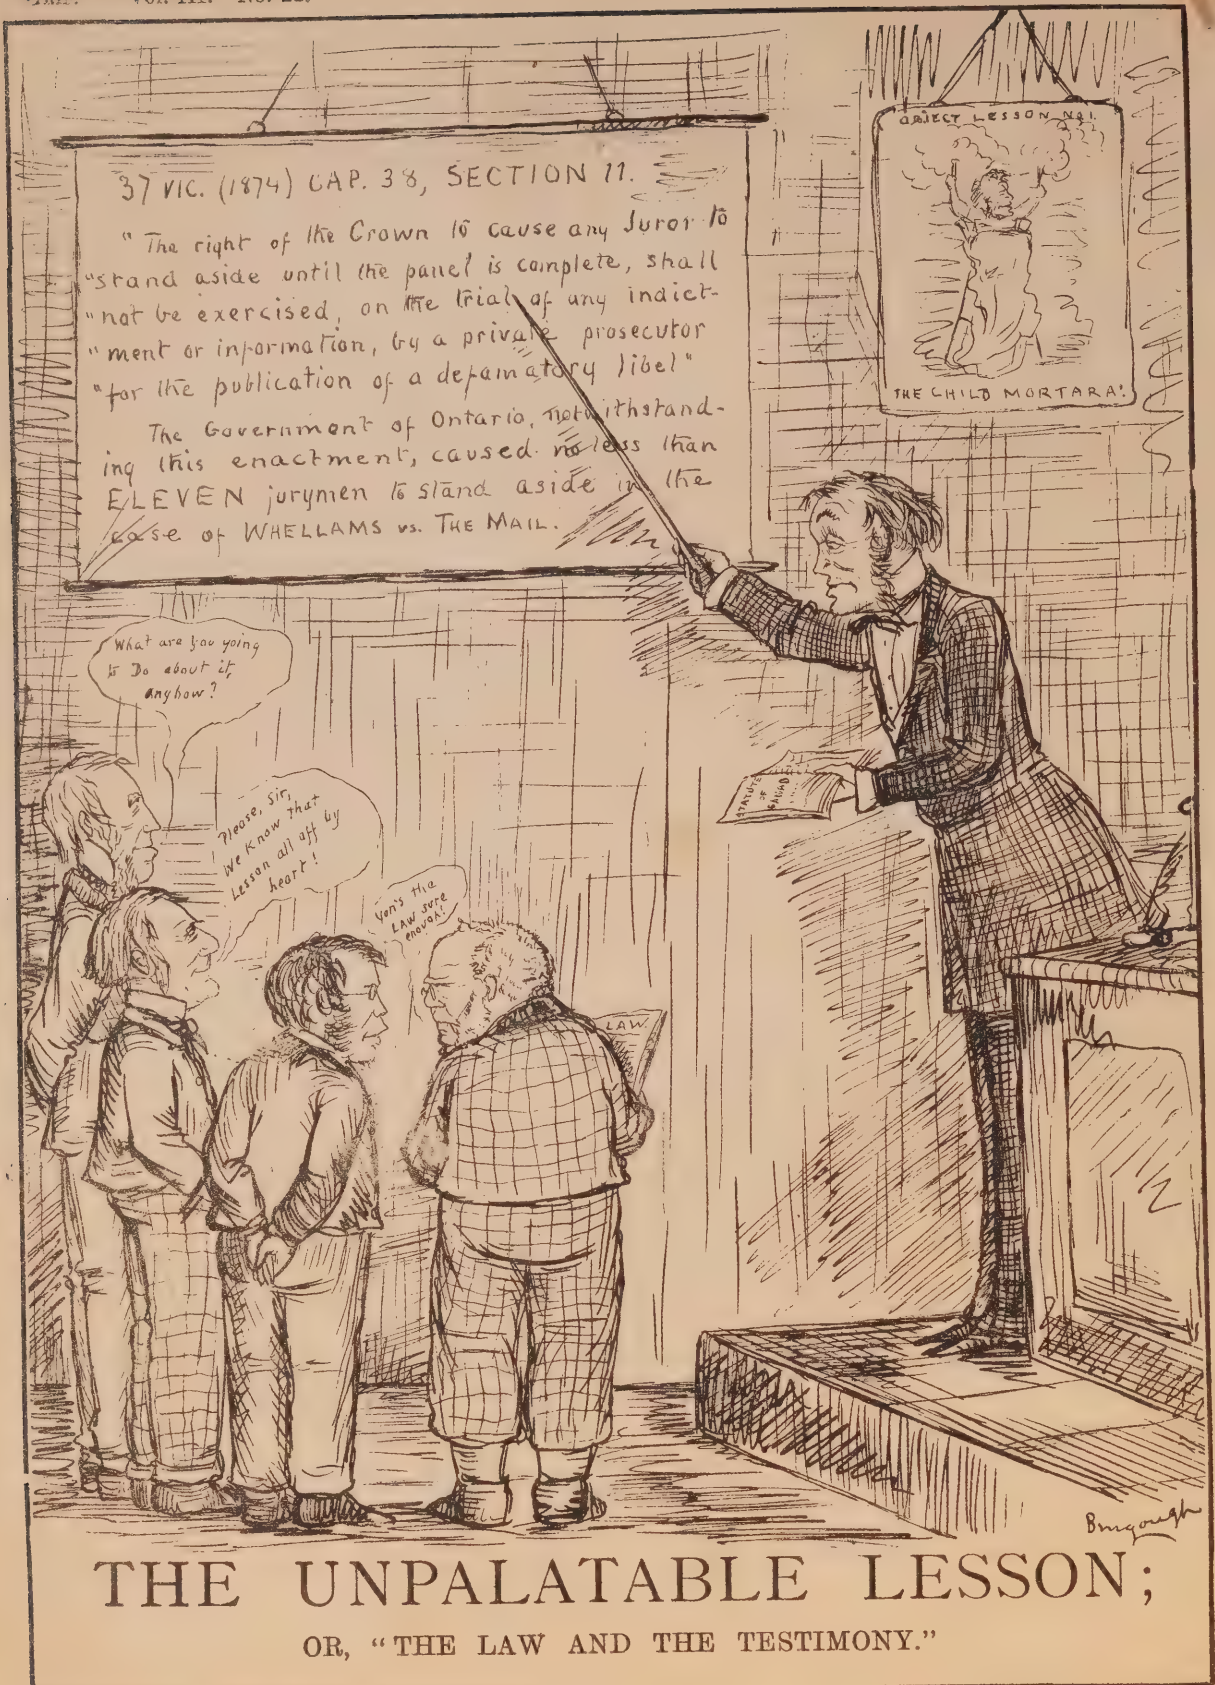

PROTESTANTISM AT OTTAWA;

OR, "JOB" CARTWRIGHT'S COMFORTERS.

BEING ONE OF THE "PLEASANTRIES OF PUBLIC LIFE."

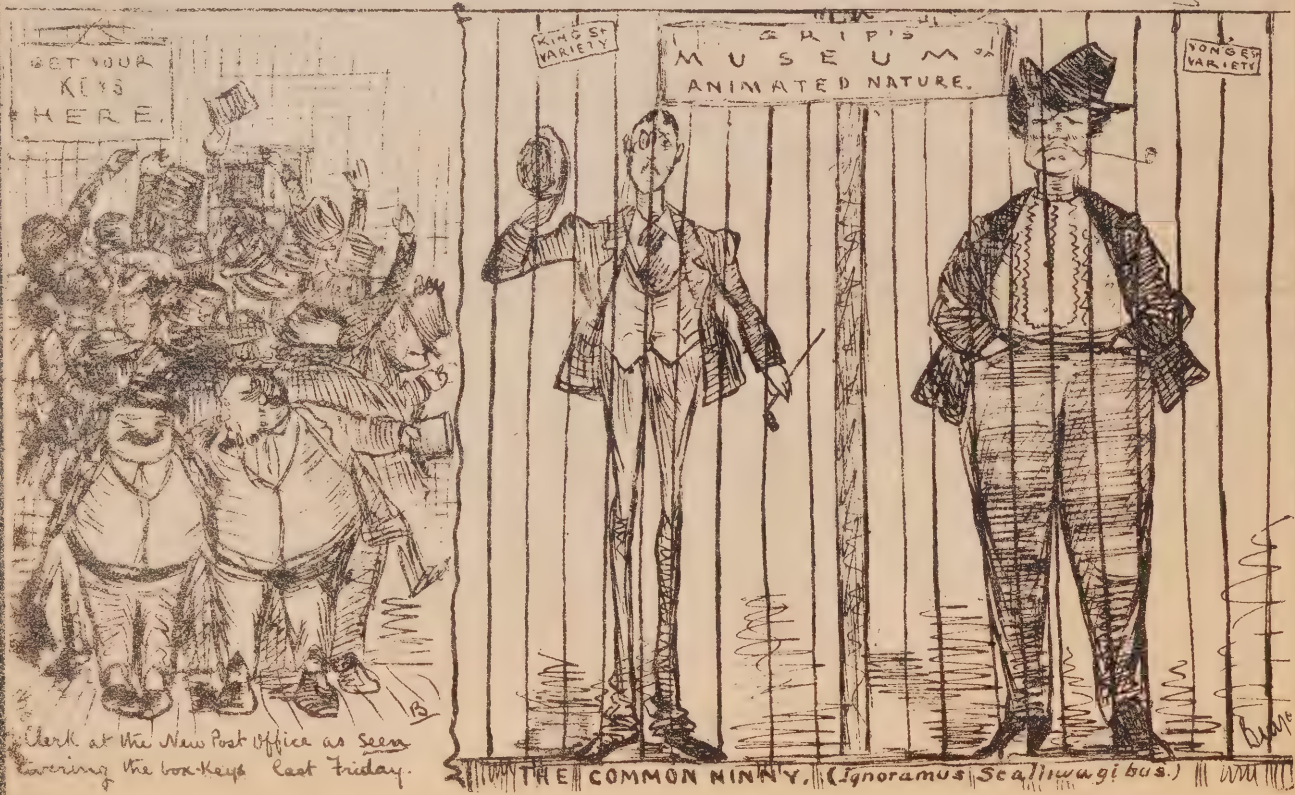

THE UNPALATABLE LESSON;

OR, "THE LAW AND THE TESTIMONY."

A New Text for
The Pulpit &
The Rostrum.

DRUNKARD PUBLICAN
AND EQUALLY RESPONSIBLE

Clerk at the New Post Office as Seen
Covering the box-keys last Friday.

Have forwarded you a large order. Stir it up thick.

LOUIS RIEL, Provencher.

Every family should have a bucketful in the House.

O. MOWAT, Toronto.

The virtues of your whitewash fill many pages of my scrap-book. Life would have few charms without it.

C. J. RYKERT, St. Catharines.

It cured my child of home rule. Ginx's Baby is himself again. The blessings of a father on the C. C. C.

A. MACKENZIE, Ottawa.

Without it, consolidation of the Empire would be a hollow mockery. I may provoke criticism by this bold utterance, but I am prepared to stand by the result or fall into the bucket.

EDWARD BLAKE, Toronto.

Would rather not speak now.

E. B. WOOD, Fort Garry.

My husband is a different man by the help of your compound. Taken inwardly or outwardly, it is a veritable balm of Gilead.

LITTLE MRS. BLANK (since deceased.)

To emigration agents it is simply indispensable. It has prevented the blasting of my young life. Forward a fresh bucketful.

C. J. WHEELLAMS, Scotland Yard.

Can feel it in the atmosphere.

E. HARRIS, London.

We yearn for the brush.

TORONTO HUNT CLUB.

No need for it at present, but will keep it in our eye.

CANADA FIRST.

I cries for it night and day.

CHILD MORTARA, Toronto.

Come along JOHN and put down bribery and corruption. We have lots of whitewash.

JOHN MADIVER, London.

Recommend it strongly on the sliding scale.

GEORGE BROWN, Toronto.

Have heard its virtues extolled from St. Ignace to wild Cape Race; from wild Cape Race to St. Ignace—if not more so.

AUGUSTUS JUKES, St. Catharines.

Valuable aid to "the boys." They devour it. I find the last Quart-ette.

M. C. CAMERON, Toronto.

Worthy of a Nation's homage.

GOLDWIN SMITH, Toronto.

Why do summer roses fade?—

In whitewash they are not arrayed.

DAVID EDWARDS, Yorkville.

Your compound is a faithless jade. Still I laud 'er.

A. W. LAUDER, Toronto.

Too thin.

ARCHIBALD McKELLAR, Toronto.

Be sure you get the best. Ask your grocer for the Canada Charity Company's Compound, and see that you take no other. All communications strictly confidential. Infringements on our patent will be rigorously prosecuted.

While the lime holds out to churn,

The vilest sinner may return.

Croaks and Pecks.

THE people of St. Catharines, not satisfied with an election campaign, have actually formed a debating club.

THE Ottawa Cabinet surely had some consideration for the eternal fitness of things when they called CORRIN Receiver General.

NOW COMES "the fall of the leaves" into the waste-paper basket, in consequence of the army of poetasters perpetrating "Lines on Autumn."

A CORRESPONDENT of the Nation hopes that now there are to be several new brooms at the Militia Department, they will sweep clean the old flags that were in service in 1812, and make them fit for public presentation and preservation.

A ROY expressed surprise on learning the small size of a certain lady's glove, and wondered how she could wear it. "Why, because my hand is very soft," she replied, "What a little hat you wear, to be sure!"

THE other night a young lady who felt bound to attend a party the next day had some sewing to do in consequence. Expecting her beau, she expressed her desire to have him in the room where she was at work. Her maternal parent showing some surprise at this, Miss explained that she wanted him to "press the plaits." This being accepted in a sort of half-convinced way, all was well; but the artful damsel spoke with mental reservation, meaning all the while that the work she indicated should be done after the dress was fitted on.

IN a rural school a lad reading the passage in which occur the words "strain at a gnat and swallow a camel," rendered them, "strain at a gate and swallow a saw-mill." If the orthography be examined, it will be perceived that his blunders were not altogether unnatural, while he succeeded in preserving a comparison as absurd, if not quite so wise, as that made in the original. This boy was not laughed at any more heartily than the fellow who seeing a placard in a shop window with the words "Plantaganet Water," entered and made application, having read it "Plant agent Wanted."

Papoose Winter.

RESPECTFULLY DEDICATED TO P.C.L., A POET OF THE "CANADIAN MONTHLY."

O! these days,
Autumn days!

When the soppy earth lies streaming
Under damp and drizzling haze;

When amidst the leafless woodlands
Stand the maples in our gaze;

Bare and bony, gaunt and grisly.

How they rise,

Chilling skeletons of timber,

To the skies.

When the summer sunshine's done,

And the dreariness begun,

And a sound

Stirs the dripping, noisy forest,

As when, everywhere and often,

The huge rain-drop strikes the ground;

Or when leaves

With a harsh and angry rustle,

All upstirred by this rude breeze,

Circling upwards 'mong the trees,

Cast around

A wet nuisance more infernal

Than the cursed spider weaves.

Oh! these days,

Autumn days!

Who can tell the damp depression

Of these humid Autumn days?

Origin of Parties.

A NEW SPECIES OF DARWINIAN DEVELOPMENT.

"IN ALL recorded cases a great thought rang and boomed through the corridors of the nation, awaking echoes in a thousand hearts to which it sounded like the bugle call to the soldier."—Toronto Globe.

"AS hollow vessels produce a far more musical sound in falling than those which are substantial, so it will oftentimes be found that sentiments which have nothing in them make the loudest ringing in the world, and are the most relished."—Charles Dickens.

Above are two heads: our readers can readily make the application.

Political Recipes.

TO CULTIVATE a Canadian National spirit.—Grow barley.

TO secure Imperial union.—Compel men and women alike to grow tufts on the chin.

TO reconstruct the Senate.—"Put a head on" every one of its members.

TO insure compulsory voting.—Abolish the ballot and return to the old order of things, when the electors were forced to vote as personal influence dictated.

TO provide for a minority representation.—Adopt the aboriginal plan of a general council of the people: the majority will be sure to turn up missing, and the minority can run the machine.

Grip on Gripes.

HERE is the first item under the head of "Town and County News" in the last number of the Guelph Weekly Mercury:

"A SURE CURE FOR A SITTING HEN.—Put her on live clams instead of eggs. As the clams begin to get warm they open their shells, and the hen don't go on that nest the second time."

GRIP was for some time puzzled to see what local item was hidden in this allegory, but it is plain enough now that it is but a fanciful way of serving up something like the following:

"PERSONAL.—Last night the reporter of the Mercury attended a clam supper. The unhappy young man says clams are not as digestible as they are cracked up to be, and he would like to know a good cure for cramps in the stomach."

MRS. MORRISON'S GRAND OPERA HOUSE

ADELAIDE ST. WEST.

Mrs. MORRISON, - - Manageress.
Mr. COULDOCK, - Stage Manager.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 24TH, 1874.
MATINEE.

The very successful Domestic Drama,

MARY WARNER,

MARY WARNER - - Miss CARLOTTA LeCLERCQ.
And the same excellent distribution of characters

Saturday Evening, October 24th,
Shakespeare's Great Tragedy,

MACBETH!

In which MISS LE CLERCQ will make her last appearance.

LADY MACBETH - - MISS LeCLERCQ.
MACBETH - - - - MR. COULDOCK.

On Monday, Oct. 26th,

Last night of the Dramatic Company previous to the Opera Season,

The Chimney Corner.

PETER PROBITY, (one of his great specialties),
MR. COULDOCK.

After which, the Roaring Farce of

MY WIFE'S MOTHER.

TUESDAY OCT. 27TH.

AIMEE OPERA TROUPE!

'CLANCARTY'

IN PREPARATION.

BUSINESS CARDS.

WINES FROM THE WOOD.

Gentlemen requiring refreshment through the day can obtain a glass of wine, etc., pure as imported, and drawn from the original cask, by calling at 32 Church Street.

Light that eclipses 'the light of other days.

ANDERSON'S "FAMILY SAFETY OIL," brilliant and free from odor. Wholesale and Retail Depot, No. 11 Adelaide Street East, Toronto.

FORBES & DOW, Land, House, and General Agents.—Rents and Accounts collected; house property carefully attended to, and good tenants procured. Loans to build houses advanced without delay. Special attention given to sale of Farm Property. No. 6 Victoria Street. P.O. Box 1984, Toronto, Ont.

USE THE DIAMOND YEAST CAKE!

BURNING FLUID—NO SMOKE—NO CHIMNEY. Suitable for Hotels and private dwellings. Splendid night light. HUGH MILLER, & CO., 167 King Street.

A. DAVIS,

Patent Medicine Office,

39 Colborne Street—up stairs.
Entrance on Exchange Lane.

Can be consulted at all hours, Day and Evening. The GOLDEN FEMALE PILLS can be had at his office. Sent by mail to any part of the world. $1 per box, and two postage stamps. Ladies, take particular notice. All letters must be addressed to A. DAVIS, Box 1030, Toronto, Ont.

TO THE TRADE ONLY

FOR LATEST PATTERNS IN
ALL KINDS OF REAL AND IMITATION
HAIR GOODS,
At Lowest Wholesale Prices.

APPLY TO THE

New Dominion Chignon Factory,
96 YONGE ST., TORONTO,

FRANCIS J. BORMUTH, Proprietor.

JOHN LAIRD,

DEALER IN

Picture Frames, Looking Glasses, &c.

335 Yonge St., Opposite Elm St.,
TORONTO.

PICTURES KEPT ON HAND FOR SALE.

THOS. RUSSELL & SON

KEYLESS WATCHES.

Silver Hunting Key-
less	$35
Silver Hunting Lever,
with Albert Chain	25
Silver Hunting Lever,
Nickle Movement	30
Silver Hunting Lever	50
Gold Ladies' Hunting-
cased Lever	50
do. do.	60
Gold Keyless Ladies'
Cased Lever	90
Gold Gents' Hunting-
cased Lever	125
Gold Gents' Keyless do.
From	$200 to 300

Retail by all
PRACTICAL

WATCHMAKERS
in the Dominion.

WHOLESALE

No. 57 Yonge Street, Toronto.

TAYLOR & WILSON,

MANUFACTURERS OF THE

CHOICEST BRANDS OF CIGARS,

DEALERS IN TOBACCOS, SMOKERS' SUNDRIES, &c.,

Nos. 118 & 120 Yonge Street, - - TORONTO, Ont.
JOHN TAYLOR. SAMUEL WILSON.

Marriage Licenses

and CERTIFICATES under the provisions of the new Marriage Act, July 1, 1874.

GEO. THOMAS, Issuer. Office—40 Church St., West Side, three doors south of King Street, TORONTO.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE.

Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the Office, 35 King Street West, Toronto.

Terms—$2 per annum; shorter periods at proportionate rates. Single copies, five cents. Advertising terms made known on application to Messrs. JOHN ROGERS & Co., Agents, 10 King St. East, by whom Subscriptions will be received.

Communications connected with the business department must be addressed to the MANAGER, P. O. Box 958, Toronto.

DENTIST,
MR. R. S. TROTTER,
53 KING STREET EAST,
TORONTO.

TERRAPIN SALOON
AND
BILLIARD PARLOR,
With Restaurant attached,
35 King Street East, Toronto.
M. REDDINGTON,
Proprietor.

J. M. WINGFIELD,
ISSUER OF
MARRIAGE LICENSES
Office—Trust and Loan Company's Buildings, opposite
New Post Office.
Residence—163 Terauley Street.

SCARTH, COCHRAN & CO.,
STOCK BROKERS,
Real Estate Agents,
58 Toronto Street, Toronto.
B. SCARTH, J. L. SCARTH,
B. COCHRAN.

JOHN S. GRASSICK & CO.,
FAMILY GROCERS,
WINE AND SPIRIT
MERCHANTS,
YONGE ST., TORONTO.

NOTMAN & FRASER, PHOTOGRAPHERS TO THE QUEEN,

39, 41, & 43 King Street East, Toronto,
AND AT MONTREAL AND HALIFAX.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; the gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, NOVEMBER 7, 1874.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach the Editor not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to P. O. Box 953, Toronto, Ontario. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

CONTRIBUTIONS, when accepted, will, for the present, be paid for at the rate of Two Dollars per column. All articles for which payment is expected must be accompanied by the name and address of the author.

G R I P.
A. S. IRVING,
WHOLESALE AGENT,
35 King St. West, Toronto.
OFFICE AND DEPOT.

EDITED BY
MR. BARNABY RUDGE.
AGENTS:
London, E.: I. M. Rogers, 31 Boulevard Street.
New York: American News No., Nassau Street.

JOHN ROGERS & CO.,
SUBSCRIPTION
Booksellers & Publishers,
10 KING ST. EAST,
TORONTO.
P. O. Box 2642.

APPLICATIONS
FOR

Advertising in these Spaces

TO BE MADE TO

JOHN ROGERS & CO.,

PARLOR SHOE STORE,
61 King Street East,
TORONTO, - - ONT.

The Largest and Finest Shoe Store in Canada. Three widths to each size and half size, insuring perfect fit. Prices moderate. Remember the address.

KING & BROWN,
61 King Street East.

10 KING ST. EAST,
TORONTO.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabest Beast is the Jass; the grabest Bird is the Owl;
The grabest Fish is the Oyster; the grabest Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1874.

The Blinker's Papers.

HIS FIRST DINNER PARTY.

ALGERNON BABINGTON BLINKERS had reached the age of 27, when his first and greatest misfortune befel him.

His maternal aunt, nee SNUGGS, left him a fortune, and his cousin, on his father's side, Sir HERCULES HALIBUT, who up to the date of this too true history had resolutely ignored the existence of Mr. A. B. BLINKERS, Messrs. QUILL, DRIVER & Co.'s clerk, with the Christian grace characteristic of his high estate, held out the right hand of fellowship to ALGERNON BABINGTON BLINKERS, Esquire, landed proprietor, promising him at the same time the entree to polite society.

Thus it came about that in fulfilment of this promise a document arrived by post one fine day which disturbed the peace of BLINKERS for a week that seemed an eternity. It was merely an invitation to a Christmas dinner party at Mrs. FOLLET ST. URBAIN's, of Fern Lodge, Poppleton, a snug little villa in the heart of Muttonshire; but to BLINKERS, who had never yet been "out," the "invite" came like the shock of an electric battery, or the unexpected advent of one's mother-in-law. There were various cogent reasons why ALGERNON felt that, however much he might prefer to decline the invitation, he had no alternative but to accept, and that day's post accordingly apprised Mrs. ST. URBAIN with the usual social verbiage, that Mr. BLINKERS had "much pleasure in accepting Mrs. ST. U's kind invitation," etc., etc., etc. Alas! poor ALGERNON, had'st thou but known the dire denouement that Fate had in store for thee, sooner would'st thou have elected to be sunk "full forty fathoms deep" in mid-Atlantic.

Now, although ALGERNON had accepted, it was by no means certain that he would go, and, after a week of irresolution, Christmas Day, and four o'clock in the afternoon at that, dawned upon a still undecided BLINKERS. At 4.15 it permeated his inner consciousness that the last train for Poppleton left at 4.30. At 4.16 he proceeded in search of his carpet-bag and at 4.17 precisely, ALGERNON BABINGTON BLINKERS had decided the knotty question "To be or not to be" in the affirmative. Evolving his carpet-bag, therefore, from some domestic abyss, ALGERNON went through the form of packing. His brushes and pomatum, his boots and neck-tie, were thrown promiscuously together, and hastily donning his regulation swallow-tail and black unmentionables, he hailed a passing cab which landed him at the Central Depot as the hands of the clock indicated 4.28.

Now it had been raining for the day or two preceding, and the streets were, to say the least of it, muddy, nor was it until ALGERNON was fairly seated in the railway carriage, and was being whirled away at some thirty-five miles an hour towards his home, that he discovered the havoc a passing wheel had made of his shirt front. One big splash of mud where the middle stud should have sparkled, two larger ones tucked nicely under his chin; in fact, what twenty minutes before would have excited the envy of a Chinese laundryman was now as dissipated looking a shirt as ever graced the bosom of a Yankee politician.

All this ruin and disaster was born of a futile gallantry on the part of BLINKERS towards a young lady with a scarlet feather, whose unsuccessful attempts to thread a maze of vehicles at the depot had excited the compassion and elicited the assistance of the chivalric ALGERNON; to say nothing of her boots; for ALGERNON B. had an eye for beauty, and she was indeed exercisingly bein chaussee.

Thoughts of what he should do in such a predicament contended for mastery in the mind of BLINKERS, with visions of that scarlet feather and those number two's, while dire spectres, as of a bashful man sitting down to his first dinner party in a mud-spangled shirt-bosom, kept BLINKERS reasoning powers in a state of most unenviable chaos.

Turning over the leaves of his time-table in mute despair, a happy thought struck BLINKERS; the Middletown Tunnel, one of the largest on the line, would soon be reached. Eureka! BLINKERS had it! Hastily selecting a spotless shirt from his valise, it took our traveller but a few minutes to insert studs, links and collar-button, and then unbuttoning his vest and unstrapping his suspenders, BLINKERS awaited in calmness the approach of congenial darkness.

With a scream and a rush the train is in the tunnel, and BLINKERS is in his—well—shirt; thirty seconds more, and the light again shines in upon the passengers and discovers a figure mysterious and embarrassed, as of a man with his head in a pillow case—in short shows BLINKERS struggling with his shirt, which, firmly buttoned at the neck, resists all the efforts of its occupant to induce it to desbend over his shoulders.

With a wrench that sends the obstinate button like a shot through the glass of the opposite window, BLINKERS frees himself, and a face tinted like the autumnal sun beams out upon the fellow-passengers and rests with reproachful gaze upon—the young lady with the scarlet feather, the object of BLINKERS' gallantry at the station and the innocent cause of this dire dilemma.

It was the wrong tunnel!

Time, the great consoler, banished BLINKERS' blushes and brought him in due course to his journey's end where a mysterious Providence permitted him this time to finish his toilet. This completed, beset with doubts as to his neck-tie and hedged in with difficulties as to the whereabouts of his pocket handkerchief, ALGERNON presented himself in the drawing-room, where, safely moored to a chair, he felt as though he could defy fate.

Even as he enters dinner is announced, and our friend finds himself paired off with a damsel whose name he had not caught and whose face he dare not glance at, and he is in an agony of doubt, moreover, as to how he shall break the conversational ice.

Seated at the table the sherry somewhat reassures the timid ALGERNON and turning to his neighbour finds:—By Heavens! it is indeed his travelling acquaintance! She of the No. 2 gaiters.

After this BLINKERS lapses into imbecility.

He felt the eye of the majestic personage in black who stood behind his chair fixed upon him with an ill-concealed scorn, and fishing for his napkin with his boots did woeful damage among adjacent corns.

He used his knife for the salmon, and being detected by the man in black, wiped it on the table-cloth, whereupon that stern and uncompromising man immediately changed it for a clean one.

He was in doubt as to whether to thank the waiter, when that functionary offered him another dish, and so, going to the other extreme, he assumed a most bloodthirsty and ferocious demeanour as he partook of everything that was handed to him, till his stomach rose in indignation at the indigestion he was putting upon it.

And last of all came the finger-glasses, of the contents of which poor BLINKERS in blissful ignorance imbibed, under the watchful eye of his foe, the waiter.

Then, indeed, BLINKERS felt the truth of the poet's words, "That it would have been money in his (BLINKERS) pocket had he never been born," nor were his feelings relieved till he had quaffed mighty potatoes of his host's "Peiper Heidek."

Years have passed over BLINKERS' head since his first dinner party, and he is not as sensitive as he was; but, hardened man of the world as he now is, the sight of a shirt that buttons at the back sends a colder thrill down BLINKERS' vertebrae than the CAUDLE-lectures which he nightly receives from his quondam fellow-traveller, once of the scarlet feather, but now by the grace of Canterbury and a special license, Mrs. ALGERNON BABINGTON BLINKERS.

S.

Croaks and Pecks.

ADVOCATES of woman's rights may now rejoice. WIDDEFIELD has been nominated as the Reform candidate for the Provincial Legislature in North York.

A DISCUSSION has arisen as to whether the name of the Indian fiend is "Nana Sahib" or "Nena Sahib." This was answered by the prisoner himself, who when asked if he was the man he was taken for, replied, with a powerful Scotch accent: "Na, na, Sahib." He is, however, doubtful authority upon both the main and the indirect question.

VALENTINE, the Sculptor, has been ordered to make a bust of Washington. If he succeeds he will accomplish what the British failed to do in the Revolutionary War.

A POLICE Magistrate is needed among those (Bowman)villians.

THE Carlists are really acting rusty in Spain, having invested Irun.

A MARINE insurance agent sends us the following conundrum: "What harbor should high class vessels prefer? Answer: Darling-ton." GRIP fancies swells would there abound.

WE are informed that on the event of Mr. LAIRD declining the nomination to the parliamentary seat of Birkenhead, vacant by the death of his father, the Conservatives will probably support a Mr. STARR, the Liberal candidate. STARR is sure to stand; or there's nothing in a name.

THE Kingston News objects to WILLIAM ROBINSON, M. P. P., as a representative on the ground that he is uneducated. We fear if the test of education were applied there would be comparatively few unobjectionable members either in the Legislature or the House of Commons.

A DIVISION Court is a good field for the student of nature. Lately a plaintiff in a Division Court suit was closely interrogated by the Judge upon a point involving a small sum, when he indignantly asked, "Do you think I'd tell a lie and perjure myself for that amount?" It is at such odd moments of excitement that a man will reveal his true character.

ROCHEFORTE appropriately carries his Lanterne to Berne.

SINCE the notice taken by GRIP of 37 Vic, cap. 38, sec. 11, he observes that it has disappeared from the columns of a morning newspaper. He thereupon feels it incumbent upon him to repeat one of his pet phrases,—“I'm a devil, I'm a devil.”

“THESE be piping times,” say the men who are engaged on the Toronto Water Works.

“Ye Gods and little FISHES!” is the exclamation of a western paper over the marriage of a man named FISH. We reproduce it for the benefit of Mr. SAMUEL WILMOT.

THE Mail says: “Glanford Township is inflicted with sheep-worrying dogs.” What has Glanford been doing? It is just possible that it is being punished for its Grit proclivities; and that the importation of a few Tories would soon prevent the dogs from worrying—what they could not find.

THE Police Commissioners contemptuously refer to a prominent temperance man of the city as “one SHARP, key of G.” LUKE, not to be outdone, declares that they properly represent the key of E, three flats.

From Gay to Grave.

DIED.—At St. John, N. B., on Saturday, 24th ult., QUIP, aged six months.

QUIP was an enfant terrible. At its birth it was hailed as a funny child. This is the funniest incident in its history. Embarking on a witty existence its life was marked by the “soul of wit,”—brevity. Its projector worked like a horse to drag his enterprise along the straight road to success; but was unable to do so because of his attention to the adulations of the multitude who shouted out his unfortunate name, and incessantly called to him, “DAVID GEE.” QUIP was a comic paper: it was a paper to be laughed at. We have often been amused at its funny attempts at fun, and wondered if they were an average specimen of Bluenose brilliancy. It could not live. It did not have sufficient natural humour in its composition. Therefore in death it is lowly lying, as it too frequently was in life. It sometimes committed the sin of stealing from GRIP, and found that “the wages of sin is death.” SMITH, D. G., of QUIP editor and proprietor, having sent you bantling where it will never trouble St. John again, has himself made an Advance movement upon the town of Chatham, where he hopes to lead a better life, and, as he says, “endeavour to win the esteem and confidence of the people.” His ruling passion, however, is still upon him, so that he cannot avoid the satirical remark that “he trusts his connection with the St. Croix Courier, with the St. John Telegraph and with QUIP, will be accepted as a guarantee of fitting experience.” We fear SMITH is an inveterate cynic; but we hope he will yet prove a credit to his well-known name. He has begun well by burying QUIP, over whose remains we beg to fraternally raise this monument:

The Fifth of November.

THURSDAY was the fifth of November, a day to be marked in the history of Canada, as it has long been in the annals of England, as the anniversary of the discovery of a plot. In the one case the English House of Commons was not blown up, in the other the Canadian House of Commons, as then constituted, was. In both, the result was a great deliverance from danger, and Canadians can chant:

Remember, remember,
The fifth of November,
When Sir John's big political plot
Was squelched for the reason,
The Grits smelt the treason;
And they'll see it's never forgot.

Lo Trying.

I.

Lo lies to get a swallow, scenting rum,
And Lo is bound upon a dreadful “bum,”
When the braves scatter “something's got to come.”

II.

To get a swallow sneaks poor Lo, and tries
To find in secret what the law denies;
To get one taste he'd tell a thousand lies.

III.

Nor sip nor swallow has he had to-day,
For sip or swallow wildly does he pray,
'Tis well for him, that rum's put from his way.

IV.

But though the world forbids, he'll find a son
Of SATAN, who will drink give for his gun,
Then Lo will guzzle while a drop will run.

V.

Thirsting, to-day Lo could not, if he would,
Forego his drunk, and be of sober mood:
As well might hunger halt in sight of food.

Bytown. CELIA O. NORTH.

In the Starlight.

THE Grit papers consider our twinkling, scintillating, evening contemporary a fixed star, as it is “a Sun of another system.” This luminary, the shimmering rays of which come from a perilous distance, sometimes casts erroneous reflections, as when it dimly demonstrated that the St. Catharines News had announced the absence of Hon. Mr. MOWAT and other members of the Government in Paris, raising to the top of the Vendome column the bronze castings which form the pedestal of the statue. This is a mistake; for everybody who is even slightly acquainted with Ontario politics, knows that these Ministers but lately expended their whole available stock of brass to form a pedestal for a Canadian statute, known as 37 Vic., Cap. 38. For further particulars see Mail, issue of a fortnight ago.

Offended Dignity.

Scene: Parliament Square, Ottawa.

Western Editor, just arrived, (to kid-gloved military exquisite emerging from Western Block.) “Say! Where's SANDY MACKENZIE's office?” M. E. (elevating his nose somewhat higher and bestowing a withering glance on hapless W.E.) “Oh! Aw! demnation! I'm not a messenger! I b'long to the Gawds!” (W.E. retires crest-fallen.)

Plain Words from Truthful James.

J. G. C. to W. A. McD.

TELL me not in gloomy accents
You will keep me out of stamps,
For, see here, my boots don't lack rents
To bring on the cold and cramps.

Spirits then I'll have to take Mac,
To relieve the gripes and pain,
For my stomach then will rake, Mac,
And on you I'll lay the blame.

And I charge you, if this follers,
It's your duty to come down
With (we'll say) about ten dollars,
Or I'll have to leave the town.

So, dear boy, relieve the needy,
And I'll do the same for you,
Then I pray you be not greedy,
Or begad, I'll go for you!

Golden sayings—“Current Events.”

The American merchant when buying goods patriotically exclaims,
“The dearest spot of earth to me is home.”
Result of the North Renfrew election—Luke, xxii, 62.

MRS. MORRISON'S GRAND OPERA HOUSE

ADELAIDE ST. WEST.

Mrs. MORRISON, - - Manageress.

Mr. COULDOCK, - Stage Manager.

ON

SATURDAY,

NOVEMBER 7TH,

AND UNTIL FURTHER

NOTICE,

TOM TAYLOR'S

NEW AND HISTORICAL DRAMA

OF

LADY

CLANCARTY;

OR

WEDDED AND WOODED.

New Scenery,
New Dresses,
New Appointments.

KING WILLIAM III,

MR. COULDOCK.

Elizabeth Spencer & Lady Clancarty

Mrs. MORRISON.

BUSINESS CARDS.

WINES FROM THE WOOD.

Gentlemen requiring refreshment through the day can obtain a glass of wine, etc., pure as imported, and drawn from the original cask, by calling at 32 Church Street.

Light that eclipses 'the light of other days.

ANDERSON'S "FAMILY SAFETY OIL," brilliant and free from odor. Wholesale and Retail Depot, No. 11 Adelaide Street East, Toronto.

FORBES & DOW, Land, House, and General Agents.—Rents and Accounts collected; house property carefully attended to, and good tenants procured. Loans to build houses advanced without delay. Special attention given to sale of Farm Property. No. 6 Victoria Street. P.O. Box 1984, Toronto, Ont.

USE THE DIAMOND YEAST CAKE!

BURNING FLUID—NO SMOKE—NO CHIMNEY. Suitable for Hotels and private dwellings. Splendid night light. HUGH MILLER, & CO., 167 King Street.

COR. JARVIS & ADELAIDE STS.,
Toronto, Ont.

JOHN D. NASMITH,

Manufacturer of

BREAD, ROLLS, BUNS, CAKES, &c., &c.

A superior article of Bread delivered daily throughout the city.

TO THE TRADE ONLY

FOR LATEST PATTERNS IN
ALL KINDS OF REAL AND IMITATION
HAIR GOODS,
At Lowest Wholesale Prices.

APPLY TO THEE

New Dominion Chignon Factory,
96 YONGE ST, TORONTO,
FRANCIS J. BORMUTH, Proprietor.

JOHN LAIRD,

DEALER IN

Picture Frames, Looking Glasses, &c.

335 Yonge St., Opposite Elm St.,
TORONTO.

PICTURES KEPT ON HAND FOR SALE.

THOS. RUSSELL & SON

KEYLESS WATCHES.

Silver Hunting Keyless	$35
less Silver Hunting Lever, with Albert Chain	25
Silver Hunting Lever, Nickel Movement	30
Silver Hunting Lever, Gold Ladies' Hunting-cased Lever	50
do. do. do.	60
Gold Keyless Ladies' Cased Lever	90
Gold Gents' Hunting-cased Lever	125
Gold Gents' Keyless do.	From $200 to 300

Retail by all
PRACTICAL

WATCHMAKERS
in the Dominion.

WHOLESALE

No. 57 Yonge Street, Toronto.

TAYLOR & WILSON,

MANUFACTURERS OF THE

CHOICEST BRANDS OF CIGARS,

DEALERS IN TOBACCOS, SMOKERS' SUNDRIES, &c.,

Nos. 118 & 120 Yonge Street, - - TORONTO, Ont.
JOHN TAYLOR. SAMUEL WILSON.

Marriage Licenses and CERTIFICATES under the provisions of the new Marriage Act, July 1, 1874.
GEO. THOMAS, Issuer. Office—40 Church St., West Side, three doors south of King Street, TORONTO.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE.

GRIP is published every SATURDAY morning, at the Office, 35 King Street West, Toronto.

TERMS—$2 per annum; shorter periods at proportionate rates. Single copies, five cents. Advertising terms made known on application to Messrs. JOHN ROGERS & Co., Agents, 10 King St. East, by whom Subscriptions will be received.

Communications connected with the business department must be addressed to the MANAGER, P. O. Box 958, Toronto.

GRIP.

EDITED BY
MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

AGENTS:
London, E.: J. M. ROGERS, 31 Boulevard Street.
New York: American News Co., Nassau Street.

DENTIST,
MR. R. S. TROTTER,
53 KING STREET EAST,
TORONTO.

TERRAPIN SALOON
AND
BILLIARD PARLOR,
With Restaurant attached,
89 King Street East, Toronto.
M. REDDINGTON,
Proprietor.

J. M. M. WILFIELD,
ISSUER OF
MARRIAGE LICENSES
OFFICE—Trust and Loan Company's Buildings, opposite New Post Office.
Residence—163 Terauley Street.

SCARTH, COCHRAN & CO.,
STOCK BROKERS,
Real Estate Agents,
38 Toronto Street, Toronto.
W. B. SCARTH, J. L. SCARTH,
R. COCHRAN.

THE Sanitary Journal,
EDITED BY
DR. PLAYTER.
$1.00 Per Annum.
John Rogers & Co.,
10 King St. East, Toronto.

W. G. GIBSON,
Commercial Printer,
10 KING STREET EAST,
TORONTO.

A. S. IRVING
HAS THE
Best Assortment of
PARLOR GAMES
IN THE CITY.

NOTMAN & FRASER,
PHOTOGRAPHERS TO THE QUEEN,
39, 41, & 43 King Street East, Toronto,
AND AT MONTREAL AND HALIFAX.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; the gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool

SINGLE COPY } TORONTO, NOVEMBER 14, 1874. { $2.00
5 CENTS. } PER ANNUM.

PARLOR SHOE STORE,
61 King Street East,
TORONTO, - - ONT.

The Largest and Finest Shoe Store in Canada. Three widths to each size and half size, insuring perfect fit. Prices moderate. Remember the address.

KING & BROWN,
61 King Street East.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach the Editor not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to P. O. Box 958, Toronto, Ontario. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

CONTRIBUTIONS, when accepted, will, for the present, be paid for at the rate of Two DOLLARS per column. All articles for which payment is expected must be accompanied by the name and address of the author.

GRIP.
A. S. IRVING,
WHOLESALE AGENT,
35 King St. West, Toronto.
OFFICE AND DEPOT.

JOHN ROGERS & CO.,
SUBSCRIPTION
Booksellers & Publishers,
10 KING ST. EAST,
TORONTO.
P. O. Box 2342.

JOHN S. GRASSICK & CO.,
FAMILY GROCERS,
WINE AND SPIRITS
MERCHANTS,
167 YONGE ST., TORONTO.

APPLICATIONS
FOR

Advertising in these Spaces

TO BE MADE TO

JOHN ROGERS & CO.,

• 10 KING ST. EAST,
TORONTO.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabest Genst is the Jss; the grabest Bird is the Owl;
The grabest Fish is the Oyster; the grabest Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1874.

To Correspondents.

H. V. M.—Like the man who accepts a favor, we are sorry it is not in our power to make you any return, as your paper on "Marriages Extraordinary" has procured a divorce extraordinary from us.

VERBUM SAP.—Contributed. We had discovered. Thanks.

Originality.

THE wise man said, "There is nothing new under the sun," and daily do we see his words verified. Writers of all classes strive to fight against the truth of this saying in frantic attempts to present some old idea in a new guise and palm it off as original with themselves. Some rough diamond is perhaps unearthed from the mountain of literary rubbish with which the world is filled, and a laudable attempt is made to cut and polish it so as to render it more attractive; or some other gem is taken in hand and the work of burnishing is proceeded with, on a yet unrepresented side, with a view to its introduction as a new work of the literary lapidary. In this way the world is often presented with old material worked up so cleverly as to be "as good as new;" and the artists who are thus able to evolve some order from chaos are surely deserving of praise for their cleverness, and worthy of the thanks of those for whom they have digged and designed. From the fact that their labor is chiefly expended upon a careful desire to present old matter in a new and unrecognizable shape, we may properly call them "designing men."

The persons we have referred to, like the French cook, display originality in the disguise in which they present their pabulum, and in which it is acceptable, under a new name, to those to whom it is dished up neatly and with taste. The absence of anything new beneath the sun, and of the possibility in a lifetime of travelling more than 95,000,000 of miles for a brand new idea, makes all claim for originality by our modern writers depend upon their ability to manufacture literary hash and bread-pudding, or warm up the joints of some old argument so as to render them palatable. Only those who have been behind the scenes know the stupendous difficulties that are encountered, and have to be surmounted, by those whose duty it is to prepare a daily meal to the thousands who, like the horse-leech's daughter are continually crying "Give, give!" True, the larder's plentifully stocked; but with what? Stale crumbs, mouldy morsels, musty scraps, aye, putrid pieces, and a generally confused mass of heterogeneous odds and ends, all, or at least most of them, emitting "an ancient and a fish-like smell." Often, too, the unfortunate mortal whose task it is to furnish a presentable dish from this confusing collection is puzzled to find some tit-bit or delicious morsel he knows to be there, and which would just suit in the preparation of his contemplated confection. He fails to discover the particular meat which he intended should have preponderance and give body to his jack-pudding, and he cannot for the life of him light upon the condiment he needs, to give spice to his production. These difficulties may again be aggravated by the decay of the fire at the critical moment; or the water or whiskey, or whiskey and water may run short when most needed. What wonder, then, that the best of cooks should fail at times to turn out a successful dish, and be forced to place before his insatiable patrons, who will not accept a "nay," something of which he is himself ashamed? What wonder that from the hands of clumsy artists should come forth so many unpalatable, indigestible, and often nauseating productions? What wonder that the sweating and anxious slave of the newspaper kitchen, unable to make the dainty upon which his mind was set, after wasting time and patience upon it, should, at last, in desperation, decide to dish up the thinnest of literary soup.

Only recently we saw one of those culinary cusses indulge in inordinate laughter over an Irish stew sent out by another of the tribe, in which poor PARKMAN was literally hashed up to fill a crust made by mixing in the mortar of comparison some of the flower of Canadian chivalry with a little heroic Greece. The critic seems to have searched the whole Globe for an opportunity to play "old Nick" with his rival, and avenge the Mail "Child Mortara." He has done it with a vengeance, and overlooking the cleverly contrived crust, he has held up to the public gaze the ill-cooked and peccoluted portions of the pillaged PARKMAN, till people do not know whether to be most disgusted at the maker of the stew or at him who has so coarsely caused them to know the material from which it was made.

Ugh!

Scotch Wit.

THE prize conundrum at the Hallow'een gathering of the Montreal Scotch was the following:

Why are the wealthy Scotchmen of Montreal like the Scots at Bannockburn? Answer:—Because they are "scots wha hae."

A Scotch Grit suggests an improvement on the above, thus:

Why are those Scotch Tories of West York who spent money at the last election like Bruce's soldiers? Answer:—Because they are "Scots wha hae wi' Wallace bled."

Croaks and Pecks.

NORTH Simcoe has divorced HERMAN.

THE Guelph Herald has an unfortunate habit of throwing political boomerangs. One of its late conundrums asks if a certain person received the Grit nomination because he was a Conservative in 1867? We would fancy that the young Irish orator of the Herald would not fancy making comparisons of the standing of political personages now and in 1867, when he was a rabid Grit. He should not propound any farther conundrums till he tells where that right arm is. It seems that he at least is not destined to receive a Tory nomination because he was a Grit in 1867.

JACKSON, Reeve of Newmarket, has got up on his Era about the nomination of Dr. WIDDIFIELD by the Reform Convention of North York. He doesn't like the idea of passing over men who have for years worked for the party, and their own ambition; though he hasn't mentioned the ambition part. Isn't there an appointment vacant somewhere? We are certain it is from no lack of gallantry that the New Era has dawned with an indignant flare, and like a particularizing WELLS, warns the North Yorkers to beware of WIDDIFIELD. ERASTUS is slightly irascible, and he has been played with. But he holds a high card, and he expects to win a bower wherein he can luxuriate as a government employee, for which laborious position he is eminently fitted.

The Sun says:—"If Judas Iscariot had lived in St. Catharines and voted the Reform ticket." That Judas might choose some such place as St. Catharines to live in is quite likely. It is also given us on good evidence that he was a Reformer, at least he worked in the Reform ranks for a time; but like some of his Canadian counterparts he was bought over to the other side, died in an elevated position and left his wealth to found a cemetery.

THERE are three candidates in the field for election to the House of Commons in Lincoln: Capt. WYNNE, NORRIS, and Dr. JUKES. It is not likely that WYNNE will win, nor is it probable that NORRIS will go under to the Doctor, unless he takes some of the latter's medicine. We fancy Lincoln cares little about having JUKES in Parliament, notwithstanding the opinion of Prof. GOLDWIN SMITH, that titles could command a premium in that respect in Canada.

THE members of the Toronto Philharmonic Society are having a very civil war. We thought they were "lovers of the harmonic;" but it seems we were mistaken. Why don't they get rightly savage? "Music hath charms to soothe the savage."

Pot-Luck Among the East Coast Indians.

(See Canadian Monthly for October.)

BY ED. GARRY.

SOME readers of a Canadian Monthly may have become acquainted with the savage as he appears, without reserve, on the western coast of the Dominion, when, having sold his baskets, furs, ax-handles, bows and arrows, moccasins, paposes, etc., he has given himself up to enjoyment, but they can form no correct idea of his eccentric conduct generally, on the canoes which are found along the eastern coasts of the Dominion, among the islands of the St. Lawrence.

Last July was a favourable opportunity for observing a peculiar custom among the numerous tribes of "Dead-Heads," "Big Mouths," and "Long Arms," who frequent the steam canoes which ply gracefully upon the river.

The lodges of these Indians are made of boards, so that they have board and lodging together, and for the same price, which is ingeniously made large enough to include both. The lodges are built on each side of a long table running down the saloon—I do not mean running it down in a depreciating manner—but merely stretching the whole length. When the lodges are uncomfortably filled, the rest camp out on sofas, chairs, and under the table. Most of the Indians, especially the "Dead Heads" bring their squaws with them to the Pot-luck, and during the day may be seen walking outside the lodges, or sitting round with their arms, waists and heads somewhat mixed up.

Many of them speak a peculiar language which is neither English, French, Latin nor Sanscrit, but a combination of all, and is mainly composed of "heows," "dew-tells," and words of a similar nasal sound.

The word Pot-luck is derived from potamus, a river, and lokus, a wolf; the former describing the place where it is held, and the latter the fierce character of those who take part in it.

To this Pot-luck gathered about 200 Indians, in a very large steam canoe. Can you imagine it? They came partly from Western Ontario, and are called Canucks, in the language of the down Easters. The others came from American territory, and are called New York, Boston, and Chicago Indians. To the latter belong the tribes of the Big Mouths and Long Arms.

The canoes are large and are fearlessly taken many miles out on the lake. They are painted white and green, and look as if they might be built without drawings or measurements, simply by the eye. From these circumstances arose the expression "All in my eye," and "Do you see any green?" Meaning of course "do you see the canoe coming down the river?"

These savages are inveterate gamblers. The young uns, male and female, gamble on the for'ard deck while the old uns gamble on the euche deck across the table by the lodges. There favourite games are, in their peculiar language Hi-lo-jac and U-our. The excitement sometimes runs high. I have seen several pairs of boots—the feet still in them—put up on the table as side bets when there was nothing else available. This is also part of the Pot-luck, but I met one man who said he would rather have his lure.

I have tried to ascertain from many intelligent contrabands, who have spent a great part of their lives among these East Coast Indians, what is the orthodox religion among them, but few can give me any decided opinion. There seems to be a clear idea on one subject. It is well expressed in the native proverb—"Fu-tmo-ne-yin-thyp-ur-se," which may be freely and elegantly translated "Git, git honestly if you can, but, at any rate, git."

One of the smaller ceremonies of the Pot-luck took place on the first evening after the Canoe left port, out on the open lake. When most of the Indians had retired to their board and lodging, a chief named Sa-lo-ons-tew-ard came out of his lodge, to hold a gift distribution of blankets for those who were left out in the cold. Then began a scene of savage delight. From all sides the young braves rushed up to seize what they could. When a young brave got a blanket he at once began to sing, "Put me in my Little Bed," or "Rock me to Sleep, Mother."

Such is the exuberance of Indian spirits! Then he lay down on a sofa "to sleep perchance to dream." Alas! some were disappointed. They used strong epigrammatic language about it. One said—"it, I got none."

But the great ceremony was held next day at one o'clock, when the canoe was nearing the Long Sault Rapids.

The braves with their squaws and sweet-hearts gathered about the long table with their backs up—I mean up against the lodges, waiting for the signal, to begin, and jostling and crowding to secure places.

In the meantime slaves passing and repassing laid on the table dishes of various kinds of cooked meats and vegetables, and little plates of pickles and "sass."

Then a bell sounded,—when those who were in the inside ring got good places at the table, next to the great Chief. The others rushed and crushed, and jammed themselves in, the best way, or rather, the worst way they could. Of these the "Dead-Heads," secured the best seats. My friend and myself found ourselves between two "Big-mouths," and opposite two of the "Long-Arm" tribe. "Every man for himself," said one of our neighbours, as he speared a fowl with his fork.

"That is a fowl thrust," replied my friend. "It is not a fowl, it is only part of one, for it has lost a wing."

"Then there's a difference of a pinion."

With such sportive conversation was the strife waged.

There were three potatoes left in a dish before me. Hawke-Eye speared one, Big-Indian-eat-a-heap, speared a second, and one of the Long-Arm tribe was making for the third. It was a critical moment. I literally grabbed it. "My gosh," exclaimed my enemy "if he haint tuk it with his bare hand."

In half an hour the Pot-luck was concluded, and many a brave was sent away hungry and disappointed.

This took place, everyday throughout the season, in different canoes.

This thoughtless treatment of our Indians by the Canada Navigation Company has tended to make them more savage than they are by nature.

The company should be made strictly to understand that none of the great tribes except the Dead-Heads will stand this, much longer, for all respectable Indians are quite tired of the yearly ceremony of the Pot-Luck.

A POSTHUMOUS INSULT.—A press despatch from Quebec states that the Fire Alarm in that city is rung for the dead.

Opening of the Session.

THE last session of the second Parliament of Ontario opened on Thursday with the usual pomp and circumstance. The circumstance gave birth to the pomp, and the pomp in its turn brought forth a lot of little grandchild circumstances. The pomp began at Government House, and grew in magnificence, as "street arabs" and admiring loungers joined it on the way; and attained undistinguishable proportions when the Parliament Buildings were reached, and the crowd there congregated was thrown in. This has no reference to the throne in the wrangling hall, where opposing forces met in peace, each party thinking how best the other could be broken in pieces. As yet quiet reigns like the lull of the elements before the rains descend. Grit fingers are grasped by Tory, and vice versa, after the manner that two pugilists shake hands in the prize-ring when their session commences, after which they proceed to shake each other up, just as the Mowattites and Cameronians will begin to do next week. The whole circumstance wasn't a circumstance to what will follow, when opposing orators address themselves to the consideration of the Address. The guard of honor, from the 10th Royals, was not nearly so strong as the guard each party will keep upon the tactics of the other, and the salute from the cannon of the Toronto Artillery will be followed by salutes from the big guns of the House when they belch forth their charges in thundering oratory. We distinguished among the distinguished Assembly Hall, many of the principal men of the city, the principle of loyalty being so strong in them that on principle they made it their principal desire to show respect to the Queen's representative in a representative respect. There were many ladies present to see and be seen, and to witness the Lieutenant-Governor present the speech from the Throne. All being ready, the sub-Agent of the Queen, as in duty bound, proceeded to "stand and deliver," and as the ceremony progressed we had a chance to observe that some of those present did not observe, or stand upon, ceremony, but on their feet.

First Mr. Crawford rejoiced in being able to congratulate them on another year of very general prosperity. We also were glad that he was able to do it, for if he had not been, we suppose some other abler man would have said the very same thing. We thought his remark about prosperity was very general; for we have noticed that prosperity is generally accepted as a matter of course, and silently, while adversity causes a good many adverse murmurings. Why the M.P.P.'s should be especially congratulated we can't make out, unless it be because their presence entitles them to their sessional allowance and mileage. We don't expect anything for our attendance, and we can read, write, talk and understand Provincial concerns as well as—well, Wells, and he's supposed to be the chief among them, the Wells from which the water is drawn to lay the Parliamentary "dusts" that sometimes arise.

Mr. CRAWFORD then referred to the liberal policy of extending railways to unsettled districts, whither we remark most of them have not gone; to the boundaries of the Province and the selection of arbitrators to make a line statement to the House, which will be accepted as the truth; of united action with the other Provinces in appointing immigration agents who will increase the population; of the dividing line between Ontario and Quebec, which can't be exactly determined, though everybody knows the two Provinces are divided enough in their opinions and sentiments, of which division he said as little as possible; of the addition to members of the House, in which he didn't say "gerrymandering," and laws for the prevention of bribery; of the distribution of part of the surplus, remaining silent concerning the other part, which RYKERT says doesn't exist; of securing land titles by a bill, and we know bills will do it if a fellow has enough of them; of consolidating the Statutes, so, we suppose, a coach and four can be no longer driven through them; of the finances, which of course are said to be in a flourishing condition—a big revenue, and little expenditure; of the Estimates, which are framed in a cheap manner from economy, as well as strongly so as to stand hard digs in the Public Service. He concluded by hoping their deliberations may be characterized by wisdom and true patriotism. If wisdom and true patriotism were to just speak out the deliberate tricks of Government and Opposition would be characterized rather roughly. Wisdom has given place to foolish zeal, and patriotism seems to be utterly lost through party animosities founded on personal ambition and motives of golden gain. For this reason, when the blessing of Divine Providence was brought in at all, it was just as well to give it the last place in the Speech.

Drive on your political perambulator, ye dry nurses of our young country; GRIP watches over it and your doings. Give it some free air, and don't appropriate all its pap, and under the Divine blessing it will thrive in spite of you.

CANADA FIRST—A party by the name of SMITH.

At a marriage dinner, the officiating clergyman being called on for a speech, wished the happy couple long life and prosperity, and hoped that all their troubles might be little ones.

POTTER'S field—The Grand Trunk Railway.

MRS. MORRISON'S
GRAND
OPERA HOUSE
ADELAIDE ST. WEST.

Mrs. MORRISON, - - Manageress.
Mr. COULDOCK, - Stage Manager.

ON MONDAY EVENING,

NOVEMBER 16TH,

AND UNTIL FURTHER

NOTICE,

THE

DRAMA

OF

JESSIE BROWN;

OR,

The Siege of Lucknow

New Scenery,

New Dresses,

New Appointments.

JESSIE BROWN,

Mrs. MORRISON.

BUSINESS CARDS.

WINES FROM THE WOOD.

Gentlemen requiring refreshment through the day can obtain a glass of wine, etc., pure as imported, and drawn from the original cask, by calling at 32 Church Street.

Light that eclipses 'the light of other days.

ANDERSON'S "FAMILY SAFETY OIL," brilliant and free from odor. Wholesale and Retail Depot, No. 11 Adelaide Street East, Toronto.

FORBES & DOW, Land, House, and General Agents.—Rents and Accounts collected; house property carefully attended to, and good tenants procured. Loans to build houses advanced without delay. Special attention given to sale of Farm Property. No. 6 Victoria Street. P.O. Box 1984, Toronto, Ont.

USE THE
DIAMOND YEAST CAKE!

BURNING FLUID—NO SMOKE—NO CHIMNEY. Suitable for Hotels and private dwellings. Splendid night light. HUGH MILLER, & CO., 187 King Street.

COR. JARVIS & ADELAIDE STS.,
Toronto, Ont.

JOHN D. NASMITH,

Manufacturer of

BREAD, ROLLS, BUNS, CAKES, &c. f&c

A superior article of Bread delivered daily throughout the city.

TO THE TRADE ONLY

FOR LATEST PATTERNS IN
ALL KINDS OF REAL AND IMITATION
HAIR GOODS,

At Lowest Wholesale Prices.

APPLY TO THE

New Dominion Chignon Factory,
96 YONGE ST, TORONTO,

FRANCIS J. BORMUTH, Proprietor.

JOHN LAIRD,

DEALER IN

Picture Frames, Looking Glasses, &c.

335 Yonge St., Opposite Elm St.,
TORONTO

PICTURES KEPT ON HAND FOR SALE.

THOS. RUSSELL & SON

KEYLESS
WATCHES.

Silver Hunting Keyless	$35
Silver Hunting Lever, with Albert Chain	25
Silver Hunting Lever, Nickle Movement	30
Silver Hunting Lever, Gold Ladies' Hunting-cased Lever	50
do. do. do.	60
Gold Keyless Ladies' Cased Lever	90
Gold Gents' Hunting-cased Lever	125
Gold Gents' Keyless	150
From	$200 to 300

Retail by all
PRACTICAL
WATCHMAKERS
in the Dominion.

WHOLESALE

No. 57 Yonge Street, Toronto.

TAYLOR & WILSON,

MANUFACTURERS OF THE

CHOICEST BRANDS OF CIGARS,

DEALERS IN TOBACCOS, SMOKERS' SUNDRIES, &c.,

Nos. 118 & 120 Yonge Street, - - TORONTO, Ont.
JOHN TAYLOR. SAMUEL WILSON.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE.
 GRIP is published every SATURDAY morning, at the Office, 35 King Street West, Toronto.
 TERMS—$2 per annum; shorter periods at proportionate rates. Single copies, five cents. Advertising terms made known on application to Messrs. JOHN ROGERS & Co., Agents, 10 King St. East, by whom Subscriptions will be received.
 Communications connected with the business department must be addressed to the MANAGER, P. O. Box 958, Toronto.

GRIP.
 EDITED BY
MR. BARNABY RUDGE.
 AGENTS:
 London, E.: I. M. Rogers, 31 Boulevard Street.
 New York: American News No., Nassau Street.

DENTIST,
MR. R. S. TROTTER,
 53 KING STREET EAST,
 TORONTO.

TERRAPIN SALOON
 AND
BILLIARD PARLOR,
 With Restaurant attached,
 1/2 King Street East, Toronto.
 M. REDDINGTON,
 Proprietor.

J. M. WINGFIELD,
 ISSUER OF
MARRIAGE LICENSES
 OFFICE—Trust and Loan Company's Buildings, opposite New Post Office.
 Residence—163 Terauley Street.

SCARTH, COCHRAN & CO.,
 STOCK BROKERS,
Real Estate Agents,
 38 Toronto Street, Toronto.
 W. B. SCARTH, J. L. SCARTH,
 R. COCHRAN.

THE Sanitary Journal,
 EDITED BY
DR. PLAYTER.
 $1.00 Per Annum.
John Rogers & Co.,
 10 King St. East, Toronto.

W. G. GIBSON,
Commercial Printer,
 10 KING STREET EAST,
 TORONTO.

A. S. IRVING
 HAS THE
 Best Assortment of
PARLOR GAMES
 IN THE CITY.

NOTMAN & FRASER,
PHOTOGRAPHERS TO THE QUEEN,
 39, 41, & 43 King Street East, Toronto,
 AND AT MONTREAL AND HALIFAX

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; the gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.
 SINGLE COPY } TORONTO, NOVEMBER 21, 1874. { $2.00
 5 CENTS. } PER ANNUM.

PARLOR SHOE STORE,
 61 King Street East,
 TORONTO, - - ONT.

The Largest and Finest Shoe Store in Canada. Three widths to each size and half size, insuring perfect fit. Prices moderate. Remember the address.
KING & BROWN,
 61 King Street East.

EDITOR'S NOTE.
 ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach the Editor not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to P. O. Box 958, Toronto, Ontario. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

CONTRIBUTIONS, when accepted, will, for the present, be paid for at the rate of Two Dollars per column. All articles for which payment is expected must be accompanied by the name and address of the author.

GRIP.
A. S. IRVING,
 WHOLESALE AGENT,
 35 King St. West, Toronto.
 OFFICE AND DEPOT.

JOHN ROGERS & CO.,
 SUBSCRIPTION
Booksellers & Publishers,
 10 KING ST. EAST,
 TORONTO.
 P. O. Box 2842.

JOHN S. GRASSICK & CO.,
FAMILY GROCERS,
 WINE AND SPIRITS
 MERCHANTS.
 107 YONGE ST., TORONTO.

APPLICATIONS
 FOR

Advertising in these Spaces

TO BE MADE TO

JOHN ROGERS & CO.,

10 KING ST. EAST,
 TORONTO.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabeast Beast is the Ass; the grabeast Bird is the Owl;
The grabeast Fish is the Oyster; the grabeast Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1874.

"A Man's a Man for a' That."

IN the last number of the Canadian Monthly, the writer of "Current Events" proposes the introduction of an aristocracy into Canada. His ideas are highly amusing. Let us fancy a man in Canada subsisting upon the fact that he "belongs to a family." Happy mortal! How must he be envied by the "common herd" who don't belong to a family, or who have not the consummate ignorance to found their own respectability on that of their relations. Your titled dunce is "nothing so low as the working class;" or as we have known one of the tribe (who turned out a forger), remark, he has "never stood behind a counter, never ploughed a field, and never entered a school to gain a livelihood." Oh! ye degraded ones who have done honest and honorable work, blush, if ye have never blushed before, for your sins. Heinous crimes have ye committed in the eyes of your noble superiors, particularly ye who have entered merchantile life, tilled the soil that the earth might bring forth fruit for your own and others, sustenance, or engaged in that "Delightful task,—to rear the tender thought,

And teach the young idea how to shoot."

Go hide your heads, ye merchants, farmers and schoolmasters; array your bodies in sackcloth; prostrate yourselves in dust and ashes; and, if you really happen to be "of a family," mourn for the deprecation you have brought upon your progenitors!

Happily for the rare peace and lofty comfort of the "aristocrat," he does not think as does the rabble, nor reflect as we poor, miserable beings of the lower order. We will stubbornly persist in the idea that all men are descended from Adam, who, if he "never ploughed a field" at least enjoyed in some sort of rude husbandry. But perhaps the "aristocrats" are descendants of the other fellow, who was instrumental in getting our first parents expelled from Eden. This is the only inference on which we who acknowledge Adam and Eve as our ancestors can account for the difference between "our people" and the aristocracy.

While family traditions and pride of descent may do very well to nurse the enterprise of the mind in private, it becomes utterly ridiculous to a Canadian, when obtrusively thrust before the public. The man who boasts or tries to float on "blue," or any other distinctive kind of blood in a democratic country like this is an unmitigated ignoramus, whatever standing he may occupy in society, or whoever may have been his ancestors.

If we are to believe generally accepted reports the writer of "Current Events" does not bear the most aristocratic name in the world; nor is he one of those drones in the human hive—parasites on the social structure—who are so fond of basing their claims to respectability on a lot of mouldering coffins. Therefore we are the more surprised at his sayings, and puzzled to decide whether he intended them as serious or playful, or whether his desire was to make them (as he certainly has done) foggy and extremely ridiculous. If the adage "Laugh and grow" fat, be good in all weathers we hope he will continue propounding his views on matters aristocratic; for should he do so, we promise him that we will read them for the laudable purpose of adding to our rather spare stock of adipose. If he will continue to tickle us thus for a few months, we expect that we, and all our lean friends, to whom we cordially recommend the cordial, will under the simple treatment become really unwieldy by reason of obesity. Aldermen are strictly cautioned against the Professor's aristocracy doctrines; for such docterin's will certainly doctor them apoplexy.

"Grip" as a Reviewer.

"FANNING IN CHURCH," AND ADDISON AND STEELE ON THE USE OF THE FAN. Toronto: Globe Printing Company.

"Fanning in Church" has raised a bigger breeze than the ladies who use the article, or even the writer of the original (?) article in the Globe ever intended. The ladies, dear creatures (dear in their persons and their paraphernalia), have unrestrainedly fanned throughout the hot weather. In church or chariot, in grief or gaily, in shade or sunshine, in dress or en dishabille, they have fluttered their fans and succeeded in fanning their fervid faces, fanning their flaunting fringes and ribbons, and fanning the passions of love, envy or jealousy in many a heart, all unmindful of the powerful pen that launched literary lightning (after the manner of the cove who stole Jove's bolts) against their airy accomplishment. He, poor fellow, has not only been bitterly disappointed at witnessing the small effect of his erudite effort upon the Amazonian phalanx; but he has also been publicly proclaimed a pillager of the productions of previous pen propellers. It has been openly stated that he did first read ADDISON and then STEELE; and in this questionable way did lighten his literary labors. The dark accusation being followed by a still darker, prudently leaving the latter in limbo, he attempts to still further lighten the case and himself, and to that cosmopolitan end he has caused to be published a ponderous volume of eight pages, title page included, containing much new and valuable information to the denizens of the uttermost parts of the earth, all of whom no doubt know and admire this literary luminary. The author of this tremendous tome, mingling in his mighty mind the winged words of himself and his illustrious compeers with the probable effect of its impact upon the buffers upon which its weight was to come, forgot to send a copy to his admiring and emulating brother BARNABY, through the gay and garrulous GRIP; so that we were forced to throw away ten cents in its purchase. We freely forgive the editor for the omission, feeling sure that the oversight was caused by his thinking so much of another, that he had no room, even in his capacious cranium, for ravin' BARNABY and his raven; but we can scarcely bring our old Adam to the forgiving point when we remember ALLEN's look when we bought that precious pamphlet. He plainly pitied us for giving him that time. Now we don't like to be pitied so cheaply; and we're not the only fool in the world.

The wonderful work is before us. For "only ten cents" we have a vast fund of information unfolded to our unfortunate mind. We learn that the author is both ante and post-deluvian, before and after the flood; that he is an esquire; that he is "of the Middle Temple, Barrister-at-Law;" that he is "author of 'France and Germany,' (January, 1871), &c. in Westminster Review." How he survived that flood we can't make out unless, indeed, he is the original old Nick, who is known to have come through in a manner not recorded. If so, it must have required both hands to hold his umbrella, else he certainly would have written an account of his adventures, ridiculed Noah's old flat-boat, &c. Or—we have it!—he lost his library, and therefore he couldn't write. We also learn that he was formerly of The Star, Pall Mall Gazette, &c., &c. Ah! of that shining Star that sheds its radiance despite his departure to another hemisphere, and that galloping Gazette that rushes pell-mell in the path to ascendancy notwithstanding the loss of a dashing (quill) driver. And then the more than maiden modesty that veils distinctions, doubtless dazzling, under " &c., &c.!" While we admire we grieve. Admiration for such unusual diffidence is overset by grief at our own inability to comprehend the hidden glories thus denied us. Here is a great man. Look at his titles! Remember, too, they are all appropriate, particularly the &c. and the &c. Verily his self-abnegation is sublime which, being freely interpreted, signifies "under whitewash."

But we must pause. To take up all the beauties of this work in one number would be too much—too much! We have above simply reviewed the title page; and in justice directly to the RUDGE family, and indirectly to our readers, who would suffer by our further loss of health, we must postpone the opening of the inner glories of this casket of literary gems. We will, therefore, close by remarking that this specimen of book-making does credit to the establishment from whose presses it comes. It is cleanly printed on high-toned paper, and the single tail-piece, on page 8, consists of a significant flourish. In short, the mechanical work upon it makes it easily read by those who have the time, inclination and courage to explore the mines of instruction and amusement contained in its innocent pages. Recuperation being required, with a sigh we say, Au Revoir!

Among the Filharmonix.

The love of music runs in our family, and if I may believe its traditions one of my ancestors emigrated from Normandy with the Conqueror in the capacity of piano forte tuner to His Majesty—by "Special Appointment" of course. In those early days musical instruments were comparatively rare; but there is, I believe, a legend concerning that same ancient relative whose performances upon the cow-horn "astonished ye Kyng and hys Courte." I can well believe it. Claiming descent, therefore, from so prominent an individual, it is no wonder that such a distant connexion should inherit a love of musical art. I have been told, by those who profess to know that a correct taste and ear are the first requisites upon which to base a cultivated artist.

If this be true I have them to a large extent. The former is only exceeded by my appetite, and the latter is sufficiently large to take in all the dischords of our Society.

Our whole family form a complete octave. My father was a Major and my mother a minor; my eldest brother is the dominant, and I am the minor third, there being a sister between us. Among so eminently a musical family instruction in singing was superfluous, so I joined the Filharmonix. I was assured that it was only necessary to pay two dollars to secure myself fame and to constitute myself an active member.

In connection with the annual fee a ticket was supposed to be given to each member, so that his or her friends could come to hear us sing. I love good music, though I don't know much about it. But it's nice to have one's friends come to hear you, nevertheless—it does them good, don't hurt you, and makes one sing the louder, except where there is a piano, and that at times you can't hear for the noise.

I was told that the Conductor would try my voice and I learned two songs: David Edward's "National Anthem," and "Put me in my little bed,"—in case of emergency. I was much disappointed that my vocal powers were not tested, otherwise I might have been saved two dollars, because I don't think I should have been much of a success. Having paid the money I was told to consider myself an active member. My activity was surprising. I never was so flush of notes before. So I took my place with the rest of the chorus, and sang what they sang, and stopped when they stopped. From my childhood I always minded my stops. But at times the stops were so sudden that I jerked them out regardless of consequences.

"Mind your pause," the Conductor shouted. I looked at my hands, but they "were clean." I told him not to be so personal. An apology was tendered and accepted. That Conductor's head is always full of crochets.

And then the "runs." When we got started it was a caution. The way we'd do those "runs" was really grand.

"Mind your time," shouted the Conductor.

"This is two-forty time, isn't it?" I retorted. "I'll bet you I'll sing against time with any man in the house."

"Oh, you're too sharp as well as too forte," he jeered.

"Am I? Well, you're the first man who has ever said so." We made friends on the spot. The piece was tried once more and he became calmer.

Lots of friends would come to hear the rehearsals. One evening we all got started on a chorus with a "run" in it, and to show our proficiency we had to pull up short, or in other words back up on a pause. We backed up promptly, just in time to hear a voice among the visitors exclaim "That's too thin." Well, he isn't much of a judge I thought.

Our Society was formed for the promotion of harmony. But sometimes things don't go as nicely as they ought. Everybody wanted to sing a solo. A rumor got afloat that the Executive wanted to employ foreign talent. They (the foreigners) believed in Reciprocity. We didn't. They were to accept eighteen hundred Canadian dollars in exchange for instrumentative and vocal ability. We had ample local talent of our own. The Society was organized for the cultivation of local talent. Then why this waste of money? I offered to bring the full brass and string band of the Tenth Royals for one-third the amount. But my offer was refused with scorn. I offered to sing all the solos for nothing. That overture was also rejected with contempt. But when the committee went so far as to request us to give up our tickets, my soul was in arms. We had quite an interesting time, accompanied with much freedom of tone and expression.

One excited individual wrote a requisition in his best hand, calling for a Special Meeting. We met—"twas in a crowd." A number of members had promised their tickets to their friends to come and hear them sing. I had sold mine for fifty cents. One of the Committee rose and explained the necessity of parting with our privilege, as the hall engaged was too small to admit everybody. Somebody said the hall was not so small as the Committee. Several members considered themselves grievously because they were referred to as "dead-heads." One of them has owed me ten dollars for the past twelve months. Another injured individual objected to being used as "bait"—even on a fishing excursion. An enraged member said it was a breach of the Constitution to give up anything. Two others rose to compromise the matter. Another showed that past experience demonstrated the fact that any performance we gave would result in a more favourable surplus than the Ontario Legislature can boast of. He proved satisfactorily that our concert, viewed financially, would be a better operation than any real estate investment. The Conductor grew excited and said he would not hold himself responsible if anybody got hurt. The result was a compromise that if the Executive saw fit they would give us a ticket upon a future occasion. The compromise was accepted and nobody was the gainer—except the Committee. That Committee is one of the best types of a mild despotism I ever heard of. I admired their firmness, but condemned their mode of operation.

Harmony was once more restored. We started singing again, and the way we put that chorus through nearly raised the roof off the house. Everybody shook hands with everybody else, and some of the former malcontents paid three dollars extra, so that they might bring their friends in a legal way and spite the Committee. I am to sing a solo at some future date—it is only a question of time.

Everybody now seems happy, and no further trouble is anticipated until the next annual meeting when it will be necessary to have another shindy in order to vary the monotony.

PAUL FORD.

Grip's Essence of Parliament.

THURSDAY.

The first Bill introduced was SCOTT, of Peterboro'.

The "Christian Premier," with characteristic foresight, brought in a bill to regulate official swearing. It (the bill) was read a first time; but the swearing was dispensed with till a war of passions could insure a "blue streak."

Mr. MOWAT moved.

He wanted the consideration of the address postponed till next day, it had to be treated with so much consideration.

Mr. CAMERON almost fancied. That settled the question; the consideration was considered postponed, and the House was again "fancy free."

Mr. MOWAT moved again.

It was only the public printing that started him.

Mr. MOWAT moved again.

He wanted Select Standing Committees; and didn't appear to consider that he couldn't get a select lot out of the present House.

Mr. CAMERON actually ventured to think. By all accounts, he desired the Public Accounts Committee to sit during the recess. They would thus be a more private Accounts Committee.

Mr. MOWAT said the Committee would get through more work than formerly. This they might easily do, and not strain themselves either.

Mr. MOWAT MOVED AGAIN.

He resolved on bribery and corruption.

Mr. CAMERON declared the joke stale, and referred to an instance in which it was got off before.

Mr. MOWAT forgot the Family Compact, and only retrospected twenty years, expressing sorrow that the Grits had learned anything from the Tories.

The Librarian reported, but the House wouldn't hear it, querulously thinking WATSON a name.

MR. MOWAT MOVED AGAIN, and all the members, following his infectious example, moved out.

FRIDAY.

After routine the House proceeded to root into the Address wherever they could find grounds for a reply. Mr. SINCLAIR made a moving speech, and Mr. STRIKER struck deep into the matter.

Mr. RYKERT delivered some favourite readings from his celebrated Scrap Book, in his usual soothing manner.

Mr. MOWAT, having sharpened up his scissors, had a mow at the daily papers, RYKERT frequently interjecting, "Hay?"

Mr. LAUDER charged the Premier, but that "gun" didn't go off again that day.

Mr. FRASER put in a spoke for the weal of the ministry.

Mr. BOULTBEE took a hand in and tried to bluff; but, as he had nothing to do with the shuffling, his little game didn't work.

Mr. PRINCE went it blind. Not having a microscope, he couldn't see any opposition.

The resolutions were referred to a Committee, which being all ready loaded and primed, immediately reported a draft address, which was adopted with a motion that it be engrossed so that it might engross the attention of His Honor for a minute at least.

Mr. RYKERT moved for a committee to consider the McKELLAR charges, in hopes that they will thus be committed to oblivion.

MONDAY.

Mr. CROOKS moved for a change of procedure. "Charity begins at home."

The Estimates were brought down; i. e., the estimates of receipts and expenditures, not the estimates of the House as a body, which are impalpable.

A committee was appointed to strike standing committees. STRIKER is not on it, but we hope the eleven named will be able to knock down the standing committees when necessary.

A bill was introduced to give a better chance to municipalities to squander their share of SANDFIELD's hoard; another relative to apprentices and minors, who often have no other relative; and a third, respecting titles to real estate, which should be respected when good.

TUESDAY.

The striking of committees, as might be expected, led to divisions, and the first fight of the session occurred. The desire of the Opposition to weaken the Ministerial strength in a vital part, the Committee on Public Accounts, accounts for the row. During the contest the committees were struck, but, as usual, there was nobody hurt.

Croaks and Pecks.

ANOTHER Polar Expedition is projected. They'll have an ice time. Mrs. DIXONARY has expressed her disapproval of the crimination of Lady DILKE.

THE Grits think by gerrymandering they can make a "white" constituency out of Grey.

THE latest novelty in the way of political argument is the Wallaceburg Advocate's apostrophe to STEPHEN WHITE, the Reform nominee for Kent:

"STEPHEN! STEPHEN!
Your legs ain't even—
You can't run well,"

MRS. MORRISON'S
GRAND
OPERA HOUSE
ADELAIDE ST. WEST.

Mrs. MORRISON, - - Manageress.
Mr. COULDOK, - Stage Manager.

SATURDAY MATINEE,
JESSIE BROWN.

Saturday Evening November 21,
JESSIE BROWN,
And the laughable Drama of
MILKY WHITE,

TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY,
Nov. 24th, 25th & 26th,
THE BEAUTIFUL ENGLISH ACTRESS

MISS NEILSON,

Will appear, supported by the favorite young actor,

MR. BARNES

And the full strength of the Company.

Tuesday, November 24th,
ROMEO AND JULIET.

JULIET - - - - - MISS NEILSON.
ROMEO - - - - - MR. BARNES.

WEDNESDAY,
AS YOU LIKE IT.

ROSALIND - - - - - MISS NEILSON.
ORLANDO - - - - - MR. BARNES.

THURSDAY,
MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING.

BEATRICE - - - - - MISS NEILSON.
BENEDICK - - - - - MR. BARNES.

BUSINESS CARDS.

WINES FROM THE WOOD.

Gentlemen requiring refreshment through the day can obtain a class of wine, etc., pure as imported, and drawn from the original cask, by calling at 22 Church St. East.

Light that eclipses 'the light of other days.

ANDERSON'S "FAMILY SAFETY OIL," brilliant and free from odor. Wholesale and Retail Depot, No. 11 Adelaide Street East, Toronto.

FORBES & DOW, Land, House, and General Agents.—Rents and Accounts collected; House property carefully attended to, and good tenants procured. Loans to build houses advanced without delay. Special attention given to sale of Farm Property. No. 6 Victoria Street. P.O. Box 1984, Toronto, Ont.

USE THE
DIAMOND YEAST CAKE!

BURNING FLUID—NO SMOKE—NO CHIMNEY. Suitable for Hotels and private dwellings. Splendid night light. HUGH MILLER & CO., 167 King Street.

COR. JARVIS & ADELAIDE STS.,
Toronto, Ont.

JOHN D. NASMITH,
Manufacturer of

BREAD, ROLLS, BUNS, CAKES, &c., &c

A superior article of Bread delivered daily throughout the city.

TO THE TRADE ONLY

FOR LATEST PATTERNS IN
ALL KINDS OF REAL AND IMITATION
HAIR GOODS,
At Lowest Wholesale Prices.

APPLY TO THE

New Dominion Chignon Factory,
96 YONGE ST, TORONTO,
FRANCIS J. BORMUTH, Proprietor.

JOHN LAIRD,

DEALER IN

Picture Frames, Looking Glasses, &c.

235 Yonge St., Opposite Elm St.,
TORONTO

PICTURES KEPT ON HAND FOR SALE.

THOS. RUSSELL & SON

WHOLESALE

No. 57 Yonge Street, Toronto.

TAYLOR & WILSON,

MANUFACTURERS OF THE

CHOICEST BRANDS OF CIGARS,

DEALERS IN TOBACCOS, SMOKERS' SUNDRIES, &c.,

Nos. 118 & 120 Yonge Street, - - TORONTO, Ont.
JOHN TAYLOR. SAMUEL WILSON.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE.

is published every SATURDAY morning, at the Office, 35 King Street West, Toronto.

Terms—$2 per annum; shorter periods at proportionate rates. Single copies, five cents. Advertising terms made known on application to Messrs. JOHN ROGERS & Co., Agents, 10 King St. East, whom Subscriptions will be received.

Communications connected with the business department must be addressed to the MANAGER, P. O. Box 958, Toronto.

GRIP.

EDITED BY
R. BARNABY RUDGE.

AGENTS:
 London, E.: I. M. Rogers, 31 Bow-
 verie Street.
 New York: American News No.,
 Nassau Street.

DENTIST,

R. R. S. TROTTER,

3 KING STREET EAST,
 TORONTO.

A. FOX,
 YORKVILLE

FOOT & SHOE MART.

Gents', Ladies' & Misses Shoes
 Of every description.
 Special attention given to measurement.

J. LITTLETON.

Groceries & Provisions,

A SELECT STOCK OF
 CANNED FRUITS, FISH & OYSTERS
 Always on hand.

Yonge St., Yorkville.

SCARTH, COCHRAN & CO.,

STOCK BROKERS,

Real Estate Agents,

38 Toronto Street, Toronto.

B. SCARTH,* J. L. SCARTH,
R. COCHRAN.

THE Sanitary Journal,

EDITED BY
DR. PLAYTER.
 $1.00 Per Annum.

John Rogers & Co.,
 10 King St. East, Toronto.

W. G. GIBSON,

Commercial Printer,

10 KING STREET EAST,
 TORONTO.

A. S. IRVING

HAS THE

Best Assortment of

PARLOR GAMES

IN THE CITY.

NOTMAN & FRASER,
PHOTOGRAPHERS TO THE QUEEN,
 39, 41, & 43 King Street East, Toronto,
 AND AT MONTREAL AND HALIFAX

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; the gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Foo
 SINGLE COPY } TORONTO, DECEMBER 5, 1874. { $2.00
 5 CENTS. } PER ANNUM.

KNABE.
GRAND! SQUARE! UPRIGHT!
The Great Piano of the South & West.

As Gold among Coins, so is the KNABE among Pianos. The FAVORITE in the homes of the titled and wealthy of America and Europe.

LESLIE, SKIRROW & SMITH,
 93 Yonge Street, General Agents for Ontario.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach the Editor not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to P. O. Box 958, Toronto, Ontario. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

CONTRIBUTIONS, when accepted, will, for the present, be paid for at the rate of Two DOLLARS per column. All articles for which payment is expected must be accompanied by the name and address of the author.

GRIP.

A. S. IRVING,

WHOLESALE AGENT, :

35 King St. West, Toronto.

OFFICE AND DEPOT.

JOHN ROGERS & CO.,

SUBSCRIPTION

Booksellers & Publishers,

10 KING ST. EAST,
 TORONTO.

P. O. Box 2642.

JOHN S. GRASSICK & CO.,

FAMILY GROCERS,

WINE AND SPIRITS

MERCHANTS.

167 YONGE ST., TORONTO.

JAS. B. BOUSTEAD,

OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE,

Issuer of Marriage Licenses.

AGENT

Canada Agricultural Insurance
 Company.

BOUSTEAD & SCADDING,

AGENTS

NORTHERN FIRE ASSURANCE CO.,

Real Estate and Commission
 Merchants.

OFFICE,

No. 14 Adelaide Street East,
 TORONTO, ONT.

APPLICATIONS

FOR

Advertising in these Spaces

TO BE MADE TO

JOHN ROGERS & CO.,

10 KING ST. EAST,
 TORONTO.

W. P. WILLIAMS,

134 QUEEN ST. EAST, TORONTO,
 [Between George & Sherbourne.]

DEALER IN

PURE CANNED FRUIT
 And Choice Fruits.

A select supply of Canned Fruit,
 Fish, &c., always on hand.

AMERICAN HOUSE,

BERLIN.

W. L. Bowman, Manager.

This House has been thoroughly renovated, and is now one of the best Commercial Houses west of
 Toronto.

Conducted on Temperance principles.

G R I P.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabeſt Beaſt is the Aſs ; the grabeſt Bird is the Owl ;
The grabeſt Fiſh is the Oyſter ; the grabeſt Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1874.

Grip's Essence of Parliament.

THURSDAY.

The petitions presented were all together perfect, being seven in number.

A number of reports were heard ; but they didn't appear to startle anybody.

A lot of members brought in bills. GRAHAM had a tax-bill. We understand that members often make a good thing in getting bills passed. In such cases the Act is that of some private party ; but the commission thereof is generally due to Honourable gentlemen. This day but one bill was passed, for certain real property actions and suits. It was MOWAT's bill, therefore it may be taken for granted that it amounted to a good deal.

A number of members severally asked for a return of names and moneys, not their own. Each has had his good name taken from him by the others, and its not worth asking for again ; but any of them will take all the money they can get,—“for professional services.” They are all professional innocents, who “can't be bought”—without money.

The House committed itself to a change in the mode of securing immigrants, the chief desire being to present the claims of Canada First.

Sundry items of supply were concurred in, the House doing what it seldom does, allowing others to lie before it. No one need argue after this that figures can't lie.

The bill to increase the ways and means by which municipalities can spend their share of the surplus was read a second time. RYKERT expressing himself pleased, the House thought it a good time to adjourn.

FRIDAY.

CAMERON wanted to raise a question of privilege, but was denied the privilege. LAUDER would have discussed the point, but to his great disgust was knocked out of time by the chair. Then he just cussed. A brief debate took place on a motion to ratify an Order-in-Council with reference to the Prince Edward County Railway Company. Business out of session is done by Order-in-Council ; during the session by disorder in council. CAMERON wanted it committed for consideration. He'd commit almost any act for a consideration. LAUDER wanted the members to obtain all necessary information. He might just as well propose to put a head on each of them. The House divided : 45 members put down 14, and carry the motion.

The Opposition being satisfied with their ill-success in division, two other Orders-in-Council were quietly ratified in addition.

The House re-echoed the reports of the Committee on the Immigration resolutions.

On motion for concurrence in further items of Supply a debate took place on the item for the Crown Lands Department, RYKERT moving an amendment expressing regret that the expenditure for contingencies exceeds the appropriation. PARDEE offered explanations, but LAUDER could not accept the arguments, being constitutionally opposed to accepting anything in that shape. GOW moved an amendment to the amendment expressing justification for increased expenditure. STEPHEN RICHARDS claimed credit for the reductions made when he was Commissioner—reductio ad absurdum. PAXTON assured the Unready that he was too slow for a Crown Lands Commissioner in this age of progress, and STEPHEN, not being ready with a reply, become simply querulous. The Opposition failed to give the Government a Rowland for their OLIVER, though it wouldn't take much of a ROWLAND to pass him through the Custom House, neither would the duties be heavy, even with a retaliatory tariff. Some petty passes were made anent re-valuation, a war of small arms which was resumed after recess, 35 members ayed the amendment to the amendment, while the eight old war-horses of the Opposition nayed. The original motion was then carried through the House triumphantly.

On the item for gratuities to officers whose services have been dispensed with, LAUDER moved an amendment against gratuities to persons who have resigned or been dismissed the public service. SINCLAIR moved an amendment to the amendment affirming the propriety in certain cases of reasonable gratuities to retiring officials, who don't generally consider them gratuitous insults. A question of order was drowned out by a gush from the mouth of the little WELLS. The amendment to the amendment was carried, the minority representation being CAMERON, MCCOLL and RYKERT. Three don't look well opposite three dozen. MEREDITH moved an amendment regretting the vote to the Inspector of Division Courts, and declaring the office useless—eight other members thought likewise, and voted with him, but thirty-four went for the grant, many of them thinking nothing about it. The original motion was then carried, and members carried themselves off home.

MONDAY.

RYKERT evinced a desire to remove a HILL, who is a Police Magistrate at Clifton. It does not please the scrap book man that Clifton is not wicked enough to pay the magistrate's salary in Police Court fines. He declares that this HILL, like other mountains in labor, has brought forth a mere mouse.

The House concurred in a number of items of supply ; but it remains to be seen whether the country will concur in the government expenditure on the one hand and the opposition waste of time on the other. There were a number of amendments, which we hope will lead to an amendment of the House by the return of a lot of better men next election. The votes led to a little arithmetical practice, the opposition always appearing as an exceedingly vulgar fraction. The ministerial side may be considered under the Rule of Three, and these three are MOWAT, FRASER and CROOKS, and they in turn will be found to act as exponents of ruling figures in the political problem. These are our estimates, in which we move concurrence.

TUESDAY.

FRASER stated that he wasn't the other FRASER.

The remaining items in the Report of the Committee on Supply were concurred in.

The Bill relating to Fire Insurance Companies was read a second time, a thing insurers had better do with their policies. A number of other bills passed a second reading.

The Bill respecting Water Privileges was allowed to stand. That's a privilege any Bill is entitled to. CAMERON did not see the use of additional legislation. We don't either ; but then we know nothing about Water Privileges. We wonder had the question been one of Whiskey Privileges, would the House allow it to stand.

The debate on the Agricultural College showed that the Opposition has been learning something from the dismissed Professor, and that the Model Farm has grown a good crop of scandals, if nothing else. CAMERON moved for a committee of inquiry, and opened the rank oyster. MCKELLAR took the creature out of the shell and showed its resemblance to the brain of McCANDLESS. MOWAT moved an amendment in which the proposed committee was changed so as to secure a majority of Government supporters. LAUDER wanted the House to leave politics out of the matter altogether. He is in the House. FRASER and others having said their say the House divided and the amendment was carried by a vote of 31 to 21. The House adjourned at 2.20 a.m., and it is supposed all the members went to bed, and to sleep.

WEDNESDAY.

There was more wit displayed at this sitting than any since the opening. It was very short, and we know “brevity is the soul of wit.”

MCREA moved for the correspondence relative to the allotment of pine lots to WILLIAM QUICKLEY. He will probably find, and quickly too, that it will have no impression on the occupants of the Treasury Benches. We would advise the mover to spare himself the trouble of listening to such counsels as induced him to make the inquiry. “Hear it not, Duncan, 'tis the knell that summons thee to—shall we say it,—well, to be the victim of another sell.

But little business was done during the sitting. In this it resembled all preceeding ones. However there was less talk, and consequently less folly displayed. Probably owing to the protracted sitting of the previous night, the talkative members were too sleepy to inflict themselves upon the nodding figures around them, and the readers of Thursday's dailies were in consequence given a lighter emetic than usual.

How Much ?

The ladies of New York, after a most alarming discussion, have arrived at the conclusion that men possessed of an income of $1,000 and over, who do not take to themselves a wife, are nothing more or less than brutes ; selfish animals, who having had the bad taste to declare for celibacy versus marriage, ought never again to be blessed with the smiles of a pretty girl. This is a rather hard sentence, and the New York Times has much to answer for in letting loose the feminine tongue upon the peaceful community of bachelors, who prefer the unfettered principles advocated by the charming VICTORIA, to be loved out of house and home, ruined by milliner's bills, and ultimately killed with kindness.

The question of marriage or celibacy is beginning to assume most ominous proportions ; and we cannot but entertain the gravest fears for the safety of the lords of creation. Our mind's eye carries us onward to a period in the future when erring mankind will be led like lambs to the slaughter ; when languishing belles of New York will

HONEST JOHN, THE THIMBLE-RIGGER.

HONEST J.—“Where’s the other thousand, Sonnie?” A.—“That’s for me to know and you to find out, you see!”

insist on their right to be married, and will accept no shallow excuses of impecuniosity from the victims they select.

What sum a man can safely live on in the blessed state so as to avoid those "little difficulties" which do not always terminate in ecstasies of bliss in the vicinity of the curtains, and which are generally brought about by the failure of certain kissings and squeezings and other connubial endearments to produce the desired effect—money, seems to be the question at issue.

We should like to know what Canadian ladies have to say on the subject, and whether they can contribute towards the solution of this momentous question. Some of our consumptive dailies might with advantage follow the example of the New York Times, and make capital out of this feminine excitement.

A Frightful Example.

Some fellow has exposed his malady by having his ravings published in the Bothwell Advance, thusly:

"Talk of devils being confined to hell, or confined to invisibility! We have them by shoals in the crowded towns and cities of the world. Talk of raising the devil! What need for that when they are constantly walking to and fro in our streets, seeking whom they may devour. There they are; do you not see them; you do not recognize them simply because they have not the hoof or the tail!"

That chap had 'em badly. We would recommend hydro-chloral, or prompt retirement to an inebriate asylum. Poor fellow! His case is an argument for a Prohibitory Liquor Law before which all our temperance lectures pale into utter insignificance.

Pride of Country.

A prominent feature of Scottish character is pride of country. An amusing instance came under our notice the other day. A Scotchman remarking on the difficulty of producing a good map of Canada owing to the conformation, or rather want of conformation, of the country, said, "It's a hard thing to map Canada, because it's so long and narrow. It's easy enough to make a map of England, or even Scotland, large as it is; but Canada—"

Being a Canadian, we laughed aloud and spoiled a probable depreciation of our wee bit hame in comparison with the immense "Land o' Cakes."

'Grip' as a Reviewer.

THE STORY OF SAMSON. Toronto: Royal Opera House.

There are four pages in this story; and that's four too many. It is anonymous. The writer after setting to work made a mixture of Yankee slang with sacred story, and, anon, a muss.

We would advise people to read the history of Samson in their Bibles. It will thus have the charm of novelty to many.

Croaks and Pecks.

A LECTURE was recently delivered in St. Marys, the subject being a king, viz:—"William the Third." The lecturer was a clergyman, and the reader is enabled to judge for himself of the manner in which the subject was received, as the newspaper reports that "the rev. gentleman was warmly congratulated on the termination of his lecture."

JOHN O'DONOHUE confessed on Thursday of last week, and was absolved from the sin of being an M. P.

The investigation of the charges against Mr. Rykert was delayed at the very start because one son of a GUNN who had been summoned was not present.

SUFFERN, N.Y., is sufferin' from the effects of the recent storm.

We hope that those directly interested will be able to see well how the SEWELL scheme for the winter navigation of the Lower St. Lawrence can be carried out.

AN ARTICLE in a late number of the Montreal Star is appropriately entitled "More Water." Exactly! In comparison with other Star articles, "more water"—less milk.

THE Leader is nothing if not sanguinary. The old lady has blood in her eye, and shouts, "While the remains of Thomas Scott are decaying in Red River those who dare to extend mercy to his brutal murder must be wiped out of existence." 'Sdeath, but she's a violent old hag, who would show no mercy to the merciful. Fie, Deacon James!

"SAMSON," the play, has proved very strong, in the nostrils of the people of Toronto.

THE Duke of Edinburgh's baby is named Albert Alexander Alfred Ernest William. Should he survive the baptismal infliction an Irish friend suggests that the boy can write part of his name with great ease. He will then get in Earnest and finally sign himself, William. Certainly the Duke did go it pretty strong when he "named his little Bill." The question, "How high is that?" at once suggests itself; and the answer as readily comes:—The height of nonsense.

LAKE ERIE caught the infection, and but recently burglariously burst the locks of the Welland Canal. Well, well, and can all virtue be gone? Water calamity!

THE other day we came across a paper published somewhere in Toronto, entitled Our Cheerful Friend, and on examination we found it about as cheerful as an undertaker, or an impecunious ratepayer when the tax-collector has an execution in the house. It would be a good thing to wear in one's pocket to a funeral.

Servant-gal-dom has gained such an ascendancy that it bravely dictates terms to the trembling housekeepers, who are generally forced to capitulate. We notice that some of the latter in advertising for an ABAGIL try to compromise the case by stating that "a man is kept." We are afraid it won't do, though it is cleverly contrived; for on making application the first thing asked for will be a sight of that man, and unless he is a very ADONIS, good-bye to the chances of getting a servant in that house.

BENGOUGH is drawing good houses and pictures wherever he goes; and he goes "but" and goes "ben;" does Bengough.

We are informed that it was a Napanee girl who presented her young man with a Bible on the fly-leaf of which she had written the following:—"From JENNIE to ARTHUR.—Those that seek me early shall find me." If the youth didn't take the hint he don't deserve to have her, or else he don't want her, and had better stop fooling round there.

TRUE to its annual recurrence, JOSH BILLINGS' literary tumor had come to a head; he has spread some of the matter on paper and called it "JOSH BILLINGS Farmers' Almanax for 1875." As it is now some time since it was issued, one would naturally infer that it was as much ahead of the times as this criticism appears to be behind, but a glance over its contents, comprising stale jokes and philosophic rubbish rehearsed, &c., will not only undeceive, but lead to the conclusion that J. B. is in a condition bordering upon idiocy and confirmed dotage. On one page he exclaims, "Hear the papers talk!" and then follows, not what the papers really did say, but what JOSH BILLINGS said. For instance, he makes the "Coonhollow Democrat" say, "We would rather be the author of JOSH BILLINGS' Farmers' Almanax for 1875, than be elected Captain of a Militia Company." Whereas, what that paper really did say was, "We would rather the finger of scorn pointed to us as the originators of the 'Presidents Message,' than as the author of JOSH BILLINGS' Almanax for any year." The only testimonial he correctly inserts is one from the "New Orleans Budget," which truthfully observes, speaking of the Almanax, "No man will buy our copy; No man will borrow it, and he who steals it, will finally die." The fact, that any man stealing such a compound of rubbish, will finally die, is not more certain than is the equal fact, that he would righteously deserve to.

A YOUNG theological student defined "effectual calling" as "the offer of a liberal stipend."

A case is now furnished to the Opposition. It is Mr. H. CASE, appointed postmaster at Hamilton.

As a proof that ecclesiastical domination prevails in the Province of Quebec, we have only to mention the fact that a CHURCH furnishes the law to the Government.

THE Conservatives of Muskoka have "resolved" to run JOHN TEVIOTDALE "if his health will permit him to stand." They should

In the French Assembly the Right is said to have a majority "over the Left."

A FRENCHMAN who had taken a Cockney friend to a favorite opera, at the conclusion asked him if he were not satisfied. "Aw! oui," was the reply. The Gaul fancying the Saxon complained of ennui, was naturally disgusted.

THE Berlin Telegraph declares that "the country is full of rascals, the writer not even taking the precaution to reserve room for one honest man; and he is in the country."

RYKERK and McKELLAR seem to be nowise troubled about the result of the investigation on which depends the reputation of one or both. Probably they feel as did the pauper, who did not fear thieves because he had nothing of which to be robbed.

CLUBS are trumps just now with newspaper men.

THE Leader says the Opposition in the Ontario Legislature "need a whip"—GRIP proposes a cat-o-nine-tails, in the hand of Mrs. ARCHIE McKELLAR.

THE other day we timidly asked an editor of the Globe who would be elected for East Toronto. His answer displayed ignorance of the matter, for he only growled, "Oh! dunno who!"

remember that a man may be able to stand, and yet be unfit to run.

MRS. MORRISON'S
GRAND
OPERA HOUSE
ADELAIDE ST. WEST.

Mrs. MORRISON, - - Manageress.
Mr. COULDOCK, - Stage Manager.

ENGAGEMENT OF THE

Beautiful and Accomplished Actress and Vocalist, Miss

ANNIE FIRMIN,

SUPPORTED BY

Mr. John Jack,

WHO WILL APPEAR

ON MONDAY & TUESDAY EVENINGS,

December 7th & 8th,

IN THE GREAT LEDGER DRAMA, ENTITLED

WIFE OF TWO;

OR,

Lady Thornhurst's Daughter.

IGNATI - - - } With the Ballads of Mrs. CAPT. HOLME - } "Down by the River LADY THORNHURST } side," and "Oh! How delightful,"

MISS ANNIE FIRMIN.

LORD THORNHURST - - Mr. JOHN JACK.

BUSINESS CARDS.

WINES FROM THE WOOD.

Gentlemen requiring refreshment through the day can obtain a glass of wine, etc., pure as imported, and drawn from the original cask, by calling at 32 Church Street.

Light that eclipses 'the light of other days.

ANDERSON'S "FAMILY SAFETY OIL," brilliant and free from odor. Wholesale and Retail Depot, No. 11 Adelaide Street East, Toronto.

FORBES & DOW, Land, House, and General Agents.—Rents and Accounts collected; house property carefully attended to, and good tenants procured. Loans to build houses advanced without delay. Special attention given to sale of Farm Property. No. 6 Victoria Street. P.O. Box 1984, Toronto, Ont.

USE THE
DIAMOND YEAST CAKE!

BURNING FLUID—NO SMOKE—NO CHIMNEY. Suitable for Hotels and private dwellings. Splendid night light. HUGH MILLER, & CO., 167 King Street.

COR. JARVIS & ADELAIDE STS.,
Toronto, Ont.

JOHN D. NASMITH,

Manufacturer of

BREAD, ROLLS, BUNS, CAKES, &c., &c

A superior article of Bread delivered daily throughout the city.

TO THE TRADE ONLY

FOR LATEST PATTERNS IN
ALL KINDS OF REAL AND IMITATION
HAIR GOODS,

At Lowest Wholesale Prices.

APPLY TO THE

*New Dominion Chignon Factory,
96 YONGE ST, TORONTO,*

FRANCIS J. BORMUTH, Proprietor.

JOHN LAIRD,

DEALER IN

Picture Frames, Looking Glasses, &c.

335 Yonge St., Opposite Elm St.,
TORONTO

PICTURES KEPT ON HAND FOR SALE.

THOS. RUSSELL & SON

KEYLESS
WATCHES.

Silver Hunting Key-
less $35
Silver Hunting Lever,
with Albert Chain..... 25
Silver Hunting Lever,
Nickle Movement..... 30
Silver Hunting Lever... 50
Gold Ladies' Hunting-
cased Lever 50
do. do. do. 60
Gold Keyless Ladies'
Cased Lever..... 90
Gold Gents' Hunting-
cased Lever 125
Gold Gents' Keyless do.
from $200 to 300

Retail by all
PRACTICAL

WATCHMAKERS
in the Dominion.

WHOLESALE

No. 57 Yonge Street, Toronto.

PARLOR SHOE STORE,

61 King Street East,
TORONTO, - - ONT.

The Largest and Finest Shoe Store in Canada. Three widths to each size and half size, insuring perfect fit. Prices moderate. Remember the address.

KING & BROWN,
61 King Street East.

Marriage Licenses and CERTIFICATES under the provisions of the new Marriage Act, July 1, 1874.

GEO. THOMAS, Issuer. Office—40 Church St., West Side, three doors south of King Street, TORONTO.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE.

is published every SATURDAY morning, at the Office, 35 King Street West, Toronto.

TERMS—$2 per annum; shorter periods at proportionate rates. Single copies, five cents. Advertising terms made known on application to Messrs. J. H. ROGERS & Co., Agents, 10 King St. East, whom Subscriptions will be served.

Communications connected with business department must be addressed to the MANAGER, P. O. 958, Toronto.

GRIP.

EDITED BY
BARNABY RUDGE.

AGENTS:
don, E.: I. M. Rogers, 31 Bouverie Street.
York: American News No., Nassau Street.

DENTIST,

R. R. S. TROTTER,

KING STREET EAST,
TORONTO.

A. FOX,
YORKVILLE

OT & SHOE MART.

ts', Ladies' & Misses Shoes
of every description.

Special attention given to measurement.

J. LITTLETON,

groceries & Provisions,

A SELECT STOCK OF
DRIED FRUITS, FISH & OYSTERS

Always on hand.
Yonge St., Yorkville.

SCARTH, COCHRAN & CO.,

STOCK BROKERS,

Real Estate Agents,

8 Toronto Street, Toronto.

R. SCARTH, J. L. SCARTH,
R. COCHRAN.

THE Sanitary Journal,

EDITED BY
DR. P. PLAYER.
$1.00 Per Annum.

John Rogers & Co.,
10 King St. East, Toronto.

W. G. GIBSON,

Commercial Printer,

10 KING STREET EAST,
TORONTO.

A. S. IRVING

HAS THE

Best Assortment of

PARLOR GAMES

IN THE CITY.

NOTMAN & FRASER, PHOTOGRAPHERS TO THE QUEEN,

39, 41, & 43 King Street East, Toronto,
AND AT MONTREAL AND HALIFAX

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; the gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

SINGLE COPY
5 CENTS.

TORONTO, DECEMBER 26, 1874.

$2.00
PER ANNUM.

SIMMONS & CLOUGH ORGANS.

"I do not think I ever saw a finer toned organ."—PHILLIP PHILLIPS.

LESLIE, SKIRROW & SMITH, Wholesale Piano Dealers,
93 Yonge Street, Toronto.

STODART PIANOS.

The Excellence of the Stodart Pianos is largely due to the personal watchfulness and musical taste of Mr. D. R. Stanford, the senior member of the present manufacturing firm. The instruments are rich in quality, thorough in workmanship and durable. The singing quality of these Pianos is unsurpassed.

LESLIE, SKIRROW & SMITH,
Wholesale Dealers in Organs, 93 Yonge Street, Toronto.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach the Editor not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to P. O. Box 958, Toronto, Ontario. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

CONTRIBUTIONS, when accepted, will, for the present, be paid for at the rate of Two Dollars per column. All articles for which payment is expected must be accompanied by the name and address of the author.

GRIP.

A. S. IRVING,

WHOLESALE AGENT,
35 King St. West, Toronto.
OFFICE AND DEPOT.

JOHN ROGERS & CO.,
SUBSCRIPTION

Booksellers & Publishers,

10 KING ST. EAST,
TORONTO.

P.O. Box 2642.

JOHN S. GRASSICK & CO.,
FAMILY GROCERS,

WINE AND SPIRIT

MERCHANTS,

167 YONGE ST., TORONTO.

JAS. B. BOUSTEAD,

OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE,

Issuer of Marriage Licenses.

AGENT

Canada Agricultural Insurance
Company.

BOUSTEAD & SCADDING.

AGENTS

NORTHERN FIRE ASSURANCE CO.,

Real Estate and Commission
Merchants.

OFFICE,

No. 14 Adelaide Street East,
TORONTO, ONT.

APPLICATIONS

FOR

Advertising in these Spaces

TO BE MADE TO

JOHN ROGERS & CO.,
10 KING ST. EAST,
TORONTO.

W. P. WILLIAMS,

134 QUEEN ST. EAST, TORONTO,
(Between George & Sherbourne.)

DEALER IN

PURE CONFECTIONERY
And Choice Fruits.

A select supply of Canned Fruit,
Fish, &c., always on hand.

AMERICAN HOUSE,
BERLIN.

W. L. Bowman, Manager.

This House has been thoroughly
renovated, and is now one of the best Commercial Houses west of
Toronto.

Conducted on Temperance principles.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grubest Beast is the Ass; the grubest Bird is the Owl;
The grubest Fish is the Oyster; the grubest Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 26, 1874.

Xmas Greeting.

Grip draws an infinitude of Christmas corks for his patrons; thus ministering to their amusement without encouraging dissipation.

Grip's Essence of Parliament.

THURSDAY.

LAUDER moved an expression of opinion that before concurrence in the estimates for public works and public institutions, the reports for the preceding year should be brought down. He held that the Public Accounts Committee lacked intelligence. He did not believe in the mere statements of Departmental heads. He had discovered some startling figures in the report of the Inspector of Asylums, which is by no means strange. He thought there must be a mistake with reference to the House of Industry in Hamilton.

FRASER said there evidently was. LAUDER would like to know, you know, and restore the procedure of SANDFIELD's time.

FRASER called the mistake a printer's error, and argued that LAUDER's resolution would create a cast-iron rule, in the face of a Statute regarding the time of presenting reports, and of a resolution just adopted, that the House may go into Committee of Supply at any time. He declared the proposition was made for effect in the country. A good many resolutions are made for that purpose.

CAMERON said the resolution contained nothing to hamper the Government. He considered it wrong to hold the present session at all, and that the Speaker would get $4,200 for the year and each member $1,200, just because the Government wanted to prepare for the elections.

HODGINS said the resolution would alter the statutory regulations which are fixed by Tory statute.

LAUDER didn't wish to impugn the integrity of the Premier, but contended that want of Government information had made it difficult for the Public Accounts Committee to get the right officials up for examination.

MOWAT said the Government could not give LAUDER intelligence if he didn't possess it, which is another way of saying, "0 plus 0=0." He characterized CAMERON's exception to the present session as clap-trap, prophesying it would be a year or more ere another session is held. That remains to be seen; and isn't it rather too long, anyway, to delay pressing legislation? In closing he moved in amendment that the House has a right to have any information it likes to demand before concurring in the estimates. If members delayed concurrence till they got all the information they should have, they'd hear Gabriel's horn before voting the Supplies.

LAUDER said such motion were unnecessary did not the Government bank efforts to obtain information.

CAMERON said the law required a session every twelve months, therefore, this session should have begun on the 21st March, and that the only necessity for calling the House together was gerrymandering.

FRASER remarked that the rumor of no session before the elections gave rise to the howl that such omission was to prevent investigation of the Public Accounts, and now they held it was useless. Which it was—the attempted investigation.

The motion as amended was carried.

QUICKLEY was put down quickly, the motion for a select committee being voted down.

It was resolved that three sittings be held on Friday, which is more than most M.P.'s. hold in church on Sunday.

The House expressed its regret at the death of the member for Glengarry, who, we hope has gone among better company. The session allowance was voted his family, and also to MERRICK of North Leeds, absent through sickness in his family.

The RYKERT Investigation Committee presented a majority and a minority report, showing how the spectacle is different through different spectacles.

The Bill to make further provision for courts in unorganized districts passed. Increase of crime makes further provision for courts.

At the evening session a batch of private bills were passed, and visions of gratuities passed through the minds of their promoters, or hands passed complacently into greased pockets.

CAMERON moved the Bill with reference to the Toronto Water Works Commission be granted reference to committee of the whole; but CROOKS moved the three month's hoist, and after slight discussion it was made a remanet.

The Supply Bill passed, and will supply OLIVER with the needful.

The House in Committee on the Redistribution Bill struck out the second syllable as regards Bothwell, and made two Kents to lift Grit "lambs." It also dried up Niagara by linkin' it to Lincoln. Thus Niagara falls.

STEPHEN RICHARDS sang his death song, and becomes "STEPHEN, the Martyr." However, we did not hear him pray, "Lord forgive them; they know not what they do."

The Bills relative to Procedure on County Court appeals and to Marriages and Marriage Licenses passed. Being opposed to marriages of consanguinity we think any BILL, or any other man, should pass everything relative, to marriage.

FRIDAY.

The Election Law Amendment Bill passed on division.

The Bill respecting the boundary between Ontario and Quebec passed. These two provinces are now "The Old Canada Company (Limited)."

During the morning and afternoon the debate on Redistribution continued. A number of divisions occurred, and at the elections we shall see verified the saying that "a House divided against itself shall not stand." All amendments of the Opposition were voted down, and when even was come, the Grits with one accord proclaimed the triumph of JERRY MANDER, against the voice of the score who cried out against it.

Three private bills were passed.

The Toronto Water Works bill, on motion of CROOKS was hoisted, on a division.

The bill for the relief of the relatives of intestates was passed. We don't expect it will relieve them sufficiently to dispense with mourning.

The Bill respecting railway traffic was withdrawn at the request of the Premier, who wants to get the views of the railway companies. He wants their influence too, next month.

The Mechanics' Lien Bill passed. Mechanics generally prefer to pass a "fat" bill when they can.

The Speaker to avoid possible difficulty ruled that the House has no power to deal with the law regulating the sale of liquor. The Speaker in the Commons rules similarly as regards that House, he too seeing possible difficulty. Neither House, individually, is so cautious in dealing directly with liquor. It would be better for many members did they then consider possible difficulties.

The Bill to amend the Administration of Justice Act by taking the control of County advertising from the Government, was given the six months' hoist. There is justice, and justice.

The House passed the Bills respecting Watercourse Ditching, Railway Arbitration, and the Northerly and North-Westerly boundaries of Ontario.

The charges against RYKERT were discussed, in a way that creates disgust. It ended just as GRIP predicted last Saturday. MOWAT held it was too late to get an opinion of the House, and that this saved RYKERT from condign expulsion. CAMERON was satisfied there was no corrupt motive on RYKERT's part. Grits and Tories chimed in with their leaders. WEBB said, in substance: "I'm sleepy. Use it in your election speeches. Give us a rest!" MOWAT moved that any member receiving any valuable consideration for assistance previously rendered shall deserve expulsion, when CAMERON suggested a rider to include any member of a firm one of whose members sits in the House. MOWAT was not prepared to assent to that, and after some further discussion he refused to move the resolution, and the matter dropped. "Let him that is without sin cast the first stone."

SATURDAY.

Majority and minority reports of the Committee on the Model Farm Scandal showed that the Committee agreed to disagree, and to report their inability to complete the evidence.

The formal bill to amend the charitable institutions act was passed through all its stages.

MONDAY.

The Lieutenant-Governor shortly after three o'clock entered the House and took the Speaker's chair. Ordinary persons who enter houses and take things are called burglars.

The presence of a number of prominent citizens on the floor of the House suggested a conundrum: Why are they like fox-hunters? Ans.—Because they come to the meet, and are eager to be in at the death.

As regards the Bills passed by the House during the session, His Honor gave assent to each of the ninety and nine which went not astray; and at the request of the Speaker he squandered the even dollar by giving assent, the hundredth, to the Supply Bill.

The Speaker then whispered in His Honor's ear, "Come along, John, we've got lots of money;" and accordingly JOHN came up smilingly and spoke his little piece.

The House was then prorogued. We wish it could be unrogued as easily.

CHRISTMAS MORNING;

OR, THE POLITICAL STOCKINGS.

"WHO'LL PUT ME OUT?"

(Axin' the pardon ov Mr. Joseph Murphy.)

"Who'll Put me Out?"

(Municipal Version, by permission of W. JOE MURPHY.)

"I'm going for re-election

"And hav'nt any doubt;

"I'm certain of a second term,

"Who'll put me out?

"They say my boasted square toes

"Have got the moral gout,

"And that they're goin' to oust me—

"Who'll put me out?

"McCord and Morrison, my foes,

"I'll put them both to rout?

"I shan't give up the civic chair—

"Who'll put me out?

"As for the License question,

"I know what I'm about;

"I'll not go back on whiskey votes—

"Who'll put me out?

"The city needs more groggeries,

"Commodation, gin, and stout;

"The deuce take your "Petitioners"—

"Who'll put me out?

"So up and vote for SQUARE-TOES,

"Come, don't you hear me shout!

"The Leader is my organ—now,

"Who'll put me out?"

(GRIP, AS A POLICE COMMISSIONER, hereby joyfully licenses the Mayor to print the foregoing verses on the back of his election card in the same way that he printed one of the Genial Raven's effusions last year.

An Experiment in Political Chemistry.

DEMONSTRATOR—PROFESSOR McSCANDALOUS.

At a recent meeting of the Ontario Scientific Society, at their rooms on Front street, an interesting lecture on political chemistry was delivered by this well-known savant and his talented assistants, Messrs. CAMERON and McKELLAR. Reports of the proceedings have been given in the Globe and Mail, but, as each of these journals has somewhat impaired the lesson gained from the experiment by incorrect reporting, we think it as well to give that of our own stenographer.

The Professor, on rising, was greeted with the usual ebullition of enthusiasm which marks the proceedings of this learned body. Cries of "pitch him to the devil!" "Yah!" gallery whistles and inarticulate howls resounded as far as the Union Station. After thanking his audience for this enthusiastic reception, the Professor commenced:

MR. SPEAKER, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—We propose to vary a little the usually dull routine of our lecture by showing you one of the most wonderful experiments in Chemistry the world has ever witnessed; one which may be (if people only have common sense), one of the most useful, morally, socially, politically, and every-other-ally. Some of you may doubtless have been told in your infancy by the oldest inhabitants, that in their childhood people used to say "Two blacks don't make a white." This idea might have passed current in the dark ages. Now, I am about to demonstrate to you that this antiquated idea is altogether unworthy of a progressive people in an age where the light of science beams on us from Mimico to Guelph. The experiment is very curious, so curious indeed that it may almost be said to belong to the supernatural. We proceed thus. (Attention, gentlemen, if you please.) We take an article which is black and place it on the table. You perceive it is uniformly dark all through. In order the better to explain my subsequent proceedings, we will call this C. P. R. (A titter in the gallery.) Gentlemen, this is not a cigar, I can assure you. Smoking is prohibited here. It is in a different line altogether. Now, we take a smaller article. Suppose we call this M. F.—what color is this gentleman? You say—"is it black enough?" We can easily manage that. I will remove a little of the dirt (the object was in a filthy condition), and with my brush I apply a few strokes artistically—thus. Now, you perceive it is of the required blackness. This is absolutely necessary, as it will not be effective unless dark enough. Now, I place M. F. in juxtaposition with C. P. R. (Gentlemen, your undivided attention, please.) Look! Behold! What a most wonderful result!!! That which before was black as night becomes suddenly white as the driven snow, and, as if by magic, our small specimen grows to such gigantic proportions that it completely hides the larger from the gaze of the beholder. Now, my friends, I trust you will bear this lecture in mind, and show your country that you have been enlightened. For, indeed, this discovery has cost me many a weary hour, many a bottle of — ink and many a headache. But what of that? Don't unselfish philanthropists and heroes have headaches and use bottles of — ink, I want to know? For me, I rest assured my name will be henceforth surrounded by a halo of glory, bright as the burning flames of barley on the fields of the Model Farm.

The Chieftain's Death Song.

SUNG IN THE ONTARIO LEGISLATURE, DEC. 17, 1874.

"And hast thou, then, forgot," (he cried, forlorn,
And eyed the Right with half indignant air),
"Oh! hast thou, Christian Chief, forgot the morn
When I, with thee, the name of Grit did share?
Then stately was this head, and dark this hair,
That now is white as Algonmanian snow;
But, if the weight of many years' despair
And age hath bowed me, and torturing foe,
Bring me to Oxford—it will its defeated know!"

"And I could weep"—Niagara's chief
His descent wildly thus began;
"But that I should not stain with grief
The death-song of my father's son!
Or bow this head in woe;
For, by my wrongs, and by my wrath,
But two days hence PLUM's Tory breath
(That fires yon heaven with storms of death),
Shall light us to the foe:
And we shall share, my bully boys,
The foeman's scalp, the avenger's joys!

"But thee, my flower, whose breath was given
By milder genii ruling here,
The spirits that for thee have striven
Forbid not thee a tear;—
Nor will thy father's spirit grieve
To see thee on the battle's eve
Lamenting, take a mournful leave
Of him who loved thee most;
He was the rainbow to thy sight!
Thy sun—thy heaven—of lost delight!

"Yes, you can nothing do but die!
But when the bolt of death is hurled,
Ah! whither than from thee to fly,
Shall STEPHEN RICHARDS roam the world?
Seek I my once-loved home?—
The seat is gone that once was ours!—
Unfriendly scowling, Lincoln lowers!—
Grit are the votes!—Theirs both the bowers!—
And should I thither roam,
Its echoes and its empty tread,
Would sound like voices from the dead!

"Or shall I join the Grits anew,
Whose views my kindred soul once quaffed;
And by my side to party true,
All gave the vote, however daft?
Ah! this my desolation cold,
Their action is and theirs alone,
Thro' them grass hides each mouldering bone,
And stones themselves to ruin grown
Like me, are death-like old,
Then seek I not their camp—for there
The author dwells the author of my despair!

"But, hark, PLUM's trump!—Niagara, thou
In glory's fire shall dry thy tears;
Even from the land of shadows now
JOHN SANDFIELD's awful ghost appears;
Amidst the clouds that round me roll,
He bids my soul for battle thirst—
He bids me dry the last—the first—
The only tears that ever burst—
From STEPHEN RICHARD's soul;
Because I may not stain with grief
The death-song of a Tory chief."

MRS. MORRISON'S
GRAND
OPERA HOUSE
ADELAIDE ST. WEST.

Mrs. MORRISON, - - Manageress.

Mr. COULDOCK, - Stage Manager.

A Merry Christmas.

SPLENDID

Shakesperian Spectacle!

FRIDAY EVENING, DEC. 25th, and during the

HOLIDAYS,

Will be presented SHAKESPEARE'S Gorgeous
Fairy Play,

A Midsummer

Night's Dream.

New Scenery, New Dresses, New Properties, New Machinery, and a

Grand Transformation Scene.

BUSINESS CARDS.

WINES FROM THE WOOD.

Gentlemen requiring refreshment through the day can obtain a glass of wine, etc., pure as imported, and drawn from the original cask, by calling at 32 Church Street.

Light that eclipses 'the light of other days.

ANDERSON'S "FAMILY SAFETY OIL," brilliant and free from odor. Wholesale and Retail Depot, No. 11 Adelaide Street East, Toronto.

FORBES & DOW, Land, House, and General Agents.—Rents and Accounts collected; house property carefully attended to, and good tenants procured. Loans to build houses advanced without delay. Special attention given to sale of Farm Property. No. 6 Victoria Street. P.O. Box 1984, Toronto, Ont.

USE THE
DIAMOND YEAST CAKE!

BURNING FLUID—NO SMOKE—NO CHIMNEY. Suitable for Hotels and private dwellings. Splendid night light. HUGH MILLER, & CO., 167 King Street.

COR. JARVIS & ADELAIDE STS.,
Toronto, Ont.

JOHN D. NASMITH,

Manufacturer of

BREAD, ROLLS, BUNS, CAKES, &c., &c.

A superior article of Bread delivered daily throughout the city.

TO THE TRADE ONLY

FOR LATEST PATTERNS IN
ALL KINDS OF REAL AND IMITATION

HAIR GOODS,

At Lowest Wholesale Prices.

APPLY TO THE

New Dominion Chignon Factory,
96 YONGE ST., TORONTO,

FRANCIS J. BORMUTH, Proprietor.

JOHN LAIRD,

DEALER IN

Picture Frames, Looking Glasses, &c.

335, Yonge St., Opposite Elm St.,

TORONTO

PICTURES KEPT ON HAND FOR SALE.

INSURE YOUR LIFE

WITH THE

UNION MUTUAL

Life Insurance Comp'y.

ORGANIZED 1848—26 YEARS' EXPERIENCE.

PURELY MUTUAL.

No Unnecessary Restrictions. Unequalled Liberality.

ASSETS—TEN MILLION DOLLARS.

DIRECTOR'S OFFICE:

153 Tremont Street, BOSTON.

It is Strong.
It is Prompt.
It is Economical.

It is Liberal.
It is Safe.
It is Reliable.

Being purely Mutual, and having no stock, it is managed by the members for their own benefit. It furnishes Insurance at the least possible Cost. Every dollar of the excess over losses and expenses

IS APPORTIONED AMONG THE POLICY-HOLDERS.

These Dividends are made payable at the end of the second year, and annually thereafter; and may be applied to the Reduction of Premiums.

IT MAKES ALL

POLICIES NON-FORFEITABLE.

The percentage of expenses and death losses are not only lower than the average of all other Companies, but less than those of any company of equal age.

It issues all kinds of Policies at Low Rates of Premiums; grants its members the largest liberty consistent with prudence and safety, and promptly adjusts and pays its losses.

It insures only First-class Lives.

Its Interest Receipts more than Pay Losses.

Its Premiums are Low, and may be paid Annually, Semi-Annually, or Quarterly.

Its Solvency is Beyond Question.

J. H. McNAIRN,

General Agent for the Provinces of Ontario and Manitoba.

Temple Chambers, Toronto-St., Toronto.

PARLOR SHOE STORE,

61 King Street East,

TORONTO, - - ONT.

The Largest and Finest Shoe Store in Canada. Three widths to each size and half size, insuring perfect fit. Prices moderate. Remember the address.

KING & BROWN,

61 King Street East.

Marriage Licenses and CERTIFICATES under

GEO. THOMAS, Issuer. Office—40 Church St., Wes.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE.

is published every SATURmorning, at the office, to Toronto Street, one door
King Street.

scription price, $2 per an-single copies 5 cents. For by all newsdealers. Back ers supplied.

vertisements and subscrip-received at the office, to all communications should dressed.

THOMAS BENGOUGH,
Business Manager,
No. 2 Toronto St., Toronto.

GRIP.

EDITED BY
BARNABY RUDGE.

AGENTS:
m. E.: I. M. Rogers, 31 Bou-
verie Street.
York: American News No.,
Nassau Street.

DENTIST,

R. S. TROTTER,

KING STREET EAST,

TORONTO.

A. FOX,
YORKVILLE

T & SHOE MART.

Ladies' & Misses Shoes
Of every description.

Attention given to measurement.

J. LITTLETON.

eries & Provisions,

A SELECT STOCK OF

D FRUITS, FISH & OYSTERS

Always on hand.

nge St., Yorkville.

IRTH, COCHRAN & CO.,

STOCK BROKERS,

l Estate Agents,

Toronto Street, Toronto.

SCARTH, J. L. SCARTH,
R. COCHRAN.

THE
nitary Journal,

EDITED BY

E. B. PLAYER.

$100 Per Annum.

ohn Rogers & Co.,
10 King St. East, Toronto.

W. G. GIBSON,

Commercial Printer,

KING STREET EAST,

TORONTO.

S. IRVING

HAS THE

Best Assortment of

BLOR GAMES

IN THE CITY.

NOTMAN & FRASE PHOTOGRAPHERS TO THE

39, 41, & 43 King Street East, Toronto,
AND AT MONTREAL AND HALIFAX

J. BRUCE & Co.

ARTISTIC
PHOTOGRAPHERS,
31 King St. West, Toronto.

Forpast 6 years chief operator and General Manager at Notman & Fraser's.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; the gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

SINGLE COPY }
5 CENTS.

TORONTO, JANUARY 2, 1875.

$2.00
PER ANNUM.

SIMMONS & CLOUGH ORGANS.

"I do not think I ever saw a finer toned organ."—PHILLIP PHILLIPS.

LESLIE, SKIRROW & SMITH, Wholesale Piano Dealers,
93 Yonge Street, Toronto.

STODART PIANOS.

The Excellence of the Stodart Pianos is largely due to the personal watchfulness and musical taste of Mr. D. R. Stanford, the senior member of the present manufacturing firm. The instruments are rich in quality, thorough in workmanship and durable. The singing quality of these Pianos is unsurpassed.

LESLIE, SKIRROW & SMITH,
Wholesale Dealers in Organs, 93 Yonge Street, Toronto.

DEAR ACTORS, EAT NO UNIONS OR GARLIC.
FOR WE ARE TO UTTER MOST SWEET DEATH!

reach GRIP office, not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

CONTRIBUTIONS, when accepted, will, for the present, be paid for at the rate of Two DOLLARS per column. All articles for which payment is expected must be accompanied by the name and address of the author.

GRIP.

A. S. IRVING,

WHOLESALE AGENT,
35 King St. West, Toronto.
OFFICE AND DEPOT.

JOHN ROGERS & CO.,

SUBSCRIPTION
Booksellers & Publishers,
10 KING ST. EAST,
TORONTO.
P. O. Box 2642.

JOHN S. GRASSICK & CO.,

FAMILY GROCERS,
WINE AND SPIRIT
MERCHANTS,
167 YONGE ST., TORONTO.

JAS. B. BOUSTEAD,

OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE,
Issuer of Marriage Licenses.
AGENT
Canada Agricultural Insurance
Company.

BOUSTEAD & SCADDING.

AGENTS
NORTHERN FIRE ASSURANCE CO.,
Real Estate and Commission
Merchants.
OFFICE,
No. 14 Adelaide Street East,
TORONTO, ONT.

APPLICATIONS

FOR
Advertising in these Spaces

TO BE MADE TO
JOHN ROGERS & CO.,
10 KING ST. EAST,
TORONTO.

W. P. WILLIAMS,
134 QUEEN ST. EAST, TORONTO,
[Between George & Sherbourne.]
DEALER IN

PURE CONFECTIONERY
And Choice Fruits.

A select supply of Canned Fruit,
Fish, &c., always on hand.

AMERICAN HOUSE,
BERLIN.

W. L. Bowman, Manager.

This House has been thoroughly
renovated, and is now one of the best Commercial Houses west of
Toronto.

Conducted on Temperance principles.

MORRISON'S GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabeast Beast is the Jan; the grabeast Bird is the Owl;
The grabeast Fish is the Oyster; the grabeast Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, JANUARY 2, 1875.

1875.

GRIP has the felicity of wishing his innumerable patrons a Happy New Year for the second time, and on this occasion is proud to be able to do so from his own elegant headquarters—No. 2, Toronto Street. It would be fitting here to say something about the year just past, but as his licensed poetaster has treated that theme in another column, it will not be necessary. But a few words about the incoming year will be apropos. Let it be of a business character, and let the humorous literati throughout the Dominion make a note of it. We are anxious to organize a staff of regular contributors, whom we are now in a position to remunerate adequately for their services. One editor may always be found at the above address, where he will be pleased to receive literary favours. Poets who have trash to dispose of had better take it round to the Globe office; prose writers who deal in a similar commodity needn't call at No. 2; but genius will receive every encouragement from GRIP. All correspondence of a business nature may be addressed as above. But our foreman says there isn't room in the form for any further remarks, so we desist.

The Question of the Hon.—Plain Words from the Candidates.

MEDCALF, HIS VIEWS.

My ideas on this question is, I want to be elected,—
Another twelve months' salary I've all along expected;—
I can't abear the notion of being left at home,
And be obliged from day to day around the streets to roam,
A doin' simply nothin', which, if I was only Mayor
I might be doin' jest the same—but then the civic chair
Would give me sort of dignity—which Nature has denied—
And wot is still more better—fifteen hundred dollars, beside.
There's lots of parties gettin' up in this Toronto city
Which says (the impudent galsots!) they think it is a pity
If 'mongst the 60,000 that makes up our population
There can't be found a citizen of worth and reputation
Who can act as our chief magistrate—a man with brains and heart,
Who, if he don't wear square-toed boots will act the square-toed part.
Now 'course by that they mean to hint I'm not a fit and proper Person for to take the chair, but I don't care a copper,
In answer to them slanderers I have to say this here:
Go and vote for MEDCALF to be Mayor another year.
Oh, about them tavern licenses—well, I won't make any pledges—
They're apt to put a candidate on wot's called the "ragged edges;"
I want to get the groggy votes, and so I simply mention
That if elected, I will give the subject some attention—
Don't get alarmed, dear Boatface, them words don't smell of treason,
You scratch my back and I'll scratch yours for still another season.

MORRISON, HIS VIEWS.

I am a jolly old candidate,
And here my opinion will candidly state
On the Licensing Question, so rife;
The subject is one which attention demands,
And if I'm put in, 'twill receive at my hands,
No politics, none! 'pon my life!

I don't think it well to increase the saloons,
Consider that one of my temperance tures,
Leastwise, till the polling is o'er;
But I wou'dn't, dear friends, by too SASSY on my notes,
As I don't just object to the groggy votes—
But—no politics—never—no more!

I think, my dear friends, that the best way to do
(At least it's the best from my own point of view)
Is to give the whole subject the hoist—
Let MacKENZIE & Co. take the matter in hand—
It is the work, not ours, as I understand,
But—no politics—give me a rest!

M'CORD, HIS VIEWS.

Which I wish to remark,
And my language in plain,
McNABE's ways are dark,
And they go 'gainst my grain;
But I think I've a plan to reform him,
Which the same I would rise and explain.

One's a temperance man
Of the three on the Board;
There'll be two in the van
If you'll just say the word,
On Monday to oust DADDY SQUARETOES,
Just wa'k up and vote for McCORD!

A Midsummer Night's Dream.

In common with the rest of Toronto, GRIP has received considerable delight from the representation of one of SHAKESPEARE's most delightful plays at Mrs. MORRISON's Grand Opera House. He thinks it as well to give some of the opinions he heard in addition to his own views of the subject. On enquiring of a somewhat stale youth of some thirteen summers his opinion he was told, "Well, the transformation scene was awful pretty and the acting wasn't bad, but the play was a poor thing." A lady informed us it "was a sort of fairy extravaganza for children, very pretty, but not for grown up people." And an enthusiastic young Canadian told us he "didn't think much of SHAKESPEARE, that sort of thing was played out." Such is the veneration for the Swan of Avon. They would abuse the Raven of Chigwell if they were not afraid of him. Yet when GRIP went there he saw a large audience, who mostly looked pleased and laughed at the right things—as a rule, and seemed somehow to appreciate the played-out bard. GRIP compliments Mr. HARRY RICH on his rendering of Bottom the Weaver and Mr. COULDOCK on his Peter Quince. To the gentleman who played Thisbe, he would say he does not think he could have assumed more comic helplessness himself if arrayed in a long dress, but not having tied he doesn't know. "Hard-handed men of Athens," well—done! Failures, especially little tiny one, GRIP forgives you this once, but don't do it again, or your good looks will not save you from the punishment due to those who play such tricks. Still you ruled your pretty little fairy court very nicely and we would be almost content to wear an ass's head with Bottom to be waited on by you and your tiny sprites. Fairies and Amazons, you marched and counter-marched excellently. Theseus, continue to be dignified. Hippolyta, remember Touchstone's advice to Audrey and don't be always holding your dress no. Helena you played excellently. Hermia, you might improve matters without much difficulty. Musicians, you gave MENDELSSOHN's lovely music satisfactorily. The transformation scene was quite worthy our young friend's commendation. Lastly GRIP congratulates Mr. WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE on having only inserted one political allusion in this drama, and as that related to Queen ELIZABETH, he thinks it may pass. GRIP hopes that mediums will convey this gratifying intelligence to the spirit land. In the name of the Toronto public, at least, the intelligent portion thereof, he expresses his thanks to Mr. MORRISON for having produced the "Dream" in a manner only equalled by himself in the accompanying sketch.

The Record of a Year.

The "tricks of trade" which honest men
Coudemn in innovators,
Are not confined to "trades" alone;
But shared by legislators.

The pride of country, as of birth,
Is a record pure, unvarnished;
For that which makes the man of worth
Is honor, bright, untarnished.

But in these days of hollow show,
Of buncombe, self-laudation,
The men who talk the loudest are
Most fond of admiration.

Alas! that Canada should be
Food for politicians hoary!
When will she ever be quite free
From government Goli or Tory?

'Tis when these model patriots meet,
Like gamblers at ecarie,

A POLITICAL

MIDSUMMER

NIGHT'S DREAM

"BOTTOM"
AMONG THE (POLITICAL) FAIRIES.

PRODUCED
UNDER THE IMMEDIATE DIRECTION OF ORIP

BUT NOT WITHOUT SOME ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS TO MRS MORRISON, OF THE
GRAND
OPERA HOUSE.

Broughton

“GLORIOUS OLD KINGSTON;”

OR, THE FAMOUS POLITICAL ATHLETE IN HIS ACT OF GETTING OVER THE “GLOBE.”

Fair Canada is sacrificed
To that hydra-monster "Party."

Our Parliament Chamber 's but
A scene of rude contention—
Where members wish each other at
A place too hot to mention.

Day after day some story 's told
How honesty 's defeated;
How votes are bought and sold for gold;
How members are unseated.

Of "Model" Farms we've had enough,
Till almost sick are, really;
And managed on a system which
Would be disowned by GREELEY.

A half a million dollars spent
Upon contracts (s)penalative
Is only just a little lent
To benefit some native!

So on such stories go and grow
(Alas! they're but too truthful;)
And splendid precedents to guide
Our politicians youthful.

* * * * *

Oh "Purity," how strange thy name
From lips which 'but betoken
A virtue never practised, but
In self-deception spoken.

And "Tory" too, how misapplied
In the sense our fathers used it,
They may have fought; but never stole;
Or public trust abused it.

Cast such knaves out; they but disgrace
All that's manly, true and hearty
Let better fellows take their place
Uninfluenced by "Party."

"Ring out the old year," 'Seventy-four,
With its "jobs," deceit and mystery;
And 'Seventy-five a record show
On the credit page of history.

Then hail the New Year, joyful theme,
Of bright anticipation;
God bless us all, God save the QUEEN,
And prosper this fair nation.

January 1st, 1875.

PAUL FORD.

Grip Among His Exchanges.

"LIES—WHITE AND BLACK"—is the title of a discourse preached by the Rev. C. S. WILLIS, of Stratford, on Sunday last. We presume the subject was painted in very dark colors.

"MR. D. D. HAY IN THE FIELD."—Thus is headed a piece of correspondence to the Stratford Deacon. It seems too bad that the intelligent yeomen of Perth should leave their Hay standing in the field right in the dead of winter. We do not glean from the title whether or not it is Timothy Hay. At any rate, the Hay should be taken care of.

Those who are interested in the reformation of our ambiguous English orthography will be delighted on hearing that right here in Canada—although at some distance from the "hub"—we have some true phonetic reformers. They live—a small but noble band—away up in Thornbury; their leader, we presume, being the responsible editor of the Thornbury Standard, and the village printer. Here is a specimen of the new language, which we commend to the notice of our learned linguists:—

"Shooting match & Raffle at ——— christmas frida Dec 25 1874 a large quantity of turkies and geese to be shot & raffeled off also those wishing to dance will find the best of accomodations & first class music also the deucing master from feversham will be here to call off come one come all Tickets 75 cts Single tickets 50 cts."

We have been wondering what has swerved the St. Thomas Home Journal from its usual very staid, unobtrusive style into that of the "enterprising" newspapers now so common. After much cogitation we have solved the mystery. The proprietor has gone into the chromo business. After describing a picture of Her Majesty which subscribers for 1875 are to receive as a premium, Brother McLACHLIN, the undermentioned "proprietor," warms with enthusiasm, and shouts:

"It is decidedly the finest premium issued with any newspaper in Canada. The enterprise of the proprietor of this journal is by this time so well recognized that anything like a penny picture would only create disappointment. When he does a thing he does it."

We cannot help thinking that the proprietor of the Journal has done it this time.

Rykert.

Sing, O Goddess, the deeds, the horrible cheek of this RYKERT—
RYKERT, who went to and fro on the earth, and walked up and down it,
Bearing the largest sized scrap-book, recording wrong-doings of members;

Watching and noting, and pointing out all every Grit did or did not;
Holding them fiercely in order, calling the Speaker to check them;
Sharply declaring that "usance of Parliament would not permit it;"
Pompously moving "this House cannot with propriety see it."
RYKERT, the front and the head of the much-shattered column of Tories;

Conservative—Aristocratic—Dignified—all things of that sort.

See how the RYKERT has fallen—also he has been and done it.

He hath accepted the tin, tipped by retaining solicitor.

He, too, hath gobbled the swag, forked over by corporate bodies;

He, too, hath nobbled the needful, shelled out by innocent clients;

Taken the shekels of silver likewise, and the Amalekitish garment.

Tell ye it never in Lincoln—publish it not in St. Catharines.

Shall we then let him down easy, using the "term least offensive,"

As lately the Nation remarked to the Globe's most confirmed kleptomaniac?

Say it was but a small error—a trifling confusion of meanings;

Wishing to act quite appropriate, appropriation he acted.

No, we shall loosen upon him our full editorial vengeance;

Seeing he now hath no friends, it becometh our duty to kick him.

Never again must he read in our Commons his elegant extracts;

Never more there be delighted by Crooks' clear articulation;

Never more there swear belief in the desperate statements of CAMERON;

Never more there rage in fury at Mowat, the calmly-controlling.

Let him return whence he came, and deep in some cave of Niagara,

Fenced in by columns of scrap-books, list to the roar of the torrent.

Once every thousand years shall Grip croak remembrance to him.

How Friendships are Broken.

Here is an incident, a counterpart of which may be found in any locality. A pathmaster near Granton, and a certain ratepayer working on his beat had for years been on very amicable terms, and always helped each other, each holding his friend up before the world as an upright, honest, and model man. But this year DAMON wanted all the roadwork in the beat applied towards draining his own farm, while PYTHIAS thought only of the pressing need of a proper approach to the front of his shop. The consequence is that these men no longer sound each other's praises, but on the contrary PYTHIAS exposes the crafty character of DAMON, while the latter does not hesitate to speak of the selfishness of PYTHIAS, each divulging the knowledge gained of the other's character through their former confidences. Reader, ere you condemn them, see that you have no similar experience.

Ring Out the Old Year, Ring In the New.

Ring out the old year, ring in the new,
Peal forth wild bells in the frosty night,
Mourn the old with a sorrow that's true,
And hail the new with a pure delight.

Out with the old plans, in with the new,
Bury all feud as we bury the year;
Out with the false deeds, in with the true,
And let new life with the morn appear.

Ring out the old year, ring in the new,
And let petty party strife be past,
Out with dishonest men, in with true,
Bring honest Government at last.

Out with the old members, in with new,
Give us of honor the surety,
Ring out the men who have unclean hands,
Ring in the party of purity.

MRS. MORRISON'S
GRAND
OPERA HOUSE
ADELAIDE ST. WEST.

Mrs. MORRISON, - - Manageress.
Mr. COULDOCK, - Stage Manager.

A Happy New Year.

SPLENDID

Shakesperian Spectacle !

During the

HOLIDAYS,

AND UNTIL FURTHER NOTICE,

Will be presented SHAKESPEARE'S Gorgeous
Fairy Play,

A Midsummer

Night's Dream.

New Scenery, New Dresses, New Properties, New Machinery, and a

Grand Transformation Scene.

BUSINESS CARDS.

WINES FROM THE WOOD.

Gentlemen requiring refreshment through the day can obtain a glass of wine, etc., pure as imported, and drawn from the original cask, by calling at 32 Church Street.

Light that eclipses 'the light of other days.

ANDERSON'S "FAMILY SAFETY OIL," brilliant and free from odor. Wholesale and Retail Depot, No. 11 Adelaide Street East, Toronto.

FORBES & DOW, Land, House, and General Agents.—Rents and Accounts collected; house property carefully attended to, and good tenants procured. Loans to build houses advanced without delay. Special attention given to sale of Farm Property. No. 6 Victoria Street. P.O. Box 1984, Toronto, Ont.

USE THE
DIAMOND YEAST CAKE !

BURNING FLUID—NO SMOKE—NO CHIMNEY. Suitable for Hotels and private dwellings. Splendid night light. HUGH MILLER, & CO., 167 King Street.

COR. JARVIS & ADELAIDE STS.,
Toronto, Ont.

JOHN D. NASMITH,

Manufacturer of

BREAD, ROLLS, BUNS, CAKES, &c., &c.

A superior article of Bread delivered daily throughout the city.

TO THE TRADE ONLY

FOR LATEST PATTERNS IN
ALL KINDS OF REAL AND IMITATION
HAIR GOODS,
At Lowest Wholesale Prices.

APPLY TO THE

New Dominion Chignon Factory,
96 YONGE ST, TORONTO,

FRANCIS J. BORMUTH, Proprietor.

JOHN LAIRD,

DEALER IN

Picture Frames, Looking Glasses, &c.

335, Yonge St., Opposite Elm St.,
TORONTO

PICTURES KEPT ON HAND FOR SALE.

INSURE YOUR LIFE

WITH THE

UNION MUTUAL
Life Insurance Comp'y.

ORGANIZED 1848—26 YEARS' EXPERIENCE.

PURELY MUTUAL.

No Unnecessary Restrictions. Unequalled Liberality.

ASSETS—TEN MILLION DOLLARS.

DIRECTOR'S OFFICE:

153 Tremont Street, BOSTON.

It is Strong.
It is Prompt.
It is Economical.

It is Liberal.
It is Safe.
It is Reliable.

Being purely Mutual, and having no stock, it is managed by the members for their own benefit. It furnishes Insurance at the least possible Cost. Every dollar of the excess over losses and expenses

IS APPORTIONED AMONG THE POLICY-
HOLDERS.

These Dividends are made payable at the end of the second year, and annually thereafter; and may be applied to the Reduction of Premiums.

IT MAKES ALL

POLICIES NON-FORFEITABLE.

The percentage of expenses and death losses are not only lower than the average of all other Companies, but less than those of any company of equal age.

It issues all kinds of Policies at Low Rates of Premiums; grants its members the largest liberty consistent with prudence and safety, and promptly adjusts and pays its losses.

It insures only First-class Lives.

Its Interest Receipts more than Pay Losses.

Its Premiums are Low, and may be paid Annually, Semi-Annually, or Quarterly.

Its Solvency is Beyond Question.

J. H. McNAIRN,

General Agent for the Provinces of Ontario and Manitoba.

Temple Chambers, Toronto-St., Toronto.

PARLOR SHOE STORE,
61 King Street East,
TORONTO, - - ONT.

The Largest and Finest Shoe Store in Canada. Three widths to each size and half size, insuring perfect fit. Prices moderate. Remember the address.

KING & BROWN,
61 King Street East.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE.

GRIP is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, No. 2 Toronto Street, one door from King Street.

Subscription price, $2 per annum; single copies 5 cents. For sale by all newdealers. Back numbers supplied.

Advertisements and subscriptions received at the office, to which all communications should be addressed.

THOMAS BENGOUGH,
Business Manager,
No. 2 Toronto St., Toronto.

E. B. HOLT & CO.,
FURNITURE DEALERS

149 Yonge St., Toronto.

Upholstering in all its Branches.

LOVELOCK, STOVEL & CO,
BOOK AND JOB

Printers,

32 COLBORNE STREET,
TORONTO.

A. FOX,
YORKVILLE

BOOT & SHOE MART.

Gents', Ladies' & Misses Shoes
Of every description.

Special attention given to measurement.

J. LITTLETON.

Groceries & Provisions,

A SELECT STOCK OF

CANNED FRUITS, FISH & OYSTERS

Always on hand.

Yonge St., Yorkville.

SCARTH, COCHRAN & CO.,
STOCK BROKERS,

Real Estate Agents,

83 Toronto Street, Toronto.

V. B. SCARTH, J. L. SCARTH,
R. COCHRAN.

YLES FOR "GRIP,"

Neat, Cheap, Durable,
Convenient.

Will keep the papers in excellent order and ready for the binder. or sale at GRIP office.

No. 2 Toronto Street,
here orders should be addressed.

ISAAC PITMAN'S

(ENGLISH)

PHONOGRAPHIC
PUBLICATIONS.

1st Phonographic Teacher,
Manual of Phonography,
Key to Phonographic Exercises,
Phonographic Phrase Book,
Phonetic Journal, published weekly
in Learner's Corresponding and reporting styles of Phonography,
also Phonetic and Common
int. Address,

THOMAS BENGOUGH,
GRIP Office,

NOTMAN & FRASER, PHOTOGRAPHERS TO THE QUEEN,

39, 41, & 43 King Street East, Toronto,
AND AT MONTREAL AND HALIFAX

TORONTO, SATURDAY, JANUARY 30, 1875.

NEW OFFICE, }
2 TORONTO ST. }

The grubest Beast is the Ass; the grubest Bird is the Owl;
The grubest Fish is the Oyster; the grubest Man is the Fool.

{ $2 A YEAR
{ 5 CTS. EACH

PIANOS—MARSHALL & WENDELL.

"I believe that there is no better piano to stand in tune at any price."

W. K. Nixon, Chicago.

We have in our institution a Marshall & Wendell Piano, that has only been tuned three times, though used constantly for over one year practising and giving lessons on, and is now in good order.

M. J. STACEY, Lenox, Mich., U.S.

I have had them in daily use for two years without tuning and still in good tune. NOLTE & BACON, Peoria.

LESLIE, SKIRROW & SMITH,
93 Yonge Street, Toronto.

Trade supplied with Knabe, Stodart, Light & Ernst, Simmons & Clough and Geo. Wood & Co's Organs.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach GRIP office, not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

CONTRIBUTIONS, when accepted, will, for the present, be paid for at the rate of Two DOLLARS per column. All articles for which payment is expected must be accompanied by the name and address of the author.

GRIP

Will in future be

Supplied to the Trade

Direct from the Office of Publication,

No. 2 Toronto Street,

Instead of through A. S. Irving's agency.

Prompt and personal attention will be given to all orders from the country.

THOMAS BENGOUGH,
Manager.

JOHN S. GRASSICK & CO.,

FAMILY GROCERS,

WINE AND SPIRIT

MERCHANTS.

167 YONGE ST., TORONTO.

MANSION HOUSE
UXBRIDGE, ONT.

JAS. G. CLYNE, PROPRIETOR

This first-class Hotel is now fully equipped, and furnishes unrivalled accommodation for guests. Good sample rooms for commercial men. Terms moderate.

BOUSTEAD & SCADDING.

AGENTS

NORTHERN FIRE ASSURANCE CO.,

Real Estate and Commission Merchants.

OFFICE,

No. 14 Adelaide Street East,
TORONTO, ONT.

BACK NUMBERS

OF

Canada's Humorous Weekly

GRIP

On hand and for sale at GRIP office,

No. 2 Toronto Street.

W. P. WILLIAMS,

134 QUEEN ST. EAST, TORONTO,
[Between George & Sherbourne.]

DEALER IN

PURE CONFECTIONERY
And Choice Fruits.

A select supply of Canned Fruit, Fish, &c., always on hand.

AMERICAN HOUSE,
BERLIN.

W. L. Bowman, Manager.

This House has been thoroughly renovated, and is now one of the best Commercial Houses west of Toronto.

Conducted on Temperance principles.

G R I P.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabeſt Beaſt is the Aſs; the grabeſt Bird is the Owl;
The grabeſt Fiſh is the Oyſter; the grabeſt Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, JANUARY 30, 1875.

Situations Wanted.

SCENE.—MR. MOWAT'S INTELLIGENCE OFFICE.

(Enter ADAM C—KS and WILLIAM McD—G—L, boys out of place).

MANAGER—(To first Urchin). Well, ADAM, why are you not at the place I recommended you to, at the East End?

URCHIN—Place, sir? Yes, sir. No, sir. Werry sorry, sir. Lost it, sir.

MANAGER—Lost it, sir? I sent you!

URCHIN—If you please, sir, I were going there quite correct, and 'ad no doubt of not hanswering, when hup comes a remarkable vicious party which his name is MATTHEW, which he never 'ad no character, and is continual hup for himperent langwidge in the courts, and pitches into me hunawares, and beat me shameful, and sends me 'ome. And he goes to my place, sir, and he lies hawful, and he gets it, and 'as it. And I come to see about another, sir.

MANAGER—I know him. He has been impertinent to me. I shall most certainly have him discharged,—if I can. I will do what I can for you elsewhere, of course; but what was this against you at your last place?—about borrowing money, and something about oranges?

URCHIN—Them bills for the oranges was most hextravagant, sir. I could not pass them, sir; we 'ad not walue, sir. And the cash I was sent to borrow, sir; it were most hadwantageous, that loan were.

MANAGER—To you, ADAM?

URCHIN—No, sir. O dear, noi sir; I lost by it.

MANAGER—I fear you did. But I will see. And you, sir (to second Urchin), who are you, and what do you want?—why, bless my soul, it is that depraved fellow "Look-to-Washington Bill!"

URCHIN—Please, sir, that were werry long ago. I 'oped it were forgot.

MANAGER—Bless me, what a disreputable object. What have you been doing? Did you not get a place in the country—Saskatchewan Villa, wasn't it?

URCHIN—I went there, sir. SIR JOHN he sent me, and give me a first-class character. But he's a werry slippery case, sir—excessive slippery, sir; and I think he sends word unbeknown on the sly afore I gets there, and they wouldn't let me hin, sir; and they kicks me hout, sir.

MANAGER—That was not compatible, WILLIAM.

URCHIN—Yes, sir, not come-at-a-ble at all that, sitivation was. And I am hout of place hever since, looking for a job hup and down, hover and hunder. And I asks a farmer in East York for a place last week, and he kicks me hout. I comes here in desperation, sir.

MANAGER—I cannot recommend such a character as you, WILLIAM. I would not feel safe with you in my house, WILLIAM.

URCHIN—(Aside). No, nor you won't be, when I gets there, which it is what I means to do. (Exit).

Grip's Epistles to the Boys.

No. III.

MY DEAR CHARLIE,—Perhaps you will say now that you wish you had minded what GRIP told you. You must have known that going round with those street musicians and playing the same tune under people's windows every day was sure to get you into trouble. Then the way in which you and ARCHIBALD used to quarrel every time you met, and throw dabs of mud in each others' faces was very naughty, beside which you were found out in telling stories of each other to the masters. I am very glad to hear your mamma is not going to send you back to school, as you were so very nearly expelled last term. I know you say ADAM and RUPERT were as bad as you were. Perhaps they were worse, as I hear they used to get little fellows to go out and beg from the people who came up by the railway while you went and begged yourself on the street cars. But none of you had any business to beg at all. You all had plenty of money allowed you to spend at the school tuck-shop, and more than enough since they left off selling that nasty whiskey some of the boys used to buy. And Mrs. TORONTO has sent ADAM away herself, so you are not the only one who has been punished. If you ever go back you will have to behave very different-ly, as GRIP is going to look after the school very sharply. Now if you want to go back you had better try to learn your lessons thoroughly, instead of taking that book of yours into class and reading them out of it. If you had only spent half the time in learning your history by heart that you took up in cutting pieces out of other boys' cribs and pasting them in your own, you would have known a great deal more than you do and have passed a better examination. Still you displayed a very creditable amount of industry, though you shouldn't have gone and interrupted the classes by jumping and shouting "you knew," when you were going to read a bit out of your book. You would have done much better in figures if you hadn't got that naughty boy PATTESON to give you that "Key to the Tutor's Assistant." If you had only worked the sums for yourself you might have seen the figures were all wrong. It is a great pity, CHARLIE, that you got into such bad habits, as when you first got to school every one thought you were a very clever little boy and would get into the head class and be made a monitor. But you have no one but yourself to blame for what has happened to you. I hear there is a chance of your being allowed to return to school and hope you will mind what I have told you if you do return.

Yours affectionately,
Grip.

A Word to the Premier.

SWORN in full fourteen months ago,
You've precious little done, you know;
GRIP thinks you're most confounded slow—
MACKENZIE.

How quick each stinging sentence rung
When at Sir JOHN hard names you flung,
And loosed on DUFFERIN your tongue—
MACKENZIE.

MACDONALD's blunders were not small;
Yet he did work; you names could call,
But don't do any work at all—
MACKENZIE.

Pacific lines might bear delay,
But you'd right soon, you used to say,
Improve St. Lawrence' vast highway—
MACKENZIE.

On that highway no work you've done—
Nay, hardly anything begun;
The Welland work of yours was none—
MACKENZIE.

If this be sample of the way
'Tis to be done, in time it may;
But we shan't live to see the day—
MACKENZIE.

Grip's Examination Questions.

In view of the Law Examinations now pending, GRIP submits to the Benchers of the Law Society and to the Students a few questions, the solution of which would, in his opinion, enlighten the profession and the public generally.

1. Can the uniform of the police force be termed livrey of seisin?
2. Under certain circumstances, is a mother-in-law to be considered a "subsequent incumbrancer?"
3. If A. pay attention to B. (a femme sole), C. the father of B. dis-sentiente, is A's interest legal or equitable?
4. Is arrest by mesne process likely to occasion contempt of court?
5. Shew the difference (by Police Court Reports) between an Estate pur outre vie, and the created par eau de vie.
6. Is a sheriff on the flight of an execution debtor to be considered as the victim of an unrequited "attachment?"
7. Can the present Police Magistrate of Toronto be considered as an exemplification of the "Statute of Frauds?"
8. Where an Action will lie, is truthfulness yet presumed on the part of the Plaintiff?

To the "Mail."

Most clever young editor, ruling the Mail,
Pray, how do you like the new Liberal's tale?
"Your party thanks you for the place it has got"—
GRIP thinks that you caught it that time rather hot.
If that's the idea that's now to prevail,
GRIP wouldn't be manager—not of the Mail.

Total Prohibition of Woman Alliance.

The terrible evils arising from the existence of Woman in the community loudly call for measures to relieve Humanity of this frightful source of all its troubles since the Creation to this hour. Every means hitherto adopted to regulate this curse by legal, moral and religious influences, has utterly failed. Men are led daily into extravagant, idle and dissolute habits, involving bankruptcy in body, mind and estate, solely by the blighting influence of Woman. So associated with mischief is she that it is a proverb when any wrong-doing is discussed, "A Woman is at the bottom of it." But for Woman our Gaols would be empty, and our Lunatic Asylums, Girls' Homes, Magdalen Retreats, Millinery Stores and False Hair Depots would not exist to shame our civilization and empty our pockets. Besides being the cause of these disgraceful institutions, Woman is the greatest drag on the industry of the people. But for her demands what comforts might not the poorest enjoy! Religion is made almost impossible by her influence, as she obtrudes even into the Churches and drags down the mind to vanity by her seductive fascinations, glances, and new bonnets. As modern philanthropy has established the principle that nothing capable of abuse must be used; that nothing which a wise man may innocently enjoy, which fools may pervert to evil, shall be tolerated, it follows that Woman must be abolished! Until public opinion is fully ripe for an utter destruction of the sex, their number must be restrained. Now they are seen on every street; every house has one of these agencies of evil; nay, there are such awful instances of recklessness as the toleration of more than one under the same roof, giving rise to incessant quarrels, disputes, back-biting, sewing meetings, bad dinners, and other fearful evils. A public meeting will be held shortly to organize the TOTAL PROHIBITION OF WOMAN ALLIANCE. SNOW-BROTH BLOOD, Esq., has consented to preside, whose efforts to freeze the genial, therefore dangerous, current of social life has raised him to the front rank of modern philanthropists.

Bachelors over seventy, widowers who have killed their wives, woman-haters for any reason, will be made honorary members. A pledge will be submitted for signature binding all signers to obtain a divorce if married, or if single never to marry, and to discountenance Woman by never trading or associating with any person who is married or attends any place, be it Church, Theatre, Store or Dwelling where Woman is allowed to enter. Fathers having female children will not be allowed to join until they have buried them. A petition will be ready for signature demanding of the Government that it abolish Marriage Licenses. A list of those Clergy who celebrate marriages will be published, and members will be required to withdraw from their Churches.

A subscription will be taken up to provide funds for building a shed where citizens may take their obnoxious wives, mothers-in-law, servant girls, or any other female they may wish to be rid of, where they will be treated by a new vapor which will, without pain, instantly rid society of its pests at a very small cost, economy being a great point in this and similar reforms. A public bon-fire will be held every week on which citizens may throw chignons, figure improvers and all other feminine snares, the destruction of which will rapidly reduce the power of Woman and her numbers, as thousands will never survive the loss of their fondest delights.

N.B.—A "Lady's Man" will be exhibited at the meeting as a frightful example of the degradation to which Woman can reduce the Lord of Creation in body, mind and clothes. By orders.

THE PROVISIONAL COMMITTEE OF T. P. W. ALLIANCE.

Pastoral Letter.

THE Reverend Mr. GRIP, who has appointed himself Coadjutor to all Bishops and other high ecclesiastical dignitaries, sends herewith his pastoral benediction to the Episcopal clergy in Toronto, congratulating them on their zeal in the cause, which fills their city papers with clerical controversy, where their earnestness is evinced by remarkably violent personal abuse. He congratulates them also on their anxiety to bear ridicule in the cause of their Divine Master—a praiseworthy work of supererogation, as there was no necessity for it, and on the thorough manner in which they have performed it, having rendered themselves the laughing-stock of Toronto. Truly, Mr. GRIP piously exclaims, a Church Militant indeed! The Reverend Coadjutor also gladly remembers that reciprocal flagellation has been considered acceptable mortification, and therefore with great joy observes its sound laying-on, hoping for excellent results. Mr. GRIP is likewise delighted that prospective loss of stipend has no terrors for them, as their congregations, whose weak faith regards such contests as unseemly, will leave them. He begs that they will allow no such consideration to prevent them fighting the good fight, even unto the end thereof. Destitution, he gladly remarks, need not follow loss of occupation, as he has made arrangements that all clergymen and graduates now valiantly contending can, when convenient (and perhaps the sooner the better), take up their residence in a large temple at the west end, the name of the officiating priest of which is WORKMAN.

Croaks from Grip's Basket.

GRIP has often heard it said that Scotchmen are incapable of either making or taking a joke. But that is surely a mistake; for we read in the Guelph Mercury edited—we understand by a Scotchman—that on the line of the G. T. R. passing through that town "there is no midnight train on Monday morning." Brother INNES, you may go to the head of the class!

Now that the Liberal has made its appearance, is it any harm to ask if there is a prospect of the Globe being inundated and washed away by an overflow of the Great B-lake?

Mr. PICKE and Miss ONION were recently married in London. Significant!

GRIP learns that our Washington Ambassador while at the Falls recently saw the following couplet written in a hotel register:

"Next to the joy of seeing Sairey
Is that of seeing Ni-ag-ary."

and immediately added:

"Wiped off the map, because that it
Would not elect a good Clear Grit."

To Sister Sarah.

MILTONIC ODE.

Saint Sally fair,
Listen where thou art splashing,
Beside some glassy, cool, translucent well,
The rinsing-water in thy wash-tub dashing
Through twining folds of altar-linen there;
Listen for thy Church's sake;
Goddess of the soapy lake,
Listen and tell
To DARLING of the Ritual,
And WHITTAKER who is his pal,
And those who, of the Church called Low,
For them in newspapers do go,
And every priest and graduate
Who has been writing spite of late,
That as the dome
Of Trinity sees not thy boiler's tin in
So they should always wash their dirty linen
At home.

Lines

(Dedicated to the 138 unsuccessful competitors for the prize of $20 given by the proprietors of the Montreal Witness for the best poem on "Erin.")

Ye bards! whom the liberal prize did arouse—
Who were never poets before—
Your souls, though attuned to the strains of the Harp,
Could never to poetry soar.

Alas! that so many should suddenly find
Their genius depart with the year;
Alas! that in praising the Greenest of Isles,
The tint should contagious appear.

Telegraphic Enigmas.

The editor of the Hamilton Spectator really should not mix his drinks, or else his Toronto correspondent should be content with hot water and sugar only. The following are the two first paragraphs of the despatch from Toronto which appeared in our Tory contemporary of the Ambitious City, which GRIP reprints verbatim et literatim as the best samples of Chinese puzzle which he has met with this season:—

Jan. 20.—It is currently reported that has offered to resign his seat, but that the petitioners wish to push the matter to the bitter end.
It is said that Jerry Merrick with the reformers for not supporting O'Donohue of the Catholic League, that he has broken with his party.

Can Such Things Be?

The following despatch which appeared under the head of "Spain" in the Toronto Sun the other day is really alarming:—

MADRID, Jan. 10.—King Alfonso gave a dinner last evening to the members of his Cabinet and the diplomatic corps.

GRIP remembers to have heard a ditty reciting how "Alonzo the Brave" appeared from the lower regions at the wedding of his recreant spouse; but that King ALFONSO should really entertain a corpse at dinner is infinitely more astonishing.

MRS. MORRISON'S
GRAND
OPERA HOUSE

ADELAIDE ST. WEST.

Mrs. MORRISON, - - Manageress.

Mr. COULDOCK, - Stage Manager.

ON MONDAY,

A Miscellaneous Entertainment for the Benefit
of

House of Providence.

ON TUESDAY,

GOUGH'S LECTURE,

UNDER THE AUSPICES OF THE Mechanics Institute.

ON WEDNESDAY,

BAKER

and

FARRON,

THE CELEBRATED DELINEATORS OF GERMAN CHARACTERS,

Will commence an engagement of Four Nights and one Matinee in their very beautiful Drama entitled

CHRIS AND LENA

PUBLISHERS'
ANNOUNCEMENT.

THE PUBLISHERS OF

G
R
I
P

In thanking their numerous friends in all parts of the Dominion for the liberal patronage which has been accorded their publication since the issue of its first number, take pleasure in stating that under the new management the paper is progressing more favorably than ever before. Since the new office has been opened on Toronto Street, the circulation has increased by the hundred each week; and to-day we publish a larger edition than has ever yet been issued. Considering that no great social or political question at present agitates the public mind, this increase is rather remarkable; while it is perhaps the most substantial evidence that could be given of GRIP'S increasing popularity with all classes.

The independent view which GRIP has taken on all matters of public interest, and the continued originality and truthfulness of the cartoons, have won the highest encomiums from persons of every possible shade of political opinion. It is needless to say that this independent course will be continued, and that no inducement will swerve the publishers from their intention to make GRIP "the fearless corrector of public morals, and the wise director of public opinion, regardless of party," as one of our ablest exchanges pithily puts it.

CONTRIBUTIONS,

no matter how short, provided they are "sharp and shiny," will always be welcome, and the writers will be liberally dealt with.

SUBSCRIBERS

Who leave their names at the office will have the paper forwarded to their address each week.

ADVERTISERS

Who desire communication with the best class of customers that it is possible to obtain, can learn advertising rates on application at the office,

No. 2 Toronto Street,
TORONTO.

USE THE DIAMOND YEAST CAKE!

INSURE YOUR LIFE

WITH THE

UNION MUTUAL

Life Insurance Comp'y.

ORGANIZED 1848—26 YEARS' EXPERIENCE.

PURELY MUTUAL.

No Unnecessary Restrictions. Unequalled Liberality.

ASSETS—TEN MILLION DOLLARS.

DIRECTOR'S OFFICE:

153 Tremont Street, BOSTON.

It is Strong.
It is Prompt.
It is Economical.

It is Liberal.
It is Safe.
It is Reliable.

Being purely Mutual, and having no stock, it is managed by the members for their own benefit. It furnishes Insurance at the least possible Cost. Every dollar of the excess over losses and expenses

IS APPORTIONED AMONG THE POLICY-
HOLDERS.

These Dividends are made payable at the end of the second year, and annually thereafter; and may be applied to the Reduction of Premiums.

IT MAKES ALL

POLICIES NON-FORFEITABLE.

The percentage of expenses and death losses are not only lower than the average of all other Companies, but less than those of any company of equal age.

It issues all kinds of Policies at Low Rates of Premiums; grants its members the largest liberty consistent with prudence and safety, and promptly adjusts and pays its losses.

It insures only First-class Lives.

Its Interest Receipts more than Pay Losses.

Its Premiums are Low, and may be paid Annually, Semi-Annually, or Quarterly.

Its Solvency is Beyond Question.

J. H. McNAIRN,

General Agent for the Provinces of Ontario and Manitoba.

Temple Chambers, Toronto-St., Toronto.

COR. JARVIS & ADELAIDE STS.,
Toronto, Ont.

JOHN D. NASMITH,
Manufacturer of

BREAD, ROLLS, BUNS, CAKES, &c., &c

A superior article of Bread delivered daily throughout the city.

TO THE TRADE ONLY

FOR LATEST PATTERNS IN
ALL KINDS OF REAL AND IMITATION
HAIR GOODS,
At Lowest Wholesale Prices.

APPLY TO THE

New Dominion Chignon Factory,
96 YONGE ST, TORONTO,
FRANCIS J. BORMUTH, Proprietor.

THE POLITICAL INTELLIGENCE OFFICE;
OR, SITUATIONS WANTED.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE.

GRIP is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, No. 2 Toronto Street, one door from King Street.

Subscription price, $2 per annum; single copies 5 cents. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied.

Advertisements and subscriptions received at the office, to which all communications should be addressed.

THOMAS BENGOUGH,
Business Manager,
No. 2 Toronto St., Toronto.

E. B. HOLT & CO.,
FURNITURE DEALERS

149 Yonge St., Toronto.

Upholstering in all its Branches.

LOVELOCK, STOVEL & CO.,
BOOK AND JOB

Printers,

32 COLBORNE STREET,
TORONTO.

A. FOX,
YORKVILLE

BOOT & SHOE MART.

Gents', Ladies' & Misses Shoes

Of every description.

Special attention given to measurement.

J. LITTLETON.

Groceries & Provisions,

A SELECT STOCK OF

CANNED FRUITS, FISH & OYSTERS

Always on hand.

Yonge St., Yorkville.

SCARTH, COCHRAN & CO.,
STOCK BROKERS;

Real Estate Agents,

38 Toronto Street, Toronto.

W. B. SCARTH, J. L. SCARTH,
R. COCHRAN.

FYLES FOR "GRIP,"

Neat, Cheap, Durable,
Convenient.

Will keep the papers in excellent order and ready for the binder. For sale at GRIP office,

No. 2 Toronto Street, where orders should be addressed.

ISAAC PITMAN'S

(ENGLISH)

PHONOGRAPHIC
PUBLICATIONS.

The Phonographic Teacher,
Manual of Phonography,
Key to Phonographic Exercises,
Phonographic Phrase Book,
Phonetic Journal, published weekly
in Learner's Corresponding and
Reporting styles of Phonography,
and also Phonetic and Common
Print. Address,

THOMAS BENGOUGH,
GRIP Office, Toro

NOTMAN & FRASER, PHOTOGRAPHERS TO THE QUEEN,

39, 41, & 43 King Street East, Toronto,
AND AT MONTREAL AND HALIFAX

TORONTO, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1875.

NEW OFFICE, }
2 TORONTO ST. }

The grabst Beast is the Ass; the grabst Bird is the Owl;
The grabst Fish is the Oyster; the grabst Man is the Fool.

{ $2 A YEAR
{ 5 CTS. EACH

PIANOS—MARSHALL & WENDELL.

"I believe that there is no better piano to stand in tune at any price."

W. K. Nixon, Chicago.

We have in our institution a Marshall & Wendell Piano, that has only been tuned three times, though used constantly for over six years practising and giving lessons on, and is now in good order.

M. J. STACEY, Lenox, Mich., U.S.

I have had them in daily use for two years without tuning and still in good tune. NOLTE & BACON, Peoria.

LESLIE, SKIRROW & SMITH,
93 Yonge Street, Toronto.

Trade supplied with Knabe, Stodart, Light & Ernst, Simmons & Clough and Geo. Wood & Co's Organs.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach GRIP office, not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

CONTRIBUTIONS, when accepted, will, for the present, be paid for at the rate of Two DOLLARS per column. All articles for which payment is expected must be accompanied by the name and address of the author.

GRIP

Will in future be

Supplied to the Trade

Direct from the Office of Publication,

No. 2 Toronto Street,
Instead of through A. S. Irving's agency.

Prompt and personal attention will be given to all orders from the country.

TOMAS BENGOUGH,
Manager.

JOHN S. GRASSICK & CO.,
FAMILY GROCERS

WINE AND SPIRIT

MERCHANTS

167 YONGE ST., TORONTO.

MANSION HOUSE
UXBRIDGE, ONT.

JAS. S. CLYNE, PROPRIETOR

This first-class Hotel is now fully equipped, and furnishes unrivalled accommodation for guests. Good sample rooms for commercial men. Terms moderate.

BOUSTEAD & SCADDING.

AGENTS

NORTHERN FIRE ASSURANCE CO.,

Real Estate and Commission Merchants.

OFFICE,
No. 14 Adelaide Street East,
TORONTO, ONT.

BACK NUMBERS

OF

Canada's Humorous Weekly

GRIP

On hand and for sale at GRIP office,

No. 2 Toronto Street.

W. P. WILLIAMS,
134 QUEEN ST. EAST, TORONTO,
[Between George & Sherbourne.]

DEALER IN

PURE CONFECTIONERY
And Choice Fruits.

A select supply of Canned Fruit, Fish, &c., always on hand.

AMERICAN HOUSE,
BERLIN.

W. L. Bowman, Manager.

This House has been thoroughly renovated, and is now one of the best Commercial Houses west of Toronto.

Conducted on Temperance principles.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabeſt Beaſt is the Aſs ; the grabeſt Bird is the Owl ;
The grabeſt Fiſh is the Oyſter ; the grabeſt Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1875.

Conservative Veracity.

COMPILED FROM VARIOUS TORY JOURNALS.

Sir John Macdonald loquitor.

To Dufferin—I own the act was all your own ; your Lordship says quite true.

To Mackenzie—You tell abominable lies ; you told him what to do.

To Dufferin—Just my advice ; I always said Her Majesty should act.

To Mackenzie—Transferred your proper functions, sir ; a most disgraceful fact.

To Dufferin—Your Lordship's commutation's done the very thing I should.

To Mackenzie—How dared you not to hang him, sir, when you declared you would ?

To Dufferin—Your Lordship knows to get him off I ventured everything.

To Mackenzie—Vile wretch, if I had caught the man, you should have seen him swing.

An Editorial for the "Church Chimes."

THE BEAUTIES OF RITUALISM.

By Rev A. W. J—ns—n, Weston.

RITUALISM is a good thing to teach your grandmother to suck eggs. I repeat, it's a bully thing. How is that for High ? I am an old Ritualist myself, and it has made a gentleman and a scholar out of me. I don't think there is any other power in the universe that could have accomplished that. It gives a person a sort of Christian feeling towards his fellow creatures ; it tones down his natural passions and ignorance, and renders him beloved by all. Some men don't practice it, because they say they don't believe it's the proper mode of worship. Such persons are rowdies and fools. They go hob-nobbing in yonder bar-room and drinking whiskey as long as they can get it without paying. There is a thing called the Church Association which don't believe in Ritualism. They claim to be Christians ; they are no more Christians than I am ! I understand this Association is going to yank some of us fellows up before the church tribunals for our goings on. Let them yank and be darned. That reminds me of the Yankee who tried to stop the Falls of Niagara with his father's ox-yoke. Again I might say, there are some young gentlemen—or if they would not be too much offended I would follow the bent of my nature, and call them jackasses—who don't believe in Ritualism. They are a miserable, scurvy crew. Ritualism is the science of conveying the truth by external forms. I am in good external form myself just now, and would like to have an opportunity of conveying some truth into the minds of a few archdeacons and others I could mention. I love our peace-making Lord Bishop, but I'll be hanged if I don't hate the Church Association for a pack of pusillanimous cusses. Here endeth the editorial.

Free Legal Advice.

The legal questions propounded in our last number proved entirely too much for the young gentlemen who were then assembled in the examination room at Osgoode Hall, but, determined that the general public should be put in possession of the legal knowledge implied. GRIP has, at his own expense, secured answers to all the queries from the highest authority within his reach, and has infinite pleasure in setting them forth :

Q. Can the uniform of the police force be termed livery of seisin ?
A. No ; see sec. 2 of the Act "de bobibus peeleribusque." (Blake, Kerr & Boyd).

Q. Under certain circumstances, is a mother-in-law to be considered a "subsequent incumbrancer" ?

A. Yes, when she is tenant for life by the courtsey (?) (Harrison, Oster & Moss).

Q. If A. pay attention to B. (a femme sole), C. the father of B. dis-sentiente, is A's interest legal, or equitable ?

A. Equitable ; because the chances are small of C. being his father-in-law. (Beatty, Chadwick & Lash).

Q. Is arrest by mesne process likely to occasion contempt of court ?

A. No ! because "black ca. re. (care) sits behind the horseman." (McLennan, Downey & Henderson).

Q. Shew the difference (by Police Court Reports) between an Estate pur outre vie, and that created par eau de vie.

A. A man dips his beak into the one, and the other brings the Beak unto him. (McDonald & Badgerow).

Q. Is a sheriff on the flight of an execution debtor to be considered as the victim of an unrequited "attachment" ?

A. Give it up, as the Sheriff did. (Milloy & Browning).

Q. Can the present Police Magistrate of Toronto be considered as an exemplification of the "Statute of Frauds" ?

A. No, but of the statute quia emptores (because buyers want whiskey.) (R. M. Allen & Co.).

Q. Where an Action will lie, is truthfulness yet presumed on the part of the Plaintiff ?

A. Yes ; because, though the action may lie, he is sure to get some lawyer to pick it up for him from where it is lying. (Nicholas Murphy).

Very Like a Whale.

(Air—Very much Yankee Doodle.)

GEORDIE went to Washington

Upon a little hobby,

Think's he—I'll be a K. C. B.,

Won't that be very nobby ?

Chorus—Yankee Doodle, &c.

GEORDIE found a taking bait

To catch a little fish, sir,

A sliding scale would catch a whale,

Thought he, to fill his dish, sir.

Chorus—Yankee Doodle, &c.

GEORDIE failed to get a bite,

And found it all vexation ;

"Reciprocity, I find," says he,

"Is nothing but ———."

Chorus—Yankee Doodle, &c.

The newspapers they all agreed

He was so patriotic,

For they, you see, got subsidy,

And douceurs idiotic.

Chorus—Yankee Doodle, &c.

Alack, alas, and well-a-day

That Grits such snubs should suffer !

But blunders will annoy them still

When they employ a duffer.

Chorus—Yankee Doodle, &c.

Pacific Railway Questions to the Ministry.

Q. (Arithmetical)—If in one year you have done nothing, how long will it take you to enlarge the canals between Toronto and the tide-water ?

Q. (Technical)—Are you aware that spades are trumps, and that if there are none in your hands, you had better throw up the game ?

Q. (Suggestive)—Do you think you could dig if a vote of No Confidence were to pass ?

Q.—Couldn't you devise some better way of ruining Toronto than by building that French River branch of the Pacific Railway ?

Straight Advice to Mr. Crooks.

(Shakesperian.)

O ! mighty Adam, hast thou no hope left ?

Is ambition, energy and action themselves quite dead ?

Or dost thou live to stir ? I do beseech you, for I mean you well,

Now that the desire is yet quite hot, to speak !

And let crying justice lean where she has right to stand ;

Live a thousand years—I shall never cease to wish

Till thou on civil strides does to York post straight

To meet the "ever gentle turning of the LANE."

This place will greet thee and make thee rank

The political gem of the present age.

LOYALTY IN A QUANDARY;

OR, THE "LEPINE CASE" MADE PLAIN.

The Poor Blind Man--An Allegory.

SMALL BOY.—“Lib’ral, sir—on’y two cents?”

SMALL POLITICIAN.—“Where is’t, laddie, I don’t see it!”

Croaks from Grip’s Basket.

MODERN “nut” crackers—Policemen’s Batons.

ATTENDANCE to business makes quite a “balance to partners.”

AN old “card” to deal with—a Bachelor—he “plays it alone.”

GRIP would like to know why the front of Osgoode Hall is never whitewashed. Is it because the Benchers have become so enamored of Blackstone?

When may a law student be said to resemble a euchre-player?—When he has “passed.”

THE Sun seriously “feared,” yesterday, that “its readers might have been carried away by the brilliant visions of the new Yankee silver mines.” Mistaken Sun;—they had gone and bought the Liberal.

SINCE General Hazen has taught the Americans that they’ve reached the limit of their arable land, would it not be better to change “E pluribus unum” to “ne plus ultra?”

THE Globe is not aware of the existence of the new Toronto daily. There’s a good deal it’s not aware of. But this is too bad. A Reform journal of its own particular stripe and war-paint, which came here in the innocence of its heart to help the Globe finish that won’t-be-killed hydra Sir JOHN, and print Government advertisements, which were getting too many for it! And won’t know it! ACHILLES BLAKE, where hidest thou in thy briefs?—PATROCLOS CAMERON is being ignored to death in the streets! E. B., pitch into G. B., or it will be all U. P. with P. C.

THEY are going to try Dean GRASSETT for being too low. Lately, Sir JOHN was abused for getting too high. It is difficult to please Canadians.

THE National is out with an improved plan for parliamentary voting. The worst of those Canada First fellows is their impudence in having ideas. In the columns of the two respectable old parties, now, one never finds such incendiary things. Little Ca-na-di-ans, do not venture in to new and un-known fields, but keep step-ping qui-et-ly in your lit-tle tread-mill of pre-ce-dent, so that JOHN A. and G. B. can al-ter-na-te-ly grind their little ax-es on the shaft.

A Sunday Story from Goderich.

THE editor of one of our Western exchanges thus relates what he calls “a little domestic incident” which has come to his knowledge:

On Sunday afternoon last a good mother observing her young hopeful reading a newspaper, ordered him to put it down and read one of his Sunday-school books, intimating that she had repeatedly informed him not to read newspapers on Sunday. The young ten year old stoutly replied: “Ma, this is the Goderich Star.” This he thought a clincher—no harm to read that paper on Sunday.

GRIP is pained to think that his genial friend has, from interested motives, withheld the remainder of this truly touching anecdote. But let justice be done though the Star falls; GRIP feels it incumbent upon him to continue the narrative:

Alas, for youthful indiscretion, it was not a clincher. His Ma was not only a good woman but also a friend of honest government, and in a manner too painful to dwell upon, she impressed it upon the mind of her son that it was indeed harm to read that paper on Sunday, and even injudicious to give ear unto its counsels during the week.

A Song of the Times.

Tune—“Green Grow the Rushes, O.”

“There’s naught but care on every man”—
A dreary dull reality;
“What signifies the life of man”
If ’twas not for rascality?

CHORUS—Long live rascality,
Long live rascality;
The happiest time a man can spend
Is in practising rascality.

Should you commence in humble life
And wish to rise to quality,
The best and safest path to take
Is well concealed rascality.

You’ll find it in the course of trade
A certain speciality;
For fortune creeps close at the heels
Of cunning, cool rascality.

In politics there’s ample scope,
There’s “political morality”;
The widest field that’s yet been found
For unblushing, bold rascality.

See here is one who wants a slice
In a mineral locality;
Another sells the people’s trust—
A fifty cent rascality.

Our Land Swaps and Pacific Jobs
Are quite a nationality;
When all are fighting tooth and nail
To profit by rascality.

Our city “Pa’s” how they indulge
In biting personality;
While each unto the other hints
A hankering for rascality.

And subtle priests are sorely vexed
With growing rationality;
While the way they tear each other’s coats
Is laughter for rascality.

How greatly changed the black brigade
A stupid dull formality;
A miserable falling off
In talent and rascality.

The Fourth Estate’s been sadly curbed,
Unfortunate fatality;
For “Libel Suits” have somewhat cooled
Their revelling in rascality.

Why are our taverns so beset
With gross illiberality?
Why should they not be without bounds
Blest havens of rascality!

Now out upon that sordid crew
Base preachers of frugality;
Who brought the sneaking ballot-box
To stem our loved rascality.

But such a state cannot exist;
What’s life without venality;
Where every man may have his price
As in the old rascality?

Note by a Teetotaler.

JUSTICE GWYNNE has just said, if the Major could dive Down into the sea and come up really dry, He might, on his soul, be inclined to believe That Major WALKER knew naught of his friend’s bribery; But Oh! how I grieve, how I grieve that at first he Did not further say—In this land of strong drinking A Major there lives who could dive in the sea, And, if not very dry, would at least come up thirsty. Am I wrong, my sweet GRIP, when I say you will see That the Major I mean is the major-ity!

MRS. MORRISON'S
GRAND
OPERA HOUSE
ADELAIDE ST. WEST.

Mrs. MORRISON, - - Manageress.

Mr. COULDOCK, - Stage Manager.

On Monday, Feb. 8th,

MRS. MORRISON'S

GRAND
OPERA HOUSE BALL!

TUESDAY, FEB. 9TH,

FIRST NIGHT OF THE

MISSSES WEATHERSBY,

ELIZA & JENNIE,

Late of the Strand Theatre, London. The acknowledged Queens of genteel Burlesque and Opera Bouffe.

ALADDIN

OR THE

WONDERFUL SCAMP

To Correspondents and Contributors

W. E. C., Scarboro.—Thanks. Will be glad to hear from you as often as convenient.
Coto.—Crowded out this week.

G. S. C., Guelph.—We are always ready to pay for contributions, provided they are suitable.

Author of "Civic."—Thanks, but hardly suitable.

A. McK., Toronto.—Rather out of time.
SNUG, Toronto.—Your production is too local in its application.

Box 1048, Toronto.—Thanks for your efforts in our behalf.

Box 153, Toronto.—Let us hear from you again.

MILDMAY.—Shall be glad at all times to hear from you.

COCKNEY, London, Eng.—It is very fallacious for you to suppose that Canadians slide down Niagara Falls in winter. Some have tried the experiment, and as the result have—gone up.

A.C.D.—You have GRIP's hearty thanks.
T.—Good.

E. H. J., Sarnia.—Sketches very clever, though not practically useful at present.

NEMO.—Excellent; always ready to give insertion to productions of such merit.

E. L. F.—Your article arrived too late for this week. Copy should be sent to GRIP office by Wednesday at latest.

IN PRESS

And will be ready February 15th,

Dr. Newman's Reply

TO

MR. GLADSTONE'S PAMPHLET.

PRICE 20 CENTS.

AND

THE HISTORY

OF THE

Vatican Council,

TOGETHER WITH THE

LATIN & ENGLISH TEXT OF THE PAPAL SYLLABUS

AND THE VATICAN DECREES.

Price 20 Cents.

Trade orders solicited.

A. S. IRVING & CO.,

Publishers,

TORONTO.

USE THE

DIAMOND YEAST CAKE!

INSURE YOUR LIFE

WITH THE

UNION MUTUAL

Life Insurance Comp'y.

ORGANIZED 1848—26 YEARS' EXPERIENCE.

PURELY MUTUAL.

No Unnecessary Restrictions. Unequalled Liberality.

ASSETS—TEN MILLION DOLLARS.

DIRECTOR'S OFFICE:

153 Tremont Street, BOSTON.

It is Strong.
It is Prompt.
It is Economical.

It is Liberal.
It is Safe.
It is Reliable.

Being purely Mutual, and having no stock, it is managed by the members for their own benefit. It furnishes Insurance at the least possible Cost. Every dollar of the excess over losses and expenses

IS APPORTIONED AMONG THE POLICY-HOLDERS.

These Dividends are made payable at the end of the second year, and annually thereafter; and may be applied to the Reduction of Premiums.

IT MAKES ALL

POLICIES NON-FORFEITABLE.

The percentage of expenses and death losses are not only lower than the average of all other Companies, but less than those of any company of equal age.

It issues all kinds of Policies at Low Rates of Premiums; grants its members the largest liberty consistent with prudence and safety, and promptly adjusts and pays its losses.

It Insures only First-class Lives.

Its Interest Receipts more than Pay Losses.

Its Premiums are Low, and may be paid Annually, Semi-Annually, or Quarterly.

Its Solvency is Beyond Question.

J. H. McNAIRN,

General Agent for the Provinces of Ontario and Manitoba.

Temple Chambers, Toronto-St., Toronto.

COR. JARVIS & ADELAIDE STS.,
Toronto, Ont.

JOHN D. NASMITH,

Manufacturer of

BREAD, ROLLS, BUNS, CAKES, &c., &c.

A superior article of Bread delivered daily throughout the city.

TO THE TRADE ONLY

FOR LATEST PATTERNS IN
ALL KINDS OF REAL AND IMITATION
HAIR GOODS,
At Lowest Wholesale Prices.

APPLY TO THE

New Dominion Chignon Factory,
96 YONGE ST, TORONTO,
FRANCIS J. BORMUTH, Proprietor.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE.

Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, No. 20 Adelaide Street, East.

Subscription price, $2 per annum; single copies 5 cents. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied.

Advertisements and subscriptions received at the office, to which all communications should be addressed.

GEORGE BENGOUGH,
Business Manager,
No. 20 Adelaide St., Toronto.

VICTORIA

Photographic Gallery,

386 QUEEN ST. WEST,

TORONTO.

T. HANSFORD, PROPRIETOR.

INSURANCE

PRINTING

A Specialty.

LOVELOCK, STOVEL & CO,

32 COLBORNE STREET.

A. FOX,

YORKVILLE

BOOT & SHOE MART.

Gents', Ladies' & Misses Shoes

Of every description.

Special attention given to measurement.

J. LITTLETON.

Groceries & Provisions,

A SELECT STOCK OF

CANNED FRUITS, FISH & OYSTERS

'Always on hand.

Yonge St., Yorkville.

SCARTH, COCHRAN & CO.,

STOCK BROKERS,

Members of the Stock Exchange,

Real Estate Agents,

38 Toronto Street, Toronto.

W. B. SCARTH, R. COCHRAN.

References—J. Stevenson, Quebec

Bank; Dominion Bank, Toronto.

LITHOGRAPHY

If you want your

ILLHEADS,

CARDS, NOTES,

DRAFTS, &c.,

ONE IN FIRST-CLASS STYLE,

At moderate figures, go to

J. GEBHARDT & Co.,

13 ADELAIDE STREET EAST.

ISAAC PITMAN'S

(ENGLISH)

HONOGRAPHIC

PUBLICATIONS.

Photographic Teacher,

Manual of Phonography,

to Phonographic Exercises,

Phonographic Phrase Book,

Graphic Journal, published weekly in London. Conventions and reporting styles of Phonography,

also Phonetic and Common

Int. Address,

THOMAS BENGOUGH,

Grip Office.

NOTMAN & FRASER,

PHOTOGRAPHERS TO THE QUEEN,

39, 41, & 43 King Street East, Toronto,

AND AT MONTREAL AND HALIFAX

TORONTO, SATURDAY, MARCH 13, 1875.

NEW OFFICE,
20 ADELAIDE ST.

The grabest Beast is the Ass; the grabest Bird is the Owl;
The grabest Fish is the Oyster; the grabest Man is the Fool.

{ $2 A YEAR
{ 5 CTS. EACH

CLOUGH AND WARREN ORGAN CO.

(Late Simmons & Clough.)

For power and beauty of tone we think it far excels the Mason & Hamlin, Burdett or any other instrument of like character with which we have ever met.—Spirit of the West, Walla Walla, W. T.

"The" Organ of the day.—Prof. Edwin Wilsey.

GEO. WOODS & CO'S Organs Unexcelled for variety of musical effect.

LESLIE, SKIRROW & SMITH,

93 Yonge Street, Toronto.

Trade supplied with Knabe, Stodart, Light & Ernst, Simmons & Clough and Geo. Wood & Co's Organs.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach GRIP office, not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

CONTRIBUTIONS, when accepted, will, for the present, be paid for at the rate of Two DOLLARS per column. All articles for which payment is expected must be accompanied by the name and address of the author.

SIGN OF THE

GOLDEN BOOT,

200 YONGE STREET.

Gents' Gaiters and Lace Boots, our own make, hand pegged and hand sewed, sizes and half sizes. Cannot be beat for Style and Quality at the price in the Dominion.

Winter Goods

SELLING BELOW COST.

Come and see them.

WM. WEST & CO.,

"Golden Boot." 200 Yonge St.

JOHN S. GRASSICK & CO.,

FAMILY GROCERS

WINE AND SPIRIT

MERCHANTS

167 YONGE ST., TORONTO.

MANSION HOUSE

UXBRIDGE, ONT.

JAS. S. CLYNE, PROPRIETOR

This first-class Hotel is now fully equipped, and furnishes unrivalled accommodation for guests. Good sample rooms for commercial men. Terms moderate.

EVERY GENTLEMAN SHOULD

Send his

SHIRTS AND COLLARS

To be dressed at the city Laundry,

COR. BAY AND ADELAIDE.

WILLIAM LEE - - Proprietor.

WANTED!

Back Numbers of Grip.

VOL. I. Nos. 10, 11, 13, 14, 19, 21.

VOL. III. No. 7.

VOL. IV. No. 5.

Persons having any of the above to spare will oblige by communicating with GRIP Office, 20 Adelaide Street.

W. P. WILLIAMS,

134 QUEEN ST. EAST, TORONTO,

[Between George & Sherbourne]

DEALER IN

PURE CONFECTIONERY

And Choice Fruits.

A select supply of Canned Fruit, Fish, &c., always on hand.

BUY

BOOTH'S

CHECKER

LOZENGES.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabest Beast is the Ass; the grabest Bird is the Owl;
The grabest Fish is the Oyster; the grabest Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, MARCH 13, 1875.

Notice of Removal.

GRIP has removed to his new office, No. 20 Adelaide Street, near the Postoffice.

To Correspondents and Contributors.

UNIVERSITY SCHOLAR.—We think you are correct. Shakespeare must have referred to a woman at a mangle when he said, "For she can turn and turn and still go on."

CONSERVATIVE SUBSCRIBER.—No, the paper you mention is neither split nor pronounced Lie-beral.

Grip's Advice to Mills.

HEAR the sober voice of MILLS,

DAVID MILLS,
How the buildings parliamentary at Ottawa it thrills,
As he tells to all within it
The shortcomings of the Senate,
And how useless the position that it fills.
Oh, MILLS! MILLS! MILLS!
Think a moment on the ills
That may happen any minute
To those grave folks in the Senate,
By the reading and the passing of your Bills, bills, bills,
By the seconding and moving of your bills.

But retribution waits upon you, MILLS,
And many bitter pills
About your Senate Bills
You will find yourself compelled to swallow down.
For you counselled not with BROWN,
With BROWN, BROWN, BROWN,
You know you never mentioned it to BROWN.
And he fiercely foldeth round him his senatorial robe,
And straightway up he goeth to the office of the Globe,
Of the Globe, Globe, Globe,
And he writeth and inditeth to the Globe;
With blackest ink he fills
His editorial quills,
And he writes a fiery article—MILLS.

Oh DAVID, DAVID MILLS!
Care you not for him that kills?
Care you not a globule for the Globe,
Nor yet for BROWN?
Why don't you knuckle down
At his frown?
If to you your life political is sweet,
Own up beat,
Call't your treat,
And throw yourself for mercy at his feet,
At his feet, feet, feet,
At his world-wide celebrated feet!

By our Brockville Mentor.

There is no truth in the report that the rev. gentleman appointed to St. Paul, K., applied to the "Propagation Society" for a grant and that the Secretary informed him that they had ceased to send the gospel to the heathen.

There is no truth in the report that the congregation of St. Paul, K., having petitioned the bishops of Ontario to send them a mocking-bird, he, trusting to their ignorance of ornithology, sent them instead one of Mother Carey's chickens.

There is no truth in the report that some of the people of Brockville have commenced the worship of Moloch. The report must have originated in the appointment of Canon MURLOCK to St. Peter's in that town.

An Ancient Park in Mesopotamia.

Hebrew Manuscript relating thereto, discovered and translated by GRIP.

1. And it came to pass in the days of the great king, even the King of Mesopotamia, that he did cause to be prepared a place for a university in the city, which is by the great and mighty river, even the river Donnus.

2. And he said, seeing that the land is cheap and barren, and also that it is a waste of sand,

3. Inclose ye enough thereof, and fence the same, from the south limit even a mile to the north limit thereof.

4. And it shall be that in the time to come they shall build a university therein, and the land, even this land, shall be for a park around the same; and the grass shall be green there in the season thereof, and the pleasant trees flourish after the manner thereof.

5. And the students, and the people of the city, even the sickly people whose delight is in the fresh air shall walk therein; and it shall be that they shall bless the name of the king who gave the same, even my name.

6. And the king died, and was gathered unto his father. And the rest of the acts which he did, and the houses which he builded, and the number of his wives and of his concubines, are they not written in the First Book of GREVILLE, even the Book of the Memoirs of GREVILLE the Sybarite.

7. And it came to pass that a university was built on the land, and the land was given into the hand of a Senate, and also much other land.

8. Now the Senate were wiser in their generation than the children of light; and had more cunning than any beast of the field.

9. And the Senate said, Go to, are not the people of the city fools? Surely we will sell all the land.

10. For it is meet that the morrow take care of itself, and that we in our day should secure the shekels, and should also make merry with the same,

11. But we will say to the people, even the unwise people of the city:—If ye will build roads in the park, and light the same, and spend money on the same.

12. Then ye shall use the park, ye, and your wives, and your little ones.

13. But the park we shall give them shall be smaller than the park which now is, inasmuch that it shall cost them more than the value thereof.

14. And as they said, as did they do with the foolish people, even the people of the city.

15. And the people mourned, and refused to be comforted; and they said,—Surely we have no portion in Mowat, neither have we any inheritance in MACKENZIE, that this thing should be done unto us.

16. And there was joy in the Senate, and exceeding great delight.

Ode to the Editor of "Church Chimes."

O weak Church Chimers,
In truth you seem to be,
In knowledge scarce adepts, in speech too free,
A little nest of acrobats and rhymers!
You snarl and bite,
And vote yourselves the real Simon Pure;
Not even Trinity secure,
For nothing but the Sayer street show is right.
Exclusive few,
Who leave old pastures to subsist on new,
You chatter now in print about a worthy Saint
Who to a pig the spark of life brings back,
A story quaint:—
The porker's head alone remains
Alack!
To furnish subject for the mighty wonder;
But lo! the power of faith, when found without alloy!
Each pettitoe its kindred ham regains;
The curling tail its place assumes;
Ecstatic glee the porcine eyes illumines;
And all the hog stands forth, complete in grunting joy,
That once a wolf had rent asunder!!!
In mammoth type, and extra-double-leaded,
Should such a tale as this be told—
Nay, graven all in gold!
Our tears fall fast
To think that now "the age of miracles is past."
O that the saint would visit earth once more,
Perform a wonder greater than before,
And make you less pig-headed!

Brangouffe

ARTEMUS WARD MILLS AND BETSY JANE SENATE.

Immoderate Driving.

In the Toronto Sun we read:—

George Brown was charged with driving immoderately. A policeman stated that on the afternoon of the 25th ult. he saw the defendant driving at a very rapid rate.

The above meagre report is now extended from our Reporter's notes:—

FURIOUS DRIVING.

(Before JUSTICE GRIP.)

GEORGE BROWN, alias "Dictator," alias "The Ambassador," alias the "Great Impossibility," etc., was charged with furious driving, and bad language.

POLICEMAN X deposed that the defendant, who had many aliases, was a prominent member of the political swell mob, and a very troublesome and disorderly character. He frequented a noted flash house called the Globe Saloon, on King Street—the resort of sundry notable characters, among whom were the "North York Chicken," the "Highland Bishop" JOHNNY GORGAN, and one DAVIN, alias "DELUGE NICK." They were in the habit of driving furiously about with an old horse called Grit, which had been a fastish animal in by-gone days, but was now getting used up by overwork and poor feed. They also got up sham fights with other flash men, headed by "JOHNNY, the Kingston Nobbler." He saw the prisoner on the 25th ult. driving at a dangerous pace near King Street, when he stopped and cautioned him; the defendant used very bad language.

DEFENDANT (excitedly.) You're a base and villainous hound, sir. It is one of my cardinal principles, as I can prove by hundreds of witnesses, always scrupulously to avoid bad language. (Laughter.)

Justice GRIP told defendant he must behave decently, and not interrupt the witnesses.

After some other evidence, the defendant being called upon for his defence, admitted he was driving very fast, as he had a right to do, and meant to do. His old horse needed constant exercise, and if it didn't get it would lose condition, having always been accustomed to go at 2.40 speed. He (defendant) had made this Dominion, and Province, and city what they were, and considered that, properly, everybody and everything belonged to him and must give way to his inclinations, as he was the greatest person in the land, and real King of the country. (Laughter.) If people got out of the road when they saw him coming, no harm would ensue. He had always had his own way, and intended to have it to the end of the chapter. Those who interfered with him must look out for squalls. The Globe was a highly respectable house. (Laughter.)

The MAGISTRATE said he was afraid prisoner had been drinking, or was not quite right in his head. Years ago when the Province was thinly settled, and Toronto a very small place, people might drive about furiously, or profess to arrogate the whole road to themselves, with little danger to those about. But things had greatly altered, there was no place now either for monopolists of street traffic, or dictators in public affairs. Defendant must learn to know his place, and not suppose he could impose his own headstrong will on a community, every member of which had equal rights with himself.

DEFENDANT.—You are the most contemptible duffer I ever saw; your language is quite treasonable; (laughter) as treasonable as that fellow SMITH'S. (Laughter.)

§ [MR. GRIP. Well, you're fined $1.00 and costs, and mind you don't come here again.]

The "Mail" to Mr. Blake.

Ah! EDWARD, wert thou but Conservative,
How should the Mail admire thee? As a man
Fit for a public model! Ah, how high
Thine aspirations. What nobility
Had in thine instincts shown! Impossible
That strictest scrutiny should find a flaw
In all thy deeds—thy public deeds, we mean,
Not those for clients drawn. Would'st thou cast off
Thy patriotic rubbish, and apply
Thy mighty mind to getting in SIR JOHN
(Or any one—Turk, Pagan, Greek, or Jew,
That needs a half-cracked organ, nearly new)
Think then how we should praise thee! Think, oh think
That if the fiery LUCIFER himself
Lent his red-hot assistance, we should paint
Him as an angel—what an angel, then,
We soon should make of thee. But now, ah! now,
(Not that we do believe it), we must swear
That thou began'st most ill, and did'st remain
Most infamous, and also did'st seduce
Poor E. B. WOOD, and him a justice made,
Which was an injustice; and now would'st bribe
With seven millions, Nova Scotia broad!
Deceiver! Briber! Rascal! Traitor! Wretch!
Most Horribly Dishonest EDWARD BLAKE!

On Boarding Out.

MR. GRIP, Sir:—I want to know from you why it is a fellow can't get a rest. I have changed my quarters thirteen times since the first of the new year, and still, strange to say, I'm not satisfied. It appears to me the last one is worse than the second last.

The girl—the help—the bureau duster—or whatever else you may call her—bumps my trunk against all manner of things, until there are so many dinges in it as to make it look a hard case. I would not so much mind this, only she has red hair, and it takes an awful lot of oil to make it shine. The oil is mine. Even that would not be so bad, only when I meet her on the street with her fellow, (a store clerk,) she lifts her nose towards the constellation of the Great Bear and ignores my presence, because I am simply 'a cove wot works.' I wish she'd ignore my hair-brush as well, and I would not have so many long carrotty hairs to weed out every morning.

The mortar falls from the ceiling into my eyes and mouth, and sometimes in such quantities that I have to cart it away in my hat. The mistress is always a-praising of salt pork, and saying it is best for young men who work hard. I've seen a piece on the table eleven days in succession, and notwithstanding that to-day she puts one side up, another to-morrow, and lays it on its back the day following, I'd know it a mile off through my nose. When I grumble, she tells me I hadn't as good in the old country, and calls me a Sybarite, epicurian, and other hard names, whereas I am merely a Stoic.

On Sundays we have pickles. They leave the bottle uncorked during the week and flies and necessarily spiders find their way in. Spiders may be good insects enough in their way, and were no doubt created for some wise purpose; still, I don't think they're much when taken with preserved cauliflowers.

If you don't publish this, I'll put it in The Leader as an advertisement, and as a warning to hash manufacturers.

A CITY BOARDER.

The New (Mounted) Policeman.

Fording the rivers and tramping the plains,
Facing the north while its snowing and hailing,—
Scorched by the sun and soaked in the rains,—
Spurring his tired horse, whose strength is fast failing,—
Cleaning accoutrements after the march,
Drying his clothes wet in creek and swamp wading—
Completely washed out is his soldierly "starch,"
When the poor wretch "falls in" for his daily parading.

Hunting for Yankees with contraband goods,
(Villainous rum and forty-rod whiskey),
Cachid in prairie or hid in the woods,
Business out there has always been risky—
But a generous country will give him his pay,
And when he returns he can live at his ease, man,
On what he's saved up on two shillings a day,
Pampered, luxurious Mounted Policemon!

Croaks and Pecks.

If you send a twenty-five cent note in a letter is that a post script?

Our Irish editor says that if he ever turns cannibal he would like to eat a coloured man and his children, because it would be Ham an' nigs.

COULD GEORGE BROWN be disqualified because of his Treatyng?

Do you think oarsmen would make good kitchen maids because they are adapted to the scullery?

CASES FOR OCULISTS.—We know of a politician who has a fat office in his eye. We know a clergyman who has a nice church in his eye, and we know a dear young lady who has got a bank clerk in her eye.

A new theological question has arisen, as to whether man or woman was first created. Heretofore, the priority has been assigned to ADAM; but some of the boldest and most distinguished modern investigators unhesitatingly affirm that EVE was the first maid.

AMHERSTBURG is going to give $15,000 bonus to manufacturers established in that town and a native writes to us and says:—"Is it right to give a bonus and then bone us for the money?" Well, we wouldn't like to say whether it is right or left, but if the $15,000 is left we have no bones about saying we would cheerfully be Buenos Ayres. (BONUS heirs.)

WHEN MILLS will have cent the Senate to the right about, won't such hard dimes make the Senators feel dol(l)orous?

ARITHMETICAL.—If ten mills make one cent, how many MILLS will it take to un-make one Sen(a)te?

MRS. MORRISON'S GRAND OPERA HOUSE

ADELAIDE ST. WEST.

Mrs. MORRISON, - - - Manageress.
Mr. COULDOCK, - - - Stage Manager.

Immense success of the eminent English
tragedienne,

MISS JULIA SEAMAN

Friday Evening, March 12th, '75,
Benefit of Miss Julia Seaman, Shakespeare's immortal tragedy of

HAMLET.

HAMLET, Prince of Denmark,
Miss JULIA SEAMAN,

SATURDAY,

March 13, 1875,

GRAND MATINEE!

The ever popular play of

EAST LYNNE,

Or The Elopement.

LADY ISABEL, } - - - Miss JULIA SEAMAN.
MADAM VINE, }

Saturday evening, March 13, 1875, the intensely interesting drama of

Leah, the Forsaken.

LEAH - - - Miss JULIA SEAMAN
Her last appearance.

To conclude with the laughable Drama of
MILKY WHITE.

MILKY WHITE, - - - Mr. COULDOCK.

King street entrance, from east corner of
Thomas' chop house.

Parties from Hamilton wishing to visit Mrs.
Morrison's Grand Opera House, Toronto, can
leave Hamilton at 5.25 p.m., arriving in Toronto
at 7 p.m.; returning leave Toronto at 11 p.m.
Seats may be secured by telegram to box office.

SAMO & JOHNSTON,

WHOLESALE

Cabinet Makers & Upholsterers,

Warerooms, 187 and 189 Yonge St.
Factory—Yorkville.

Our facilities enable us to supply the Trade and the Public generally with

Drawing Room,
Dining Room,
Bed Room and
Library Furniture.

In the latest English and American styles, at prices that defy competition.

Masonic, Odd Fellow, Orange,
Forester,

And other Society Lodge room Furniture, carved in accordance with the most approved designs, and unsurpassed for elegance, utility and economy.

The fullest satisfaction guaranteed in all cases.
Give us a call.

Remember the address:

187 and 189 Yonge St. under Albert Hall.

IN PRESS

And will be ready February 15th,

Dr. Newman's Reply

TO

MR. GLADSTONE'S PAMPHLET.

PRICE 20 CENTS.

AND

THE HISTORY

OF THE

Vatican Council,

TOGETHER WITH THE

LATIN & ENGLISH TEXT OF THE PAPAL SYLLABUS

AND THE VATICAN DECREES.

Price 20 Cents.

Trade orders solicited.

A. S. IRVING & CO.,

Publishers,

TORONTO.

USE THE

DIAMOND YEAST CAKE!

HAND-IN-HAND

MUTUAL

Fire Insurance

COMPANY.

Financial Statement for the Year ending Dec. 31, 1874.

REVENUE.

Cash Premiums and Interest $25,486 13

DISBURSEMENTS.

Claims under Policies paid $8,348 95

Claim Appropriation for Losses resisted and waiting proof..... 750 00

Agents' Commission, Salaries,
Directors' Fees, Office Rent, &c. 6,192 73

Scrip Appropriation to Policyholders of 1874, on deposit in Royal Canadian Bank, being forty per cent..... 10,194 45

$25,486 13

W. H. HOWLAND, President.

HUGH SCOTT, Manager & Sec'y.

Audited and found correct.

ERNEST G. PULFORD, }
GEO. J. MAULSON, } Auditors.

Risks accepted on all Descriptions of Insurable Property. Rates fixed with regard to the Laws of Average. All the Profits divided among Policy-holders annually.

Head Office:

Ontario Hall, Church St.,
TORONTO.

SCOTT & WALMSLEY,
General Agents.

COR. JARVIS & ADELAIDE STS.,
Toronto, Ont.

JOHN D. NASMITH,

Manufacturer of

BREAD, ROLLS, BUNS, CAKES, &c., &c.

A superior article of Bread delivered daily throughout the city.

 TO THE TRADE ONLY

FOR LATEST PATTERNS IN
ALL KINDS OF REAL AND IMITATION
HAIR GOODS,

At Lowest Wholesale Prices.

APPLY TO THE

New Dominion Chignon Factory,
96 YONGE ST, TORONTO,

FRANCIS J. BORMUTH, Proprietor.

BROWN BROS.,

WHOLESALE & MANUFACTURING

STATIONERS,

No. 66 & 68 King St., East,

TORONTO.

MRS. MORRISON'S
GRAND
OPERA
HOUSE
ADELAIDE STREET WEST.

MRS. MORRISON, - - - - - Manageress
MR. COULDOCK, - - - - - Stage Manager.

MISS NEILSON
Supported by
MR. BARNES.

Mrs. Morrison takes great pleasure in announcing to the many of her patrons who have not yet been able to obtain Seats, that MISS NEILSON will extend her engagement, and will appear on Friday and Saturday Evenings, and at Saturday Matinee.

FRIDAY EVENING, MARCH 19TH, 1875.
BENEFIT OF MISS NEILSON!
Shakespeare's Degrthful Comedy,

AS YOU LIKE IT!

SATURDAY, MARCH 20TH,
GRAND MATINEE,

Shakespeare's Comedy of

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING

BEATRICE - - - - - MISS NEILSON

SATURDAY EVENING, MARCH 20TH,
By general request, the immortal Bard's Grand Tragedy of

ROMEO AND JULIET!
JULIET - - - - - MISS NEILSON

During this engagement, the Free List, with the exception of the Press, must be entirely suspended.

Notwithstanding the enormous expense attending this Engagement there will be

No Alteration in the Prices

Except TWENTY-FIVE CENTS extra for Reserved Seats, and for the

NEILSON MATINEE

Tickets 50 cents; Children under twelve, 25 cents. -
Matinee Seats Reserved, 25 cents extra.

King Street entrance, from east corner of Thomas' chop house.

Parties from Hamilton wishing to visit Mrs. Morrison's Grand Opera House, Toronto, can leave Hamilton at 5:25 p.m.; arriving in Toronto at 7 p.m.; returning leave Toronto at 11 p.m. Seats may be secured by telegram to the box office.

NOW READY.

The Expressman
and
The Detective
By ALLAN PINKERTON.
Price 20 Cents.

Dr. Newman's Reply
to
Mr. Gladstone's Pamphlet.
Price 20 Cents.

THE HISTORY
OF THE
VATICAN COUNCIL

By Dr. SCHAFF.
Price 20 Cents.
A. S. IRVING & Co.,
Publishers,

Corner Toronto and Adelaide Streets,
TORONTO.

In Press

"VATICANISM"

By MR. GLADSTONE.
Price 15 Cents.

SAMO & JOHNSTON,
WHOLESALE
CABINET MAKERS
AND
UPHOLSTERERS.

WAREHOUSES, - 187 and 189 YONGE STREET.
FACTORY, - - - - - YORKVILLE.

Our facilities enable us to supply the Trade and the Public generally with

DRAWING ROOM,
DINING ROOM,
BED ROOM AND
LIBRARY FURNITURE

In the latest English and American styles, at prices that defy competition.

Masonic,
Oddfellow,
Orange,
Forester,

And other Society Lodge room Furniture, carved in accordance with the most approved designs, and unsurpassed for elegance, utility and economy.
The fullest satisfaction guaranteed in all cases. Give us a call.

REMEMBER THE ADDRESS:

187 AND 189 YONGE ST., UNDER ALBERT HALL.

USE THE
DIAMOND YEAST
CAKE.

HAND-IN-HAND

MUTUAL

FIRE INSURANCE

COMPANY.

Financial Statement for the Year ending Dec. 31, 1874.

REVENUE.

Cash Premiums and Interest $25,486 13
DISBURSEMENTS.

Claims under Policies paid $3,348 95
Claim Appropriation for Losses resisted
and waiting proof 750 00

Agents, Commission, Salaries, Directors Fees, Office Rent, &c. 6,192 73
Scrip Appropriation to Policy-holders
of 1874, on deposit in Royal Canadian Bank, being forty per cent. 10,194 45

W. H. HOWLAND, President. $25,486 13

HUGH SCOTT, Manager & Sec'y.

Audited and found correct.

ERNEST G. PULFORD, } Auditors.
GEO. J. MAULSON, }

Risks accepted on all Descriptions of Insurable Property. Rates fixed with regard to the Laws of Average. All the Profits divided among Policy-holders annually.

Head Office:

Ontario Hall, Church Street, Toronto.
SCOTT & WALMSLEY,
General Agents.

Corner Jarvis & Adelaide Sts.,
TORONTO, ONT.

JOHN D. NASMITH,

Manufacturer of

BREAD, ROLLS, BUNS, CAKES, &c., &c.,

A superior article of Bread delivered daily throughout the city.

TO THE TRADE ONLY

FOR LATEST PATTERNS IN
ALL KINDS OF REAL AND IMITATION

HAIR GOODS,

At Lowest Wholesale Prices.

APPLY TO THE

NEW DOMINION CHIGNON FACTORY,

96 Yonge Street, Toronto,

FRANCIS J. BORMUTH, Proprietor.

BROWN BROS.,

WHOLESALE & MANUFACTURING

STATIONERS,

No. 66 & 68 King St., East,

TORONTO.

THE NERVOUS PASSENGER.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabeast Beast is the Jaa; the grabeast Bird is the Owl;
The grabeast Fish is the Oyster; the grabeast Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, MARCH 20, 1875.

Notice of Removal.

GRIP has removed to his new office, No. 20 Adelaide Street, near the Postoffice.

Answers to Correspondents.

Nez Bleu, Halifax.—We think Mr. COSTIGAN'S Bill should pass, as it is essentially a Maritime one. Witness your desire for separating everything. You wouldn't join the Confederation till you got "better terms;" your Baie Verte Canal is to separate and insulate a portion of the mainland; and they say the very whales and porpoises in your surrounding waters are found in Separate Schools.

Doubtful.—You are right. In accordance with the precedent laid down in Mr. WILKES'S case, the trial of the protest against the election of Mr. MEDCALF as Mayor will be postponed until the conclusion of his year of office, as it might materially interfere with his discharge of the business of the Mayoralty.

Richard de Dicke to His Son.

QUITE charmed my dear DICK, to learn that after "inature consideration" you have resolved to adopt a literary career—a delightful and highly advantageous profession, strewn with roses at every stage, to say nothing of dollars. At this commencement of your course you may not object to receive from me a few hints, the fruits of long practical experience and observation, by steady adherence to which you will facilitate your ascent to the highest pinnacle of fame and fortune.

Habits of Life.—Rise late, retire ditto. Keep your head clear by plenty of beer, tobacco, and hourly "nips". There seems a natural affinity between genius and frequent "cocktails". Plodding industry, with its inevitable failures and common-place, is always found in alliance with tea and muffins. Repeated strokes at billiards, varied with cards and horse-racing will prevent the mind wearing out the body. Observe a due balance between these.

Prudent Expenditure.—Economy is an implacable enemy to intellect, and leads to a premature ending of a short and feverish career. When a publisher sends you a cheque dissipate the proceeds as speedily as possible. Savings banks are death on reflection, imagination, and all the highest faculties.

Handwriting.—Plain writing is the distinguishing token of dull heads. The greatest intellects use the most hieroglyphical scrawls. Editors and publishers always throw "copy" into the waste-basket without reading; whereas had it been written illegibly it would have infallibly been read through and accepted. If your pen scratches and flirts the ink about it will improve your M.S. Write on both sides of the paper with as many interlineations and emendations as possible. Carrot (or "carrot" as it is called in compositors rooms) is the printer's favourite vegetable. Plenty of blots also, showing on each side of suitable thin and unglazed paper, will greatly facilitate his labours. He is fond, too, of pale and coloured ink.

Correspond Copiously.—In the letter accompanying your M.S. to the editor give a full biographical sketch of yourself, parents, grandparents, uncles and aunts. Explain your ideas on literary composition, and on things in general, with your reasons for adopting an author's career, your object in writing that special contribution and for coming to the conclusion that it is particularly good. Intimate that you expect a very early perusal, reply, and remittance.

Make a Bargain Beforehand.—As an author of repute (inembryo) you, of course, have nothing to do with the publishers standard of payment, which is sure (it always is) to be too small,—being regulated by his low ideas of profits instead of your merits. You, who write the article, are clearly the one proper arbiter of its ability and value, as we see manufacturers in other businesses always fix the price of their productions. About sixpence a line—Thackeray's remuneration—is the figure I would indicate as a proper commencement. If the publisher refuses to give this you can ruin his paper or magazine by withholding your article.

Cultivate Your Inner Consciousness.—Nothing is more powerful and affecting than the depicting of real scenery, character, feelings, and events by mere imagining. The more imperfect your idea of a passion or mode of life the greater should be the dash and force with which you should go for its thorough delineation. How interesting and true to nature are the numerous pictures of the indoor manner of living of the aristocracy evolved from the expert inner consciousness of our writers in the middle ranks of life!

Be not Disheartened.—At this beginning of your course you can have but an imperfect conception of the profound stupidity of editors and publishers! Incredible as you may now think it you will frequently have contributions—brimming over with originality, wit, eloquence, and observation—returned upon your hands by these zanies, endorsed "declined with thanks," "not suitable," or "try again." Be not discouraged. Walk down to the office and summarily interview the editorial dunderhead. If he is a small man kick him soundly, and thus figuratively carry off your M.S. vi et armis. If he is a big fellow—as most blockheads are—merely tell him you have called to acknowledge the receipt of your M.S. and afterwards send him an admonitory communication, by post, couched on the cardinal principles which invariably regulate Globe Editorials, (prudentially omitting your address.) Steadily adhering to these directions your success is certain:—

Thus.

RICHARD DE DICKE.

Mackenzie to the Boards of Trade.

Awa, Canadian Boards o' Trade, gie nae sic sauce to me.
Resairve ye're conversawtion for those o' ye're ain degree.
Puir local creatures—ignorant—who naething ever saw.
Ye hae maist gross impairtinance to speak to me at a'.

What suld ye ken aboot canals—what engineers are ye
That ye suld hae the face to bring suggestions here to me?
Ken ye that I a mason was wha wrought in brick and stane,
Gang sairve yer time like me; till then, joost leave my work alane.

What care I for ye're recommends?—ye're members daurna vote
Except for me—they ken right weel whase grip is on their throat;
I've engineered them—that's the way we engineer doon here,
They dinna care a pin for ye—ye canna engineer.

Awa, Canadian Boards o' Trade! if ye were frae Quebec,
Or if ye cam' frae Montreal, my help ye might expect;
But when ye frae Ontario come, it's a' the ither way,
A' she'll get frae me's just but this—an unco bill to pay!

Drink's "Dominion."

The, REV. JOHN GRAY, B.A., Orillia, says, Canada has cause for shame in the fact that she expended, during 1874, $30,000,000 on liquors.—Liberal.

Let others prate of drunken climes,
Of lands beyond the sea,
This liquor bill for Seventy-four
Is quite enough for me.

Dear Canada! loved Canada!
And can it really be;
Full thirty millions spent on drink
Nay! now I blush for thee!

And do thy sons submit to crouch
Beneath drinks tyrant sway?
Why, yonder Scots across the flood
Imbibe not more than thee.

Dear Canada! loved Canada!
Wherever I may be
This awful figure haunts me still,
An omen full for thee.

The flowing cup fools love to praise,
Dost hail it as a friend?
Believ'st thou those whose lust of gain
Its follies would defend?

Fair Canada! brave Canada!
No land on earth is free
Whose sons still bow the coward neck
To custom's slavery.

The Scot may boast his "Ferintosh,"
The Englishman his beer;
And Erin's sons extol "potheen,"
While Fritz loves "lager" clear.

But Canada! Young Canada!
Thy liquor bill we see
Stands seven round cyphers in a row
And headed by a three!

On thy fair fame an ugly stain,
Oh! wipe it from thee now,
Remove from fair Canadian homes
The blight that lays them low.

Fair Canada! loved Canada!
Fell thou this Upas tree!
First on thy list of noble deeds
ABSTAINER dare to be.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE.

Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, No. 20 Adelaide Street, East.

Subscription price, $2 per annum; single copies 5 cents. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied.

Advertisements and subscriptions received at the office, to which all communications should be addressed.
GEORGE BENGOUGH,
Business Manager,
No. 20 Adelaide St., Toronto.

VICTORIA
PHOTOGRAPHIC
GALLERY,
386 Queen St. West, Toronto.
J. Hansford, Prop.

INSURANCE
PRINTING
A SPECIALTY.
Lovelock, Stovel & Co.,
32 COLBORNE STREET,
TORONTO.

A. FOX,
Yorkville Boot & Shoe Mart.
GENTS', LADIES' AND MISSES'
SHOES OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,
Special attention given to measurement.

J. Littleton,
Groceries & Provisions.
*A Select Stock of Canned Fruits,
Fish and Oysters always on hand.*
YONGE STREET, - YORKVILLE.

Scarth, Cochran & Co.
STOCK BROKERS,
(Members of the Stock Exchange.)
REAL ESTATE AGENTS,
38 Toronto Street, Toronto.
W. B. SCARTH. R. COCHRAN.
References:—J. Stevenson, Quebec Bank; Dominion Bank, Toronto

LITHOGRAPHY.
If you want your
BILLHEADS,
CARDS, NOTES,
DRAFTS, &c.
DONE IN
First Class Style,
At moderate figures, go to
G. J. GEBHARDT & Co.,
13 ADELAIDE STREET EAST.

ISAAC PITMAN'S
(ENGLISH)
Phonographic
Publications.
The Phonographic Teacher,
Manual of Phonography,
Key to Phonographic Exercises,
Phonographic Phrase Book,
Phonetic Journal, published weekly
in Learner's Corresponding and
Reporting styles of Phonography,
and also Phonetic and Common
Print. Address,
THOS. BENGOUGH,
Box 2662, Toronto.

NOTMAN & FRASER PHOTOGRAPHERS TO THE QUEEN,

39, 41, & 43 King Street East, Toronto,
AND AT MONTREAL AND HALIFAX.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, MARCH 20, 1875.

GRIP OFFICE, } The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; } 5 CTS. EACH.
20 ADELAIDE ST. } The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool. } $2 PER ANNUM.

CLOUGH & WARREN ORGAN CO. (Late Simmons & Clough.)

For power and beauty of tone we think it far excels the Mason & Hamlin, Burdett, or any other instrument, of a like character, with which we have ever met.—Spirit of the West, Walla Walla, W. T.

"The" Organ of the day.—Prof. Alvin Wilsey.

GEO. WOOD & CO'S Organs Unexcelled for variety of musical effect.
LESLIE, SKIRROW & SMITH,

93 Yonge Street, Toronto.

Trade supplied with Knabe, Stodart, Light & Ernst, Simmons & Clough and Geo. Wood & Co's Organs.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach Grip office not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, Grip office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

CONTRIBUTIONS, when accepted, will, for the present, be paid for the rate of Two DOLLARS per column. All articles for which payment is expected must be accompanied by the name and address of the author.

SIGN OF
THE GOLDEN BOOT
200 Yonge Street.

GENTS' GAITERS AND LACE BOOTS
OUR OWN MAKE,
Hand Pegged and Hand Sewed
Sizes and Half Sizes.
Cannot be beat for style and Quality at the Price, in the Dominion.

WINTER GOODS
SELLING BELOW COST.
Come and see them.
Wm. West & Co.
"Golden Boot," 200 Yonge St.

John S. Grassick & Co.
FAMILY GROCERS,
WINE AND SPIRITS
MERCHANTS,
167 Yonge St. Toronto.

MANSION HOUSE
UXBRIDGE, ONT.
JAMES S. CLYNE, PROPRIETOR.

This first-class Hotel is now full equipped, and furnishes unrivalled accommodation for guests. Good sample rooms for commercial men. Terms moderate.

W. P. Williams,
134 Queen St. East, Toronto,
[Between George & Sherbourne.]
DEALER IN
PURE CONFECTIONERY
AND
CHOICE FRUITS.
A select supply of Canned Fruit
Fish, &c., always on hand.

EVERY GENTLEMAN SHOULD
SEND HIS
SHIRTS AND COLLARS
TO BE DRESSED AT THE
City Laundry, Corner of Bay
and Adelaide Sts.

WILLIAM LEE, - PROPRIETOR

WANTED.

Back Numbers of GRIP.

VOL. I. Nos. 10, 11, 13, 14, 19, 21.
VOL. III. No. 7.
VOL. IV. No. 5.

Persons having any of the above will oblige by communicating with GRIP Office, 20 Adelaide Street.

BUY
BOOTH'S
CHECKER
LOZENGE

PUBLISHER'S NOTE.

GRIP is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, No. 20 Adelaide Street, East.

Subscription price, $2 per annum; single copies 5 cents. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied.

Advertisements and subscriptions received at the office, to which all communications should be addressed.

GEORGE BENGOUGH,
Business Manager,
No. 20 Adelaide St., Toronto.

VICTORIA
PHOTOGRAPHIC
GALLERY,
386 Queen St. West, Toronto.
J. Hansford, Prop.

INSURANCE
PRINTING
A SPECIALTY.
Lovelock, Stovel & Co.,
32 COLBORNE STREET,
TORONTO.

A. FOX,
Yerkyville Boot & Shoe Mart.
GENTS', LADIES' AND MISSES'
SHOES OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,
Special attention given to measurement.

J. Littleton,
Groceries & Provisions.
A Select Stock of Canned Fruits,
Fish and Oysters always on hand.
YONGE STREET, - YORKVILLE.

Scarth, Cochran & Co.
STOCK BROKERS,
Members of the Stock Exchange,
REAL ESTATE AGENTS,
8 Toronto Street, Toronto.
W. B. SCARTH. R. COCHRAN.
References:—J. Stevenson, Quebec
Bank; Dominion Bank, Toronto

LITHOGRAPHY.
If you want your
ILLHEADS,
CARDS, NOTES,
DRAFTS, &c.
DONE IN
First Class Style,
At moderate figures, go to
J. GEBHARDT & Co.,
13 ADELAIDE STREET EAST.

ISAAC PITMAN'S
(ENGLISH)
Phonographic
Publications.

he Phonographic Teacher,
Manuel of Phonography,
ay to Phonographic Exercises,
Phonographic Phrase Book,
honic Journal, published week-
in Learner's Corresponding and eporting styles of Phonography, nd also Phonetic and Common rint. Address.
THOS. BENGOUGH,
ox 2662, Toronto.

NOTMAN & FRASER
PHOTOGRAPHERS TO THE QUEEN,
39, 41, & 43 King Street East, Toronto,
AND AT MONTREAL AND HALIFAX.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, APRIL 3, 1875.

GRIP OFFICE, } The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; } 5 CTS. EACH.
20 ADELAIDE ST. } The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool. } $2 PER ANNUM.

ORGANS---GEO. WOOD & CO'S.

THE PIANO STOP,

One of the most remarkable improvements that has ever been introduced into the manufacture of musical instruments.

THE NEW ORGAN CASE

Is a most beautiful piece of furniture.

PIANOS.—Knabe, Stodart, Lighte & Ernst, Marshall & Wendell, Rogers & Heintzman.

LESLIE, SKIRROW & SMITH.

93 Yonge Street, Toronto.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach GRIP office not later than Wednesday.—Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

CONTRIBUTIONS, when accepted, will, for the present, be paid for at the rate of Two DOLLARS per column. All articles for which payment is expected must be accompanied by the name and address of the author.

SIGN OF
THE GOLDEN BOOT!
200 Yonge Street.

Gents' and Boys' Gaiters and Lace Boots, Sizes and Half Sizes, OUR OWN MAKE, down to 15. Hand Pegged and Hand Sewed. Cannot be beat for style and Quality at the PRICE in the Dominion. Several job lots selling VERY CHEAP to make room for
SPRING GOODS!

WHICH ARE ARRIVING EVERY WEEK. Come and see them.

Wm. West & Co.
"Golden Boot," 200 Yonge St.

John S. Grassick & Co.
FAMILY GROCERS,
WINE AND SPIRIT
MERCHANTS,
167 Yonge St. Toronto.

MANSION HOUSE
UXBRIDGE, ONT.
JAMES S. CLYNE, PROPRIETOR.

This first-class Hotel is now fully equipped, and furnishes unvalued accommodation for guests. Good sample rooms for commercial men. Terms moderate.

W. P. Williams,
134 Queen St. East, Toronto,
[Between George & Sherbourne,]
DEALER IN
PURE CONFECTIONERY
AND
CHOICE FRUITS.

A select supply of Canned Fruit, Fish, &c., always on hand.

EVERY GENTLEMAN SHOULD
SEND HIS
SHIRTS AND COLLARS
TO BE DRESSED AT THE
City Laundry, Corner of Bay
and Adelaide Sts.

WILLIAM LEE, - PROPRIETOR

WANTED.
Back Numbers of GRIP.
VOL. I. Nos. 10, 11, 13, 14, 19, 21.
VOL. III., No. 7.
VOL. IV., No. 5.

Persons having any of the above will oblige by communicating with GRIP Office, 20 Adelaide Street.

BUY.
BOOTH'S
CHECKER
LOZES

GLOBE.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabeſt Beuſt is the Baſſ; the grabeſt Bird is the Owl;
The grabeſt Fiſh is the Oyſter; the grabeſt Ban is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, APRIL 3, 1875.

Answers to Correspondents.

LUKE SHARPE.—Your last extremely good. You cannot come too often.

FINGAL, WEST ELGIN.—Your chances for obtaining a government situation, in our opinion, will not be lessened in the event of Mr. CASEY'S "Competitive Examination" Bill becoming law. A thorough knowledge of the Gaelic language, with perhaps a verse or two of Ossian's poems to translate into English will be the principal test. In former times when we were supposed to be under the rule of what the Globe used to call an "ignorant and besotted race," a bill was read to make a knowledge of the French language compulsory, but it failed to pass. We have no doubt, however, that Mr. MCKENZIE will help this measure through in case he (GEORGE ELLIOTT) flies off at a tangent Tycoonwards.

SWASHBUCKLER, SOUTH HURON.—You should read with more care the Parliamentary reports. It is only as yet rumoured that Hon. MALCOLM CAMERON is to get the Governorship of the "great lone land" which rumour may be occasioned by that gentleman's well known military tastes and qualifications. It will be a desideratum to have an efficient and determined soldier to fill the gubernatorial in that region, for otherwise, should he be honoured by a surprise party of Sioux or Blackfeet during one of his levees he would be a "gone coon" indeed.

From Our Box.

MISS. NEILSON departed from amongst us in a blaze of glory and shower of "floral tributes" commonly, we regret to say, termed "boketts." Her last performance as Pauline in the "Lady of Lyons" was perhaps the best of all her impersonations. And now the swells weep and refuse to be comforted. The divinity for whose sake they learned to throw bouquets and arrayed themselves in white ties and boiled shirts has gone from their gaze. By the way how strange it was so few ever knew when the bouquet-pitching ought to begin. It was fortunate the idea of presenting an actress with canary birds in cages only occurred to some one on the last night, or had some of the frantic occupants of private boxes hit on the notion they would doubtless have hurled the cages and their unfortunate occupants at her devoted head. That irrepressible humorist M-r M-f, who was present on the last night of the engagement, in reply to a question as whether Miss NEILSON had not created a perfect furor said he didn't know about that, he thought she made many roar. The end of the whole was a complete ovation in the honors of which Mr. BARNES deservedly shared, though he did use a cuss word to his friends. Mr. RIGGS again favors us with his Irish delineations, which commenced with "Suil Gair" of which pathetic drama GRIP gave his readers a faithful though brief account a few weeks ago. Mr. COULDOCK gave his ever popular representation of Caleb Plummer in the "Cricket on the Hearth" on Saturday. By the way we were labouring under some strange hallucination that night for the Globe says "Damon and Pythias" was played and we never saw it. And not only did it escape our piercing eye, but that of everyone else in the house. But it must be true—it was in the Globe, which, as is well known, is infallible on every subject. Was it a prophetic vision of the coming reconciliation of Hon. George Brown and Sir John A. into a political Damon and Pythias that danced before the eyes of the Globe critic and deceived him. Or was everyone else asleep and dreaming another piece was being performed? The conundrum is stupendous—almost insoluble.

At the Royal Opera House, La fille de Madame Angot in an English dress was nicely done and drew good houses. Recalls were plentiful and Miss SALLIE HOLMAN as Clairette was very successful. Mr. BOWLER and Mr. RYSE also distinguished themselves, while plenty of life and energy was infused into every part. On Saturday, "Cinderella" displayed some nice singing and Mr. BARTON made much of a good part as a comic servant. "Cherry and Fair Star" was produced on Monday. With his usual readiness to impart information, GRIP wishes to explain the plot to his readers, but after much deep cogitation, is driven to sadly own that he does not understand it himself. The sad event recorded above concerning "Damon and Pythias" may have partly unhinged him, but anyway he could not make out the story. But, as a spectacle, it was by far the prettiest thing he has seen in Toronto, and Mr. DRESSEL deserves a world of credit for his charming scenes. Miss SALLIE HOLMAN, Mr. BRANDISI and Mr. RYSE sang some very good songs, which doubtless were appropriate to the plot, although they did not appear to be, and earned several well merited encores. By the way the orchestra here are getting careless even in accompaniments, on some occasions getting altogether out of time and even out of tune. This is hard upon the singers as well as upon the audience. Let the offenders beware—particularly the gentleman who plays the—. We will spare him this time, but next week will name the instrument unless he improves.

The Pacific Railway.

'Twould be but fair if GRIP's friends here would calculate some day. How much they're going to be charged for this Pacific way, An awful price Ontario pays—a most tremendous haul, And now it seems, the road won't come near where we live at all.

The many millions they must pay are going to come down Full hard on them—each one of them, in country or in town, There's not a thing they'll use or wear—there's not a thing they'll eat, But will be taxed, and raised in price, ere they make both ends meet.

Ontario feared 'twould bankrupt her, yet did her promise give, She thought, that with the trade she'd get, she still might through it live

But what's occurred? her cash, when raised, is all to go to pay For what wont give her trade, but will—take what she had away.

And up get's Bunster in the House, and tells us that B.C. Can get more from the States, if she cannot with us agree, Now what's to keep these bargainers, when we've their country made From going over to the States—just in the way of trade?

GRIP holds pledged word in high respect—but if they treaties make That he shall hang himself, why, GRIP those treaties means to break, And GRIP would to Ontario say, "Just think, good friend of mine, If you're not pledged to hang yourself with a Pacific line."

Grip on Adulterated Liquors.

IF GRIP's numerous friends in the Legislature can't immediately give him a prohibitory liquor law, could not they oblige him with a little statute prohibiting drugged poison in the form of liquor? If GRIP's dear friend Mackenzie will, putting himself under the well qualified guidance or his dear friend Sir John, visit sundry of these fountains of strong waters known as bar-rooms, and, scripturally forbearing to look on the wine when it is red, will gaze instead thereof on the beer when it foameth with chemical adulterations, and the whiskey when it mantleth redolent of high-wines and vitriol, and will also partake of the same and proceed to make merry therewith, it may well happen that if for lack of weapon they separate alive, John A. shall be by force of unsuspected drugs insane enough to try another Pacific Scandal, and Mackenzie to believe Ontario will keep him in office if he give her trade to Montreal.

Legislators, Total Abstainers, Moderate Drinkers, Confirmed Inebriates, —here is a plan to help you all—a proposal you will all rejoice to support. Malt and hops are cheap in Canada—let the old British law be enacted here that nothing else shall be used in brewing. Let all spirits sold be rigidly analysed, and let he who mixes and adulterates liquor and he who is found selling it when adulterated, be rigidly and heavily punished. For Grip telleth you that formerly in good truth men became drunk when they swallowed much liquor, which was bad enough. But now there is that in ale and spirits which is not of them, and which maketh the drinker not drunk but lunatic and frenzied, and destroyeth brain and stomach. Grip would like Prohibition. But he fears he will not get it. Yet he means to try for it. But, in the mean time, give him this,

How long is Mr. MACNABB to be permitted to outrage justice in this way? Complaints against the high-handed jurisdiction of police and police-courts are rife everywhere. But when we read in the Sun of last Tuesday that an unfortunate man named JAMES HILL was charged with the comparatively venial crime of larceny and that "Prisoner was destroyed," we are lost in wonderment and horror at the barbarity of our local Draco. No black cap, no death warrant, none of the paraphernalia usual to the last sentence of the law. Prisoner was destroyed! We are certainly governed too much. But how was the sentence carried out? Did they cremate him?

"CANADA FIRST" has culminated in the establishment of the "National Club." Here, under the able superintendence of Professor GOLDWIN SMITH, Mr. HOWLAND's infant is to be taught what to eat, drink, and avoid. We understand that the menu of the opening banquet was of an unexceptionally national character, comprising fried pork, buckwheat pancakes, maple syrup and other native delicacies, the only foreign luxury introduced being Japan tea among the beverages, of which old rye formed the staple component, that the first lesson in eating and drinking proved eminently satisfactory to all present. The principal object to be avoided, as taught in the preliminary lecture, was the perusal of the Globe, the substitution for which of the Nation was urged on all patriotic Canadians.

At a caw-cus, of the contributors to GRIP, it was decided to present a crow-mo to the raven lunatic who sends the largest number of correct solutions to the following queries:

APPARENTLY IN A MESS!

Canada First Exclusivism in Toronto.

Canada First he rubbed his head,
I mean to govern the land he said,
I hav'n't the right material got,
But I'll take care you don't know I've not.

I'll build a club house high and deep
And there we'll quite exclusive keep,
Dinners we'll eat and healths we'll toast
And if not the land, we'll rule the roast.

We must keep ourselves out of the vulgar way
For they might find out we're no better than they;
There's a fable of pots down streams that go
And we're not quite sure of our metal, you know.

Mr. Jones to Mr. Brown

Oh! Mr. Brown
Why do you frown
Reformers down
In such a stupid fashion?
The Tories say,
'Tis just the way,
In a former day,
You plied to them the lash on!

Now for a Grit,
To make a split,
By bandying wit
Against his old Colleaguers—
Is quite too bad!
It makes me sad
To think you're mad,
Like other queer intriguers.

Repent and try,
To live and die,
With smaller fry,
In some congenial manner.

[Or if this modest request be incompatible with senatorial dignity.]

Lay on Mc.Duff!
We've read enough
Such paltry stuff—
REFORM is on our Banner.

Spring.

By a Sentimental Lawyer's Clerk.

Whereas on sundry streets and lanes
The ice and snow now turn to slush;
And gurgling streams, to sewer-drains,
Down gully-holes, impetuous rush.

Whereas fierce gales no more from north,
Or east—"Toes, nose, or fingers nip."
While gay on sidewalks, and so forth,
Pedestrians roam, nor fear to slip.

Whereas the Robin alias Red,
Is vocal now at early hour;
And male-fowls wake me in my bed
With strengthened rooster-doodle power.

Whereas my great-coat laid aside;
My clothes beneath I seedy see,
But vainly have my tailor tried
At replication, save for fee.

Whereas with whirling mop and broom
And white-wash brush, the women poke
Through all the house, and not a room
Is left me for a peaceful smoke.

These presents certify, that mild
And pleasing Spring doth now begin
Ejectment suit 'gainst Winter wild
And putteth due appearance in.

Then come, sweet Jane! by fieri fa,
All duly stamped in Love's high Court,
Who nab'st thy Richard's heart away,
And lock'st up ev'ry truant thought.

In pensive ramble let us go,
Where King-street's murmur'ing gullies steal,
Thou art my Doe—and I thy Roe,
As witness here my hand and seal.

Church Exemptions.

1. Now GRIP was going to and fro on the earth, and walking up and down on it.

2. And he came into a city, and lo, there was much land set apart therein, and vast churches erected.

3. And the stones thereof, and the carved work thereof and the cunning ornamentation thereof, were of great cost, so that much wealth was lavished on the same; likewise the land around, belonging to the same, was of exceeding great value.

4. And there was a man in black garments, even a preacher, standing by the same.

5. And GRIP said unto the man, even the preacher. How get ye so much land, and so great buildings, seeing that the times are exceeding hard?

6. And the man said, Son, the great cost of these things in cities, be the taxes thereon.

7. And it hath been enacted that these lands and edifices shall be free thereof, so that we now do hold much land, and shortly will be able to lease all the overplus at high rents.

8. So that it shall be for a perpetual endowment to our churches, and it may well be shortly thereafter that we shall be in the good condition of churches in the Old World.

9. For they have not need to depend on the voluntary principle, and they do even preach and do as they please.

10. And GRIP said unto the man, even the man standing by.

11. Tell now unto me this. Do not many men in these cities help to pay for these churches who do not believe in the same, nor in any, and is not the taxation thereof hard and grievous to bear, and are they not inflamed against all religion thereby, thinking it unjust.

12. And he said unto GRIP, Son, it is but a spoiling of the Egyptians, which is permitted unto the devout, and also the power and riches of the churches, and their freedom from the domination of the laymen therein, will be mightily increased thereby. And the man spake no more unto GRIP.

Au Revoir.

GRIP bids you God-speed Clandeboyce
While on your trans-atlantic trip,
And hopes you'll find where'er you go
A friendly, warm, Canadian grip.

You won't forget "the girl you leave Behind" as "gaily goes the ship;"
When in "high latitudes" your mind
Will oftentimes revert to GRIP.

"A life upon the ocean wave,"
Will be embraced by you with joy;
The winds will chant a welcome stave,
And whistle round you Clandeboyce.

Tell "Emily" * when you get across
"We love her still," we'll ne'er let slip
The hand that nurtur'd us in youth,
But clasp it with a firmer grip.

God guide the bark that bears you on,
In speed, may she the winds outstrip;
May time pass merrily till you
Come back to Canada and GRIP.

* England, is what was here meant but our intelligent compositor would have it so.

ORO says tulips always makes him think of kisses.—Danbury News.
An 'Oro-ble joke.

WHY does a certain city in Ireland bid fair to become the largest city in the world? Because it's Dublin every year.

IN two consecutive paragraphs of a late issue of a contemporary we read that "match-making is a process especially dangerous in Sweden" and that the Grand Duke Alexis has made a complete success in his runaway wedding." Wherefore we would suppose that the process is less risky in Russia, though, to judge from the fact that the happy couple can't go home, there must be impediments even there. The Baltic would appear to have somewhat of a softening influence. Yet match-making is a hard business anywhere, as Brigham Young appears to have found by the result of his experiment in making not merely one, but a whole bundle of matches.

What is home without a mother—in-law?

If the moon is made of green cheese, was the cheese made from the milk of the cow that jumped over it, and how much of the Milky Whey was left?

MRS. MORRISON'S
GRAND
OPERA
HOUSE
ADELAIDE STREET WEST.

MRS. MORRISON, - - - Manageress
MR. COULDOCK, - - - Stage Manager.

FRIDAY EVENING, APRIL 2nd 1875.
BENEFIT OF
Mr. Thomas Grattan Riggs.
On which occasion will be presented for the first time in Toronto, The New Drama, entitled,

THE IRISH DETECTIVE,

In which Mr. Riggs will personate
SEVEN DIFFERENT CHARACTERS,
Each having

A DISTINCT NATIONALITY.

ARTHUR TRACEY,
MICHAEL DOOEAN, from Galway.
HANSSPIELMAN, a German Glazier,
POP CORN JONES, an aged Negro
Clam Soup Merchant.
MRS. MULDOON, a Fruit Vendor.
BILL RALTON, a New York Hackman.
MATTEO MAZETTI, an Italian Pa-drone.

Mr.
Thomas
Grattan
Riggs!

SATURDAY MATINEE,

The great Irish drama of

ARRAH NA POGUE,

OR THE

WICKLOW WEDDING.

SHAUN THE POST, ... Mr. THOMAS GRATTAN RIGGS
ARRAH MEELISH, ... Mrs. MORRISON

THE IRISH JAUNTING CAR & HORSE,
THE WICKLOW WEDDING AND FAM-OUS BARN DOOR JIG—CHARACTER
IRISH REEL BY THE COMPANY.

SATURDAY EVENING, APRIL 3, 1875.

THE IRISH DETECTIVE

And First Act of

ARRAH NA POGUE!

The Wedding, The Jaunting Car, The Barn Door Jig,
The Irish Reel.

King Street entrance, from east corner of
Thomas' chop house.

Parties from Hamilton wishing to visit Mrs.
Morrison's Grand Opera House, Toronto, can
leave Hamilton at 5.25 p.m., arriving in Toronto
at 7 p.m.; returning leave Toronto at 11 p.m.
Seats may be secured by telegram to the box office.

NOW READY.

The Expressman
and
The Detective
By ALLAN PINKERTON.
Price 40 Cents.

Dr. Newman's Reply
to
Mr. Gladstone's Pamphlet.
Price 20 Cents.

THE HISTORY

OF THE

VATICAN COUNCIL

By Dr. SCHAFF.

Price 20 Cents.

A. S. IRVING & Co.,

Publishers,

Corner Toronto and Adelaide Streets,

TORONTO.

In Press

"VATICANISM"

By MR. GLADSTONE.

Price 15 Cents.

SAMO & JOHNSTON,

WHOLESALE

CABINET MAKERS

AND

UPHOLSTERERS.

WAREROOMS, - 187 and 189 YONGE STREET.
FACTORY, - - - - - YORKVILLE.

Our facilities enable us to supply the Trade and the Public generally with

DRAWING ROOM,

DINING ROOM,

BED ROOM AND

LIBRARY FURNITURE

In the latest English and American styles, at prices that defy competition.

Masonic,

Oddfellow,

'Orange,

Forester,

And other Society Lodge room Furniture, carved in accordance with the most approved designs, and unsurpassed
for elegance, utility and economy.
The fullest satisfaction guaranteed in all cases. Give us a call.

REMEMBER THE ADDRESS:

187 AND 189 YONGE ST., UNDER ALBERT
HALL.

USE THE DIAMOND YEAST
CAKE.

HAND-IN-HAND
MUTUAL
FIRE INSURANCE
COMPANY.

Financial Statement for the Year
ending Dec. 31, 1874.

REVENUE.

Cash Premiums and Interest $25,486 13
DISBURSEMENTS.

Claims under Policies paid $8,348 95

Claim Appropriation for Losses resisted

and waiting proof 750 00

Agents, Commission, Salaries, Direc-
tors Fees, Office Rent, &c. 6,192 73

Scrip Appropriation to Policy-holders

of 1874, on deposit in Royal Canadian Bank, being forty per cent. 10,194 45

..... $25,486 13

W. H. HOWLAND, President.
HUGH SCOTT, Manager & Sec'y.

Audited and found correct.

ERNEST G. PULFORD, } Auditors.
GEO. J. MAULSON, }

Risks accepted on all Descriptions of Insurable Property.
Rates fixed with regard to the Laws of Average. All the Profits divided among Policy-holders annually.

Head Office:

Ontario Hall, Church Street, Toronto.

SCOTT & WALMSLEY,

General Agents.

Corner Jarvis & Adelaide Sts.,

TORONTO, ONT.

JOHN D. NASMITH,

Manufacturer of

BREAD, ROLLS, BUNS, CAKES, &c., &c.,

A superior article of Bread delivered daily throughout
the city.

TO THE TRADE ONLY

FOR LATEST PATTERNS IN
ALL KINDS OF REAL AND IMITATION

HAIR GOODS,

At Lowest Wholesale Prices.

APPLY TO THE

NEW DOMINION CHIGNON FACTORY,

96 Yonge Street, Toronto,

FRANCIS J. BORMUTH, Proprietor.

BROWN BROS.,

WHOLESALE & MANUFACTURING

STATIONERS,

No. 66 & 68 King St., East,

TORONTO.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE.

Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, No. 20 Adelaide Street, East.

Subscription price, $a per annum; single copies 5 cents. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied.

Advertisements and subscriptions received at the office, to which all communications should be addressed.

GEORGE BENGOUGH,
Business Manager,
No. 20 Adelaide St., Toronto.

VICTORIA

PHOTOGRAPHIC GALLERY,

386 Queen St. West, Toronto.

J. Hansford, Prop.

INSURANCE

PRINTING

A SPECIALTY.

Lovelock, Stovel & Co.,

32 COLBORNE STREET,

TORONTO.

A. FOX,

Yorkville Boot & Shoe Mart.

GENTS', LADIES' AND MISSES'
SHOES OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

Special attention given to measurement.

J. Littleton,

Groceries & Provisions.

A Select Stock of Canned Fruits,
Fish and Oysters always on hand.

YONGE STREET. - YORKVILLE.

Searth, Cochran & Co.

STOCK BROKERS,

(Members of the Stock Exchange.)

REAL ESTATE AGENTS,

38 Toronto Street, Toronto.

W. B. SCARTH. R. COCHRAN.

References:—F. Stevenson, Quebec Bank; Dominion Bank, Toronto

LITHOGRAPHY.

If you want your

BILLHEADS, CARDS, NOTES, DRAFTS, &c.

DONE IN

First Class Style,

At moderate figures, go to

G. J. GEBHARDT & Co.,
13 ADELAIDE STREET EAST.

ISAAC PITMAN'S

(ENGLISH)

Phonographic Publications.

The Phonographic Teacher,
Manuel of Phonography,
Key to Phonographic Exercises,
Phonographic Phrase Book,
Phonetic Journal, published weekly in Learner's Corresponding and Reporting styles of Phonography, and also Phonetic and Common Print. Address.

THOS. BENGOUGH,
Box 2662, Toronto.

NOTMAN & FRASER

PHOTOGRAPHERS TO THE QUEEN,

39, 41, & 43 King Street East, Toronto,

AND AT MONTREAL AND HALIFAX.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, APRIL 10, 1875.

GRIP OFFICE,
20 ADELAIDE ST.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

5 CTS. EACH.
$2 PER ANNUM.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach Grip office not later than Wednesday.—Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, Grip office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

CONTRIBUTIONS, when accepted, will, for the present, be paid for at the rate of Two Dollars per column. All articles for which payment is expected must be accompanied by the name and address of the author.

SIGN OF

THE GOLDEN BOOT!

200 Yonge Street.

Gents' and Boys' Gaiters and Lace Boots, Sizes and Half Sizes, OUR OWN MAKE, down to 18, Hand Pegged and Hand Sewed. Cannot be beat for style and Quality at THE PRICE in the Dominion. Several job lots selling VERY CHEAP to make room for

SPRING GOODS!

WHICH ARE ARRIVING EVERY WEEK.

Come and see them.

Wm. West & Co.
"Golden Boot," 200 Yonge St.

John S. Grassick & Co.

FAMILY GROCERS,

WINE AND SPIRIT

MERCHANTS,

167 Yonge St. Toronto.

MANSION HOUSE
UXBRIDGE, ONT.

JAMES S. CLYNE, PROPRIETOR.

This first-class Hotel is now fully equipped, and furnishes unrivalled accommodation for guests. Good sample rooms for commercial men. Terms moderate.

W P. Williams,

134 Queen St. East, Toronto,
[Between George & Sherbourne,]

DEALER IN

PURE CONFECTIONERY
AND
CHOICE FRUITS.

A select supply of Canned Fruit,
Fish, &c., always on hand.

EVERY GENTLEMAN SHOULD
SEND HIS

SHIRTS AND COLLARS

TO BE DRESSED AT THE

City Laundry, Corner of Bay
and Adelaide Sts.

WILLIAM LEE, - PROPRIETOR

WANTED.

Back Numbers of GRIP.

VOL. I, Nos. 10, 11, 13, 14, 19, 21.
VOL. III, No. 7.
VOL. IV, No. 5.

Persons having any of the above will oblige by communicating with GRIP Office, 20 Adelaide Street.

BUY
BOOTH'S
CHECKER
LOZENGES.

ORGANS---GEO. WOOD & CO'S.

THE PIANO STOP,

On of the most remarkable improvements that has ever been introduced into the manufacture of musical instruments.

THE NEW ORGAN CASE

Is a most beautiful piece of furniture.

PIANOS.—Knabe, Stodart, Lighte & Ernst, Marshall & Wendell, Rogers & Heintzman.

LESLIE, SKIRROW & SMITH

93 Yonge Street, Toronto.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabeſt Beaſt is the Aſs; the grabeſt Bird is the Owl;
The grabeſt Fiſh is the Oyſter; the grabeſt Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, APRIL 10, 1875.

Answers to Correspondents.

JEREMIAH.—Declined with thanks.

WILKIE COLLINS SMITH.—Your story has a strange, weird effect. We have tried to read it several times and on each occasion a soft slumber stole over us. We found it put all our compositors to sleep over their cases and hushed the voice of the "devil." Were we to publish it we might get taken for the Leader, or be accused of stealing from the Canadian Monthly.

IKE JUNIOR. We sympathise with the difficulties you are troubled with in composing articles. Most editors of our acquaintance find their great difficulty in the lack of subjects, which seems contrary to your experience. Yet another thing remains for you to learn, that a "train of beautiful ideas" is by no means necessary for composition. Study the great daily papers, young man, and if you find yourself unequal to producing like balderdash the instant a subject is given you, be satisfied that you were intended for another vocation than journalism. Try the paths of poesy, or wield the puissant buck-saw.

The Clergy to the "Witness."

Not a baby we'll baptize, till they bring with solemn fitness,
Proof infallible that it never has perused the Witness,
Lo, we do devote it to future grief from powers infernal,
If it's been, at breakfast time, looking at that awful journal.

If a lover sees his sweetheart reading from that publication,
That connection must be broken; it can only bring vexation.
Who's to marry them?—not we, Sir; and the lawyers in their places
Just to keep, we here prohibit future breach of promise cases.

Mind you don't attempt to die, if you've been in that thing reading,
Uninterred we'll let you lie, all your sad complaints unheeding;
Nor you needn't come in white sheets, after us at night to scream,
When, in ground unconsecrated, your discomfort is extreme.

If, at any time you're caught at that wicked paper squinting;
If you laugh at any jokes which the rascals have been printing,
If by chance you overhear any of their allegations,
Understand that all of you get your excommunications.

It you buy that dreadful sheet, or from any news store fetch it,
We shall take good care that you in the next world soundly catch it;
If they don't mind, we'll abolish all the saucy printing tribe,
We'll run the presses all ourselves, and mind you've all got to subscribe.

From Our Box.

GRIP believes the æsthetic education of the world to be a great thing. He went to hear the cantata of Fridolin the other night, and was very well pleased with the way his friends did it. But he thinks it will be a long time before the world in general is educated up to the "music of the future." Speaking for himself, he trusts that future is very far distant, as the only parts of the performance which gave him pleasant impressions were those which reminded him of the music of the past, after the manner of Mr. PUFF's coincidences with Shakespeare. The wild strains which announced that Mr. MURRAY SCOTT had been (figuratively) cast into a burning fiery furnace should, to carry out the parallel, have emanated from sackbuts, psalteries and dulcimers. If there is no one here who can play them, why not send to New York?

MISS KATE FISHER has made her appearance at the Royal Opera House, but has grievously disappointed the swells by wearing a fair proportion of clothing, and that not of the transparent kind affected by some of the modern excrescences of burlesque. The soul-stirring story of "Mazeppa" is well-known through the medium of Byron's poems and travelling circuses. We adhere as closely as possible to the noble bard's words in describing the plot. How Mazeppa was brought up in a Polish family of rank and the "Castellan's child on the youth fondly smiled

And shared many a tart with the Tartar"

"How under the name of Casimir he grows to be a fine young man of his age, and the King as the story goes promoted him to be his page." How his love for Oliniska (very carefully and pleasingly played by Miss Bradshaw) was discovered and the castellan "told the men to go to the stable and fetch the wild and untamed steed," following up this order by directing his myrmidons "to strip his clothes off and tie him on that horse's back." How the gallant steed and his lovely burden went up among the flies, came down safely, to the intense terror of Mr. BAIRD and other Tartar peasants, and at last sank breathless to the earth, whereupon a Tartar lady "fetched a sigh, then fetched some water, and then she fetched Mazeppa round." How by the process so much admired in "Box and Cox" the Khan of Tartary "gives a start and says, I rather think this here's my long lost son," whereon they retire to sleep in a large tent with trees in it. "Then" we again quote BYRON "there come a horrid villain and with him another man, with the base design of killin' Mazeppa and that aged Khan." Need we to say that innocent triumphed in the end, that Mazeppa rode his horse back to Poland and arrived in time to prevent Oliniska's nuptials, and that Messrs. RYSE and BARTON were crushingly defeated by the Tartar host. The thorough training to which "Wonder," the representative of the wild horse of the Ukraine, had been brought was remarkable and pleased all the spectators. We have seen lots of two-legged actors who played parts much worse than our four-footed friend.

Mr. COULDOCK's representation of King Leair at the Grand Opera House has been the chief noteworthy event of the last few days. The character of the weak old monarch, with its outbursts of senile rage, its imbecility turning to actual madness in the end, and occasional flashes of native dignity and former power, is a wonderful conception and one of the most difficult in SHAKESPEARE. Mr. COULDOCK's rendering was excellent and his rendering of several doubtful passages shewed a thoroughly careful study of the text, and familiarity with the best traditions. The version used by him was, GRIP is thankful to say, not one of the hideous distortions so often inflicted on the public, where some genius of the CIBBER type has set himself to improve the plot. It retained all the most important scenes where the principal character appears, whilst others which would only have entailed a burden on actors and audience alike, were cut out. We would not be understood as disparaging the original play, but it is evident that even some of the minor characters would require the very highest talent and, failing this, they are better cut down. As it was, the tremendous difficulties of this play—one rarely represented, and unfamiliar to most professionals, fairly excused a great deal of hesitation and weak acting on the first night. Practice will remove much of this, and we forbear to criticise several points we noticed. It would be as well perhaps if some of the characters had studied their parts with a little more care. We hope to see this play repeated, as Mr. COULDOCK has certainly distinguished himself in it. By the way, GRIP wishes this gentleman every success on his benefit night. He is a good and careful actor and has done more than most people think to contribute to the success of this theatre.

The Prorogation.

Soon shall the cannon's sounding voice
Proclaim the last speech spoke
It, too, shall make a deal of noise
It, too, shall end in smoke.

And Dufferin proved more than true.
His opening address
Proposed but little they should do
They've done—a great deal less.

What have they done—heard blundering Brown
Unburdening his mind,
Tell how he did, at Washington
According to his kind.

Denounced the Senate's useless prate,
Ingratitude most vile,
That body did but imitate
The Commons' well-known style.

St. Lawrence route they were to clear,
Next century they may,
They mean to mend our harbour here
When it's all washed away.

Well, put the puppets on their shelf.
Ontario once again
May sadly murmur to herself
I thought that these were men.

A Card.

MACKENZIE & CO. GENERAL POLITICAL DEALERS, CONTRACTORS, MANUFACTURERS, JOBBERS, and ADMINISTRATORS.
WHOLESALE, RETAIL, and for EXPORTATION.
PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS,
OTTAWA, ONTARIO.
Branch offices:—TORONTO, QUEBEC, HALIFAX, WINNIPEG,
VICTORIA, and ELSEWHERE.

No firm with ours can make compare,
We deal in goods both rich and rare,
You can't buy like them anywhere Else.

Pure Principles we have on view,— Professions fine, both old and new,—
And Promises and Pledges too;
Lots.

For Liquor Prohibition, we Have taken staunchest stand [N.B.
Our whiskey it is labelled "Tea"—
Twig?]

Such customers as wish our Teas
To try, should ask for Bob. Wilkes, please,
'Tis he who all the caddy keys
Keeps.

He knows where the prime Treankay's found
Pure stuff, which never we'll be bound,
Will make the buyers head go round—
Ha!

Of Wood and Minerals we've a stock
Unrivalled—Jobbers to us flock,
And say their bargains are tip-top.
Quite.

In fancy Railway work we stand
Unequalled still throughout the land—
Choice contracts, too, we keep on hand,
Hum!

In Budgets we the world surprise—
In Bonds and Debentures likewise
We make the public ope their eyes.
Some!

Inquiries are our special forte,
Committees of the proper sort,
Per hour or job can still be bought
Cheap.

In fact our Firm is boss we guess,
As all who try us will confess,
Fail not to copy the address,
Above.

Toronto by Gaslight.

Fasten more tightly your bullet-proof waistcoat, grasp in each hand your largest revolvers, hold firmly between your teeth your double-edged bowie-knife, and with calm countenance venture forth in terrible and treacherous Toronto. Fear not, is not with us the Liberal reporter, who knoweth all things, and much more? "Close, 'he says,' your nostrils with adhesive wax, he who inhales the noisome odours dies of frightful pestilence." Observe, what mansions! what colonnades! what vistas of dazzling light! Listen what bursts of enchanting melody! what appalling shrieks, what echoing profanations! See where, amid palatial luxury, repose the syrens, irresistible of fascination, voluptuous of form. What pictures! The pale, weird light of the waning moon glances gleamingly on their masses of raven hair, their vast dark eyes. Ha! stand back! hark! the rush of feet, the mingling oaths and cries for mercy! Beware the blustering bandits of the bagnio, who now, a frightful and blasphemous horde, pursue their screaming victim! Heard you his death-groan? heard you the splash of the sullen waters closing over their prey? Let us depart hence. O, for London!

Listen, mellowed by distance, the lightly tinkling harp, the musical violin, sound cheerily through the gloom adown the street. Ah! joy not therein! No happiness those notes announce! Lo, where, through the enlightened nineteenth century, advance in slow pageant the melancholy procession of youthful and harmonious slaves, reft by barbarian force from far and sunny Italy. Alas! what haggard faces; what languid movements. Marvel not, but believe. Frightful, flagellated, deprived of food, compelled under dreadful penalties to tread the streets twenty-five hours each day! Horrible! Where is Garibaldi? Where are the police?

We could bear no more; our heartstrings, lacerated thus, had given way in several places. We left. But the Liberal man, iron of purpose and of nerve, went through the streets for two columns. We are going with him again. We are getting up our courage. He is getting up the Arabian Nights.

Address to the Canada First Club by the President.

Now, my co-mates, and brothers in exile,
Doth not this custom make our life more sweet
Than that of politics? Speak we not here
With less annoyance than to vulgar mobs?
Here feel we but the penalty of Adam
Our dinner's difference, as the seasons yield
More pleasant food or less. When the good wine
Doth pleasingly pour o'er my palate here
E'en till my head doth wag, I smile and say.
No hostile editorial this; this friend
Almost persuades me we shall yet be great.
Sweet are the uses of adversity
When Grit and Tory jammed us to the wall,
They moulded us into this precious elub.
And thus our life, exempt from public toil,
Finds joy in fish, delight in turtle soup,
Patience in beef, and good in everything.

Croaks and Pecks

How can a Reform Government make a Prohibitory law?

THE Amherstburg Echo is all sound; it goes in for echo-nomica government.

"THE editor of the Stratford Beacon, was in town looking happy and contented."—Liberal.—He's just the man to Beacon-tented.

WHY should the more sedate members of the OMIC CLUB be afraid to cross the ocean?—Because the sea (C) would make them Comic.

IT is evident that there was no Prohibitory Law in Denmark, because HAMLET says that one might "smile and smile and be a villain" (a-fillin').

SIR JOHN MACDONALD is coming in full force, "fire in his eye, reconstruction in his hand." He has three things to reconstruct—his newspaper, his party, and his reputation.

THE London Herald says a "contem." "steals like thunder," from it. Would'nt that have the effect to lightning its columns? However, the Herald is a "foeman worthy of its steal."

It is understood that Reformers are in favour of allowing the Tories a temporary return to power, that they may abolish the late Election Law. It is complained that, with matters in their present state, none of the Party of Purity have any idea of how they are to get in at the next elections.

PATRICK O'FLAGELLATE writes us from Dummer Street, and anxiously inquires if the Prohibitory Lick-her law won't allow him to thrash his wife. We are authorized to state that it is not the intention of the Government to interfere with any innocent and harmless amusement whatever.

An advertisement has lately been appearing in the Liberal, evidently emanating from the Model Farm, to the effect that a person possessed of all the Christian virtues and well posted in agriculture may find employment by applying at the Liberal or Globe offices. The Globe does not insert this notice. Even "Government pap" is nauseous if poisoned with the name of a hated rival.

A melancholy proof of original depravity is displayed by the readiness with which the unsophisticated countrymen of the Liberal staff have yielded to the fatal fascinations of city life. Scarce ten weeks here, they are already well acquainted with every bar-room and house of ill-repute. Their relations should be communicated with. They may yet be reclaimed.

We are glad to be informed that, with a proper sense of their position as an aristocracy, the members of the Canada First Club have decided on adopting armorial bearings. They are as follows:—An ostrich improper, vert, concealing its head in a club-house, or; with Bacchus azure for crest, surmounted by a knife and fork, argent, placed saltier-wise. Dexter supporter, Mr. GOLDWIN SMITH, sable, rampant, declinant, sinister, Hon. G. BROWN, gules, regardant, triumphant. Motto, Baculo fretus.

MRS. MORRISON'S
GRAND
OPERA
HOUSE
ADELAIDE STREET WEST.

MRS. MORRISON, - - - - - Manageress
MR. COULDOCK, : - - - - - Stage Manager.

FRIDAY EVENING, APRIL 9TH, 1875.

BENEFIT OF

MR. COULDOCK.

On which occasion will be presented

OLD PHIL'S BIRTHDAY!

PHIL STAPLETON, --- MR. COULDOCK.

after which the roaring farce of

THE IRISH TIGER!

PADDY RYAN, --MR. T. GRATTAN RIGGS.

SATURDAY MATINEE,
SUIL GAIR;

Or, Shamrock Green.

SUIL GAIR, --- MR. T. GRATTAN RIGGS.

SATURDAY EVENING, APRIL 10TH, 1875.

THE IRISH DETECTIVE,

MR. J. H. BARNES'

ENGAGEMENT,

COMMENCING MONDAY, APRIL 12TH

MONDAY AND TUESDAY,

Romance of a

POOR YOUNG MAN.

WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY,

PARTNERS FOR LIFE,

AND

DELICATE GROUND.

King Street entrance, from east corner of Thomas' chop house.

Parties from Hamilton wishing to visit Mrs. Morrison's Grand Opera House, Toronto, can leave Hamilton at 5.25 p.m., arriving in Toronto at 7 p.m.; returning leave Toronto at 11 p.m. Seats may be secured by telegram to the box office.

NOW READY.

The Expressman
and
The Detective
By ALLAN PINKERTON.
Price 40 Cents.

Dr. Newman's Reply
to
Mr. Gladstone's Pamphlet.
Price 20 Cents.

THE HISTORY

OF THE

VATICAN COUNCIL

By Dr. SCHAFF.

Price 20 Cents.

A. S. IRVING & Co.,

Publishers,

Corner Toronto and Adelaide Streets,

TORONTO.

In Press

"VATICANISM"

By MR. GLADSTONE.

Price 15 Cents.

SAMMON & JOHNSTON,

WHOLESALE

CABINET MAKERS

AND

UPHOLSTERERS.

WAREHOUSES, - 187 and 189 YONGE STREET.
FACTORY, - - - - - YORKVILLE.

Our facilities enable us to supply the Trade and the Public generally with

DRAWING ROOM,

DINING ROOM,

BED ROOM AND

LIBRARY FURNITURE

In the latest English and American styles, at prices that defy competition.

Masonic,

Oddfellow,

Orange,

Forester,

And other Society Lodge room Furniture, carved in accordance with the most approved designs, and unsurpassed for elegance, utility and economy.

The fullest satisfaction guaranteed in all cases. Give us a call.

REMEMBER THE ADDRESS:

187 AND 189 YONGE ST., UNDER ALBERT
HALL.

USE THE
DIAMOND YEAST
CAKE.

'HAND-IN-HAND'
MUTUAL
FIRE INSURANCE
COMPANY.

Financial Statement for the Year
ending Dec. 31, 1874.

REVENUE.

Cash Premiums and Interest $25,486 13

DISBURSEMENTS.

Claims under Policies paid, $8,348 95

Claim Appropriation for Losses resisted

and waiting proof, 750 00

Agents, Commission, Salaries, Direc-

tors Fees, Office Rent, &c., 6,192 73

Scrap Appropriation to Policy-holders

of 1874, on deposit in Royal Cana-

dian Bank, being forty per cent., 10,194 45

..... $25,486 13

W. H. HOWLAND, President.

ERNEST G. PULFORD, } Auditors.
GEO. J. MAULSON, }

Audited and found correct.

Risks accepted on all Descriptions of Insurable Property.

Rates fixed with regard to the Laws of Average. All the

Profits divided among Policy-holders annually.

Head Office:

Ontario Hall, Church Street, Toronto.

SCOTT & WALMSLEY,

General Agents.

Corner Jarvis & Adelaide Sts.,

TORONTO, ONT.

JOHN D. NASMITH.

Manufacturer of

BREAD, ROLLS, BUNS, CAKES, &c., &c.,

A superior article of Bread delivered daily throughout the city.

TO THE TRADE ONLY

FOR LATEST PATTERNS IN

ALL KINDS OF REAL AND IMITATION

HAIR GOODS,

At Lowest Wholesale Prices.

APPLY TO THE

NEW DOMINION CHIGNON FACTORY,

96 Yonge Street, Toronto,

FRANCIS J. BORMUTH, Proprietor.

BROWN BROS.,

WHOLESALE & MANUFACTURING

STATIONERS,

No. 66 & 68 King St., East,

TORONTO.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE.

Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, No. 20 Adelaide Street, East.

Subscription price, $2 per annum; single copies 5 cents. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied.

Advertisements and subscriptions received at the office, to which all communications should be addressed.

GEORGE BENGOUGH,
Business Manager,
No. 20 Adelaide St., Toronto.

VICTORIA
PHOTOGRAPHIC
GALLERY,
386 Queen St. West, Toronto.
J. Hansford, Prop.

INSURANCE
PRINTING
A SPECIALTY.
Lovelock, Stovel & Co.,
32 COLBORNE STREET,
TORONTO.

A. FOX,
Yorkville Boot & Shoe Mart.
GENTS', LADIES' AND MISSES'
SHOES OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,
Special attention given to measurement.

J. Littleton,
Groceries & Provisions.
A Select Stock of Canned Fruits,
Fish and Oysters always on hand.
YONGE STREET, - YORKVILLE.

Searth, Cochran & Co.
STOCK BROKERS,
(Members of the Stock Exchange.)
REAL ESTATE AGENTS,
38 Toronto Street, Toronto.
W. B. SCARTH. R. COCHRAN.
References:—J. Stevenson, Quebec Bank; Dominion Bank, Toronto

LITHOGRAPHY.

If you want your
BILLHEADS,
CARDS, NOTES,
DRAFTS, &c.
DONE IN
First Class Style,
At moderate figures, go to
G. J. GEBHARDT & Co.,
13 ADELAIDE STREET EAST.

ISAAC PITMAN'S
(ENGLISH)
Phonographic
Publications.

The Phonographic Teacher,
Manual of Phonography,
Key to Phonographic Exercises,
Phonographic Phrase Book,
Phonetic Journal, published weekly
in Learner's Corresponding and
reporting styles of Phonography,
and also Phonetic and Common
Print Address.

THOS. BENGOUGH,
Box 2662, Toronto.

NOTMAN & FRASER

PHOTOGRAPHERS TO THE QUEEN,

39, 41, & 43 King Street East, Toronto,
AND AT MONTREAL AND HALIFAX.

GRIP OFFICE, } The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; } 5 CTS. EACH.
20 ADELAIDE ST. } The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool. } $2 PER ANNUM.

ORGANS---GEO. WOOD & CO'S.

THE PIANO STOP,

One of the most remarkable improvements that has ever been introduced into the manufacture of musical instruments.

THE NEW ORGAN CASE

Is a most beautiful piece of furniture.

PIANOS.—Knabe, Stodart, Lighte & Ernst, Marshall & Wendell, Rogers & Heintzman.

LESLIE, SKIRROW & SMITH

93 Yonge Street, Toronto.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach GRIP office not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

CONTRIBUTIONS, when accepted will, for the present, be paid for at the rate of Two DOLLARS per column. All articles for which payment is expected must be accompanied by the name and address of the author.

SIGN OF
THE GOLDEN BOOT!
200 Yonge Street.

Gents' and Boys' Gaiters and Lace Boots, Sizes and Half Sizes, OUR OWN MAKE, down to 13., Hand Pegged and Hand Sewed. Cannot be beat for style and Quality at the PRICE in the Dominion. Several job lots selling VERY CHEAP to make room for

SPRING GOODS!

WHICH ARE ARRIVING EVERY WEEK. Come and see them.

Wm. West & Co.
"Golden Boot," 200 Yonge St.

John S. Grassick & Co.
FAMILY GROCERS,
WINE AND SPIRIT
MERCHANTS,
167 Yonge St. Toronto.

MANSION HOUSE
UXBRIDGE, ONT.
JAMES S. CLYNE, PROPRIETOR.

This first-class Hotel is now fully equipped, and furnishes unrivalled accommodation for guests. Good sample rooms for commercial men. Terms moderate.

W P. Williams,
134 Queen St. East, Toronto,
(Between George & Sherbourne,)
DEALER IN
PURE CONFECTIONERY
AND
CHOICE FRUITS.

A select supply of Canned Fruit, Fish, &c., always on hand.

EVERY GENTLEMAN SHOULD
SEND HIS

SHIRTS and COLLARS
TO BE DRESSED AT THE
City Laundry, Corner of Bay
and Adelaide Sts.

WILLIAM LEE, - PROPRIETOR

WANTED.

Back Numbers of GRIP.

VOL. I. Nos. 10, 11, 13, 14, 19, 21.
VOL. III., No. 7.
VOL. IV., No. 5.

Persons having any of the above will oblige by communicating with GRIP Office, 20 Adelaide Street.

BUY
BOOTH'S
CHECKER
LOZENGES.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabest Beast is the Ass; the grabest Bird is the Owl;
The grabest Fish is the Oyster; the grabest Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, APRIL 24, 1875.

Answers to Correspondents.

J.C.H. (Hull.) Declined with thanks.

SEVERAL OTHERS. If you don't take warning, we will publish an entire number of rejected contributions before long.

C.R.B. (Walkerville.) We had already inserted some other verses on the same subject as your own, or would gladly have published them. Thanks for the rest.

JACKY PLANE. We really cannot print your quotation from Doctor Watts as an original humorism, and the remainder of your vision is of too serious a nature for our columns.

ANTI-HUMBUG. We quite agree with the advisability of exposing quack doctors, but the columns of a comic paper are hardly suited for such a purpose.

"Solution of the Irish Problem."

To me countrymen now I am spakin',
'Tis time ye be's up and is wakin',
For 'tis Nicholas Flood
Of ould Irish Blood
Your fortunes is all after makin'.

In all this wide woorld there's no man,
Since the dawn o' creation began,
That cud iver see
Except it wus me
For to bile our pertaties the plan.

Dear byes av the Imerald Isle.
All the fules in Creation may shmile
And sigh—The poor grit!
But the shstars I will hit
Wid my pate—in magnificent shtyle.

We will scornfully trate the base slaves,
And dig dape their infamus graves,
Who accept a lot
Widout glory got;
The polthrooms, the villains, the knaves.

Now moind ye well hwat I will say
And consider discrately the way,
Your bowld agitatur
Wad cook the pertatur,
And never your birthright bethtray.

And first I will rise and explane
To your highnesses just hwat I mane
Wid my fancy I spy,
But not wid my eye
Your bodies all covered wid chane.

Be the bones of great Brian O'Linn
(Who scorned not to disport a shapskin)
Wid my mighty pen
I'll out-cluck the best hen
That e'er flutthered and fought for her kin.

My plan now I'll slip in your ear
Hand it down to yer sons widout fear
Assume to be make
But be devils in chake
An you'll thrive the whole woorld to yer rear.

An remimber 'tis Nicholas Flood Davin
Who your lives from base surfdom is savin',
To yerselves ye be true
An he'll see you thro'
Widout rantin', or roarin' or ravin'.

From Our Box.

IT was a blessed relief after a course of MISS FISHER and MISS PIERSON to get back to Opera at the Royal. BALFE'S Enchantress was the first presented, in which MISS SALLIE HOLMAN sustained the principal character, or rather combination of characters, with her usual success. The play consists of a prologue on board ship, an interval of fifteen years, and two acts on shore. The interval was depicted with marvellous fidelity by the Orchestra. One could have thought it twenty years, and we only wondered to see every one preserve their youth after it was over, with the exception of MISS IDA CARPENTER, who had grown into MISS SALLIE HOLMAN. The interest of the play centres in a band of pirates who have a sort of veneration for the heroine, and all go ashore to follow her fortunes. They seem very amiable, mainly amusing themselves with dressing up like monks, firing guns to scare people, and occasionally singing a very pretty chorus. There is a DUKE who hires assassins to kill a rightful heir. They make a mistake and kill him. Rightful heir falls in love with the Enchantress. So does chief pirate. All three sing a charming trio very nicely. Pirate gives up his claim. Rest of pirates get into a boat without visible means of propulsion and sing their chorus. Chief pirate goes out in a boat and joins them, leaving Sicily in a most happy condition. The lovers are united, at least we suppose so. That's all, except that it was charmingly put upon the stage and that MESSRS. RYSE and BRANDISI as the chief pirate and rightful heir sang very well, especially the former, whose acting was also worthy of notice.

WHO or what is a Shaughraun and how is it pronounced? These conundrums puzzled all Toronto for days. Now we know. It is an Irish gentleman in a tattered red coat, high boots, with a fiddle in a bag on his back and an invisible dog. As to the pronunciation we are not so certain of that yet, as diversities of opinion seem to prevail, even on the stage itself. However the Shaughraun has furnished MR. BOÛCAULT with the title of a very good play, though not the best we have seen of his. Robert Ffolliott (with two f's, mind) is an escaped prisoner, of the Fenian persuasion. Captain Molineux is an English officer in pursuit of Fenians. Father Dolan is guardian to Robert, with whom Arte O'Neale is in love. Robert has a sister Claire with whom the Englishman falls in love. Corry Kinchela is also in love with Robert's property. Harvey Duff is his factotum when anything wrong has to be done. We have described the Shaughraun, whose accomplishments are singing, making love to the priest's niece and producing surreptitious birds, fishes and whiskey bottles from his pockets. The Ffolliotts had once a castle. It is on a rock in the sea, where Miss O'Neale says her ancestors used to keep open house, a gratuitous sort of hospitality, seeing that no one could ever have got there on casual visits. The fugitive visits Father Dolan who is giving a small evening party, when enter the Captain and as many of his company as can get into the house. They arrest him, and break up the festivities. Mr. Kinchela visits him in prison and shows him the way to get out, considering posting his accomplices outside with a view to shooting him. He makes a hole in the wall and the Shaughraun pulls him through. The latter jumps down on the factotum's back and they both get away safely. The tower makes a left half face to afford a full view of the escape, which was very prettily contrived. The second act closes with the shooting of the Shaughraun and abduction of Arte and Moya by Kinchela and his gang. Hurroo! What have we next? A real Irish wake. The body of the Shaughraun is decently laid out and the mourners bewail him. With a fine example of the "ruling passion" the corpse manages to abstract an old lady's whiskey, the effects of which are to revive him when every one else is gone. The Captain and he arrive finally in time to rescue the young woman, shoot Kinchela (who however revives in time to be taken into custody), frighten the factotum over a cliff and discover a royal pardon for Robert; Father Dolan pronounces a blessing on three happy couples and the curtain falls on general rejoicings. MRS. MORRISON and MR. BARNES as Claire and Captain Molineux were beyond all praise. The former acted with more than her usual ease and spirit, and the latter was a pleasant and gentlemanly British officer, the part being, by the way, a great improvement on those usual in Irish dramas, where the Englishman is brought in to be made ridiculous. MR. McDOWELL, the Shaughraun, is somewhat too American to suit our view of a Sligo peasant, but has plenty of humour and life. MR. COULDOCK, as the venerable Father Dolan, was excellent, showing much depth of feeling, which is too apt to be overlooked in pieces where the interest centres round the comic characters. MRS. LINDEN played nicely as Arte and MR. SAMBROOK was villainous to a degree as Kinchela. Altogether, the whole may be pronounced a brilliant success, barring some of the scenery.

Any other individual would have been staggered by the statement of the President of the T.G. & B. Railway, that the operations of the cordwood ring had not come to his knowledge. But GRIP sees through it at once. This gentleman has for sometime been deprived of the power of seeing, and hearing, and with a combination of Roman tortitude and modern ingenuity, has till now concealed the fact. But it should not be permitted—he might be run over by a train—his country might lose him, and what a loss that would be, our countrymen.

A HINT FOR THE "MAIL" MANAGER;

OR, "STABBING UNDER THE FIFTH RIB" SYSTEMATISED.

What Editors have to Suffer!(TELEGRAM. Richard de Dicke, to Grip: 2 p.m. Tuesday.)

"GRIP, old man, I was to 'do' you something this week, but, hang me, if I recollect what! 'Stonemason's strike; or building; or mortar; almost sure there was mortar in it. Answer."

(Grip, to Richard de Dicke; 2.15 p.m.)

NICE fellow you are!—Thoughts on man as a stupid animal demonstrated by six hodmen at 15 cts. per hour carrying bricks up tall ladders when a "rope and pulley worked by two men etc." You'll recollect now. We want copy badly. Send up soon."

(Richard de Dicke to Grip; 7 p.m. abbreviated.)

"EXACTLY. I remember. Hodmen! So it was. I don't know what you think, but it seems to me there's something in the weather adverse to literary application. Had some ideas on hodmen, I know, a day or two back, but don't know where they are now. If you look at Appleton's Cyclopaedia . . . polar waves, . . . barometric oscillations . . . intense thought injurious . . . man evidently formed for physical exercise . . . contributors to comic publications seldom live long . . . morning best time for composition . . . Hippocrates lays it down . . . Jones says I owe him his revenge at billiards . . . "give me five up" . . . too much "thinking corrodes our clay." (Milton) . . . Send you something in the morning."

(Grip to Richard de Dicke: Wednesday, 9 a.m.)

"DON'T forget us. Several other contributions affected by same barometrical and sanitary influences . . . At wit's end for copy. Urgent."

(Richard de Dicke to Grip; 11 a.m.)

"POOR fellows! I sympathise with them! Know how it is myself. Feel a sort of all-overishness this morning. Believe the brewers do, as that Mail man hints, put horrifying things in the beer. However I beat Jones. Enclosed is a letter, (no matter how I got it,) which a leading London, (Ont.) Grip has just received from a Toronto political confre. It is as entertaining as anything I could do for you in this depressing weather."

SIR JOHN MACDONALD.

"TO SUCH base uses may we come. etc!" Pious quotation.

I congratulate myself on being able to give exclusively some particulars respecting the above used up political Charlatan, who, has just sold his house and "fixings" at Kingston, preparatory to a final bolt to this most virtuous city. The great arch-corruptionist, after twenty years of nearly absolute power, is still as of old, a poor man, and (unlike MACKENZIE AND CO. when they surrender office) will be under the necessity of doing something for his living. I interviewed him last night. To my query what he intended to turn his hand to? he readily and courteously replied that on consideration it struck him there was an opening in Toronto for a writer of advertisements (in poetry and prose) for tradesmen and others who are over busy, or whose education has been neglected. "MOSES & SON, you know" he said, with a wink, "keeps a poet," and though the idea is new in these quarters I think it would take. Hereupon SIR JOHN went to a bureau, and brought out a card, and some printed specimens. The card was as follows:—

JOHN A. MACDONALD.

SCOLLARD ST. YONGE ST.

Advertisers' poet; paragraphist; letter-writer for labourers and servant-maids; copyist: etc. etc.

For specimens see below.—A reduction on taking a quantity.

REFERENCES KINDLY PERMITTED TO HON. GEO. BROWN, Toronto, C.J. WHELLAMS, Shepherds Bush, London, England; and others.

SPECIMENS.

MISS RYE. It is said that MISS RYE has brought an action against MR. POOR LAW INSPECTOR DOYLE for libel in saying she cleared £5 per immigrant child. We cordially subscribe to the sentiment of our talented cotem the Millhaven Gazette that if she recovers damages she would do well to spend a portion in the purchase of one of Poodle and Boodle's single and double cross stitch treadle-worked wringing and mangling Machines. Lobo Advocate.

(Note. This form of "local" is very effective, and admits of many pleasing variations.

Price 50 cents each, or Twelve for $5.

STRANGE.—It is said that Hamilton has a lady who doesn't want any jewellery, hasn't a looking-glass in the house, and wouldn't take a silk dress as a gift. She is evidently in a low state of vitality, and from what we have heard from disinterested quarters of the virtues of PROF. MACCONKEY'S Nervo-galvanic-renovating and Invigorating Syrup we have no doubt that a few bottles of it would act with magical effect on her husband's Xmas bills in the above named three branches of business. Avondale Courier.

(In this Style 50 cents per Stanza).

On this I ponder,
Where'er I wonder,

And thus grow fonder
Of Slayem's pills:
So vitalizing!
Before them flies in
A pace surprising
My stomach's ills.

Well, well, 'tis better to work for one's living than to go loafing round saloons for free drinks, and if the old rogue can pick up bread and cheese in this way, I see no objections. Yours truly. STIGGINS.

Author of Toronto by Gaslight.

To an Excommunicating Bishop.

Unwise ecclesiastic, know you not

The weapon you have grasped has ever maimed!
The hand which held it? Has your Church forgot
They still have prospered best, 'gainst whom such stroke was aimed?

Who rule in Rome to-day? Are they not those
'Gainst whom the Infallible his thunders sent?
What says he now? "A prisoner, my foes
In mine own palace have me closed and pent."

Would you again the harsh religious laws
Of former ages bring into the land?
Bethink you of each British penal clause,
How long you pined beneath their iron ban!

They are repealed. Why seek to introduce
The angry hate which passed such laws once more,
Why let once more the fiend of discord loose
That wrought yourselves such injury before?

What though the journal railed? If false it said
That falsehood would recoil. If it be true
Thy excommunication has but spread
Broadcast, what else had been but read by few.

A Favorite.

All women love me, from the giddy girl,
About whose brow full many an errant curl
Comes leaping downward, to the ancient maid
Whose hair, classically severe, a braid
Confines. Sweet eighteen, bursting into smiles,
The steadier matron, laughing at love's guiles;
The sombre widow, who has plucked the tree
Of sad experience, all alike love me!
And I am privileged. Where woman goes
There go I. When she is racked with woes
I'm by her side. When merry glances dart
And her blood leaps with joy, I feel her heart
Thrilling beneath my touch; I press her waist
More ardently than by lover e'er embraced.
Fickle, but not the ficklest coquette
Has ever dared to do without me yet.
When in the drawing-room, I'm with her there;
I go out with her when she takes the air;
At night when in her couch sleep seals her eye,
On chair or sofa in her room I lie,
For I am privileged in many ways—
Seeing, my friends, that I'm a pair of stays!

Doings of Prominent Men.

MR. GEORGE BROWN denies that he became a Tory, but confesses that late events have given him il-liberal tendencies.

THE Globe tells what MR. PATTESON said of MR. CROOKS, MR. PATTESON is going to tell us what the MESSRS. BROWN said of each other. If they agree not better, we shall soon hear what the twins of Toronto and London say of each other. How this world is given to—saying things of each other.

ON coming in sight of Toronto, MR. BLAKE remarked that it was sad to think that we seldom brought back a spotless "record" "Behold," he said, the place of my "brief" existence. But its "term" approaches. I am, however, "retained" here by many "refreshing" recollections.

MR. MACKENZIE, while in Samia, was observed contemplating the ruins of his former efforts at masonry. "Ah," he said, "the builders reject me; but I am noo the corner stane o' a mair important Hoose." And he went away, placidly.

MR. CROOKS lately met MR. WILLIAM McDUGALL. The coincidence was remarkable, but it really happened that MR. WILLIAM McDUGALL at the same moment met MR. CROOKS. Their remarks also remarkably coincided. MR. McDUGALL said that when his character was comparatively unknown, he used to be able to find constituencies much more readily than at present. MR. CROOKS agreed that it was strange, but not uncommon, as his experience was precisely the same.

MRS. MORRISON'S
GRAND
OPERA
HOUSE
ADELAIDE STREET WEST.

MRS. MORRISON, - - - - - Manageress
MR. COULDOCK, - - - - - Stage Manager.

FRIDAY EVENING, APRIL 23RD, 1875.

MR. E. A. McDOWELL'S BENEIFT.

Dion Boucicault's Great New Play

THE SHAUGHRAUN!

CONN - - - - - MR. E.A. McDOWELL.

Who has purchased of DION BOUCICAULT, Esq., at an enormous expense, the right to the play in Canada.

SHAUGHRAUN
MATINEE,

Commencing at 2.30 P. M.,

In consequence of the immense expense attend-the production of the above Play the Matinee prices will be 50 cents Admission.
Children 25 cents. For all Reserved Seats 25 cents extra.

MONDAY, APRIL 26TH,

And every evening during the week and at

SATURDAY MATINEE

The celebrated English Actress,

MRS. ROUSBY,

Who will appear in her

GREAT NEW PLAY

'TWIXT
AXE AND CROWN!

King Street entrance, from east corner of
Thomas' chop house.

Parties from Hamilton wishing to visit Mrs.
Morrison's Grand Opera House, Toronto, can
leave Hamilton at 5.25 p.m., arriving in Toronto
at 7 p.m.; returning leave Toronto at 11 p.m.
Seats may be secured by telegram to the box office.

NOW READY.

The Expressman
and
The Detective
By ALLAN PINKERTON.
Price 40 Cents.

Dr. Newman's Reply
to
Mr. Gladstone's Pamphlet.
Price 20 Cents.

THE HISTORY
OF THE

VATICAN COUNCIL

By Dr. SCHAFF.

Price 20 Cents.

A. S. IRVING & Co.,

Publishers,

Corner Toronto and Adelaide Streets,

TORONTO.

In Press

"VATICANISM"

By MR. GLADSTONE.

Price 15 Cents.

SAMO & JOHNSTON,

WHOLESALE

CABINET MAKERS

AND

UPHOLSTERERS.

WAREROOMS, - 187 and 189 YONGE STREET.
FACTORY, - - - - - YORKVILLE.

Our facilities enable us to supply the Trade and the Public generally with

DRAWING ROOM,

DINING ROOM,

BED ROOM AND

LIBRARY FURNITURE

In the latest English and American styles, at prices that defy competition.

Masonic,

Oddfellow,

Orange,

Forester,

And other Society Lodge room Furniture, carved in accordance with the most approved designs, and unsurpassed
for elegance, utility and economy.

The fullest satisfaction guaranteed in all cases. Give us a call.

REMEMBER THE ADDRESS:

187 AND 189 YONGE ST., UNDER ALBERT
HALL.

USE THE
DIAMOND YEAST
CAKE.

HAND-IN-HAND

MUTUAL

FIRE INSURANCE

COMPANY.

Financial Statement for the Year
ending Dec. 31, 1874.

REVENUE.

Cash Premiums and Interest $25,486 13

DISBURSEMENTS.

Claims under Policies paid $8,348 95

Claim Appropriation for Losses resisted
and waiting proof 750 00

Agents, Commission, Salaries, Direc-
tors Fees, Office Rent, &c. 6,192 73

Scrip Appropriation to Policy-holders
of 1874, on deposit in Royal Canadian Bank, being forty per cent. 10,194 45

----- $25,486 13

W. H. HOWLAND, President.

HUGH SCOTT, Manager & Sec'y.

Audited and found correct.

ERNEST G. PULFORD, } Auditors.
GEO. J. MAULSON, }

Risks accepted on all Descriptions of Insurable Property.
Rates fixed with regard to the Laws of Average. All the
Profits divided among Policy-holders annually.

Head Office:

Ontario Hall, Church Street, Toronto.

SCOTT & WALMSLEY,

General Agents.

Corner Jarvis & Adelaide Sts.,

TORONTO, ONT.

JOHN D. NASMITH,

Manufacturer of

BREAD, ROLLS, BUNS, CAKES, &c., &c.,

A superior article of Bread delivered daily throughout
the city.

TO THE TRADE ONLY

FOR LATEST PATTERNS IN
ALL KINDS OF REAL AND IMITATION

HAIR GOODS,

At Lowest Wholesale Prices.

APPLY TO THE

NEW DOMINION CHIGNON FACTORY,

96 Yonge Street, Toronto,

FRANCIS J. BORMUTH, Proprietor.

BROWN BROS.,

WHOLESALE & MANUFACTURING

STATIONERS,

No. 66 & 68 King St., East,

TORONTO.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE.

Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, No. 20 Adelaide Street, East.

Subscription price, $2 per annum; single copies 5 cents. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied.

Advertisements and subscriptions received at the office, to which all communications should be addressed.

GEORGE BENGOUGH,
Business Manager,
No. 20 Adelaide St., Toronto.

VICTORIA
PHOTOGRAPHIC
GALLERY,
386 Queen St. West, Toronto.
J. Hansford, Prop.

Lovelock, Stovel & Co.,
PRINTERS,
HAVE REMOVED
TO
ADELAIDE STREET,
Fourth door west of Toronto Street.

A. FOX,
Yorkville Boot & Shoe Mart.
GENTS', LADIES' AND MISSES'
SHOES OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,
Special attention given to measurement.

J. Littleton,
Groceries & Provisions.
A Select Stock of Canned Fruits,
Fish and Oysters always on hand.
YONGE STREET, - YORKVILLE.

Searth, Cochran & Co.
STOCK BROKERS,
(Members of the Stock Exchange,)
REAL ESTATE AGENTS,
38 Toronto Street, Toronto.
W. B. SCARTH. R. COCHRAN.
References: ---J. Stevenson, Quebec Bank; Dominion Bank, Toronto

LITHOGRAPHY.

If you want your
BILLHEADS, CARDS, NOTES,
DRAFTS, &c.
DONE IN
First Class Style,
At moderate figures, go to
G. J. GEBHARDT & Co.,
13 ADELAIDE STREET EAST.

ISAAC PITMAN'S
(ENGLISH)
Phonographic
Publications.

The Phonographic Teacher,
Manual of Phonography,
Key to Phonographic Exercises,
Phonographic Phrase Book,
Phonetic Journal, published weekly
in Learner's Corresponding and
Reporting styles of Phonography,
and also Phonetic and Common
Print. Address.

THOS. BENGOUGH,
Box 2662, Toronto.

NOTMAN & FRASER PHOTOGRAPHERS TO THE QUEEN,

39, 41, & 43 King Street East, Toronto,
AND AT MONTREAL AND HALIFAX.

GRIP OFFICE,
20 ADELAIDE ST.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

5 CTS. EACH.
$2 PER ANNUM.

ORGANS--GEO. WOOD & CO'S.

THE PIANO STOP,

One of the most remarkable improvements that has ever been introduced into the manufacture of musical instruments.

THE NEW ORGAN CASE

Is a most beautiful piece of furniture.

PIANOS.--Knabe, Stodart, Lighte & Ernst, Marshall & Wendell, Rogers & Heintzman.

LESLIE, SKIRROW & SMITH.

93 Yonge Street, Toronto.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach Grip office not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, Grip Office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

CONTRIBUTORS, when accepted, will, for the present, be paid for the rate of Two DOLLARS per column. All articles for which payment is expected must be accompanied by full name and address of the author.

SIGN OF THE GOLDEN BOOT

200 Yonge Street.

Gents' and Boys' Gaiters and Low Boots, Sizes and Half Sizes, our own MAKE, down to 12. Hand Pegged and Hand Sewed. Cannot be beat for style and Quality at the price! the Dominion. Several job lots selling VERY CHEAP to make room for

SPRING GOODS!

WHICH ARE ARRIVING EVERY WEEK. Come and see them.

Wm. West & Co.
"Golden Boot," 200 Yonge St.

John S. Grassick & Co.
FAMILY GROCERS,
WINE AND SPIRITS
MERCHANTS,
167 Yonge St. Toronto.

MANSION HOUSE UXBRIDGE, ONT.

JAMES S. CLYNE, PROPRIETOR.

This first-class Hotel is now fully equipped, and furnishes unrivalled accommodation for guests. Good sample rooms for commercial men. Terms moderate.

W P. Williams,
134 Queen St. East, Toronto,
[Between George & Sherbourne,]
DEALER IN
PURE CONFECTIONERY
AND
CHOICE FRUITS.

A select supply of Canned Fruit, Fish, &c., always on hand.

EVERY GENTLEMAN SHOULD
SEND HIS
SHIRTS and COLLARS
TO BE DRESSED AT THE
City Laundry, Corner of Bay
and Adelaide Sts.

WILLIAM LEE, - PROPRIETOR.

WANTED.

Back Numbers of GRIP.

VOL. I. Nos. 10, 11, 13, 14, 19, 21.
VOL. III., No. 7.
VOL. IV., No. 5.

Persons having any of the above will oblige by communicating with GRIP Office, 20 Adelaide Street.

BUY
BOOTH'S
CHECKER
LOZENGES.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabeast Beast is the Ass; the grabeast Bird is the Owl;
The grabeast Fish is the Oyster; the grabeast Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, APRIL 24, 1875.

Answers to Correspondents.

PATRICK MURPHY, JUNR., ESQ.—Your "Bread and butter" is too much spread with the "iles of Grease." Such short-breathed lines are too "fat" for our printers.

From Our Box.

"No scandal about Queen Elizabeth." Well, not much, anyway, considering she only comes to the throne in the last act of "Twixt Axe and Crown". The plot of the drama and its characters are mostly familiar to us in MR. AINSWORTH'S novel of the "Tower of London", except that the giants and dwarfs, who play so important parts in that marvellous story, do not appear in the play. The villainous Spanish Ambassador, the cruel Bishop GARDINER, and poor, sickly, ill-used, crossgrained "Bloody Queen Mary" herself are old friends of ours. Then there is Elizabeth's first love, Courtenay, who in the play comes out rather better than in the story, but is remorselessly killed off at the end to make things square with history, and keep the Queen single. We admired MRS. ROUSEY very much, and weliked her acting. Both her appearance and style are a great contrast to those of MISS NEILSON, over whom she possesses a great advantage in a singularly pleasant voice. We were rather surprised, in a very crowded house, to miss our friends the swells of the side-boxes. Where, oh where, were they? and where were their bouquets? Still the play went on, the audience managed to support life and the actors received due applause and got recalled without the intervention of the gorgeous ones.

"Perhaps they're on the railway,

Perhaps they're gone to sea."

Anyhow, we saw them not. It may be that one such splurge is enough in a season. It certainly is for the regular frequenters of theatres. But to return to our subject. "The play's the thing" and a very good play too, with so many patriotic English aspirations in it, as to give the idea that it was written in honor of St. George's day. MRS. ROUSEY looked charming, and acted with all the dignity of a princess. MR. BARNES as Courtenay was very good, having thoroughly mastered the character of the rash and impulsive young man, who is for ever getting himself and his friends into scrapes. MRS. LINDEN had a part not likely to find the favor of the audience as Queen Mary, and deserves the more credit for her faithful rendering of a not very pleasant task. The two villains of the piece, Simon Renard and Bishop Gardiner had not half sufficient force given them by MESSRS. CLARK and LAURENS, while MR. MELTON, who had but little to do as the airy, fantastic Sir John Harrington, did that little well, and MISS LIZZIE RICH deserves great praise for her Isabel Markham. She should be careful however when she attempts to lift MRS. ROUSEY, the task being rather too much for her. Taking it altogether the play was a success and was very well performed. GRIP is pleased to see that there are plenty of people left yet who can appreciate the quiet style of acting, though it might have been truer to history if Elizabeth had stamped her feet and sworn occasionally.

Addressed to the Rev. H.H. Waters, of Babylon,

On reading his Sermon on 18th ult., before St. George's Society at St. James Cathedral.

Indeed and please your reverence,

I think you're very wrong—

In Canada we tune our harps

To quite a different song;

Our experience of this Country

Is a far more cheerful thing;

'Tis of plenty and prosperity

We feel inclined to sing.

Nine families from Staffordshire

Together came last fall;

We find there's work for all to do,

And food and clothes for all.

'Tis true indeed the climate's cold—

But the people's hearts are warm,

And when we're snugly housed in doors,

We don't much mind the storm.

We've schooling for the children,
And no more pence to pay,
From Church and Sunday School they now
Need never stop away,
And Sir, can you believe it,
We're going to keep a cow—
In towns it may be harder,—
We don't live there any how.

Then at Christmas time, I tell you,
We had a jolly feast;
The grown up ones paid 60 cents—
All came, down to the least.
Nine families together dined
And had good Christmas cheer,
Of fowl and beef and pudding too,
So cheaply purchased here.

We've written home to tell them,
And more are coming soon,
We hope that they may join with us
And sing a cheerful tune.
If your harp is on the willows, Sir,
Pray take it quite away;
And no more doleful ditties
Chant over us we pray!

Modern Miracles.

GRIP lately perused the pages of a Spiritualist paper, published in Chicago. Here he found events recorded by the side of which the miracles described in Church Chimes sink into utter insignificance. One writer gravely details how the spirits at a seance in Boston, windows and doors being closed, filled the room with the most beautiful flowers, one lady being presented with the somewhat inconvenient gift of a rose-tree, roots, earth and all. In a city where spirits comport themselves in this fashion let the owners of conservatories look to it. In another place we read of a delightful city inhabited by spirits, where a Boston ghost was staying with the late ABRAHAM LINCOLN, and most of the inhabitants were engaged in literary pursuits. We cannot realise the fact of this being such a species of paradise if the editors of all the papers went on as they do on the earth. Besides, whom do they get to subscribe? We found a well-meant caution against giving alcohol to dying persons, but somewhat marred by picturing the disembodied spirits as "reeling and jabbering with intoxication." One lecturer suggests that funerals be conducted in a cheerful way and the horses gallop if the weather is bad. A great point is made in favor of Spiritualists who are declared not "to be a set of lunatics, but to have a singular power of healing lunacy." They must give each other considerable employment in this way. And yet there are people, who are ready to believe all the outrageous nonsense we have quoted and a great deal more, while at the same time they proclaim themselves in advance of the whole of mankind, to have cast off the trammels of superstition. "A mad world, my masters."

Not Platitude.

"Grip" to the Member Elect for East Toronto.

Friend PLATT, your hand! And let us clasp

It with an earnest hearty grasp,

As but an "old bird" can,

And, as we feel the hand we take,

Apart from old acquaintance sake,

Is of an honest man!

Do not, because Conservative,

Sift measures thro' a party sieve,

But let the good alone,

Or, like the tale—not over new—

Of poor Dog Tray, and you pursue

A visionary bone!

The Grits are in and you are out;

But Fortune will not always flout,

Altho' she seem to bear a

Grudge against the party styled

The "gentlemen's," and that sad child

Lugubrious MORTARA.

May common sense,—not those of DON—

Direct your energies anon,

And keep your cranium level.

Make your speeches short and few—

Subscribe to GRIP, and then will you

Not fear the—(printer's) Devil!

GRIP'S POLITICAL SPELLING MATCH.

How is this for "expression"

N.B. The doleful look in the face of the boy might lead one to suppose that at some period during his existence he had been christened Anthony to his loudly-expressed wishes

MORE DARKNESS!

CANADA (on her way to the Philadelphia World's Fair)—"I AM ALMOST ASHAMED TO GO AMONGST THE ENLIGHTENED NATIONS WITH THIS RECORD!"

Grip's Spelling Match.

A number of prominent politicians were lately convened for the fashionable amusement of a spelling match. GRIP consented to occupy the position of judge, objections having been made to the conductors of several of the leading journals on the ground of partiality. It was determined that the contestants should be divided according to their political proclivities, and that the prize, a handsomely bound volume of GRIP should be the property of that party whose representatives remained last on the floor, every failure to spell a word correctly excluding the perpetrator from further participation in the contest. To universal surprise, three Parties appeared on the scene, MR. J. V. SPOHN and DR. DEVLIN, of Hamilton, and CAPTAIN WYNNE, of St. Catharines announcing themselves as representatives of "Canada First", while the rest of the assembly ranged themselves under the respective leaderships of SIR JOHN A. MACDONALD and HON. GEORGE BROWN.

The first word given out was "Canvas". This had the effect of disposing of all three of the Canada First men, whose early retirement was greeted with shouts of derision.

The next word was "Ballot." An elderly gentleman on the Tory side was heard to mutter that "it was'n't English," but it was passed round with universal success. The first victim was MR. PLUMB, for whom "Oratory" proved altogether too much, an attempt to introduce an additional "r" turning out fatal. MR. MACKELLAR made a most extraordinary jumble out of "Agriculture" and was ordered to retire. "Drinking-bar" disposed of two gentlemen from British Columbia, who tried to condense it into two syllables. The apparently simple word "Petition" had an extraordinary effect in thinning the ranks of the competitors, who seemed disposed to try every way of getting over it, but the right one. DR. TUPPER got hopelessly confused with "Intercolonial" and had to step down and out. MR. CHARLTON in whom a great deal of confidence was reposed by the Reformers, confessed himself ignorant of the meaning of "Reciprocity," and the Premier came to grief in a futile attempt at a new way of spelling "Prohibition," MR. RYKERT was here discovered to have pasted a dictionary into his scrap-book and was ordered out of the room for referring to it. "Debuture" broke down MR. CROOKS, and MR. M. C. CAMERON, who was chuckling at his discomfiture, tried to "c" too much in "Accounts." "Colleague" removed MR. MOWAT from the scene. SIR FRANCIS HINCKS, who had come to town expressly for the occasion, was completely bewildered by "Currency" and, after several attempts and stoppages to correct himself, gave it up. HON. W. McDUGALL found terrible difficulties in the word "Principle." After several corrections he finally, with a glance of self-approbation, decided on P-r-i-n-c-i-p-a-l—and went under.

The competitors finally were narrowed down to the leaders of the two great parties, who had spelled every word in safety, and MR. PLATT. Amid breathless silence GRIP announced "Purity" as the word. SIR JOHN A. MACDONALD frankly confessed he had never heard of it, and declined the attempt. "P-A-I-R-T-Y" shouted MR. BROWN. On being informed by the inexorable judge that he was wrong, he left the room in a passion and MR. PLATT who modestly gave the correct spelling, was adjudged the victor, amid considerable applause.

Kissing and Kissing.

At Montreal last week a youth of nineteen and three girls aged seventeen, sixteen and fifteen, were arrested on Sherbourne street, for kissing and playing with each other and obstructing the sidewalk. The young man was fined $5 or one month, and the girls discharged.—World.

In Canada we're slow.

In fact we're very far behind.—
'Tis Jonathan the world can show
The proper kissing pace, and go
Two-forty speed. In short you know
Can go it blind!

The boys' he does'n't fix

With fines and such like "notions," while
In osculation's various tricks
With lasses' lips their own they mix
Like—well—vulgariter, like bricks—
Lured by love's smile,

The "kiss of peace," and lo!

The kiss of sudden "inspiration,"
Poor dullards! nought of these we know—
"Conciliatory" osculation,—
And "paroxysmal" buss-sensation;
We cannot show.

Nor e'en forget the kiss

"Tripartite"—couplet kiss in big;
Or buss triangular—whose bliss
To those who run the kissing rig,
No doubt must be, like roasted pig,
Most savoury dish!

A cents-able verdict. CROOKS vs. The Mail.

Questions for Candidates for Admission into the Good Graces of the Conservative Leaders.

1. Is there as much talent among the Conservative leaders as is generally stated? If so how many.

2. Mr. McDUGALL asserts that "he (Mr. McD.) and Mr. CAMERON perfectly understand each other". Is it your candid opinion that Mr. CAMERON can understand Mr. McDUGALL? Apply the fable of the Chameleon.

3. If the Mail was able to damage CROOKS 20cts. worth. How much harm could the Leader do?

4. If the Mail has damaged Mr. CROOKS 20cts. worth, how much has it hurt Hon. GEO. BROWN. Reason this from the infinitesimal calculus.

5. What is meant by "Conservative Reaction?" What is meant by giving as the date of its occurrence, the Greek Calends? Calculate from Dr. TUPPER's experience in Wellington.

6. From Mr. WILLIAM McDUGALL subtract the epithets "Wandering WILLIE," "BILLY McDUGALL," "Frozen WILLIAM" and "Look to Washington WILL" and show that o remains, and show that Mr. CAMERON's continuance in the leadership is a "rank" injustice to the other members.

7. Whose address reminds you of the remark of a western candidate who at the close of his speech said "Them's my sentiments, gentlemen, but if they don't suit you they kin be changed." Reason from Butler's analogy.

QUESTIONS FOR DITTO. REFORM.

1. Prove that the Globe is satisfied (a) with the result of PLATT's election trial, (b) with the result of the last Ontario Election, (c) with the conduct of "certain" members last session. Reason from MILL's Logic.

2. On what grounds do you rest your belief that Messrs. CARTWRIGHT and FOURNIER will be satisfied with the change in the government moved by The Mail and seconded by The Globe.

3. Prove clearly that the Hon. GEO. BROWN is not a "defunct politician". How many dozens of seats, to your knowledge, have been offered to Mr. CROOKS, and also show that since the late verdict in his (CROOKS') case, he is no longer entitled to be called "poor".

4. Which is the "spiciest" paper in the Dominion? Give the Globe's remarks on this question.

5. Give a synopsis of (with the Mail's remarks on) the English-Long-bottom-Prince-Pardee-Mackenzie-Canadian-Oil-Wells-Bubble-Case.—Give also a diagram connecting with it the Globe, Atlantic Cable, Reciprocity, Beecher Trial and Copper Pyrites.

The Modern Sphinx.

Out on the burning desert sands,
Immutable,
The Sphinx, unanswered riddle, stauds
Inscrutable.

Woman, thou art the Modern Sphinx,
Man cannot guess thee,
He sometimes fears and from thee shrinks,
More oft he'll bless thee!

Sometimes thou seem'st but made for show,
But this most odd is,
There's fire beneath thy coldest snow,
A heart beneath thy boddice.

False, not completely false art thou:
Affliction's showers
And the sharp teeth of Sorrow's plough
Bring up sweet flowers.

Thou art a riddle, Modern Sphinx,
We cannot guess thee;
But most male monsters might, I think,
Soon learn to bless thee.

Croaks and Pecks

CROOKS declines to go south—for his health—i.e. to South Simcoe—so the Reformers can't gain that constituency by hook or by Crook(s)

ACCORDING to the Boston Journal, the present British House of Commons, which contains a number of brewers, is called the "Bung Parliament." But this is right. If the House of Lords monopolizes all the peage, it is fitting that the House of Commons should have its beerge. London Free Press.

THE Liberal of the 19th contains a letter from the Rev. MR. JOHNSON in which he says that he is overboard now like JONAH. Oh no, MR. JOHNSON "not for Jo"-nah, we think it is the people that is over-board with that subject.

MRS. MORRISON'S
GRAND
OPERA
HOUSE
ADELAIDE STREET WEST.

MRS. MORRISON, - - - Manageress
MR. COULDOCK, - - - Stage Manager.

Immense success of the distinguished English
Actress

MRS. ROUSBY,
Supported by

MR. J. H. BARNES,
Who has been specially engaged.

THURSDAY EVENING, APRIL 29, 1875.
THE HUNCHBACK,

JULIA.....MRS. ROUSBY.
SIR THOS. CLIFFORD, MR. J. H. BARNES,
MASTER WALTER,MR. COULDOCK.

FRIDAY EVENING,

THE LADY OF LYONS
PAULINE DESCHAPPELLES, MRS. ROUSBY
CLAUDE MELNOTTE, ...MR. J. H. BARNES.

SATURDAY MATINEE.

AS YOU LIKE IT!!!

SATURDAY EVENING

'TWIXT AXE AND CROWN!
Mrs. ROUSBY'S last appearance.

Engagement extraordinary for one week, commencing

MONDAY EVENING, MAY 3RD, 1875,
England's Favourite Comedian,

MR. J. L. TOOLE
Supported by

MISS ELIZA JOHNSON,
The celebrated English Actress, and Mr. W. HERBERT, who will appear in a succession of Comedies in which the impersonations of Mr. Toole have made his name a house-hold word. During the week the following capital pieces will be presented:

OFF THE LINE,
UNCLE DICK'S DARLING,
THE WEAVERS,
ICI ON PARLE FRANCAIS.

No alteration in prices, except 25 cents extra for Reserved Seats.

King Street entrance, from east corner of Thomas' chop house.

Parties from Hamilton wishing to visit Mrs. Morrison's Grand Opera House, Toronto, can leave Hamilton at 5.25 p.m., arriving in Toronto at 7 p.m.; returning leave Toronto at 11 p.m. Seats may be secured by telegram to the box office.

NOW READY.

The Expressman
and
The Detective
By ALLAN PINKERTON.
Price 40 Cents.

Dr. Newman's Reply
to
Mr. Gladstone's Pamphlet.
Price 20 Cents.

THE HISTORY
OF THE
VATICAN COUNCIL

By Dr. SCHAFF.

Price 20 Cents.

A. S. IRVING & Co.,

Publishers,
Corner Toronto and Adelaide Streets,

TORONTO.

In Press

"VATICANISM"

By MR. GLADSTONE.

Price 15 Cents.

SAMO & JOHNSTON,

WHOLESALE
CABINET MAKERS
AND
UPHOLSTERERS.

WAREHOUSES, - 187 and 189 YONGE STREET.
FACTORY, - - - - - YORKVILLE.

Our facilities enable us to supply the Trade and the Public generally with

DRAWING ROOM,
DINING ROOM,
BED ROOM AND
LIBRARY FURNITURE

In the latest English and American styles, at prices that defy competition.

Masonic,
Oddfellow,
Orange,
Forester,

And other Society Lodge room Furniture, carved in accordance with the most approved designs, and unsurpassed for elegance, utility and economy.
The fullest satisfaction guaranteed in all cases. Give us a call.

REMEMBER THE ADDRESS:

187 AND 189 YONGE ST., UNDER ALBERT
HALL.

USE THE
DIAMOND YEAST
CAKE.

HAND-IN-HAND

MUTUAL

FIRE INSURANCE

COMPANY.

Financial Statement for the Year
ending Dec. 31, 1874.

REVENUE.

Cash Premiums and Interest $25,486 13
DISBURSEMENTS.

Claims under Policies paid..... $8,348 95
Claim Appropriation for Losses resisted
and waiting proof..... 750 00

Agents, Commission, Salaries, Direc-
tors Fees, Office Rent, &c., 6,192 73

Scrip Appropriation to Policy-holders
of 1874, on deposit in Royal Canadian Bank, being forty per cent. 20,194 45

W. H. HOWLAND, President. $25,486 13

HUGH SCOTT, Manager & Sec'y.

Audited and found correct.
ERNEST G. PULFORD, } Auditors.
GEO. J. MAULSON, }

Risks accepted on all Descriptions of Insurable Property.
Rates fixed with regard to the Laws of Average. All the
Profits divided among Policy-holders annually.

Head Office:

Ontario Hall, Church Street, Toronto.
{SCOTT & WALMSLEY,
General Agents.

Corner Jarvis & Adelaide Sts.,
TORONTO, ONT.

JOHN D. NASMITH,

Manufacturer of

BREAD, ROLLS, BUNS, CAKES, &c., &c.,

A superior article of Bread delivered daily throughout
the city.

TO THE TRADE ONLY

FOR LATEST PATTERNS IN
ALL KINDS OF REAL AND IMITATION
HAIR GOODS,

At Lowest Wholesale Prices.

APPLY TO THE

NEW DOMINION CHIGNON FACTORY,
96 Yonge Street, Toronto,
FRANCIS J. BORMUTH, Proprietor.

BROWN BROS.,

WHOLESALE & MANUFACTURING

STATIONERS,

No. 66 & 68 King St., East,

TORONTO.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE.

Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, No. 20 Adelaide Street, East.

Subscription price, $2 per annum; single copies 5 cents. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied.

Advertisements and subscriptions received at the office, to which all communications should be addressed.

GEORGE BENGOUGH,
Business Manager,
No. 20 Adelaide St., Toronto.

RE-ISSUE OF GRIP CARTOONS

Covers for Binding the Re-issue of GRIP Cartoons

Are Now Ready.

Coloured Cloth with Gilt Title, specially designed by J. W. Bengough.

Price, Cloth Gilt centre, $1.00.
" " full Gilt, 1.25.
" ROGERS & LARMINIE,
Publishers,
22 Adelaide Street East.

BASE-BALLS.

RYAN'S RED & WHITE;

Peck and Snider's Red and White Dead Base Balls. A large, cheap stock at ANDERSON'S

BASE-BALL EMPORIUM, GUELPH.
Headquarters of the Maple Leaf.

BARRIE
QUOITING TOURNAMENT.

PRIZES $100.
Wednesday & Thursday, Sept.
22nd & 23rd.

Arrangements have been made with the
NORTHERN RAILWAY
By which competitors attending the tournament will be provided with a return ticket at

ONE-THIRD FARE!
R. WINNING, Sec.

WANTED.

Back Numbers of GRIP.
VOL. I. Nos. 10, 11, 13, 14, 19, 21.
VOL. III., No. 7.
VOL. IV., No. 5.

Persons having any of the above will oblige by communicating with GRIP Office, 20 Adelaide Street.

VICTORIA
PHOTOGRAPHIC
GALLERY,
386 Queen St. West, Toronto.
J. Hansford, Prop.

Searth, Cochran & Co.
STOCK BROKERS,
(Members of the Stock Exchange.)
REAL ESTATE AGENTS,
38 Toronto Street, Toronto.

W. B. SCARTH. R. COCHRAN.
References:—J. Stevenson, Quebec
Bank Dominion Bank, Toronto

GALVANIC BELTS, BANDS, AND INSOLES,

Are the Best Known Remedy for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Sprains, Bruises, &c.

SEND FOR CIRCULAR TO A. NORMAN, 118 KING STREET WEST, TORONTO.

PHYSICIAN HEAL THYSELF.

NEPENTHE BITTERS are a Positive Cure for Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Nervous Debility, Sick Headache, and Bowel Complaint. Price One Dollar. Small Bottles 50c.
A. NORMAN, 118 KING STREET WEST, TORONTO.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1875.

GRIP OFFICE, } The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; } 5 CTS. EACH.
20 ADELAIDE ST. } The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool. } $2 PER ANNUM.

"GRIP" CATOONS, VOLS. I. & II.,
MAY, 1873, to MAY, 1874,
ARE NOW READY FOR DELIVERY.

These Cartoons are printed on toned paper and neatly bound in cloth.
Sent to any Address on receipt of $3.50
Address GEO. BENGOUGH, "Grip" Office, 20 Adelaide Street.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach GRIP office not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

CONTRIBUTIONS, when accepted, will, for the present, be paid for at the rate of Two DOLLARS per column. All articles for which payment is expected must be accompanied by the name and address of the author.

A. FOX,

Yorkville Boot & Shoe Mart.

GENTS', LADIES' AND MISSES'
SHOES OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,

Special attention given to measurement.

THE STEAMER

"WATERTOWN"

Leaves Yonge Street wharf for the Humber at 10.30 a.m., 2.00 p.m., and 3.40 p.m.
Fare to Humber and back 25c.

Every WEDNESDAY leaves for OAKVILLE, at 4 o'clock.
Fare for round trip 50c.

John S. Grassick & Co.

FAMILY GROCERS,

WINE AND SPIRIT

MERCHANTS,

167 Yonge St. Toronto.

W P. Williams,

134 Queen St. East, Toronto,

[Between George & Sherbourne,]

DEALER IN

PURE CONFECTIONERY

AND

CHOICE FRUITS.

A select supply of Canned Fruit, - Fish, &c., always on hand.

THE CITY LAUNDRY

AND

Gents' Furnishing Store,

COR. BAY AND ADELAIDE STS.

PURE FITTING SHIRTS

MADE TO ORDER.

All Laundry work well and promptly executed.

WILLIAM LEE & Co.

LITHOGRAPHY.

If you want your
BILLHEADS,
CARDS, NOTES,
DRAFTS, &c.

DONE IN

First Class Style,

At moderate figures, go to

G. J. GEBHARDT & Co.,
13 ADELAIDE STREET EAST.

R. G. TROTTER,

DENTIST,

53 KING STREET EAST, - TORONTO.

Nitrous Oxide Gas administered for the painless extraction of teeth.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabeſt Deaſt in the Sea; the grabeſt Bird in the Owl;
The grabeſt Fiſh in the Oyeſter; the grabeſt Man in the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1875.

In Re Guibord.

THE QUEEN TO BISHOP BOURGET.

I decide you were wrong by church law, my Lord,
In refusing to bury poor JOSEPH GUIBORD;
I therefore command you to cease further fights—
You must give him his dues, tho' he can't have his rites.

BISHOP BOURGET TO THE QUEEN.

MADAME, just as you say, I will open the gate,
Waiving will of the Church before law of the State;
It's none of my funeral, so drive in your hearse,
But I tell you I'll stand on the gate-post and curse!

A Plea for the Cat.

The cat o' nine tails is an indispensable portion of the machinery of the law, in a city so disgraced with brutal violence as Toronto. By all means let such wretches as IRVINE, the murderer of Mr. BURKE, be tied to the triangle and lashed, if the jury can't do us the favour of hanging them. If GRIP were Czar of this city for a day he would larrup the flesh from the coward back of every rowdy who insulted a lady, or jostled a gentleman. Nothing but the cat, administered with a strong and willing arm, will teach the peg-top, swaggering roughs of this city good manners. There are plenty of willing arms to be had; scarcely a respectable citizen amongst us who would not gladly and enthusiastically swing the whip on such an auspicious occasion. There is no use in appealing to anything in these vile scoundrels but their sense of physical suffering. They have neither brains nor heart for anything but villainy. Therefore let us have the cat o' nine tails—at least, let the rowdies have it! GRIP will be delighted to perch on a neighbouring tree and witness the opening of the programme—the only means, he believes, of making Toronto a safe place to live in.

Testimonial to a Dis (ex ?) tinguished Canadian Statesman.

We understand that an enthusiastic son of CRISPIN has prepared a pair of shoes (14s) made from the following materials to be presented to the HON. G. B—N on a fitting occasion.

UPPERS.—Selected hides from skins cast by the B—N family

LININGS.—Feathers from nests furnished by the Globe.

INNERS.—Dressed calf, presented by the Premiers.

SOLES.—Pebbled hides from opponents of the family.

The insteps will be made sufficiently high to admit of the necks of the Grit and Conservative parties. That for the latter will be provided with suitable (at) tacks. It was intended that the heels should rest on G—N S—H and W—M H—D, but they have prudently kept out of the way. The toes are particularly adapted for kicking employees of the Globe, who quit the straight and narrow path. It is said D—N wears a cushion in anticipation.

The Sea-Serpent Interviewed.

THRILLING DISCLOSURES.

(By our sea-side Correspondent.)

DEAR GRIP.—It is too hard of you to expect contributions from one who is wandering by the sea-beat shore, gathering empty oyster shells in heedless sport, and wondering where the oysters have fled to. Of these not a canful can be picked up. I somewhat fancy a Chancery lawyer has been round among the fishermen. However, since you must, I suppose I must.

You are possibly aware that the SEA-SERPENT has of late been disporting himself around the shores of the Atlantic and has been numerously seen. Should I go down to the great deep and not get a sight of its mightiest inhabitant? Never. Was I ever known to fail in an untaking (except to pay my debts)? Sir, I have seen him, and what is more I've interviewed him.

I have half a mind to send you this much of this account and to demand prepayment, at the rate of a thousand dollars per column, for the balance of this really priceless adventure. But I rely on your known generosity. Already I have had offers of vast sums from the New York H—d, the Danbury N—s, and a number of American journals. The London T—s sent a specially tempting offer by the hands of its own correspondent, who arrived per special train from New York. As for interviewers, there are above two hundred keeking at my door just now. I found six under my bed last night, and hearing something struggling in the stovepipe, lit a fire, and suffocated the editor of the Skowhegan Sockdollager. I am tired of shooting them, as the others only bury the corpses and come back. Having with all this constancy preserved my account for you, I await remittances in all cheerfulness. By the way a person named BROWN, who runs a paper in Toronto, sent me a dollar with the mandate, "Send the account of your interview at once." I tore up his letter indignantly, and spent the dollar in convincing at a breach of the Maine Liquor Law.

For reasons which will appear in the course of this narrative, I decline to state on which of the 365 islands, which every schoolboy knows, are contained in C—Bay, my rencontre with the monster occurred. Suffice it to say that, in the course of practising for a feat which will utterly eclipse LEANDER, LORD BYRON, CHARLEY NURSE and CAPTAIN WEBB, I swam out to a rocky islet in that bay. A sudden fancy impelled me to land and examine the islet in search of oysters, octopi, swordfish and the other delicious shell-fish, which abound among the rocks, and make a light repast before my next spurt of ten miles or so up the bay. Just as I reached the rocks I heard a strange hissing sound behind me and on looking round expecting a steam tug was coming up, saw a strange form rising from the waves. For one second I confess I was paralysed by fear. Then I fled up the rocks, but the awful creature pursued me with terrific speed. I felt his breath hot upon me, and turning round in a spirit of resignation, drew out my pencil and note-book determined to commit to the world's memory some few particulars of my last moments. I had got as far as to write down in short-hand, "I have been destroyed by the GREAT SEA SERPENT; take this to GRIP with my blessing and ask him to comfort my boarding-missus," when the terrible creature, at the sight of my pencil and note-book, fell down in a dead swoon. [NOTE. We have our doubts as to the truth of this story. How the mischief does he carry a pencil and note-book about when he is bathing?—GRIP.]

At the sight of this my pity and curiosity were excited. About two hundred feet of the creature were lying extended on the rocks; the rest was still in the water. He was of a fair complexion, wore his hair parted in the middle, and had profuse sandy whiskers, a rowdy hat, and a pair of green spectacles completed his head gear. His body was about as big round as a very large whiskey-barrel, and was neatly arranged in a suit of blue overalls. Altogether he looked a well-dressed respectable looking serpent, as serpents go, and I sat down by his side and awaited, his recovery with impatience. At last he came to and gazed shudderingly upon me.

"Caught at last, by thunder," he exclaimed in a terrific voice; and then assuming a more deferential air, asked in milder tones, "What paper do you represent, Sir?"

"GRIP," said I, calmly.

"Thank goodness that you are not from a Yankee concern. I am growing old, and these may be my last words. I am glad to find they will neither be misrepresented nor disbelieved. Fire away at your interview."

"How old did you say you were, Sir?"

"I was invented just after the Declaration of Independence." (You will find the date of that in COLLIER'S History if the Council of Education haven't cut it out to please the York Pioneers.)

"Have you any family?"

"Lots. By the way you might have seen my youngest son lately. He is up in Canada."

"I heard of him in the Ottawa river, but thought it was a hoax."

"That's just the way with people. You didn't seem to think I was just now. Its lucky you carried your reporting tools about with you, and that the sight of them turned my stomach. I wasn't a bit frightened," said the creature, glaring at me savagely. "That boy has been having great times in the elections."

"What do you mean?" said I, unable to contain my amazement. "Do they have elections in the river?"

"No, you fool," said the SERPENT, contemptuously, "it was among your own stupid people. You must have heard all about it and him, if you really came from Canada."

I felt more puzzled than ever. Surely there can be no serpents loose round and I not know it.

"What is his name, Sir," I timidly asked.

"THE CATHOLIC LEAGUE" roared the GREAT SEA SERPENT. "He usually travels in company with JOHN O'DONOHUE and JERRY MERRICK, and has made quite a good thing of it this season."

Just at this moment a vessel came in sight. "There may be another reporter on board," said the Serpent, "meet me here this time next week." "By the way," and he handed me two dollars, "here is a year's subscription to GRIP. I don't see it often enough. Get the steamboat captains to pitch it overboard off Father Point" and he was gone. But for the two dollars in my hand, I should have regarded the whole affair as a vision. I am sorry to say the dollars were American and, as they are insufficient to pay the subscription, I have retained them till I meet him again. Meanwhile, send his papers right on. [NOTE. He may keep the $2. It is all he will ever get for this tissue of falsehoods. If he goes on like this he will have to go to the Globe or become Ottawa correspondent for the Mail.—GRIP.]

CIVIL LAW MUST TRIUMPH !

Barney Buntling to Bill Bowling.

NEW VERSION.

One night came on a hurricane,
The sea was mountains rolling,
When BARNEY BUNTLING turned his quid
And said to BILLY BOWLING :

"A strong nor-wester's blowing, BILL,
Hark ! don't you hear it roar, now !
My eye ! just don't I pity all
Unhappy folks on shore now !

"It 'aint your storms, or rolling waves
That set us tars a-quaking,
Its them, ere blessed ice-bugs, mate,
That put us in a taking.

"They're things one never knows just where
They'll turn up day or night, BILL,
And sometimes they come sneaking on Completely out of sight, BILL,

"Beneath the water, and at once
Agin them you go crashing,
And DAVY's locker gets you perhaps
With that 'ere sort of smashing.

"It's now three years ago or more
To Canada when bound BILL,
The good Moravian made slow way
With fog all thick around, BILL.

"And bang agin an ice-bug chap
We drove with sudden bumping,
You bet that when the shock I felt,
My heart went all a-thumping.

"In size, and height, and that, it was Just like a mountain seeming—
It made the men turn jolly pale,
And set the women screaming.

"The ice-bug to us stuck like fun,
We no-how couldn't clear her—
Bang, bang, it comes again the ship
However we did steer her.

"The boats for launching ready were
For passengers and crew, then,
And I can tell you every thing
Was looking precious blue, then.

"But all at once from down below,
Upon the deck a man, BILL,
With just the most amazing feet
I ever saw, there ran, BILL.

"And all of us he pushed aside,
'Get out of this' says he, 'now,
This ice-bug I will settle soon,
Pray leave the biz to me now.'

"'Good people stow your cries and fears,
You'll none of you go down, sirs,
All right we soon shall be, as sure
As e'er my name is BROWN, sirs.'

"Oh ! dear such sight I never saw
Since I was raised I swear, BILL,
At first we thought the man was mad
You know, as any hare, BILL.

"But shiver all my timbers ! if
He didn't lift his leg, sir,
And give the ice-bug just one kick
Which smashed it like an egg, sir !"

TELEGRAM FROM PRINCE EDWARD.—Gideon's fleece won't hold water. Striker stricken off. Gid's sword is snapped, he has soared and fallen, his choice now lies between pills and the registry office. Hic jacet.

THE SEASONS.—'SUN' SET.—September 10th, 4 p.m.—On account of the prevailing cold and boisterous weather this luminary descended into oblivion at an early hour. It was its 220th day out ! "Where be thy gibes now ?"

An Obituary.

The Sun has set ! And yet it seems that now we hear
The newsboy's cry still ringing in our ear,
"Evening Sun ; only a cent !"
And yet it went down ! Could not this large town support its own Sun ?
Oh, it was pitiful, in a whole cityful, cash there was none !
Verily this world is full of changes,
(But there is mighty little change within our pockets ranges.)
It seems but yesterday that CROOKS was down ;
And brightly on his prostrate form the rays did shine.
Now he doth stand upright, after his Oxford fight,
Gazing at the waning light of the Sun's decline.
Ah ! it is sad enough that the JOSHUA of Hard Times should say,
"Sun stand still." For we shall miss thy genial ray,
As day by day thy mission well thou didst fulfil.
Yes ! it is rough ! But if thou, the centre of the universe suspend,
Sad must be the fate of those that on thy beams depend, [end.
For then Mercury,* the Star, † the Planet, ‡ yea the Globe itself must

* Guelph, Quebec. † Cobourg, Goderich, Paris, Montreal. ‡ Chatham.

Parliament

Buildings.

Private Theatricals by the Executive.

"THE WAY WE LIVE NOW."

A Farce in every Act,

To be Continued.

DRAMATIS PERSONÆ.

The gentle Shepherd	THE HON. O. M——T.
His Crooks	ADAM.
Treasurer, his Dog (an)	CHRISTIE F——R.
His Pastures	CROWN LANDS.
His Woods	SAMUEL CASEY.
His bill writer	A. S. H——D——Y.
His Sheep	ANTI-OPOSITIONIST M.P.'s
The Wolves	THE OPPOSITION

The public at large are expected to sit still while the Ministerial barrel organ and opposition hurdy gurdy play a running accompaniment to every act.

DEAR GRIP.—

Ottawa Speculations.

As a complete refutation of the "doctrine of chance," perhaps you will invest the following which was picked up near the east wing of the Parliament Buildings, Ottawa.

From "Thoughts on men and things," an unpublished work by the author of the "Canadian Peerage."

The "Great Eastern" was built to carry passengers and freight between the Old World and the New, she was, however, destined for a nobler work and performed it well, as every one knows who has followed the career of that stupendous work of human hands.

So, also, Ottawaians in the early days of one of their now most prominent, eminent, and distinguished citizens, imagined they had among them a heaven-born lumberer, saw-mill man, and eke a senator, but inexorable fate willed it otherwise :—That youth became robust, aldermanic, the possessor of something seemingly "with fat cupon lined" :—linguab roll in utterance was grand, the presence magnificent, and the eternal fitness of things at once pointed to the vocation intended for him by nature ; and now, wherever and whenever the denizens of the Capital do congregate in bulk he fills the CHAIR to the utmost of its capacity.

By inscrutable decree the workings of a higher law are beautifully exemplified in the adaptation of the "Great Eastern" and the HON. J——SK——D to their several duties which they each perform to the satisfaction of an admiring world.

Yea, Verily ! Providence ordereth all things well. In my opinion, dear GRIP, the thoughts as above evolved cannot be surpassed in beauty of conception.

MAJOR'S HILL.

DISHONEST DOGS.—The Scotch Collies in London.

Motto for J. D. E—D—G—R, ex-M. P., laureate etc., "Exegi monumentum ore perennius." (They've raised a monument more lasting than brass.)

WHIS(H)T !—It is whispered that although G. B. had all the honors in his hand, that he has lost the odd trick. This comes of his playing games "not according to HOYLE."

EUCHRED !—MAYOR M——F passed because he thought B——N held all the court cards, and wanted to play it alone. Very like old SQUARETOES.

LACHINE CANAL ENLARGEMENT.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Scaled Tenders addressed to the Secretary of Public Works, and endorsed "Tender for the Lachine Canal," will be received at this office until the arrival of the Eastern and Western mails on THURSDAY THE SIXTEENTH DAY OF SEPTEMBER NEXT, for the enlargement of this canal, consisting of the widening and deepening of the channel from near the new basin east of Wellington Street bridge, upwards to the river St. Lawrence and Lachine, embracing the construction of new locks at St. Gabriel and Cote St. Paul, also the taking down and rebuilding the upper portions of the present locks at these places; building regulating weirs, culverts, bridge piers; the construction of a new entrance lock at Lachine, and the formation of a channel and basin on the south or river side of the existing entrance.

The works will be let in sections of the respective lengths indicated on a map of the line which, together with plans and specification of the various works, can be seen at this office, and at the Lachine Canal Office, Montreal, on and after FRIDAY, THE THIRD DAY OF SEPTEMBER NEXT, at either of which places Printed forms of Tender can be obtained.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that Tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and—in the case of firms—except there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the same; and further, an accepted bank cheque, or other available security, for the sum of from one to three thousand dollars, according to the extent of work on the section, must accompany each Tender, which shall be forfeited if the party tendering declines or fails to enter into contract for the work, when called upon to do so, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The amount required in each case will be stated on the form of Tender.

The cheque or money thus sent in, will be returned to the respective parties whose Tenders are not accepted.

For the due fulfilment of the contract, satisfactory security will be required on real estate, or by deposit of money, public or municipal securities, or bank stocks, to the amount of five per cent on the bulk sum of the contract, of which the sum sent in with the Tender will be considered a part.

Ninety per cent only of the progress estimates will be paid until the completion of the works.

To each Tender must be attached the actual signatures of two responsible and solvent persons, residents of the Dominion, willing to become sureties for the carrying out of these conditions as well as the due performance of works embraced in the contract.

This Department does not, however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any Tender.

By Order,
F. BRAUN,

Department of Public Works, } Secretary.
Ottawa, 9th August, 1875. } 3in-5-13

LACHINE CANAL ENLARGEMENT.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

The letting of the works for the enlargement of the Lachine Canal, advertised to take place on the

SIXTEENTH DAY OF SEPT. NEXT, is unavoidably postponed to the following dates:—

Tenders will be received until

WEDNESDAY, the 29th day of SEPTEMBER next.

The plans and specifications will be ready for examination (at the places previously mentioned) on Thursday, the Sixteenth day of September next.

By order,

F. BRAUN,
Secretary,

Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, 18th August, 1875.

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT.

Ottawa, April 9, 1875.

AUTHORIZED DISCOUNT ON
American invoices until further notice, 12 per cent.

J. JOHNSON,
Commissioner of Customs.

v-6-1f

ALL KINDS OF

PRINTING, NEATLY,

CHEAPLY, QUICKLY,

EXECUTED AT

"GRIP" OFFICE,

20 Adelaide Street East.

USE THE DIAMOND YEAST CAKE.

ATTENTION!

PHOTOGRAPHS AND STEREOSCOPIC VIEWS.

Any one wishing to exhibit the beauties of Toronto and the wonders of Niagara, to their absent friends, will do well to call and examine our collection of Stereoscopic views.

A choice selection of Cabinet and Carte de Visite Photographs of

Neilson,
Rousby,
Scott Siddons,
Kellogg,
Lucca,
Patti,
Barnes,
Toole,
Booth,

And other celebrities of the stage always on view.

Photographs not on hand can be ordered from our agents in New York.

A. S. IRVING & Co.,

Corner Toronto and Adelaide Streets,
TORONTO.

HAND-IN-HAND MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY.

Financial Statement for the Year
ending Dec. 31, 1874.

REVENUE.

Cash Premiums and Interest $25,486 13
DISBURSEMENTS.

Claims under Policies paid $8,348 95
Claim Appropriation for Losses resisted
and waiting proof 750 00
Agents, Commission, Salaries, Directors
Fees, Office Rent, &c. 6,192 73
Scrip Appropriation to Policy-holders
of 1874, on deposit in Royal Canadian
Bank, being forty per cent. 10,194 45
$25,486 13

W. H. HOWLAND, President.
HUGH SCOTT, Manager & Sec'y.

Audited and found correct.
ERNEST G. PULFORD, } Auditors.
GEO. J. MAULSON, }

Risks accepted on all Descriptions of Insurable Property.
Rates fixed with regard to the Laws of Average. All the
Profits divided among Policy-holders annually.

Head Office:

Ontario Hall, Church Street, Toronto.

SCOTT & WALMSLEY,

General Agents.

Corner Jarvis & Adelaide Sts.,

TORONTO, ONT.

JOHN D. NASMITH,

Manufacturer of

BREAD, ROLLS, BUNS, CAKES, &c., &c.,

A superior article of Bread delivered daily throughout
the city.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY. SATURDAY EXCURSION TICKETS. RETURN TICKETS WILL BE ISSUED ON Saturday, the 28th Aug.

And every succeeding Saturday until further notice, between

Toronto, and Undermentioned Points.

At the Following Fares—

Acton West and return.....	$1 05.
Limehouse do	95.
Georgetown do	85.
Norval do	80.
Brampton do	75.
Malton do	45.
Weston do	25.
Carlton do	55.
Scarboro' Jc. do	35.
Port Union do	35.
Duffin's Creek do	75.
Whitby do	1 00.
Oshawa do	1 00.

Tickets will be valid until the Monday following date of issue inclusive.

W. WAINWRIGHT, JOSEPH HICKSON,
General Passenger Agent. General Manager.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE.

Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, No. 20 Adelaide Street, East.

Subscription price, $2 per annum; single copies 5 cents. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied.

Advertisements and subscriptions received at the office, to which all communications should be addressed.

GEORGE BENGOUGH,
Business Manager,
No. 20 Adelaide St., Toronto.

Western Advertiser
—AND—
Weekly Liberal

The Great Family Newspaper.
$1.50 per year, free of postage.
18th Annual Fall Campaign Open.
Splendid News to Agents.
Balance of 1875 free.
Premium Map of Ontario to every subscriber.
Valuable and useful gift.
Advocates a Prohibitory Liquor Law.
Advocates an Elective Senate.
And every Good and Progressive Measure.
Farmers' Department, by Rev. W. F. CLARKE.
Stories, Fun, Ladies' and Children's Dept's.
Good Paper—Clear Print.
Circulation, Fifteen Thousand.
Samples free. Agents Wanted.
Address,
JOHN CAMERON & Co.
London, Ontario.

RE-ISSUE
OF
GRIP CARTOONS

Covers for Binding the Re-issue of GRIP Cartoons
Are Now Ready.

Coloured Cloth with Gilt Title, specially designed by J. W. Bengough.
Price, Cloth Gilt centre, $1.00.
" " full Gilt, 1.25.
ROGERS & LARMINE,
Publishers,
20 Adelaide Street East.

WANTED.
Back Numbers of GRIP.
OL. I. Nos. 10, 11, 13, 14, 19, 21.
OL. III. No. 7.
OL. IV., No. 5.
Persons having any of the above will oblige by communicating with GRIP Office, 20 Adelaide Street.

VICTORIA
PHOTOGRAPHIC
GALLERY,
36 Queen St. West, Toronto.
J. Hansford, Prop.

Scarth, Cochran & Co.
STOCK BROKERS,
(Members of the Stock Exchange.)
REAL ESTATE AGENTS,
Toronto Street, Toronto.
W. B. SCARTH. R. COCHRAN.
References:—J. Stevenson, Quebec
Bank Dominion Bank, Toronto

GALVANIC BELTS, BANDS, AND INSOLES,

Are the Best Known Remedy for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Sprains, Bruises, &c.
SEND FOR CIRCULAR TO A. NORMAN, 118 KING STREET WEST, TORONTO.

PHYSICIAN HEAL THYSELF.

NEPENTHE BITTERS are a Positive Cure for Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Nervous Debility, Sick Headache, and Bowel Complaint. Price One Dollar. Small Bottles 50c.
A. NORMAN, 118 KING STREET WEST, TORONTO.

GRIP OFFICE, } The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; } 5 CTS. EACH.
20 ADELAIDE ST. } The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool. } $2 PER ANNUM.

In the matter of Life Insurance interests the "Union Mutual" is among the best Companies doing business in Canada. Last year this Company increased the amount previously at risk by $1,100,000, being larger than any other Company local or foreign doing business in the country, and whilst other Companies may show a larger business for the year still the true test is the Balance between the figures at the Beginning and the Ending of the year, and judged from this stand-point, this old and progressive Company has taken the lead of all competitors.---KINGSTON DAILY NEWS.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach Grip office not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, Grip office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

CONTRIBUTIONS, when accepted, will, for the present, be paid for at the rate of Two Dollars per column. All articles for which payment is expected must be accompanied by the name and address of the author.

A. FOX,

Yorkville Boot & Shoe Mart.
GENTS', LADIES' AND MISSES' SHOES OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,
Special attention given to measurement.

Cheeseworth & Fraser
Merchant
TAILORS,

Begin to inform their Patrons and Friends, and the Public Generally that their FALL and WINTER STOCK is now Complete; which Comprises a well Selected Assortment of

NEW GOODS.
219 YONGE STREET.
TORONTO.

John S. Grassick & Co.
FAMILY GROCERS,
WINE AND SPIRIT MERCHANTS,
167 Yonge St. Toronto.

W P. Williams,
134 Queen St. East, Toronto,
[Between George & Sherbourne,]

DEALER IN
PURE CONFECTIONERY
AND
CHOICE FRUITS.
A select supply of Canned Fruit, Fish, &c., always on hand.

THE CITY LAUNDRY
AND
Gents' Furnishing Store,
COR. BAY AND ADELAIDE STS.
PERFECT FITTING SHIRTS
MADE TO ORDER.
All Laundry work well and promptly executed.
WILLIAM LEE & Co.

LITHOGRAPHY.

If you want your
BILLHEADS,
CARDS, NOTES,
DRAFTS, &c.
DONE IN
First Class Style,
At moderate figures, go to
G. J. GEBHARDT & Co.,
13 ADELAIDE STREET EAST.

R. G. TROTTER,
DENTIST,

53 KING STREET EAST, - TORONTO.

Nitrous Oxide Gas administered for the painless extraction of teeth.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabest Beast is the Ass; the grabest Bird is the Owl;
The grabest Fish is the Oyster; the grabest Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 20TH, 1875.

NOTICE.—To young ladies, bank-clerks, stump-orators, and other persons of wit and genius.—In order that no place in Canada shall lose the opportunity of becoming immortalized, through apparent difficulties in its name, GRIP offers a prize of $50.00 for the best "Nonsense Verse" on COBOCONK, the last word of the second and last line to rhyme with the whole name. A second prize of $49.99 is offered for a similar verse in celebration of that popular watering-place COUCHICHING. The verses must reach a certain standard of merit, fixed by GRIP, before any prize will be given.

Answers to Correspondents.

G. H., of Montreal honours us with the following communication :—
Editor Grip :—

DEAR SIR :—I send enclosed in this letter a few verses that I hope will meet with your approval, as a specimen of composing upon any subject. I could compose verses from any subject you might name, and which I might know about sufficiently, to make up a column. I could also do any amount of those snatches such as you publish in this week's GRIP, i. e., "There was a young lady of Barrie, &c." Here's one :—

There was a young lady of Quebec
Who's mama refused her a pull-back;
Said she, "I'll tarry
"And never get married
"Till you let me show off a 'pull-back.'"

[We publish your letter and specimen verse in full, because we are determined to encourage unassuming merit wherever we find it. We regret that we cannot give the public the benefit of your twelve verses on the GUIBORD question. They display power and originality, but are somewhat too tragic for our columns. One or two of the most striking we must however find room for.

The poem begins :—

Oh ye "Witness" and modest "Star"
Before I wish ye from me far,
I will tell thee wrong or right,
What it was I saw last night.

We admire the self-restraint manifested in the second line. An inferior poet would certainly have said :—

How I wonder what you are !

Then again the modest determination to tell the story, however unpalatable to certain persons, to the bitter end, indicated in the words, "Wrong or right" is worthy of notice. The poem goes on to describe with terrible vividness the apparition of the late lamented GUIBORD to his persecutor M^{rs}. BOURGET. The ghost, after an animated invective upon the reverend gentleman, winds up with telling irony :—

"Curse me now till break of day,
Curse me, curse me, as you will;
But with all you can't say nay,
To the order of the Privy Council!"

The poem then proceeds :

Then with a look which made me start,
He slowly said, "Bye, bye!" and departing
Put his finger to his nasal part,
Saying, "I guess it's time that I was starting!"

There is here a powerful commingling of the harrowing and the grotesque which reminds us of nothing so much as DORE's picture in the Wandering Jew, of the day of judgment. And when you tell us you can do any amount of this sort of thing we are filled with astonishment. We think of that gifted man of whom HORACE tells who claimed to be a poet because he could compose 200 verses while standing on one leg.]

CHIMNEY SWEEP.—Your style does not soot us.

FEATHER WEIGHT.—Knox College is not a "Boxing School."

ANSWER.—One is black tea and the other's T. White. What's the conundrum?

RABBIE BURNS.—This correspondent sends us a long prosy article, to which is appended a private note, which reads as follows : "If you think it worthy of an insertion put it in." We willingly comply with his request and "put it in"—the stove. If your feelings are wounded, try "Russia Salve" which is good for burns.

LAURA.—You are correctly informed. The beautiful blue trappings of the A. D. C. in waiting, which looked so lovely in the Box at the Opera, are the uniform of the Ottawa Fire Brigade. There seems to be ground for the report that the gentleman in question is often annoyed by the inquiry, "where's the fire?" It is believed that Rip Van Winkle had his eye on the Royal Box when he exclaimed, "Sich a pair of clothes!"

Our Society for Reconstructing Things.

My name is SAM, and as my views of life is rather sad,
The term of 'Sorrowful' my friends is often pleased to add;
And you may listen if you will, while I my lyric sings
About our new Society for Reconstructing Things.

To call a man a rowdy just because he is a Grit
Is not, to me at least, a proof of very brilliant wit;
Nor if a chap's a Tory need you tell him to his face
His mother "lifted" calico—if such is not the case.

And yet such is the style of politicians in this land;
But there are some as will not stoop to play so low a hand;
And we've agreed to elevate the things that we deplore,
And there's me, and JONES, and THOMPSON, and a half a dozen more.

And we have had a meeting where we did all disclose
A taste for reconstructing things I never could suppose;
And when I tell you what transpired, I think you will agree
That nothing could be finer, or more beautiful to see.

First THOMPSON moved that Britain was a lot of fossil bones,
When he was ably seconded by ALBERT EDWARD JONES;
And those same bones they rattled down and reconstructed there,
The British Empire on a plan which was extremely rare.

Then SMITH arose and proved, with his accustomed eloquence,
That parties was improper, and to him a great offence;
And also that the Parliament should pass an act to say
That parties should for ever cease, upon a given day.

Then we discussed the Senate, all its failings to denote,
And also whether women could be trusted with a vote;
And WILLIAM BROWN unfolded there in less than half-an-hour,
A scheme whereby minorities should always have the power.

Then little BINKS disclosed to us a project quite sublime
To make this land a mighty state, without regard to time;
But how it was, or when he'd start, or where, I can't recall,
But this I know that BINKS's views is singularly tall.

So now you know the planks of our association new,
We only want a candidate and we shall put him through;
And he'll have such a backing as was never known before,
For there's me and JONES and THOMPSON, and a half-a-dozen more.

Synonyms.

The following instances of different names for the same object have been carefully compiled for future use by those ingenious gentlemen who furnish papers of opposite political tendencies with intelligence flavored to suit their respective views. In reporting speeches &c., they will be found especially valuable.

Original Ideas.....Crude Notions.
An emphatic denial.....An equivocal reply.
An enthusiastic meeting.....A complete fizzle.
A brilliant speech.....A few vague remarks.
A crushing defeat.....A moral victory.
A forcible exposure.....A tissue of calumnies.
Satirical.....Would-be-witty.
Success.....Failure.
Gentleman.....Ruffian.
Black.....White.

It will be at once seen that the easy convertibility of these terms renders them with a large number of others of like tendency invaluable to the writers on both sides. If the reader will apply them to the Globe and Mail reports of the recent elections he will be surprised how easily they can be assimilated, or if required, made to change places.

PROTESTANT INFALLIBILITY; OR, IS THE "CONFESSION" ABOVE THE BIBLE?

The Modern Leaguer.

In ancient times a "Leaguer" meant,
A sieged town or Tournament,
Where mailed knights in combat strove,
For glory—lands—or lady's glove.

In modern days the "Leaguer" means,
The dogan chief who shifts the scenes,
Who finds for "Paddy" place and room
Where "Biddy" plies her pan and broom.

Grip's Oracular Proclamation.

Whereas the Globe and Mail equally indignantly disclaim the posting of a certain green placard, NOW WE, GRIP proclaim that the individual who posted that infamous production (equally discreditable to, and discredited by, both parties) was JACKMAN—the Bill-sticker.

N. B.—The Pope denies any share in its composition. He says "non possumus."

Nonsense Verses.

The Nizam of Hyderabad
Is a young man who hasn't a dad;
Says this hapless young orphan,
"I'll order my coffin
If I must see the Britisher cad."

A wily professor named GOLDWIN,
Was "gone for" by BROWN, as a "bold one";
So seeing his danger,
He at once turned a "Granger,"
That he might in our country a hold win.

A funny young man in Esqueseing,
Was proud of his wonderful sneezing;
Till in one of his throes,
He blew off his nose,
Which saved it from danger by freezing.

The Court of Chancery in Danger.

MR. WILLIAM MACWANDERER finding equity jurisprudence somewhat difficult to master at middle age, has formed the dire resolve of abolishing the Court of Chancery. Beware, sweet WILLIAM! the Court has summary jurisdiction over persons of unsound mind. We must remind you of that maxim dear to all Conservatives like yourself, "ignorantia juris non excusat." Though you are ignorant of law, that does not justify you in attacking the Court of Chancery.

Permit us also to call to your recollection the words of the well-known ballad:—

You are old, father WILLIAM, the young man cried,
And a fossil Conservative now;
You must give up reforming with MAT at your side
Or you'll find yourself in for a row.

The "Rupert of Debate."

ADAPTED FROM "NURSERY RHYMES" BY AN M. P. P.

There was a little man who all the members bored
So we gave him a pretty little sword—sword—sword;
And we put him in a chair,
Where we only saw his hair,
And we never heard his voice till he roared—roared—roared.

And before his little face there was borne the mighty mace,
With a very measured, slow, and solemn pace—pace—pace,
And he squared his little toes,
And upraised his little nose
As the Speaker led him gently to his place—place—place.

And whenever there he sat, he wore a little hat,
And called us all to order very pat—pat—pat;
And conned his little book,
With a very knowing look,
As 'neath the crimson canopy he sat—sat—sat.

But not contented yet, something higher he would get,
And to seat himself with OLIVER does fret—fret—fret;
So he climbs to MOWAT's ear,
And makes him quake with fear,
While he vows he'll have a cushion in the cabinet—net—net.

In Banco.

NEW SUITS.—The fashions are changing even on the Bench. The common Law judges are preparing to non-suit themselves. Their elegant pull-back silk dresses, which are said to date from the days of Elizabeth, having been assumed in delicate compliment to the virgin Queen, are to be discarded. It is believed that the Court of Chancery will take up the abandoned habits. They are to be transferred under the administration of justice act of course, as it enables the Courts of common Law to transfer cases—even of old clothes. A vesting order will complete the proceedings.

Epitaph.

TURNER's star's gone down,
Thus the shoe pinched him;
The Globe did him Brown,
And the League Lynched him.

Croaks and Pecks.

A GOOD "FOUR IN HAND." Four Aces.

THE CIVIL THING.—The civil service address to C. J. Harrison.

WHAT kind of stone is the most appropriate for building Free Schools?
Free stone.

THE HARBINGER OF WINTER.—The piping of the Water Commissioners.

TO BE KNOCKED INTO A COCKED HAT.—The next speaker; so hush!!

IF "Britannia rules the mane" is there any impropriety in calling her the "Lady of Lions?"

QUERY?—Were the planks of G. B.'s "Grand Stand" taken from the clear Grit platform?

It is said that Mr. BROWN, in compliment to the West Durham man, refuses to have any Durham bulls about Bow Park.

THE editor of the West Durham News should not be so fierce in the matter of Mr. BROWN's extremities. He is not responsible for them:

There's a Divinity that shapes our ends.

TIMES are very bad. A cobbler says the times want mending, that his little awl is insufficient to support him, awl-though he's the last to complain.

In the present condition of the city the Board of Works may as well display the familiar legend of "No Thoroughfare" at the angles of all the streets.

DE LUNATICO INQUIRENDU.—It is understood that the Government will promptly consign to an asylum for insane, any M.P.P. who is insane enough to want a "Committee."

SMALL BOY.—(On removal of first course) "Mama, what's for desert?" (accent on first syllable).

MAMMA.—"Sandwiches of course.")

THE Prince of Wales is taking out to India a large number of costly presents. His presentation address will probably commence: "Know all men by these presents," &c.

NEW YORK is crazy to hear TITIENS in Opera. Pe-titiens numerously signed, accompanied by a guarantee fund, might opera-te successfully, and induce MARETZKE to change his mind.

SEAT WANTED!—The ex-speaker wants a seat in the cabinet:—MOWAT says there's none small enough. WELLS won't dig out, and is determined not to be sunk by the Premier's joke. Let WELLS' enough alone, as "all's well that ends WELLS."

HON. JOHN BEVERLEY ROBINSON remarked in his recent oration that he never reads anything written by the opponents of his party. We never heard of any one who was prepared to accuse him of reading any thing whatever—except the Mail!

THE NATION'S QUESTION ANSWERED.—If there is no difference in political principle between the Mail and the Globe, there is in theological views. The Mail, true to its instincts, asserts that Rev. Mr. MACDONNELL is right on the question of future punishment. In fact they will be damned if he isn't. The Globe takes the opposite view. "Better to rule in Hell than serve in Heaven!"

BEATTY'S CELEBRATED
'Golden Tongue'
PARLOR ORGANS are ranked by eminent musicians as the leading organ now in use. For the Church, Sabbath School, Lodge or Parlor they have no superior throughout the world. We challenge any manufacturer to equal them for sweetness and volume of tone. Where we have no agents we will allow any one wishing to buy the agent's discount. Agents wanted everywhere. Send stamp for list of testimonials and circular of this wonderful music-producing instrument. Address, DANIEL F. BEATTY, Washington, N. J.

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT.

Ottawa, April 9, 1875.

AUTHORIZED DISCOUNT ON
 American invoices until further notice, 12 per cent.

J. JOHNSON,
 Commissioner of Customs.

v-54f

ALL KINDS OF PRINTING,
 NEATLY, CHEAPLY,
 QUICKLY,
 EXECUTED AT
"GRIP" OFFICE,
 20 Adelaide Street East.

PHOTOGRAPHS
 AND STEREOSCOPIC
 VIEWS.

Any one wishing to exhibit the beauties of Toronto and the wonders of Niagara, to their absent friends, will do well to call and examine our collection of Stereoscopic views.

A choice selection of Cabinet and Carte de Visite Photographs of

Neilson,
 Rousby,
 Scott Siddons,
 Kellogg,
 Lucca,
 Patti,
 Barnes,
 Toole,
 Both,

And other celebrities of the stage always on hand.
 Photographs not on hand can be ordered from our agents in New York.

A. S. IRVING & Co.,
 Corner Toronto and Adelaide Streets,
TORONTO.

READ THIS.

TRIUMPHANT AT LAST!!

RIEL & CO.,
 CITY

BILL POSTERS,

Cor. King & Bay St's,

UP STAIRS,

Have Succeeded in Securing

The Best Posting Places

IN THE CITY,

AND

Do Work Better & Cheaper

THAN ANY OTHER.

USE THE
DIAMOND YEAST
 CAKE.

AMHERSTBURG!

To be Sold on the Ordnance Reserve, (formerly Asylum Grounds.)

ON TUESDAY, 23rd NOVEMBER,

will be offered by public auction, at Amherstburg, a number of village and building lots laid off on the above Reserve, many fronting on the River Detroit, and all being well and healthily situated, as shown on a plan made by L. Wilkinson, P.L.S., on view in the hands of Botsford & McGee, Auctioneers, Amherstburg,

The terms of sale are, one tenth of the purchase money in cash on the day of sale, and the balance in nine annual instalments, with interest at 6 per cent.

The lots and buildings thereon will be sold together
 Further particulars at the time of sale.

By order of the Hon. the Minister of the Interior.

E. A. MEREDITH,

Deputy of the Minister
 of the Interior.

WILLIAM F. COFFIN,
 Commissioner of Ordnance
 and Admiralty Lands.

Ottawa, 3rd November, 1875.

HAND-IN-HAND

MUTUAL

FIRE INSURANCE

COMPANY.

Financial Statement for the Year
ending Dec. 31, 1874.

REVENUE.

Cash Premiums and Interest $25,486 13

DISBURSEMENTS.

Claims under Policies paid..... $8,348 95

Claim Appropriation for Losses resisted

and waiting proof..... 750 00

Agents, Commission, Salaries, Directors

Fees, Office Rent, &c..... 6,192 73

Scrip Appropriation to Policy-holders

of 1874, on deposit in Royal Canadian

Bank, being forty per cent..... 10,194 45

W. H. HOWLAND, President.

HUGH SCOTT, Manager & Sec'y.

Audited and found correct.

ERNEST G. PULFORD, } Auditors.

GEO. J. MAULSON, }

Risks accepted on all Descriptions of Insurable Property.

Rates fixed with regard to the Laws of Average. All the

Profits divided among Policy-holders annually.

Head Office :

Ontario Hall, Church Street, Toronto.

SCOTT & WALMSLEY,

General Agents.

Corner Jarvis & Adelaide Sts.,

TORONTO, ONT.

JOHN D. NASMITH,

Manufacturer of

BREAD, ROLLS, BUNS, CAKES, &c., &c.,

A superior article of Bread delivered daily throughout the city.

BEATTY'S CHURCH, SABBATH school,
 HALL, LODGE, OFFICE CABINET ORGANS.—
 Best in use. Send stamp for circular. Address, DANIEL F. BEATTY, Washington, N.J.

BEATTY PIANO.

GRAND SQUARE & UPRIGHT. Best Agents
 Wanted Everywhere. Address,

DANIEL F. BEATTY,

Washington, N. J.

BEATTY PIANO!

Grand Square and Upright.

"These Pianos are the finest in the world as regards tone and excellence.—Huntingdon, [Tenn.] Republican."

"The Beatty Piano is pronounced by all, the sweetest toned instrument manufactured."—Gettysburg (Pa.) Century.

"The Beatty Pianos, Grand, Square and Upright, are remarkable for their beauty and finish, as well as for sweetness and volume of tune."—Middleton, (N. Y.) Mercury.

"Mr. Beatty is a responsible business man."—Washington [N. J.] Star.

Agents wanted everywhere. Send stamp for catalogue. Address, DANIEL F. BEATTY, Washington, New Jersey.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE.

Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, No. 20 Adelaide Street, East.

Subscription price, $2 per annum; single copies 5 cents. For sale by newsdealers. Back numbers supplied.

Advertisements and subscriptions received at the office, to which all communications should be addressed.

GEORGE BENGOUGH,
Business Manager,
No. 20 Adelaide St., Toronto.

SIGN OF

THE GOLDEN BOOT!
200 Yonge Street.

Gents' and Boys' Gaiters and Lace Boots, Sizes and Half Sizes, our own make, down to 12. Hand Pegged and Hand Sewed. Cannot be beat for style and Quality at THE PRICE in the Dominion. Several job lots selling VERY CHEAP to make room for

SPRING GOODS!

WHICH ARE ARRIVING EVERY WEEK. Come and see them.

Wm. West & Co.
"Golden Boot," 200 Yonge St.

A FOX,

Yorkville Boot & Shoe Mart.

GENTS', LADIES' AND MISSES' SHOES OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

Special attention given to measurement.

J. Littleton,

Groceries &

Provisions.

Select Stock of Canned Fruits, Fish and Oysters always on hand.

YONGE STREET, - YORKVILLE.

WANTED.

Back Numbers of GRIP.
OL. I. Nos. 10, 11, 13, 14, 19, 21.
OL. III., No. 7.
OL. IV., No. 5.

Persons having any of the above will oblige by communicating with RIP Office, 20 Adelaide Street.

VICTORIA

PHOTOGRAPHIC GALLERY,

36 Queen St. West, Toronto.

J. Hansford, Prop.

Overlock, Stovel & Co.,
PRINTERS,

HAVE REMOVED

TO

20 ADELAIDE STREET,
Fourth door west of Toronto Street.

Scarth, Cochran & Co.
STOCK BROKERS,

Members of the Stock Exchange,

REAL ESTATE AGENTS,

3 Toronto Street, Toronto.

W. B. SCARTH. R. COCHRAN.

References:—J. Stevenson, Quebec Bank; Dominion Bank, Toronto

LAWN MOWER.

Don't fail to get the GENUINE Philadelphia Lawn Mower. Seven sizes. 437 Inspection solicited. Send for circulars, etc., Address—

OVER 28,000 IN USE.

CAUTION.—In consequence of several inferior and spurious imitations being offered, which are obviously in disregard of our patent rights, since the Philadelphia Lawn Mower has become established, all persons are hereby cautioned against infringing thereon, whether as makers, sellers, or users, and we certify that the "genuine machine" is supplied in Canada by Mr. WILLIAM RENNIE, Toronto, our representative for the Dominion.

GRAHAM EMLEN & PASSMORE.

WILLIAM RENNIE,

Agricultural Warehouse and Seed Store, cor. Adelaide and Jarvis Sts.,

TORONTO.

GRIP OFFICE, } The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; } 5 CTS. EACH.
20 ADELAIDE ST. } The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool. } $2 PER ANNUM.

HABERDASHERY DEPARTMENT.

Crochet Cotton!
Crochet Cotton!!
Crochet Cotton!!!

Agate Buttons!
Agate Buttons!!
Agate Buttons!!!

Cordon Braid.
Cordon Braid.
Cordon Braid.

JOHN MACDONALD & CO.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach Grip office not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, Grip office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

CONTRIBUTIONS, when accepted, will, for the present, be paid for at the rate of TWO DOLLARS per column. All articles for which payment is expected must be accompanied by the name and address of the author.

John S. Grassick & Co.

FAMILY GROCERS,

WINE AND SPIRIT

MERCHANTS,

167 Yonge St. Toronto.

W P. Williams,

134 Queen St. East, Toronto,

[Between George & Sherbourne,]

DEALER IN

PURE CONFECTIONERY

AND

CHOICE FRUITS.

A select supply of Canned Fruit, Fish, &c., always on hand.

THE CITY LAUNDRY

AND

Gents' Furnishing Store,

COR. BAY AND ADELAIDE STS.

PERFECT FITTING SHIRTS

MADE TO ORDER.

All Laundry work well and promptly executed.

WILLIAM LEE & Co.

LITHOGRAPHY.

If you want your

BILLHEADS,
CARDS, NOTES,
DRAFTS, &c.

DONE IN

First Class Style,

At moderate figures, go to

G. J. GEBHARDT & Co.,

13 ADELAIDE STREET EAST.

R. G. TROTTER,

DENTIST,

53 KING STREET EAST, - TORONTO.

Nitrous Oxide Gas administered for the painless extraction of teeth.

ONTARIO

SOCIETY OF ARTISTS

THIRD ANNUAL

EXHIBITION

OF

PAINTINGS.

Open daily from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Admission free.

EXHIBITION ROOM

IN

RIDDELL'S BUILDING,

33 KING STREET WEST.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RODGE.

The grabeat Beast is the Bos; the grabeat Bird is the Owl;
The grabeat Fish is the Oyster; the grabeat Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, MAY 5, 1875.

From Our Box.

GRIP thinks Toronto people might have done a little more in the way of turning out for Mr. and Mrs. HARRY RICH's benefit on Monday. Serve them right, they missed a good thing, for "Meg's Diversion" was very well played. MRS. RICH as the heroine tormented Jasper Pigeon in a provokingly natural manner, and in her turn was tortured by Roland. It was a great pity that her most telling scene in which CALDERON's picture of "Broken Vows" should have been realized was spoiled, and the tableau effect destroyed by some clumsiness in setting the scene. MR. RICH himself as the simple, rough and goodhearted carpenter Jasper, shewed a power of evolving the deep pathos that lurks behind the outward absurdities of the part. MR. CLARKE "created, so to speak" a very fair Ashley Merton, and the Eyten and Jeremy Crox of MESSRS. HERBERT and ROGERS were well acted, particularly the former, who was "not to be trifled with", and whose collapse at the end, when he found he had been, was very ludicrous. MRS. MORRISON looked and acted as well as ever in her favorite part of Lady Teazle in a scene from the "School for Scandal", and we were delighted with Mr. ROGER's Sir Peter. But, if young gentlemen persist in playing Charles and Joseph Surface in big black moustaches, something will have to be done. GRIP felt like ordering a tonsorial artist (modern African for barber) to be sent for, and having the delinquents shaved on the spot, as a fitting prelude to the jolly little farce of "Who killed Cock Robin?" By the way, they say that the importation of English sparrows will probably result in the demise of many robins. Can't be helped—nothing like changing the face of nature.

ERIN and the BRENNANS at the Royal. Mr. BRENNAN expounds his panorama of the Emerald Isle with clearness, and the scenes depicted are further illustrated by specimens of the "Finest pisantry on a fruitful soil," who go through the national pastimes of whiskey drinking, fighting, love-making and dance the national jig with reckless enthusiasm and wild shrieks. "J. H. BANKS, its yourself that's the broth of a boy! As Dublin Dan you seem just in your element. For friend JOE in this part has full license to dance, sing, make faces, and play the fiddle, which last he does well, so well that it is almost a pity his performances are varied by sundry gymnastic feats, such as playing behind his back and over his head. In fact he seems to be able to play wherever he holds the instrument. Mrs. BRENNAN sang several songs very well, as did also Miss REILLY and the latter lady's jig with Mr. BANKS was worthy of Donnybrook itself. Mr. EDWARDS is sure to please those who like "Dutch" comedy. We fear we are not judges, or that there is something wrong with us, for we never had much affection for even Hans Breitmann himself. Altogether the show is a very pleasant one and well worth going to see.

Lots more shows coming along and the walls covered with gorgeous posters. The Humpty Dumpty troupe at Mrs. MORRISON'S, a circus and a wild beast show on the road, and goodness knows what next. "After that" as Paddy would say "comes a pig to be shaved."

The Coming (?) Ontario Ministry.

SCENE: King Street. Enter GRIP. To him Mr. M. C. CAMERON, smiling joyously.

GRIP. (log.) Good morning, MATTHEW. Let me congratulate you, if it is a little late, on the triumphant return of a good Conservative for South Simcoe.

MR. M. C. C. (Hesitatingly)—Ah, th-an-ks—th-a-n-ks.

GRIP—Now, between you and MAC. I look for an early defeat of that corrupt administration of MOWAT'S. The country has its eyes on you. It expects your accession to the benches.

MR. M. C. C. (Impassionately) We'll attain them, too, by the Jingo—we shall, by the Living Jingo!!

GRIP—Come now, no quoting from TOOLE in my presence. But I hope you may, old fellow. By the way, have you given the subject of a Cabinet any thought, in anticipation of being called upon to go to the wheel?

MR. M. C. C. You're shouting, I have! You bet I've got the thing all cut and dried. (Patting his vest-pocket significantly.)

GRIP—I am shocked to hear you speak in such a slangy manner. I am afraid you are already beginning to suffer from "evil association." But let us have the names, old boy.

MR. M. C. C. (Confidentially) Come in here.

(They enter a private parlour of the Rossin House. Mr. C. locks the door, closes the shutters, puts down the window blinds, peers carefully under the sofa, and finally seats himself behind an arm chair in a dark corner. GRIP perches on the table.)

GRIP—Come, hurry up,—I'm sincerely anxious to learn what you're "going to do about it."

MR. M. C. C.—Here they are. (Producing a piece of sheep-skin from his vest pocket.)

GRIP (Facetiously)—Sheepskin? Ah, quite appropriate. Proceed. MR. M. C. C. (Reluctantly, and with a slight blush, reads.)—"Attorney General—MR. M. C. CAMERON."

GRIP—Very good, so far; he's the best and purest man in your Party. MR. M. C. C.—I think so, sir. (Reads.)—"Provincial Secretary—HON. WM. MACDOUGALL."

GRIP—Good again. Immense improvement on MACKELLAR, who is so shockingly inconsistent and artful. By the bye, WILLIE held that office before, didn't he, when he was a Grit? Now, when he goes in, I hope we'll have no canoe couch extravagance, although I think the Province would pardon his purchasing a coat-of-many-colours and a stuffed chameleon, as emblematic decorations for the wall. But proceed.

MR. M. C. C. (Reads) "Premier—MR. M. C. CAMERON and MR. WM. MACDOUGALL."

GRIP—Better still! I see you don't propose to sacrifice your professional practice, and WILLIE can run the House while you're in court. Very sensible. You understand each other, I believe. He'll bring in the Radical measures while you preserve the old ones. A sort of marriage compact, with two worse halves. Go on.

MR. M. C. C. (clears his throat) "Treasurer"—(An awkward pause—GRIP rings for the waiter and orders ice-water for Mr. C. MR. C. moistens his lips and resumes)—"Treasurer—(ahem!)—MR. A. W. LAUDER." (MR. C. looks furtively towards the table and observes GRIP flopping around in a paroxysm of mingled mirth and distress.)

GRIP—(Recovering his composure) Pray proceed!!

MR. M. C. C. (Reads) "Commissioner of Agriculture and Public Works—MR. CHAS. RYKERT (?)." (Explains) You see, I put his name down with a note of interrogation in brackets after it.

GRIP. Very thoughtful of you. Shows your capacity for the Premiership. Put another note before it, and one above and below.

MR. M. C. C.—Well, of course, if it comes to that, MR. MACDOUGALL can easily take that Department too.

GRIP—Of course, capitally! you'll find him an excellent harrower before long. Talk about MACKELLAR'S "fall ploughing." Why, old ARCHIE never could turn over his sods or hoe his own row as MAC has done. By all means, let him go to grass! Go on.

MR. M. C. C.—"Commissioner of Crown Lands—MR. BLANK"

GRIP (interrupting) Excellent, my dear Sir! that's the best of the lot. If the others were all as competent as "BLANK" they would have a clearer record! If—

MR. M. C. C. (Interrupting) You misunderstand me, I'm afraid—I merely put Mr. "BLANK" to indicate that that space is waiting to be filled up!

GRIP—Wherein it re-enables my crop at this moment, for I haven't had my dinner yet! Bye-bye, and lots of luck to you!

(Exit through an open window.)

Croaks and Pecks

A TEXT FOR HALTON. "Swear not at all."

WANTED, for chemical purposes—A lady dissolved in tears.

SINCE politicians' lie—abilities are so great, need we wonder that they sometimes fail?—(to keep their word.)

Why should a candidate for a seat in Parliament go and stop at the Queen's Royal Niagara Hotel? Because that's the way to WINNETT.

THE Globe seems to think that Dr. CANNIFF ought not to write on "Canadian Nationality,"—but we are of the opinion that the Dr. CANNIFF he likes.

SUMMER is here, and the Old Sol makes it hot for this globe of ours. N. B. We don't mean the Toronto Globe. The Liberal makes it hot for it.

GRAND TRANSFORMATION SCENE.—If the Reformers of Centre Toronto serenaded their member they would transform him into SIR JOHN A. MACDONALD—SIR-and-A-ed him,—don't you see?

The Peterborough Times announces the Annual Monthly meeting of the Game Preservation Society of that place. An excellent object, but how often are their meetings held?

"CANADA FIRST" has scored a glorious victory, proving that it has not departed this life as its detractors assert. It is a Keenansville baseball club, and beat an Athlone club by ten runs.

THE Aylmer Paper records a singular case of precocity on the part of one of our great public men. It informs us that Professor GOLDWIN SMITH was born in 1853 and called to the bar in 1847.

THE POLITICAL "DEATH AND DOCTOR HORNBOOK."

DR. HORNBOOK MOWAT—"Guid faith, ye're maybe come to stap my breath."—Burns' Poems.

"MR. MACKENZIE left for ENGLAND yesterday. HON. GEO. BROWN sails for the same destination shortly".—Daily paper. "He can't allow MAC. to get out of his sight"—Sun.

ALEX.—I thocht tae hae a quiet time
Across the broad Atlantic,
But losh! the fellow in yon tub
Has spoiled my dream romantic!

I micht ha' known I couldna' fly,
Beyond the globe's dominions,
Nor hope while livin' on the Globe
To 'scape frae his opinions!

JOHN BULL.—Go back, both of you!!

Ode to Vulcan—After Horace.

ARGUMENT:—The Hon. GEORGE BROWN prays VULCAN for the safety of ALEX MACKENZIE, departing by train to Quebec, en route for England; and moralises on the dangerous pace of "things" generally, in these fast times:—

GREAT VULCAN! look wi' favourin' eyes
On yonder train whilk roarin' flies
To where Quebec's old housetops rise!
An' thou, guid driver! quaff
Nae potent rye, wi' drunken crash
Lest thou 'gainst ither engines dash
An' hurry to immortal smash
Dear MAC.—my souls best half!

Yon chiels maun hae, without a joke,
Limbs made of iron, hearts o' oak,
Wha in yon coaches bold do poke
Themselves, nor e'er alarm
Their souls to think from slumber wakin',
Roused by a muckle dreadit' shakin',
They'll find, down some embankment taken,
They're minus leg, or arm!

But ah! what danger does he fear
Wha, when election time is near,
An' mobs inspired by rye, or beer,
Tumultuous round him pour,
On platform perched beholds from high
The sticks whilk wave, the stanes whilk fly,
(Meant, perhaps, to hit him in the eye)
Nor trembles at their roar!

Hech! often as ane walks the streets,
Fu' fearfu' sights ane's vision greets;
Yon Liberal placards whilk ane meets,
They tak ane's breath awa';
Yon Nation too, an bad, bold Mail,—
Eh! terrors sair my mind assail,
Lest judgments on us het should hail,
Sae wicked noo men are!

Some think J. A. is quite a god;
Some thousands bow to GOLDWIN's nod;
In fact ilk hour new marvels odd
To mortals is displayin',
Great JUPITER! for mercy's sake,
Me to some ither planet take,
For at this rate we soon will make
This world too hot to stay in!

"Death and Doctor Hornbook."

(As related by Dr. HORNBOOK MOWAT, who vouches for the truthfulness of the matter, but acknowledges his indebtedness to ROBBY BURNS for most of the words.)

(See Cartoon.)

The ale o' Power had made me canty,
I was na' fou, but just had plenty,
I stachred whyles, but yet took tent aye
To free the ditches;
An' Opposition slanders kenn'd aye
Frae ghaists an' witches.

The session moon began to glow'r
The fair Ontario hills out-owre,
To count my force wi' a' my pow'r
I set mysel',
But whether I had less or more
I couldna' tell.

I was come round South Simcoe's hill,
Late scene of Wandering WILLIE's mill
Wi' our DINWOODIE, (wham said BILL
Made even sicker
Than men are made wha test their skill
At drinkin' liquor.

I there wi' something did forgother,
That put me in an eerie swither:
An awfu' scythe out-owre ae shouther
Clean dangling, hang;
A three-taed leister on the ither
Lay, large an' lang.

An' frae this in a drooped position
A flag hang, wi' this proposition:
"MOWAT, this coming Local session Shall see thee fade;"
The scythe—"MACDOUGALL's opposition"
Bore on its blade.

It spak—"My name, to you, means Death;
You'll find it so!" Quo' I, "Guid faith,
Ye're maybe come to stap my breath,
But tent me, BILLY,
See, there's a gully!

"Guidman," quo' he, "put up your whittle,
I'm no design'd to try it's mettle,
But if I did I wad be kittle
To be mislear'd,
I wad na' mind it, no that spittle
Out-owre my beard."

"Weel, weel," says I, "a bargain be't;
Come, gie's your haun' and sae we'er gree't;
We'll ease our shanks an' tak' a seat,
Come, gie's your news,
This while ye hae been many a gate
At mony a house!"
"Ay, ay," quo' he, an' shook his head—

EDITOR'S NOTE.—We haven't room for any more of this interesting narrative; besides, everybody knows the history of the strange person's wanderings.

"KING CHARLES walked and talked half an hour after his head was cut off." But this is nothing to a Windsor baby, who has had his little head amputated and yet it survives. It is true he had two to start with.

SOME of our contemporaries are recommending each other a fish diet, which is said to be excellent brain-food. To judge from the way some of them make use of others' ideas, we fear that "suckers" have mainly constituted the diet of those who tried the experiment.

THE May number of Church Chimes is received. We are somewhat doubtful of the success of this venture, as the field for comic journalism is a limited one. Our contemporary is a sprightly, sparkling little sheet, however, brimful of good things, but we are afraid it is too much given to treating upon subjects which hardly fall within the especial province of a humorous publication. The monthly burlesques of the saints are in the worst possible taste. We are not actuated by anything like jealousy of the notoriety of our little neighbour, in a sphere which in these days of the multiplication of newspapers we can hardly hope to monopolize, but we do think that its writers might find an ample outlet for their flow of brilliant humor and sarcasm without the frequent allusions to sacred things which are calculated to lower an otherwise excellent publication in the estimation of the respectable portion of society.

MRS. MORRISON'S
GRAND
OPERA
HOUSE
ADELAIDE STREET WEST.

BENEFIT COMPLIMENTARY TO

MRS. C. MORRISON,

And last night of the season,

FRIDAY EVENING, JUNE 11, 1875.

On which occasion

MR. J. L. TOOLE,

The eminent English Comedian,

In compliment to Mrs. Morrison, will make a special visit to Toronto, and will appear in one of his popular impersonations.

MRS. MORRISON, MISS JOHNSTONE,
MR. HERBERT, MR. ROGERS,

AND THE

Grand Opera House Co.,

IN THE CAST.

Due notice will be given of the pieces selected.

MRS. MORRISON'S GRAND OPERA
HOUSE.

For SIX NIGHTS, and a SATURDAY
MATINEE, commencing

Thursday Ev'g., June 3.

The great Ring of Pantomimic Art and only

GEO. L. FOX,

The original Humpty Dumpty in Person. The American Grimaldi, whose success has never been equalled in the annals of American amusement, surrounded by his own council, will appear in his Comic Trick Pantomime of

HUMPTY DUMPTY

A Full	at	A Grand Corps
Pantomime	H	of
Company,	O	Speciality Artists,
45 people	M	45 people
in all.	E	in all.

FUN, TRICKS, TRIALS, and TRIBULATIONS, complete as played in New York.

Geo. H. Tyler, Manager.

Seats secured three days in advance at Nordheimer's Music Store, King street.

H. E. PARMELEE, Business Agent.

QUEEN'S ROYAL HOTEL,
NIAGARA, ONT.

This favourite Summer Resort will open for business on TUESDAY, 1st JUNE.

Special arrangements will be made with parties requiring board during the time the Camp remains at Niagara, and liberal terms to those remaining during the month of June.

McGAW & WINNETT,
Proprietors.

Niagara, Ont., and June, 1875.

ATTENTION!
—
PHOTOGRAPHS
AND STEREOSCOPIC
VIEWS.

Any one wishing to exhibit the beauties of Toronto and the wonders of Niagara, to their absent friends, will do well to call and examine our collection of Stereoscopic views.

A choice selection of Cabinet and Carte de Visite Photographs of

Neilson,
Rousby,
Scott Siddons,
Kellogg,
Lucca,
Patti,

Barnes,
Toole,
Booth,

And other celebrities of the stage always on view. Photographs not on hand can be ordered from our agents in New York.

A. S. IRVING & Co.,
Corner Toronto and Adelaide Streets,
TORONTO.

SAMO & JOHNSTON,

WHOLESALE

CABINET MAKERS
AND
UPHOLSTERERS.

WAREHOUSES, - 187 and 189 YONGE STREET.
FACTORY, - - - - - YORKVILLE.

Our facilities enable us to supply the Trade and the Public generally with

DRAWING ROOM,
DINING ROOM,
BED ROOM AND
LIBRARY FURNITURE

In the latest English and American styles, at prices that defy competition.

Masonic,
Oddfellow,
Orange,
Forester,

And other Society Lodge room Furniture, carved in accordance with the most approved designs, and unsurpassed for elegance, utility and economy.
The fullest satisfaction guaranteed in all cases. Give us a call.

REMEMBER THE ADDRESS:

187 AND 189 YONGE ST., UNDER ALBERT
HALL.

USE THE
DIAMOND YEAST
CAKE.

HAND-IN-HAND
MUTUAL
FIRE INSURANCE
COMPANY.

Financial Statement for the Year
ending Dec. 31, 1874.

REVENUE.

Cash Premiums and Interest $25,486 13

DISBURSEMENTS.

Claims under Policies paid..... $8,348 95
Claim Appropriation for Losses resisted
and waiting proof..... 750 00
Agents, Commission, Salaries, Directors
Fees, Office Rent, &c..... 6,192 73
Scrip Appropriation to Policy-holders
of 1874, on deposit in Royal Canadian
Bank, being forty per cent.... 10,194 45

W. H. HOWLAND, President.
HUGH SCOTT, Manager & Sec'y.

Audited and found correct.
ERNEST G. PULFORD, } Auditors.
GEO. J. MAULSON, }

Risks accepted on all Descriptions of Insurable Property. Rates fixed with regard to the Laws of Average. All the Profits divided among Policy-holders annually.

Head Office:

Ontario Hall, Church Street, Toronto.
[SCOTT & WALMSLEY,
General Agents.

Corner Jarvis & Adelaide Sts.,
TORONTO, ONT.

JOHN D. NASMITH,

Manufacturer of

BREAD, ROLLS, BUNS, CAKES, &c., &c.,

A superior article of Bread delivered daily throughout the city.

TO THE TRADE ONLY

FOR LATEST PATTERNS IN
ALL KINDS OF REAL AND IMITATION
HAIR GOODS,

At Lowest Wholesale Prices.

APPLY TO THE

NEW DOMINION CHIGNON FACTORY,
961 Yonge Street, Toronto,
FRANCIS J. BORMUTH, Proprietor.

BROWN BROS.,

[WHOLESALE & MANUFACTURING

SITATIONERS,

No. 66 & 68 King St., East,

[TORONTO.

THE CIVIC THERMOPYLÆ.

(LEONIDAS BAXTER WILL DIE IN THE PASS.)

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO
LIBRARY
1100 EAST 58TH STREET
CHICAGO, ILL. 60637
U.S.A.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE.

GRIP is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, No. 20 Adelaide Street, East.

Subscription price, $2 per annum; single copies 5 cents. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied.

Advertisements and subscriptions received at the office, to which all communications should be addressed.

GEORGE BENGOUGH,
Business Manager,
No. 20 Adelaide St., Toronto.

A BRANCH OF THE Great American SHOE STORE

Has been Opened at
NO. 7 KING ST. EAST

(Formerly Walker's Tailoring Establishment.)

T. CLARK.

RE-ISSUE OF GRIP CARTOONS

BOUND VOLUMES
Are Now Ready.

Coloured Cloth with Gilt Title, specially designed by J. W. Bengough.

Price, Cloth Gilt centre, $3.50,
full Gilt, 3-75.

GEO. BENGOUGH,
Manager "GRIP."
20 Adelaide Street East

JUST TO HAND Samples of FANCY CARDS

AND
ORDERS OF DANCING.
Prices on application at
"GRIP" OFFICE.

20 Adelaide Street,

WANTED.

Back Numbers of GRIP.

VOL. I. Nos. 10, 11, 13, 14, 19, 21.
VOL. III., No. 7.
VOL. IV., No. 5.

Persons having any of the above will oblige by communicating with GRIP Office, 20 Adelaide Street.

VICTORIA
PHOTOGRAPHIC
GALLERY,

386 Queen St. West, Toronto.

J. Hansford, Prop.

Scarth, Cochran & Co.

STOCK BROKERS,

(Members of the Stock Exchange.)

REAL ESTATE AGENTS,

38 Toronto Street, Toronto.

W. B. SCARTH. R. COCHRAN.

Referees in all matters relating to the

Bank Dominion Bank, Toronto

GALVANIC BELTS, BANDS, AND INSOLES,

Are the Best Known Remedy for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Sprains, Bruises, &c.

SEND FOR CIRCULAR TO A. NORMAN, 118 KING STREET WEST, TORONTO.

PHYSICIAN HEAL THYSELF.

NEPENTHE BITTERS are a Positive Cure for Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Nervous Debility, Sick Headache, and Bowel Complaint. Price One Dollar. Small Bottles 50c.
A. NORMAN, 118 KING STREET WEST, TORONTO.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1875.

GRIP OFFICE, } The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; } 5 CTS. EACH.
20 ADELAIDE ST. } The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool. } $2 PER ANNUM.

In the matter of Life Insurance interests the "Union Mutual" is among the best Companies doing business in Canada. Last year this Company increased the amount previously at risk by $1,100,000, being larger than any other Company local or foreign doing business in the country, and whilst other Companies may show a larger business for the year still the true test is the Balance between the figures at the Beginning and the Ending of the year, and judged from this stand-point, this old and progressive Company has taken the lead of all competitors.---KINGSTON DAILY NEWS.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach GRIP office not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

CONTRIBUTIONS, when accepted, will, for the present, be paid for at the rate of Two DOLLARS per column. All articles for which payment is expected must be accompanied by the name and address of the author.

A. FOX,

Yorkville Boot & Shoe Mart.

GENTS', LADIES' AND MISSES' SHOES OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,

Special attention given to measurement.

Cheeseworth & Fraser
Merchant

TAILORS,

Beg to inform their Patrons and Friends, and the Public Generally that their FALL and WINTER STOCK is now Complete; which Comprises a well Selected Assortment of

NEW GOODS.

219 YONGE STREET.
TORONTO.

John S. Grassick & Co.

FAMILY GROCERS,

WINE AND SPIRIT

MERCHANTS,

167 Yonge St. Toronto.

W P. Williams,

134 Queen St. East, Toronto,

[Between George & Sherbourne.]

DEALER IN

PURE CONFECTIONERY

AND

CHOICE FRUITS.

A select supply of Canned Fruit, Fish, &c., always on hand.

THE CITY LAUNDRY

AND

Gents' Furnishing Store,

COR. BAY AND ADELAIDE STS.

PERFECT FITTING SHIRTS

MADE TO ORDER.

All Laundry work well and promptly executed.

WILLIAM LEE & Co.

LITHOGRAPHY.

If you want your
BILLHEADS,
CARDS, NOTES,
DRAFTS, &c.

DONE IN

First Class Style,

At moderate figures, go to

G. J. GEBHARDT & Co.

13 ADELAIDE STREET EAST.

R. G. TROTTER,

DENTIST.

53 KING STREET EAST, - TORONTO.

Nitrous Oxide Gas administered for the painless extraction of teeth.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabeast Beast is the Jew; the grabeast Bird is the Owl;
The grabeast Fish is the Oyster; the grabeast Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 27TH, 1875.

Answers to Correspondents.

ALD. FARLEY.—We sympathise with you. All that was meant was that you showed yourself a fur bearing animal.

ALD. BALL.—Yes, you should be Water Commissioner. No one wishes to see three BALLS in the Council.

The Ball at Government House.

(By our own Social Parasite.)

On Tuesday night one of the most splendid and well-managed balls that Toronto has known was given at Government House. We gladly pay our tribute of praise to the generous hospitality of the new regime.

In spite of the vast crowd assembled at the ball, there are no casualties or unpleasantness to record. The mob was good humoured throughout, and on the whole bore the inevitable jostling without profanity. About the time supper was announced a disturbance was for a few moments anticipated. However the rumour that the Mayor was sent for, with the request that he would attend with a copy of the Riot Act and a legal adviser, is absolutely unfounded. We are also able to state the gratifying fact that there is no sensible diminution in the number of the vice-regal spoons, and that most of the guests went away with no better hats and coats than they came in. This is very creditable and implies self-restraint on the part of the guests, as well as good management on the part of the host. It is all the more satisfactory, as both the City Council and the Local Legislature were largely represented.

The military lent brilliancy to the scene by their uniforms. It is only just to say that they managed their accoutrements with much dexterity. We did not observe any officer with his sword between his legs, or in any other situation calculated to produce trouble. We dare say that some of those gallant young soldiers had not before Tuesday night smelt powder. They saw however on this occasion a good many engagements, and a very considerable amount of powder.

As we gazed on the brilliant scene, we naturally became poetic. Certain not unfamiliar lines came into our mind.

A thousand hearts beat happily: and when
Music arose, with the voluptuous Swell,
Soft eyes looked love to eyes which spake again,
And all went merry as a marriage-bell:
But hush! hark!—a fierce sound strikes like a rising yell.

And wild and high the "Cameron's gathering" rose!
The war-note of Lochiel!

This we beg to state was the piper preparing for the Scotch reel. The sound of the pibroch, "savage and shrill," created some sensation. As the crowd surged in the direction of the noise, one old lady asked us if the kitchen-chimney was on fire. We were unable to watch the performance of this primitive and pleasing step, but we are credibly informed that between the Hon. GEORGE BROWN and Mr. KENNETH MACKENZIE, must be divided the honours of persistent and vigorous dancing. As we were leaving we learnt that these two lively individuals were in one of their most meritorious paroxysms.

On with the dance! let joy be unconfined;
No rest till morn when YOUTH and PLEASURE meet!

we muttered, as we stepped into a cab which has yet to be paid for.

R. I. P.

"The Bishop of Ripon, having been appealed to against the refusal of the incumbent of Marsden to allow the words "requiescat in pace" to be cut on a tombstone, has agreed with the rev. gentleman's decision, and pointed out that these words really constitute a prayer for the dead, which is against true Protestant belief, though quite in harmony with Roman Catholic doctrine."

It is all very fine for the Bishop of Ripon
To forbid R. I. P. to be cut upon stone,
For it is very certain in GRIP's poor opinion
That this Bishop will have R. I. P. on his own.

Opening of the Ontario Legislature.

(By our own Correspondent who was not there.)

Seldom has Phœbus driven the 'Sun' into such a corner as that of yesterday. A wild west wind with drifting flakes of snow, marred the manly beauty and pinched the noses of the gallant cavalcade that with glistening helmets and martial ardour determined to protect His Honour the Lieutenant Governor in his perilous progress between Government House and the Parliament Buildings, or die in the attempt. And a good many of them dyed—their moustaches. But we anticipate the course of events. At precisely 2.15 p. m. the front of the Halls of Legislature was enlivened by a small boy in a red comforter and ditto nose. At 2.30 the concourse was swelled by an applewoman with a baggy umbrella. At 2.35 dashed up a one horse cab—not a handsome one—and a splendid carriage and pair, and from them alit, in due order of precedence, the twin brothers of the German Empire and the Netherlands clad in cocked hats. Finding there was no one round, they re-embarked for a drive round the block. Then arrived a detachment of the gallant Q. O. R., headed by their Suckling band, having green and red shaving brushes on their busbies, to indicate that they were ready to lather anybody, and sh(ave themselves. After halting into their places, and dressing themselves, they looked all attention while their officer told them to 'stan'atees'. He then said 'shun' as the four wheeled quadruped containing the German Empire rolled up followed by the Netherlands, whereupon the rear rank man on the left presented arms prematurely, and was severely looked at by the officer. (This man has since, we understand been presented with the Iron Cross, and made a K. N. L. privately—being a private.) At this stage of the proceedings, a stout party with a boiled lobster coat, and feathers on his head, like a polish fowl (in language more foul than polished) reviewed the troops with a martial eye, until alarmed by the explosion of a gun from the artillery, he ran to cover in the buildings with true soldierly instinct, and got behind the speaker's chair. After this masterly retreat, and when the echo of the seventh gun had caused a spasmodic action in the applewoman's spine, two cavaliers with carbine on thigh, dashed up, followed in irregular order by others of a similar description bearing swords as if they knew they would cut. Their fears were groundless, as their swords were not ground. Following them in a covered cab of a private nature, came the representative of Her Majesty, as the in's say, and the representative of the Federal Government as the out's say, attended by an aide-de-camp in waiting (how can he de-camp and be in waiting at the same time) clad in the gorgeous full dress costume of the Ottawa Fire Brigade, borrowed for the occasion, and which he wears as his position of private secretary to a civil governor precludes his wearing military uniform, and farther accompanied by a military biped in boiled lobster raiment, evidently the hen bird to the old cock that wouldn't fight at an earlier stage of the proceedings. The illustrious trio disappeared within the Legislative Halls—the last notes of the National Anthem died on the ear—the victorious "Queen's Own" ordered arms from the Present, and all was peace. When again the clarions rang out their wild alarm, and the trooper on the grey horse had whacked him into line with the flat of his sword, your correspondent retired, with a sense of injustice in that a minion of the law had prevented his entering upon the arena of politics—the floor of the House—because he was not the possessor of a pink pasteboard. The troops entangled themselves in mystic evolutions, the band woke the echoes with the lively drum, and the First Session of the Fifth Parliament of Ontario was left to the agreeable duty of electing a speaker they didn't want, without the aid of your CORRESPONDENT.

The Mayoralty.

MAYOR MEDCALF.—MR. MEDCALF does not desire to be re-elected Mayor. He is as coy as a maiden on the subject. He won't run—he does not like to run—he hates to run—he has done his duty to his fellow citizens—and, poor old patriot, he is weary of serving his country. He is anxious to be rid of responsibility. His solicitude for the welfare of all has been a dreadful strain upon his powers; his anxiety respecting the due payment of his salary has depressed his spirits. So he will not be a candidate save on the strongest pressure.

The Imperial Crown.

It would appear from a late letter of the eminent Irish orator Mr. D—V—N that some one has been offering him an Imperial crown, which he has very properly declined. An imperial quart would perhaps have been more to the taste of an Irishman. The same letter refers to a Scotchman who so far outraged all the traditions of his race as to offer the writer money—probably the crown referred to, or more likely only half a crown. Mr. D—V—N's own fidelity to national idiosyncrasies naturally make him indignant at the treason of the Scotchman. As a mere matter of curiosity however, we would like to see that Scotchman.

THE IRREPRESSIBLE CANDIDATE.

His Honor the Lieutenant Governor's Speech.Honourable Gentlemen,

I congratulate you upon your success in electing Mr. WELLS Speaker notwithstanding the effort of Mr. HODGINS' friends to beget trouble in the Ministerial ranks. Mr. WELLS is a very dignified young man and does credit to his cocked hat. Mr. HODGINS left himself in the hands of his friends and is there yet.

The Election Law has worked severely and hurt the feelings of a great many. Hence my advisers will endeavour to counteract its results by qualifying once more those who have enjoyed a period of temporary disqualification. An Act will be introduced to whitewash BARBER & Co.

Gentlemen,

I drop the word honourable advisedly as how I speak of railways. My government has been duly persecuted during recess by the everlasting railway men. Mr. LAIDLAW and his friend have been at them and worried them with great rigour. In consequence all railway companies will have another haul from the public chest.

Honourable Gentlemen,

The numerous Emigration Agents appointed by my government are hard at work earning their salaries and have qualified themselves to become M. P.'s in England. There are some rocks in Muskoka yet to be inhabited.

I have visited many public institutions in the Province and have been very much pleased with the jails. These places of confinement are deservedly popular and attract large support.

The Consolidation of the Statutes is proceeding steadily. The Consolidators find great difficulty in keeping pace with legislation but in the course of forty or fifty years they will be ready to report progress and ask leave to sit again for a century.

The creation of the office of Minister of Education has been rendered necessary by the vagaries of Dr. RYERSON. Its occupant will have to pass a preliminary examination in the three R's before being admitted to the Council Table. This severe test will it is hoped secure a competent adviser to the Crown.

There is a large surplus so be active in exhausting it before the next government comes into power.

Coming Political Events.

In advance of all our contemporaries we have secured from the MOWAT Government some indications of the principal measures they intend to lay before the House during the coming session of the Ontario Legislature.

1. A bill to incorporate the Catholic League and to render it imperative on all Catholics to support such candidates as Messrs. O'DONOHUE and MERRICK approve of.

2. A bill to further amend the act further amending all previous amendments to the Municipal Law by rendering Mayor MEDCALF ineligible for the office of Mayor of Toronto until the Conservatives again come into power.

3. A bill to gerrymander all constituencies not sufficiently gerrymandered for Grit purposes.

4. A bill to whitewash BARBER and all good Grits who may be unfortunate enough to be disqualified for bribery and corruption.

5. A bill relative to the protection of insectivorous birds.

6. A bill to facilitate the appointment of Catholics to all situations in the Parliament Buildings.

7. A bill to enliven the proceedings of the Court of Chancery for the benefit of Hon. Mr. McDougall.

The Opposition have not disclosed their policy but we take it for granted from recent utterances of the Hon. M. C. CAMERON that they are prepared to oppose the Government tooth and nail, in season and out of season, at all points and in all points.

The Hon. W. McDougall is preparing bills night and day. A few of his productions so far, are—a bill to abolish the Court of Chancery; a bill to set everybody by the ears; a bill to abolish the Mace and the Speaker's cocked hat.

Mrs. MARROWFAT ON McNUTT.—McNUTT, who was sentenced to death for murdering a sailor in St. John, N. B., has had his sentence commuted to imprisonment for life. Mrs. MARROWFAT hearing of it says she's glad to hear that poor McNUTT's sentence is computed.—She don't believe in capital punishment and thinks the Plenipotentiary for life is hard enough, especially in his case where there was so much interdictory evidence. She says she always had a great sympathy for him and hoped he would have been able to prove a 'lullaby' which would have proved exclusively that he wasn't not there.

Nonsense Verses.

On a street in a suburb called Bloor,
Live some nice girls, quite pretty, but poor:
Who, 'tis well understood,
Would wed if they could,
But no suitors have yet come to Bloor.
(I don't know the reason I'm sure:
Would they come if the maidens were fewer?)
Ed.

There was a young maid of Orillia,
Who when her fond lover said, "Will ye?
Just fix on the day?"
Cried, "O get away!"
This bashful young maid of Orillia.

A grandfather living at Mimico,
Invented a patent alchymic hoe,
To make thistles and weeds
Bear the choicest of seeds—
Why did ARCHY sell out at Mimico?

There lived a young man in New York,
Who could stand on one leg like a stork,
And what was more queer
With his toe scratch his ear,
Could this agile young man of New York.

There was a young man lived in Cobocok,
Who was given by nature a noble conk,
And whenever he blew it,
An echo rang through it,
That alarmed all the children of Cobocok.

Croaks and Pecks.

Is the religion of the mussulman a shel-fish religion?

PULL-BACK whiskers is the latest style for gentlemen.

PRIVATE BILLS.—GRIP intends to take no notice of other people's private bills. He has enough of his own to think about.

THE reason why Mr. WELLS was elected to the speaker's chair is evident—Mr. ABRAHAM LAUDER was the opposition candidate.

PROFESSOR GOLDWIN SMITH (or some one over his signature) has sent us a poem of 400 verses on the subject of Canadian Independence. We have sent them to Dr. RYERSON.

MR. ANGUS MORRISON is out in his tartan "breeks." In order to get the better of him Mr. MEDCALF is going out to canvass in the gorgeous gown he purchased for the Lord Mayor's Show.

AN EXTINCT INSTITUTION.—The Catholic League has been ruined by the West Toronto election. Mr. O'DONOHUE has resigned the Presidency, and Mr. MERRICK has declined to represent any longer the fictitious membership. Even TERRY CLARKE has resigned the secretaryship. Vale, extinct monstrosity?

WATER COMMISSION.—Mr. BAXTER wishes to be elected one of the Water Commissioners on the strength of his vast consumption of the beverage which temperance men do most affect. He has no liking for the salary attached to the position. In the latter respect he is only on a par with Mayor MEDCALF, who despises money, especially public money.

THERE are certain circumstances in which a fertile brane cood itself invente a good hint: for instans, if you c the fello moving on his chare yu might begg him to sta a little longer as if you expected he was going: but it requires considerabel femenin tacket to urg a man to stay in sutch a maner that he shud fele compeled to depart. (From an unpublished volume "Hints, for the use of yung feemails," by Joking Jerry.)

THE LIBERAL ASSOCIATION.—We understand that a Liberal Association has been formed in Toronto for the purpose of undermining Christianity. So far as its members are concerned, the Association has been eminently successful. COMTE's philosophy was discussed at the last meeting, and an organ-grinder present demolished JOHN STUART MILL's arguments against the eminent Frenchman's religious theory.

Mr. MEDCALF is, as usual, a candidate for the Mayoralty. He is determined to stand on the strength of his toes which are said to be square. He has carefully put away last year's salary in City Debentures—so it is said. He has distributed none of it in charity—so it is said. He has filled the chair with dignity, urbanity, insanity and humanity—so it is said. He has got up a gorgeous new gown which he keeps for dining in at Lord Mayor's festival and he intends to present it to his successor—so it is said.

THE MAYORALTY!YOUR VOTE AND INFLUENCE

At the coming Election, are kindly Requested for

ANGUS MORRISON.

The Election takes place on Monday, 3rd
January, 1876.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN.New Year's Calling Cards*COMIC STYLESWith Name Neatly Printed*

75c PER PACKAGE

AT

GRIP Office, 20 Adelaide Street.BEATTY'S CELEBRATED
'Golden Tongue'

PARLOR ORGANS are ranked by eminent musicians as the leading organ now in use. For the Church, Sabbath School, Lodge or Parlor, they have no superior throughout the world. We challenge any manufacturer to equal them for sweetness and volume of tone.
Where we have no agents we will allow any one wishing to buy the agent's discount. Agents wanted everywhere.
Send stamp for list of testimonials and circular of this wonderful music-producing instrument. Address, DAN-

IEL F. BEATTY, Washington, N. J.CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT.

Ottawa, April 9, 1875.

AUTHORIZED DISCOUNT ON
American invoices until further notice, 12 per cent.

J. JOHNSON,
Commissioner of Customs.

v-64f

ALL KINDS OF

PRINTING,
NEATLY,*CHEAPLY,*QUICKLY,

EXECUTED AT

"GRIP" OFFICE,

20 Adelaide Street East.

READ THIS.TRIUMPHANT AT LAST!!*RIEL & CO.,

CITY

BILL POSTERS,Cor. King & Bay St's,

UP STAIRS,

Have Succeeded in Securing

The Best Posting Places

IN THE CITY,

AND

Do Work Better & Cheaper

THAN ANY OTHER.

USE THE

DIAMOND YEAST

CAKE.

AMHERSTBURG!

To be Sold on the Ordnance Reserve, (formerly Asylum Grounds.)

ON TUESDAY, 23rd NOVEMBER.

will be offered by public auction, at Amherstburg, a number of village and building lots, laid off on the above Reserve, many fronting on the River Detroit, and all being well and healthily situated, as shown on a plan made by
L. Wilkinson, P.L.S., on view in the hands of Botsford &
McCie, Auctioneers, Amherstburg.

The terms of sale are, one tenth of the purchase money in cash on the day of sale, and the balance in nine annual instalments, with interest at 6 per cent.

The lots and buildings thereon will be sold together

Further particulars at the time of sale.

By order of the Hon. the Minister of the Interior.

E. A. MEREDITH,

Deputy of the Minister
of the Interior.

WILLIAM F. COFFIN,
Commissioner of Ordnance
and Admiralty Lands.

Ottawa, 3rd November, 1875.

HAND-IN-HAND

MUTUAL

FIRE INSURANCE

COMPANY.

Financial Statement for the Year
ending Dec. 31, 1874.

REVENUE.

Cash Premiums and Interest $25,486 13
DISBURSEMENTS.

Claims under Policies paid $8,348 95

Claim Appropriation for Losses resisted

and waiting proof 750 00

Agents, Commission, Salaries, Direc-

tors Fees, Office Rent, &c. 6,192 73

Scrip Appropriation to Policy-holders

of 1874, on deposit in Royal Cana-

dian Bank, being forty per cent. 10,194 45

..... $25,486 13

W. H. HOWLAND, President.

HUGH SCOTT, Manager & Sec'y.

Audited and found correct.

ERNEST G. PULFORD, } Auditors.

GEO. J. MAULSON, }

Rates accepted on all Descriptions of Insurable Property.

Rates fixed with regard to the Laws of Average. All the

Profits divided among Policy-holders annually.

Head Office:

Ontario Hall, Church Street, Toronto.SCOTT & WALMSLEY,*General Agents.

Corner Jarvis & Adelaide Sts.,

TORONTO, ONT.

JOHN D. NASMITH,*Manufacturer ofBREAD, ROLLS, BUNS, CAKES, &c., &c.,

A superior article of Bread delivered daily throughout
the city.

BEATTY'S CHURCH, SAB-HALL, LODGE, OFFICE CABINET ORGANS.Best in use. Send stamp for circular. Address, DAN-*IEL F. BEATTY, Washington, N.J.*BEATTY PIANO.

GRAND SQUARE & UPRIGHT. Agents
Wanted Everywhere. Address,

DANIEL F. BEATTY,

Washington, N. J.

BEATTY PIANO!

Grand Square and Upright.

"These Pianos are the finest in the world as regards tone and excellence."—Huntingdon, [Tenn.] Republican.

"The Beatty Piano is pronounced by all, the sweetest toned instrument manufactured."—Gettysburg [Pa.]
Century.

"The Beatty Pianos, Grand, Square and Upright, are remarkable for their beauty and finish, as well as for sweetness and volume of tone."—Middleton, [N. Y.]
Mercury.

"Mr. Beatty is a responsible business man."—Washington [N. J.] Star.

Agents wanted everywhere. Send stamp for catalogue.

Address, DANIEL F. BEATTY, Washing- ton, New Jersey.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE.

Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, No. 20 Adelaide Street, East.

Subscription price, $2 per annum; single copies 5 cents. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied.

Advertisements and subscriptions received at the office, to which all communications should be addressed.

GEORGE BENGOUGH,
Business Manager,
No. 20 Adelaide St., Toronto.

FOR SALE.

Horse, Phaeton,
AND HARNESS.

The horse is kind, gentle, and a good traveller. The whole will be sold CHEAP FOR CASH.

Apply at
"GRIP" OFFICE,
20 Adelaide St. East.

RE-ISSUE
OF GRIP CARTOONS

BOUND VOLUMES
Are Now Ready.

Coloured Cloth with Gilt Title, specially designed by J. W. Bengough.

Price, Cloth Gilt centre, $3.50,
full Gilt, $7.50.

GEO. BENGOUGH,
Manager "Grip."
20 Adelaide Street East.

JUST TO HAND

Samples of
FANCY CARDS

AND
ORDERS OF DANCING.

Prices on application at
"GRIP" OFFICE
20 Adelaide Street.

WANTED.

Back Numbers of GRIP.
OL. I. Nos. 10, 11, 13, 14, 19, 21.
OL. III., No. 7.
OL. IV., No. 5.

Persons having any of the above will oblige by communicating with GRIP Office, 20 Adelaide Street.

VICTORIA
PHOTOGRAPHIC
GALLERY,

36 Queen St. West, Toronto.

J. Hansford, Prop.

Scarth, Cochran & Co.
STOCK BROKERS,
Members of the Stock Exchange.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS,
Toronto Street, Toronto.

A. R. SCARTH. R. COCHRAN.
Services:—J. Stevenson, Quebec and Dominion Bank, Toronto

GALVANIC BELTS, BANDS, AND INSOLES,

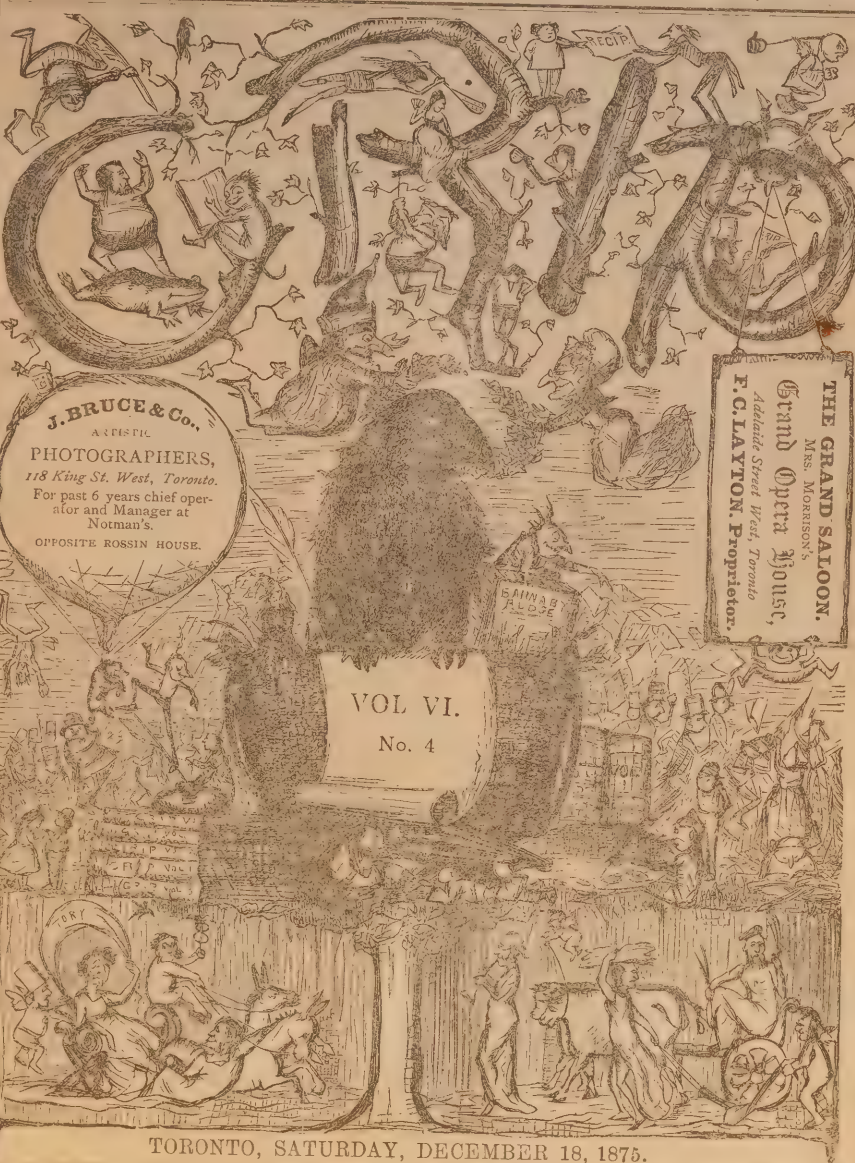

Are the Best Known Remedy for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Sprains, Bruises, &c.

SEND FOR CIRCULAR TO A. NORMAN, 118 KING STREET WEST, TORONTO.

PHYSICIAN HEAL THYSELF.

NEPENTHE BITTERS are a Positive Cure for Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Nervous Debility, Sick Headache, and Bowel Complaint. Price One Dollar. Small Bottles 50c.

A. NORMAN, 118 KING STREET WEST, TORONTO.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1875.

GRIP OFFICE,
20 ADELAIDE ST.

*The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.*

5 CTS. EACH.
$2 PER ANNUM.

In the matter of Life Insurance interests the "Union Mutual" is among the best Companies doing business in Canada. Last year this Company increased the amount previously at risk by $1,100,000, being larger than any other Company local or foreign doing business in the country, and whilst other Companies may show a larger business for the year still the true test is the Balance between the figures at the Beginning and the Ending of the year, and judged from this stand-point, this old and progressive Company has taken the lead of all competitors.---KINGSTON DAILY NEWS.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach GRIP office not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

CONTRIBUTIONS, when accepted, will for the present, be paid for at rate of Two DOLLARS per column. All articles for which payment is expected must be accompanied by the name and address of the author.

A. FOX.

Yorkville Boot & Shoe Mart.

GENTS', LADIES' AND MISSES
SHOES OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

Special attention given to measurement.

Cheeseworth & Fraser
Merchant

TAILORS,

Beg to inform their Patrons and Friends, and the Public Generally that their FALL and WINTER STOCK is now Complete; which Comprises a well Selected Assortment of

NEW GOODS.
219 YONGE STREET.
TORONTO.

John S. Grassick & Co.

FAMILY GROCERS,

WINE AND SPIRIT
MERCHANTS,

167 Yonge St. Toronto.

W. P. Williams,

134 Queen St. East, Toronto,
[Between George & Sherbourne,]

DEALER IN
PURE CONFECTIONERY
AND
CHOICE FRUITS.

A select supply of Canned Fruit,
Fish, &c., always on hand.

THE CITY LAUNDRY
AND

Gents' Furnishing Store.
COR. BAY AND ADELAIDE STS.
PERFECT FITTING SHIRTS
MADE TO ORDER.

All Laundry work well and promptly executed.

WILLIAM LEE & Co.

LITHOGRAPHY.

If you want your
BILLHEADS,
CARDS, NOTES,
DRAFTS, &c.

DONE IN
First Class Style,
At moderate figures, go to
G. J. GEBHARDT & Co.
113 ADELAIDE STREET EAST.

R. G. TROTTER,
DENTIST,

53 KING STREET EAST. - TORONTO.

Nitrous Oxide Gas administered for the painless extraction of teeth.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGIF.

The grabeast Beast is the Ass; the grabeast Bird is the Owl;
The grabeast Fish is the Oyster; the grabeast Man is the fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 18TH, 1875.

From our Box.

THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—MR. EDWIN ADAMS takes his benefit to-night (Friday) in Enoch Arden. He is a good actor and this is his finest role. The Laureate has himself recognized the great merit of Mr. ADAM'S representation of the heroism immortalized in his beautiful poem.

On Monday amateurs of the Toronto Cricket Club will present "The Pride of the Market," with the assistance of Mrs. MORRISON and Miss MARY DAVENPORT. In the second innings a leg-hit-itimate drama called "Bowl Him Out" will be played. Some capital hits, stump-speeches, and effective bye-play may be anticipated. Swiping however will not be countenanced. Lovers of point (or cover-point for that matter) in the cricket field, or behind the footlights should not fail to be present.

THE Royal Opera House is again open with the 'Overland Route' as a trial piece. Mr. FYFFE as Dexter shows little dexterity for such a part. We commend to his attention a properly accentuated geography, that his mispronunciation of Indian names may no longer injure our ears. Likewise that Sir Sydney Smith was more famed for heroic deeds than witty sayings. Mr. DEGRAT would also do well to remember that aged British diplomatists do not affect the Dundreary goose step introduced by Mr. SOTHERN. Miss DOLLY BIDWELL, bids well to be a favorite if she would restrain her vivacity in the part of Mrs. Seabright. Mr. BELVILLE RYAN'S M. Lovibond was an excellent piece of comic acting. Miss VIOLET CAMPBELL has evident capacity, and performed the part of Mrs. Lovibond remarkably well. The piece was well put on, the scenic effects of the second act being particularly good. The orchestra rendered not a few hideous by their inharmonious strains.

Twin Pictures.

Drawn with a raven's quill by our special artist.

THE HON. J. B. LOVE EASE.

WHY this amiable and eminently unpractical gentleman should forsake his home comforts, his easily managed business, and his Samia cronies, to encounter the hurly-burly of the Ontario Legislature, is one of those things that no fellow can tell. Why should he vex his soul with things he neither knows nor cares anything about? Would not the Government be able to worry out a precarious existence without his presence at the Council Board? And it is said that he would willingly forego the sweets of office, did not his colleagues fear that the starting of even so slight a rivet would loosen the bands that bind them to power. Perchance the dread of fleeing from ills they have to others that they know not of, may influence them in continuing their convulsive grasp upon the honorable and unwilling sharer of their councils. So he still slumbers nightly in his chair, or airs his genial humours in the lobbies. But because he is thus faincant and indolent, it must not be supposed that he possesses no moral force or strength of character. On the contrary, were he allied to men of energy and will,—were he allowed the strength of his opinions,—had he not been subdued into a 'laissez faire' idleness by the wavering policy of the administration,—he possesses strength of convictions, and soundness of principle, that would have rendered him an able and patriotic minister. He has leanings towards nationalism which he dare not discover;—he abhors party in his inmost heart, and longs for the downfall of the Dictatorship;—his honesty revolts at the quibbles and petty dishonesties that the exigencies of the Government force him to countenance;—and from his inmost soul he hates the bother and complications that harass the holders of office. Personally he is genial, good-tempered and somnolent. The only draw-back to his complete social enjoyment, is the recollection that his worthy father was a teetotaler. He prefers a snug party with their knees under the Speaker's mahogany, to the clatter of contending politicians in the House. If a bill could be introduced to abolish meetings of Parliament he would be completely happy, and would do his half-hour-a-day office work, and feel that he was discharging the whole duty of man. He wears a hat brush under his chin, shews his teeth when he smiles, and has a penchant for his old clothes. It is a matter of surprise that he does not wear slippers and a dressing gown, and introduce a canoe couch (damask into the Legislative Chambers for his greater convenience and comfort. He likes ease.

W. R. MERIT—IT, M.P.P.

It is only a question of time as to the prefix of "Honourable" to the name of this gentleman as a title—not as an indication of character. Possessing advanced ideas, and a fair power of giving them expression, he is Conservative only by birth and prejudice, Liberal in all else. His dislike to appear conspicuous, and anxiety to avoid disagreeableness, check him in many differences of opinion with his narrow-minded leader; and he allows himself to be misconstrued rather than appear quarrelsome or factious. With these idiosyncracies, his parliamentary career is characterized with more of the 'laissez faire' than is consistent with his true character. Were he to exert his strength, and test his standing in the House, he would be surprised to find that he ranks second to none in his reputation for sound sense and ability, and would be more popular as a leader than his present chief or his Lieutenant. Certain it is, that he ranks third upon the opposition benches, and possesses that great merit for a leader—a clear record. Of prepossessing personal appearance, and shewing indisputable marks of education and refinement, he is a great favourite with the Ladies Gallery, and frequently relieved the tedium of a wearisome debate by his pranks with the late member for Frontenac's spectacles. His appearance is gentlemanly, and his clothes are made for him. Without affecting the dandyism of the member for South Brant, he is sufficiently particular to shew that he is a man of society and savoir faire. For the rest, his history is still to come; and with the position he has achieved at his age, it should be that of a man of mark.

Nonsense Verse.

There was a young man of Port Hope,
Who with a sweet girl did elope,
But his father was wroth,
And kerwolloped that broth
Of a boy, with the end of a rope.

The Traveller in New Brunswick.

DEAR GRIP,

In compliance with your commands, and with an eye to future remittances, I proceed to tell you all about St. John.

MR. MACKENZIE was here lately and told the inhabitants all about everything else, and it is but fair to tell all about them in return.

There are several different ways of getting here, partly depending on where you come from. You can come by sea or by land, and you might come in a balloon, but this is an uncertain class of conveyance, and you had better not. The approach by sea is on the main, rocky. It is also exceedingly rocky on the Maine.

The early history of St. John goes back to remote antiquity. It's dark ages were enlightened at times by the burning of the entire settlement. This occurred so frequently that the insurance offices grew suspicious, and it was discovered to be the result of a put up job between the Mic Mac Indians and the local architects. This is the shupie savage perverted by the duplicity of civilization. You will not find this account in the ordinary histories. I had it from the agent of an American insurance company.

This is an excellent place of residence for people who don't want to be bothered with visitors. The names of the streets are generally carefully concealed, and the same wariness also appears in the majority of the houses not being numbered. This is said to be a relic of the old days when the Indians made frequent incursions. It gave you a chance of escaping the vengeance of an offended chief, who might mistake the house and scalp your neighbour.

The scenery of the harbour is very interesting. With a few trifling alterations it would pass for the Bay of Naples. But the Torontonian visitor will revert with pride to thoughts of his much loved marsh and the newly-planted trees on the Island. St. John has nothing to compare with these. The rocky gorge known as the Falls through which the river St. John enters the harbour cannot compare in placid beauty, and certainly not in richness of odor, with the well built piers which conduct the pellucid Don into Toronto's delightful Bay.

The inhabitants of St. John are singularly undemonstrative. I understand that the present Mayor enjoys great popularity, but I cannot learn that such endearing epithets as "Old Square Toes" and others, which Toronto's impulsive sons have bestowed on their chief magistrate are ever applied to him. Do not think I am telling a traveller's tale when I say that these people seem to have some ideas of respect for his office. They have, I fear, but a small sense of humour and don't get the fun they ought to out of their civic dignitaries.

There is a Globe here, but no GEORGE BROWN to run it. Fancy two Globes in one Dominion—you can hardly do that—but at once recognize the wisdom which prevented the co-existence of two BROWNS. Yet in Halifax there was lately another GEORGE BROWN, now no more. I have not heard of his making any big push, but at a big pull he was said to be unequalled.

Economy is an admirable thing—especially in public affairs. Perhaps the most remarkable instance of it I have met with yet was on board the steamboat which brought me to these shores. The sea was extremely calm and two seedy looking individuals were discoursing on deck. One remarked on the calmness of the weather adding "I wish it had been rough, I'd have been sick and it wouldn't have cost me anything for grub." "That's just it with me," said his companion. Which proves that it is an ill wind which blows nobody good, even in case of a storm at sea.

THE MINISTERIAL SHANTY;

OR, THE CAUCHON AT HOME.

What is the fashionable crime in Toronto now? I suppose violent assaults are getting out of date. Here I believe forgery to be the chief amusement of aristocratic circles. I tried my best imitation of your autograph to-day at several bankers, but they declined to negotiate it at any price. They are ignorant people. Some of them don't know who MCKELLAR was and never heard of the Quartette.

At the Speaker's Elbow.

Friday, Dec. 10.

THE Select Committee appointed to revise the Rules and Regulations of the House presented their report, the principal changes suggested being as follows;—

I.—REGULATION AND MANAGEMENT OF THE HOUSE.

In order that the speaker may preserve due Order and Decorum and have his head sufficiently well-balanced to be able at any moment to decide questions of Order; he shall wear pumps and part his hair in the centre. In the event of a Speaker having a bald head, he need not comply with the latter portion of this regulation, unless five members of the House insist upon it.

Not less than five members of the House must "see strangers present" before the Speaker is permitted to be conscious of the fact. Should the Speaker happen to be a bachelor, he may betray a consciousness of pretty girls in the gallery, even although five members have not called his attention to the fact.

When a debate is protracted to the "wee sma' hours," the Sergeant-at-arms shall keep his eye upon the Reporters' Gallery, and when he finds it getting empty he shall signal the fact to the Attorney-General, who shall thereupon move the adjournment.

II.—RULES OF DEBATE.

Any member having anything to say upon the subject before the House is at liberty to say it. Any member having nothing to say is requested to be as brief as possible. Any member having something to say upon every subject but the one before the House shall be requested to speak to the motion.

The member for East Grey shall not introduce the Proton Outrage. Any allusion to "little Mrs. ——" shall be held to be unparliamentary.

III.—CONDUCT OF MEMBERS.

Every member is bound to attend the House. Loafing in the smoking room counts as attendance. Members wearing rowdy hats are at liberty to pull them down over their eyes a la BLAKE, Hon. Mr. FRASER and Mr. MCKEDITH not having a monopoly of the fashion.

IV.—BUSINESS OF THE HOUSE.

An important part of the Business of the House is, to put in the full thirty days so as to secure the largest possible sessional allowance.

Monday, Dec. 13.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

DR. CLARKE (Norfolk).—An Act to abolish whiskey, and to convert Whiskey-mills into Drug Stores.

Hon. Mr. FRASER.—An Act to provide for JERRY M—RR—K and other proteges of the Catholic League.

MR. LAUDER.—An Act respecting the building of fences around Public Buildings.

MR. HODGINS.—An Act to make it compulsory upon every Reform candidate for the Legislature to be provided with a license, and appointing Hon. GEORGE BROWN to be the sole issuer of such licenses.

Tuesday, Dec. 14.

SUPPLY.

On the item of $56,696 being voted for "Hospitals and Charities," some objections were made to Roman Catholic institutions receiving more aid than Protestant ones. On this point Mr. SINCLAIR made some sensible remarks. He said that so long as the government bestowed grants upon denominational institutions, so long would the government be accused of making an unfair distribution. He would have the Executive reconsider the matter, and only support unsectarian charities. GRIP thinks so too. If denominations get the credit of supporting charities, let them supply the wherewithal.

MAMMOTH PETITIONS.

The ladies of Ontario have been inundating the House with temperance petitions. The total length of those presented to-day was between four and five hundred feet. If the Bill based on these petitions be at all proportionate in length, it will be "carried" with extreme difficulty.

The Lion and the Lawyer.

A FABLE.

It chanced that an attorney, reflecting on his misdeeds in an unfrequented place, was so overcome with the weariness of the task that he fell into a deep slumber.

Suddenly starting therefrom he was annoyed to find himself in the presence of a majestic Lion, who had been playfully rubbing his paw to and fro over the sleeper's bald head.

"Hope I see you well," said the King of Beasts, with that genial affability which is so charming in great people.

"Perfectly," said the Lawyer, thinking that if he had seen him less perfectly, he would have been equally pleased.

"A representative of the law, I presume?" said the Lion inquiringly.

"Yes," said the Lawyer, forgetting in his confusion that no man is compelled to criminate himself.

"My own name is Equity," said the noble beast carelessly, "I occasionally rattle up the dry bones of the law."

The man of law felt his own bones rattle at the terrible suggestion. He muttered something in which the words "to be hence dismissed with costs," and "the plaintiff will ever pray" were alone audible.

"Don't talk about 'forever preying,'" said the Lion with a frown, "it isn't polite."

"Equity does not favour sleepers," continued the Lion, drily, after an awkward pause.

"That is true," replied the Lawyer, who had by this time recovered his self-possession, "but there is another maxim which you will of course respect. Equity imputes an intention to fulfil an obligation. You will excuse me therefore if I hasten to keep a most important appointment."

And he started to go.

"All right," said the Lion, smiling, having now quite regained his good temper. "There is another maxim I am bound by. Equity follows the Law."

And he followed him.

"You will find" suggested the Lawyer hastily, "that all that sort of thing is altered by Mr. MOWAT's 'Act.'"

"Hang Mr. MOWAT's Act," replied the monarch of the forest, justly indignant at such petty quibbling, "In future the rule will read thus: Equity swallows the Law."

He then swallowed the Attorney with many expressions of satisfaction.

MORAL.

This fable forcibly illustrates the probable result of the confusion of Law and Equity.

Croaks and Pecks.

GOING THE WHOLE HOG.—Taking a 'Co chon' into the Dominion Cabinet.

HAVING A BULLY TIME.—Senators BROWN and CHRISTIE at the Short Horn Convention.

QUESTION FOR DIPLOMATS.—When Britain bought the Suez Canal, did she buy the Egyptian canaille?

A XMAS DINNER FOR EUROPEAN GOURMETS.—Turkey and Sublime Port(e). The gobbler will be gobbled.

CAVE!!—The Right Hon. Mr. CAVE goes to Egypt to investigate into the Egyptian Loan. The name is significant.

QUERY FOR THE DRY GOODS.—Is the latest importation of "Boss TWEED" a prison-spun "yarn," or is it merely "all stuff."

SOLVING THE WATER-WORKS DIFFICULTY.—Make Ald. BAXTER a Commissioner and let him sit on the pipe—that would keep it down.

PUTTING ON THE BRAKES.—Fearing he should not be able to ride through the next Session of the Dominion Legislature, Mr. MACKENZIE has put a Coach-on to run the Council through as many Acts of Parliament as possible. As the road is down hill the Premier probably thought a drag would be useful. He may find he has purchased a pig in a poke, dear at any price.

GRAIN REGULATIONS.—It is evident that W. H. H—W—L—D has been in New York. The associated press despatch of the 14th states that "No 1 Canada (evidently meaning "Canada First") shall be plump, sound, and well cleaned. No 2 Canada (evidently Grits and Tories) shall be known as "stained," instead of "slightly stained." Have the New Yorkers only just heard of "Big push" and "Pacific Scandal."

GRAND Complimentary Benefit

TO

BENGOUGH!

THE POPULAR CARICATURIST OF
"GRIP." ATShaftesbury Hall, Tuesday Evening,
28th December,

When that Favorite Entertainer will deliver his

NEW AND ORIGINAL COMIC LECTURE!

And Illustrate the same with

CRAYON DRAWINGS OF LOCAL PUBLIC MEN.

THE MAYORALTY!

YOUR VOTE AND INFLUENCE

At the coming Election, are kindly Requested for

ANGUS MORRISON.

The Election takes place on Monday, 3rd
January, 1876.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN.

TO THE ELECTORS

OF THE

WARD OF SAINT GEORGE,

GENTLEMEN:

Having been requested to offer myself for election as one of your representatives in the City Council, I place my services at your disposal. Should you elect me to the honourable position of an Alderman, I will serve the city to the best of my ability, watching closely over the expenditure to see if some better system cannot be devised than that which fritters away your money in patches of improvement spread over the several wards, instead of husbanding your resources to make permanent improvements where these are called for most. While cheerfully responding to your call, I must ask to be relieved from the necessity of making a personal canvass of the electors. As I have no object of my own to serve in going into the Council, I must leave it to you to say by your votes whether my services are desirable or otherwise. In either case I am, gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

H. E. CLARKE.

ALL KINDS OF

PRINTING, NEATLY,

CHEAPLY,

QUICKLY,

EXECUTED AT

"GRIP" OFFICE,

20 Adelaide Street East.

BOY WANTED.

MUST be smart, intelligent, and a good writer. Testimonials required as to character.

Apply at "GRIP" Office,

20 Adelaide Street East.

NOW OPEN!

CALEDONIAN AND SKATING & CURLING RINK.

Mutual Street. Between Shuter and Crookshank Streets.

DIRECTORS:

Ald. RITCHIE, President.

R. H. RAMSAY, Vice. President.

James Pringle, W. D. McIntosh, George Morgan, Robert Malcolm, Hugh Miller, James Rennie.

FEES, ETC.:

Curier's fee, for season 1875-6.....	$5 00
do and family skating ticket.....	7 00
Skating—family season ticket.....	5 00
do Gentleman's do.....	3 00
do Lady's do.....	2 00
do Child's (under 12 years) do.....	2 00

SINGLE ADMISSION, 10 CENTS.

Season tickets can now be procured at the Secretary's office.

WM. RENNIE, Sec.-Treas.

Office—Corner Adelaide and Jarvis sts.

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT.

Ottawa, April 9, 1875.

AUTHORIZED DISCOUNT ON

American invoices until further notice, 12 per cent.

I. JOHNSON,
Commissioner of Customs.

v-6-1f

New Year's Calling Cards COMIC STYLES

With Name Neatly Printed

75c PER PACKAGE

AT

GRIP Office, 20 Adelaide Street.

BEATTY'S CELEBRATED 'Golden Tongue'

PARLOR ORGANS are ranked by eminent musicians as the leading organ now in use. For the Church, Sabbath School, Lodge or Parlor they have no superior throughout the world. We challenge any manufacturer to equal them for sweetness and volume of tone. Where we have no agents we will allow any one wishing to buy the agent's discount. Agents wanted everywhere. Send stamp for list of testimonials and circular of this wonderful music-producing instrument. Address. DAN-

IEL F. BEATTY, Washington, N. J.

HAND-IN-HAND

MUTUAL

FIRE INSURANCE

COMPANY.

Financial Statement for the Year
ending Dec. 31, 1874.

REVENUE.

Cash Premiums and Interest $25,486 13
DISBURSEMENTS.

Claims under Policies paid..... $8,348 95

Claim Appropriation for Losses resisted..... 750 00

Agents, Commission, Salaries, Directors Fees, Office Rent, &c..... 6,192 73

Scrip Appropriation to Policy-holders

of 1874, on deposit in Royal Canadian Bank, being forty per cent. 10,194 45

..... $25,486 13

W. H. HOWLAND, President.

HUGH SCOTT, Manager & Sec'y.

Audited and found correct.

ERNEST G. PULFORD, } Auditors.

GEO. J. MAULSON, }

Risks accepted on all Descriptions of Insurable Property.

Rates fixed with regard to the Laws of Average. All the

Profits divided among Policy-holders annually.

Head Office:

Ontario Hall, Church Street, Toronto.

SCOTT & WALMSLEY,

General Agents.

Corner Jarvis & Adelaide Sts.,

TORONTO, ONT.

JOHN D. NASMITH,

Manufacturer of

BREAD, ROLLS, BUNS, CAKES, &c., &c.,

A superior article of Bread delivered daily throughout the city.

BEATTY'S CHURCH, SABbath School.

HALL, LODGE, OFFICE CABINET ORGANS.

Best in use. Send stamp for circular. Address. DAN-

IEL F. BEATTY, Washington, N. J.

BEATTY PIANO.

GRAND SQUARE & UPRIGHT. 237 Agents
Wanted Everywhere. Address,

DANIEL F. BEATTY.

Washington, N. J.

BEATTY PIANO!

Grand Square and Upright.

"These Pianos are the finest in the world as regards tone and excellence.—Huntingdon, [Tenn.] Republican.
"The Beatty Piano is pronounced by all, the sweetest toned instrument manufactured."—Gettysburg, Pa. Century.

"The Beatty Pianos, Grand, Square and Upright, are remarkable for their beauty and finish, as well as for sweetness and volume of tone."—Middleton, [N. Y. Mercury.

"Mr. Beatty is a responsible business man."—Washington [N. J.] Star.

Agents wanted everywhere. Send stamp for catalogue. Address, DANIEL F. BEATTY, Washington, New Jersey.

FAHEY BROS. ARE NOW SHOWING THEIR NEW DRESS GOODS IN ALL THE NEWEST SHADES

PUBLISHER'S NOTE

Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, No. 20 Adelaide Street. East.

Subscription price, $2 per annum; single copies 5 cents. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied.

G. COLEMAN,

Pastry Cook

—AND—

CONFECTIONER,

111 KING ST. WEST,

TORONTO.

Tea, Coffee, Oysters,

&c. at all hours.

TORONTO STEAM

LAUNDRY.

Best Lace Curtains gotten up in a Superior manner.

Office,

65 KING ST. WEST.

GORRELL,

CRAIG

& Co.,

LITHOGRAPHERS

13

ADELAIDE ST.

EAST.

COPY YOUR LETTERS

Orders and all Legal Documents,

Without Press, Brush or Water

INSTANTLY, with the Patent Self Copying Book and Ink.

PRICE $2.

Drake & Co.,

137 Yonge Street,

Toronto. P. O. Box 815.

John S. Grassick & Co.

FAMILY GROCERS,

WINE AND SPIRIT

MERCHANTS,

167 Yonge St. Toronto.

W. PHELPS,

DENTAL SURGEON,

Cor. Yonge and Queen
Sts., Toronto

JUST TO HAND

Samples of

FANCY CARDS

AND

ORDERS OF DANCING.

Prices on application at

Grip Office

20 Adelaide Street.

ALPHONSE RAFFICNON,

PASTRY - COOK, Wholesale and Retail

MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN CONFECTIONERY,

107 KING STREET WEST, TORONTO, ONT.

Oysters, Fruits, Pastry, etc., on hand during the Season.

LUNCH SERVED. TEA, COFFEE AND MEATS AT ALL HOURS.

Grip Office,
20 ADELAIDE ST.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

5 CTS. EACH.
$2 PER ANNUM.

By Telegraph From Philadelphia.

TO THE SINGER MFG CO., TORONTO.

The world renowned Singer carries off the highest honor which the Centennial Commission could give to any competitor at this fair. Two Medals of Merit, two Diplomas of Honor, and the special commendation of the judges have been awarded to The Singer Manufacturing Company, for Superior Sewing Machines.

TORONTO OFFICE, 22 Toronto St.,

R. C. HICKOK, Manager.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach Grip office not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, Grip office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

THE
MAYORALTY

Your Vote and Interest

are kindly requested for the re-election of

ANGUS MORRISON
As Mayor.

The Nomination takes place on Friday, December 22nd, 1876, and the Voting on Monday, January 1st, 1877.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN

J. Gordon Sherriff,
MERCHANT

TAILOR.

96 QUEEN ST. WEST,

(LATE 49 KING ST.)

Gents own material made up in good style.

W. BREALEY,

ANATOMICAL BOOT MAKER

171 YONGE ST.,

A select stock of Boots & Shoes always on hand.

WRICHT'S

Shell, Can, Count and Bulk Oysters Received Daily. Oysters served in every style. Fruits in season.

101 King Street West

The most elegant Oyster Parlors in Toronto

"When could November's surly blast lays field and forest bare."

It is about time my dear friend, you were finding comfort in a suit of those

WARM & STYLISH FALL AND WINTER GOODS,
Just received.

CHESEWORTH & FRASER

United Empire Club, King Street west.

W P. Williams,

134 Queen St. East, Toronto,

[Between George & Sherbourne,]

DEALER IN

PURE CONFECTIONERY

AND

CHOICE FRUITS.

A select supply of Canned Fruit, Fish, &c., always on hand.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabest Beast is the Ass; the grabest Bird is the Owl.
The grabest Fish is the Oyster. the grabest Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, 23RD DECEMBER, 1876.

Christmas.

CHRISTMAS is come again, with full force of griping frost, heaping snow, and driving wind. GRIP is jovial; he is happy; he wishes happy returns to that portion of the world's population gifted with reason (his subscribers) and as for the rest, who are probably only endowed with instinct, he charitably wishes them happy returns too—and better sense. GRIP does not preach sermons; but he has a little homily to read which folks will remember, and thank him for, if they use. Most people here are, in one way or another, at this time, better prepared with food, fuel, and comforts and amusements of various sorts, to enjoy themselves for a few days than at any other season of the year. Now what GRIP would say is, for once—enjoy them. Look at the bright side of all as it passes; keep the dark determinedly out of vision. Try it for a week, and it may be the happiest Christmas you have ever spent. And by the way, there really is nothing more likely to lengthen life and thereby give a succession of Christmases than a regular perusal of GRIP's invaluable paper. All who have forgotten will be good enough to forward subscriptions and names at once. Think how short life is, and what you are losing.

The Bankers of the Day.

Scene in parlour of the Bank of Credulity.

1ST OFFICIAL.—I suppose those city debentures are all on-hand and correct? Billiards to-night, eh? JONES'S?

2ND OFFICIAL.—No; shan't go; good thing at the theatres. Debentures?—oh, no doubt.

1ST OFFICIAL.—Give up play myself soon—shut off—cool down—all that. By the by, which clerk has 'em in charge?

2ND OFFICIAL.—Which?—oh,—ah—let me think—let me see—oh, young FLYAWAY. He says they're all right. Asked him, now I remember, two or three times. See that young mare of his?

1ST OFFICIAL.—No, what's it like? Oh! those securities, though; should be all right, you know; easily disposed of, very.

2ND OFFICIAL.—Like? 2.10 anyway. No need to check those papers all the while, though, eh?

1ST OFFICIAL.—No, no. We are gentlemen, I hope. (Enter Mr. FLYAWAY) Oh, I say, those city debentures—We ought to check them sometimes—all right, I suppose?

Mr. FLYAWAY.—All right; counted up total yesterday. Couldn't you both come over to dinner to-day? I've a fresh hamper of champagne—the real article this time—saw importer's invoice myself.

1ST OFFICIAL.—I am sure we will both be most happy. By the by, as you check the wine merchant's papers let's just check yours. Fetch along that debenture box.

Mr. FLYAWAY.—Oh, bother! what's the use of unnecessary trouble?

2ND OFFICIAL.—No trouble; ought to do it sometimes, you know; let's do it for once.

Mr. FLYAWAY.—Oh, but then, they're not all there you see.

1ST AND 2ND OFFICIALS.—Not there? good heavens!—you said you counted them yesterday!

Mr. FLYAWAY.—Why, surely, gentlemen, your banking experience must have rendered you aware that in financial statements mental reservations are unavoidable. I remarked that I counted the total; as I did—present and absent.

BOTH OFFICIALS.—But—what?—surely—you have them somewhere!

Mr. FLYAWAY.—Well, not exactly; used them as collateral in exchange business—happened to be short, and of course they went. Probably be long next time, make all square. Must go. You'll be on hand at seven?

1ST OFFICIAL.—Bless my soul! Never could have thought—Stay, FLYAWAY (opens window and beckons). Is it possible you are not aware of the nature of your admissions? (Enter policeman). Take that gentleman in charge; case of embezzlement.

Mr. FLYAWAY.—You are really acting in a most ridiculous manner. What can you charge me with? Using funds placed in my charge for purposes of speculation not contemplated by those who entrusted them to me? Why, does not our institution do the same thing every time it operates in the New York market? If right for them, how can it be wrong for me?

1ST OFFICIAL.—Ah, can't say. Most painful thing; can't help it; know this, have to give you in charge, regular thing; very sorry.

(Officer advances with handcuffs; scene closes.)

A Toronto Man's Lament.

Oh, for a tune, ye music murdering bells,
Grating the nerves with your discordant swells,
I'm sure, indeed, war whoops and Indian yells
As tuneful are!
We had been blest it when the moulders tried
To cast those bells, they had been cast aside;
Or that some freak had made them all tongue tied,
"Twere better far!

Oh, for the strains of PATTI, REEVES, or VERDI,
Or in some grove to list to some sweet birdie;
We'd rather a French fiddle or "Hurdy Gurdy," Squeaking their notes;
Compared with them are not among life's ills—
Nay we could hear with less of horrid thrills—
The long eared cattle on a thousand hills—
Clearing their throats.

Music hath charms the savage to appease,
E'en some town bell(e)s possess the charm to please,
Alas! it is not in such bells as these
We pleasure take;
Had they been sweet of tone, I will be bound
Some crack or flaw had in them soon been found,
But now too well we know they are "all sound,"
And no mistake!

Equestrians pay their toll-gate tax, poor souls,
Where'er horse trots or lumbering waggon rolls;
If they'd but tax the bellman for his tolls
(Save those for dinners)
It might some useful moral teach,
To those who equal rights profess to preach,
And bring sweet peace at last within the reach
Of us poor sinners!

We have made arrangements with a first-class poet to render GEO. BROWN'S affidavit. It will sound better in-verse-ly than any other way. It may be suggested that it will be very blank verse indeed, as it contains neither "rhyme nor reason." We don't know about that, but WILKINSON'S remarks on hearing it read would be represented by blanks in all good newspapers.

Grip on the Municipal Election.

The people of Toronto owe a debt to their present Council—a heavy debt—something near a million in fact. Mr. SOUTHEY said the national debt was part of the national property; and looking at it in that light, our city fathers have increased our property amazingly. They have done more. Night after night—day after day—have they toiled with unremitting ardour. They have done twice the work for us they needed to. Determined to work, they have built markets nobody asked for, made roads nobody travels on, dug sewers everywhere they could have been done without, put lamps wherever nobody walks of evenings, made macadamized roads with sand of the purest description, laid concrete pavements which will come out all right in the spring (for the next contractor) and laid a wooden mixture on York street which is the wonder of the world. They have been most liberal in salaries and contracts, remembering who loveth a cheerful giver. There never was such a body for work. Far from shirking it, they loved it, and when no works remained to execute, they grieved like so many Alexanders, and invented some at once. Now GRIP does not for a moment credit the slanderous statements that these worthy gentlemen were all the while rinding their own axes, and all playing into one another's hands—and pockets—that one had commissions on materials, another property to benefit, another stuff to sell—another work to do at his factory which he knew came in consequence of his council proceedings. GRIP has the best reason for disbelieving these reports—namely, that had such things been going on, (many of which are contrary to law, and all contrary to honesty) and even one honest alderman there, he could not have failed to hear of it, and would instantly have moved for a rigid investigation. No investigation was moved for. Therefore, one of two things: 1. The jobbery has not occurred, or 2. We have not one honest alderman. The latter is of course absurd; so GRIP accepts the former and announces to all and sundry that the reports of jobbery are unfounded. This is most satisfactory.

Next, as to re-election. GRIP protests against it. It is imposing on good nature. After the amount of work these aldermen have done, and the debt we owe them, as noticed above, GRIP declares solemnly that they have done enough for the city. To allow them to do any more would show a want of appreciation which does not exist. No, vote for any others; but as for the present, Toronto unlearn's too well what they have done for her. They have worked hard; give them a rest—the longer the better.

Christmas.

1.
Christmas' coming gives one joy.
2.
No; just what it don't, my boy.
1.
Every heart with pleasure fills.
2.
Does it?—read my Christmas bills!
1.
Who could now for money pine?
2.
Who—some creditors of mine.
1.
Well, 'twill pass, so don't be sad.
2.
Then comes New Year's, just as bad.

Letter from a Farmer.

To the Editor of GRIP.

SIR,—I want justice to farmers. Here has I lived and slaved all my days. What has I got for it? Why a farm and stock as wouldn't sell for more than twenty thousand dollars, and maybe a few thousands in the bank. And you rolls in carriages and luxuries, and has the snow sweep off your streets, and water fetched by steam from the island, and bread baked for you, and nothing to do but come out and buy all you want from one of us oppressed farmers as grows it for you, and keeps you from dying of starvation. You axes what I want? I want you city folks as lives on the sweat of our brows to build more railroads for us. What business has we to build roads? Let the towns as wants our trade make tracks for it to come. Then what right has you to want us to build you a new Parliament House? If Toronto wants it let her build it. Farmers will not be starved. Farmers owns this country, and the sooner townspeople knows it the better.

Yours,
CLODHOOPER.

P.S.—We has just resolved in our township council that Toronto ought to pay our taxes, as all our trade goes there. This must be attended to at wunst. C.

Figsville, Dec. 13, 1876.

Centennial Auction.

The Centennial buildings were sold by auction to the highest bidder, and GRIP thinking the main building would make a good office for him if removed to Toronto, sent a reporter to Philadelphia to bid on it. Here is his report of the affair:—

"Now gentlemen, I offer you a first-class exhibition building—warranted sound in all respects—good as new, has only been in use for six months, and is not damaged in the least. How much am I offered? Start it at something, gentlemen—shall I say $10,000? $5,000; thank you, sir. I'm offered $5,000 for the Main Building! Why, gentlemen, it's worth double that for kindling—$5,000 I'm bid—any advance on 5,000? 6! did I hear you say 6? ah; thank you. 6 I'm bid, 6, 6, 6, 6, 6, 6, going at 6; and a half. The bid's against you sir; shall I say 7? $7,000, thanks—bid lively gentlemen; 7 is the figure. All done at 7? 8, 8 1-2, going at 8 1-2—$8,500 for a building that—9. Thank you, sir—$9,000 is what I'm offered for the Main Building—and a half, and a half—do I hear 10? $10,000, $10,000 is all I'm offered for one of the grandest and most—and a half; 10 and a half, a half. The cost price of this article was $1,600,000 wholesale, and I'm only bid $10,500 for it. Only $10,500 for a Crystal Palace whose equal the world has never seen—warranted genuine—and all I'm—11, 11, 11, going at 11. One of the noblest edifices and a half, a half; 11 and a half—make it 12. Shall I say 12? $12,000 is offered—any man and a half, and a half—might be proud to possess—a half, a half, all done at a half, this fine—$13,000, going at $13,000—all done at $13? going at 13, once!—Never have another opportunity like this again—going at 13, twice! going 13, third and last time—$13,000 for the Main Centennial Building—Last call! going, going, gone! and sold."

GRIP.—"Here's your $13,000. Deliver the article at 20 Adelaide Street East, Toronto, Canada."

AUCTIONEER.—"Sir, we never deliver materials sold."

GRIP.—"You must stand and deliver, or I don't want your old junk shop."

AUCTIONEER.—Gentlemen, this sale begins over again—How much am I offered, &c., &c., &c. Q.E.D.

Seasonable Presents.

GRIP is forwarding the following Christmas gifts, neatly packed and directed to their proper addresses, and will be glad to be informed of their safe receipt:—

To GEORGE BROWN.—Judgment of Court, disqualifying him for newspaper business during life.

To the Bank of Montreal.—An Auditor.

To the City Council.—A walking ticket (not good for return.)

To the Water Commissioners.—A cow-bell to tie to their Engineer.

To the Ontario Legislature.—Verse printed in gold letters "Be content with your wages."

To the Dominion Legislature.—Ditto. "This do, and ye shall live and not die;" accompanying small statuette of Canada putting on the armour of Protection.

To the MACKENZIE Government.—A looking-glass, illuminated by a Cardwell lamp.

To Mayor MORRISON.—Engraving of a Year of Plenty—underneath written "Too Jolly to Last."

To MR. MEDCALF.—Brazen allegorical figure of Pertinacity, represented by a ram trying to butt down a stone wall.

To LORD DUFFERIN.—(From the citizens of Toronto)—Statue of the Spirit of the Air, inscribed "More heard of than seen."

To the Clerk of the Weather.—An order on the Fuel Association.

To the caretaker of the Parliament Houses.—A bundle of props.

To the American Nation.—A big wedge, engraved, "You've got to split."

Horrible Depravity.

For many years there has been a quiet old party who lived on King street, in the employ of GEORGE BROWN. Every month regularly this harmless individual used to issue forth and visit a number of acquaintances, and tell them all sorts of yarns on agricultural subjects. The old fellow was dry and prosy, and was known among his friends as the Canada Farmer, as he was born and raised in Canada and loved all things pertaining to a farm. Now the said G. BROWN has advertised that "after January 1st the Canada Farmer will cease to appear" thinking thus to detract public attention from the missing man; but it has been discovered that the aforementioned GEORGE B., intends to deprive of life and utterly destroy the peaceable Canada Farmer and bury the remains on the face of the Globe (weekly edition)!!! Will such an enormity be allowed? Is an innocent agriculturist to be throttled by those gaunt BROWN fingers and none of his Canadian brethren attempt his rescue! Never!

Croaks and Pecks.

THE LIQUOR QUESTION.—What will you take?

THE NEW TERM FOR EXTREME LENGTH.—As long as BROWN's affidavit.

The Canada Southern Railroad want Parliament to let them tunnel the Detroit river. What a bore!

Now the melancholy days have come when "froze" rhymes with "nose" better than at any other season.

No more is heard the sound of the romantic gay lute played by a romantic ga-lout. The music of the catarrh takes its place.

THE DRESS CIRCLE.—When a person catches his foot in a lady's train and describes a curve before striking the pavement.

It looks as if that RY-KERT were going to be upset and his opponent NEEL-on him after each Lincoln the chain of evidence is completed.

GOODERHAM & WORTS have five thousand cattle and hogs fattening on swill, and this will be the result:—Gooder-ham & Worts beef than any firm in the city.

THE DEPTH OF MALIGNITY.—G. B. "My Lords, I will lend the 30 year's files of the Globe to my opponents"!!!!!! Fancy the horror of GEORGE'S opponents.

The Irish Canadian won't run so well now that its LYNCH-pin has been taken out. As our journalistic friend is mad about the Archbishop's letter, why not change its name to the Ire-ish Canadian.

THEY say Chief Justice DRAPER is going to resign, and that Judge Moss will take his place, then Justice will Drape'er walls justice soon as he leaves, and unlike a rolling stone will gather MOSS. At least we judge so.

ALMONTE manufacturers held a meeting a while since, and said if they didn't get protection their factories would shut up. The Globe pokes fun at them. We dislike Al-monté men, we suppose as they own carding mills they are the 3 card monté men so often denounced in the papers.

REV. CHAS. CLARK,

IN SHAFTESBURY HALL,

On Saturday Afternoon, Dec. 23rd, and Monday Night Dec. 25th, will present his Popular Holiday Entertainment entitled

CHRISTMAS IN OLD ENGLAND.

Its Customs and its Carols, embracing Antique Fashions, Merrie Masquings, Curious Customs, Yuletide Ditties, Humorous Stories, Wild Was-saling, Modern Quaintnesses, Festive Doings, Mirthful Mysteries, Exquisite Carols. The Musical Illustrations will be sung by a

DOUBLE VOCAL QUARTETTE,

Selected from the best Vocalists in Toronto. This Quartette will form the first of a final course of four, which Mr. Clark will deliver on four Monday evenings, as follows: Dec. 25th.—CHRISTMAS IN OLD ENGLAND. Jan. 8th.—OLIVER GOLD-SMITH. Jan. 15th.—DICKENS. New lecture. Jan. 22nd.—OLIVER CROMWELL.

First Seats and Gallery, 50c. (Numbered Seat, 75c.) Back and Upper Gallery, 25c. Seats, Tickets, Prospectuses, at Nordheimer's. Numbered Course Ticket for Mr. Clark's Four Final Lectures, $2. Communications to Mr. R. SMYTHE, Queen's.

THE MAYORALTY, 1877.

To the Electors of the City of Toronto:

GENTLEMEN,—

It is with feelings of deep regret that, owing to an unforeseen and sudden attack of illness, I am compelled to ask your permission to withdraw my name as a candidate for the honourable position of Mayor of this city, a position to which I was encouraged to aspire by the cordial support tendered me by all classes of my fellow citizens.

I have, however, no alternative, but must bow to circumstances which I cannot avert, but in doing so I venture to hope that on a future occasion I may be honoured with your confidence and support.

With my best thanks to those who have laboured earnestly to secure my election.

I have the honour to be,
Gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,

JOHN TURNER.

St. George Street,
16 Dec., 1876.

1877. THE MAYORALTY, 1877.

Your vote and interest are kindly requested for

JAMES BRITTON,
AS MAYOR!

The nomination takes place on Friday, Dec. 22, 1876, and the voting on Monday, Jan. 1, 1877.

TO THE ELECTORS OF ST. JAMES' WARD.

YOUR VOTE AND INTEREST

Respectfully solicited for

JAMES BEATY, JR.,

FOR

ALDERMAN FOR 1877.

Elections on New Year's Day.

VOTE FOR WISE ECONOMY AND REFORMED ADMINISTRATION.

Nov 16-3t

$12 a day at home. Agents wanted. Outfit and terms free. TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine.

CIVIC ELECTIONS—1877.

ST. ANDREW'S WARD.

To WM. BURKE, Esq:

SIR,—We the undersigned Ratepayers within St. Andrew's Ward respectfully ask that you consent to become a Candidate for election to the Council as Alderman from our Ward for the year 1877. We promise to make every legitimate effort to place your election beyond cavil or question.

Samuel Davison,
Alexander Shields,
George Lewis,
Walter Grant,
Taylor & Wilson,
P. Higgins,
S. Meadows,
W. King,
John Manless,
Arthur Crawford,
Thomas Davison,
J. Workman,
Mark Bowman,
D. S. McCallum,
John Edwards.

Robert Shields,
John Wilcock,
Thomas Campton,
Alexander Puse,
J. C. McMillan,
S. B. Pollard,
E. Kupitz,
King & Yorston,
Kent Bros.,
D. O'Connor,
James McMullin,
James Stark,
Charles Ruse.

Geo. Parker, Walter Fischer,
Fred. R. A. Lee, And many others.

GENTLEMEN,—

In reply to your request I place myself in your hands as Candidate for Alderman for the year 1877, and if elected I will do my utmost to serve the interests of St. Andrew's Ward and the city generally.

Your obedient servant,
WM. BURKE,
Sheppard St.

ST. JOHN'S WARD.

YOUR VOTE AND INTEREST

Are respectfully solicited for

GEO. L. TIZARD

As Alderman for 1877.

ST. JOHN'S WARD.

YOUR VOTE AND INTEREST

are respectfully requested for

HARRY PIPER

THE PEOPLES' CANDIDATE,

AS

Alderman for the year 1877.

The Election takes place

Monday, January 1, 1877.

ST. LAWRENCE WARD.

YOUR VOTE AND INFLUENCE

Are respectfully solicited for

G. C. PATTERSON

As Alderman for 1877.

$5 to $20 per day at home. Samples worth $1 free. STINSON & CO., Portland, Maine.

PIANOS.

Until further notice we are offering the Celebrated Mathushck, Fischer and LaBelle Pianos,

—AT—

LESS THAN WHOLESALE PRICES.

SQUARE GRAND,
$700 OFFERING AT $275

SQUARE PIANO,

Seven-octaves, Rosewood case, Serpentine Mouldings and Carved Legs,

$350 OFFERING AT $190

PRINCE ORGANS

AT ABOUT HALF-PRICE.

All instruments warranted for Five Years. Send for Price List.

NORRIS & SCOPER,

5 ADELAIDE-ST. EAST, TORONTO.

Marlborough House,

UNION RAILWAY STATION,

Cor. Front and Simcoe Sts., Toronto.

The above commodious and centrally located house contains all Modern Accommodations, Steam Heating, etc. Affords Excellent Accommodation at Moderate Rates.

Having reduced its figures from $2 to $1.50 per day.

M. A. TROTTER, PROPRIETOR.

F. HODGINS, and A. M. CARIGAN, Managers.

M. B.—Omnibus Free.

"PAT'S,"

NO. 67 KING STREET WEST, TORONTO.

MESSRS. HANLON & BREEN, PROP'RS.

The bar will be found to be furnished with the very best brands of Liquors and Cigars obtainable. Headquarters for gentlemen interested in aquatic sport. Mr. ED. HANLON, the CHAMPION OARSMAN, will be pleased to see his friends at his new home.

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT.

Ottawa, November 7, 1876.

AUTHORIZED DISCOUNT ON
American invoices until further notice, 7 per cent.

J. JOHNSON,
Commissioner of Customs.

v-6-tf

SEND 25c. to G. P. ROWELL & CO., New York for Pamphlet of 100 pages, containing lists of 3000 newspapers, and estimates showing cost of advertising.

Every Lady should have "THE FAHEY BROS." KID GLOVES, Every Pair Warranted. See that each pair bears Their Own Mark.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE
Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.
 Subscription price, $2 per annum, strictly in advance. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied.

ONTARIO
Baking Powder.
 WHITE, ODORLESS, & DOES NOT DISCOLOR.
 Manufactured at the Ontario Coffee and Spice Steam Mills,
 W. J. SMITH,
 TORONTO.

SITTING BULL
SMOKING TOBACCO.
 Made expressly for the Virginia
TOBACCO AGENCY
 OFFICE:
26 TORONTO STREET.
GORRELL,
CRAIG Co.,

LITHOGRAPHERS
 13
ADELAIDE ST
EAST.

FARM FOR SALE.
 A very desirable farm for a gentleman's residence, consisting of 31 acres, in the Township of Pickering, County of Ontario, overlooking Frenchman's Bay. A small stream runs through the north west corner. There is
A Capital Orchard of Pears, Plums, Cherry and Apple Trees, covering twelve acres, nine of which are only six years old, just commencing to bear. The soil is as good as can be found in the township, which is equivalent to saying there is none better in the province.
BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
REAL ESTATE AGT.
IMPERIAL BUILDINGS.
 Next Post Office, Toronto.

WANTED.
A HOUSE TO RENT.
 About $12 per month,
 Address J. G., Grip Office.

GO TO
"GRIP"
OFFICE
FOR YOUR JOB
PRINTING.

W. F. ROSS & CO.,
MANUFACTURING JEWELLERS,
WATCH IMPORTERS.

We have now in Stock at close prices, new designs in NECKLETS, LOCKETS, RINGS, SHAWL PINS, &c., &c.
 Also CHAINS AND WATCHES.

83 King St. East, - - - - - Toronto.

GRIP OFFICE, } The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; } 5 CTS. EACH.
IMPERIAL BUILDING, } The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool. } $2 PER ANNUM.

CHEAP BOOKS.
 FOURTEEN WEEKS IN PHILOSOPHY $1.50 LIVES & LESSONS OF THE PATRIARCHS $1.50.
 TORONTO OF OLD $3.00. PREHISTORIC TIMES $2.50.
 STUDIES FOR THE PULPIT $2.00. STONES CRYING OUT $1.00.
 TYPES AND EMBLEMS 60c. SERMONS BY TALMAGE $1.00.
 TEXT BOOKS OF SCIENCE $1.00. COCHRANE'S SERMONS $1.50.
 CANADIAN FARMERS' MANUAL $2.00 DOMESTIC WORLD 75 c.
 sent to any address on receipt of price.
BENGOUGH BROS.,
 IMPERIAL BUILDINGS, (First door west of Post Office) TORONTO.

EDITOR'S NOTE.
 ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach Grip office not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, Grip office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

GENTLEMEN
 Collars of all the Newest Styles gotten up EQUAL TO NEW, at
2 1-2 cts. each or 25 cts. per doz., at
TORONTO STEAM
LAUNDRY.
HALLEY'S HALL,
COR. KING & BAY STS.
G. P. SHARPE, Prop.

BROWN BROTHERS,
Account-Book Manufacturers,
 Stationers, Bookbinders, etc.,
66 & 68 KING ST. EAST.
TORONTO, ONT.

H. T. ALISOPP,
 DEALER IN
FINE BOOTS AND SHOES.
7 KING STREET EAST
TORONTO.
 (4th door east of Yonge)

TO
YOUNG MEN
 Wishing to learn
TELEGRAPHING,
 A certificate good for
Twenty Dollars,
 Will be sold cheap, good for the
TORONTO INSTITUTE.
 Address:
H. GUMMER,
 Box, 2662.

TO PURCHASE
 HOUSE on Church St., south of Carlton, 8 to 12 rooms, must be first-class.
 COTTAGE in St. John's Ward—5 rooms.
 FOUR COTTAGES, Not more than Seven Rooms—between Simcoe and Seaton Streets.
BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
 Next Post Office.

BLACK-BOARD
 IN THE
SUNDAY-SCHOOL.
 A practical guide for superintendents and teachers by Frank Beard. Fully illustrated. $1.50. Artist's Manual of Oil and Water Color Painting, &c., 50 cts. Furniture and Cabinet Finisher, 50. Watchmaker and Jeweller, 50. Soapmaker, 25. Taxidermist, 50. Of booksellers or by mail. JESSE HANEY & CO., 119 Nassau St., N. Y.
PAINTER'S Manual.—House and sign painting, graining, varnishing, polishing, kalsomining, papering, lettering, staining, gilding, &c. 50 cts. Furniture and Cabinet Finisher, 50. Watchmaker and Jeweller, 50. Soapmaker, 25. Taxidermist, 50. Of booksellers or by mail. JESSE HANEY & CO., 119 Nassau St., N. Y.

STOVE & CHESTNUT COAL $5.00 per Ton AL NATRIN'S. OFFICE, - - - NEXT POST OFFICE. DOCKS, - - - FOOT OF CHURCH ST.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabeast Beast is the Ass; the grabeast Bird is the Owl;
The grabeast Fish is the Whyster; the grabeast Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, 10TH NOVEMBER, 1877.

From Our Box.

THE engagement of Mr. RAYMOND at the Grand has been a great treat to the lovers of the drama in Toronto. In the early part of the week Col. Sellers ate his raw turnips before large and delighted audiences, and on Wednesday night the new play of Risks was given, with the great comedian as Pennington Pembroke, the life insurance agent. It is needless to say the character was "immense." The main fault GRIP sees in Risks is that there is not enough of RAYMOND in it, and there is no reason why such a capital agent shouldn't take the fire and marine branches as well, which might give him more business in the piece. The support was very fair with the exception of Mr. SOUTHARD, who is scarcely ever as familiar with his lines as he ought to be. We hope the prosperity of the Grand will go on, and that as Col. Sellers passes away he may be able to glance at the treasurer's box and say There's millions in it.

An Autumn Ode.

Bleak Autumn it has come at last;
The picnic season now is past;
The cold shades now do grow severe,
We need Protection more than ever.

The Great Reaction has set in.
Winter must take the place of spring;
Which proves the Grits will have a Fall,
And our chieftain will be all in all.

The leaves are falling from the trees
Before the blowing of the breeze,
And thus the votes did fall away
From LAURIER on election day.

The landscape looks awful bleak and barren,
And the cattle are put in a warm barn;
So we will stab you under the fifth rib
If you don't let us go in and get fat at the government crib.
J. BURR PLUMB, his x mark.

The Soliloquies of Fitznoodle, of the United Empire Club.

I. THE ONE-MAN POWER.

If anything could make me maw proud than I am of being a twee Conservative, and standing by the Wight Hon. Sir JOHN, it is to gaze upon those wretched Gwits cwinging—aw—undaw the lash of that wiculous and vulgaw fellow BWOWN. The gwand pwiniples of twee speech and Bwitsish libawty of the subject, seawared to us by the blood of owah faw-fathaws, and all that sawt of thing, is outgawed in the most gwoss manraw by the Gwit Dictataw, and still the Gwits submit to it without a gumble. The vewy idea is enough to make a fellow angwy, but I must twy and westwain my feelings out of wespect to my cwawat, which would get doocidly dissawwained if I gawe way to wesentment. But still I wepeat—aw—this one-man paw is vewy wepugnant to the feelings of any fellow who is not a cwawen wetch, and who pwetends to be a gentleman. Of cawse I know the Gwits do not pwetend to be gentlemen; I am awaway they wecognize us as the Gentleman's Pawty, and I must give the beggaws cwedit for being fwank and candid with wespect to that. But they do pwetend that they are not cwawen wetches, and still they cwing the heel of BWOWN and the Globs. They don't pwesume to have any mind of their own, all their newspapaws wite what the Globe wites, and all the Gwit fellows say what BWOWN says. No mattaw what cwoupion BWOWN goes into—aw—no mattaw what political cwimes he may commit, the wretched tools of Gwits follow him like a flock of wretched sheep. It is disgusting in the extweme. It wouldn't be quite so absawd if the fellow was a twee gentleman, well bwed, and all that sawt of thing; but he is only a gway headed fellow with wiculous shaped twowsers and big feet. If the Wight Hon. Sir JOHN dwessed like BWOWN, I would leave the Pawty without a moment's hesitation. I would newaw so faw fawget—aw—my duty, as to follow such a man. I was speaking with a Gwit the othaw day—I couldn't vewy well help speaking to the fellow, or I shouldn't have done so,—and he actually had the bwass to say that we Conservatives were gweatlaw slaves than the Gwits. He twied to be vewy witty by asking me when the Gwits ever stuck to any man who went through Pacific Scandals, and Nawthewn Waylaw cows, Secwet Service Money, Owdnance Land Swindles, Nawth West Webwillion fwauds, wretched slanders and life long cwoupion; and he also wanted me to point out a Consawvative papaw that cwaw expressed an opinion diffiwent from the Wight Hon. Sir JOHN and the Mail. I weplied to all this wretched calumny and Gwit abuse, that the Wight Hon. Sir JOHN was Canada's gweatest statesman and wore wespectable twowsers. That settled the wretched Gwit. Waitaw! a bottle of pawty wine!

To Grip.

Advice to a Lawyer.

RESPECTED SIR.—I am a member of the legal profession, and apply to you to solve some doubts which have lately made application to me for a hearing: Your answer is earnestly requested:—

1.—If I am applied to to plead for a criminal, who confesses to me his crime, and offers a heavy fee, what is my course? If freed, he will undoubtedly again enter on a course of crime. He will rob, he will steal, he may murder. Yet it is held to be professional to accept his fee, and assist him.

2.—If I am retained by a company, established for any purpose—say railway, steamboat, manufacturing, insurance, or other. I am put into possession of their secrets. If I observe the objects of this company to be nefarious or fraudulent, should I continue to give them my services?

3.—If I know my client, being a business man, is going to abscond or play any tricks of that sort, should I conceal it? Yours,

LEX PUZZLIBUS.

ANS. OF GRIP.—Lawyers are, as a class, understood to be devoted to the interests of their clients and eternal punishment. GRIP is not at present aware whether the understanding is well based, but he will say this:—If one, being a lawyer, do, conceal, or allow, that which as a private gentleman his honour would not suffer him to do, conceal, or allow, GRIP would not speak to him, nor allow him into his office, unless to subscribe, (when cash in advance would be imperative)—not though the assembled bar of the world (which would be a lamentable spectacle) had just endorsed his conduct, and presented him with a wig; and the assembled Bench. (which would be another) had approved their course.

Prospectus of "The Partisan."

A FAMILY NEWSPAPER devoted to Politics, Religion, Literature, News and Advertising.

We believe that the time has arrived when an appeal may be made with confidence to those who prefer the aggrandizement of party to the interests of the Dominion; and this belief is our only excuse for publishing this paper.

In religion we shall aim to be liberal; in politics, Conservative; and in literature, as pure as the tastes of the reading public render necessary. Our news items and telegraphic reports will be found as truthful and reliable as may be, in accordance with our desire to furnish exciting topics of conversation for the breakfast-table; and our advertising department shall be conducted on purely commercial principles.

In political discussion, we shall make no uncertain sound. No consideration of right or wrong shall induce us to raise our voice or wield our pen in opposition to the views of our party, and, in the approaching struggle for the treasury benches at Ottawa, no candidate who is unwilling to speak and act in strict accordance with the party programme, need expect encouragement or support in our columns. It shall be our earnest endeavour to advance the interests of the Conservative party, without regard to considerations of public gain or national advancement. To the best of our ability we shall advocate Protection, as opposed to Free Trade, and shall continue to do so until our party leaders, in their wisdom, shall deem it advisable to change their views on the subject.

In dealing with questions of religion, it shall be our aim to express the sentiments of all sects and creeds; and not a single line that can give offence to a possible political supporter, shall ever if we can avoid it, find a place in the columns of the Partisan.

On the temperance question, our opinions are liable to alteration or modification at any time, but, as a general rule, we shall be found directly opposed to any measure introduced by the party now in power.

In provincial and municipal politics we shall do our utmost to promote the prosperity and increase the importance of Toronto, unless at any time such a course should clash with our own private interests or those of our party.

We have placed the literary department of the Partisan under the charge of an experienced cutter, and in order to furnish our subscribers with the very best novels, tales, sketches and poems that can be selected from our exchanges, the scissors and paste-pot shall not be spared.

It is our intention to make our advertising columns even more attractive than those devoted to editorials, and to this end all advertisements shall be inserted for which we may entertain a reasonable hope of being paid. We shall make no attempt to satisfy ourselves or the public as to the reliability or good faith of parties advertising.

Having thus briefly referred to the leading features of the Daily Partisan, we respectfully solicit the patronage of the party in whose behalf we make this venture. Our first number will be issued on Monday morning, the first of April, 1878.

Terms, six dollars a year, payable strictly in advance—or otherwise.

Address,

"PARTISAN PUBLISHING COMPANY," Toronto.

Bill Dunkin and his Foes.

A grin of delight
 Convulses them quite.
 Those dealers in drinks and red noses;
 For they say that BILL DUNKIN
 Makes people more drunken.
 On account of his five gallon doses.

Their spouters they spout
 Of the woe-begone rout
 Which DUNKIN is meeting wherever
 He's been put into action,
 Giving no satisfaction—
 And small drinks are sold worse than ever!

They guzzle and reel,
 And shout for repeal.
 In the haunts of old rye and of swaggar;
 For in Brant, or in Grey,
 Or in Napanee, they
 Have seen a few veterans stagger!

But hold a bit, pray.
 You donkeys that bray,
 And see your false logic abolished;
 Because some men will kill,
 Would you bring in a bill
 To have laws against murder abolished?

The Railroad Bonus.

PRESENT.—The Mayor, surrounded by a sharp-looking crowd on the platform, and confronted by a dirty-looking one in the hall.

HIS WORSHIP.—Gentlemen.—In conformity with the duties of my—hum—hum—hum—position as laid down in the Act before me, I have called this large meeting of influential—hum—hum—and am sorry to see so few—hum—present. I have been—hum—will the requisitionists—really very sorry—come on the platform?

Nobody comes on the platform. The crowd yell and shout. The requisition is read. The names appended are called out. None of them come.

MAN IN CROWD.—Offer a reward for 'em.

2nd MAN IN CROWD.—Give 'em a bonus to come.

3rd MAN IN CROWD.—Send police after 'em.

Everybody looks everywhere, and at last Mr. JONES, an unhappy requisitionist who mysteriously signed his name at the request of his next door neighbour, who "thought it a good thing," is discovered in a dark corner.

CROWD.—JONES! JONES!! JONES!!!

Mr. JONES, more frightened than at any previous moment in his life, does not move.

HIS WORSHIP.—Mr. JONES!

CROWD.—JONES! JONES! JONES!

HIS WORSHIP.—Mr. JONES, as a requisitionist—

Pat man behind JONES pushes him out into aisle, and JONES comes on platform.

Mr. JONES.—Mr. Mayor, Gentlemen—I do not—that is to say—I do not know anything—(CROWD.—Then why did you sign?) I do not know anything in the world—(VOICE.—And you look like it!). I must say, gentlemen—(VOICE.—Then why don't you say so?) As I said gentleman, I know nothing whatever (VOICE.—We see that) about the objects (VOICE.—Taint about objects—this here's a bonus palaver) the intentions—in fact, I came here for information. I did not know anything. I signed that some one might tell me something. (Mr. JONES now completely collapses, and wet through with perspiration, takes a back seat amid terrific cheering by crowd, who haven't had any one to cheer yet, and must begin.)

HIS WORSHIP.—I call on the promoters, if the scheme has any—to come forward—hum—hum—hum—Act of Parliament—hum—vested in me—hum.

Mr. SQUAT, (first promoter).—Gentlemen—beg pardon—Mr. Mayor and gentlemen—this has been got up to oppose the line. Awful! No one should oppose the line. All the municipalities have signed little bonuses on condition you will sign a big one, which is but fair, as they get most of the profit and you most of the honor of the road—and honor is—well, I trust—Honor of Toronto—Queen City of the West—
 Honor is preferred here to gold. (Immense Cheering.) Yes, gentlemen, it is true you have lines there already, but this is a rival line. Are they to charge what they like?—is there to be no opposition? (Cheers) It is true there is only traffic for one, but think of the future—future of magnificent Toronto. (Loud Cheers.) It will give work (Cheers) to the citizen (Cheers) to the men (Cheers) to the poor men (Cheers.) Only five hundred thousand dollars wanted—what's that to this great city?
 We will commence work at once. (Cheers.) As to—

CITIZEN.—What traffic will it bring us? (Hisses.)

Mr. SQUAT.—Traffic Immense (Cheers). I cannot tell you where now; but you know—new districts (Cheers) fresh opportunities (Cheers) new openings. (Cheers). Would any sensible man ask more? (Cheers). Citizen sits down squashed amid hisses.

MR. GAUNT (Second promoter).—Mayor and Gentlemen—I can't help expressing delight at the prospect. You know what benefit railroads do you—railroads—roads—roads (Loud cheers.) Any direction; no matter what (Cheers) give us roads, roads, roads (Cheers). Gentlemen, I say a railroad anywhere, even to the moon, offers wonderful inducements. (Cheers). Why not? (Cheers). Right of way free. (Cheers)
 What if there is no water on the route?—think of the profit in carrying it there for the inhabitants! (Cheers). And on the return track no steam needed. (Cheers). What a saving. (Cheers). We want a road to the moon. (Cheers). I shall submit it, and ask a bonus of two millions from Toronto. (Tremendous Cheering). This road however, at present under discussion, offers great inducements in the way of—but you know the advantages of railroads. We are educated to that. (Cheers). I know you will vote for it. (Immense Cheers.)

SECOND CITIZEN.—I should like to point out that we already have a line there, and there is not, and cannot be for twenty years, traffic for two. (Tremendous hisses "Would you give a poor man work? What if you are wealthy? Get down! More hisses till CITIZEN gets down.")

THIRD CITIZEN.—I must point out that the city is too much in debt to bonus useless undertakings like this—(More Hisses, "Oh it's him wud tyrannize!") "Save him down!" "Down, down!" Second CITI-ZEN & lapses.)

THIRD PROMOTER.—I am heartily glad to witness such unanimity on the part of the ratepayers. You will never be sorry for it. The prospects are immense. Toronto will increase wonderfully! I am delighted. (Great applause). The plan will be laid before the Council at once—the Council must put it to the people, or we'll mandamus 'em.
 I can see which way it will go. I congratulate you. (Aside.—And if I don't get a good haul out of the bonus, if you are fools enough to give it, I'll agree to eat the railroad). Now, gentlemen be early at the polls.
 Talk of debt, nonsense! (Great cheering—resolution passes; meeting adjourns.)

Agricultural Protection Made Clear.

Mister GRIP, Deer Sir:

I am a Farmer and wat i wants to know is about this Protection queshun, i have herd a lot of speeches at Picnics out our way this summer by Sir JOHN and others, but owing to being deff an on account of so much noise made by Grits wat was sittin near me i cudden hear and understand wat they was a drivin at. Wud you be so kind enough to explain the Protection Bissness so as plain farmers like me can understand it wot aint got much eddication.

Yours respectfully

A FARMER.

Fog Township, Nov. 6.

GRIP is always delighted to have an opportunity of this kind. His special mission is to enlighten the farmers and everybody else on this and every other question. Owing to the limited space at his command his reply must necessarily be brief, but he hopes, notwithstanding, that it will be perfectly lucid and satisfactory.

The question of Protection, as relating to farmers, when divested of all nebulousities, technicalities, and irrelevance, is a simple question. In order to arrive at a solution of it, however, it is necessary for you to look at it from the standpoint of statesmanship, namely, a picnic platform, and to give careful attention to the following considerations: The natural resources of Canada being, by virtue of the retaliatory tariffs, and of the blundering incapacity of CARTWRIGHT, created into a great monopoly which crushes the producer under the iron heel of the consumer, the sphere of action of the native manufacturer is extended to such a disastrous degree that the market of the old country governs the price of grain here, and a bad harvest is the result. If a change of government could be effected, and a vigorous national policy inaugurated, the immediate effect would be that these intolerable monopolies, not being any longer supported by the influx of labour, and being further strengthened by the vast development of our matchless resources, which would render hurtful competition more easily done away with, the effect would be a general revival of trade and the increase of our expenditure which would have the effect of making all the farmers of the country rich. As to increased taxation, that is easily explained. In the first place CART-WRIGHT is the antithesis of GEORGE WASHINGTON (with his little axe), which sufficiently proves that the importations of live stock and the cheap transportation of grain and other cereals, would immediately show an upward tendency, and the slaughter market of the American labourer would be greater than 10 per cent. custom duty in advance of all transhipment duties, canal tolls, and the efforts of the Wall street bulls and bears, making Canada a dear country to live in, if not more so.
 These great changes can only be brought about by placing in power a set of statesmen who fully and sincerely believe that the balance of trade under all circumstances, depend upon the amount of importation and exportation controlled by a wise executive in the interests of all classes of the population, and the imposing of such duties as shall secure a sliding scale and make Canada both feared and respected in the markets of the world. With these few remarks, we leave our friend the farmer to the torture of his own mind, only hoping that he will see it is his duty to vote for the friends of Protection when the time comes.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

NEW ROUTE.

TO

Hamilton and Buffalo.

THROUGH BOOKING

By Grand Trunk Railway

-TO-

HAMILTON AND BUFFALO

BY WAY OF THE

HAMILTON AND NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY
AND THE

GREAT INTERNATIONAL BRIDGE.

FAST TRAINS, making close connections at Toronto, run as under:—

Leave Montreal at 10 p. m., and Toronto at 11 30 a. m.
Arrive at Hamilton at 2.05 p. m., and Buffalo at 5.35 p. m.
Leave Buffalo at 12.50 p. m. (New York time.)
Arrive at Hamilton at 3.30 p. m., Toronto at 6.50 p. m., and Montreal at 8 a. m.

JOSEPH HICKSON,
General Manager.

POST OFFICE NOTICE.

Public notice is hereby given that the arrangement for landing and embarking the English Mails at Rimouski will cease with the Mails for the outgoing steamer of the 10th November instant.

The English Mail per Canadian Steamer

Will therefore after the above date, BE CLOSED AT THIS OFFICE on

Thursdays, at 10 o'clock p.m.

By order of the P. M. General.

JOSEPH LESLIE, P. M.

Post Office, Toronto, 7th Nov., 1877.

PROPERTIES FOR SALE.

ONTARIO STREET north of Wellesley, two brick fronted houses, nine rooms, extra finish, bow windows, folding doors, grates, &c. Good cellar, hard and soft water. Lot 23 x 126.
Price $1,900 each.

NIAGARA STREET, two rough cast houses, seven rooms, hard and soft water. $2,500 for both. Would exchange for farm.

ESTHER STREET, two story dwelling, six rooms. Price $900.

DALHOUSIE STREET. Three houses, 6 rooms, hard and soft water. $1,250 each.

RICHMOND ST. WEST. Two roughcast houses, 11 rooms, splendidly finished, bath room and every convenience. $3,000.

WILLIAM HENRY STREET, rough cast house, seven rooms, grate, folding doors, &c.
$1,800.

ORDE STREET, rough cast cottage, six rooms.
$1,000.

SUFFOLK PLACE, rough cast, detached, nine or ten rooms. $2,600.

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,

Real Estate Agents,

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS, (Next Post Office.)
TORONTO.

CHEAP FUEL.

Reduction in the Price of Coke.

THE CONSUMERS' GAS COMPANY

Are now selling Coke at the reduced price of

8 CENTS PER BUSHEL

to clear out stock on hand.

At the above price this is the cheapest fuel that can be obtained. Orders must be purchased at the Company's Office, 19 Toronto-street.

W. H. PEARSON, Secretary.

WANTED!

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN TO LEARN TELEgraph operating for offices opening in the Dominion.
Send 3 cent stamp for circular. Address MANAGER,
Box 955, Toronto

J. F. DANTER, M. D.

Homoeopathist and Medical Electrician. Office and Pharmacy: 4 Albert Street, (Cor. Yonge) Toronto. Medicine for sale, vials refilled, Letters promptly answered.

BOARD AND LODGING. A FEW gentlemen can be accommodated with good board and pleasant rooms; also day board, at 49 Richmond St.,
East.

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT.

Ottawa, 12th Oct., 1877.

AUTHORIZED DISCOUNT ON
American invoices until further notice, 3 per cent.

J. JOHNSON,
Commissioner of Customs.

v-6-1f

A. ELKIN IS IN TOWN WITH HIS letter Copying Book and Ink copies letters without press brush or water, St. James Building, Room 11
46 Church St. next to King St.—Agents wanted.

1823. SEND FOR 1878.

THE NEW YORK OBSERVER

The best Religious and Secular Family Newspaper. $3.15 a Year, post-paid. Established 1823.

37 PARK ROW, NEW YORK.

SAMPLE COPIES FREE.

Marlborough House,

UNION RAILWAY STATION.

One, ~~Front~~ and Simcoe Sts., Toronto.

The above commodious and centrally located house combines all Modern Appointments, Steam Heating, etc.
Affords Excellent Accommodation at Moderate Rates.

Having reduced its figures from $2 to $1.50 per day.

M. A. TROTTER, PROPRIETOR.
F. HODGINS, and A. M. CARDIGAN, Managers.

N.B.—Omnibus free.

THE PRINTER'S MISCELLANY.

The Printer's Miscellany will be ready for delivery in about two weeks. The subscription lists and accounts were lost in the fire of 20th June. Subscribers whose term of subscription had not expired will please send their names, addresses, amounts paid, and date of subscription, as soon as possible. Those whose term ended with the June number should lose no time in renewing, otherwise considerable difficulty will be experienced in securing back numbers. The paper will only be sent to those whose subscriptions are paid in advance. Subscriptions and advertisements respectfully solicited.

HUGH FINLAY,

Editor and Proprietor.

St. John, N. B.

REMOVAL.

"Grip" wishes to return his best thanks to the people of Canada for their liberal patronage heretofore, and to inform them that he has removed to more extensive premises, in that very handsome Stone Front edifice, erected last summer, now known as the

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS,

WHICH IS

One Door West of the Post Office.

Where he is prepared to execute all Orders, from a

LABEL TO A 3-SHEET POSTER

WITH NEATNESS AND DESPATCH.

CARDS.

We are prepared to fill Orders by Mail for Visiting Cards (Finest Bristol, White or Tinted) immediately on receipt of letter, and forward by FIRST MAIL, at the following

RATES:

100 Cards, (one name, one style type), 75 cents.
50 " " " " 50 "
25 " " " " 30 "

Printing addresses on Cards, 10 cents extra for each Order.

THE FOLLOWING ARE

SAMPLES OF TYPE

FROM WHICH A CHOICE MAY BE MADE.

1

Robert Taylor.

2

William Richardson.

3

Miss Maggie Thompson.

4

George Augustus Williams.

5

Mrs. Thomas Jones.

6

William Arthur Crawford.

7

Miss Susie Wade.

8

Byron W. Scott.

9

William Shakespeare.

Write your Name and the Number of the Letter you desire plainly, to prevent mistakes.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS,

TORONTO, ONT.

Have You Seen
That Husband of Mine?

WHY YES!
I Just Left Him

AT FAHEY BROS.,
Buying you some of those lovely Gloves, they warrant every pair

PUBLISHER'S NOTE

Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.

Subscription price, $2 per annum strictly in advance. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied.

ONTARIO
Baking Powder.

WHITE, ODORLESS, & DOES NOT DISCOLOR.

Manufactured at the Ontario Coffee and Spice Steam Mills,

—BY—
W. J. SMITH,
TORONTO.

REAL ESTATE.

Persons having Properties to dispose of in City or Country will find it to their advantage to place it in our hands. We have the

BEST STAND IN THE CITY,
and facilities for
ADVERTISING
which cannot be excelled.
BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
NEXT POST OFFICE,
TORONTO

GORRELL,
CRAIG
Co.,

LITHOGRAPHERS
13
ADELAIDE ST
EAST.

FARM FOR SALE.

A very desirable farm for a gentleman's residence, consisting of 37 acres, in the Township of Pickering, County of Ontario, overlooking Frenchman's Bay. A small stream runs through the north west corner. There is

A Capital Orchard
of Pears, Plums, Cherry and Apple Trees, covering twelve acres, nine of which are only six years old, just commencing to bear. The soil is as good as can be found in the township, which is equivalent to saying there is none better in the province.

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
REAL ESTATE AG'TS
IMPERIAL BUILDINGS.
Next Post Office, Toronto.

WANTED.
A HOUSE TO RENT,
About $12 per month,
Address J. G., Grip Office.

GO TO
"GRIP"
OFFICE
FOR YOUR JOB
PRINTING.

DON'T GET MARRIED

Unless you have one of our 18 carat Wedding Rings.

W. F. ROSS & CO., - - - 83 KING ST. EAST.
(Successors to CORNELL & CO.)

CAUTION.
Before purchasing your spring shirts, get our prices, our Shirts please everybody our trade this season is far ahead of last. If you want a good shirt at a low price try sample one. Send for circular to A. White, late White & Sharpe 65 King Street West.

GRIP OFFICE, } The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; } 5 CTS. EACH.
IMPERIAL BUILDING. } The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool. } $2 PER ANNUM.

CHEAP BOOKS.

FOURTEEN WEEKS IN PHILOSOPHY $1.50 LIVE & LESSONS OF THE PATRIARCHS $1.50.
TORONTO OF OLD $3.00. PREHISTORIC TIMES $2.50.
STUDIES FOR THE PULPIT $2.00. STONES CRYING OUT $1.00.
TYPES AND EMBLEMS 60c. SERMONS BY TALMAGE $1.00.
TEXT BOOKS OF SCIENCE $1.00. COCHRANE'S SERMONS $1.50.
CANADIAN FARMERS' MANUAL $2.00 DOMESTIC WORLD 75 c.
sent to any address on receipt of price.

BENGOUGH BROS.,
IMPERIAL BUILDINGS, (First door west of Post Office) TORONTO.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach Grip office not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, Grip office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned

GENTLEMEN

Collars of all the Newest Styles gotten up EQUAL TO NEW, at
2 1-2cts. each or 25cts. per doz., at

TORONTO STEAM
LAUNDRY.
HALLEY'S HALL,
COR. KING & BAY STS.
G. P. SHARPE, Prop.

BROWN BROTHERS,

Account-Book Manufacturers,
Stationers, Bookbinders, etc.,
66 & 68 KING ST. EAST.
TORONTO, ONT.

H. T. ALISOPP,

DEALER IN
FINE BOOTS AND SHOES.
7 KING STREET EAST
TORONTO.
(4th door east of Yonge)

THE POINT FARM
NEAR GODERICH, ONT.

This Popular
SUMMER RESORT
Situated on the high banks overlooking Lake Huron, is now open, with ample accommodation for 175 GUESTS.
The place has been very much improved since last year, and is now an exceedingly attractive country home. Parties who desire a thorough change of air, with a few weeks rest, will find this establishment a most desirable retreat.
A well appointed Coach leaves Goderich direct for the house morning and afternoon. An office of the Montreal Telegraph on the premises.
J. J. WRIGHT, - - Proprietor.
Circulars may be had of Bengough Bros., "Grip" Office.

WANTED

TO PURCHASE
HOUSE on Church St., south of Carlton, 8 to 12 rooms, must be first-class.
COTTAGE in St. John's Ward—5 rooms.
FOUR COTTAGES,
Not more than Seven Rooms—between Simcoe and Seaton Streets.
BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
Next Post Office.

BLACK-BOARD

IN THE
SUNDAY-SCHOOL.
A practical guide for superintendents and teachers by Frank Beard. Fully illustrated. $1.50. Artist's Manual of Oil and Water Color Painting, &c., 50 cts. Elocutionist's Journal, 10 cts. Of booksellers or by mail. JESSE HANEY & CO., 110 Nassau St., N. Y.

PAINTER'S Manual.
House and sign painting, graining, varnishing, polishing, kalsomining, papering, lettering, staining, gilding, &c., 50 cts. Furniture and Cabinet Finisher, 50. Watchmaker and Jeweller, 50. Soapmaker, 25. Taxidermist, 50. Of booksellers or by mail. JESSE HANEY & CO., 110 Nassau St., New York.

STOVE & CHESTNUT COAL $5.00 per Ton
MAPLE WOOD - - - 5.00 " " Cord

AT NAIRN'S,

OFFICE, - - - NEXT POST OFFICE.
DOCKS, - - - FOOT OF CHURCH ST.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grubest Beast is the Ass; the grubest Bird is the Owl;
The grubest Fish is the Oyster; the grubest Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, 6TH OCTOBER, 1877.

Theatrical.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—MR. F. W. ROBINSON, the distinguished English Actor, is the star at this house the present week. His acting is very graceful and finished, and all who desire to spend an evening of pleasantry should take this opportunity of seeing him.

Good as Ever.

BELFORD'S Magazine and the Fortnightly Review for the current month have reached GRIP's table, and insure a delightful feast of reason as usual.

Little Stories.

I.

There was once a funny old person,
Named Senator D. L. MACPHERSON,
Who a pamphlet did write
So learned and bright
That it set the Grit party a-cursin'.

But this great man felt taken down rather,
When 'twas found that he wasn't the author,
But he got the job done
By some humbled one,
Thus taking the praise without bother.

II.

There once was a sheet called the Mail,
Which alleged that fraud did prevail
In the "Central Committee,"
(Supposed to be Gritty)—
But when challenged for proof, it turned tail.

New Drama—"The Unfortunate Citizen."

SCENE—The backwoods. CITIZEN ruralizing for benefit of his health. COUNTRY URBIN detailed from farm to take CITIZEN out shooting.

CITIZEN (who has done about four miles of steep moun'ain climbing in the bush).—Do you think, my boy, there is any chance of our seeing partridges?

BOY.—Lots of 'em somewhar. I always skeers up heaps of 'em round here. Queer as none of 'em shows to day. (Noise heard in distance.) Thar's one drummin' on a log. Come along, mister. (Rushes off.)

CITIZEN, (greatly excited, tumbles off slippery log into mass of hemlock stubs, emerges from thicket of underbrush with scratched face).—Where? where? where?

BOY.—Here, here, (Citizen runs panting after, catches him, and they presently approach partridge on log pluming its feathers, CITIZEN goes to cock the gun, hits the hammer with back of his hand—Bang!—partridge exit with loud whirr.)

CITIZEN.—Bless my soul! Never did such a thing before! What a fine bird! Let's go after him.

BOY (rather tired of the hill).—He's flewed to the low lands. They always does go thar about noon, (they travel two miles down hill and get into big swamp.)

CITIZEN (who is now perched on hammock among elder bushes).—Do they ever come here?

BOY.—Lots and lots? Very skeerce to-day. Thar! I sees one. (Skips over bog; Citizen dashes furiously after; sinks deep in black swamp muck; splashes through it, trips on root and tumbles; gets up with face and hands covered.)

BOY (staring up).—Look, look!

CITIZEN (Sees on branch above big bird astonished at fuss; takes aim—Bang!—bird falls).—Splendid partridge!

BOY.—Young howl.

CITIZEN (throwing it away).—So it is. Beastly place. Let's get back to dinner. I'm all mud (wipes his face with great bunch of leaves.)

BOY.—Snakes alive! Whatyer doin'? Them's nettles, Lor you'll hev a face tomorrel!

CITIZEN.—Hang it all! (Washes his face in black pond.) Hullo! (jerks his head up). What—What's that? Damn 'em! Pull 'em off!

BOY (pulls two good sized leeches off Citizen's face).—Horrid creeters them blood-suckers be; they aint pyson, though.

CITIZEN.—Come along! Let's get out of this! (Splashes off followed by boy.)

ACT II.

NEXT DAY—FISHING.

CITIZEN (Holding out big fishing pole under shade of tree; boy scaring off mosquitoes with branch).—If you had not to waive that thing, I might catch a fish, if there ever was one in the river!

BOY.—Can't stop waivin' we'd be bit to all tarnashun. Thar's a bite! Pull!

CITIZEN (Gives tremendous pull and hauls up awful looking open-mouthed object).—A great catfish! Beast! Here, he's swallowed the hook and half the line, (Spears his finger on sharp fin.) Darn it! (Breaks line and throws fish squash against a tree.) Give me the other hook! (fishes again).

BOY.—Gosh all spiders! (jumps away). Look, mister!

CITIZEN (Hears a peculiar rattling "Zip, zip, zip!" on bank; looks and sees very full-grown rattlesnake—starts back, falls into six feet of remarkably muddy water, gets hold of branch pulis himself out; snake crawls off).—Guess we'll go home, I don't think there is much fish in this river.

BOY.—We ketches lots. I knows a place a little furdur in the—CITIZEN.—Yes, "a little further." Don't want to go there. I'm bit to death with mosquitoes; burn't up with nettles; can't see how much clothes I have left for the mud, and am so stiff with walking I can hardly stand. If this is amusement, I want something serious.

(Exit boy carrying pole.)

The Water Rate.

It was a worthy citizen
Of credit and renown.
Who long had been well known within
Our big Toronto town.

Who had a lot of houses got
On both sides of the way,
And much did hate big water rate
Upon them all to pay.

And cast around with thought profound,
And exercised his wit.
With labour great to cogitate
How he might lower it.

With heart elate he thought him straight
Upon a certain clause,
A clause unwise, which dead now lies
Among the city laws.

Who never got, and needed not
The city water, he
Would make to pay as well as they
Who used it steadily.

But people say another way
The thing will have to go,
For this would be clear robbery
As honest men do know.

Letter of an Indignant Lady.

TO MR. GRIP:

SIR, Observing that you are the friend of our sex, I write to you in a tone of astonished remonstrance. Why cannot my husband get me all I want?

My desires are moderate. A handsome house, a few horses, two or three carriages, sufficient servants, a seaside residence for summer, and a blank cheque weekly, are all I need—at present.

I am sure you would agree with me that my life would be much more comfortable with these concomitants, and that my husband should see that I could also render his more agreeable, did I possess them.

He will not give me them!!!!

He says he is not able!!!!

This is, you will agree with me, utterly unreasonable, when many in no better circumstances do even more for their wives. And he agreed to cherish and protect me!!!!

He is in business, and he says the expense would bankrupt him. I agree with him, and tell him that is the very thing necessary. But he will not agree with me!!!!

Now, Sir I am sure you read with pleasure the charming disclosures made in a late bankruptcy case—how the husband didn't know what the entries were, or how much money his wife had had, or what her houses cost, or what the household expenses were, or anything but that she had everything fine, and spent a very charming lot of money indeed. Now I want my husband to do that, and then if necessary begin again, and afterwards do it, and if required do it some more. And he will not!!!!

I am the most injured, the most persecuted the most wretched of women. I sign myself

AN OUTRAGED FEMALE.

Toronto, Oct. 2, 1877.

He Will not Do.

I would not enter on my list of friends,
 Though graced with polished manners, yet fine sense
 Wanting, and sensibility, the man
 Who needlessly would some two dollars hoard,
 Nor turn aside, and pay it down for GRIP,
 Delivered for a year. A list of friends!
 He is no friend; he never had a friend;
 He never could be friend to aught on earth,
 Save his two dollars' chink; he is some knave
 Who paltrily doth sneak along the streets,
 And spy the noble illustrates of GRIP,
 In bookshop window hang, and gaineth thence Amusement more than fillet his small soul
 Up to the bursting point, yet buyeth not,
 But crawlth off, and rubs his dollars two Within his waistcoat pouch, and chuckleth then
 Deep in the place where others have their souls:
 "Am I not clever?—I have thus much got Free gratis out of GRIP." Poor miserling—
 Pumpkin of heart, and pipkinized of head,
 I wiste no thought on him.

But you who would
 Were we but once acquainted, soon be placed
 On friendship's dearest scroll, who haply know
 Nothing of this the chief Canadian sheet,
 Oh, stay not longer thus. Bethink you, this Is now the Nineteenth Century, and that Men of your most undoubted calibre
 Should not remain in ignorance, nor should Forfeit the only literary joy
 That this young country yields. How soothing, when You have the public movements striv'n to scan,
 By aid of dim and particoloured lights,—
 Those lanterns dark by which the Globe and Mail,
Et genus omne hoc discover part,
 Part hide in deepest shade—to turn to GRIP,
 And view his iridescent picturing Reveal at once the whole. And there are those Who have not yet subscribed!!

Canadian Rights Entertainment.

WHEN the night was come, the Sultan SANDIMAKENZI repaired again to the cauchon and begged him to relate the rest of the story of Wandering Willie and the Cûte Vizier. At which the cauchon, making a low bow, resumed as follows:

When the Grand Vizier SIRJONNAY announced to WANDERING WILLIE that he had appointed him Pasha of the North West land, WILLIE was greatly delighted, and, having kissed the hand of the generous Vizier, he retired to make the necessary preparations for his journey. As soon as he had withdrawn, the Grand Vizier fell into a great fit of laughter, and appeared to be highly pleased. So much noise did he make in thus giving vent to his joy, that one of his attendants entered his presence and requested to know if anything had struck him, or if he was often taken in that way. To this the Grand Vizier replied that the occasion of his laughter was the clever trick he was about to play upon WANDERING WILLIE. The attendant replied that a demonstration of joy on that account appeared to him to be somewhat premature, "for," said he, "even as I came in to your chamber, I observed this very person, WANDERING WILLIE, already far advanced on his journey towards the North West country, of which he is to be Pasha. Whatever therefore, may be the merit of the trick thou would'st have played upon him, (and I do not doubt it would have been most amusing) he is now beyond thy power, and thy laughter hath been spent in vain." Thereupon the Grand Vizier burst into still louder mirth, at which the attendant greatly marvelled.

Observing the expression of wonder on the attendant's face, the Vizier said, "I perceive thy stupidity, and I will not bring thee relief by relating plainly the nature of this jest I am about to play; but considering that thou hast always served me faithfully, and that thy dulness of mind is probably not thy own fault, I will give thee some light on the matter by relating a little story."

"I thank thee, great Vizier," replied the attendant. "There is nothing I delight in more than the relation of strange adventures, and mayhap I may be able from thy story to guess what is the trick thou wouldst play on WANDERING WILLIE."

"Listen then" said the Grand Vizier, "to the story of

THE PRINCE AND THE WILD GOOSE CHASE.

The King of a certain country had a son, who was very fond of the chase, and kept a large pack of hounds for that purpose. The Prince was greatly attached to these animals, for, besides being well trained, they were all pure white. As may be supposed, he took great pride in caring for them, and even washed them with his own hands thrice every year. At length there appeared amongst them a dog which had a small brown spot upon it. The Prince could not tolerate about him any dog that was not pure white, but he found that this particular animal was fully as good and clever a hunter as any of the pack, and he persuaded himself that the brown spot was but a stain accidentally got in the chase. He therefore tried to wash it out, but in doing so he discovered that it was no mere stain but a natural color. Then he began to hate that hound, and determined to separate it from his pack. He had not the heart to kill him outright, and he found it impossible to get rid of him by whipping, slighting or other manifestations of unkindness. At length he hit upon a plan which affected his purpose. He sent the hound off on a wild goose chase. Having first given him a false scent, he started the poor dog off with his nose to the ground in search of an imaginary wild goose, and so disgusted did the dog become when he found at the end of a journey of many tedious miles, that it had all been for nothing, that he conceived a great hatred of his late master the Prince, and never returned. And so the Prince got rid of the hound with the brown spot, and was happy. When the Grand Vizier had finished his story of the Prince and the Wild Goose Chase," continued the cauchon, still addressing the Sultan SANDIMAKENZI, "he observed that the expression of stupidity was still upon the face of the attendant, so he dismissed him from his presence, forbidding him again to appear before him until he had guessed from this story the nature of the trick intended to be played on WANDERING WILLIE. Meantime WANDERING WILLIE, with all his camels and retinue, was approaching the gates of the country of which he had been appointed Pasha. The sun was just sinking in the West, and everything looked glorious. Little did he think of the horrible fate that awaited him, when—

"But, Great Sultan," the cauchon suddenly said, interrupting himself, "I perceive that it is day: I must leave the Cabinet and start for the North West." "No!" ejaculated SANDIMAKENZI, "I am burning to hear the sequel of thy wonderful story. I go to attend a picnic and transact other state business now, but will hear the end of the story to-night."

So the cauchon stayed another day at the Cabinet.

(To be continued.)

Is There no Change?

Must it be ever thus—shall we aspire
 Never to more than this diminished span,
 To eat and sleep at ease our chief desire,
 As if the selfsame aim had beast and man,
 Food, drink, and shade provided—no more they will or can.

It is for these alone—what other end
 Employs Canadian hand—Canadian brain?
 The house once built,—the gold once saved—they spend
 For these alone, and to no more attain,
 This—this asylums fill, and fill them yet again.

Man must have more than this—his soul consents
 Not to be levelled with the lower kind,
 Their satiation never him contents,
 Dwarfed, shrivelled, crushed perforce, the human mind
 Consumes itself, and sinks in idiocy blind.

For this we build, and yet must build once more
 The mighty piles which cage our mindless ones,
 For this we see in emigration pour
 To other climes, our country's noblest sons,
 The first's sad fate is known—that fate the second shuns.

There is no room for aspiration here,
 Nor will be while we prostitute the land
 To be the feeder base whence others rear
 Their fabric—the support on which they stand,
 The growers but of grain reared never nation grand.

Think what we are, and think what we might be,
 Four millions on a territory's marge
 Fit to sustain four hundred, while we see
 Where day by day grows larger and more large
 Our neighbor, till he shall relieve us of our charge.

Oh, spring from those whose sturdy hand will
 Have won for them on earth the foremost place,
 Why occupy this false position still,
 Base, grovelling, far unworthy of your race,
 The means of strength are known—why not those means embrace?

Assist the farmer's art—it is but one
 Ingredient in the compound of success.
 Add manufacture, and of countries none
 Shall ours exceed in power and nobleness,
 Thought scarce can show the change; words scarce can it express.

PROPERTIES FOR SALE.

ONTARIO STREET north of Wellesley, two brick fronted houses, nine rooms, extra finish, bow windows, folding doors, grates, &c. Good cellar, hard and soft water. Lot 23 x 126. Price $1,900 each.

NIAGARA STREET, two rough cast houses, seven rooms, hard and soft water. $2,500 for both. Would exchange for farm.

ESTHER STREET, two story dwelling, six rooms. Price $900.

D'ARCY STREET. New brick dwelling, extra finish, eight rooms, bath-room, vestibule and folding doors, bow window, grates, &c. Price $2,700.

ADELAIDE ST. WEST. Brick fronted semi-detached house—eight rooms, hard and soft water. This is a new house and extra well finished. Price $2,800.

CHURCH STREET. Roughcast house, twelve rooms, folding doors, grates, etc. Lot 21x130, to a lane 20 feet wide. Price, $2,500, half cash.

DALHOUSIE STREET. Three houses, 6 rooms, hard and soft water. $1,250 each.

RICHMOND ST. WEST. Two roughcast houses, 11 rooms, splendidly finished, bath room and every convenience. $3,000.

WILLIAM HENRY STREET, rough cast house, seven rooms, grate, folding doors, &c. $1,800.

ORDE STREET, rough cast cottage, six rooms. $1,000.

SUFFOLK PLACE, rough cast, detached, nine or ten rooms. $2,600.

BEACHELL STREET, store and dwelling, $1,100.
Cottage, 5 rooms, hard and soft water, $700.

HURON STREET, two story house, rough cast, eight rooms and summer kitchen, $2,300.

PROPERTIES WANTED.

ST. JAMES WARD, Cottage of about five rooms.

ST. THOMAS WARD, a detached or semi-detached house of about nine rooms, good yard, with stable or room to build one. Price about $2,500.

ST. ANDREWS WARD, house of about 7 rooms, near the market. Price $1,000 to $1,500

EAST OF YONGE STREET, two story house of six or seven rooms. Price $1,400 to $1,800.

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,

NEXT POST OFFICE.

THE ADAMS & WESTLAKE Non-Explosive Oil Stoves

For Cooking and Heating. Call and see the new BED-ROOM HEATER, at

56 King Street West.

CHARLES BRODIE, - - General Agent for Canada.
Ovens, Flat Iron Heaters, and Broilers, for Gas Stoves, on hand.

WANTED!

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN TO LEARN TELEGRAPH operating for offices opening in the Dominion. Send 3 cent stamp for circular. Address MANAGER, Box 955, Toronto

J. F. DANTER, M. D.

Homeopathist and Medical Electrician. Office and Pharmacy: 4 Albert Street, (Cor. Yonge) Toronto. Medicine for sale, vials refilled. Letters promptly answered.

BOARD AND LODGING. A FEW gentlemen can be accommodated with good board and pleasant rooms; also day board, at 49 Richmond St., East.

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT.

Ottawa, 24th August, 1877.

AUTHORIZED DISCOUNT ON American invoices until further notice, 4 per cent.

v-6-tf

J. JOHNSON,
Commissioner of Customs.

A. ELKIN IS IN TOWN WITH HIS letter Copying Book and Ink copies letters without press brush or water, St. James Building, Room 11 46 Church St. next to King St.—Agents wanted.

1823. SEND FOR 1878.

THE NEW YORK OBSERVER

The best Religious and Secular Family Newspaper. $3.15 a Year, post-paid. Established 1823.

37 PARK ROW, NEW YORK.

SAMPLE COPIES FREE.

Marlborough House,

UNION RAILWAY STATION.

Cor. Front and Simcoe Sts., Toronto.

The above commodious and centrally located house combines all Modern Appointments, Steam Heating, etc. Affords Excellent Accommodation at Moderate Rates. Having reduced its figures from $2 to $1.50 per day.

M. A. TROTTER, PROPRIETOR.
F. HODGINS, and A. M. CARDIGAN, Managers.

N.B.—Omnibus free.

THE PRINTER'S MISCELLANY.

The Printer's Miscellany will be ready for delivery in about two weeks. The subscription lists and accounts were lost in the fire of 20th June. Subscribers whose term of subscription had not expired will please send their names, addresses, amounts paid, and date of subscription, as soon as possible. Those whose term ended with the June number should lose no time in renewing, otherwise considerable difficulty will be experienced in securing back numbers. The paper will only be sent to those whose subscriptions are paid in advance. Subscriptions and advertisements respectfully solicited.

HUGH FINLAY,

St. John, N. B.

Editor and Proprietor.

REMOVAL.

"Grip" wishes to return his best thanks to the people of Canada for their liberal patronage heretofore, and to inform them that he has removed to more extensive premises, in that very handsome Stone Front edifice, erected last summer, now known as the

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS,

WHICH IS

One Door West of the Post Office.

Where he is prepared to execute all Orders, from a

LABEL TO A 3-SHEET POSTER

WITH NEATNESS AND DESPATCH.

CARDS.

We are prepared to fill Orders by Mail for Visiting Cards (Finest Bristol, White or Tinted) immediately on receipt of letter, and forward by FIRST MAIL, at the following

RATES:

100 Cards, (one name, one style type), 75 cents.
50 " " " " 50 "
25 " " " " 50 "

Printing addresses on Cards, 10 cents extra for each Order.

THE FOLLOWING ARE

SAMPLES OF TYPE

FROM WHICH A CHOICE MAY BE MADE

1

Robert Taylor.

2

William Richardson.

3

Miss Maggie Thompson.

4

George Augustus Williams.

5

Mrs. Thomas Jones.

6

William Arthur Crawford.

7

Miss Susie Wade.

8

Byron A. Scott.

9

William Shakespeare.

Write your Name and the Number of the Letter you desire plainly, to prevent mistakes.

BENGOUGH BROS.,
IMPERIAL BUILDINGS,

TORONTO, ONT.

THE INNOXIOUS VIPER.

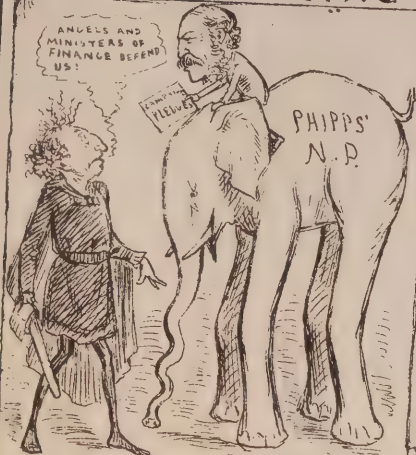

"AND HE SHOOK THE BEAST OFF INTO THE FIRE AND FELT NO HARM."

DOMINION THEATRE, OTTAWA CITY.
RE-ENGAGEMENT FOR A BRIEF SEASON, OF THE POPULAR CONSERVATIVE
TRAGEDIAN,

JOHN A. MACDONALD!
IN HIS ORIGINAL SHAKSPEAREAN CHARACTERS
SUPPORTED BY A POWERFUL COMPANY FROM THE PROVINCES.

COMMENCING THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 13TH 1879!!!

HAMLET.

MACDONALD!

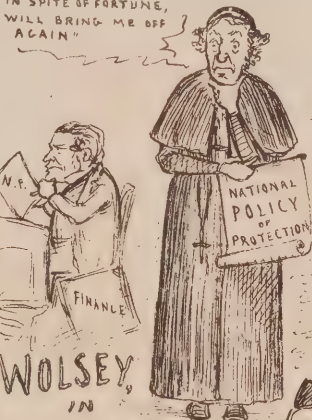

MACBETH.

RICHARD III.

"I KNOW 'T WILL STIR HIM STRONGLY, YET I KNOW A WAY, IF IT TAKE RIGHT, IN SPIKE OF FORTUNE, WILL BRING ME OFF AGAIN."

WOLSEY, IN HENRY VIII.

IAGO IN OTHELLO.

OWING TO THE EXPENSE OF THIS ENGAGEMENT, PRICES WILL BE RAISED ALL OVER THE COUNTRY.

THE COMING ATTRACTION!

PUBLISHER'S NOTE.

GRIP is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, No. 20 Adelaide Street, East.

Subscription price, $2 per annum; single copies 5 cents. For sale by newsdealers. Back numbers supplied.

Advertisements and subscriptions received at the office, to which all communications should be addressed.

GEORGE BENGOUGH,
Business Manager,
No. 20 Adelaide St., Toronto.

RE-ISSUE OF GRIP CARTOONS

Covers for binding the Re-issue of GRIP Cartoons will be ready in a few days.

Cloth, green and gold, with comic design by J. W. Bengough.

Price $1.00.

ROGERS & LARMINIE,
Publishers,
Adelaide Street.

SIGN OF
THE GOLDEN BOOT!
200 Yonge Street.

Gents' and Boys' Gaiters and Lace
Socks, Sizes and Half Sizes, OUR OWN
MAKE, down to 15. Hand Pegged and Hand Sewed. Cannot be beat for style and Quality at the price in the Dominion. Several job lots selling VERY CHEAP to make room for
SPRING GOODS!

WHICH ARE ARRIVING EVERY WEEK.
Come and see them.

Wm. West & Co.
"Golden Boot," 200 Yonge St.

A FOX,
Yorkville Boot & Shoe Mart.
GENTS', LADIES' AND MISSES'
SHOES OF EVERY DE-SCRIPTION,
Special attention given to measurement.

WANTED.
Back Numbers of GRIP.
OL. I. Nos. 10, 11, 13, 14, 19, 21.
OL. III., No. 7.
OL. IV., No. 5.
Persons having any of the above will oblige by communicating with
GRIP Office, 20 Adelaide Street.

VICTORIA
PHOTOGRAPHIC
GALLERY,
86 Queen St. West, Toronto.
J. Hansford, Prop.

Search, Cochran & Co.
STOCK BROKERS,
Members of the Stock Exchange,
REAL ESTATE AGENTS,
88 Toronto Street, Toronto.
W. B. SCARTII. R. COCHRAN.
References:—J. Stevenson, Quebec
Bank; Dominion Bank, Toronto

RE-ISSUE "GRIP" CARTOONS. PART VIII. NOW READY.

VOLS. I. & II. NEATLY BOUND IN CLOTH, WILL BE READY IN ABOUT TWO WEEKS. THE TWO COMPLETE FOR $3.50. ORDER AT ONCE.

"GRIP" OFFICE, 20 ADELAIDE STREET EAST.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, JULY 10, 1875.

GRIP OFFICE, } The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; } 5 CTS. EACH.
20 ADELAIDE ST. } The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool. } $2 PER ANNUM.

TORONTO DIRECTORY OFFICE, 8 VICTORIA STREET, NEAR POST OFFICE.

The following Directories are issued from this Office:—TORONTO CITY AND BUSINESS DIRECTORY, NORTHERN RAILWAY DIRECTORY, COUNTY OF OXFORD GAZETTEER AND DIRECTORY, COUNTY OF WELLINGTON GAZETTEER AND DIRECTORY, COUNTY OF YORK GAZETTEER AND DIRECTORY.

To accommodate the public we have procured Directories of the principal Cities in England, United States and Canada, which can be referred to at any time without charge.

FISHER & TAYLOR,
Publishers and Proprietors.

P. O. Box 448.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach GRIP
office not later than Wednesday.—
Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, Grip office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

CONTRIBUTIONS, when accepted, will, for the present, be paid for at the rate of Two DOLLARS per column.
All articles for which payment is expected must be accompanied by the name and address of the author.

VALUABLE PROPERTIES FOR SALE.

13 HOUSES, in desirable localities. Only small payments required down.

6 LOTS on St. George Street, 200 feet deep. Small payments down.

7 FARMS, well improved, good buildings, in Markham, Vaughan,
King, Whitchurch, Uxbridge and
Scott. Favourable terms of payment.

Isolated risks are carried by the old Agricultural Mutual Assurance Association of Canada. The only
Licensed Fire Mutual in Canada.

Greenbacks buying at 85%, selling
at 86%.

Apply to

A. Willis, Broker,
20 1/2 Adelaide Street East.

John S. Grassick & Co.

FAMILY GROCERS,

WINE AND SPIRIT

MERCHANTS,

167 Yonge St. Toronto.

W P. Williams,

134 Queen St. East, Toronto,

[Between George & Sherbourne.]

IDEALER IN

PURE CONFECTIONERY

AND

CHOICE FRUITS.

A select supply of Canned Fruit,
Fish, &c., always on hand.

THE CITY LAUNDRY

AND

Gents' Furnishing Store,

COR. BAY AND ADELAIDE STS.

PERFECT FITTING SHIRTS

MADE TO ORDER.

All Laundry work well and promptly executed.

WILLIAM LEE & Co.

LITHOGRAPHY.

If you want your

BILLHEADS,

CARDS, NOTES,

DRAFTS, &c.

DONE IN

First Class Style,

At moderate figures, go to

G. J. GEBHARDT & Co.,

13 ADELAIDE STREET EAST.

R. G. TROTTER,

DENTIST,

53 KING STREET EAST, - TORONTO.

Nitrous Oxide Gas administered for the painless extraction of teeth.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grubest Genet is the Ass; the grubest Bird is the Owl;
The grubest Fish is the Oyster; the grubest Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, JULY 10, 1875.

Toronto Owls.

A Toronto Owl am I,
By night and by day do I cry,
Some people call it shrieking,
But careless of right or wrong,
I ever repeat my song,
And sing both loud and long,
In spite of their evil speaking.
Too, oo, ut-ut-ya-owl, a-whoo !!

'Tis night, and the weary city
Seeks rest, and craves my pity,
And thousands pray my ceasing,
But I care not what your number,
I'll keep you from your slumber,
Hear this from Don to Humber,
In piercing strength increasing,
Towl, howl, yool, hool, ga, ger, ghool !!!

There, the city I have shaken,
A switchman to awaken,
With my fiendish midnight laughter;
Needless, truly, are my cries,
But I glory to surprise
Sleep from all sleepy eyes,
And to think of their misery after.
Hoo, oo, oo, oo, oo, oo, owl !!!!

In yonder cottage lying,
A little child sinks dying,
My singing gives her anguish;
Each note sends thrills of pain
Into that aching brain,
I'm sending her insane,
Well, what care I how she languish?
Ha, ha, ha, Howl ha yuhoo !!!!

My sister bird the jangling bell,
Can warning give and danger tell,
Which some think quite sufficient;
But the work in which I revel
Is simply to do evil,
And to prove that I'm proficient:
Loot, hoot, mool, mer, oo, oo, oo, owl !!!!

I know I mar your slumber
Every night times without number Till "tired nature" balked of rest with rage does fairly bristle,
But you can't move me to pity,
And in spite of all entreaty,
I'll be night-mayor of the city
For I'm the Railway Whistle;
G. T. Rowl, G. W. Rowl, T. G. Bowl, N. R. Howl, oool, ooot. !

Last (Political) Words of Great Men.

A paragraph giving the "dying words of eminent men" has been going the rounds of the newspapers lately. As political death is fast approaching the many distinguished individuals who occupy public attention in Canada at present, GRIP begs to anticipate a few additional sentences to the item in question:

"Alas! poor flock, left without a shepherd!"—George Brown.
"This is my last day out!"—Crooks.
"No bribing death?"—Maddiver.
"After life's fitful wanderings we rest well."—W. Macdougall.
"Na'e'en the Isolated Risk hae any power o' insurance 'gainst a mon's latter end!"—Alex. Mackenzie.
"When the oil of life fails its lamp goeth out."—Pardee.
"Politics don't pay."—R. A. Harrison, Q.C.
"There's a few fellows I wouldn't have minded hanging ere my own tether was cut short."—Sheriff McKellar.
"Methinks it thundereth."—E. B. Wood.

"The reputation of the good shineth like burnished copper!"—Seth Huntingdon.

"This is the first time I ever felt short of breath."—C. F. Fraser.

"These hands are clean!"—Sir John Macdonald.

"I have fought a good fight!"—Edgar.

"Kiss me, Willy!"—M. C. Cameron.

"Life, is but a poor pantomime where clowns jibe and tumble."—Joe Rymal.

"Tell Wood, he had better not speak now!"—Blake.

"I shall soon be a cipher in the great human account."—Cartwright.

"There is laid up for me a goldine crown!"—Wilkes.

"We are but as 'bantams,' or 'babies,' in the strong grip of death."—Jenkins.

"I have kept the faith."—Dymond.

"Bury my 'scrap-book' with me!"—Rykert.

"I travel a road where there is no evading the full toll."—J. Beatty.

"Too heavily weighed! Death's pale horse wins in a canter!"—Pat-teson.

"I stay on the Globe no longer."—J. Gordon Brown.

"I'll be a loss to the whole Nation."—Goldwin Smith.

"Finish my sufferings with a club."—W. H. Howland.

The Centennial.

In accordance with our promise, we proceed to take the reader with us in our tour through the various objects of interests in the several departments and classes of the Philadelphia Centennial Exhibition, with special reference of course to the share therein of Canadian Exhibitors.

The tenth group of the first class comprises mineral raw materials. In this we particularly observe, in class 106, the grindstone used by those who have axes to grind. In the same class are shown some polishing materials from a fashionable boarding school for young ladies, consisting of a French novel or two and some of BRINLEY RICHARDS'S piano music.

Class 102 contains some of the crude petroleum which was pumped up for MR. EASTWICK'S inspection, and other mineral combustibles.

In Class 107 some fine specimens of the granite used for fertilizing purposes in Muskoka are exhibited.

Group 11 containing agricultural products used chiefly for food contains, in addition to the ordinary products of the earth an extra class for grasshoppers, the new and favorite delicacy of the Menmonite settler.

Here, in Class 113, we remark with pleasure the fruits of temperate regions, under which head we should have thought grapes might have been included as having no connection with wine, at least as a rule.

Group 12, devoted to arboriculture, contains many interesting specimens. Class 120 contains, among other fruit-trees, the Canada thistles from which the enterprising managers of the Model Farm have been endeavoring to raise a crop of figs, as yet without much success.

Our Canadian Almanac will take a foremost place in class 122 for annual flowering plants.

Class 125, for orchids and parasitic plants, contains in addition to several awkward looking specimens, the original social parasite of MR. DISRAELI'S Lothair.

In Class 128 the Toronto Harbour Commissioners will exhibit their entire aquatic plant, consisting of an old scow and a steam dredge.

Group 13 is devoted to forest products. Need we say that Manitoba is to the fore in class 132 with an ornamental Wood.

Dyeing, tanning and coloring in class 134 give several newspapers an opportunity of shewing the endless variety of colorings that can be given to the same object.

Class 135. Corks and substitutes for corks of vegetable growth. This restriction excludes the human thumb. A corn-cob is not to be relied on. The best substitute for a cork is to empty the bottle, unless so far in the forest that there is no hope of getting it filled again.

Class 139. The miscellaneous products of the forest include mosquitoes, blackflies, deerflies and any amount of ferocious insects.

In Group 14. Class 140 shews the difference between the actual tobacco leaf and the five cent cigar.

We linger at Class 147 to inhale the exhilarating perfume of the catnip and skunk-cabbage, and pass on to Group 16, of animals and live stock. It may be remarked that persons bringing wolves and wild-cats are requested to provide their own cages. During the present financial stringency a number of persons will be only too glad to send away the wolves from their doors for purposes of exhibition.

Some members of the Canada First party show the lynx that bind them to the mother country. The poor animal appears very thin.

Group 17, of fishes and fish products, will include, if not a whale, something very like it. The JONAH of the Ontario cabinet will appear in connexion with this group.

In class 171. The Monetary Times shows a very fine TROUT, in the class of fishes, living and preserved. A PIKE and some SUN fish complete the list of contributions, with the exception of a few suckers.

Class 179 contains whalebone and shagreen. The latter denomination is mainly supplied by defeated candidates at recent elections.

The proprietor of the Leader has sent several emissaries to secure the Waubushene swordfish, who were assisted in their search by several Orillia newspaper men. They found no traces of the monster and came back swearing at being fooled. So Canada is not likely to boast of one after all.

Group 18. Class 180. THE DAIRY. An unrivalled specimen of Toronto milk will attract all eyes, rivalling the sapphire in its cerulean hue and pellucid clearness, and the vendor rivalling Sapphira in his asseverations of its purity.

In Class 182 we find there is nothing like leather except some kind of beef. Here we observe parchment enough for all the commissions a countryman has to execute when he goes into town, and some to spare for those of the Ministry. Also for its even less legitimate use as drumheads for perambulating bands.

The Department ends in the nineteenth group with preserved meats, vegetables and fruits, among which several venerable sardines appear without any tin. Some corned beef from a rural hotel was placed by a pardonable mistake in the leather class, and some pork of a rich yellow tinge gave rise to doubts as to whether it was intended for railway grease or animal perfumes. Cannington carried off the palm from most Canadian competitors, though Canfield pressed it closely, it being at length decided that there was no necessity to can a whole field, when the produce was all that was wanted.

Modern Devotion.

(A number of Pic-nics, in aid of church-building, were held on Dominion Day.)

Beg, beg, beg,
From morn till dewy eve;
Beg, beg, beg,
No house unvisited leave,
Eggs and butter and flour,
Flour and butter and eggs;
In these is latent a holy power,
For these each sister begs.

Bake, bake, bake,
For oh! 'tis for the Church:
Bake, bake, bake
Our Committee out of the lurch.
Bake, bake, bake;
We'll give bread for stones;
So sisters, bake, e'en if you ache
Through all your tender bones.
Eggs and butter and flour, &c.

Batter and knead and bake
The jumbled full of your bag,
And show your skill in various cake
Till not an arm can wag.
Pies and puddings and paste
Pile up in ample store
For stomachs good,—none go to waste,
Though we had even more.
Eggs and butter and flour, &c.

Slops and sweets and sweat
May mingle at their will;
Our zeal and heat may make us wet,
Yet we our guests must fill.
Eggs and butter and flour, &c.,

Shout, shout, shout,
And young Ontario Crown;
Spout, spout, spout,
On the dingy past look down.
Gold, gold, gold,
In the ages long ago,
Paid the saints of old,
Or their lands they sold,
To make their temples grow.
Eggs and butter and flour, &c.,

Saints, saints, saints—
Their feelings would be shocked,
And every grave professor faints
And thinks himself just mocked.
Bill or cheque to give
For love of God or man:
"Oh no! he just can live;
But he knows a better plan."
Eggs and butter and flour, &c.,

"On cakes and tea and pies
A sound foundation lay,
And thence you'll see a structure rise
Shall mark the present day.
Faith and alms and prayer—
Such things are out of date;
In the ways of old we wish no share,
Nor of them hear men prate."
Eggs and butter and flour, &c.,

Smug and cheap and bright,
M. E. or St. Bridget's walls
Will rise to becoming height
With few and little calls
On any good man's purse;
The tea-shine does it all;
To it we'll have recourse
Oft as the funds may fall.
Eggs and butter and flour, &c.,

Day, day, day,
"Day better the better day";
Now God is pleased,
No saint is squeezed,
And we have had our play.
Shroud, shroud, shroud!
In sight of it (I say)
We'll give God thanks aloud
For this work of Dominion Day.
Eggs and butter and flour,
Flour and butter and eggs;
In these is latent a holy power,
For these each sister begs.

"Sub tegmine fagi."

BY RICHARD DE DICKE.

Beneath my favourite spreading oak,
With boughs broad-stretching, as I sit,
And take my peaceful morning smoke
While Fancy's visions o'er me flit.
The town and lake beneath me lie,
And, on the dim horizon far,
Looms indistinct before my eye
Thy distant shore, Niagara!

Amid the leaves soft zephyrs play,
The meadows, fresh with genial showers,
Shine forth in verdure's brightest ray,
And richer tints adorn the flowers.
In various shapes and hues the clouds,
O'er heaven's expanded azure stream;
Now veil the sun in shadowy shrouds.
Now melt before his strengthening beam!

I sit and smoke, and think 'tis true
(As saith the bard) that "blest is he Who wealth, nor power doth ne'er pursue,"—
Nor "Boss" of any kind would be.
Avant! ye "Politicians" all!
Who still our peace of mind assail—
(Like angry cats which fiercely wail—
With curving back and swelling tail.)

Here, in my calm retreat, I snap
My fingers at your snarling din;
Nor care in sooth a single rap
For who is "out", or who is "in".
Nor ask—but lo! who comes us here?
Who standeth at my garden gate?
What loon is this brings letter here,
And saith, "for answer he will wait?"

I know him by his scent of ink,—
I know him by his demon smile,—
I know him by his fiendish wink,—
Exulting in his errand vile.
And me he knoweth too; and knows
He's going to have me on the hip,
For thus his fearful missive flows,
"Please send some 'copy' up. Yours, GRIP!"

* * * * *
My pipe is out. My joys fled far,
All nature's clothed with sudden gloom;
P. D's, fell destinies they are
Which dog man's footsteps to the tomb!
Oh! for a lodge in land remote
From printers' ruthless whirl and whirl!
A land where no one wants to "vote"
On anything, from year to year.

When tar and feathers prompt await
On all who newspapers peruse,
And his is deemed the happiest state
Who never knows of any "news"
Where Vigilance Committees deal
With "Editors," wherever found,
And ne'er one solitary squeal
For "copy," breaks life's blissful round!

ONTARIO ADVISORY BOARD ARTS & MANUFACTURES DEPARTMENT.

CANADIAN COMMISSION,
International Exhibition,
1876.
PHILADELPHIA.

PROVINCE OF ONTARIO,
TORONTO, June 19th, 1875. }

Notice is hereby given, that this Board are prepared to receive applications from intending exhibitors at the International Exhibition, and to furnish all required information, forms of application, etc., etc.

Immediate application is necessary to secure space.

The transportation, receiving, the unpacking and arranging of the products for exhibition, will be at the expense of the Canadian Commission.

The Canadian Commission will provide, at their own cost, all show cases, shelving, counters, fittings, &c., which they may require; and all countershafts, with their pulleys, belting, &c., for the transmission of power from the main shafts in the machinery hall. All arrangements of articles and decorating must be in conformity with the general plan adopted by the Director-General.

The Canadian Commission will take precautions for the safe preservation of all objects in the Exhibition, and it will be responsible for damage or loss of any kind, or for accidents by fire or otherwise.

The Canadian Commission will employ watchmen of their own choice to guard their goods during the hours the Exhibition is open to the public.

For further information apply to the Secretary of the Ontario Advisory Board.

W. H. FRASER,
39 Scott street,
Toronto, Ont.

THE HON. A. McKELLAR,
Provincial Secretary,
Chairman of Board.

7-4 in.

COLLEGE OF PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS OF ONTARIO.

The Matriculation Examination of the above will be held on TUESDAY, THE 6TH INSTANT, at 9 a.m.; in the COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

ARCHIBALD MACMURCHY, M.A.,
Examiner.

ALL KINDS OF

PRINTING,
NEATLY, CHEAPLY,
QUICKLY,
EXECUTED AT

"GRIP" OFFICE,
20 Adelaide Street East.

WANTED.—A young man, who has had about three years experience in job printing, and understands running a Gordon Press. Apply at "Grip" office, 20 Adelaide Street East.

USE THE DIAMOND YEAST CAKE.

SWIMMING BATH,
IN THE BAY,
Open Every Day from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m.,
ON ARMOUR'S WHARF, NEAR UNION STATION.
Charge, 10 cents; Enclosed Bath, 15 cents. Season
Ticket, $1.50—5-6-8in

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT.

Ottawa, April 9, 1875.

AUTHORIZED DISCOUNT ON
American invoices until further notice, 15 per cent.

J. JOHNSON,
Commissioner of Customs.

BROWN BROS.,

WHOLESALE & MANUFACTURING

STATIONERS,

No. 66 & 68 King St., East,

TORONTO.

ATTENTION!

PHOTOGRAPHS AND STEREOSCOPIC VIEWS.

Any one wishing to exhibit the beauties of Toronto and the wonders of Niagara, to their absent friends, will do well to call and examine our collection of Stereoscopic views.

A choice selection of Cabinet and Carte de Visite Photographs of

Neilson,
Rousby,
Scott Siddons,
Kellogg,
Lucca,
Patti,
Barnes,
Toole,
Booth,

And other celebrities of the stage always on view.
Photographs not on hand can be ordered from our agents in New York.

A. S. IRVING & Co.,
Corner Toronto and Adelaide Streets,
TORONTO.

HAND-IN-HAND MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY.

Financial Statement for the Year
ending Dec. 31, 1874.

REVENUE.

Cash Premiums and Interest $25,486 13

DISBURSEMENTS.

Claims under Policies paid $8,348 95
Claim Appropriation for Losses resisted
and waiting proof 750 00
Agents, Commission, Salaries, Direc-
tors Fees, Office Rent, &c. 6,192 73
Scrip Appropriation to Policy-holders
of 1874, on deposit in Royal Canadian Bank, being forty per cent. 10,194 45
..... $25,486 13

W. H. HOWLAND, President.
HUGH SCOTT, Manager & Sec'y.

Audited and found correct.
ERNEST G. PULFORD, } Auditors.
GEO. J. MAULSON, }

Risks accepted on all Descriptions of Insurable Property.
Rates fixed with regard to the Laws of Average. All the
Profits divided among Policy-holders annually.

Head Office :

Ontario Hall, Church Street, Toronto.
SCOTT & WALMSLEY,
General Agents.

SAMO & JOHNSTON,

WHOLESALE
CABINET MAKERS
AND
UPHOLSTERERS.

WAREHOUSES, - 187 and 189 YONGE STREET.
FACTORY, - - - - - YORKVILLE.

Our facilities enable us to supply the Trade and the Public generally with

DRAWING ROOM,
DINING ROOM,
BED ROOM AND
LIBRARY FURNITURE
in the latest English and American styles, at prices that defy competition.

Masonic,
Oddfellow,
Orange,
Forester,

And other Society Lodge room Furniture, carved in accordance with the most approved designs, and unsurpassed
for elegance, utility and economy.
The fullest satisfaction guaranteed in all cases. Give us a call.

REMEMBER THE ADDRESS :

187 AND 189 YONGE ST., UNDER ALBERT
HALL.

Corner Jarvis & Adelaide Sts.,
TORONTO, ONT.

JOHN D. NASMITH,

Manufacturer of

BREAD, ROLLS, BUNS, CAKES, &c., &c.,

A superior article of Bread delivered daily throughout
the city.

TORONTO'S NEW BROOM
AND A CIVIC FLOOR THAT NEEDS SWEEPING.

Every Lady should have "THE FAHEY BROS." KID GLOVES, Every Pair Warranted. See that each pair bears Their Own Mark.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE

Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.

Subscription price, $2 per annum, strictly in advance. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied.

ONTARIO

Baking Powder.

WHITE, ODORLESS, & DOES NOT DISCOLOR.

Manufactured at the Ontario Coffee and Spice Steam Mills,

W. J. SMITH,
TORONTO.

WANTED
TO PURCHASE

HOUSE on Church St., south of Carlton, 8 to 12 rooms, must be first-class.
COTTAGE in St. John's Ward - 5 rooms.

FOUR COTTAGES.
Not more than Seven Rooms - between Simcoe and Seaton Streets.

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
Next Post Office.

GORRELL,
CRAIG
Co.,
LITHOGRAPHERS

13
MELBAIDE ST
EAST.

FARM FOR SALE.

A very desirable farm for a gentleman's residence, consisting of 31 acres, in the Township of Pickering, County of Ontario, overlooking Frenchman's Bay. A small stream runs through the north west corner. There is of Pears, Plums, Cherry and Apple trees. Covering twelve acres, nine of which are only six years old, just commencing to bear. The soil is as good as can be found in the township, which is equivalent to saying there is none better in the province.

A Capital Orchard

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
REAL ESTATE AGTS.
IMPERIAL BUILDINGS.
Next Post Office, Toronto.

WANTED.
A HOUSE TO RENT,
About $12 per month,
Address J. G., GRIP Office.

GO TO

"GRIP"
OFFICE
FOR YOUR JOB
PRINTING.

MARBLE CLOCKS

Direct from PARIS.

FINEST GOODS EVER SHOWN IN TORONTO.

W. F. ROSS & CO., 83 KING STREET EAST.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1877.

GRIP OFFICE, } The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; } 5 CTS. EACH.
IMPERIAL BUILDING. } The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool. } $2 PER ANNUM.

CHEAP BOOKS.

FOURTEEN WEEKS IN PHILOSOPHY $1.50 LIVE & LESSONS OF THE PATRIARCHS $1.50.
TORONTO OF OLD $3.00. PREHISTORIC TIMES $2.50.
STUDIES FOR THE PULPIT $2.00. STONES CRYING OUT $1.00.
TYPES AND EMBLEMS 60c. SERMONS BY TALMAGE $1.00.
TEXT BOOKS OF S. BENCE $1.00. COCHRANE'S SERMONS $1.50.
CANADIAN FARMERS' MANUAL $2.00 DOMESTIC WORLD 75c.
sent to any address on receipt of price.

BENGOUGH BROS.,
IMPERIAL BUILDINGS, (First door west of Post Office) TORONTO.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach GRIP office not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

GENTLEMEN

Collars of all the Newest Styles gotten up EQUAL TO NEW, at

2 1-2cts. each or 25cts. per doz. at

TORONTO STEAM

LAUNDRY.

HALLEY'S HALL,
COR. KING & BAY STS.

G. P. SHARPE, Prop.

BROWN BROTHERS,

Account-Book Manufacturers,

Stationers, Bookbinders, etc.,

66 & 68 KING ST. EAST.

TORONTO, ONT.

H. T. ALLSOPP,

DEALER IN

FINE BOOTS AND SHOES.

7 KING STREET EAST

TORONTO.

(4th door east of Yonge)

TO
YOUNG MEN

Wishing to learn

TELEGRAPHING,

A certificate good for

Twenty Dollars,

Will be sold cheap, good for the

TORONTO INSTITUTE.

Address:-

H. GUMMER,

Box, 2662.

KEEP YOUR FEET DRY

BY USING

Lamb's Waterproof Leather Preserver (White)

Lamb's Waterproof Snow Blacking (Black)

For sale everywhere, price 10 cents per box.

PETER R. LAMB,

Toronto, Ont.

BLACK-BOARD

IN THE

SUNDAY-SCHOOL.

A practical guide for superintendents and teachers by Frank Beard. Fully illustrated. $1.50. Artist's Manual of Oil and Water Color Painting, &c., 50 cts. Elocutionist's Journal, 10 cts. Of booksellers or by mail. JESSE HANEY & CO., 119 Nassau St., N. Y.

PAINTER'S Manual.

Use and sign painting, graining, varnishing, polishing, kalsomining, navoring, lettering, staining, gilding, &c., 50 cts. Furniture and Cabinet Finisher, 50 cts. Watchmaker and Jeweller, 50 cts. Soapmaker, 25 cts. Taxidermist, 50 cts. Of booksellers or by mail. JESSE HANEY & CO., 119 Nassau St., New York.

STOVE & CHESTNUT COAL $5.00 per Ton
MAPLE WOOD - - - 5.00 " Cord

AT NAIRN'S,

OFFICE, - - NEXT POST OFFICE.
DOCKS, - - FOOT OF CHURCH ST.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDOLPH.

The grabest Beast is the Ass; the grabest Bird is the Owl;
The grabest fish is the Oyster; the grabest Man is the fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, 24TH NOVEMBER, 1877.

Volume X.

With this number GRIP enters upon his TENTH VOLUME, and in anticipation of kind enquiries from all quarters of the earth he would say, "First rate, thank you; never felt better in the whole course of my existence!"

The Depression, which has for so long a time been squeezing grumbles out of our business people—all along of that wretched Government—has only affected GRIP in an indirect manner. So far as his financial affairs are concerned he snaps his fingers at it—(if a Raven may be permitted to speak of his talons in that manner). It is in the political department that he has felt its effects. The dullness in trade has begotten a similar dullness in the minds of GRIP's special charge, the politicians, and their movements have for a long time been so sluggish and insignificant that it has put him to no little pains to find matter for his weekly comment—pictorial and otherwise. Fortune, the friend of the good, didn't entirely desert him, however, but sent him the Northern Railway Cow, and a few pic-nic extravaganzas, which tided him over a very trying time. But, perhaps he ought not to complain, especially as this is a Thanksgiving season; and after all, on looking over Volume IX, he sees that his mission of chastising wrongdoers has not been badly fulfilled. Those who would see and judge for themselves, are informed that Vol. IX (or any previous volume) can be obtained, neatly bound, at his office, for a very reasonable sum. Let the past go; the future is full of hope. Pretty soon this political Depression at all events will disappear, whatever the financial Depression may do. Parliament is to meet shortly, and we are promised a session that shall outstrip all its predecessors in violence, vituperation, scandal, and all the other qualities that delight the heart of the cartoon-maker. GRIP is sharpening his pencils for the fray, and the clever young men who furnish his literary good things every week, are cutting their quills in anticipation of a great harvest of fun. Let the reader make a note of this, and if he hasn't already done so, let him subscribe forthwith, and have the coming six months enlivened by regular visits from the numbers of VOLUME X.

A Wifely Query by Mrs. John Greenhorn.

I.

How often in the small hours' gloom,
When JOHN is snoring at my side,
Waking the echoes of the room,
I've sobbed, I've whimpered, and I've cried.

II.

He only winks his nether eye,
And tightly purses up his lips,
To my entreaties he'll reply
By silence, nothing from him slips.

III.

He will not tell the reason why
His waistcoats always cloves contain;
He will not answer when I cry,
"Oh JOHN! beloved JOHN, explain!"

IV.

"And why! Oh why these coffee-beans,
My tears should melt a heart of rock;
Oh, tell your MARTHA what it means,
And why this little square of chalk?"

V.

Oh dearest, kindest, Mister GRIP,
Take pity on a woman's tears,
Let not another moment slip,
But quiet a poor woman's fears!

VI.

Is JOHN a burglar or a thief?
Am I in truth a robber's misses?
My heart is nearly cracked with grief,
Oh! do I share a cracksmen's kisses?

No—he only drinks and plays billiards.—ED.

What Grip Loves.

To watch a dance I love to sit
Against the wall on tilted chair,
And view the joy-flushed damsels flit
Around the room; 'Tis passing fair,
'Tis passing fair! I love it well,
But ten times more the supper-bell,
Calling the hot and happy throng
To ice cream cool and champagne strong,
To lobster salad, chicken; Stay,
No more of this I'll sing or say,
For ghosts of suppers, years digested,
Are from my memory resurrected!

I love to hear the hearty brats
Raising CAIN upon the street,—
Running hand-sleighs, stoning cats,
Or the people whom they meet;
I also love the screams and yells
Which to my ear a story tells
Of angry father; mother wild,
Licking that unsuspecting child!
My soul doth love these sounds bewildering,
Of angry parents whacking children,
I love to hear a traveler old
Tell of the places where he's been;
To hear the hoary liar bold
Recount the things he's never seen;
I like to overhear a lover
Telling oh, such yards of lies,
Swearing by the "heavens above her,"
Swearing by his sweetheart's eyes;
I love a maiden's rippling laugh,
Like wavelets on a moonlit sea,
I love to see a thoughtful calf
Chewing a boot-top on the lea;
And much I love a sailor bold,
No yachting fool in seamen's guise,
But true as steel or oak or gold,
I love his jovial "dash your eyes!"
I love to hear a parrot's talk,
Although its words might soil this page,
I like its clinging, clambering walk,
Head downwards all around the cage;
I love the free and easy grace
With which he cocks his horny nose,
Consigns me to a torrid place,
And squares his light fantastic toes;
And much I love an Indian grim,
Who'd stab and scalp you without fail,
All grand in war paint, huge of limb,
Like SITTING BULL or SPOTTED TAIL;
Oh yes, I love an Indian well,
Of guttural "Ughs" and "Waghs" so full,
With noble instincts, purpose fell,
Like SPOTTED TAIL or SITTING BULL.

The Trinity College Blow Out.

(By our rural Commissioner.)

REVERED GRIP:

When my honoured parents brought me to the city and placed me under your guardianship, they probably did the best thing they could do, in view of all the dangers that surround a rural youth on commencing life; and I am sure it was only your solicitude for my morals that induced you to take me upon your staff, and send me up to attend the Trinity College Dinner on Thursday of last week. "There, my boy," said you, as I was leaving the sanctum, "there you shall mingle among high dignitaries of the church, and the real gentlemen of the land; there also you shall meet clever and exemplary young men; perhaps the visit will do you good." The visit has done me good. It has opened before me all the pleasures of life. I regret that I am not yet sufficiently recovered from the effects of the Dinner—jamboree the exemplary young men called it—to furnish you with a detailed account of the occasion. My nerves are yet unsteady; my head is yet dull and aching, and I feel rather thirsty. But I expect in a few days to be able to tell you all about it. Meantime let me say I did my part nobly; I drank almost as much as the rest of the boys, and did my share of making night hideous in and about the College. We got tin pans and horns, and tore through the corridors, kicking up the deuce along with some of the old fellows. SIR JOHN MACDONALD was there and made a speech, but unfortunately (like many more in the audience) I couldn't see or hear steadily, and so failed to catch the drift of it. I say Trinity College is a brick, and I want you to send me up to the next Dinner they have. Nine Club be hanged, in the meantime.

YOUR REPRESENTATIVE.

The Soliloquies of Fitznoodle of the Club.

III. CAWTWIGHT, AND OTHAW THINGS.

I AM—aw—wather sawpvised at WICHARD JOHN CAWTWIGHT. I don't know pweicely what to think about him. I don't approve altogethaw, you see, of the Mail fellow pitching into him in such a weckless mannaw, and calling him nawsty names, because I have gweat wewspect for WICHARD JOHN—that is, compawwitivity gweat, considwring he is a Gwit. He was once a Consawwative, and he dwesses well even yet. He is the best dwessed tellow in the Gwit wanks, and I wewspect any fellow who dwesses well, whatewaw may be his political opinions. I don't think twifies like politics or weligion ought to pwedulice us against a fellow who dwesses well. Now, WICHARD JOHN dwesses like a gentleman, and I wewspect him accawdingly; he was once a membaw of the pawty of gentlemen, and what is bwed in the bone will come out in the weawing appawel. But, why did WICHARD JOHN leave his Pawty, and go over to the Gwits, wewspectability and all? This is what sawpwises me most. The wewy idea of leawing the wight Hon. SIR JOHN, and going owaw to SANDY MACKENZIE, it is almost too widiculous, down't you know. But Twuth is stwanger than fiction, as some fellow once said, and WICHARD JOHN actually did do this wewy stwange and wetchted thing. The question heaw awises: Why did he do so? Why should any fellow who has been brougnt up to dwess wewspectably, and has associated with fellows like the Wight Hon. SIR JOHN, who dwink wine in the Club, and conduct themselves in ewwy othaw way as gentlemen,—I say, why should such a fellow dwop all this to take up with people like MACKENZIE, BLAKE, BROWN, and HUNTINGDON—pwower enough people, of cawse, in one sense, but not a bit like the Wight Hon. SIR JOHN. Why should he do it? It does seem to me like a fellow selling his mess of pottage faw a mere buthwight. The Mail says that WICHARD JOHN did this wewy stwange thing fwom selfish motives; that he wanted to get a place in the Gwit Cabinet. I wewget to diffaw with my fwied of the Mail—with whom I have dwank so many bottles of champagne—but the twuth is, WICHARD JOHN left the Consawwative wanks befw the Gwits had any notion of coming into office. And as I have wemawked alreawdy, I don't approve of the Mail calling WICHARD JOHN bad names about this; I don't think he did it fwom selfish motives. My own pwivate theow'y—I havn't yet mentioned this to any othaw fellow—is that it was a case of tempowawy insawwiny; not so wewy tempowawy eithaw, because it is going on yet. The wewy fact that any fellow with a pwopaw taste for dwess, could leaw the Consawwative wanks and go to the Gwit wanks is pwime face ewdence of insawwiny. Then, if you want any pwowf to show that WICHARD JOHN is still wong in the head, look at his wewcent speeches. Would any man attack the Wight Hon. and give him such twemendous cawstwagitions in public, if he wew not cwacked? The Wight Hon. knows poor WICHARD JOHN is dwemented; he pwities him so much that he hasn't said a word in wewply to those speeches, and I wather think he will wemain silent. He don't wish to exaspwate the patient.

Maritime Meanderings.

Grip, my old Bird: Let me salute you on the occasion of a first letter as your occasional Correspondent. My errand to the Low Provinces, as we agreed, was, to find out the why and the wherefore of the chopping and changing of the weather, and everything else, where the Marines and Submarines flourish, and the storm drum of the political atmosphere is hoisted as often as the moon changes. To begin, I railed it at once to the Capital City of Halifax, which is a capital place to live and move and get grub in. My card presented for the admiration of Janitors and waiters of the hotels and club-houses, is the key for admission to the presence and conversation of the Bachelor Aristocracy, not to mention a sprinkling of Benedict society. At the Club we put in a stave for everything—Staves we talk about, and by their aid we walk about, and they enter into the manufacture of kegs, barrels, tubs, pipes, hogsheads and puncheons, for the trade in cakes, crackers, shipbread, corned beef, fish or sugar, as the case may be, in cases where no case is used, but barrelshaped of all sizes are substituted. They talk of everything here, from the cost of Labrador herring to the Fishery Commission, but cannot tell me what either of them will cost at the year's end, and from a fish-wife's trousseau to an Admiral's nuptials they are equally at sea, or at fault, till one feels disposed to exclaim, a truce o-truce to such gossip. Yet I only reply in such cases, "Tell it to the Marines!" The Marines they say are the P. E. Islanders, but Acadia is held to be the land of the Sub-marines, since the cables wew stretched from Cape Rae to Cape North, and from Valentia to Torbay, and thence to Rye Beach, where the old rye obtains notoriety. These ropes connect us with the Buoys and Boys of brother JONATHAN, who come over like guys in the guise of fishermen of the Maine state, to reap the in-shore privileges of the Treaty, and post up the books of the Fishery Commission, still sitting and setting their respective nets, to catch the award, and finally distribute the net proceeds. If they don't kill me here with kindness, I shall hail from this (after dinner) Port, so long as Toronto shall bow to the reign of GRIP, and Halifax shall correspond.

I am writing as the clubbists say, fornest the sanctum of the Baker, whose loafing consists not in the use of spring wheat flour, but in the abuse of a May-flower not native to, or sintered to, the taste of the community, but in this regard there are differing views according to the standpoint of the beholder, just as GRIP of late described them in pictorial cartoon, as a contribution to Marine History. Since that burlesque exhibition of one editor others of the editorial fraternity have displayed an itching to be similarly honoured! One of them exhibits a disposition to invite trials of skill with everybody on every disputable topic. This gentleman or co-editor has already enjoyed one trial in the Superior Court, and at a place named KENT, after the Duke of that Ville, and was invited to pay five hundred dollars for the promotion of courtesy in manner editorial! The man who did it for him is known as M. P. WOODWORTH. The aggrieved man of the press has since made war, in Turkish or rushing style, on every one bearing the appellation "WOODWORTH," between this town and Washington, until his mental perception is dazed, and he now goes maundering about the fuel yards alternately saying to himself and the forestallers of slabs, what is WOODWORTH? This same party offers to wager two to one in red cents, 1st That Sir JOHN A. never made Halifax the winter port of Canada; 2nd That he never will make any winter port for Canada except Portland! 3rd That nobody else can make a winter port, except Premier MACKENZIE, and he only after LAURIER's election is assured! 4th That the Vailed and Confined Ministry has been improperly blamed for protection in general, and protection of Portland versus Halifax in particular; 5th That the Mail of Toronto declared that the government should not do anything more than appoint Halifax as the winter Mail-point; and 6th That the summer port is quite unimportant or like the last resort of "any port in a storm!" Cannot you with old Boreas and the Weather Prophet, settle these port-able questions in a summary way? Pray do and send printed particulars, on the wings of your Press. for

ONE OF YOUR MARINE STAFF.

The Gladstonian Opinion.

MR. GLADSTONE having been asked whether, if Canadian interest demanded differential duties in favor of American goods, Canada would be permitted to levy them, replies that no country but Britain would regard the question as an open one, and that the views of the Colonial Office and British Government of the day would settle the matter.—British News.

Sage WILLIAM, ever known so trebly wise,
As on each point to see three courses clear,
Let GRIP, who sees through plain Canadian eyes,
Inform you there are no three courses here.

These questions, and all questions such as these,
Have been transferred to Canada alone;
Great Britain's sovereignty holds; but please
Know this: Canadians' commerce is their own.

You know full well, when Britain duties laid
On every cargo bought of foreign grain,
She favouring discrimination made
On each colonial ship which crossed the main.

But your Free Traders—and some help they had
From you—repealed all customs such as these;
"Who cares for colonists?" they cried. "Get mad?
Why, let 'em, and cut off too if they please!"

It was a heavy blow; and since that day
Your men—your money—built up Yankeealand.
You send them forty for one sent our way,
Now, WILLIAM, GRIP would make you understand.

It was your act—that day you cut the tie,
What you had loosened how could we unite?
Yet leave us to ourselves, and by-and-by,
It may be we will make the matter right.

We do not wish the Empire great to leave,
Which better men once ruled—now overswayed
By money-makers; but you may perceive
Keen friend, how narrow your our road have made.

Two courses and no more we have to-day;
We must have liberty to live, and make
Our living here by such commercial way
As our commercial interests bid us take;

Or we must join the States; not with our will,
But forced by stern inexorable fate.
Drive us not thither, GLADSTONE, Britain still
Would mourn the action—and would mourn too late.

An Order Solicited.

If the Manitoba Free Press expresses the views of the general public of that Province on the subject of M. CAUCHON's appointment as Lieut. Governor, there is a likelihood that the gates of the North West will be shut against him. And if it is the intention of History to repeat itself, GRIP would notify M. CAUCHON that he has a very complete job office, and can get out a Pamphlet, like that written by Mr. MACDOUGALL, with neatness, cheapness and dispatch.

Toronto General Hospital.

THE ANNUAL Election of a Trustee

for the year 1878, will be held on

TUESDAY, THE 4TH DEC. NEXT,

at 3 p.m., in the

BOARD OF TRADE ROOMS,

Exchange Buildings, Wellington street.

QUALIFICATION OF ELECTORS.

The annual subscription of $20 gives the right of voting. Any subscriber contributing $50 has, in addition to his suffrage, the right to send four patients to the Hospital during the year without further expense.

Subscriptions may be sent to the undersigned, or paid to John Gillespie, Esq., Yonge-street, W. S. Lee, Esq., Western Building Society, Church-street, or T. McCrosson, Esq., King-street.

W. H. HOWLAND, Chairman.
A. F. MILLER, Secretary.

The Scientific American.

THIRTY-THIRD YEAR.

THE
MOST POPULAR SCIENTIFIC PAPER IN THE WORLD.
Only $3.20 a Year, including Postage. Weekly.
52 Numbers a Year. 4000 book pages.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN is a large First Class Weekly Newspaper of sixteen pages, printed in the most beautiful style, profusely illustrated with splendid engravings, representing the newest Inventions and the most recent Advances in the Arts and Sciences; including Mechanics and Engineering, Steam Engineering, Railway, Mining, Civil, Gas and Hydraulic Engineering, Mill Work, Iron, Steel and Metal Work; Chemistry and Chemical Processes: Electricity, Light, Heat, Sound; Technology, Photography, Printing, New Machinery, New Processes, New Recipes, Improvements pertaining to the Textile Industry, Weaving, Dyeing, Coloring, New Industrial Products, Animal, Vegetable and Mineral; New and Interesting Facts in Agriculture, Horticulture, the Home, Health, Medical Progress, Social Science, Natural History, Geography, Astronomy, etc.

The most valuable practical papers, by eminent writers in all departments of Science, will be found in the Scientific American; the whole presented in popular language, free from technical terms, illustrated with engravings, and so arranged as to interest and inform all classes of readers, old and young. The Scientific American is promotive of knowledge and progress in every community where it circulates. It should have a place in every Family, Reading Room, Library, College or School. Terms, $3.20 per year, $1.60 half year, which includes prepayment of postage. Discount to Clubs and Agents. Single copies ten cents. Sold by all Newsdealers. Remit by postal order to MUNN & CO., Publishers, 37 Park Row, New York.

PATENTS.

In connection with the Scientific American Messrs. MUNN & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. Patents are obtained on the best terms. Models of New inventions and sketches examined, and advice free. A special notice is made in the Scientific American of all inventions patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Public attention is thus directed to the merits of the new patent, and sales or introduction often effected. Any person who has made a new discovery or invention, can ascertain, free of charge, whether a patent can probably be obtained, by writing to the undersigned. Address for the Paper, or concerning Patents.

MUNN & CO., 37 Park Row, N. Y.

Branch Office, Cor. F. & 7th Sts., Washington, D. C.

PROPERTIES WANTED.

ST. ANDREWS WARD, house of about 8 rooms, near the market. Price $1,000 to $1,500

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
Real Estate Agents,

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS, (Next Post Office.)
TORONTO.

SEMI-ANNUAL EXAMINATIONS.

An Examination of Pupils for admission into the Western and Markham High Schools will be held on

TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY,

The 11th and 12th Dec. next at 9 a.m.

The intermediate Examinations of the above Schools will begin on Monday, Dec. 17th, at 2.30 p.m., and end on Friday, Dec. 21st at 4.20 p.m.

The semi-annual examination of Candidates for second-class certificates in the County of York, will be held in Toronto, commencing on Monday, Dec. 17th, at 2.30 p.m. Terms of notice can be obtained on application to either of the County Inspectors.

JAMES HODGSON
Presiding Inspector.

Yorkville, Nov. 3rd. 1877.

WANTED!

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN TO LEARN TELEGRAPH operating for offices opening in the Dominion. Send 3 cent stamp for circular. Address MANAGER. Box 955, Toronto

J. F. DANTER, M. D.

Homeopathist and Medical Electrician. Office and Pharmacy: 4 Albert Street, (Cor. Yonge) Toronto. Medicine for sale, vials refilled. Letters promptly answered.

BOARD AND LODGING. A FEW gentlemen can be accommodated with good board and pleasant rooms; also day board, at 49 Richmond St., East.

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT.

Ottawa, 12th Oct., 1877.

AUTHORIZED DISCOUNT ON American invoices until further notice, 3 per cent.

J. JOHNSON,
Commissioner of Customs.

v-6-1f

ALKIN IS IN TOWN WITH HIS letter Copying Book and Ink copies letters without press brush or water, St. James Building, Room 11 46 Church St. next to King St.—Agents wanted.

1823. SEND FOR 1878.

THE NEW YORK OBSERVER

The best Religious and Secular Family Newspaper. $3.15 a Year, post-paid. Established 1823.

37 PARK ROW, NEW YORK. SAMPLE COPIES FREE.

Marlborough House,

UNION RAILWAY STATION,

Cor. Front and Simcoe Sts., Toronto.

The above commodious and centrally located house combines all Modern Appointments, Steam Heating, etc. Affords Excellent Accommodation at Moderate Rates.

Having reduced its figures from $2 to $1.50 per day.

M. A. TROTTER, PROPRIETOR.
F. HODGINS, and A. M. CARDIGAN, Managers.

N.B.—Omnibus free.

THE PRINTER'S MISCELLANY.

The Printer's Miscellany will be ready for delivery in about two weeks. The subscription lists and accounts were lost in the fire of 20th June. Subscribers whose term of subscription had not expired will please send their names, addresses, amounts paid, and date of subscription, as soon as possible. Those whose term ended with the June number should lose no time in renewing, otherwise considerable difficulty will be experienced in securing back numbers. The paper will only be sent to those whose subscriptions are paid in advance. Subscriptions and advertisements respectfully solicited.

HUGH FINLAY,

Editor and Proprietor.

St. John, N. B.

REMOVAL.

"Grip" wishes to return his best thanks to the people of Canada for their liberal patronage heretofore, and to inform them that he has removed to more extensive premises, in that very handsome Stone Front edifice, erected last summer, now known as the

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS,

WHICH IS

One Door West of the Post Office.

Where he is prepared to execute all Orders, from a

LABEL TO A 3-SHEET POSTER

WITH NEATNESS AND DESPATCH.

CARDS.

We are prepared to fill Orders by Mail for Visiting Cards (Finest Bristol. White or Tinted) immediately on receipt of letter, and forward by FIRST MAIL, at the following

RATES:

100 Cards, (one name, one style type), 75 cents.
50 " " " " 50 "
25 " " " " 30 "

Printing addresses on Cards, 10 cents extra for each Order.

THE FOLLOWING ARE

SAMPLES OF TYPE

FROM WHICH A CHOICE MAY BE MADE.

1

Robert Taylor.

2

William Richardson.

3

Miss Maggie Thompson.

4

George Augustus Williams.

5

Mrs. Thomas Jones.

6

William Arthur Crawford.

7

Miss Susie Wade.

8

Byron W. Scott.

9

William Shakespeare.

Write your Name and the Number of the Letter you desire plainly, to prevent mistakes.

BENGUGH BROS.,

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS,

TORONTO, ONT

Every Lady should have "THE FAHEY BROS." KID GLOVES, Every Pair Warranted, that each pair bears Their Own Mark.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE

Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.

Subscription price, $2 per annum, strictly in advance. For sale to all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied.

USE ONLY
ONTARIO
BAKING
POWDER.

ASK YOUR
Grocer for it.

WANTED TO PURCHASE

HOUSE on Church St., south of Carlton, 8 to 12 rooms, must be first-class.
COTTAGE in St. John's Ward—5 rooms.

FOUR COTTAGES.
Not more than Seven Rooms—between Simcoe and Seaton Streets.

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
Next Post Office.

GORRELL,
CRAIG
Co.,

LITHOGRAPHERS
13
ADELAIDE ST
EAST.

FARM FOR SALE.

A very desirable farm for a gentleman's residence, consisting of 30 acres, in the Township of Pickering, County of Ontario, overlooking Frenchman's Bay, small stream runs through the north west corner. There is of Pears, Plums, Cherry and Apple Trees, covering twelve acres, nine of which are only five years old, just commencing to bear. The soil is as good as can be found in the township, which is equivalent to saying there is none better in the province.

A Capital Orchard

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
REAL ESTATE AGTS
IMPERIAL BUILDINGS.
Next Post Office, Toronto.

WANTED. A HOUSE TO RENT.

About $12 per month,
Address J. G., GRIP Office.

"GRIP"

Job Department

Is Stocked with all the latest Styles and Improvements in

TYPES,
from the American, Canadian and European foundries, and will be found competent for the execution of all classes of Printing, with

NEATNESS,
CHEAPNESS
DESPATCH.

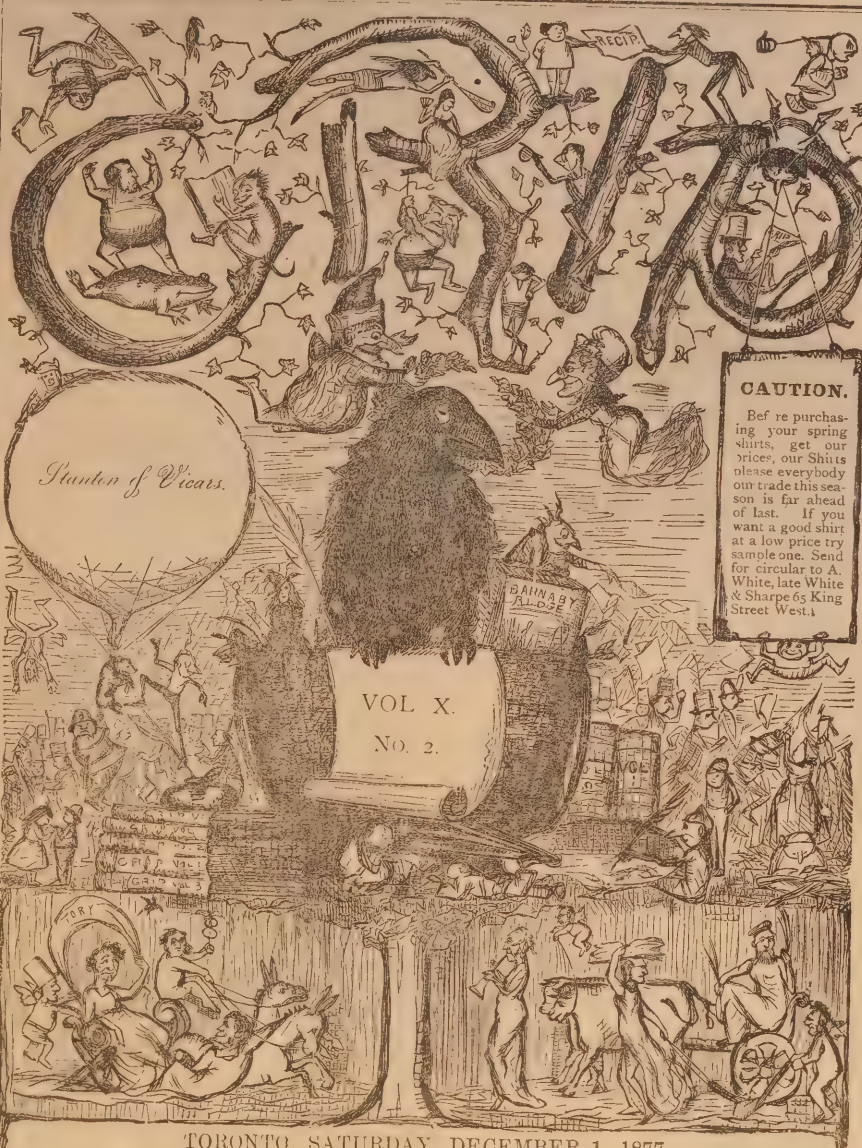

Ice: Imperial Buildings,
(NEXT POST-OFFICE).

MARBLE CLOCKS

Direct from PARIS.

FINEST GOODS EVER SHOWN IN TORONTO.

W. F. ROSS & CO., 83 KING STREET EAST.

CAUTION.

Before purchasing your spring shirts, get our prices, our Shirts please everybody on trade this season is far ahead of last. If you want a good shirt at a low price try sample one. Send for circular to A. White, late White & Sharpe 65 King Street West.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1877.

GRIP OFFICE, } The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; } 5 CTS. EACH.
IMPERIAL BUILDING. } The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool. } $2 PER ANNUM.

CANNOT BE SURPASSED.

Canadian made Wallets, Purses, Pocket-Books.

Card and Letter Cases, Bill Cases, Portfolios.—New and Improved Styles.

REDUCED PRICES. SOMETHING NEW IN AUTOGRAPH ALBUMS NEW AND

Beautiful designs.—Wonderful chaste and Cheap. SCRAP BOOKS, SCRAP ALBUMS. In great variety. Substantial, handsome, very Cheap.

BROWN BROTHERS.

Manufacturing Stationers.

66 & 68 King Street East, Toronto.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will ways be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach Grip office not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, Grip office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

GENTLEMEN

Collars of all the Newest Styles gotten up EQUAL TO NEW, at 2 1-2cts. each or 25ct per doz., at

TORONTO STEAM

LAUNDRY

HALLEY'S HALL
COR. KING & BAY STS.

G. P. SHARPE Prop.

H. T. ALLSOPP,

DEALER IN

FINE BOOTS AND SHOES
7 KING STREET EAST

TORONTO.

(4th door east of Yonge)

TO
YOUNG MEN

Wishing to learn

TELEGRAPHING,

A certificate good for

Twenty Dollars,

Will be sold cheap, good for the

TORONTO INSTITUTE

Address:—

H. GUMMER.

Box, 2662.

KEEP

Your Feet Dry!

BY USING LAMB'S
Waterproof Leather Preserver, (White).

LAMB'S

Waterproof Snow Blacking,
(Black).

For sale everywhere,

PRICE 10 CTS. PER BOX.

PETER R. LAMB, Toronto, Ont.

REAL ESTATE.

Persons having Properties to dispose of in City or Country will find it to their advantage to place it in our hands. We have the

BEST STAFF IN THE CITY,

and facilities for

ADVERTISING

which cannot be excelled.

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,

NEXT POST OFFICE,

TORONTO.

J. L. CHURCH

IN THE

SUNDAY-SCHOOL.

A practical guide for superintendents and teachers by Frank Beard. Fully illustrated. $1.50. Artist's Manual of Oil and Water Color Painting, &c., 50cts. Elocutionist's Journal, 10cts. Of booksellers or by mail. JESSE HANEY & CO., 119 Nassau St., N. Y.

PAINTER'S Manual.

House and sign painting, graining, varnishing, polishing, kalsomining, papering, lettering, staining, gilding, &c. 50cts. Furniture and Cabinet Finisher, 50. Watchmaker and Jeweller, 50. Soapmaker, 25. Taxidermist, 50. Of booksellers or by mail. JESSE HANEY & CO., 119 Nassau St., New York.

STOVE & CHESTNUT COAL $5.00 per Ton
MAPLE WOOD - - - 5.00 " Cord

AT NAIRN'S,

OFFICE, - - - NEXT POST OFFICE,
DOCKS. - - - FOOT OF CHURCH ST.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabeast Beast is the Ass; the grabeast Bird is the Owl;
The grabeast Fish is the Oyster; the grabeast Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, 1ST DECEMBER, 1877.

Answers to Correspondents.

M. A. NATIVE, London.—Rather too severe on a certain party, though well written. Try again.

Who Shall be the Next Mayor?

I, said one with ruffles mounting,
For I gave 'em a most magnificent founting,
I shall be Mayor.

No, said another; make me Mayor they oughter,
For I'll teach 'em how to dodge the rate for water,
And I shall be Mayor.

No, said the electors of Toronto,
There are some things which we that party want to Do,—that next Mayor.

When he's made one a Water Commission of,
He's not to shut his eyes to the condition of Things,—our next Mayor.

He shall endeavour to make the taxes lower,
A thing for which the citizens continually do ro-ar
When he is Mayor.

He shall not go in as CLEAR GRIP or as TORY,
If he don't think of party any more, he
Will be the better Mayor.

He who comes the nearest to these hints on his selection,
GRIP will pass his name round, which will settle his election,
And he shall be Mayor.

How I Went Ahead.

Mr. GRIP, Sir:

Six years ago I was living in England, wallowing in affluence. I had my valet, and never did any work: and was so ignorant that I had never heard of Canada, Clear Gripism, Standard-elevation, or the art of putting down bribery with lots of money.

I did not even know there was such a paper as the Toronto Globe! Melancholly condition!

Fortunately I lost all my money, and having taken an independent passage as a stowaway I arrived at Quebec hungry and without a cent.

Starvation staring me in the face I tramped to Toronto, and called on Mr. GEO. BROWN, who, when he learned I was a greenhorn without money, received me with enthusiasm, and gave me a bundle of old Canada Farmers, and Weekly Globes.

Patting me paternally on the back, he said: "Just the sort of man we want here! Money is a hindrance and incumbrance in Canada! This is a land of Democratic equality and simplicity! Go north, my son, and vote straight!"

With some hesitation I asked him if, being in extremes, he could let me have a dollar to go north with?

I never saw so extraordinary a change come over anybody. He sprang at me like a tiger, took me by the collar, and thundered in my ear:—

I lend thee dollars! I will see thee hanged first!
Oot o' my sight, O miserable Catfish!
Horriblest Tory! mendicant-et lozel!
Whiskey swillin' base hound! Smoker and chewer!
Spiritless, soul-less! Villainous vagrant!
Lick-spittle loafer!

With that he opened the door and kicked me down to the stair landing. This may seem a rough reception, but I now know it was truly philanthropic and enlightened. It was, in fact, the making of me!

Had Mr. B. given me any help I dare say I might have subsided into a mere dry-goods man, a politician, a newspaper party, or some similar city minstrel. But this plain, faithful dealing aroused within me all my latent manhood.

I worked my way northward, getting jobs among the farmers, who prefer as a "help"—as is well known—the individual who is a complete stranger to wood chopping and field operations.

Arrived in Muskoka I squatted with invincible squat, on 200 acres of rich land. I borrowed an axe and roughed it during the winter in a large hollow tree, which, however, I made quite cozy in appearance with some of the pictures out of the Globe, and a roll of carpet I had found outside a shop door in Toronto.

I went to work like a one-cr. In chopping, experience or skill isn't worth much. It is will, vim, the stern pioneer spirit, going in a bee line for a noble independence, which brings down the trees. And they did come down too! That winter I gashed, and logged up, unassisted, fifteen acres, and split 23,000 cedar rails, which, having no oxen, I hauled out of the bush on my back in the spring and set 'em up. I then got some grain, potatoes, cows, pigs, farming utensils, etc., on a bill at eighteen months, perpetually renewable, and am now all right, living like a fighting rooster in a $5000 stone mansion, splendidly furnished, with money in the Bank and out at interest. Mendicant and other penniless lozels instead of hanging about city soup kitchens and stone yards, should do as I have done. Farming in Canada is an easy, delightful profession—especially in the bush. If you have no money and no experience, success is certain. Some practical agriculturists who settled near me with money are now loafers and vagrants in Toronto; but every tailor, butcher, baker and candlestick-maker, who did not know a plough from a harrow, has been an eminent success. This seems to be the great peculiarity of Canadian agriculture, distinguishing it from all other businesses.

Come then ye lozels, ye "Mendicants," ye chronic grumblers, loafers, diseased splenetic entities—come ye penniless poltroons, leave the dull, base city, and crowd into the stirring exciting life of the primeval forest and the boundless prairie. Cast your eye on the official guide and note the log house—page 27—developing like greased lightning into the noble mansion, page 28. Come on with your axe and your wallet and make trial of the hardy pioneer's healthy and happy life, and you will find all I have set forth is nothing but

"FACT, I ASSURE YOU."

Currant Cbints.

Me Darlint GRIP:

Fwthin I saw be the lasht GRIP paper that yez wor commencin' yer TINTH VOLUME, and that yez intinded to make this ben better nor anny before, I med up me moind that I wud reshume me correspondance, an' help yez to kerry out that detarminacion. Mebby yez wor beginnin' to think that I was dead, be me keepin' silence since me lasht letter, but I am plazed to shtate that I am shtill in the land av the livin'—if yez call Kanady that, while the depressin av the Grit government houlds on to it. Me raisins for refrainin' from not writin' so long, was chafely on account av that KOOSHON bein' in the Cabinet. I cuddin' shtand it anny longer, an' I tuck a vow that I wud sind nothin' to the papers, forby a letter sometimes to the Mail agin him, so long as MICKINZIE an' BLAKE let him sit there. Av coorse yez are aware av the fact that in consiquince av me policy av ignorin' KOOSHON has been shuck off, an' sint away to Manitoby to be governor, an' bein' a man av rank, he will make a good wan MICKINZIE thinks. I larn't this thrick av squelchin out me inimies be ignorin' thim from Mистер BROWN av the Globe. That is how he kilt the Liberal, and that is how he is at the present toime frettin the loife out av that fifteen cint edition av a man—the Tillygram. It works shplendid. I am going to thry it on wid JARGE BROWN hiffself, an' see how he likes it, an', be the same token, I think JARGE is makin' up his moind to kill aff Mистер BUNTIN', the new Mail man, wid thim same tactix. Shpakin' av Mистер BUNTIN', mebby yez worn't towld that I wint an' interviewed him wid rfrince to the best way av managin' the Mail from this out. Bein' a good Conservatif that niver votes for the Grits since the elicion laws was med so unreasonablen an' hard on the poor man, av coorse I was med welcome be the new owner of our organ, who gev me a sate in his proivate room an' towld me he wud be plaised to get anny sugestins what I moight make. Wid that I tuck a shmall bit of paper out av me pocket, an' handit it over to him, wid the observacion that I had writ down fwat I thought wud be a few gud hints, bein' a lithry man an' conversant wid the Mail from its childhood, so to shpake. Av yez wud loike to know fwat was on the paper, it was this:

1. Never tell anny lies about a public man, unless yez know thim to be thure, an' can prove thim wid affdavys.
2. Niver attempt to disthroy the karrackter av a political opponnet av he belongs to your own party, or av he is a man divoid av karrackter.
3. Quit stabbin' under the fifth rib, av it wud be convanient, an' wuddn't interfere wid the sale av the paper.
4. Ignore the Globe wanst a wake.
5. Niver putt in anny article that wud harrum the cause of our Chastean, Sir JOHN, like the first iditor used to do.
6. Fwathvir yez do, shtudy GRIP, an' take warnin' from the hints he be's givin yez all the time.

The new man read over the sugestins an looked plaised. He said he wud see that they were carrit out; he thanked me over an' over, an' axed me cuddin' he do somethin' for me, an' didn't I want to subscribe? I towld him not to minton it, as I borry the paper every day; an' thim I walked out.

TERRY TIERNEY.

SETTLING THE ACCOUNT.

JONATHAN:—CRAWL OUT OF THAT LOOP-HOLE? HUNKERSLIDE? NEVER! KELLOGG, NEVER! I'LL PAY 'EM THE AWARD NOBLY—WITH THEIR OWN MONEY!!

Ye Red Tappe Crosse Knight.

YE BALLADE OF SYR BLAKEADOCIO.

A gentle knight came pricking o'er the field,
 V'couted with great penne and black bagge large,
 For these ye only arms which he hidde wiede,
 These his huge speare and his refugious targe.
 In lawe's arene to fight, and make ye dreadfule charge.

Yet nowe on foraye legale dydde not ride,
 Nor would hys weaponne deadlye puncture through
 The woefulle clyent of the otherre syde,
 But bound hym to engage in warrefare new,
 And tore arounde therefore, and raged in awfulle stewe.

Hee vowed hym nowe to strenuouslye fighte
 For ladye of hys love and mistresse deare,
 Of beautye greate, who CANADA was highte,
 Of purtye and reputationne cleare;
 And swore herre foes shoulde flye, and straightwaye disappare.

For nowe, he cryed, she injurie dydde take
 From herd of monstres vile and grawlisomme,
 Which underre name of Toryes war dydde make,
 And constantlye in armes agaynst herre come;
 Whence to her ayde he marched, with trumpet and wyth drumme.

For manye such before, and eke behinde,
 With him dydde marche, hys praises greate to sounde,
 And beat ye bigge bassoonne, and hornes dyd winde,
 And shouted loude hys mighte and power arounde,
 And how to fighte for CANADA most desperatelye bounde.

He was a comelye youth as one might see;
 Of visayge broad, and mightye depthe of jawe,
 And mouthe which dyd sarcastyc seem to bee,
 And forward eyne, welle fitte to overawe,
 As often he had donne in joust of deadlye lawe.

Before hym one hys bannerre broode did beare,
 Whereof the cognizance full manye knewe;
 Alle meete of bright greene baize y' glancing faire,
 On which a burnynge crosse was pyctured too,
 Of redde tappe structured all, moste brillante to viewe.

And loude hys mystresse' prayse hee stille dyd synge,
 And howe hee dyd for herre a warrefare goe,
 And woulde some tyme to herre a jewelle bringe,
 Confederationne called, of richeste glowe.
 (That jewelle was of brasse; but thatte hee dyd notte knowe.)

By fayte's decree, which noughte on earthe dothe spayre,
 This ladye fayre, for whiche hee dyd arraye
 Himselfe, and hys affectionnes loude decayre,
 Was placed in dismalle woe and grievousse waye,
 And in the power of foe dyd pitifullye laye.

For as she peacefullye herre pathe pursued
 In herre dominionned spayce and gardenned bounde,
 Upon herre sprunge a dragonne fierce and rude,
 Despying herre complaynt of doleful sounde,
 Herre pryssoner seized, and dothe herre stille with powerre surrounde.

Nor from his clutches maye she move nor flye,
 Hee holds herre faste, and shortlye wille herre slaye,
 For herre sworne Red Crosse Knight, though closelye bye
 Hee bee, hathe never ventured on the fraye,
 But lettes the dragonne sterne pursue his wicked waye.

DEPRESSIONNE is the fearsomme dragonne's nayme,
 A monster famine-struck, and gaunte of bone,
 And still hys victimnes doe becomene the sayme
 The while he drawes their lives to feede hys owne,
 Untille they dye—hys waye, for ages past well knowne.

And in deepe straitte fayre CANADA dothe lye
 Environned by this demon's force to-daye,
 While hee herre goodes dothe to hymselfe applye,
 And all herre substance greate dothe waste awaye,
 And housen eke and fieldes bee gonne intoe decaye.

But where is hee, that false and felon knight,
 Who all hys trumpettes dyd soe loudlye blowe,
 Deepe vowinge for that ladye fayre to fighte,
 And up and downe the lande dyd roaringe goe,
 Whatte tyme no foe was seene, nor signe of presente woe?

Hee cometh rounde, and to ye dragonne great,
 Submissionne makes, and drawethe salarye,
 And sweepeth out ye pathe to ye fronte gayte,

And picketh uppe ye stickes, and clips ye tree,
 Worke unbeseeing knighte of ancienne pedigreee.

Yette stille hys flatterers doe neare hym staye,
 And trumpettes blowe, and shoute, in disregarde
 That hee hys lance in resie would never laye,
 For his fayre ladye in deepe dungeon barred,
 "See whatte reformes our knighte dothe make in ye fronte-yarde!"

Yette dyd laste weeke a knighte in warrefare knowne,
 Y'bearing blayde of temperre tested welle,
 Hym challenge unto combatte all alone,
 Contemptuous; but that fighte hath not befelle,
 Nor is it likely to, for reasonnes GRYPPE could telle.

Greate GRYPPE, who is ye learned chronicle
 Of this romaunt of moderne daye and tyme,
 Who alle whych happeneth dothe recorde here,
 In pyctures gay, and jolie prose and rhyme,
 Two dollarres yerelye, saye, wille buy hys worke sublyme.

Kindly Hints to Pastors.

One of the most popular and gifted of our city pastors preached a sermon last Sunday evening, in which he rebuked those who are in the habit of carping in an ill natured or captious way against the preachers they listen to; and at the same time he stated that pastors would be very glad to receive useful and helpful hints given in a kindly spirit. Since then, GRIP has received for publication quite a number of suggestions, some of which he prints below for the benefit of ministerial subscribers:

Rev. Sir:—If I might make so bold, I would call your attention to the fact that your white cravat was not as neatly tied as it might have been last Sabbath.

Respectfully,

SARAH JEMIMA.

Rev. and Dear Sir:—Might I take the liberty of suggesting that you do not pull your gown in that absurd manner when you are preaching. It makes me nervous.

Yours truly,

AUNT V.

Dear Pastor:—I lost all the effect of your last sermon on account of the way you had your hair combed—or rather not combed. It stuck out behind in a very ungraceful manner.

Yours kindly,

A PARISHIONER.

Reverend Friend:—I must really quit attending on your ministrations if you persist in letting your beard grow. You look ever so much better with it off. Me and my cousin JANE couldn't talk about anything else during the service.

Very earnestly,

MINNIE.

Rev. Sir:—As a kind suggestion would be acceptable to you, I would state that your subject last Sunday seemed badly arranged and jumbled up. I found myself several times thinking of Monday's business. Please pay more attention in future.

Yours truly,

MERCHANT PRINCE.

Dear Sir:—I have attended your church for a considerable time and the greatest fault I discover in your elocution is a tendency to put too much emphasis on little words such as lie, cheat, sin, etc. Also, I would say you get too much worked up. Keep more calm and dignified, in future.

Yours &c.,

WORLDLEY WISEMAN.

Questions very likely to be set at the Next Intermediate.

1. In guessing at questions likely to be set on a paper, whether is it better to be previously acquainted with the examiners or with the papers? Give seasons and dates and figs., without looking at the prepared answers in your packet.

2. Define a ring. Compare it with a serpent biting its own tail. (1st) as being cunning; (2nd) scaly; (3rd) bellicose or belligerent; (4th) as needing a rattling retail interest.

3. Are you aware that there are two kinds of J.A.M.? Which variety did Taffy purloin? Why is it desirable to bottle up this material after inspection. Work this out fully by the Unitary Method.

4. What is your experience as a European tourist? What is the revised method of charging such expenses? Would you like a nice present of books from England?

5. Has similarity of mental developement any relation to double obliquity of moral vision? Has either any normal or textual relation to the gag of a firm monopoly?

6. Compare the following terms: 1. Collusion and the North of Ireland; 2. Authorize and scissors; 3. Genius and nucilage. N.B.—No Sangsterian bosh taken.

7. If you are experienced in Collusion, answer the following: (a) How best to get at an invisible marked man; (b) Who shall decide when doctors disagree; (c) How best to give a ROLAND for an OLIVER as rebuttal?

8. Did jauntily ever keep company with monopoly or had he his own policy?

9. Did you ever for yourself on any other body directly or indirectly for $50, or any other sum, a few weeks before examination, or at any time, from any body, or with any body's assistance?

N.B.—This is a stiff question in stat(e)ics and requires careful coach-ing but the answer is no any way.

10. What did your certificate cost you in round numbers, excluding ordinary expenses of board, tuition fees and time? Work this out on the Hughson blank-form method.

GRIP has had these and many more for future examinations worked out by experts, and is prepared to supply answers and questions for a small trifle.

Toronto General Hospital.

THE ANNUAL Election of a Trustee

for the year 1878, will be held on

TUESDAY, THE 4TH DEC. NEXT,

at 3 p.m., in the

BOARD OF TRADE ROOMS,

Exchange Buildings, Wellington street.

QUALIFICATION OF ELECTORS.

The annual subscription of $20 gives the right of voting. Any subscriber contributing $50 has, in addition to his suffrage, the right to send four patients to the Hospital during the year without further expense.

Subscriptions may be sent to the undersigned, or paid to John Gillespie, Esq., Yonge-street, W. S. Lee, Esq., Western Building Society, Church-street, or T. McCrosson, Esq., King-street.

W. H. HOWLAND, Chairman.
A. F. MILLER, Secretary.

The Scientific American.

THIRTY-THIRD YEAR.

THE

MOST POPULAR SCIENTIFIC PAPER IN THE WORLD.

Only $3.20 a Year, including Postage. Weekly.
52 Numbers a Year. 4000 book pages.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN is a large First Class Weekly Newspaper of sixteen pages, printed in the most beautiful style, profusely illustrated with splendid engravings, representing the newest inventions and the most recent Advances in the Arts and Sciences; including Mechanics and Engineering, Steam Engineering, Railway, Mining, Civil, Gas and Hydraulic Engineering, Mill Work, Iron Steel and Metal Work; Chemistry and Chemical Processes; Electricity, Light, Heat, Sound; Technology, Photography, Printing, New Machinery, New Processes, New Recipes, Improvements pertaining to Textile Industry, Weaving, Dyeing, Coloring, New Industrial Products, Animal, Vegetable and Mineral; New and Interesting Facts in Agriculture, Horticulture, the Home, Health, Medical Progress, Social Science, Natural History, Geology, Astronomy, etc.

The most valuable practical papers, by eminent writers in all departments of Science, will be found in the Scientific American; the whole presented in popular language, free from technical terms, illustrated with engravings, and so arranged as to interest and inform all classes of readers, old and young. The Scientific American is promotive of knowledge and progress in every community where it circulates. It should have a place in every Family, Reading Room, Library, College or School. Terms, $3.20 per year, $1.60 half year, which includes prepayment of postage. Discount to Clubs and Agents. Single copies ten cents. Sold by all Newsdealers. Remit by postal order to MUNN & CO., Publishers, 37 Park Row, New York.

PATENTS.

In connection with the Scientific American Messrs. MUNN & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. Patents are obtained on the best terms. Models of New inventions and sketches examined, and advice free. A special notice is made in the Scientific American of all inventions patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Public attention is thus directed to the merits of the new patent, and sales or introduction often effected.

Any person who has made a new discovery or invention, can ascertain, free of charge, whether a patent can probably be obtained, by writing to the undersigned. Address for the Paper, or concerning Patents.

MUNN & CO., 37 Park Row, N. Y.

Branch Office, Cor. F. & 7th Sts., Washington, D. C.

PROPERTIES WANTED.

ST. ANDREWS WARD, house of about 8 rooms, near the market. Price $1,000 to $1,500

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
Real Estate Agents,

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS, (Next Post Office.)
TORONTO.

CHEAP READING.

Having entered into arrangements with the Publishers, we are now prepared to supply

SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY

and "GRIP," $ 4.50.

ST. NICHOLAS

and

"GRIP," 3.50.

DETROIT FREE PRESS

and

"GRIP," 3.50

BENGOUGH BROS.,
TORONTO.

SEMI-ANNUAL EXAMINATIONS.

An Examination of Pupils for admission into the Western and Markham High Schools will be held on

TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY,

The 11th and 12th Dec. next at 9 a. m.

The intermediate Examinations of the above Schools will begin on Monday, Dec. 17th, at 1.30 p. m., and end on Friday, Dec. 21st at 4.20 p. m.

The semi-annual examination of Candidates for second-class certificates in the County of York, will be held in Toronto, commencing on Monday, Dec. 17th, at 1.30 p. m.

Terms of notice can be obtained on application to either of the County Inspectors.

JAMES HODGSON
Presiding Inspector.

Yorkville, Nov. 3rd. 1877.

WANTED!

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN TO LEARN TELEGRAPH operating for offices opening in the Dominion. Send 3 cent stamp for circular. Address MANAGER Box 955, Toronto

J. F. DANTER, M. D.

Homeopathist and Medical Electrician. Office and Pharmacy: 4 Albert Street, (Cor. Yonge) Toronto. Medicine for sale, vials refilled. Letters promptly answered.

BOARD AND LODGING. A FEW gentlemen can be accommodated with good board and pleasant rooms; also day board, at 49 Richmond St., East.

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT.

Ottawa, 12th Oct., 1877.

AUTHORIZED DISCOUNT ON American invoices until further notice, 3 per cent.

v-6-tf

J. JOHNSON,
Commissioner of Customs.

ELKIN IS IN TOWN WITH HIS letter Copying Book and Ink copies letters without press brush or water, St. James Building, Room 11 46 Church St. next to King St.—Agents wanted.

1823. SEND FOR 1878.

THE

NEW YORK OBSERVER

The best Religious and Secular Family Newspaper. $3.15 a Year, post-paid. Established 1823.

37 PARK ROW, NEW YORK. SAMPLE COPIES FREE.

Marlborough House,

UNION RAILWAY STATION,

Cor. Front and Simcoe Sts., Toronto.

The above commodious and centrally located house combines all Modern Appointments, Steam Heating, etc. Affords Excellent Accommodation at Moderate Rates.

Having reduced its figures from $2 to $1.50 per day.

M. A. TROTTER, PROPRIETOR.
F. HODGINS, and A. M. CARDIGAN, Managers.

N.B.—Omnibus free.

REMOVAL.

"Grip" wishes to return his best thanks to the people of Canada for their liberal patronage heretofore, and to inform them that he has removed to more extensive premises, in that very handsome Stone Front edifice, erected last summer, now known as the

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS,

WHICH IS

One Door West of the Post Office.

Where he is prepared to execute all Orders, from a

LABEL TO A 3-SHEET POSTER

WITH NEATNESS AND DESPATCH.

CARDS.

We are prepared to fill Orders by Mail for Visiting Cards (Finest Bristol, White or Tinted) immediately on receipt of letter, and forward by FIRST MAIL, at the following

RATES:

100 Cards, (one name, one style type), 75 cents.
50 " " " " 30 "
25 " " " " 15 "

Printing addresses on Cards, 10 cents extra for each Order.

THE FOLLOWING ARE

SAMPLES OF TYPE

FROM WHICH A CHOICE MAY BE MADE.

1

Robert Taylor.

2

William Richardson

3

Miss Maggie Thompson

4

George Augustus Williams.

5

Mrs. Thomas Jones.

6

William Arthur Crawford.

7

Miss Susie Wade.

8

Byron W. Scott.

9

William Shakespeare.

Write your Name and the Number of the Letter you desire plainly, to prevent mistakes.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS,

TORONTO, ONT.

Every Lady should have "THE FAHEY BRO'S." KID GLOVES, Every Pair Warranted. See that each pair bears Their Own Mark.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE:
GRIP is published every Saturday morning, at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.

Subscription price, $2 per annum, in advance. For sale by newsdealers. Back numbers sold.

USE ONLY
ONTARIO
MAKING
POWDER.

ASK YOUR
Grocer for it.

THE TORONTO
TURKISH BATHS
233 Queen St. West
THE ONLY TURKISH BATHS IN
THE CITY.

These baths are useful in Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Coughs, Cold, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Skin Diseases, all inflammations, Catarrhs, and for sanitary purposes. —Gentlemen from 7:30 to 9 a.m., and 3 to 9 p.m. Ladies from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. every day. Experienced attendants.

CORRESPONDENCE
CRAIG
&
Co., 13
DELAIDE ST.
EAST.

FARM FOR SALE.

A very desirable farm for a gentleman's residence, consisting of 31 acres, in the Township of Pickering, City of Ontario, overlooking Richman's Bay. A small stream flows through the north west corner.

A Capital Orchard
Pears, Plums, Cherry and Apples, covering twelve acres, one of which are only six years old, just coming to bear. The soil is as good as can be found in the township, and is as convenient to saying there is a letter in the province.

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
REAL ESTATE AGENTS
IMPERIAL BUILDINGS.
Next Post Office, Toronto.

"GRIP"
b Department

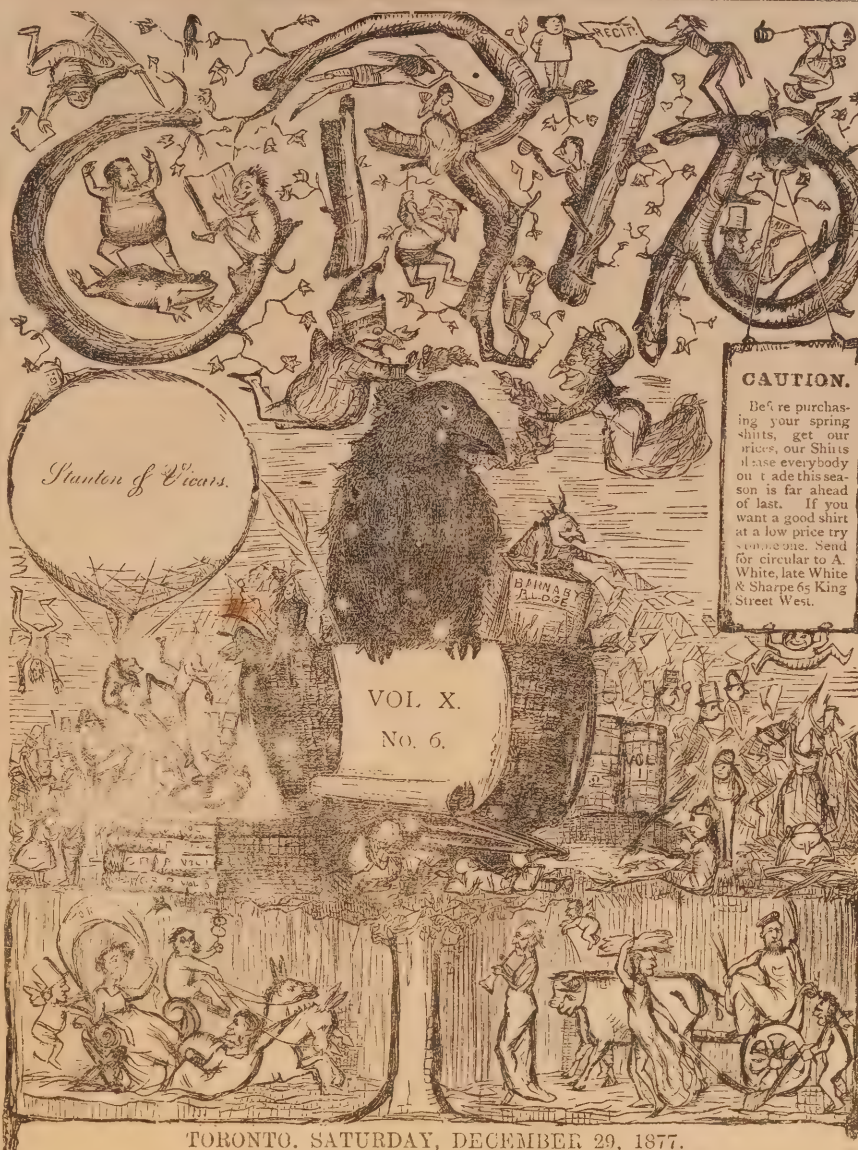

Stocked with all the latest types and improvements in
TYPES,
from the American, Canadian and European Foundries, and I am found competent for the execution of all classes of Printing, with VELOCITY,
CHEAPNESS
DESPATCH.
Imperial Building,
(NEXT POST OFFICE).

MARBLE CLOCKS

Direct from PARIS.

FINEST GOODS EVER SHOWN IN TORONTO.

W. F. ROSS & CO., 83 KING STREET EAST.

CAUTION.

Be're purchasing your spring shirts, get our advice, our Shirts will save everybody on the date this season is far ahead of last. If you want a good shirt at a low price try our advice. Send for circular to A. White, late White & Sharpe 65 King Street West.

EDITOR'S NOTE.
ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach GRIP office not later than Wednesday. Articles and literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

GENTLEMEN

Collars of all the Newest Styles gotten up EQUAL TO NEW, at
2 1-2 cts. each, or 25 cts. per doz., at
TORONTO STEAM
LAUNDRY,
HALLEY'S HALL,
COR. KING & BAY STS.
G. P. SHARPE, Prop.

H. T. ALLSOPP,

DEALER IN
FINE BOOTS AND SHOES,
7 KING STREET EAST
TORONTO.
(4th door east of Yonge)

TO YOUNG MEN

Wishing to learn
TELEGRAPHING,
A certificate good for
Twenty Dollars,
Will be sold cheap, good for the
TORONTO INSTITUTE.
Address:—
H. GUMMER,
Box, 2662.

TO SPORTSMEN.

A FIRST CLASS
Breech-loading Rifle.
Manufactured by Messrs. Worcester, Mass. For Sale very cheap, the owner having no use for it.

APPLY AT
GRIP OFFICE

REAL ESTATE.

Persons having Properties to dispose of in City or Country will find it to their advantage to place it in our hands. We have the
BEST STAND IN THE CITY,
and facilities for
ADVERTISING
which cannot be excelled.
BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
NEXT POST OFFICE,
TORONTO.

BLACK-BOARD IN THE

SUNDAY-SCHOOL.
A practical guide for superintendents and teachers by Frank Beard. Fully illustrated. $1.50. Artist's Manual of Oil and Water Color Painting, &c., 50 cts. Of booksellers or by mail. JESSE HANEY & CO., 110 Nassau St., N. Y.

PAINTER'S Manual.—Illustrations and sign painting, graining, varnishing, polishing, kalsomining, gilding, lettering, staining, &c., 50 cts. Furniture and Metal Finisher, 50. Watchmaker & Jeweller, 50. Soapmaker, 25. Taxidermist, 50. Of booksellers or by mail. JESSE HANEY & CO., 110 Nassau St., New York.

GRIP OFFICE, } The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; } 5 CTS. EACH.
IMPERIAL BUILDING. } The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool. } $2 PER ANNUM.

CANNOT BE SURPASSED.

Canadian made Wallets, Purses, Pocket-Books.

Card and Letter Cases, Bill Cases, Portfolios.—New and Improved Styles.
REDUCED PRICES. SOMETHING NEW IN AUTOGRAPH ALBUMS. NEW AND
Beautiful designs.—Wonderful chaste and Cheap. SCRAP BOOKS, SCRAP ALBUMS. In great variety. Substantial, handsome, very Cheap.
BROWN BROTHERS, Manufacturing Stationers,
66 & 68 King Street East, Toronto.

COVE & CHESTNUT COAL $5.00 per Ton AT NAIRN'S, OFFICE, - - - NEXT POST OFFICE.
APPLE WOOD - - - 15.00 Cord DOCKS. - - - FOOT OF CHURCH ST.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabeſt Beaſt is the Aſs; the grabeſt Bird is the Owl;
The grabeſt Fiſh is the Opiſter; the grabeſt Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, 29TH DECEMBER, 1877.

The Appealing Ministers.

Opening Chorus by Applicants.

We here appear, all Ministers of some denomination,
Empowered to proclaim that sin will meet with condemnation,
And beg to state it certain is your condemnation deep will Become if you most foolishly still taxing of us keep will.
Spare our Gold!

We know that certain clergymen have thought it wicked quite is,
To take advantage of the Act, but we think that it right is,
We should be free, for we promote the interests of the nation,
Good works, morality, and such, which helps civilization.
Spare our Gold!

Civilization we approve, though one thing that it lacks is,
Which isn't right,—it tends to make all people pay their taxes,
And when we think that priests paid none in Dark Age barbarism,
We're apt to think the Reformation was too bold a schism.
Spare our Gold!

We're all of us, as you're aware, quite in the well off classes,
Untortured by grim poverty, our time right smoothly passes.
And though the poor 'twould help if he to taxes waived objection,
The charity we preach don't seem to lie in that direction.
Spare our Gold!

CHORUS OF CITY LAWYERS.

The commentators show,
As all should clearly know,
The statute was designed to cover just these cases.
These worthy clergymen,
Should plainly see that, then,
To fork their taxes out it most certainly their place is.

JUDGMENT BY HIS HONOUR.

Don't care for commentators,
Not a straw,
Preachers are elevators,
Of the law,
Do good near and far,
Which is cause,
I think that they are
In the clause.

In their respect I say then, the statute is exemptory.
And if you bother them again, I shall be quite peremptory.

How "We" Beat the Bonus Hunters.

(From the Telegram.)

"In the pursuance of our mission WE have defeated the bonus. In vain the three Morning Miscreants subsidized by the organized brigands who sought the Bonus, yelled, screamed, shouted, swore, pleaded, entreated, and raised heaven and earth quite a height in its favour. WE were against it. It sufficed. No more was required. The Torontonians buy the other papers. But they do as WE bid them. Let the paid minions of combined plunderism—let the city clique of conspiring aldermen—let the rascally band of would-be contractors—let the jobbing Boards—the calculating caucuses—let them shriek in dismay, and retreat in palsied terror to their deepest retreats. WE are going for them. The Telegram is roused. Our blood is on fire; our vitals are scorched; our brain seethes; but not with trouble. It is with joy. WE have defeated the bonus! WE are happy. Hooray! There shall be no more bonuses—no more—never—never—never—never—unless WE are—subsidized did we say; no, unless WE are satisfied. In the meantime let it be remarked that WE have defeated the Bonus. No Bonus shall be passed, we opposing it. If it be asked how the others showed through in spite of us, we will say we answer no questions, and that the abnormal state of society, and so on."

GRIP is truly sorry to see this effusion from his respected contemporary. He fears it is inflated. Let GRIP soothe the excited spirit, and exorcise the vile fiend who is puffing up our respected friend out of his wits. The people of Toronto rejected the advice of the morning papers because they feared they were bought by the bonusites. But as to following that of the evening one, how were they to know the Grand Trunk hadn't bought it? Nonsense. Delusion. Humbug. The only reliable paper in Toronto opposed the bonus. The people read it, and uncontintently kicked the bonus out of doors. That paper's name is—no, modesty forbids. But it may be seen over the door of our office.

The Municipal Sea.

From RABELAIS.

And now of a verity we sailed apace through a dreadful strait, and the sea rose with a vengeance, and threatened to dash us on great sharp rocks which a sailor said were Bonuses. "And moreover whithersoever anyway," said he, "you had best mind the Exemption Shoals, which would swallow a dozen of you, and the Contract Reefs on which you will smash in a twinkling; and if you escape, why brother, it is but so that the Bankruptcy Squall will blow you to the very deuce, and so d'ye see, there is no going forward, and as for going back, it is impossible. so it behoves us to be moving. Here's luck!" Wherewith he swallowed about seven gallons of punch the good PANTAGRUEL had prepared for his own inward comfortation.

"Ahoy! Steady! What cheer! Rightly now! And take a turn in the mizen," cried PANTAGRUEL as he came blustering up the hatchway. "Keep her full! Rap full! Where now be my punch?" Then he knew the drinker by his face and stomach, and lifting him threw him a great distance, which we could not measure, yet knew it more than a hundred leagues. And falling into a well on an island he was saved, and married a savage of the Stretchites, and had a son called TUPPER. No more of him.

But now came swarming off from the shore a vast and hideous multitude, which surrounded and stuck to the boards of the ship, they being filthy and sticky. And there were Gullygobblers, and stinking Magswasherabillies, and dirty Squinkingites, foul Swab-quashers, and abominable Fevumishobhobkins, besides being all intermixed, covered, and beswamped with creatures which never had any name. And they yelled, and screamed, and shouted, and spoke, and talked, and beat drums, and blew trumpets, and fired squibs, and crackers, and cannon, and big patateroes. And ever and anon they cried City Election! City Election! Vote for the great PANDRINKORRIBLE for another year! Vote for the courteous PLACANDAGRABTHFUND for another year! Vote for SQUINKER, SMASHER, GRABBER, BLOWER, for another year! And the noise rose ever and ever, and became more hideous and horrid, inasmuch that Friar JOHN'S left ear cracked, and his silver jewelite of three pounds fell overboard.

"Wo is unto me!" cried the good friar, "for the devilles be come out of hell. I hear PLUTOERNES howling, and DEMORGORGONIANIBUS roaring. Bon! bee! bo! bi! b-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-o!"

"Be patient," cried the worthy GRIPPANIBUS, who had taken passage at Portofunnibos, "I will kill them to you like so many black beetles!"

And with that he unsheathed his great cutting sword NOIREBLANCHE and made towards them, and did so cut, hew, chop, slash, slice, chip, divide, hash, smash, burst, split, and generally imposter those hends, that they floated to windward in small pieces and maggots, and were no more seen. Then we spliced the main bower, scraped the keelson, boxed the caboose, kept her on three spikes and a half, spread the shrouds to the winds, and ship-shaped the rudder for Obeliskcolichinsky, whither we arrived in great joy and pleasured.

A Plea for the Physicians.

Where are those vile pessimistics—where have they all been and got to? Where are they hiding their heads—why are they all of them dumb now? Those who abusing pitch into of physic the Most Noble Order? Those who denounce all the Doctors—calling them poisoning engines? Saying that all of us would be very much better without them? Saying they spoil constitutions—saying they weaken the nation? Saying their drugs and their herbs are all of them vilest concoctions? Saying they none of them know any time what is the illness? Saying it pure suicide is even their door bells to pull at? Saying they would not call one in—no they'd see all of them hanged first? GRIP will point out the position now of these calumniators.

Deep in the quiet apartment—stretched on their easiest sofa, Pressing their hands with strong force on their abdominal regions, Much in a safety-valve fashion, as if some fearful explosion Were to be dreaded extremely; rolling in sockets their eyeballs, Also the rest of their features working in woful convulsions, Saying to THOMAS the flunky, whom they have just rung the bell for, "Can't you see that I am ill, you?—why do you stare like a dummy? Go for the doctor at once, sir; if he's away fetch another, I shall be dead in a moment, or in a period shorter, Say that I yesterday dined out, he will then know all about it. Let him bring all that is needed; why are you not gone by this time? Stupid, slow, lazy, unmoving; you might have been there and back now!

Thus in the whirlwind of years does Time bring about his revenges. This the solace of the Doctor; also his story vindication Presently cometh he, calm, knowing his foe at his mercy, Then from the Pharmacopeia compounds a horrible torture, Maketh him take it, and then, maketh his pay for it likewise, So may it ever be done still unto those wicked maligners.

F. H. B. On His Hobby.

Behold the man of sea-side fame,
The Mayflower man of letter'd name!
The scribe who turns his canny hand
From water salt, to fresh-man's land;
Displays his literary taste
In letter from GRIP's basket (waste);
The toiler over bay and town,
By cove and cliff to gain a crown,
Yet proves no vulgar cove, for he Adorns his crest by letters three!
Praise then the wight, revile who dares,
Who thrives by can-nings natures wares—
By modes crustaceous kneads his bread,
May-flour combined with Lobster red;
The fields of ocean deftly tills,
Till fish-pot, tame his Bakery fills,—
Thus E_v_p't's flesh-pots laughs to scorn
From dewy eve to rosy morn!
In wonted Mayflower style he cracks
Hard nuts and jokes at Halifax,
Though adventitious aids he use,
And haply paste and scissors choose.
N'importe—if in his sanctum high
He drop a tear to pure old rye.
Till Mayflower sheets an odour shed
More pun-gent than an onion-bied;
The jokes and fun he weakly pokes
Fall harmless on the weed he smokes!
And so, the charge of blunder-buss
In paper pellets aimed at us!
Yet go it blind! Oh rider bold,
By saving claws the Lobster hold;
So, distance Chawles and Co. at rubs,
Or whispering scandals in the clubs!
And every loafing "fraud" trot out
Who puts his morals "up the spout!"
At many a knave sharp censure hurl'd
May help GRIP to reform the world;
Yes, F. H. B., fit whip you'll find,
To lash the faults of lapsed mankind,
But have a care lest H. P. A.
May fall your own to wash away!

A Lunatic Tragedy.

IN FIVE ACTS.

(By our special maniac.)

DRAMATIS PERSONÆ:—A Man; a paper making Machine; a Maiden.

ACT I.

The sun was setting o'er field and fen, the day was growing old. A youth and a maiden were wandering on. Their hearts were warm, their noses cold. For winter with her icy grip (no relation of ours, you know), held poor Dame Nature frozen tight by her finger and nose and toe. But what cares love for snow or ice—it laughs at locksmiths even—for wherever the loved one's eye doth glance, there is warmth and heaven. So talked the youth with low-toned note, as he gazed in those starry eyes, and hugged himself on the one bright thought that in winter there are no flies. This bright discovery gave him pluck, and he popped the question straight; while the maiden answered "yes," with a sigh, and then remarked it was late, as the thought then dawned on her youthful mind that the parlour at home was bright, and her lover and she might just as well bask in the shady calm lamp light. A curtain we draw o'er the harrowing scene, which reminds us we once were young, for now we are feeble and old and poor and the topic might blister our tongue.

ACT II.

The sun was setting o'er field and fen, as this same youth left the store and hurried home for a "clean biled rag," ere he rapped at the loved one's door. His heart beat high that night, for his Boss had marked his ways, and knowing the marks of "love at first sight," had soft soaped him with praise of his diligence, energy, business tact, and shrewd plain commonsense, and prophesied great things for him, but of course in the future tense; for his brilliant talents were lost, he said, in his present position in life, and 'twas best for him to go out alone. To help him to this he'd contrive to start him in business, sell him his goods and open a bran new store, and aid him by paper and pen and ink and all his financial lore. Then bye and bye as he gained in strength, and his business seemed all right, the rest of the Wholesale Firms would rush to sell him as much as they might. In short—prosperity bright and gay wou'd him to her embrace. He swallowed it all and hurried away all his joys to reflect on the loved one's face.

ACT III.

The sun was setting o'er field and glen, as his Boss strolled homeward that night, rubbing his hands every now and then with a sort of fiendish delight. He knew he had "limed" that innocent youth—had caught a willing prey—and he thought of the Barker's gold he'd squeeze forth with his innocent's paper next day;—how his own pressing debt he'd be able to pay and put off the evil day for a time at least—while his brain was at work to get others the piper to pay. The dream was golden, the fruit seemed ripe and round and mellow and sweet, but he never thought of what was within or believed it could ashes secrete.

ACT IV.

The sun was setting o'er field and glen. E'en the business world looked pale, as some ten months later the Boss walked home to his mansion near the vale, and he wrung his hands every now and then with a shiver of horror and grief, for he knew that the morning sun would dawn and show him a Bankrupt—perhaps a thief; for that day his victim and forty more had their shutters nicely put up by a limb of the law, with an ugly writ for hundreds about a score—writs issued by other and greater fools who had flattered themselves that he, the Merchant Prince with the golden tools, was weighty with G. S. D., and would never allow his pet accounts to come to untimely grief, so they tried to dig into his choicest trade, but not deep enough for his relief. But then when they saw how the game was wrought, they went one better—nay two—and riled to the very core at the thought they forced him his hand to show.

ACT V.

But how of the victim and his young Bride? If for her he had selfish been, he had learned the lesson and had it by heart—he was no longer "green." But he picked himself up with a manly grace and went to work again. Now the sweets of honestly earned gold visit him now and then. No longer over field and fen doth the sun of hope go down, but the Sun of Love towards his fellow men clears away from his brow care's frown.

EPILOGUE.

The Sun is setting o'er field and glen, the darkness is coming again; the Lunatic too must go to bed, and roost like a cheerful hen that has done its duty and laid an egg to be hatched by some other brain—less of the feather kind—with more of the strength o'er the ruins of men.

The Old, Old Story.

Now when you read these words above,
So hackneyed late by voice and pen,
You think that I would write of love,
Alas, that you are sold again.

I merely wish to say to one,
Who scans your page with curious view,
That it is time he had begun
To frame his resolution new.

That resolution new and bright,
Which he at this time yearly makes,
To change his mode of living quite,
And then incontinently breaks.

A diary he gets—(the one
Last year he got will often do,
The page to use he had begun,
He overlays with paper new.)

Then draws afresh a noble code,
He WISDOM will, this coming year,
Take as his guide upon the road,
And follow her instructions clear.

Good sir, the vain attempt forego,
'Tis not for you; burn up your plan,
And this small fact in future know,
That sort of thing requires a man.

1878. ST. JOHN'S WARD, 1878.

Your Vote and Interest
ARE RESPECTFULLY REQUESTED FOR

HARRY PIPER

As Alderman for 1878.

The Scientific American.

THIRTY-THIRD YEAR.

THE

MOST POPULAR SCIENTIFIC PAPER IN THE WORLD.

Only $3.20 a Year, Including Postage. Weekly.
52 Numbers a Year. 4000 book pages.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN is a large First Class Weekly Newspaper of sixteen pages, printed in the most beautiful style, profusely illustrated with splendid engravings, representing the newest Inventions and the most recent Advances in the Arts and Sciences; including Mechanics and Engineering, Steam Engineering, Railway, Mining, Civil, Gas and Hydraulic Engineering, Mill Work, Iron Steel and Metal Work; Chemistry and Chemical Processes: Electricity, Light, Heat, Sound; Technology, Photography, Printing, New Machinery, New Processes, New Recipes, Improvements pertaining to the Textile Industry, Weaving, Dyeing, Coloring, New Industrial Products, Animal, Vegetable and Mineral; New and Interesting Facts in Agriculture, Horticulture, the Home, Health, Medical Progress, Social Science, Natural History, Geography, Astronomy, etc.

The most valuable practical papers, by eminent writers in all departments of Science, will be found in the Scientific American; the whole presented in popular language, free from technical terms, illustrated with engravings, and so arranged as to interest and inform all classes of readers, old and young. The Scientific American is promotive of knowledge and progress in every community where it circulates. It should have a place in every Family, Reading Room, Library, College or School. Terms, $5.00 per year, $1.60 half year, which includes prepayment of postage. Discount to Clubs and Agents. Single copies ten cents. Sold by all Newsdealers. Remit by postal order to MUNN & CO., Publishers, 37 Park Row, New York.

PATENTS.

In connection with the Scientific American Messrs. MUNN & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. Patents are obtained on the best terms. Models of New inventions and sketches examined, and advice free. A special notice is made in the Scientific American of all inventions patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Public attention is thus directed to the merits of the new patent, and sales or introduction often effected.

Any person who has made a new discovery or invention, can ascertain, free of charge, whether a patent can properly be obtained, by writing to the undersigned. Address for the Paper, or concerning Patents.

MUNN & CO., 37 Park Row, N. Y.

Branch Office, Cor. F. & 7th Sts., Washington, D. C.

PROPERTIES WANTED.

ST. ANDREWS WARD, house of about 8 rooms, near the market. Price $1,000 to $1,500

ST. THOMAS WARD, a detached or semie detached house of about nine rooms, good yard, with stable or room to build one. Price about $2,500.

DALHOUSIE STREET. Three houses, 6 rooms, hard and soft water. $1,250 each.

RICHMOND ST. WEST. Two roughcast houses, 11 rooms, splendidly finished, bath room and every convenience. $3,000.

WILLIAM HENRY STREET, rough cast house, seven rooms, grate, folding doors, &c. $1,800.

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
Real Estate Agents,

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS, (Next Post Office.)
TORONTO.

CHEAP READING.

Having entered into arrangements with the Publishers, we are now prepared to supply

SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY and "GRIP," $ 5.00.

ST. NICHOLAS and "GRIP," 4.00.

DETROIT FREE PRESS and "GRIP," 3.50

BENGOUGH BROS.,
TORONTO.

Economy in the expenditure of a city's Finances and efficiency in all departments of civic administration should be the aim of its Chief Magistrate.

MAYORALTY ELECTION, 1878.Your Vote and Influence

ARE RESPECTFULLY SOLICITED FOR

JAMES BEATY, Q.C.AS MAYOR FOR 1878.

ELECTION TAKES PLACE

Monday Jan. 7, 1878.XMAS.

AND

NEW YEARS' CARDS

AT

"Grip" Office.

Samples by mail 10 cents.

1878. THE MAYORALTY. 1878.To the Electors of the City of Toronto.

Your vote and influence at the coming election are kindly requested for

ANGUS MORRISON.

The election takes place on Monday, Jan. 7th, 1878.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN.WANTED!

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN TO LEARN TELEGRAPH operating for offices opening in the Dominion. Send 3 cent stamp for circular. Address MANAGER. Box 955, Toronto

J. F. DANTER, M. D.

Homœopathist and Medical Electrician. Office and Pharmacy: 4 Albert Street, (Cor. Yonge) Toronto. Medicine for sale, vials refilled. Letters promptly answered.

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT.

Ottawa, 12th Oct., 1877.

AUTHORIZED DISCOUNT ON
American invoices until further notice, 3 per cent.

J. JOHNSON,
Commissioner of Customs.

v-6-11

NEATLY, CHEAPLY, QUICKLY.

"GRIP"
General Job Department

OFFICE

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS,

(One door west of the Post-office)

Everything in the Printing line from a

LABEL TO A 3-SHEET POSTER

WITH NEATNESS AND DESPATCH.

CARDS.

We are prepared to fill Orders by Mail for Visiting Cards (Finest Bristol, White or Tinted) immediately on receipt of letter, and forward by FIRST MAIL, at the following

RATES:

100 Cards, (one name, one style type), 75 cents.
50 " " " " " " 50 "
25 " " " " " " 30 "

Printing addresses on Cards, 10 cents extra for each Order.

THE FOLLOWING ARE

SAMPLES OF TYPE

FROM WHICH A CHOICE MAY BE MADE.

1*Robert Taylor.2William Richardson3Miss Maggie Thompson4George Augustus Williams.5Mrs. Thomas Jones.6William Arthur Crawford.7Miss Susie W. de.8Byron Ed. Scott.9William Shakespeare.*

Write your Name and the Number of the Letter you desire plainly, to prevent mistakes.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS,

TORONTO, ONT.

Every Lady should have "THE FAHEY BRO'S." KID GLOVES, Every Pair Warranted. See that each pair bears Their Own Mark.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE.

Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.

Subscription price, $2 per annum strictly in advance. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied.

USE ONLY
ONTARIO
BAKING POWDER.

ASK YOUR
Grocer for it.

THE TORONTO
TURKISH BATHS
223 Queen St. West.
THE ONLY TURKISH BATHS IN
THE CITY.

These baths are useful in Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Coughs, Colds, Congestions, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Skin Diseases, all inflammations, Biliousness, and for sanitary purposes.

Hours:—Gentlemen from 7:30 to 8:30 a.m., and 3 to 9 p.m. Ladies from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. every day. Experienced attendants.

GORRELL,
CRAIG
&
Co.,
LITHOGRAPHERS
13
ADELAIDE ST.
EAST.

FARM FOR SALE.

A very desirable farm for a gentleman's residence, consisting of 31 acres, in the Township of Pickering, County of Ontario, overlooking Frenchman's Bay. A small stream runs through the north west corner. There is

A Capital Orchard
of Pears, Plums, Cherry and Apple Trees, covering twelve acres, nine of which are only six years old, just commencing to bear. The soil is as good as can be found in the township, which is equivalent to saying there is none better in the province.

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
REAL ESTATE AG'TS
IMPERIAL BUILDINGS.
Next Post Office, Toronto.

"GRIP"
Job Department

Is Stocked with all the latest Styles and Improvements in
TYPES,

from the American, Canadian and European Foundries, and will be found competent for the execution of all classes of Printing, with

NEATNESS,
CHEAPNESS
DESPATCH.
Office: Imperial Buildings,
(NEXT POST-OFFICE).

MARBLE CLOCKS

Direct from PARIS.

FINEST GOODS EVER SHOWN IN TORONTO.

W. F. ROSS & CO., 83 KING STREET EAST.

CAUTION.

Before purchasing your spring shirts, get our prices, our Shirts please everybody our trade this season is far ahead of last. If you want a good shirt at a low price try sample one. Send for circular to A. White, late White & Sharpe 63 King Street West.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, JANUARY 5, 1878.

GRIP OFFICE,
IMPERIAL BUILDING.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

5 CTS. EACH.
$2 PER ANNUM.

CANNOT BE SURPASSED.

Canadian made Wallets, Purses, Pocket-Books.

Card and Letter Cases, Bill Cases, Portfolios.—New and Improved Styles.

REDUCED PRICES. SOMETHING NEW IN AUTOGRAPH ALBUMS. NEW AND

Beautiful designs.—Wonderful chaste and Cheap. SCRAP BOOKS, SCRAP ALBUMS. In great variety. Substantial, handsome, very Cheap.

BROWN BROTHERS,

Manufacturing Stationers,

66 & 68 King Street East, Toronto.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach GRIP office not later than Wednesday.—Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

GENTLEMEN

Collars of all the Newest Styles gotten up EQUAL TO NEW, at
2 1-2cts. each or 25cts. per doz., at

TORONTO STEAM

LAUNDRY.

HALLEY'S HALL,
COR. KING & BAY STS.

G. P. SHARPE, Prop.

H. T. ALISOPP,

DEALER IN

FINE BOOTS AND SHOES.

7 KING STREET EAST

TORONTO.

(4th door east of Yonge)

TO
YOUNG MEN

Wishing to learn

TELEGRAPHING,

A certificate good for

Twenty Dollars,

Will be sold cheap, good for the

TORONTO INSTITUTE.

Address:—

H. GUMMER,

Box, 2662.

TO SPORTSMEN.

A FIRST CLASS

Breech-loading Rifle.

Manufactured by Messon, Worcester, Mass. For Sale very Cheap, the owner having no use for it.

APPLY AT

GRIP OFFICE

REAL ESTATE.

Persons having Properties to dispose of in City or Country, will find it to their advantage to place it in our hands. We have the

BEST STAND IN THE CITY,
and facilities for
ADVERTISING

which cannot be excelled.

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,

NEXT POST OFFICE,

TORONTO.

BLACK-BOARD

IN THE

SUNDAY-SCHOOL.

A practical guide for superintendents and teachers by Frank Beard. Fully illustrated. $1.50. Artist's Manual of Oil and Water Color Painting, &c., 50cts. Elocutionist's Journal, 10 cts. Of booksellers or by mail. JESSE HANEY & CO., 119 Nassau St., N. Y.

PAINTER'S Manual.—

House and sign painting, graining, varnishing, polishing, kalsomining, papering, staining, gilding, &c. 50 cts. Furniture and Cabinet Finisher, 50. Watchmaker and Jeweller, 50. Soapmaker, 25. Taxidermist, 50. Of booksellers or by mail. JESSE HANEY & CO., 119 Nassau St., New York.

MAPLE CHESTNUT COAL $5.00 per Ton
5.00 " Cord

AT NAIRN'S,

OFFICE, - - NEXT POST OFFICE,
DOCKS, - - FOOT OF CHURCH ST.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabest Beast is the Ass : the grabest Bird is the Owl ;
The grabest Fish is the Oyster ; the grabest Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SAUTRDAY, 5TH JANUARY, 1878.

Twinklings.

Reporters do a credit business—they take notes.

"To edit a newspaper requires that one be a statesman, essayist, geographer, statistician and encyclopediac," says TALMAGE. He might have added that one must have a fair knowledge of the shear-manipulating art and be able to brew good paste.

The Vision.

There is a period to all things, and there was to GRIP's Christmas dinner. If you will take roast beef, and turkey, and celery sauce, and rabbit pie, and plumb pudding, and trifle, and cheese, and port, sherry, claret, Roman punch, and coffee, in sufficient quantities, there will be one to yours, and it is not unlikely that what happened to that renowned individual may happen to you. What Was That ?

He Went to Sleep.

He Had a Vision.

This Was It :—

The people of the Earth deployed before him as they would do, or as they should do, during the New Year. At first, it was a dreadful picture. Quarrels, riots, disturbances, wars, famines, miseries of every kind mingled with horrid uproar. Turks and Russians slew one another in the region of the great war; Austria and Prussia, France and England, each fully armed, stood with hand on sword, expectant each moment to join the fray. Republicans and Democrats, Hard Money and Paper Base. Men in the States were ready to fly at each other's throats. In Canada, Free Trader and Protectionist were tooth and nail; Orange and Green were anxiously waiting to pitch in. Everywhere was nothing but clamour, bloodshed, spite, hatred, and destruction.

He Looked Again.

A mighty change had occurred. Turk and Russian had made it up, sworn everlasting friendship, buried the dead, fixed up the wounded, and were rebuilding the villages. The Great Powers had given up all thought of war. Something had occurred which put them in such good humor as rendered combat impossible for a length of time. The Great United Statesmen had united in earnest and were having a gin cocktail. Archbishop Lynch was giving his benediction to the Grand Master, and JOHN A. was clasped in MACKENZIE'S arms, while CARTWRIGHT and TUPPER were frantically drinking each other's health in the distance.

What Was the Cause?

The Nations Looked at GRIP.

He Had Done It.

"I will agree to do it regularly," said that distinguished personage, "for $2 a year each."

He Had sent them his last volume.

The Vision Closed.

The Skating Rink.

At last a look of happiness
Comes on a face which you may guess.
It needn't take you long to think,
The man who owns the skating rink.

November came ; upon his knees,
He prayed for frost ; it wouldn't freeze,
December—still there was no ice,
He made remarks which were not nice.

In vain his hose did nightly pour
The water on the level floor,
While at thermometer he stared,
With eye in which a fury glared.

Last night there came a little snow,
And frost—it surely will not go.
But if it should, and then again,
Oh, woe to the rink-owning men.

In his wet rink will each him drown ?
Or will he madly leave the town,
And despatch off on railway roll,
To open rinks at the North Pole ?

The Novelist.

Amelia :

How thrilling are the tales
The glorious fiction-carpenter turns out !
A spring that never fails
Is he—a most entrancing waterspout !
I sit and quaff and dream,
And revel in his conjurations bright—
He brings on sentiment by steam,
And is, in fact, intoxicating quite !

MOURNFUL NOTE BY GRIP :

Ah, couldst thou see him now, confiding maiden,
Mixing his cock-tail in the gay saloon,
In truth, though with less romance, could'st thou say then :
He is a most intoxicating coon.

A Hymn of Fire.What the Insurance Promoter said to his Conscience,

"Tell me not, with dire prediction,
Mine is an ill-fated scheme,
Shares subscribed a pleasing fiction,
Prospectuses not what they seem.

Cash is real ; notes are earnest
Of the cash that shall come in ;
To contributors returnest
Surplus cash ? " Nay—that's too thin,

Not security, not surplus,
Is our destined end or aim,
But to swell returns, get business,
Part stock, part mutual is the game.

Cheek is strong, and dash is sweeping ;
And if hearts are hard and brave,
Agents bold, the risks up-heaping,
For a while we'll dodge our grave,

In this land the field is ample ;
Fame's my first aim—second, pelf ;
No man shall be my example,
I'm a law unto myself.

Future, say you ? Shun the subject,
You'd chill a furnace with your dread ;
We're a-goin' to gain our object,
Let dead comp'nies bury their dead,

The Stadacona was a jumble—
Its forerunner strained its luck—
And, before one fire to crumble,
The Provincial folks lacked pluck.

Don't remind me of the Beaver—
The Niagara's dying roar—
Canada Agricultural either—
Cease your croaking, you're a bore,

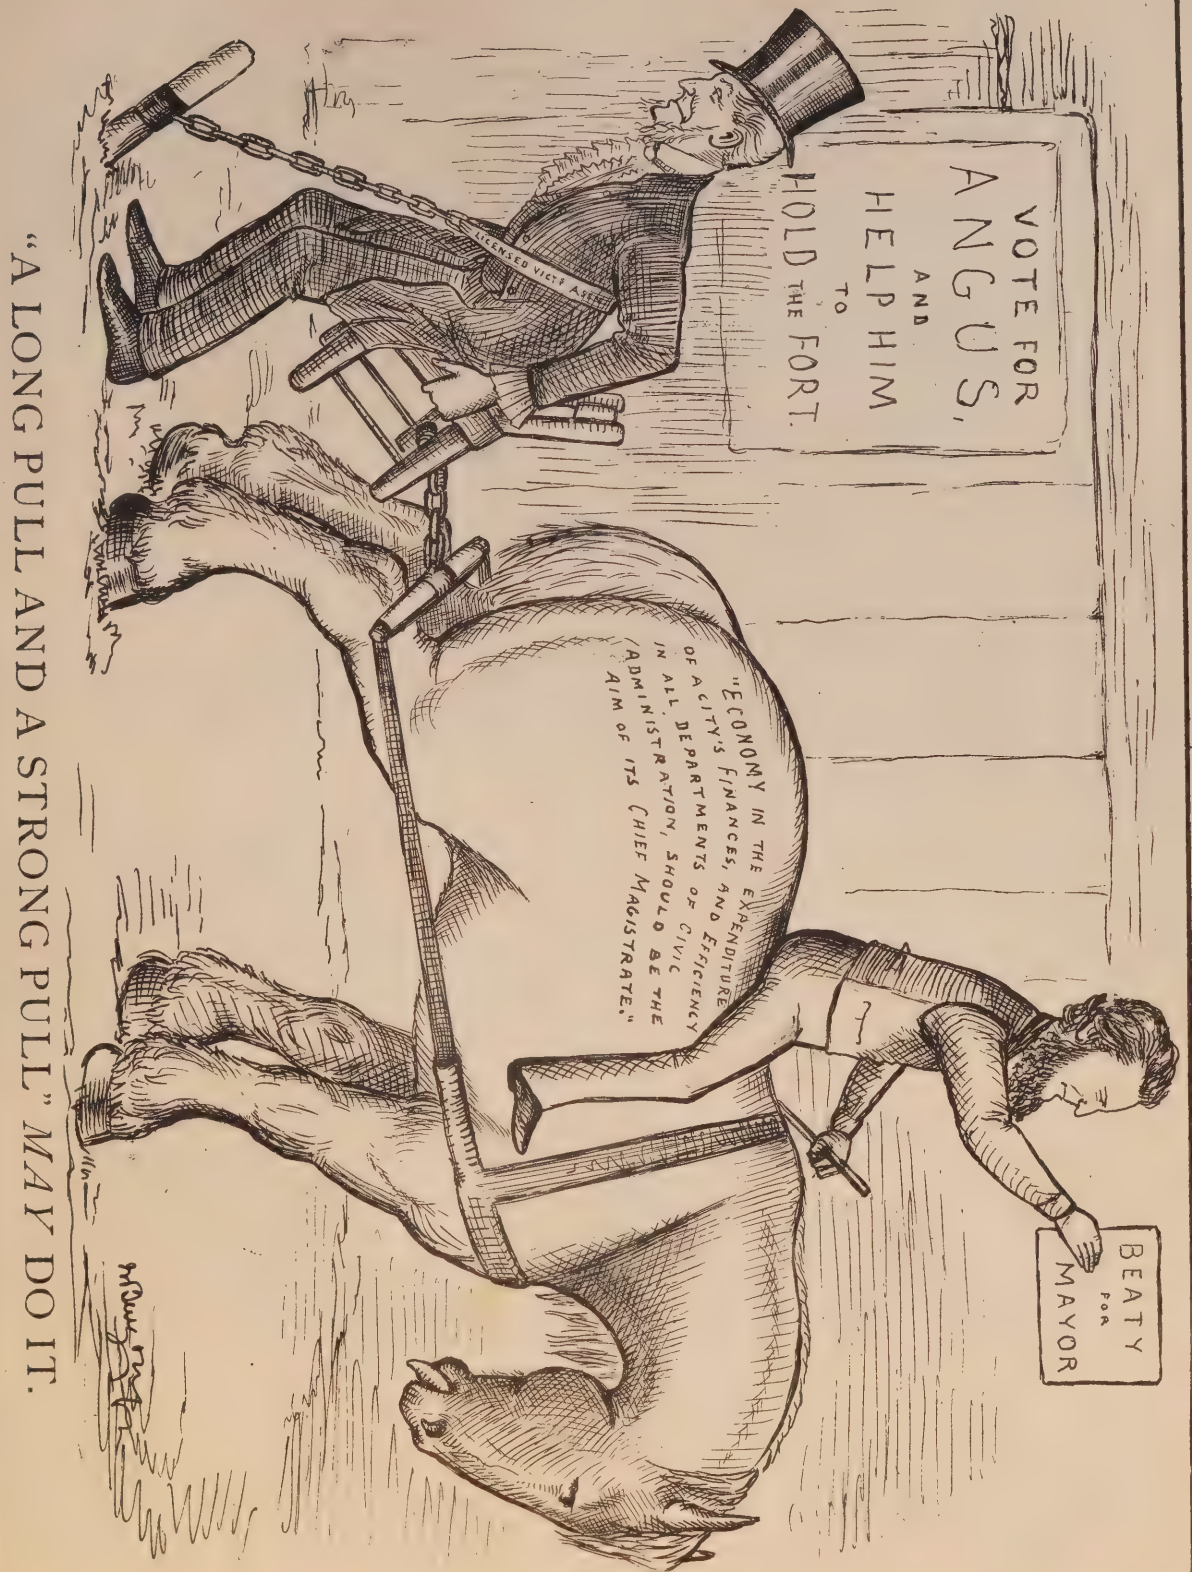

Ours shall live, shall soar like Eagle,
(Till I sell my shares, whate'er),
Make its title something Regal,
Hoist the Ensign in the air !

Lives of reckless men remind us
We can clear our skirts of crime,
Or levitating, leave behind us
In the annals of the time,
Hoofprints "

(The shade of his departed conscience gloomily here takes up the unfinished strain.)

Yea, Hoofprints in the dust that smothers
Whole communities in flame,
Which, forlorn and fire-wrecked brothers
Seeing, execrate your name.

Companies ! be up and doing,
For no fair Utopia wait,
Rivalry excessive rueing,
With its evils still accruing,
Wise rules obeying, right pursuing,
Labour to maintain your rate.

"A LONG PULL AND A STRONG PULL" MAY DO IT.

The Disgusted ex-School Trustee.To the Editor of GRIP :

SIR :—I would like, as an hold School Trustee, to know what is goin to happen. I considers French Revolutionism, Communism, and any other think possible!

Look at this. Here is people comin' hout for Trustees sayin' they wants to put down hextravagance! Actually printin' it!

And they say they 'ave been teachers, and are well hup in hedication, and that! It is hun-British, that's wot it is.

I puts hit to hany School Board hif any perkersites can be picked hup on such a system. They cannot. I wants to know hif any hedicated chap hon a School Board isn't a noosance to them as knows less. He is.

The city wants no hinnervation—no heconomists—the lor' says the people must pay all the Trustees axes—I goes for axin' plenty. Down with heconomy! New schools hevery year and plenty of 'em. Ooray!

ONE WHO AS BIN A TRUSTEE.

Toronto, Jan. 2, 1877.

The Matrimonial Duet.

HE.

The first day of the year. My dearest, say,
For still for help, you know, I look your way,
How can we best proceed? Our income, dear,
Will be just one half less the coming year,
Than what it has been. Now, with your good aid,
This saving, though excessive, may be made,
Say, may I count on you?

SHE.

You know you may.

I have it planned in mind, ere you can say.
Already I a hundred chances see,
For well retrenching superfluity.
One half is all you wish, you say, to touch
Well, we have always spent one half too much.
Do you not think so?

HE.

Certainly I do.
In this, as in all else, I think with you.
How undeserving I, when gods above,
A wife bestowed so worthy of my love.
Now mark the items down, and never doubt,
All you dispense with I will do without.
Begin at once.

SHE.

Let's pen and paper take,
How happy should her luck one woman make,
Who such a husband has, with whom nor she,
Nor any reasoning mind could disagree.
Ah, kiss me, love; and now 'tis fit you say,
What may be lopped; my duty to obey,
Fear not I shall forget.

HE.

My charming wife,
Joy of my present, as of all my life,
Well, first the house, five hundred here we pay,
There was a cottage offered me to-day
For half that rent. The extra furniture
We can dispose of, and thereby secure
Some ready cash.

SHE.

Oh, that will never do,
My dear. There's FLORENCE now her studies through,
Just coming out. How could I folks invite
To some small, poky, one front-windowed fright?
And you have often said, you know, with men,
It helps to give a dinner now and then.
You couldn't give it there.

HE.

And that is true.
Well, let us think of something else to do.
Now, as to dress, your bills on King Street make Sharp pulls upon my purse. Could you not take
Some off in that direction, and yet show
Extremely well? I thought of late you go
Beyond the mark.

SHE.

My dear, 'tis very sad,
To hear you talk as if no sense you had.
What have I had? My princess dress—brocade,
(To save, I had the back of velvet made,)
My furs are good; but furs are out of wear.
A silken sacque I bought—those two, I swear,
Are all I've had this week.

HE.

Don't angry be.

SHE.

Well, let my dress alone, and we shall see
What else there is. Your club, two hundred clear,
And all those vile cigars—you owned them dear,
Must be a hundred more; and then you treat
Your friends; don't get. I pray, in such a heat,
We'll cut things down.

HE.

We will, I plainly see,
But all the cutting's to be done on me.
Will you do with a servant less?

SHE.

I'll save
With any one; but make myself a slave
I never will; and when you married me,
If I had thought—

HE.

Or I, that this would be.
But your extravagance—

SHE.

Your horrid waste
Has caused it all, and soon you will be placed
In Bankruptcy; don't speak to me; I'll not Hear it. I know you've not one penny got Laid by for me. Abominable, mean.
Weak creature; if I'd only never seen
Your ugly face.

HE,

To match with yours it might
Be so; your friends agree that quite a fright
You've grown of late.

SHE.

That's nothing but your spite
You miserable, base, low, abject wretch,
I'll go for a divorce; I'll go and fetch
My brother here. You horrible and vile!
I'll scratch your eyes out;—yes—I'll—I'll—I'll—I'll—(Goes off into hysterics; husband goes off to town.)

Clerical Retreats.To the Editor of GRIP :

The merely lay and secular element in the church—of course I mean the Church of ST. SWITHINAS, now, alas, the only representative of the Direct Succession—is strangely ignorant of the true cause and nature of Clerical Retreats. I—a humble brother—a mere neophyte—am deputed to explain.

Pressed as the clerical element is in modern times, by the assaults of infidelity, the attacks of nonconformists, the faiths, desperate in their dying agonies, the troubles of their flocks, the troubles of getting flocks, the difficulty of watching and especially of shearing flocks when got—the health, spirits, and strength of the worthy clerics decay to an alarming extent. Recuperation is necessary. They find it in a Clerical Retreat. Not yet well adopted in this country, they hope it soon will be. For instance, a gentleman is rich. Why should he not afford means for a Retreat. His country house, say, he places at the disposal of a number of worthy clerical friends. Far from worry, confusion, and annoyance, they can there spend some months in preparation for a fresh attack on SATAN. The cuisine is necessarily excellent. The country air is refreshing. The repose is what is needed. The course is varied, but dinner at seven, and perhaps supper at eleven is as beneficial as can be suggested. A mortification of the flesh is of course necessary in the course, fasting next morning till the time of rising, say ten, should be proposed. This short explanation will give some idea. By the way, the Middle Age Monasteries—which should not have been altogether suppressed, furnished excellent Clerical Retreats.

Yours truly,

Toronto, Jan. 3, 1878.

ECCLESIA.

Go to the Roller Skating Rink!
BOND'S RIDING SCHOOL, BAY ST.
 Admission 10c., Ladies free.
 Open at 2.30 and 7.30 p.m.

The Scientific American.
 THIRTY-THIRD YEAR.
 THE
 MOST POPULAR SCIENTIFIC PAPER IN THE WORLD.
 Only $3.20 a Year, including Postage. Weekly.
 52 Numbers a Year. 4000 book pages.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN is a large First Class Weekly Newspaper of sixteen pages, printed in the most beautiful style, profusely illustrated with splendid engravings, representing the newest Inventions and the most recent Advances in the Arts and Sciences; including Mechanics and Engineering, Steam Engineering, Railway, Mining, Civil, Gas and Hydraulic Engineering, Mill Work, Iron Steel and Metal Work; Chemistry and Chemical Processes: Electricity, Light, Heat, Sound; Technology, Photography, Printing, New Machinery, New Processes, New Recipes, Improvements pertaining to Textile Industry, Weaving, Dyeing, Coloring, New Industrial Products, Animal, Vegetable and Mineral; New and Interesting Facts in Agriculture, Horticulture, the Home, Health, Medical Progress, Social Science, Natural History, Geography, Astronomy, etc.

The most valuable practical papers, by eminent writers in all departments of Science, will be found in the Scientific American, the whole presented in popular language, free from technical terms, illustrated with engravings, and so arranged as to interest and inform all classes of readers, old and young. The Scientific American is promotive of knowledge and progress in every community where it circulates. It should have a place in every Family, Reading Room, Library, College or School. Terms, $3.20 per year, $1.60 half year, which includes prepayment of postage. Discount to Clubs and Agents. Single copies ten cents. Sold by all Newsdealers. Remit by postal order to MUNN & CO., Publishers, 37 Park Row, New York.

PATENTS.

In connection with the Scientific American Messrs. MUNN & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. Patents are obtained on the best terms, Models of New inventions and sketches examined, and advice free. A special notice is made in the Scientific American of all inventions patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Public attention is thus directed to the merits of the new patent, and sales or introduction often effected.

Any person who has made a new discovery or invention, can ascertain, free of charge, whether a patent can properly be obtained, by writing to the undersigned. Address for the Paper, or concerning Patents.

MUNN & CO., 37 Park Row, N. Y.

Branch Office, Cor. F. & 7th Sts., Washington, D. C.

FOUND!

A SMALL BUNCH OF KEYS

Was picked up opposite the Post Office. Owner can have same by calling at the office of "GRIP" and paying for this advertisement.

CHEAP READING.

Having entered into arrangements with the Publishers, we are now prepared to supply

SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY and "GRIP," $ 5.00.
 ST. NICHOLAS and "GRIP," 4.00.
 DETROIT FREE PRESS and "GRIP," 3.50

BENGOUGH BROS.,
 TORONTO.

Economy in the expenditure of a city's Finances and efficiency in all departments of civic administration should be the aim of its Chief Magistrate.

MAYORALTY ELECTION, 1878.

Your Vote and Influence

ARE RESPECTFULLY SOLICITED FOR

JAMES BEATY, Q.C.

AS MAYOR FOR 1878.

ELECTION TAKES PLACE

Monday Jan. 7, 1878.

1878. ST. JOHN'S WARD, 1878,

Your Vote and Interest

ARE RESPECTFULLY REQUESTED FOR

HARRY PIPER

As Alderman for 1878.

1878. THE MAYORALTY. 1878.

To the Electors of the City of Toronto.

Your vote and influence at the coming election are kindly requested for

ANGUS MORRISON,

The election takes place on Monday, Jan. 7th, 1878.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN.

WANTED!

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN TO LEARN TELEGRAPH operating for offices opening in the Dominion. Send 3 cent stamp for circular. Address MANAGER, Box 955, Toronto

J. F. DANTER, M. D.

Homoeopathist and Medical Electrician. Office and Pharmacy: 4 Albert Street, (Cor. Yonge) Toronto. Medicine for sale, vials refilled, Letters promptly answered.

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT.

Ottawa, 12th Oct., 1877.

AUTHORIZED DISCOUNT ON American invoices until further notice, 3 per cent.

J. JOHNSON,
 Commissioner of Customs.

v-6-1f

NEATLY, CHEAPLY, QUICKLY.

"GRIP"
 General Job Department

OFFICE

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS,

(One door west of the Post-office)

Everything in the Printing line from a

LABEL TO A 3-SHEET POSTER

WITH NEATNESS AND DESPATCH.

CARDS.

We are prepared to fill Orders by Mail for Visiting Cards (Finest Bristol, White or Tinted) immediately on receipt of letter, and forward by FIRST MAIL, at the following

RATES:

100 Cards, (one name, one style type), 75 cents.
 50 " " " " 50 "
 25 " " " " 30 "

Printing addresses on Cards, 10 cents extra for each Order.

THE FOLLOWING ARE

SAMPLES OF TYPE

FROM WHICH A CHOICE MAY BE MADE

1

Robert Taylor.

2

William Richardson

3

Miss Maggie Thompson

4

George Augustus Williams.

5

Mrs. Thomas Jones.

6

William Arthur Crawford.

7

Miss Susie Wade.

8

Byron W. Scott.

9

William Shakespeare.

Write your Name and the Number of the Letter you desire plainly, to prevent mistakes.

BENGOUGH BROS.,
 IMPERIAL BUILDINGS,

TORONTO, ONT.

Every Lady should have "THE FAHEY BRO'S." KID GLOVES, Every Pair Warranted. See that each pair bears Their Own Mark.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE
GRIP is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.
 Subscription price, $2 per annum strictly in advance. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied.

USE ONLY
ONTARIO
BAKING
POWDER.
 ASK YOUR
Grocer for it.

THE TORONTO
TURKISH BATHS
 233 Queen St. West.
 THE ONLY TURKISH BATHS IN THE CITY.

These baths are useful in Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Coughs, Colds, Congestions, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Skin Diseases, all inflammations, Biliousness, and for sanitary purposes.
 Hours:—Gentlemen from 7:30 to 9:30 a.m., and 3 to 9 p.m. Ladies from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. every day. Experienced attendants.

GORRELL,
CRAIG
& Co.,
LITHOGRAPHERS
 13
 ADELAIDE ST.
 EAST.

FARM FOR SALE.
 A very desirable farm for a gentleman's residence, consisting of 31 acres, in the Township of Pickering, County of Ontario, overlooking Frenchman's Bay. A small stream runs through the north west corner. There is
A Capital Orchard
 of Pears, Plums, Cherry and Apple Trees, covering twelve acres, nine of which are only six years old, just commencing to bear. The soil is as good as can be found in the township; which is equivalent to saying there is none better in the province.
BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
REAL ESTATE AG'TS
 IMPERIAL BUILDINGS.
 Next Post Office, Toronto.

"GRIP"
Job Department
 Is Stocked with all the latest Styles and Improvements in
TYPES,
 from the American, Canadian and European Foundries, and will be found competent for the execution of all classes of Printing, with
NEATNESS,
CHEAPNESS
 —DESPATCH.
 Office: Imperial Buildings,
 (NEXT POST-OFFICE).

MARBLE CLOCKS

Direct from PARIS.

FINEST GOODS EVER SHOWN IN TORONTO.

W. F. ROSS & CO., 83 KING STREET EAST.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, JANUARY 12, 1878.

GRIP OFFICE, } The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; } 5 CTS. EACH.
 IMPERIAL BUILDING. } The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool. } $2 PER ANNUM.

CANNOT BE SURPASSED.
Canadian made Wallets, Purses, Pocket-Books.
 Card and Letter Cases, Bill Cases, Portfolios.—New and Improved Styles.
REDUCED PRICES. SOMETHING NEW IN AUTOGRAPH ALBUMS. NEW AND
 Beautiful designs.—Wonderful chaste and Cheap. SCRAP BOOKS, SCRAP ALBUMS. In great variety. Substantial, handsome, very Cheap. BROWN BROTHERS. Manufacturing Stationers,
 66 & 68 King Street East, Toronto.

EDITOR'S NOTE.
 ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach GRIP office not later than Wednesday.—Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

GENTLEMEN
 Collars of all the Newest Styles gotten up EQUAL TO NEW, at
2 1-2cts. each or 25cts. per doz., at
TORONTO STEAM
LAUNDRY.
HALLEY'S HALL,
 COR. KING & BAY STS.
 G. P. SHARPE, Prop.

H. T. ALISOPP,
 DEALER IN
FINE BOOTS AND SHOES.
 7 KING STREET EAST
 TORONTO.
 (4th door east of Yonge)

TO
YOUNG MEN
 Wishing to learn
TELEGRAPHING,
 A certificate good for
Twenty Dollars,
 Will be sold cheap, good for the
TORONTO INSTITUTE.
 Address:—
 H. GUMMER,
 Box, 2662.

TO SPORTSMEN.
 A FIRST CLASS
Breech-loading Rifle.
 Manufactured by Messon, Worcester, Mass. For Sale very Cheap, the owner having no use for it.
 APPLY AT
GRIP OFFICE

REAL ESTATE.
 Persons having Properties to dispose of in City or Country will find it to their advantage to place it in our hands. We have the
BEST STAND IN THE CITY,
 and facilities for
ADVERTISING
 which cannot be excelled.
BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
 NEXT POST OFFICE,
 TORONTO.

BLACK-BOARD
 IN THE
SUNDAY-SCHOOL.
 A practical guide for superintendents and teachers by Frank Beard. Fully illustrated. $1.50. Artist's Manual of Oil and Water Color Painting, &c., 50 cts. Elocutionist's Journal, 10 cts. Of booksellers or by mail. JESSE HANEY & CO., 119 Nassau St., N. Y.

PAINTER'S Manual.
 House and sign painting, gilding, varnishing, polishing, kalsomining, papering, lettering, staining, gilding, &c., 50 cts. Furniture and Cabinet Finisher, 50. Watchmaker and Jeweller, 50. Soapmaker, 25. Taxidermist, 50. Of booksellers or by mail. JESSE HANEY & CO., 119 Nassau St., New York.

STOVE & CHESTNUT COAL $5.00 per Ton
MAPLE WOOD - - - - 5.00 " Cord AT NAIRN'S, OFFICE, - - NEXT POST OFFICE.
 DOCKS, - - FOOT OF CHURCH ST.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grubest Beast is the Ass: the grubest Bird is the Owl;
The grubest Fish is the Oyater: the grubest Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SAUTRDAY, 12TH JANUARY, 1878.

Answers to Correspondents.

E. D. A.—Shall be pleased to hear from you again.

The Contest.

BEATY preached in every street,
Vet poor BEATY he was beat,
MORRISON spoke not at all,
Yet to place we him recall.
Quiet pigs, the fables say,
Get the milk; it's so to-day.

Whose Ox is Gored.

Now GRIP can talk theology, having the advantage over he of the Telegram, that he of GRIP knows something about it. GRIP would remark that lately certain Dunkinite clergymen urged people not to drink spirits, "lest thou make thy brother to offend!" Very good. GRIP approves. But there was a head officiating minister of the Church who once said to PETER, "Give the piece of money to them for my taxes and thine, lest we offend them." Now, why were not the clergymen who were so ready to beg others to avoid "offending" weak people by drinking, careful to avoid offending by insisting on exemptions? They know nothing is hurting the faith more than this clerical sharpness. Did not GRIP see some of the amphitheatre declaimers at the exemption court? Hah! Send that cash back at once labelled "conscience money," or GRIP must name the offenders, which will be a deal worse than if the Speaker does it.

The Water Commission.

It is extremely plain that a Water Commissioner. Must hold a complete independent position. For They say there's a cool hundred thousand deficit, And nobody seems much to care, or to miss it, They've passed over the works, but still now, at the row's end, GRIP would say, come, account for the odd hundred thousand.

Grip to the Council Boys.

"Now, my good little fellows," remarks the venerable GRIP, smiling benignantly on the Alderboys who, as usual, come for instructions, "there are some of you, I see, who have never done anything very wrong in the Council, as this is your first election. The rest did not do so badly last year as they might, which is a great step in advance for a Toronto Council. True, they raised salaries, and spent little on roads, but they kept within their appropriations. They might have done all this, and run us into debt besides. For what they did not do we have reason to be thankful. Now remember these rules:—

1. Hire a lot of police, and do not support their authority. Let any blackguards stone them, and don't punish them when caught. Then 100 men will be about as good as fifty might be.
2. Be good enough not to spend Toronto's money on Toronto, but on any fields near the moon, where some aldermen might like to have streets, gas, and water, and might not like to pay for them.
3. Support the water dodge which killed BEATY. Propose that people with plenty of water shall pay for city water they don't want, to make it cheaper to the rich. Folks like that. It is so fair.
4. There are only about $100,000 left yearly for improvements, after paying other charges. Keep on an expensive engineer and big staff to spend it. Of course they're not half needed, but keep 'em on. It looks grand.
5. Put soft land stone and softer limestone on the roads, fill with sandy gravel, grind it to powder and cart it off in a year. Of course there's lots of granite could be shipped here, but what would the city stone jobbers do?
6. Lay the macadam, and then dig up the streets for sewers. Lay it again, and let the gas company dig it up. Then let every one dig it up who wants to connect. Then it will be fit to dig up altogether, lay again, and commence again.
7. The bonus cow is killed. But you might make a haul by borrowing $100,000 for improvements. Take care you know beforehand how much percentage the contractors will fork over.
8. More in successive numbers.

The Catastrophe.

Young JONES he was a citizen,
Of credit and renown,
A dry goods clerk also was he,
Of famed Toronto town.

To him last his sweetheart did remark,
Though courting we have been,
For twice two pleasant months, yet we
No sleigh-ride yet have seen.

To-morrow is a holiday,
And you must here repair,
And bring a sleigh. That dry goods man
Did stare a ghastly stare.

The road he knew with horse and sleigh,
Was sure to be alive,
The fact he did not dare to tell,
He knew not how to drive.

But soon the fated morrow came,
And with it too came he,
Who was but little at his ease,
But much appeared to be.

That day the horse came back alone,
The sleigh came not at all,
It lies upon the country road,
In pieces very small.

The lady and her lover came Home after through the snow,
He visits other houses, but
To hers he dare not go.

The Editor's Sanctum.

EDITOR.—And how many editorials would you write me in a week, my dear sir?

WRITER.—Why, perhaps two; but would rather limit myself to one.

EDITOR.—Heavens! Earth! Sea! Stars! Why, what would you expect me to pay you for it?

WRITER.—Well, how do you manage?

EDITOR.—Why, you can get a fellow for twenty dollars a week, or ten, or I believe five even—these literary chaps are plenty, and anybody can write. Well, he'll write you one, or two, or even three a day. Don't believe in those folks who charge much; always found the cheapest fellows would hand out more copy in a given time than the dear ones. Why I often wrote a leader myself, without the slightest preparation, at three o'clock in the morning, printed it at once, and nobody noticed anything wrong in it. A very good rule is not to tell the public anything in your editorials. Make no assertions. Give no facts. Fill up with argument and logic out of your own head. In the end you will really have asserted nothing. Well, what have you then? An undeniable statement.

WRITER.—And does it convince?

EDITOR.—Convince? No writing would convince 'em. Why, I know fellows have read the Snarler for a year, and are no wiser.

WRITER.—That is not unlikely. Do they read the editorials?

EDITOR.—Well, now. I can't tell the reason; but they skip them to such an extent that I have seriously thought of abolishing editorial.

WRITER.—I should think they would. And if you offered them stones for bread, they'd skip it too.

EDITOR.—Bless me! Stones! Why, sir, we all do it. You are hinting at serious innovation. No one could pay what you are thinking of.

WRITER.—My dear sir, let me leave you with two words. No man can buy a writer worth having. He must write his own ideas, not yours, or he is not an assistance, but an injury, for his prevarications will defeat themselves. Next, know this. No forcible writing is possible without careful study and revision. No man of talent will give you time without return in money, for if he cannot obtain an equivalent in your profession, he will seek another, and having talent, will succeed. Your present course is calculated to place the once-powerful and respected newspaper dictum in the hands of mediocrities—men such as those who challenged HORACE to write in an hour as many verses as they. And by this course you, and such as you, have paved the way for that "Decline in Modern Press Influence" so often spoken of, and of which you have of late had such a sharp reminder in a Canadian city.

Forced Meat.

Wherefore do butcher-boys furious drive—
E'en more so than JEHU—when he was alive?
Having sought for the reason and found it at last,
GRIP answers:—'Tis meet that they drive so fast!

THE CAMPAIGN PAMPHLET PEST.

"THE COUNTRY" (log)—JE-ROOSLUM! MR. BROWN, LOOK A-HERE! THE HESSIAN FLY AIN'T NOTHIN' TO THIS PEST THAT'S COMIN'!

The Final Determination.

BISHOPRIC OF ST. PLUVIUS.

January 7th, 1878.

BELOVED FRIENDS—

These are sad times. Surely now the hearts of the faithful are tired, and the end draweth near. It is appalling! On every side the attacks of infidelity menace the ancient religious foundations. Nay, clergymen in their pulpits, never hitherto suspected, give forth sounds only too certain—declarations of disbelief in the most sacred and undoubted truths. Alas, the Reverend CANON FARRAR in England—our Mr. MACDONNELL here—others in the States—have declared that they do not believe—they actually doubt whether our merciful Creator intends to burn twenty five hundred thousand millions of people—the computed number—being the majority of those who have lived on earth—and we know that the broad gate receives most—in unquenchable fire for ever and ever. They doubt it—they actually doubt it. Alas, alas! my friends. There are indeed others, among whom I must say that brother in spirit though not in church—TALMAGE—is gloriously pre-eminent—who paint the red-hot mansion and the endless and horrible tortures of the twenty-five hundred thousand millions of men, women, and children, in glowing colors delightful to the true believer's contemplation. But there are few like him, and it is strange that such preaching is not popular. People do not like the idea—nay, there are those—I may say that a young lady of my congregation told me last week she had no pleasure in thinking of the torments of the damned. Sad, sad, my friends!

And now everywhere against us come on the mistaken champions of infidelity, clad in the armour of reason, attempting to prove by geology, history, and judgment that the faith is false. And people tell us, "Combat them!" But how can we combat them in those matters when we do not understand them? But they say, "Study them." They say, "Come forward, revise your creeds, teach people that you are willing to submit your doctrines to reason, reject old and unfounded dogmas, show the clear bent of the Christian faith as taught by its founder, show the good it has done where purely taught, explain the evils which infidelity would bring. You are in the right, our hearts tell us so—there must be reasonable proof; bring it forward." Alas, my friends, what would reason avail? Did we even attempt the superhuman labour of studying these matters, and expounding them, what would it avail? How little logic and proof would do, you will at once see when I tell you that we have lately ornamented the whole of our church in trefoil, cinquefoil and quatrefoil; that the mullions, transoms, finials, and crockets of the structure are of the purest Early Christian style, that I have lately made additions to the reredos, and have purchased for myself a new alb, stole, and dalmatique; that we have engaged a gentleman to lead the service whose powers of intonation are almost heavenly, that our surplices and gowns are of the purest white and of the brightest black, and that our crosses, flower-stands, and carvings have lately been new gilt. What could reason, study, or logic—even did we submit to the dreadful mortification of the flesh necessary to acquire them—do when such means as these fail?

No, my brethren. Another means lies open: we will avail ourselves thereof. Disunion has weakened us; union shall strengthen us once more. The three mighty branches of the Church—the Roman, the Anglican, and the Dissenting, shall unite in one, and resist all assaults of the evil one. The points of difference are daily becoming less. Our worship is becoming grand and magnificent in its choral beauty; we sing it all. And we have added such modern flourishes, trills, quavers, and demisemiquavers, such occasional screams of rapture and mingling depths of woe, from the modern style of vocal expression, that I am exceedingly glad to remark that our congregation will soon have the inexpressible pleasure of listening to our service and not being troubled to understand a word of it! And when that is the case, why not put it in Latin? Why not, indeed?—and there is the principal difference between us and Rome abolished at once! No doubt they too would make concessions, and brotherly union would be established once more. Then the dissenters, I am happy to say, are coming nearer and nearer every day. They ornament their churches in the style of SOLOMON himself. No more Puritanic error. Their surplices, their choral services—you may see them advertised every week—their gorgeous church interiors are the wonder of the world. They would make concessions too, no doubt. Then, what a glorious thing it will be to have one original and undoubted Church, compounded of Roman, Anglican, and Dissenting, all with a glorious choral service, splendid ceremonial, surpliced priests, gowned neophytes, censers, incense, confession, wafting the loud chant of sympathy from pole to pole, and carrying captive the hearts of the whole race of man! Against such a force of ceremonial strength what will the mere geologists, historians, and rationalists avail? They will melt away as the snow in spring, and dissolve from before the vision of the Church!

Yours, hopefully,

SWITHINIBUS.

Church Railings.

Canst tell me wherefore we may deem,
(Incongruous as it may seem,) That building, where to pray we meet,
Like to a suit at cards complete?

Why, you will see, with little pains,
That each of them a (K)nave contains!

The Telegram on Theology.

The Telegram has gone into theology with a zeal and effect which is surprising. Really, after killing the Bonus, there is no telling what it is ready to do. It has now demolished hell at one rap. It explains to the New York Sun, who it appears was not satisfied without a hell, that "Christianity is not founded on the horror of brimstone; but on the all-consuming love of CHRIST." GRIP must say this is a new and astonishing explanation, and will remark that if people generally had not a different idea of the quality of our Saviour's love from that held by the Telegram editor, they would be apt to imagine it about as bad as the brimstone. By the way, had not the Telegram better devote itself to topics on which wild writing will do less harm?

The Lay of the Business Member.

I'm the man to Parliament,
By constituent wisdom sent,
What the deuce the fellows meant
Puzzles me.

Knowledge public I had none—
What should or should not be done,
I'd looked out for number one,
So, you see.

Was at business quite a dab.
Knew the way the cash to nab.
Quite a pile at last did grab,
Then a friend

Said, "You're now a leading man.
Ottawa is now your plan.
Get returned—I think you can,
If you spend."

Wife and children cried, "Oh do!"
Well, I stood, and got in too.
Cost me hundreds not a few,
Grieve to say.

Faid for it. A business man
I. What is the business plan?
Why, get what return you can
Is the way.

So, when appears the Premier free,
With, "You'll support us, Mr. B.?"
"Who will support my family?"
I mildly say.

"Oh, by the way," he says, "your son
A fat collectorship has won,
By chance, of course." The job is done,
I vote his way.

You wouldn't think that I could do
The thing; but I make speeches too,
Though I don't know, nor never knew
A blessed word

On what is up. I simply go
And find some fellow who does know,
And cram; but that he told me so
Is never heard.

No better speculation is
Than being member, if you're biz,
But all this patriotic fizz
Is only trash.

Folks think SIR JOHN will higher pay
This year than MAC. If that's his way,
I take this early chance to say
My terms are cash.

Every Lady should have "THE FAHEY BRO'S." KID GLOVES, Every Pair Warranted, that each pair bears Their Own Mark.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE

Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.

Subscription price, $2 per annum, strictly in advance. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied.

USE ONLY

ONTARIO
BAKING
POWDER.

ASK YOUR
Grocer for it.

THE TORONTO

TURKISH BATHS

233 Queen St. West.

THE ONLY TURKISH BATHS IN THE CITY.

These baths are useful in Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Coughs, Colds, Congestions, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Skin Diseases, all inflammations, Biliousness, and for sanitary purposes.

Hours—Gentlemen from 7:30 to 8:30 a.m., and 3 to 9 p.m. Ladies from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. every day. Experienced attendants.

GORRELL,

CRAIG

&
Co.,

13

ADELAIDE ST.

EAST.

FARM FOR SALE.

A very desirable farm for a gentleman's residence, consisting of 31 acres, in the Township of Pickering, County of Ontario, overlooking Frenchman's Bay. A small stream runs through the north west corner. There is of Pears, Plums, Cherry and Apple Trees, covering twelve acres, nine of which are only six years old, just commencing to bear. The soil is as good as can be found in the township, which is equivalent to saying there is none better in the province.

A Capital Orchard

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,

REAL ESTATE AGTS

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS.

Next Post Office, Toronto.

"GRIP"

Job Department

Is Stocked with all the latest Styles and Improvements in TYPES.

from the American, Canadian and European Foundries, and will be found competent for the execution of all classes of Printing, with

NEATNESS,

CHEAPNESS

DESPATCH.

Office: Imperial Buildings,

(NEXT POST-OFFICE).

MARBLE CLOCKS

Direct from PARIS.

FINEST GOODS EVER SHOWN IN TORONTO.

W. F. ROSS & CO., 83 KING STREET EAST.

Stanton & Vicars.

PHOTOGRAPHERS.

47, 49 & 51 King St. West.

VOL. X.

No. 9.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, JANUARY 19, 1878.

GRIP OFFICE,
IMPERIAL BUILDING.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

5 CTS. EACH.
$2 PER ANNUM.

CANNOT BE SURPASSED.

Canadian made Wallets, Purses, Pocket-Books.

Card and Letter Cases, Bill Cases, Portfolios.—New and Improved Styles.

REDUCED PRICES. SOMETHING NEW IN AUTOGRAPH ALBUMS. NEW AND

Beautiful designs.—Wonderful chaste and Cheap. SCRAP BOOKS, SCRAP ALBUMS. In great variety. Substantial, handsome, very Cheap.

BROWN BROTHERS.

Manufacturing Stationers.

66 & 68 King Street East, Toronto.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach Grip office not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, Grip office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

GENTLEMEN

Collars of all the Newest Styles gotten up EQUAL TO NEW, at

2 1-2 cts. each or 25 cts. per doz., at

TORONTO STEAM

LAUNDRY.

HALLEY'S HALL,

COR. KING & BAY STS.

G. P. SHARPE, Prop.

H. T. ALLSOPP,

DEALER IN

FINE BOOTS AND SHOES.

7 KING STREET EAST

TORONTO.

(4th door east of Yonge)

TO
YOUNG MEN

Wishing to learn

TELEGRAPHING,

A certificate good for

Twenty Dollars,

Will be sold cheap, good for the

TORONTO INSTITUTE.

Address:—

H. GUMMER,

Box, 2662.

TO SPORTSMEN.

A FIRST CLASS

Breech-loading Rifle.

Manufactured by Messon, Worcester, Mass. For Sale very Cheap, the owner having no use for it.

APPLY AT

GRIP OFFICE

REAL ESTATE.

Persons having Properties to dispose of in City or Country will find it to their advantage to place it in our hands. We have the

BEST STAND IN THE CITY,

and facilities for

ADVERTISING

which cannot be excelled.

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,

NEXT POST OFFICE,

TORONTO.

BLACK-BOARD

IN THE!

SUNDAY-SCHOOL.

A practical guide for superintendents and teachers by Frank Beard. Fully illustrated. $1.50. Artist's Manual of Oil and Water Color Painting, &c. 50 cts. Elucot's Journal, 20 cts. Of booksellers or by mail. JESSE HANEY & CO., 119 Nassau St., N. Y.

PAINTER'S Manual.

House and sign painting, graining, varnishing, polishing, kalsomining, papering, lettering, staining, gilding, &c. 50 cts. Furniture and Cabinet Finisher, 50. Watchmaker and Jeweller, 50. Soapmaker, 25. Taxidermist, 50. Of booksellers or by mail. JESSE HANEY & CO., 119 Nassau St., New York.

STOVE & CHESTNUT COAL $5.00 per Ton
MAPLE WOOD - - - - 5.00 " Cord

AT NAIRN'S

OFFICE, - - - NEXT POST OFFICE.
DOCKS, - - - FOOT OF CHURCH ST.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabeast Beast is the Ass: the grabeast Bird is the Owl;
The grabeast Fish is the Oyster: the grabeast Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SAUTRDAY, 19TH JANUARY, 1878.

My Stars.

Like a brilliant comet RIGNOLD has come and gone—only to make room for other stars. We wonder if Mrs. MORRISON could not plan it so as to have a fixed star to coruscate for the pleasure of Toronto audiences! And yet from the somewhat cool receptions with which some of them meet here, we should almost say, that if she were so adventurous as to risk this, the speculation might end in disaster.

The First False Step.

The readers of GRIP had reason to be aware of the remarkable slipperiness of that glassy morning last week, when Nature had iced, smoothed, and polished all out of doors, until every place you could stand on you couldn't stand on; but they do not know—except a select few who won't tell—what happened on King street. GRIP will tell. Considering the state of the sidewalk, it was no wonder that Mr. BOUNCER, Q. C., then going along with a blue bag, thinking of his opening speech and not of sidewalks, slipped down. With professional readiness, however, he, though he could not catch himself, caught the situation, and fell with legal precision and stiffness, straight and solid, determined to exhibit no unbecoming gyrations. Now, had he fallen as anybody else would have fallen, no further damage might have resulted, but Mr. JONES behind (of JONES & RUSSELL) was not prepared for the tragic descent of BOUNCER, whose head impinging on JONES' stomach, doubled him up and took him off his feet all at once. Naturally, the reaction of opening his bent figure out again was rather sudden, and it is not to be supposed that it was purposely his dexter foot knocked out of line the sinister gaiter of the fair Miss PORPOISE, who incontinently deposited two hundred pounds of charms on top of a butcher boy, whom another butcher boy was drawing on a sleigh, bringing that vehicle to a sharp stop, flooring the drawer with a jerk, and rolling him right across the doorway of BROWN's provision store. Now, BROWN's man is very careful; but when one is tall, and thin, and running out at top speed with two hams to a waggon on a very slippery day, to have a stout boy rolled exactly on our instep is rather discomposing, and it discomposed BROWN's man into turning a sort of somerset into the street, while the hams flew right and left like pieces of bombshell at Plevna. How many were floored by this discharge GRIP could not count; but no more casualties occurred, as the street was so blocked up with the fallen that no one else could come there to fall just then. So everybody got up, burst out laughing, which is the recognized mode of remarking that it was a very slight tumble, and went home for arnica.

What Goeth on at Present.

About this time the young man with no understanding issueth forth from his habitation and goeth down into the street called King. His apparel is gorgeous. SOLOMON in all his glory was never equal to the vain young man, who doyleth into the city, the glass of observation and inutility in his eye, the staff of uselessness in his grasp, and the words of "Haw! Haw!" (which being interpreted meaneth nothing) issuing from his lips. And the wayfarers say one to another, "Truth it is and of a verity, this is a bank clerk!" And the young man with no understanding meeteth a damsel fair to look upon, and he saith unto her: "Go to! I pray thee, thou hast found favour in mine eyes, wouldest that I might accompany thee homewards—Haw, Haw," (which being interpreted meaneth nothing). And the damsel standeth aloof from the vain young man, and entertaineth him with a glance of derision, whereat is the young man who lacketh knowledge discomfited, and proceedeth west without delay.

And the further doings of the vain young man and the accounts of his habits, are they not written in the book of STOVEL, the tailor.

About this time the voice of the borrower is heard throughout the land, saying "Would that I had! for then I would. And he goeth to the simple man, who is worth "Hogs," and he saith unto him, "Lend thy servant ten shekels and at the time appointed I will repay thee thine own with usury, that is to say the usual 10 per cent." And the simple man who is worth "Hogs" lendeth his ear—and the ten shekels to the borrower, who rejoices greatly thereat, for he intendeth to repay the dollars at the same time that he returneth the ear.

And in a short time there will be a voice of lamentation heard in the courts of the city. It is the voice of the simple man weeping for his shekels, and will not be comforted for they are not—to be found.

And it is just about this time that the unwary youth is beguiled into "seeing" too many "men." The result is that the unwary youth goeth home to his boarding-house, breaketh his lamp, and goeth to bed in the dark with his hat on.

The Metamorphosis.

Oh, there was a paper vat, paper vat, paper vat,
And there was a sugar puncheon, a standing by the door.
Then said the paper vat, "Tell you that, it is flat,
I won't let that party organ have paper any more.

"Because they've got in debt, got in debt, got in debt,
Full twenty thousand dollars, which is a horrid bore.
And as that I cannot get, cannot get, cannot get,
The mortgage I shall close up, and close the office door."

Then said the sugar puncheon, the puncheon, the puncheon,
"Alas now, for an organ what shall that party do?"
Said the vat, "Come take some luncheon, some luncheon, some luncheon,
I mean the thing to transfer straight over unto you.

"And the organ you shall blow, sir, shall blow sir, shall blow sir,
And the present organ grinder shall pack his traps and fly,
And we'll make the party go, sir, go sir, go sir,
As it never went before sir, or we'll know the reason why."

Then straight the puncheon rolled in, rolled in, rolled in,
And rolled out the former grinder ere he anything could say;
And its work it's got quite bold in, bold in, bold in,
And is playing newish tunes up in quite a stylish way.

And the party leaders bearing, all bearing, all bearing,
This astonishing irruption, but most preciously perplexed,
And the followers all staring, all staring, all staring,
While they listen and they wonder what on earth is coming next.

And the puncheon plays quite hearty, quite hearty, quite hearty,
Like a jolly barrel-organ, just any tune it will.
So take warning every party, every party, every party,
If you want to rule your organ always pay your paper bill.

The Voices.

The earth trembled; the great trees groaned fearfully in the heavy and storm-laden air; the sky grew darker and yet darker; the waves of the sea fell slowly, moaningly on the winter strand. All nature, terrified, seemed shrinking within herself. The whole atmosphere seemed now composed of one vast, overwhelming, all-absorbing cloud, impervious to sight. (N. B.—No novelist is to hook this for his opening chapter.)

Out of the cloud came voices. And the First Voice said:—
"But you are not Protectionists?"

Then responded the Second Voice, and it spoke in a furious tone, even as one who wished to bully his neighbour. And it said, "We are Conservatives, and are therefore everything good; and Protection is good, therefore we are Protectionists."

But said the First Voice, "Do you know anything about the science of Protection?"

Then there was as it were a tumult within the cloud, and many voices spoke together—weak and strong, piping and full, bass and treble—all exclaiming, "Of course we do. Are we not SIR JOHN, and CAMERON, and MACDOUGALL, and TUPPER, and others as wise, who know everything? We are the Protectionists! Who are You? Go Away!"

But the First Voice said, "For sixty years the Protectionists of the States have been fighting this battle. The principles of Protection were published—they were as true then as now. By their aid Canada would long ago have been a great country, abounding in manufactures, and in wealth. Yet you have never advocated them till the last couple of years. You had twenty years of power. Why did you not give Protection?"

Then there was a commotion in the cloud, and some cried, "We knew not," and some, "We had Reciprocity," and some, "The States' Tariff was low." And they screamed so that none understood.

Now it appeared that all the cloud were under a spell, and had to tell truth presently. So they answered against their will, "The people turned us out and would have none of us. And the Grits, being led by the Globe, unwisely backed Free Trade. Therefore we shout Protection, hoping to get in again, seeing that the people like it. But as for what it means truly we know not; but we mean to ask."

Then there was a great movement in the cloud, and a vast noise, and it seemed as if several were thrown out into space; but the cloud passed away, and the vision was over.

RESULTS OF ABSTINENCE.—According to the Telegram, Dr. DICKSON, Kingston Insane Asylum, states that "In wasting diseases physicians assert that alcohol is useful in arresting or preventing waste of tissue, neither of which effects I am quite positive it effects." It is evident abstinence don't assist grammar. Would the doctor say what effects something effects, and what is effected, in a manner sufficiently effective to let us know what he means?

Letter from a Nobleman.

Lord BLOODYBONES has lately sent several letters to the London papers, which have excited much interest. GRIP might explain, however, that those were not the original letters. His lordship, an old acquaintance of GRIP's, sent them to this office to be toned down and prepared for publication. As the Canadian public might like to see the originals, GRIP prints one:—

To the Editor of the Times.

SIR:—Blood! Fee! Faw! Fum! I smell it! I must have it! What! Are we to lose our prestige? Is the conquering banner of our supremacy to be trailed in the dust? Never! War! War! War! I have twenty cousins in the army raving for promotion. Battle! Death! Let us ensanguine; let us imbrue! Not mys-If personally; my affairs will keep me at home. But my cousins shall fight to the bitter end. I'll see if there's no public way of providing for them, if the Competitive Examination obstacle does cut them off from the Civil Service.

What if the nations of the Continent have great armies and conscriptions? So must we! What if they are down to starvation point, bread and water, through it? So must our populace. They are too well fed in Britain. Look at their strikes? Look at them, quarrelling with their own bread and butter! Make them fight! Let grape and canister teach them what they are! Conscript a million at once, and send them to attack the Russians. Conscript another million, and hold Germany in check with them! That's the way NELSON, or WELLINGTON, or FREDERICK, or NERO, or any of those sterling Conservatives would have talked!

No, Sir. We are going all wrong. Our Colonies. Yes. Send a strong force, conscript all the available men, bring them over to attack Austria if she says anything! Make every Colony double its debt, and send us the proceeds. If they won't, hang the leaders, and let their successors do it.

"The flag that braved"—yes, that's the way to talk. Britannia rules the waves. Let us go in! Let us have a shindy! Let us kill somebody! Build ironclads, raise armies, increase the debt, fling out your banners on the outward wall, and if manufacture, commerce, trade and agriculture all go to the deuce, let us take our old pre-eminence among the nations, cut as many throats as we can, and if necessary, then go into bankruptcy.

Yours,

BLOODYBONES.

P.S.—I don't mean to say any one is or has been or is about to be injuring us. But we are too quiet, sir, too quiet for the British lion. We must kill a great number of people at once, or our reputation is gone.

It is not True.

Did it ever occur to anybody that all advertisers are most abominable liars—except one? They all declare their goods the best and cheapest. Did any one ever notice the amount of lies necessarily told by a lawyer who defends criminals; always, of course, telling his clients. "tell me just how it was, or I can't help you?" Did they ever think of the number of falsehoods manufactured by the medical profession, to "keep up the spirits?" Did any one ever imagine how many—of the whitest kind—the clergy tell, by not giving rich members of the flock their true opinion of their moral state? Did ever any one try to count the vast multitude which no man can number told over the counter? Did any one ever notice how many of the same sort are told about the circulation of newspapers? Has any one thought of the quantity uttered by insurance agents, or circulated by book peddlars? Or the falsehoods of omission, such as when our big dailies wish to prove a point, and forget something to do it? Did any one think of how many a day ascend from the market? It is a sad reflection, but it is much to be feared that the Recording Angel, mentioned by Mr. STERNE, has had, before now, greatly to enlarge his staff in the Falsehood Department.

The Butter Humbug.

GRIP of highest topics sings,
But to-day with drooping wings,
From Parnassus' lowest grade,
Softly rhymes the butter trade.

Canada has pastures green,
Cows as good as e'er were seen,
Milkmaids clever many a score,
Yet her butter's "grease"—no more.

So it ranks all markets in.
So for forty years has been.
Such the way Canadians wise,
Do their country advertise.

One well framed "Inspection Bill,"
Would have cured the matter, still,
Governments which we put in,
For such matters care no pin.

Great SIR JOHN had twenty years.
No improvement still appears.
Great MACKENZIE four years more,
Things are as they were before.

Had it been an Orange Bill,—
Its discussion miles would fill,
Grievance Catholic to state—
Leagues would scantily hold the prate.

Railway wanted not all,
Weeks would keep the House in squall.
But for this, which merely would Greatly help the country's good,

No one speaks. In endless din,
Grit and Tory, Out and In,
Talk; but know nor care, in fact,
How to frame one useful Act.

Shall we ever see the day,
Party hacks shall pass away,
And in Parliament shall stand,
Rulers fit to guide the land?

TYRANNICAL EDUCATION.—Somebody writes to the Ledger to ask whether his education would "permit" him to teach school.

The Popular Oracles.

From the Circular.

We have no doubt that the "gentleman's organ," true to the falsehood of its instincts, will endeavor to place the matter in another light. But in reference to the matter in dispute, there is at least one infallible guide—we refer to the past. All who have the least smattering of historical data are well aware that the art in question was first introduced by the Emperor TRAJAN, who imparted it to EDWARD the Confessor in gratitude for his services at the Battle of Prague.

From the Postboy.

A Reform contemporary displays, we regret to say, extreme ignorance—an ignorance not the less glaring that it—more suo—boasts of its knowledge. But we distinctly beg our readers to understand that, in this as in many instances, it falsifies history. The Emperor TRAJAN could not have been engaged as our contemporary states. Every effort of the Greek and Roman empires, in his day, was needed, and was exerted, to stem the advancing tide of Liberalism which, in the East under OLIVER CROMWELL, in the West headed by CHARLES MARTEL, threatened to overflow Europe. The simple fact is, the art was not European. It was invented by CONFUCIUS, and given by him to the first EARL OF CHATHAM, who, as every schoolboy knows, sent out an ironclad to bring the necessary materials to Britain.

From the Follower.

It is natural that journalistic mushrooms should manifest ignorance; but we have never observed such glaring instances thereof as lately manifested by the Circular and the Postboy. One refers an invention, the origin of which is well known, to TRAJAN, the other to CONFUCIUS. One slight difficulty should have suggested itself, namely, that neither of these individuals had been born, while the art spoken of was well known in Europe. We are sure our readers in the north and south, the east and west, need not be told that SIR WALTER RALEIGH brought it in from Hindostan; and though, as we know, he was murdered by the Otaheitan savages on his way home, a survivor of the expedition, meeting by the merest chance with Sir THOMAS MORE, who was then collecting materials for "Lalla Rookh," confided to him the precious deposit, to which, in fact, he owed the magnificent reception given him by HENRY VII., at Blackheath, immediately after the signing of Magna Charta. The art was then immediately adopted by the Flanders refugees, and has ever since flourished. It is disgraceful to our contemporaries that they are so little informed on important matters.

From the Lightning.

The three big dailies, as usual, are stuck in the mud. We don't know anything about it, but they cannot be right, first because they all give different statements; secondly, because they never are right on anything, which explains our hooking their locals. But what matters, anyhow? All this disputation about dead people and past events. Fudge! The point is whether Canada shall remain a slaughter-house for East Indian goods, or whether the vile Chinese shall be allowed to flood us with tea we could grow and washermen we could manufacture. Free Trade! Did ever any one hear such nonsense? A mere modern heresy introduced by Calvin! But as to the Conservatives, we doubt whether they really are in earnest in backing Protection. No. It is the loaves and fishes, the loaves and fishes that are wanted. Very plain. What is it makes city papers back bonuses—or oppose them?—What indeed? We trust to hear no more humbug.

Go to the Roller Skating Rink!
BOND'S RIDING SCHOOL, BAY ST.
 Admission 10c., Ladies free.
 Open at 2.30 and 7.30 p.m.

The Scientific American.
 THIRTY-THIRD YEAR.
 THE
 MOST POPULAR SCIENTIFIC PAPER IN THE WORLD.
 Only $3.20 a Year, Including Postage. Weekly.
 52 Numbers a Year. 4000 book pages.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN is a large First Class Weekly Newspaper of sixteen pages, printed in the most beautiful style, profusely illustrated with splendid engravings, representing the newest Inventions and the most recent Advances in the Arts and Sciences; including Mechanics and Engineering, Steam Engineering, Railway, Mining, Civil, Gas and Hydraulic Engineering, Mill Work, Iron Steel and Metal Work; Chemistry and Chemical Processes: Electricity, Light, Heat, Sound; Technology, Photography, Printing, New Machinery, New Processes, New Recipes, Improvements pertaining to Textile Industry, Weaving, Dyeing, Coloring, New Industrial Products, Animal, Vegetable and Mineral; New and Interesting Facts in Agriculture, Horticulture, the Home, Health, Medical Progress, Social Science, Natural History, Geography, Astronomy, etc.

The most valuable practical papers, by eminent writers in all departments of Science, will be found in the Scientific American; the whole presented in popular language, free from technical terms, illustrated with engravings, and so arranged as to interest and inform all classes of readers, old and young. The Scientific American is promotive of knowledge and progress in every community where it circulates. It should have a place in every Family, Reading Room, Library, College or School. Terms, $5.20 per year, $1.60 half year, which includes prepayment of postage. Discount to Clubs and Agents. Single copies ten cents. Sold by all Newsdealers. Remit by postal order to MUNN & CO., Publishers, 37 Park Row, New York.

PATENTS.

In connection with the Scientific American Messrs. MUNN & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. Patents are obtained on the best terms, Models of New inventions and sketches examined, and advice free. A special notice is made in the Scientific American of all inventions patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Public attention is thus directed to the merits of the new patent, and sales or introduction often effected.

Any person who has made a new discovery or invention, can ascertain, free of charge, whether a patent can probably be obtained, by writing to the undersigned. Address for the Paper, or concerning Patents.

MUNN & CO., 37 Park Row, N. Y.

Branch Office, Cor. F. & 7th Sts., Washington, D. C.

FOUND!

A SMALL BUNCH OF KEYS

Was picked up opposite the Post Office. Owner can have same by calling at the office of "GRIP" and paying for this advertisement.

CHEAP READING.

Having entered into arrangements with the Publishers, we are now prepared to supply

SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY and "GRIP," $ 5.00.
 ST. NICHOLAS and "GRIP," 4.00.
 DETROIT FREE PRESS and "GRIP," 3.50

BENGOUGH BROS.,
 TORONTO.

If thou art borrow'd by a friend,
 Right welcome shall he be,
 To read, to study, not to lend,
 But to return to me;

Not that imparted knowledge doth
 Diminish learning's store,
 But books, I find, if often lent,
 Return to me no more.

Read slowly, pause frequently,
 think seriously,
 keep cleanly, return duly;
 with the corners of the leaves not turned down.

COPIES OF ABOVE

May be had at GRIP Office, or sent free of Postage,
 at 25 cents per dozen, or $1.00 per hundred.

WANTED!

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN TO LEARN TELEGRAPH operating for offices opening in the Dominion. Send 3 cent stamp for circular. Address MANAGER, Box 955, Toronto

J. F. DANTER, M. D.

Homeopathist and Medical Electrician. Office and Pharmacy: 4 Albert Street, (Cor. Yonge) Toronto. Medicine for sale, vials refilled, Letters promptly answered.

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT.

Ottawa, 12th Oct., 1877.

AUTHORIZED DISCOUNT ON
 American invoices until further notice, 3 per cent.

J. JOHNSON,
 Commissioner of Customs.

v-6-1f

PROPERTIES FOR SALE.

ONTARIO STREET north of Wellesley, two brick fronted houses, nine rooms, extra finish, bow windows, folding doors, grates, &c. Good cellar, hard and soft water. Lot 23 x 126. Price $1,900 each.

NIAGARA STREET, two rough cast houses, seven rooms, hard and soft water. $2,500 for both. Would exchange for farm.

ESTHER STREET, two story dwelling, six rooms. Price $900.

ORDE STREET, rough cast cottage, six rooms. $1,000.

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
Real Estate Agents,
 IMPERIAL BUILDINGS, (Next Post Office.)
 TORONTO.

NEATLY, CHEAPLY, QUICKLY.

"GRIP"

General Job Department

OFFICE

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS,
 (One door west of the Post-office)

Everything in the Printing line from a
LABEL TO A 3-SHEET POSTER
 WITH NEATNESS AND DESPATCH.

CARDS.

We are prepared to fill Orders by Mail for Visiting Cards (Finest Bristol, White or Tinted) immediately on receipt of letter, and forward by FIRST MAIL, at the following

RATES:

100 Cards, (one name, one style type), 75 cents.
 50 " " " " " 50 "
 25 " " " " " 30 "

Printing addresses on Cards, 10 cents extra for each Order.

THE FOLLOWING ARE

SAMPLES OF TYPE
 FROM WHICH A CHOICE MAY BE MADE.

1
Robert Taylor.

2
William Richardson

3
Miss Maggie Thompson

4
George Augustus Williams.

5
Mrs. Thomas Jones.

6
William Arthur Crawford.

7
Miss Susie Wade.

8
Byron W. Scott.

9
William Shakespeare.

Write your Name and the Number of the Letter you desire plainly, to prevent mistakes.

BENGOUGH BROS.,
 IMPERIAL BUILDINGS,

TORONTO, GNT.

Go to FAHEY BROS. for BARGAINS

THIS MONTH!
GOODS MUST BE SOLD!

Store to be pulled down
NEXT MONTH!

PUBLISHER'S NOTE.

GRIP is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.

Subscription price, $2 per annum, strictly in advance. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied.

USE ONLY
ONTARIO
BAKING
POWDER.

ASK YOUR
Grocer for it.

THE TORONTO
TURKISH BATHS
233 Queen St. West.
THE ONLY TURKISH BATHS IN
THE CITY.

These baths are useful in Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Coughs, Colds, Congestions, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Skin Diseases, all inflammations, Biliousness, and for sanitary purposes.
Hours:—Gentlemen from 7:30 to 9:30 a.m., and 3 to 9 p.m. Ladies from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. every day. Experienced attendants.

GORRELL,
CRAIG
&
Co.,
LITHOGRAPHERS
13
ADELAIDE ST.
EAST.

FARM FOR SALE.
A very desirable farm for a gentleman's residence, consisting of 31 acres, in the Township of Pickering, County of Ontario, overlooking Frenchman's Bay. A small stream runs through the north west corner. There is

A Capital Orchard
of Pears, Plums, Cherry and Apple trees, covering twelve acres, nine of which are only six years old, just commencing to bear. The soil is as good as can be found in the township, which is equivalent to saying there is none better in the province.

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
REAL ESTATE AG'TS.
IMPERIAL BUILDINGS.
Next Post Office, Toronto.

"GRIP"
Job Department
Is Stocked with all the latest Styles and Improvements in
TYPES,
from the American, Canadian and European Foundries, and will be found competent for the execution of all classes of Printing, with
NEATNESS,
CHEAPNESS
DESPATCH.
Office: Imperial Buildings,
NEXT POST-OFFICE.

MARBLE CLOCKS

Direct from PARIS.

FINEST GOODS EVER SHOWN IN TORONTO.

W. F. ROSS & CO., 83 KING STREET EAST.

CAUTION.

Before purchasing your spring shirts, get our prices, our Shirts please everybody our trade this season is far ahead of last. If you want a good shirt at a low price try sample one. Send for circular to A. White, late White & Sharpe 65 King Street West.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach Grip office not later than Wednesday.—Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

GENTLEMEN

Collars of all the Newest Styles gotten up EQUAL TO NEW, at
2 1-2cts. each or 25cts. per doz., at

TORONTO STEAM
LAUNDRY.
HALLEY'S HALL,
COR. KING & BAY STS.
G. P. SHARPE, Prop.

H. T. ALISOPP,
DEALER IN
FINE BOOTS AND SHOES.
7 KING STREET EAST
TORONTO.
(4th door east of Yonge)

TO
YOUNG MEN
Wishing to learn
TELEGRAPHING,
A certificate good for
Twenty Dollars,
Will be sold cheap, good for the
TORONTO INSTITUTE.
Address:—
H. GUMMER.
Box, 2662.

TO SPORTSMEN.
A FIRST CLASS
Breech-loading Rifle.
Manufactured by Messon, Worcester, Mass. For Sale very Cheap, the owner having no use for it.
APPLY AT
GRIP OFFICE

REAL ESTATE.
Persons having Properties to dispose of in City or Country will find it to their advantage to place it in our hands. We have the
BEST STAND IN THE CITY,
and facilities for
ADVERTISING
which cannot be excelled.
BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
NEXT POST OFFICE,
TORONTO.

PENS AND PENHOLDERS.
A JOB LOT
Very Fancy and Very Cheap.
AT
GRIP OFFICE.

$2,000 CASH
Will be paid for a nice Detached or Semi-detached House, 8 or 9 Rooms.
BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
Next Post-office.

GRIP OFFICE, } The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; } 5 CTS. EACH.
IMPERIAL BUILDING. } The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool. } $2 PER ANNUM.

CHEAP BOOKS.

FOURTEEN WEEKS IN PHILOSOPHY $1.50 LIVE & LESSONS OF THE PATRIARCHS $1.50.
TORONTO OF OLD $3.00. PREHISTORIC TIMES $2.50.
STUDIES FOR THE PULPIT $2.00. STONES CRYING OUT $1.00.
TYPES AND EMBLEMS 60c. SERMONS BY TALMAGE $1.00.
TEXT BOOKS OF SCIENCE $1.00. COCHRANE'S SERMONS $1.50.
CANADIAN FARMERS' MANUAL $2.00 DOMESTIC WORLD 75 c.
Sent to any address on receipt of price.

BENGOUGH BROS.,
IMPERIAL BUILDINGS, (One door west of Post Office) TORONTO.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The greatest Beast is the Ass: the greatest Bird is the Owl;
The greatest Fish is the Eel: the greatest Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SAUTRDAY, 2ND FEBRUARY, 1878.

Answers to Correspondents.

CONTRIBUTOR.—We are always ready and willing to pay for contributions, at the rate of $2.00 per column. We prefer short and pithy articles.

Awake.

Too long, too long, our country lies in slumber,
Too long, too long, to life and light unknown.
Awake, awake, ere with the dead they number,
The people unaroused by warning tone.

Awake—you own what millions all uncounted,
Turn greedy glance toward, and yet you sleep,
Till that grim horseman, on pale courser mounted,
Shall tread you into stupor yet more deep.

That death which time to nations still is bearing,
Who hold resources vast, yet use them not.
The fate we gave the savage is preparing,
For us who now his old domain have got.

We took from him a land which population,
A hundred times our number might maintain.
Awake and use it, ere a stronger nation,
What we from others took shall take again.

RELIABLE JOURNALISTIC STATISTICS.—Monday's Telegram says:

"The first tree cut on the Ottawa River was felled on the 7th of March, 1799. Since then 80,000,000 cubic feet has been cut down in the forests of Canada, of which $13,000,000 worth has been exported to Europe and the United States."

Since we have sometimes sent to those countries $26,000,000 worth in a year, GRIP should rather think there had.

The Real Truth.

As is sometimes his wont, GRIP last week called through his office tube for the members of the Dominion Government, who came running in, bowed, and stood in a line.

"You are only Twelve?" said GRIP.

"I maun humbly annoonce," remarked MACKENZIE, "that we hae lost VAIL."

"Where did you lose him, and how?" asked GRIP, severely, for there was in the physiognomies now before him which suggested homicidal, felonious, and even cannibalistic ideas as to the fate of one who had been their fellow traveller.

"If you please, allow me to explain," said CARTWRIGHT, and GRIP listened with some confidence, "We lost him at a place called Digby. The Globe said it knew all about it, and promised to tell all about him in a day or two, but it has not told us yet. So, of course, we cannot tell."

"I accept the explanation," said GRIP. "Now, what I called you here for, is to enquire why you make such fools of yourselves."

"A wheen o' us," said MACKENZIE, with a glance at CARTWRIGHT, "didna mak oorsels what we are ava, and are no responsible for the exawmple they present to the rest o' mankind. But they are usefu', and gang whaur bidden wi' mair docelity than beings possessit of mair reason, wha are noo an' then even less usefu', and far mair injurious." And he glanced at BLAKE, who caught the expression of his countenance, and broke into a torrent of verbiage.

"Even in the tremendous presence of the great GRIP," he exclaimed, in tones which broke a pane of GRIP's office window, "I shall indignantly protest against such allusions. I alone, by the unaided strength of my reputation, have sustained this Government. But for the knowledge that BLAKE was there, it had long since been hurled down the wind in tatters, a prey to fortune. My reputation, I say, my prestige, my known calibre, my force of sarcasm, my lacerating acerbity, have upheld this combination, which I will not call a Government, through all its perils. Let GRIP enlarge his question, state the points to which he refers, and let this person, (pointing to MACKENZIE,) who has been chosen by a Parliament not distinguishing for wisdom as my leader and spokesman, answer for all." He spoke no more, but leaned against the wall, with that awful scowl and heavy villain style very effective in Parliaments not renowned for knowledge.

"Weel, weel," asked MACKENZIE, "Maister GRUP, hoo dae we mak fules o' ourselves? Maybe we arena sic great anes as some o' us leuk."

"Why," asked GRIP, "do you talk such ineffable rubbish on the Free Trade question? You all know well enough that if Canada had factories spread over the land, making what could be profitably made here of what she now imports, her prosperity would be assured and rapid."

MACKENZIE spoke. His countenance assumed as much dignity as his upper lip would allow. "Is it," he asked, "my fault if the majority o' Canadians are fules? Ye canna wyte me wi't. I gie them what they ask. The Globe has had the hail pack o' born ilgits by the lug for mony a year, pu'ing them along whaur it lists by shoutin' oot that it leads the Reform party. Deil a party it cares for but the foreign importers, o' wham it has constitutit itself the organ. Weel, the kintra folk a' read it, they are a' persuadit that Free Trade is correct, and we joost humour them, and they keep us in salaries sic as I, for ane, ne'er saw nor expectit before ava. What wad ye hae? If we gie Protection, the Globe wad turn on us like a fleeing dragon, an' oot we gang. Speak to ye're ain people; dinna abuse us. Gin Ontario, whilk is, ane may say, the vera backbone o' the Domeenyuan, alloos itsel tae be taught poole-teecal economy by ane newspaper, and that ane no neither deestinguished by poore, wut, or knowledge, what div ye expect o' us? We gie the people what they askit."

"The children of this generation," said GRIP, are wiser than—I thought them. And you," he asked of the rest. "Do you concur in this explanation?"

"My science," said the grandiloquent BLAKE. "includes but the noble and profound technicalities of the law, and the mighty mystery of effecting reform in petty Departmental expenses. I study not commerce nor trade. I repudiate the idea of connection with Globe perfidy, or the Machiavellian system my leader has avouched. Such as I am the people elected me; and now arise voices of disapproval, and presently

"Then waft me to the harbour's mouth, Wild wind, I seek a warmer sky."

I have assisted my colleagues with my reputation—"

"With naething else," said MACKENZIE. But ye—CAIRTWREET—ye knew my thochts. Speak noo."

"I indignantly repudiate the assertion," exclaimed the Honourable RICHARD. "No man will believe that I have ever known anything—"

"There, there," interrupted MACKENZIE. "Let the sentence stand; ye canna improve't. Maister GRUP, we hae explain't. Friens, we maun hurry doon tae support JONES. Oor posecutions are in jeopardy—and oor alloances—"

The last word galvanized the party with electric vigour. They flew out of the doorway with such celerity as drove half a dozen of their heads together with splintering force, and the office boy picked up next day a pound of leaden chips.

The Anglican Resolve.

I would be better pleased indeed if I
Could otherwise proceed; but all around
Obstructions bar the way. My brethren dear,
And sisters none less dear, who weekly all
Do aid me here in intonation loud,
Till mullions, transoms, finials, crockets, all
The decorations of our sacred fane,
Do ring in symphony—oh, sympathise
With me in this as well. Let us demand
Of him who was our old and ancient head,
Who rules the Church of Rome, to know the terms,
Shall all the breaches heal, and us admit
Unto the bosom of that sacred home,
The Reformation broke from, and afar,
To wildernesses led, in which we still,
Do wander all the years in heaviness,
And see no light beyond.

The Way to Choose a Member.

Enter two influential gentlemen.

1st I. G.—Who shall we run for member?

2nd I. G.—Oh, HEAVYHEAD will run best. He has a good deal of property, has some private ends of his own to serve in Parliament, so that he will spend time and money to get in, and then he will be on our side, and in fact be a useful voting member on all political questions, which indeed he knows little of, and is too busy to learn about.

1st I. G.—But, my dear sir, could we not get a better man? There is WISEBRAIN, a good speaker, a man who is well aware of the state of the country and its needs, one who cannot be bought, and who could be of the greatest use to us in the House. In fact, we have no one else fit to put against SHARFTONGUE on the other side.

2nd I. G.—Ah, but then, you know, he can't get in.

1st I. G.—He would if we back him.

2nd I. G.—But then he might want his own way.

1st I. G.—Well, why not, if his way is best?

2nd I. G.—No, don't like him. Has old fashioned notions about honour and all that. Shan't help him.

And next session sees a dummy or a noodle representing the place as usual, and people wondering why Canadian legislation is stupid and slow.

"ONLY WAITING."

TRAVELLER.—HOW LONG DO YOU MEAN TO DELAY THE INTERCOLONIAL AT RIVIERE DU LOUP?

THE G. T. R.—HOW LONG DO YOU MEAN TO DELAY BUYING OUT THIS BRANCH AT OUR FIGURES?

The Universities

"And so, my dear sir," said GRIP to a high University dignitary, "the Canadian Universities are making progress?"

"Remarkably so," replied the gentleman addressed "we have had now for years very many in the Province, and each year sees more built."

"But may I ask," returned the dulcet tones with which GRIP charms his interlocutors to submission. "how is it that we notice such poor results?"

"Good heavens! Sir! poor!" replied the astounded magnate, "why we turned out thousands of matriculants in law, science, and divinity last year!"

"But the results," persisted the placid GRIP. "In law our biggest guns get woful British snubbings when they try a bit of international, and here you have neither judge nor counsel who ever makes a speech worth place beside WEBSTER?"

"But we are young," cried the dignitary.

"Your doctors make no advances in their art, and timidly copy old country modes," said GRIP.

"Very young," said the U. D.

"Your ministers make exccruciatingly dull sermons, and seem not sufficiently versed in history and science to combat these freethinkers," added GRIP.

"Extremely young," said the University.

"In science you don't fetch along any GALILEOS, NEWTONS, FLAXMANS, FRANKLINS, or WATTS," said GRIP.

"Too young," said the University; "but in a few hundred years—"

"When we are all dead," said GRIP.

The Sad Ballad of John Smith and Polly Tinker.

Now list all ye people who choose unto me,
While a story I tell of our modern countree.
And young men and maidens I all of you pray
To improve by this moral while yet that you may.

O who is yon maiden who goes down the street?
It is fair POLLY TINKER, the pretty and sweet.
And who is yon youth walking now by her side?
O who but JOHN SMITH, of his parents the pride.

O why seem they happy, as onward they walk?
O, of good times to come they most pleasantly talk.
And what are the prospects which give them such cheer,
He's to get a bank clerkship—five hundred a year.

And what will they do with this salary small?
O 'twill give them a cottage, and marriage, and all
That existence requires. Of LUXURY fair,
And of all that he asks, they know nothing nor care.

It will give the fair POLLY a pretty new gown,
Twice as oft as her father with one can come down;
While JOHN thinks with joy that whenever he need,
He can buy a full suit of Canadian tweed.

Now the next thing that comes in the course of my rhyme,
Is a moral reflection on passage of time;
And the difference women, and difference men,
Often manifest Now, to what once they did Then.

O whose is that carriage which rolls down the drive?
The cashier Mr. SMYTHE'S—now the proudest alive.
And whose the fair form which beside him doth glow?
Mrs. SMYTHE'S—nee ELYZABETH TINNEQUERRE, you know.

O what is his income to keep up all this?
Twenty thousand a year? No, that's rather a miss.
He's got but five thousand, it's very well known;
But great private estates he's considered to own.
O where did they get it—this private estate?
O their parents were somewhere of wealth very great,
Though exactly the region where those old folks dwell,
Is a something which somehow the SMYTHES never tell.

O they're aristocratic exceedingly then?
Yes, and give splendid dinners too, now and again.
And of late, when the committee were in the lurch,
SMYTHE forked over five thousand to finish the church.

And the whole congregation are loud in his praise.
So select too, and highminded in all his ways.
There's no lord buys new dress suits so often as he;
And her velvets are getting a wonder to be.

O what do they say now each other beside,
As in pleasure and glory together they ride?
And why they are thin, worn, and fallow to-day,
Unlike JOHNNY and POLLY who once passed that way?

With a sharp voice and squeaky she speaks in his ear,
"I declare it's a shame I can't decent appear,
In the houses I visit—there's that Lady JONES
Wears diamonds worth millions—such beautiful stones.

"And she looks down on me, and I know just for why.
They're beyond quite the status of you and of I.
And she turns up her nose, and I'm sure I can't see
That I'm not quite as good on heach pint as is she.

"And I eard that she said as how queer people, dear,
In this country can get president or cashier
Of a bank; but then real refinement, she said,
Was a thing hup to wich they ave never been bred.

"And she meant them ere diamonds, I know; and I say,
I don't like to ear you spoken of in that way."
"Nor she shan't," cries proud SMYTHE, "Who is she?—Lady
JONES!

I'll get you better diamonds, my dear, than she owns.

"I'll teach 'er oo's oo." And a week from that date
Mrs. SMYTHE goes in diamonds, with spirit elate,
And is fully convinced that the universe owns
She's a being transcending "that there Lady JONES."

O what are those rumours the newspapers give?
"Defalcations—cashier?—why, it's SMYTHE, as I live.
He's run off and they've just brought him back from the States;
And behind him—twelve years—close the dark prison gates.

O who is that convict in yellow and white?
Tis our old friend JOHN SMITH, once so pleasant and bright.
And who takes in washing just over the way?
Tis POLL TINKER, gone home with her parents to stay.

The Propagandistes.

FROM CHAUCER.

Then there was grette havock and foraye,
And all ranne either which waye,
And loud cried of them which ruled,
Saying "Of Goddie's truth they have us fooled.
Shut up and close is every factorye,
And the poor folken all idle be."
So that much poverty was in the lande,
As had not been before I understande.
Then did a crye rise up in the nighte,
"The Propagandistes will set them all righte,
They will give to this poor people worke,
Also high wages, else I am but a Turke,"
Straight came SYR JONNAYE out in the streete,
Running in hurrys more than had been meete,
So that his garments he scarce bracen hadde,
"I am one," he cried out, "bee gladdie,"
Also loud shouted as he were madde,
Waving hys head and hys arms up throwen,
So that all people to hear him be gonne.
"I am a Propagandiste," shouted he.
"Also I another!" cried MALCUMSEE,
Then low to JONNAYE "What is it one to bee?"
Answered then SYR JONNAYE in his eare,
"It is to draw eight thousand a year."
Then to pass it onward they begunne.
DOCTURTEE screamed himself was one,
Also WILLIE who wandered aboute.
Big BURRPLUMME also yelled it oute,
Also many more as tongue can telle,
All up and down they raisen the yelle,
Ran and read in bookes what it might meane,
Then at picnics shouting it were seene,
Making of it such medlaye variouse,
That they who knew it laughed loud in chorusse,
Who had it studied, and knewe it welle,
But nought said and letten those yelle,
Who for it cared nothing nor knewe,
But that office they might win untoo,
For in truthe they in power had beene,
Full year twenty, and nought was seene.
Nor did they ever cry Propagandiste,
Until their placen that they had they miste.
This be the wayen of the world each where,
Wherefore be minded of the evill snare.

Go to the Roller Skating Rink!
BOND'S RIDING SCHOOL, BAY ST.
 Admission 10c., Ladies free.
 Open at 2.30 and 7.30 p.m.

The Scientific American.
 THIRTY-THIRD YEAR.
 THE
 MOST POPULAR SCIENTIFIC PAPER IN THE WORLD.
 Only $3.20 a Year, Including Postage. Weekly.
 52 Numbers a Year. 4000 book pages.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN is a large First Class Weekly Newspaper of sixteen pages, printed in the most beautiful style, profusely illustrated with splendid engravings, representing the newest Inventions and the most recent Advances in the Arts and Sciences; including Mechanics and Engineering, Steam Engineering, Railway, Mining, Civil, Gas and Hydraulic Engineering, Mill Work, Iron Steel and Metal Work; Chemistry and Chemical Processes: Electricity, Light, Heat, Sound; Technology, Photography, Printing, New Machinery, New Processes, New Recipes, Improvements pertaining to Textile Industry, Weaving, Dyeing, Coloring, New Industrial Products, Animal, Vegetable and Mineral: New and Interesting Facts in Agriculture, Horticulture, the Home, Health, Medical Progress, Social Science, Natural History, Geography, Astronomy, etc.

The most valuable practical papers, by eminent writers in all departments of Science, will be found in the Scientific American; the whole presented in popular language, free from technical terms, illustrated with engravings, and so arranged as to interest and inform all classes of readers, old and young. The Scientific American is promotive of knowledge and progress in every community where it circulates. It should have a place in every Family, Reading Room, Library, College or School. Terms, $3.20 per year, $1.60 half year, which includes prepayment of postage. Discount to Clubs and Agents. Single copies ten cents. Sold by all Newsdealers. Remit by postal order to MUNN & CO., Publishers, 37 Park Row, New York.

PATENTS.

In connection with the Scientific American Messrs. MUNN & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. Patents are obtained on the best terms. Models of New inventions and sketches examined, and advice free. A special notice is made in the Scientific American of all inventions patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Public attention is thus directed to the merits of the new patent, and sales or introduction often effected.

Any person who has made a new discovery or invention, can ascertain, free of charge, whether a patent can probably be obtained, by writing to the undersigned. Address for the Paper, or concerning Patents.

MUNN & CO., 37 Park Row, N. Y.

Branch Office, Cor. F. & 7th Sts., Washington, D. C.

FOUND!

A SMALL BUNCH OF KEYS

Was picked up opposite the Post Office. Owner can have same by calling at the office of "GRIP" and paying for this advertisement.

CHEAP READING.

Having entered into arrangements with the Publishers, we are now prepared to supply

SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY and "GRIP," $ 5.00.
 ST. NICHOLAS and "GRIP," 4.00.
 DETROIT FREE PRESS and "GRIP," 3.50

BENGOUGH BROS.,
 TORONTO.

If thou art borrow'd by a friend,
 Right welcome shall he be,
 To read, to study, not to lend,
 But to return to me;
 Not that imparted knowledge doth
 Diminish learning's store,
 But books, I find, if often lent,
 Return to me no more.
 Read slowly, pause frequently,
 think seriously,
 keep cleanly, return duly:
 with the corners of leaves not turned down.

COPIES OF ABOVE

May be had at GRIP Office, or sent free of Postage,
 at 25 cents per dozen, or $1.00 per hundred.

WANTED!

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN TO LEARN TELEGRAPH operating for offices opening in the Dominion. Send 3 cent stamp for circular. Address MANAGER, Box 955, Toronto

J. F. DANTER, M. D.

Homeopathist and Medical Electrician. Office and Pharmacy: 4 Albert Street, (Cor. Yonge) Toronto. Medicine for sale, vials refilled, Letters promptly answered.

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT.

Ottawa, 12th Oct., 1877.

AUTHORIZED DISCOUNT ON
 American invoices until further notice, 3 per cent.

I. JOHNSON,
 Commissioner of Customs.

v-6-tf

PROPERTIES FOR SALE.

ONTARIO STREET north of Wellesley, two brick fronted houses, nine rooms, extra finish, bow windows, folding doors, grates, &c. Good cellar, hard and soft water. Lot 23 x 126. Price $1,900 each.

NIAGARA STREET, two rough cast houses, seven rooms, hard and soft water. $2,500 for both. Would exchange for farm.

ESTHER STREET, two story dwelling, six rooms. Price $900.

ORDE STREET, rough cast cottage, six rooms. $1,000.

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
Real Estate Agents,
 IMPERIAL BUILDINGS, (Next Post Office.)
 TORONTO.

NEATLY, CHEAPLY, QUICKLY.

"GRIP"
General Job Department

OFFICE

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS,
 (One door west of the Post-office)

Everything in the Printing line from a

LABEL TO A 3-SHEET POSTER
 WITH NEATNESS AND DESPATCH.

CARDS.

We are prepared to fill Orders by Mail for Visiting Cards (Finest Bristol, White or Tinted) immediately on receipt of letter, and forward by FIRST MAIL, at the following

RATES:

100 Cards, (one name, one style type), 75 cents.
 50 " " " " 50 "
 25 " " " " 30 "

Printing addresses on Cards, 10 cents extra for each Order.

THE FOLLOWING ARE

SAMPLES OF TYPE
 FROM WHICH A CHOICE MAY BE MADE

1

Robert Taylor.

2

William Richardson.

3

Miss Maggie Thompson.

4

George Augustus Williams.

5

Mrs. Thomas Jones.

6

William Arthur Crawford.

7

Miss Susie Wade.

8

Byron W. Scott.

9

William Shakespeare.

Write your Name and the Number of the Letter you desire plainly, to prevent mistakes.

BENGOUGH BROS.,
 IMPERIAL BUILDINGS,
 TORONTO, ONT.

Go to FAHEY BROS. for BARGAINS

THIS MONTH!
GOODS MUST BE SOLD!

Store to be pulled down
NEXT MONTH!

PUBLISHER'S NOTE

GRIP is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.

Subscription price, $2 per annum, strictly in advance. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied.

USE ONLY
ONTARIO
BAKING
POWDER.

ASK YOUR
Grocer for it.

THE TORONTO
TURKISH BATHS
233 Queen St. West.
THE ONLY TURKISH BATHS IN
THE CITY.

These baths are useful in Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Coughs, Colds, Congestions, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Skin Diseases, all inflammations, Biliousness, and, for sanitary purposes.
Hours:—Gentlemen from 7:30 to 8:30 a.m., and 3 to 9 p.m. Ladies from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. every day. Experienced attendants.

GORRELL,
CRAIG
&
Co.,
LITHOGRAPHERS
13
ADELAIDE ST.
EAST.

FARM FOR SALE.
A very desirable farm for a gentleman's residence, consisting of 31 acres, in the Township of Pickering, County of Ontario, overlooking Frenchman's Bay. A small stream runs through the north west corner. There is
A Capital Orchard
of Pears, Plums, Cherry and Apple Trees, covering twelve acres, nine of which are only six years old, just commencing to bear. The soil is as good as can be found in the township, which is equivalent to saying there is none better in the province.
BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
REAL ESTATE AG'TS
IMPERIAL BUILDINGS.
Next Post Office, Toronto.

"GRIP"
Job Department
Is Stocked with all the latest Styles and Improvements in
TYPES,
from the American, Canadian and European Foundries, and will be found competent for the execution of all classes of Printing, with
NEATNESS,
CHEAPNESS
DESPATCH.
Office: Imperial Buildings,
(NEXT POST-OFFICE).

MARBLE CLOCKS

Direct from PARIS.

FINEST GOODS EVER SHOWN IN TORONTO.

W. F. ROSS & CO., 83 KING STREET EAST.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1878.

GRIP OFFICE, Imperial Building. } The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; } 5 CTS. EACH.
Imperial Building. } The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool. } $2 PER ANNUM.

CHEAP BOOKS.

FOURTEEN WEEKS IN PHILOSOPHY $1.50 LIVES & LESSONS OF THE PATRIARCHS $1.50.
TORONTO OF OLD $3.00. PREHISTORIC TIMES $2.50.
STUDIES FOR THE PULPIT $2.00. STONES CRYING OUT $1.00.
TYPES AND EMBLEMS 60c. SERMONS BY TALMAGE $1.00.
TEXT BOOKS OF SCIENCE $1.00. COCHRANE'S SERMONS $1.50.
CANADIAN FARMERS' MANUAL $2.00. DOMESTIC WORLD 75 c.
Sent to any address on receipt of price.

BENGOUGH BROS.,
IMPERIAL BUILDINGS, (One door west of Post Office) TORONTO.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach Grip office not later than Wednesday.—Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, Grip office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

GENTLEMEN
Collars of all the Newest Styles gotten up EQUAL TO NEW, at
2 1-2cts. each or 25cts. per doz., at
TORONTO STEAM
LAUNDRY.
HALLEY'S HALL,
COR. KING & BAY STS.
G. P. SHARPE, Prop.

H. T. ALISOPP,
DEALER IN
FINE BOOTS AND SHOES.
219 YONGE STREET,
TORONTO.

TO
YOUNG MEN
Wishing to learn
TELEGRAPHING,
A certificate good for
Twenty Dollars,
Will be sold cheap, good for the
TORONTO INSTITUTE.
Address:—
H. GUMMER,
Box. 2662.

TO SPORTSMEN.
A FIRST CLASS
Breech-loading Rifle.
Manufactured by Messrs. Worcester, Mass. For Sale very Cheap, the owner having no use for it.
APPLY AT
GRIP OFFICE

REAL ESTATE.
Persons having Properties to dispose of in City or Country will find it to their advantage to place it in our hands. We have the
BEST STAND IN THE CITY,
and facilities for
ADVERTISING
which cannot be excelled.
BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
NEXT POST OFFICE,
TORONTO.

PENS AND PENHOLDERS.
A JOB LOT
Very Fancy and very Cheap.
AT
GRIP OFFICE.

$2 000 CASH
Will be paid for a nice Detached or Semi-detached House, 8 or 9 Rooms.
BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
Next Post-office.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabest Beast is the Ass; the grabest Bird is the Owl;
The grabest Fish is the Oyster; the grabest Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SAUTRDAY, 9TH FEBRUARY, 1878.

The Difference.

Good times, all said, would surely be
When BLAKE got in the Ministry,
Alas, that yet we've cause to shout
They may come, now we've got him out.

Mr. Blake's Retirement.

"He abandoned office," said the Globe.
"Lest it should abandon him," said the Mail.
"His associates finding themselves abandoned," said the Globe.
"We always told them they were," said the Mail.
"I say," said the Globe, "he was obliged to retire from—"
"The company of a set of contracting members, place-hunting Ministers, promoters out of office, non-fulfillers in," said the Mail.
"From illness," said the Globe, "and finding himself utterly unable to—"

"Bear any longer with the greediness and incapacity of those who surrounded him," said the Mail.
"Unable to fulfil the arduous duties of a most responsible office," said the Globe, "in which he had been of the greatest service to the country—"

"To the amount of several candle ends," said the Mail,
"And finding it utterly impossible to—" said the Globe.
"Remain in the company of a gang of persons denominated a Cabinet, who had recklessly determined again to choose an illegal Speaker," said the Mail.

"Impossible to attend to Departmental management, and the carrying out of his splendid international law improvements," said the Globe.

"Which the British crown lawyers called all humbug, as no doubt they were," said the Mail.

"He has retired from public life until the period when—" said the Globe.

"When he can find more reputable associates," said the Mail.
"The period when he finds his health sufficiently re-established, and is able to join—" said the Globe.

"To join a Ministry all of whose sins he will not be compelled to bear the weight of on the strength of his own honesty and capability, which are very doubtful qualities in this case after all," said the Mail.

"To join again the greatest, noblest, most capable, most honest, most disinterested excellent, patriotic, and admirable government that ever existed—(because they support my friends the importers)," said the Globe.

"The most vile, worthless, corrupt, ignominious caricature of a simulacrum of a Government that ever was suffered to exist by a foolish people, (because they stand in my friends' way to office)" replied the Mail.

"But I have wandered away from BLAKE," said the Globe.
"On the contrary, it is he who has wandered away from you," said the Mail.

"But next year, it is to be hoped," said the Globe, "he will take office again, under—"

"Sir JOHN MACDONALD; "and we could make something of him," said the Mail.

At least they might have carried on such a conversation, if either of the humbugs had one-eighth enough wit in their composition, says GRIP.

A Medical Question.

"I guess stranger," remarked the Down Easter to the fervid Milesian by his side, "you haint no 'spepsy in Ireland?"
"And why shouldn't we thin?" asked PAT. "Do yez think yez have a patinat av it?"

"Calculate they don't stuff much thar," returned Yank. "Ska'sity and 'spepsy don't travel together, not nohow."

"Och, thin, it's wonderful the ignorance av some folks, so it is," said PAT. "Sure in Eighteen Hundred and forty-sivin there was nigh a million died av it in ould Ireland."

"Of 'spepsy?" asked the D. E. staring,
"Av indiginsion; the same thing, darlin'," said PAT.

REFLECTION.—Passing through Canada on R. R.—Still on the wings of steam I fly, from pinery to pine-ry.

The Weather.

Now, my love, let us into the garden repair,
And inhale the mild breath of the warm winter air,
That the age is progressing is easy to see,
When our summer's extending through February.

All the old style of weather is over and past,
And in future the summer all winter shall last,
And our grumbling old farmers shall grumble no more,
For they'll reap twice a year, 'stead of once as before.

How delightful will be all the new fashioned ways!
Hang the skates up as relics—put wheels on the sleighs,
And our furs shall all into a mission fund go
For the good of our friend the still-cold Esquimaux.

Some old men there'll yet be, who shall tell us aghast,
How there used to be ice in the days of the past,
"From the Indies we get it; but yet on my word, We'd it here 'fore the great change of climate occurred."

And our land shall be tropic, and out-doors we'll rove,
And we'll pull down our houses, and live in a grove,
Have a nice open temple, perhaps, where you'll see
GRIP rejoicing in roses next February.

The Friend of Humanity.

He was tall of stature, large of frame, seedy of apparel, grim of visage, determined of eye, and the bearer of a satchel. He knocked at the door of GRIP, and in fact he entered it, and meeting the approaching flunkey with an air which thoroughly convinced that functionary that it was Dr. TUPPER come to save the country, or the Sultan of Turkey come to save himself, he calmly turned into GRIP's private apartment, and looking that potentate in the eye with a concentrated force which would have transfixed any other optic, gently elevated his right hand, waved it, and remarked, in a manner addressed to the world in general, but taking into especial confidence the bust of CICERO on the mantle, and culminating towards GRIP in particular:—

"You have it."
"Habeo, hab-es," answered GRIP, "And in order to fulfil the Anglization or Africanization of the last word, hab yours. Take your ease. Sit down."

"I have not a moment," said the visitor.
"When you came in," said GRIP, reflectively, "you had several, which you have since lost. If you have, or which is the same thing, are going to have no more, which undertaker do you prefer?"

"Sir," returned the Unknown solemnly, "you treat the subject of my visit with too much lightness."

"I wish you would treat it with a little light," said GRIP, with that instantaneous flash of scintillating repartee which has rendered his name famous throughout Christendom, and even penetrated the interior of China, as the orthodox RAINSFORD remarked the other day when breakfasting with him. GRIP considered it a missionary experience, and was delighted. Alas, that incorrigible joker had only found a cartoon in the sugar bowl. But to the Visitor. He said again, "You have it!"

"Admitting a point on which you appear decided," answered GRIP, "may I ask in the words of BARNUM 'What is it?' and in those of BULWER 'What will I do with it?'"

"Sir," returned the Personage, tragically, "the question at issue rather is, 'What will it do with You?'"

The woe of the celebrated GRIP is never to be annoyed, and his forte is never to be alarmed. But a sensation of chilliness seemed creeping down his spine, and he experienced a wavering of the knees. With a mighty effort he threw it off, and but that the Unknown went rapidly into explanations, he should have gone similarly out of the room.

"You have," he said, "the taint of Scrofula. That dreadful disorder is rooted in your system. Its symptoms, now almost unobservable, are yet as plain to me as the obelisk of CLEOPATRA sticking out of Knightsbridge Hill. As certainly as I see it, I know its course. It cannot stop. The fearful disease is in your blood. The monster is at work. Within a short time your whole surface will break into frightful ulcers, which will change your entire existence into a misery perhaps yet unexperienced—unequalled in the world. Your days will be of unmingled wretchedness—your nights unalleviated woe. The pains of the damned will rack your every joint. The tortures of Phalaris were nothing to it. Death alone can relieve you from its dreadful hand—Death, or I, I, in this satchel, carry the antidote. One gross of my unparalleled Scrofula Pills, and a thousand of my patent surface applications, and—"

GRIP rose, and left. In a moment he returned, rolling before him a small black cask, labelled "Gunpowder—Beware!" His eyes glared demoniacally. A small fuse attached, was burning brightly. "It explodes in forty seconds," said GRIP, leaving the room.

Though he re-entered immediately, the Unknown was not there. From the window, he and his satchel were visible, flying through the front gate. GRIP shut the door, pulled the fuse out of his cider barrel, and rolled it again into the pantry.

DEVOTIONS UNDER DIFFICULTIES.

(AFTER WILLARD'S FAMOUS CHROMO.)

A Sermon on Candles

BY OUR FEEBLEST LIGHT.

GRIP has a superior mind. People have noticed it. We have even been cognizant of it ourselves at times; but never more so than the other evening, when, just as shutting up time had arrived, and the shutters which bar the mural repository of our wit having been put up we were about to carry that other repository which rests upon our shoulders to more festive scenes, a voice from the upper pavement sounded with stentorian tones in our shapely ear the monosyllable Hi! We turned, and beheld an eminent clergyman whose personal acquaintance it had never previously been our good fortune to make. With a brief lamentation that he had arrived too late to button-hole us in our Sanctum, he did it any how—nay insisted on linking his arm within ours to accompany us on our homeward way, cheering the while our lonely path with the thrilling story of his woes. In his measured gait we soon discerned the poetry of motion, while in his voice the profounder poetry of subdued emotion became distinctly perceptible, as with his trembling tones and moving forefinger, most plaintively he sawed the air, it seemed as though all night we'd linger, and yet he did not seem to care how late it might be ere we reached our lair. My friend, he said, this is a sadly straying generation, and none but he of frivolous mind can view the gradual complete vastation of good and truth among mankind, at least as such are orthodoxly set forth by we who are the guiding stars of thought—who labour hard with all our strength to see that they are rightly taught. Alas the people don't believe us and no amount of college lore seems to be anything but previous—to them. They view it as a bore. Authority from man on sacred subjects by youthful sprigs in conclave's set at naught. They think on subjects the most complex our learning's not with wisdom strongly fraught. Eh? did I hear you say "quite right?" No! No! my witty friend you too are going wrong in straying from our nicely tempered light, you'll hurt your eyes if you continue long. The shade of orthodoxy has been provided to dim the light as well as save the moth who every warning has derided and rushes to destruction—nothing loth. Remove that haze or smash it by your number your onward course will soon put out the Light, and though perhaps to one survivor the Sun of Truth itself may come in sight, yet can he stand it or its bright effulgence to penetrate through all his life, and may it not force him to deeds of darkness? To certain it again might be his strife. Why is there then so much of talk and writing in every newspaper except the guiding Globe, for it of course is "unco' guid" and cares not risking respectability to please what it would call the mob. Respectability besides has got the siller, and in this glittering age that outweighs truth. If one holds that, one holds the tiller, wherewith to guide oneself to waters smooth. This agitation about Truth and Light is very wrong. Just let men mind their cash and mind their business, leave us those things to us belong, drink in our truths and pay expenses. So will the world move smoothly on; and if we retrograde towards the dark ages what need you Editors new garments don and try to bloom out as religious sages, a character which once assumed, you'll find yourselves like birds beating 'gainst well wired cages, unable to help others or get out yourselves, till with your tears you blot your pages. So far we could not edgeways even one word insert, though not our wont in conversation to be so inert. He ceased, and now we muttered forth in solemn tones, so solemn as almost to freeze his bones, in darkness lamp or candle suits us very well, but when the Sun arises in his might, we've noticed that its presence seems to quell the other feeble, dim and then quite useless light. The stranger turned and fled—yet heaved a pensive sigh, so pensive he forgot to say good bye.

The Methodist Progress.

My friends, you know
The churches which we left, our fathers thought
Them too magnificent, and longed to pry
A plainer style of worship and of life,
More blessed to the soul. Our women then,
Our men as well, loved ever to be known
By lack of ornament, and rather chose
To shine by works of love and holiness,
Than by apparel bright, or sculptured fanes
Bedizened richly by the carver's art.
But they, it seems, mistook. In both of these,
As I to you may plainly demonstrate,
We gain to-day on those from whom they broke,
In all the senses love. Our church as grand,
Our worshippers as gaily decorate,
Our harmony still more magnificent
Than any they can show. My dearest friends,
What if we should return? It might not be
So bad a thing to do,

The wife of the alleged Brahmin priest has had a son, which is advertised in the Globe "birthplace" as the "first Brahmin child born in Canada." Considering the fuss raised about the father, most people will hope it is also the last.

The Railway Ride.

Dr. JOHNSON of old his opinion expressed
Of sensations, the riding in chaises was best;
But he'd not have expressed that opinion by far,
If they'd fastened him up in a modern rail car.

Where your feet almost freeze on a cold winter's day,
And your head's full of blood, and feels just 'tother way.
For the triumph of late ventilation, you know,
Is to put the heat where you don't want it to go.

Though it reek with foul breath, if you want some fresh air,
Of unclosing a window GRIP bids you beware.
For the first thing that meets your examining eye,
Is a very hot cinder, just then on the fly.

Fifty miles shakes your bones 'till they're all of them sore,
And a hundred just shakes them—well, twice as much more,
Till you fierce maledictions internally scream,
On the rascal who found out this riding by steam.

It would not be so bad if they'd leave you to weep
Of your sorrows—you might cry yourself off to sleep.
But—as foretaste of place FARRAR says there is not,
They've an agent appointed for keeping things hot.

He's a very small fiend; but extremely malign,
With an eye full of business as ever was seen,
And he pokes you each moment, and wants you to look,
For he's sure he can sell you some paper or book.

Which you don't want at all; or he begs that you'll buy
Maple sugar—it's awfully dingy and dry;
Or he'll sell you some candies, made in the year one;
Or some apples, which have to decay just begun.

And the scenery's all like the scenery last,
Till you'd swear that this place is the one you just passed.
For these new styles of travel so speedily run,
That they seem to smooth valley and mountain to one.

But like most things in life, the long journey gets past.
How delightful to feel terra firma at last.
And you've one consolation—your route of to-day
Would have occupied six in the old-fashioned way.

The Point to be Attained.

THE object of every Canadian is to build a large house. That done, at great expense, he lives in its back kitchen generally, and shuts up the rest. It has rooms for six servants; he keeps one. It has six spare bedrooms, he never has a visitor but once or twice a year. It has a big dining room which never sees a dinner party, nor any meal at all. It is well furnished. The object is first, a big house is a big advertisement, and will bring him consideration nobody would have given him without; second, to give his family occupation in dusting the rooms. When he looks over it himself, he makes a chalk mark on the walls occasionally, to know his way back to the kitchen. It is supposed that the numerous instances of missing men in Canada might be cleared up, to a great extent, if the out of the way rooms of their residences were examined. It is considered that Dr. WORKMAN might have said that nineteen-tenths of the remarkable amount of madness existing in Canada is owing to this cause.

Conversation.

CANADIAN.—I am going to clap tariff on Yankee goods.

IMPORTER.—Oh no. You must keep friends with the States; must not embroil yourself; the consequences would be terrible. Must be civil.

CANADIAN.—Well, I must put them on British goods.

IMPORTER.—No! no! no! Must not anger the mother country.

CANADIAN.—Well, if you say so; perhaps I had better not. But many of us are starving for want of work. (Exit.)

IMPORTER.—You may as many of you starve as like, so long as the rest buy my goods. (Exit.)

"And so BLAKE's gone, said CARTWRIGHT. "The point is no' the game but the ganging," said MACKENZIE. And the Hon. C. saw a vanishing vision of another borrowing voyage, and sighed.

THE QUESTION OF THE DAY is will this summer in winter do good or harm, and did JOHN A. or MACKENZIE make it. Grits and Tories will answer according to their respective lines of argument.

Go to FAHEY BROS. for BARGAINS

THIS MONTH!
GOODS MUST BE SOLD!

Store to be pulled down
NEXT MONTH!

PUBLISHER'S NOTE

GRIP is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.

Subscription price, $2 per annum, strictly in advance. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied.

USE ONLY
ONTARIO
BAKING
POWDER.
ASK YOUR
Grocer for it.

THE TORONTO
TURKISH BATHS
233 Queen St. West.
THE ONLY TURKISH BATHS IN
THE CITY.

These baths are useful in Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Coughs, Colic, Congestions, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Skin Diseases, all inflammations, Blisters, and for sanitary purposes.

Hours:—Gentlemen from 7:30 to 8:30 a.m., and 3 to 9 p.m. Ladies from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. every day. Experienced attendants.

GORRELL,
CRAIG
&
Co.,
LITHOGRAPHERS
13
ADELAIDE ST.
EAST.

FARM FOR SALE.

A very desirable farm for a gentleman's residence, consisting of 31 acres, in the Township of Pickering, County of Ontario, overlooking Frenchman's Bay. A small stream runs through the north west corner. There is

A Capital Orchard
of Pears, Plums, Cherry and Apple Trees, covering twelve acres, nine of which are only six years old, just commencing to bear. The soil is as good as can be found in the township, which is equivalent to saying there is none better in the province.

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
REAL ESTATE AGTS
IMPERIAL BUILDINGS.
Next Post Office, Toronto.

"GRIP"
Job Department

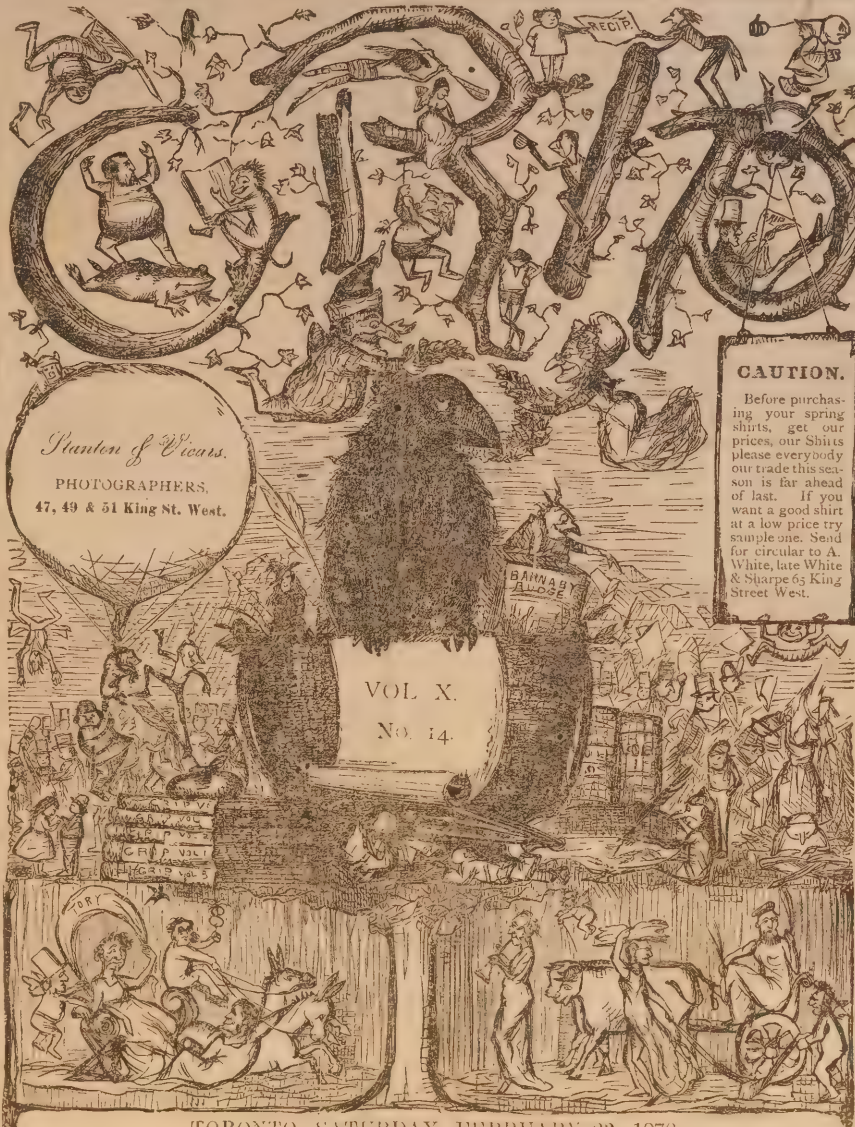

Is Stocked with all the latest Styles and Improvements in
TYPES,
from the American, Canadian and European foundries, and will be found competent for the execution of all classes of Printing, with
NEATNESS,
CHEAPNESS
DESPATCH.
Office: Imperial Buildings,
NEXT POST-OFFICE.

MARBLE CLOCKS

Direct from PARIS.

FINEST GOODS EVER SHOWN IN TORONTO.

W. F. ROSS & CO., 83 KING STREET EAST.

Stanton & Vicars.
PHOTOGRAPHERS.
47, 49 & 51 King St. West.

CAUTION.

Before purchasing your spring shirts, get our prices, our Shirts please everybody our trade this season is far ahead of last. If you want a good shirt at a low price try sample one. Send for circular to A. White, late White & Sharpe 65 King Street West.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 23, 1878,

GRIP OFFICE,
IMPERIAL BUILDING.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

5 CTS. EACH.
$2 PER ANNUM.

CHEAP BOOKS.

FOURTEEN WEEKS IN PHILOSOPHY $1.50 LIVE & LESSONS OF THE PATRIARCHS $1.50.
TORONTO OF OLD $3.00. PREHISTORIC TIMES $2.50.
STUDIES FOR THE PULPIT $2.00. STONES CRYING OUT $1.00.
TYPES AND EMBLEMS 60c. SERMONS BY TALMAGE $1.00.
TEXT BOOKS OF SCIENCE $1.00. COCHRANE'S SERMONS $1.50.
CANADIAN FARMERS' MANUAL $2.00 DOMESTIC WORLD 75 c.

Sent to any address on receipt of price.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS, (One door west of Post Office) TORONTO.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach Grip office not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, Grip office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

GENTLEMEN

Collars of all the Newest Styles gotten up EQUAL TO NEW, at
2 1-2cts. each or 25cts. per doz., at

TORONTO STEAM
LAUNDRY.
HALLEY'S HALL,
COR. KING & BAY STS.
G. P. SHARPE, Prop.

H. T. ALLSOPP,
DEALER IN
FINE BOOTS AND SHOES.
219 YONGE STREET,
TORONTO.

TO
YOUNG MEN
Wishing to learn
TELEGRAPHING,
A certificate good for
Twenty Dollars,
Will be sold cheap, good for the
TORONTO INSTITUTE.
Address:—
H. GUMMER,
Box, 2662.

TO SPORTSMEN.

A FIRST CLASS
Breech-loading Rifle.
Manufactured by Messon, Worcester, Mass. For Sale very Cheap, the owner having no use for it.

APPLY AT
GRIP OFFICE

REAL ESTATE.

Persons having Properties to dispose of in City or Country will find it to their advantage to place it in our hands. We have the

BEST STAND IN THE CITY,
and facilities for
ADVERTISING
which cannot be excelled.
BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
NEXT POST OFFICE,
TORONTO.

PENS AND PENHOLDERS.

A JOB LOT
Very Fancy and very Cheap
AT
GRIP OFFICE.

$2 000 CASH

Will be paid for a nice Detached or Semi-detached House, 8 or 9 Rooms.

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
Next Post-office.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabest Beast is the Ass; the grabest Bird is the Owl;
The grabest Fish is the Oyater; the grabest Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, 23RD FEBRUARY, 1878.

The Handwriting on the Wall.

MACKENZIE BELCHAZZAR and all his gay coves,
Are guzzling free on the fishes and loaves;
The flesh-pots of Egypt lie round on the floor,
And the good things of office are scattered galore.

For four years the Party has surfited there,
With appetites strong and digestive powers rare;
While the Tories outside (heaven ordained to rule)
Have been fretting to death in the shades that are cool.

But lo! there's dismay in the banqueting hall,
For the writing of Fate now appears on the wall;
A mystical sentence portending the End—
But how it was written we can't comprehend.

Perchance 'tis the work of an angel of light,
To whose spotless soul Grits are odium quite;
No doubt 'tis the writing of some righteous hand
Who to "JOHN A. and VIRTUE" would give up the land.

A Conversation.

"The deuce of it is," said Sir JOHN at the last House Dinner, "that people really want new men to come forward."

"Are we not good enough?" growled TUPPER in his deepest baritone.

"If takin' pains to please," remarked N. F. DAVIN, "can soothe their savage buzzums, there's nivr a counther-jumper in King Shtrate can bate yez. Protectionists in Onthario, Free Thraders in Halifax, Lib-erathers of RIEL, allies wid BOWELL—oh, bedad, there's nothing but a kellydescoop can aiquil yez."

"A kaleidoscope," said M. C. CAMERON, who will try to make folks pronounce words correctly.

"The kellydescoop I did be sayin' Surr!" said N. F. D. "Neemed afther its inventor, me maternal ancistor, Surr JAMES KELLY, K.C.B. knighted for drivin' the bailiffs from Oireland, A.D. 1757."

"Ye are ower forrit, young mon," said one of the Club flunkies, a tall big-nosed person in a magnificent suit of green and gold, who, remaining when his fellows had departed, had taken a seat at the table with the guests. (It was G. B. He really runs the club as our other institutions). "When I had ye on the Glob, I keptit ye in order. In pitting ye on the Mail, ye ken, ye are simply removit tae anither Clear Grit journal, disguisit for purposes o' my ain. Mairower, ye arena tae gang round speaking—"

The fiery passions of the Milesian addressed had now rendered him red hot. Nothing else could have saved his adversary, but N. F. D. found his dress suit beginning to singe. He rushed from the room. took a shower-bath and came back cool and pallid. In the meantime the conversation had changed.

"I maun observe," said G. B., "that we haena had oor time. Ye had twenty years, and agreeit tae let us hae oor turn. We canna do wi' scant four. It maun be managit."

"But you cannot deny," said MACDOUGALL, "that you are making in four years as much as we in twenty. You give MACDONALD $10,000 a year. He gets it. But as for me, I was sent to pick a governorship out of a bulldog's mouth, and got properly bitten for my pains. Speaking of dogs recalls the fable of the bone and the shadow. Isn't it time I got the substance?"

"You bring me back to my muttons," said Sir JOHN, "and by the way that leg was superb—"

"But the devil's sint no capers wid it," said N. F. D.

"They knew we had you;" said the baronet, "but as I was saying, my dear GEORGE, it is true that years ago, we leaders agreed to divide in turn the spoils of office, and to keep outsiders off. I am sure we aided you manfully in your efforts to shove aside every fellow, from BALDWIN to GOLDWIN SMITH, who tried to shove in a patriotic oar. But now it will do no longer. You know as well as I that the country has been humbugged, not governed. People demand men who understand commercial positions, and a lot of things never hitherto forming part of Canadian governmental programmes. I don't say we would not have had them before now, it unhampered by opposition, or that you would not, if equally clear. But you know as well as I that it has ever been impossible to pass needed measures, on account of the ever-present necessity of buying corrupt friends, and approving corrupt opponents."

"Breebery an' corruption!" said G. B. "Why did ye nae stap it?"

"Why didn't you?" asked Sir JOHN.

"Gin ye introduce ye're opponent, as Dr. JOHNSON remarked," said G. B., "there's an end o' argument. Hae ye nae better manners? Answer me, sir!"

"Well, GEORGE," sighed the knight, "I challenge you to answer this. When the people send fellows to Parliament who come with no other purpose but to be bought, have I or MACKENZIE any other resource but to buy them?"

"It is vara true," said the disguised ONONTIO. "After a', it's nae use abusing ilk ither in preevate. What div ye think is noo tae be done?" "Your friends must go out at the end of their term, GEORGE, and we will have to get in men fit to draw up a proper scheme of Protection, and several other things the country needs." So said the knight, pensively drinking a tumbler of sherry.

"Ye are a puir-speerited creature," said G. B. "I shall ance mair tak' the stoomp myself. I speakit gran'ly at Oxford last week. I sall hae na Protection here ava. What div I care for the kintra? Whaur wad gang my Breetish supporters, mairower my Yankee friens? Hoo could the Glob dae without the importing interest? Gae wa! Free Trade forever! Wi' the mighty engines o' the Glob and Mail I hae directit, and wull direct! Shadows o' necht avaunt! GEORDIE's himsel' again!" And the old gentleman executed a triumphal attitude in which his long limbs, not now under their old command, knocked down a $100 set of Sevres from the sideboard.

"GEORGE," said Sir J., "You cannot direct me. Master of myself though China fall!" And he looked sadly at the fragments—a present from himself.

"Nor me," roared the Tremendous TUPPER, whose sore throat wine had temporarily healed. "I denounce your policy! I oppose your course! I deny your principles—"

"Ye hae aften deneed yere ain," interjected G. B.

"I" pursued the thunderous honourable, "I am fit here to speak! I, whose dexterous voice plenses East and West, ever sounding loudly the trumpet appropriate to the region. This is Toronto, and I here declare Protection the only course. That we shall follow-o-o-o under-r the glorious-s-s pilot who-o-o-o has weathered the storm-m-m—(But here several panes fell from the windows and some afrighted guests ran to the door).

"Ye're noise disna fricken me," said G. B., "nae mair than the clamorous o' that Irish creature wha I formerly allowed to write for the Glob—"

But the blood of N. F. D. stood no more. Dexterously extracting from a chamois case an immense shellalagh, he leapt on the table, "Be the powers, he manes me," shrieked N. F. D., making a flying leap over the centre vase in the Scottish person's direction. He arrived, but the other was gone. Nay, the room was empty. As TENNYSON says,

"At the mere flash and motion of the man,"

all the guests had disappeared, except those, who under the table, laid supine in the arms of BACCHUS.

"Waither!" cried N. F. D., "bear the inebriated to cabs. The ruction has calmed me sowl. Fetch me pin, ink and paper. There's an iditorial jew, and devil resave the loine written av the same."

The Amenities of Parliament.

Hon. Dr. TUPPER (to Mr. DYMOND).—You are a garbler of reports! Mr. DYMOND.—I aint. You are a vile insulter of the Press.

Hon. Sir JOHN MACDONALD.—It is evident the Minister of Justice is a liar.

Hon. MINISTER OF JUSTICE.—I aint! All your authorities—Chief Justices, Knights, Generals, and everybody else are liars.

THE SPEAKER.—The hon. member for Kingston is out of order.

Hon. Sir JOHN.—Then, Mr. SPEAKER, in a parliamentary sense he isn't a liar, but every other way he is. He has, I say, used rebellion—

Hon. Mr. MACKENZIE.—Your colleague, Sir. GEO. CARTIER, was a rebel, and ran away!

Hon. Sir JOHN.—He didn't! he didn't, I protest against slandering the memory of the dead! My worthy colleague fought as a rebel all day at St. Denis, and fired on Her Majesty's flag from morning to night.

Hon. Mr. MACKENZIE.—If your colleague fired material bullets at the flag, mayn't mine fire an immaterial expression?

Hon. Sir JOHN.—No Sir! He mayn't, Sir. And he hadn't the courage, Sir! JONES would have run away, Sir, he would, Sir!

Hon. Mr. LAURIER.—It happens to be a matter of history that your late colleague did. (Sir JOHN subsides on the history point).

Hon. Mr. MACKENZIE.—And your friends burned down the Parliament House, pelted the Governor, and wanted to be Independent, yes sir! And now worse than all, want to make political life unbearable—

Hon. Sir JOHN.—No, no, no, I rise to explain. The more we give a bearish tendency to the proceedings, the more we make them bearable. (Loud applause. Cries of "Very good; Give us another").

The above is not an over exaggerated burlesque of the class of proceedings lately held at Ottawa. GRIP would remind these gentlemen that the pretended loyalty which occasions such scenes causes that worst description of disloyalty, contempt for our rulers.

THE MYSTERIOUS HANDWRITING ON THE WALL.

Modern Religion.

Of all instinctive feelings which dwell within the breast,
The promptings to religion the purest are and best,
Most worthy of encouragement in this our earthly way,
And how we them encourage shall be written in this lay.

To church we'll go on Sunday, well dressed from top to toe,
Of churches the description where most of us will go—
Where carpets are the deepest, and pews of softest seat.
And the music to the hearers affords the richest treat.

Where music loud resounding falls bravely on the ear,
Of future penance driving away all sense of fear,
And the senses all enchanted by the loud and pleasant sound,
Are unconscious of that party who goes a roaring round.

For our music in religion is utilized to-day,
As 'tis used in battle's danger, cool thought to chase away,
Or as the Brahmin tomtoms quell burning widows' shrieks,
We drown on Sunday mornings its voice when conscience speaks.

For our priests to-day are finding, as predecessors found,
Complacency still fetches large congregations round,
And we approve that preacher, and raise his salary,
Who makes us feel good rather than teaches us to be.

So advertise in journals the music of our choir,
Explaining some go lower, and some can rise much higher,
Than usual, and stating, with unction most profound,
The pieces meant for singing, when Sunday next comes round.

Then uprises the preacher, the preacher of to-day,
Expounding parts of Scripture in a very clever way,
And gives so many meanings to words both great and small,
That he makes you quite decided the text has none at all.

Then gravely moves to dinner with pillar of the church,
Who turning coat last session left promise in the lurch,
Or with that honest gentleman to difficulties come,
Who pays no creditors, but gives the church a handsome sum.

For he must be forgiving, that meek and gentle man,
And grant them all exemption from penance that he can.
"We need it of each other," he says, and means next day,
To ask it on some taxes by 'right he ought to pay.

When shall we find the churches teach what their founder taught—
To deal with each man justly, and pay each what we ought?
To scorn hypocrisy, although its wealth be what it may?
When shall the faith as given at first be taught in modern day?

Tierney Abroad.

NO. 2.

TO THE EDITOR AV GRIP, up in Taranty :

SUR,—I b'ave I towld yez in me lasht letther that fwhin I wint to Ottaway he the invite av Misher MICKINZIE, I hard av somethin' to me advantage, but I hadn't shpace to foind room in that letther to inform yez fwhat that was.

"MR. TIERNEY," sez the Premier, fwhin I walked intil his affice, "I've hard av yer great abilities, an' wud loike to secure yer services, av ye plaze."

"Thank ye kindly, sur," sez I, "but at the prisint toim I have a job. diggin' a cellar for Misher—"

"Howld on," sez he, intrupthin' me, "its for no manial service av that keind I wud be wantin' ye for," sez he, "I want to give ye a govirmint appintemint, so I do."

"Savin' yer prisince," sez I, "Misher MICKINZIE, ye musht be crazy intoirely; a govirmint affice for me! Sure, amn't I wan av the leadin' Consarvatifs av the counthry?" sez I.

"Jusht so," sez he, "av coorse ye are; an' that's chafely the raison fwhy av me prisint procadin'; its a way we have in the Reformum Party," sez he, "af doin' fwhat we can for our iniinies in the way av the shwates av affice. I think now, betune us, ye wud make a foim immygrant agent for the South av Ireland. Wud ln't ye loike to go an' see the dear ould sod wanst more, at a purty good salary?" sez he.

"I wud," sez I. "An' if I may be allowed to use the ixprission, Misher MICKINZIE," sez I, "I b'ave the Reformum Party is founded on the throe principles av love; if I was in the confessional this minnit, sur, I wudn't deny but me heart has been wid yez all the toime, more or less."

We shuck hands, an' the thing was settled. Misher CARTWRIGHT an' Misher MILLS, the Minister av Philosofy, thin kem in, an' ixpressed thimselves plazed that I would be for some toime away from the corruptin' influence av Sur JOHN an' thim."

The certificate is bein' med out for me appintemint.

"It'll take a few weeks, mebbe," sez Misher MICKINZIE, "to get it complate, because, av coorse, it has to be sint away up to Taranty to be counthersigned by Misher BROWN, at the Globe affice, an' in the mane toim, I think ye bether take a soort av a toor through the Marry-time Provinces," sez he, "so as to lay in a shtock av information an' facts about the counthry."

"Wid pleasure," sez I, "I'm ready to shtart to-morry mornin'."

"Good," sez he, "Go; an the blessin' av a pure an' pathriotic govermint go wid yez."

That was all. Next day I shtarted for Monthreal, an' ivir since I have been thravlin' about, goin' most generally from wan place to another, though me movemints is not med out on anny particler plan, an' I have the Dominion Driectory in me pocket and the Treasury at me back.

Av coorse I kape me eyes an' ears open on me thravels, especially fwhin I have to thravel be night in thim shapin' kears av Misher PULLMAN'S. I am takin' notes av the people and places, an' fwhat I hear, an' the crops, and ivery thing av that sort. I thought it wud be best, as I was a little grane at the bisness, af I kep a Dairy as I wint along, an' so I wint intil the chafe buck-shiore av Monthreal an' bought mesilf a foime morrocky covered note-buck, wid lashtic bands an' lead-pencil complate. "Retale price two twenty-foive," sez the clark. "Wrap it up," sez I, "an' charge it to the govirmint."

I have the note-buck purty well filled be this toim, on some av the pages, an' av yez wud loike to print a few av me notes in GRIP, I'll begin' nixt wake and sind yez some. Me coorse has tuck me intil the Provinces av Quebec, Newbrun Swick an' Nova Scotia, an' I think yez'll foind me obsarvations on fwhat I saw nately done an' to the pint.

Yours wanst more,

TERRY TIERNEY.

Their Fate.

She was sewing, and no more.
He was clerking in a store.
He was JOHN HORATIO BIGGS.
She was ANGELINA SQUIGGS.

Vows unto Miss SQUIGGS he made,
Thus his courtship she repaid:
"Fill you in a store I see,
Of your own, don't think of me."

JOHN HORATIO had no tin,
So on credit he went in.
In a store we now him see,
With Miss S. as Mrs. B.

Clever JOHN HORATIO, though,
Wasn't able to foreknow.
That the merchant just next door,
Bankrupt was in two weeks more.

All the stock he had in biz,
Was obtained where JOHN got his,
Went for three months just "half price."
JOHNNY didn't think it nice.

Not a penny worth could sell,
Might have shut up just as well.
Three months passing quick away,
Precious lot of bills to pay.

Not a cent to pay had JOHN,
Assignees came tumbling on,
Start to sell him out that day,
Bankrupts chap across the way.

Ere it's over. Thus we see,
Bankruptcies make bankruptcy.
Clerk again is Mr. BIGGS,
Sewing is the former SQUIGGS.

Croaks and Pecks.

THE RINE temperance people don't believe in Rhine wine.

THE Globe of Monday accuses the Opposition of eagerness to make capital. That's just what all of us want to make. Lack of capital is the bane of this country.

THE standing committees are a disgrace to this country. Why can't chairs be provided so that these unfortunate committees will not need to stand any longer. Don't see how they can stand it.

OCCIDENTAL R.R. may be a very good name for that Quebec, Montreal, & Ottawa Road, but one letter might change it to the disastrous appellation of Accidental R.R.

ROLLER SKATING RINK.

Off Bay St., Opp. Temperance.

As a health agent, Roller Skating has proved itself to be invaluable. Many ladies who have attended the Rink, have been restored to a standard of health and muscular energy such as they had not enjoyed since the palmy days of girlhood. The chilling effect that accompanies ice skating is wholly obviated, and instead of suffering from cold feet, as on ice, the circulation is so thoroughly established in the extremities, as to insure a vigorous circulation and warmth for a couple of days.

ADMISSION: Afternoon, Free. Evening, 10 Cents.

SKATES EXTRA: Ladies, 15c. Gents, 25c.

Lighthouse Service!

TENDERS.

Tenders will be received by this Department, at Ottawa, up to the 1st MARCH next, for the supply of 100,000 gallons, Imperial measure, per annum, more or less, for one or three years, at the option of the Department, of the best quality of double-distilled Standard White Extra Refined Petroleum Oil, deliverable at Goderich, Hamilton, Montreal, Quebec, St. John, N.B., and Halifax, N.S., in such quantities and at such times as the Department may desire.

The oil must be free from acid or other impurity; of a specific gravity, at 60° Fahr., of between 48° and 45° Baume; non explosive at a vapour test of 130° Fahr.; and must distil between 302° and 572° Fahr. In burning for 12 hours it must produce a brilliant and nearly uniform flame, neither crushing the wick nor discolouring the chimney. If from any cause the light diminishes more than 15 per cent. during the trial the oil will be rejected.

A sample of five gallons, of which the cost and freight will be paid by the Department, is to accompany each tender.

The oil is to be delivered in good order in new iron-bound white oak casks, containing from 35 to 40 gallons, prepared inside with liquid glue and painted outside; casks to be furnished by contractors and cost included in price of oil.

The oil is to be delivered by the contractor subject to inspection of the Department, and re-gauged at place of delivery, and delivered free from all charges, including duty, if any, Inland Revenue inspection charges, and gauging charges.

Tenders will also be received up to the same date for the charter of a steam vessel to deliver supplies to light-houses above Montreal, including those on Lake Superior. Charter to commence at Montreal on the 20th of June next. Steamer to be ready at the Lachine Canal Basin to take in cargo on the morning of the 27th June. Full particulars as to description of vessel required and nature of service will be supplied on application.

Tenders both for oil and steam vessel to be addressed to the undersigned, and marked on outside "Tender for Oil" or "Tender for Steam Vessel."

WM. SMITH,
Deputy Minister of Marine, &c.

Department of Marine and Fisheries,
Ottawa, January, 1878. Feby. 22-11.

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
Real Estate Agents,

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS, (Next Post Office.)

TORONTO.

Notice is Hereby Given

THAT THE AGENCY FOR the sale of Indian Lands in the Saugeen Peninsula has been removed from Toronto to Wiarton, County of Bruce.

Information respecting those lands may be obtained on application to B. B. Miller, Esq., Indian Lands Agent, Wiarton; to whom also should be forwarded all Certificates of Deposit and Drafts for moneys paid into any of the Chartered Banks by Purchasers or Licensees of Indian Lands or Timber in the Peninsula.

(Sgd.) D. MILLS.

Minister of the Interior and Superintendent General of Indian Affairs. Feby. 22-41

Canadian Pacific Railway.

Tenders for Grading, Bridging,
Track Laying, &c.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender Pacific Railway," will be received up to Noon of

Friday, the 1st day of March next, for works required to be executed in completing that portion of the Pembina Branch of the Canadian Pacific Railway extending from Saint Boniface Station southward to the International Boundary at Emerson, a distance of 63 miles.

For plans, specifications, approximate quantities, forms of tender and other information, apply to the office of the Engineer-in-Chief, Ottawa, and at the Office of the District Engineer, Winnipeg.

Contractors are notified that Tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and—in the case of firms—except there are attached the actual signature and the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the same.

For the due fulfilment of the Contract, a cash deposit to an amount of five per cent. on the bulk sum of the Contract will be required.

To the Tender must be attached the actual signatures of two responsible and solvent persons, residents of the Dominion, willing to become sureties for the carrying out of these conditions as well as the due performance of the works embraced in the Contract.

This Department does not, however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By Order, F. BRAUN,
Secretary.

Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, Feby 7th, 1878.

WANTED!

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN TO LEARN TELEGRAPH operating for offices opening in the Dominion. Send 3 cent stamp for circular. Address MANAGER. Box 955, Toronto

J. F. DANTER, M. D.

Homeopathist and Medical Electrician. Office and Pharmacy: 4 Albert Street, (Cor. Yonge) Toronto. Medicine for sale, vials refilled, Letters promptly answered.

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT.

Ottawa, 1st Feb., 1878.

AUTHORIZED DISCOUNT ON American invoices until further notice, 2 per cent.

J. JOHNSON,
Commissioner of Customs.

v-6-tf

FOUND!

A SMALL BUNCH OF KEYS

Was picked up opposite the Post Office. Owner can have same by calling at the office of "GRIP" and paying for this advertisement.

NEATLY, CHEAPLY, QUICKLY.

Grip Job Department.

OFFICE

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS,

(One door west of the Post-office)

Everything in the Printing line from a

LABEL TO A 3-SHEET POSTER

WITH NEATNESS AND DESPATCH.

CARDS.

We are prepared to fill Orders by Mail for Visiting Cards (Finest Bristol, White or Tinted) immediately on receipt of letter, and forward by FIRST MAIL, at the following

RATES:

25 Cards, (one name, one style type), 30 cents.
50 " " " " 50 "
100 " " " " 75 "

MOORNING CARDS:

25 Cards, (one name one style type), 50 cents.
50 " " " " 75 "
100 " " " " $1.25 "

Memorial Cards:

Beautiful Designs, $ 1.00 per dozen.
Samples by mail, 5c. each.

Printing addresses on Cards, 10 cents extra for each Order.

THE FOLLOWING ARE
SAMPLES OF TYPE
FROM WHICH A CHOICE MAY BE MADE

1

Robert Taylor.

2

William Richardson

3

Miss Maggie Thompson.

4

George Augustus Williams.

5

Mrs. Thomas Jones.

6

William Arthur Crawford.

7

Miss Susie Wade.

8

Byron W. Scott.

9

William Shakespeare.

Write your Name and the Number of the Letter you desire plainly, to prevent mistakes.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS,

TORONTO, ONT.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE

GRIP is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.

Subscription price, $2 per annum, strictly in advance. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied.

USE ONLY
ONTARIO
BAKING POWDER.

ASK YOUR
Grocer for it.

THE TORONTO
TURKISH BATHS
233 Queen St. West.
THE ONLY TURKISH BATHS IN
THE CITY.

These baths are useful in Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Coughs, Colds, Congestions, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Skin Diseases, all inflammations, Biliousness, and for sanitary purposes.

Hours:—Gentlemen from 7:30 to 8:30 a.m., and 3 to 9 p.m. Ladies from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. every day. Experienced attendants.

GORRELL,
CRAIG
&
Co.,
LITHOGRAPHERS
113
ADELAIDE ST.
EAST.

FARM FOR SALE.

A very desirable farm for a gentleman's residence, consisting of 37 acres, in the Township of Pickering, County of Ontario, overlooking Frenchman's Bay. A small stream runs through the north west corner. There is

A Capital Orchard
of Pears, Plums, Cherry and Apple Trees, covering twelve acres, nine of which are only six years old, just commencing to bear. The soil is as good as can be found in the township, which is equivalent to saying there is none better in the province.

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
REAL ESTATE AG'TS
IMPERIAL BUILDINGS.
Next Post Office, Toronto.

"GRIP"
Job Department

Is Stocked with all the latest Styles and Improvements in
TYPES,

from the American, Canadian and European Foundries, and will be found competent for the execution of all classes of Printing, with

NEATNESS,
CHEAPNESS
DISPATCH.

Office: Imperial Buildings,
NEXT POST-OFFICE.

MARBLE CLOCKS

Direct from PARIS.

FINEST GOODS EVER SHOWN IN TORONTO.

W. F. ROSS & CO., 83 KING STREET EAST.

Stanton & Vicars.
PHOTOGRAPHERS,
47, 49 & 51 King St. West.

CAUTION.

Before purchasing your spring shirts, get our prices, our Shirts please everybody our trade this season is far ahead of last. If you want a good shirt at a low price try sample one. Send for circular to A. White, late White & Sharpe 65 King Street West.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, MARCH 23, 1878.

GRIP OFFICE,
IMPERIAL BUILDING.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

5 CTS. EACH.
$2 PER ANNUM.

CHEAP BOOKS.

FOURTEEN WEEKS IN PHILOSOPHY $1.50 LIVE & LESSONS OF THE PATRIARCHS $1.50.
TORONTO OF OLD $3.00. PREHISTORIC TIMES $2.50.
STUDIES FOR THE PULPIT $2.00. STONES CRYING OUT $1.00.
TYPES AND EMBLEMS 60c. SERMONS BY TALMAGE $1.00.
TEXT BOOKS OF SCIENCE $1.00. COCHRANE'S SERMONS $1.50.
CANADIAN FARMERS' MANUAL $2.00. DOMESTIC WORLD 75 c.
Sent to any address on receipt of price.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS, (One door west of Post Office) TORONTO.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach GRIP office not later than Wednesday.—Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, Grip office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

$1.50

Will Wash and Rough
Dry 100 Pieces, at the
TORONTO STEAM
LAUNDRY.

Cor. Bay & Wellington.
OFFICE: 65 KING ST. WEST

H. T. ALLSOPP,
DEALER IN
FINE BOOTS AND SHOES.
219 YONGE STREET,
TORONTO.

TO
YOUNG MEN
Wishing to learn
TELEGRAPHING,
A certificate good for
Twenty Dollars,

Will be sold cheap, good for the
TORONTO INSTITUTE.
Address:—
H. GUMMER,
Box, 2662.

TO SPORTSMEN.

A FIRST CLASS
Breech-loading Rifle.
Manufactured by Messon, Worcester, Mass. For Sale very Cheap, the owner having no
use for it.

APPLY AT
GRIP OFFICE

REAL ESTATE.

Persons having Properties to dispose of in City or Country will find it to their advantage to place it in our hands. We have the

BEST STAND IN THE CITY,
and facilities for
ADVERTISING
which cannot be excelled.
BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
NEXT POST OFFICE,
TORONTO.

PENS AND PENHOLDERS.

A JOB LOT
Very Fancy and Very Cheap.
AT
GRIP OFFICE.

$2 000 CASH

Will be paid for a nice Detached or Semi-detached House, 8 or 9 Rooms.

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
Next Post-office.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grapest Beast is the Ass; the grapest Bird is the Owl;
The grapest Fish is the Oyster; the grapest Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, 23RD MARCH, 1878.

Answers to Correspondents.

Demea,—Your poem is rather gushing for our columns.

J. B. P.—Our only objection to your poem is that it has appeared in another paper.

The Insult to McPherson.

Wad the Lallan pody daur,
Insult gie to creat MACPHAIRSON?
It maun be accountit for,
Py tat CAIRTWREET in her pairson.

SHEMUS MACSHEMUS, pring hither her claymore,
Flint up her pistol and load up her gun.
She is tae Ottawa ganging till slay more
CAIRTWREETS tan twanty tree huntret and one.

Daured they say she was a thief,
Wi' an instinct prawditory?
Cry upon each Heelan chief!
Roose Clanranald an' McVourigh!

Pring tae MCKENZIE's an' pring tae MCLBODS town.
Ca' up MCGREGOR, and GRANT, and ILAY.
Pring tae clan CAMPBELL in terrible crowds town.
Pit on tae plumes an' tae tartan array.

When tae CAIRTWREET sees tae flash
Of tae proadwords on her fa'ing,
Her will think her has been rash,
Names tae Hieland shentles ca'ing.

What if tae chiefs frae tae Heelans expell't us,
Stealin' by force a' oor rights to tae lan'?
By tae base Sassenach shall it be tell't us?
Na; tat te Heelan bluid neffer will stan'.

Though her did the cunzie cleik,
Her an' a' her sires redoubtit.
Shall tae Southron daur tae speak?
Shall he daur tae talk aout it?

Pring oot tae pipes an' pring oot tae pig standard,
Gar tae St. Lawrence ring wild tae skreigh.
Gang noo for CAIRTWREET wha basely has slandered
Tae sons o' tae Gael—oich! oich! oich! come away!

Scene at Ottawa.

Present—PARTICULAR MINISTERIAL SUPPORTERS.

HON. MR. MACKENZIE.—It's a mere sorrow o' heart, an' punishment o' the speirit, ta tak office ava'. Was there ever mortal mon sae persecutit as I hae been the day, and no only the day, but three weeks or mair—three months I might amaisit say? Ae chiel after anither—sometimes three or mair lug by jowl—speirin', speirin', speirin' tae ken whan will be the general election. Gin I knew mysel, it wad be some consolation. But tae tell them I kenna I daurna, or they might threep I had nae policy ava, and tae tell them I ken is tae inveet cross-examination o' the maist barbarous desecration.

HON. MR. MILLS.—I think it due to the country to make public the information at once.

HON. MR. MACKENZIE.—Ye dae! an' hoo sune wad ye hae them come off, may I ken?

HON. MR. MILLS.—Certainly, at once. I would not, previous to joining the Cabinet, have given this opinion. But I consider that after the profound disquisitions with which I have favoured the country—the acumen—the historical information—the accurate statistics I have given—the elections should result in certain triumph to the Cabinet in which I hold position. A precisely similar case occurred in ancient Illyria, B.C. 1200, at the time of the building of the Pyramids of Egypt by JULIUS CÆSAR and CLEOPATRA—

HON. MR. CARTWRIGHT.—Nonsense! They didn't build them. I read it at school. It was MOSES did it for the Shepherd Kings.

HON. MR. MACKENZIE.—Ye are wrang, Maister CAIRTWREET. The Bible wad hae tell't us if he had dune sae. Mairower, Maister MILLS is probably correct.

HON. MR. MILLS.—People with deficits in more respects than one should not interrupt. (CARTWRIGHT collapses). Where was I? Oh, yes, I was remarking that, according to the very simple equation xy^2 minus x , equal ab^2 , taking the hypothenuse of Q square for a guide, and allowing for the motion of the earth and attraction of the moon, the elections should be held—

HON. MR. BLAKE (Suddenly rising from sofa).—Pack of nonsense!

HON. MR. MILLS.—The ignorant deride the Philosopher, but he heeds them not. He alone is mighty. Give him but a place to stand on, and he will—

JOE RYMAL.—Shove any Cabinet he's in out of power.

HON. MR. MILLS.—I expected better from you, sir.

MR. RYMAL.—So did the country from you. Blessed are those who expect nothing, for they shall not be disappointed.

HON. MR. MACKENZIE.—There's nae use in sic collieshangie amang freens'. Here lees the delemma: Gin I haud the elections noo, if we winna a majority, we lose a'. Gin I wait till Januar', we micht cannily pit oorsels in gude berths, whilk are no' just ready the noo.

HON. MR. CARTWRIGHT.—Then wait. We might not get in, you know. And really a bird in the bush—

HON. MR. MILLS.—Why this faint-heartedness? Be bold. Launch out!

"Nunc vino pellite curas, Cras ingens iterabimus aequor."

Yes, hold the elections. I will address the people. The glorious results of the course I shall advocate must convince—

HON. MR. BLAKE.—Is it to be anything like what you have done?

HON. MR. MACKENZIE.—Maister BLAKE, it is no' weel taesit in the seat o' the scornfu'. Ye did little for us yersel', forbye helpin' us tae promise prosperie in mair magnificent language than the rest o' us possessit, and thereby seemly placing Maister CAIRTWREET's defeccits in a warse light.

HON. MR. BLAKE.—Oh, could I have done what I would! Could I have infused into the hearts of my lukewarm surrounds the glories of Imperial Confederation. Then, then, indeed, I had not lived in vain. Why make Canada now prosperous? Why not rather keep her poor and miserable, that she may sooner turn to her real refuge? Ah, do you begin to comprehend my policy? When that is achieved, how easy my path to Imperial greatness! Member for Toronto in London—elevated to the British Peerage—no doubt in time a British Minister of State—perhaps allied to the Royal family—what honor for myself, what glories for my race! Ah, how can I, with such ends in view, sympathise with small colonial schemes—

(The door bursts open with a bang, and in strides a tall but shaky figure. Throwing off a plaid appears!)

MR. BROWN. Weel, sirs! I see I hae tae tak' chairge, I hae made sair sacrificees. There are nae less than three coos tae calve at Boo Pairk the morn, and three neist week. Noo, ye maun proceed tae wark. Deemeenish the tariff on a' foreign gudes at ance—

HON. MR. CARTWRIGHT.—Where will be the revenue?

HON. MR. BROWN.—Direck taxation at ance. Ma freens the eemporters maun be servit—tariffs maun be abolisht. What we want is measures. Fules threep I never institutit a policy—they shall fin' oot. Direck taxation an' income tax, I say.

HON. MR. BLAKE.—I congratulate you on your plan of ingratiating yourself in the hearts of the country.

HON. MR. BROWN.—Did I call mysel' here? Is it no the result o' yere feckless attempts? What for did I bring ye forrit? Tae gie mysel rest. Noo I shall tak' command.

ALL.—And when will be the elections?

HON. MR. BROWN.—Mind ye'er ain affairs! Dinna daur tae question me. Leave me the papers, gang intill the nearest room, and dinna come in till callit.

(They obey in silence. Scene closes).

The Mob.

To the Editor of Grip.

SIR.—I am a citizen of Toronto. I find I have to pay my share for breakage whenever people think it correct to make a row. Some time back this amounted to some thousands, for troops alone. Now what I would say is this. I do not pretend to understand the different religions of the two great tribes into which the ancient and highly respectable country of Milesia appears to be divided, against either of whom, or against their religions—I have too much respect for propriety and my windows to say a word. I am a plain man who never meddles with other people's religions, and being a Christian myself, of course my ideas are widely different from those of the aforesaid tribes. But one thing is very plain. It is part of the highly respectable religious rites of these tribes to throw stones at windows and cause great damage to people who have nothing to do with the matter, moreover to kill and main policemen, to the great loss of their families. I would propose therefore that a wooden house with glass windows be erected in the Queen's Park, and four dummy policemen stood up round it. On the 12th of July let it be destroyed by one tribe, and on the 17th of March have another ready to be smashed by the other. If all parties will accept this compromise, much loss may be averted, and great fear and nervousness dissipated on the part of yours truly,

ANTI-FLINTITE.

Toronto, March 20, 1878.

REACTION INTELLIGENCE.

THE CHIEFTAIN, HAVING WITHDRAWN FOR REFRESHMENT, LEARNS HOW THE CONSERVATIVE REACTION IS GETTING ON.

The Ottawa Theatre.

MR. CLANDEBOYE, lessee, has the honor to announce the re-appearance—procured at great expense—of the celebrated tragedian, comedian, and acrobat, GEORGE BROWN, who will take leading parts in several gems of his ordinary repertoire. He will be the principal character in the tragedy of "The Ruined Manufacturer; or, the Woes of the Working-man." He will also play Wirepuller in the farce of "The Unreforming Reformers; or, Rest and be Thankful." He will also exhibit his astonishing equestrian performance of Riding the Reform, Green, and Orange horses at once, driving before him the Sir JOHN and TUPPER ponies at the same time. He will afterwards, assisted by the well-known NED BLAKE, perform the "Sudden Cure; or, the Healthy Patient." No free list. No half price. Vivat Regina (JONES volente).

A Combat Between the Drivers of the Conservative Buss and Reform Van.

JOHN.—Conscience! ALIC what's the matter?

You've grown thin instead of fatter.

Driving does not agree with you.

ALEX.—That is a fact, I know it too,

The constant pulling of the rein

Gives my nerves a frightful strain,

Which makes my heart faint and weary

While travelling this road so dreary.

JOHN.—Your horses are too poorly fed,

They show it by the drooping head.

They must have oats or they will die,

So try and feed them ALIC try,

Give better, more substantial food,

Not bricks and mortar, stone or wood,

Contract or steal some oats and hay,

Procure them ALIC in some way.

ALEX.—Why! Trade is lame, can hardly walk,

And when I drive her she will baulk.

JOHN.—Pamper her, pet her as you may

You'll never cure her in that way.

ALEX.—She may improve, if, as you say,

I give her plenty oats and hay.

I'll take the bridle off her head

And give her liberty instead,

To roam the fields of my domain,

And she will soon get fat again.

JOHN.—The Yank's will cross o'er forty-five

And take your mare for a drive

Extract the marrow from her bones

And let her die 'mid pains and groans.

ALEX.—I'm hourly losing oats and hay

My barns are empt'ing day by day

Contents abstracted by the load

So I must turn her on the road.

The wintry months are gliding past

And my little stock won't last

To bring me through the month April

So she must vegetate awhile.

JOHN.—I know too well what spoiled your hay

And left you without oats to-day

For on enquiry I did find

It was a pig that felt inclin'd

To fatten on the best of grain

Under shelter from the rain,

So it took refuge in your shed

As by a hoggish motive led

To satisfy a craving greed

To dine upon the best of feed.

While eating there with great delight

It ne'er thought 'twas in a bad plight

Until captured doing harm

Then with fright and great alarm

It shew'd it's heels—off for the West

A sty of liberty and rest

Where it may view the prairie o'er

And meditate on days of yore,

While crushing 'tween its ivory tusks,

The Prairie corn from sweeten'd husks,

To fill an inward aching void.

With sweetest morsels unalloy'd.

Now! as you say you lack good food

I will send you some, if you would Receive it as a gift from me

'Twill fatten any horse—you see.

My barns are stack'd full of such grain,

My horses cover'd from the rain,

Protection like a massive wall

Keeps them safely in the stall.

When you have fed yours for a while

Just take them out—not for a smile,

And give them oatmeal, gruel and bran,

And we shall see a dashing span.

ALEX.—At pic-nic parties all so gay,

You always make a fine display,

You're always greeted by the crowd

With acclamations long and loud.

Your prancing horses take the eye,

Of every one whom you pass by,

Who look—enraptur'd with delight,

Become ecstatic at the sight.

But my lame steed commands no prize

From any one—unless I rise

In self defence her worth to tell—

JOHN.—You always have a blust'ring swell

Of words, of egotistic sham

With which you never cease to cram

The minds of those you wave at will

To take your sugar coated pill.

Thinking it dropp'd from angel's tongue

They swallow—then they feel they're stung.

With deep remorse and raging ire

They strive to quench the inward fire

Which has been kindl'd in the breast

By your steal-(thy) act suppressed.

ALEX.—You're not afraid of any draught

Won by an artful, planning, craft,

Which will inebriate the mind

Or in the purse it's level find.

JOHN.—Insinuations of your kind

Are blossoms of a feeble mind

Which fall like snow on maiden earth

Making no impress by their birth.

So faulty, worthless, base, untrue,

They're born to fade like morning dew.

You'll want drafts to meet deficit

So you must steal or solicit

Aid, by increased circulation,

To cover loss by speculation.

The Budget has disclos'd a tale

Which makes one shudder and bewail

While thus revolving in the brain

Most anxious thoughts in rapid train

Of the fearful doom impending

Brought about by reckless spending

Of the country's well earn'd treasure

Which was lavished without measure

Upon a few within the fold

Whose hungry mouths you've shut with gold.

ALEX.—Your words I'll not refute with rage

While driving such an equipage

But merely say a fond "adieu"

While taking thus my leave of you.

OTTAWA, 15th March, 1878.

The two P's---Palmer and Plumb.

Two P's that are M. P's. and as like one another,

As peas in a pod, or as brother to brother,

In a certain respect grow alike more and more,

For PALMER's a grunter and PLUMB is a bore.

The Two Scenes.

(Scene in Montreal.)

CROWD (To Council).—We must break the Orange windows.

COUNCIL.—All right—(To peaceable citizens).—You will be so kind as to pay the bill for damages.

(Scene in Toronto.)

CROWD (To council).—We must break the Catholic windows.

COUNCIL.—All right (To peaceable citizens).—You will pay the damage, please.

The peaceable citizens in both cities pay, and ask each other how long Canada is to be made a bear-garden for the pleasure of our Irish fellow-citizens, and how long they are to pay the piper for the said bear-garden.

THE APPARENT QUESTION OF THE DAY.—When are the elections? The real question.—Who will have the majority?

The House of Commons should be a very square body by this time. They have had PLUMBING enough this Session, but it does not seem to BUDGET.

THE Mail can't answer the Globe. That's because it isn't a female. "Conservatives are thinkin' av gittin' up another orgin," said PETHER FINUCANE to us. "Its articles are distitute av pints, the same bein' owin' to sindin' their Quartz to London, mebbe." And PETHER wandered off, smoking.

ROLLER SKATING RINK.

Off Bay St., Opp. Temperance.

As a health agent, Roller Skating has proved itself to be invaluable. Many ladies who have attended the Rink, have been restored to a standard of health and muscular energy such as they had not enjoyed since the palmy days of girlhood. The chilling effect that accompanies ice skating is wholly obviated, and instead of suffering from cold feet, as on ice, the circulation is so thoroughly established in the extremities, as to insure a vigorous circulation and warmth for a couple of days.

ADMISSION: Afternoon, Free. Evening, 10 Cents.

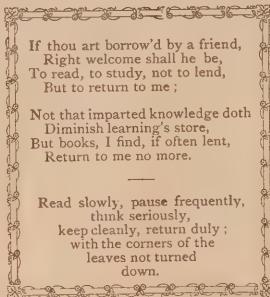

SKATES EXTRA: Ladies, 15c. Gents, 25c.

WANTED.

5 cents each will be paid for the following
BACK NUMBERS OF "GRIP."

VOL. 2. Nos. 2, 16, 23.
" 3. " 7, 9, 17, 20, 21, 23.
" 4. " 1, 2, 4, 5, 6.
" 5. " 5, 7, 17, 19, 21, 26.
" 6. " 6, 7, 9, 13, 25.
" 7. " 4, 12, 20, 21.

BENGOUGH BROS.,
TORONTO.

If thou art borrow'd by a friend,
Right welcome shall he be,
To read, to study, not to lend,
But to return to me;

Not that imparted knowledge doth
Diminish learning's store,
But books, I find, if often lent,
Return to me no more.

Read slowly, pause frequently,
think seriously,
keep cleanly, return duly;
with the corners of the leaves not turned down.

COPIES OF ABOVE

May be had at GRIP Office, or sent free of Postage,
at 25 cents per dozen, or $1.00 per hundred.

PROPERTIES FOR SALE.

ONTARIO STREET north of Wellesley, two brick fronted houses, nine rooms, extra finish, bow windows, folding doors, grates, &c. Good cellar, hard and soft water. Lot 23 x 126. Price $1,900 each.

NIAGARA STREET, two rough cast houses, seven rooms, hard and soft water. $2,500 for both. Would exchange for farm.

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
Real Estate Agents,
IMPERIAL BUILDINGS, (Next Post Office.)
TORONTO.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY
OF CANADA.

NOTICE.

A Pullman car will run daily between Toronto and Ottawa, commencing to-night

JOSEPH HICKSON, General Manager.

March 7, 1878.

TO PHONOGRAPHERS!

Just to hand a full Stock of ISAAC PITMAN'S
Text Books.

Compend of Phonography,	5 cts.
Exercises in Phonography,	5
Grammologies and Contractions,	10
Questions on Manual,	15
Selections in Reporting Style,	20
Teacher,	20
Key to Teacher,	20
Reader,	20
Manual,	50
Reporter,	75
Reporting Exercises,	20
Phrase Book,	30
Covers for holding Note Book,	20
The Reporter's Guide, by Thos. Allan Reid	60

Sent post-paid to any address on receipt of price.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

Next Post Office, Toronto.

SKIFF WANTED

APPLY AT
"GRIP" OFFICE.

WANTED!

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN TO LEARN TELEGRAPH operating for offices opening in the Dominion. Send 3 cent stamp for circular. Address MANAGER Box 955, Toronto

FOUND!

A SMALL BUNCH OF KEYS

Was picked up opposite the Post Office. Owner can have same by calling at the office of "GRIP" and paying for this advertisement.

J. F. DANTER, M. D.

Homœopathist and Medical Electrician. Office and Pharmacy: 4 Albert Street, (Cor. Yonge) Toronto. Medicine for sale, vials refilled, Letters promptly answered.

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT.

Ottawa, 1st Feb., 1878.

AUTHORIZED DISCOUNT ON
American invoices until further notice, 2 per cent.

J. JOHNSON,
Commissioner of Customs.

v-6-1f

CHEAP READING.

Having entered into arrangements with the Publishers we are now prepared to supply

SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY and "GRIP," $ 5.00.

ST. NICHOLAS and "GRIP," 4.00.

DETROIT FREE PRESS and "GRIP," 3.50

BENGOUGH BROS.,
TORONTO.

NEATLY, CHEAPLY, QUICKLY.

Grip Job Department.

OFFICE

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS,

(One door west of the Post-office)

Everything in the Printing line from a

LABEL TO A 3-SHEET POSTER

WITH NEATNESS AND DESPATCH.

CARDS.

We are prepared to fill Orders by Mail for Visiting Cards (Finest Bristol, White or Tinted) immediately on receipt of letter, and forward by FIRST MAIL, at the following

RATES:

25 Cards, (one name, one style type), 30 cents.
50 " " " " " 50 "
100 " " " " " 75 "

MOURNING CARDS:

25 Cards, (one name one style type), 50 cents.
50 " " " " " 75 "
100 " " " " " $1.25 "

Memorial Cards:

Beautiful Designs, $ 1.00 per dozen.
Samples by mail, 5c. each.
Printing addresses on Cards, 10 cents extra for each Order.

THE FOLLOWING ARE

SAMPLES OF TYPE
FROM WHICH A CHOICE MAY BE MADE

1

Robert Taylor.

2

William Richardson.

3

Miss Maggie Thompson.

4

George Augustus Williams.

5

Mrs. Thomas Jones.

6

William Arthur Crawford.

7

Miss Susie Wade.

8

Byron W. Scott.

9

William Shakespeare.

Write your Name and the Number of the Letter you desire plainly, to prevent mistakes.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS,

TORONTO, ONT.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE

Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.

Subscription price, $2 per annum, strictly in advance. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied.

USE ONLY
ONTARIO
BAKING POWDER.
ASK YOUR
Grocer for it.

THE TORONTO
TURKISH BATHS
233 Queen St. West.
THE ONLY TURKISH BATHS IN
THE CITY.

These baths are useful in Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Coughs, Colds, Congestions, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Skin Diseases, all inflammations, Biliousness, and for sanitary purposes.
Hours:—Gentlemen from 7:30 to 8:30 a.m., and 3 to 9 p.m. Ladies from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. every day. Experienced attendants.

GORRELL,
CRAIG
&
Co.,
LITHOGRAPHERS
13
ADELAIDE ST.
EAST.

FARM FOR SALE.

A very desirable farm for a gentleman's residence, consisting of 31 acres, in the Township of Pickering, County of Ontario, overlooking Frenchman's Bay. A small stream runs through the north west corner. There is of Pears, Plums, Cherries and Apple Trees, covering twelve acres, nine of which are only six years old, just commencing to bear. The soil is as good as can be found in the township, which is equivalent to saying there is none better in the province.

A Capital Orchard

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
REAL ESTATE AG'TS
IMPERIAL BUILDINGS.
Next Post Office, Toronto.

"GRIP"
Job Department

Is Stocked with all the latest Styles and Improvements in
TYPES,
from the American, Canadian and European Foundries, and will be found competent for the execution of all classes of Printing, with
NEATNESS,
CHEAPNESS
DESPATCH.
Office: Imperial Buildings,
(Next Post-Office).

MARBLE CLOCKS

Direct from PARIS.

FINEST GOODS EVER SHOWN IN TORONTO.

W. F. ROSS & CO., 83 KING STREET EAST.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, MARCH 30, 1878.
GRIP OFFICE. } The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; } 5 CTS. EACH.
IMPERIAL BUILDING. } The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool. } $2 PER ANNUM.

CHEAP BOOKS.

FOURTEEN WEEKS IN PHILOSOPHY $1.50 LIVE & LESSONS OF THE PATRIARCHS $1.50.
TORONTO OF OLD $3.00. PREHISTORIC TIMES $2.50.
STUDIES FOR THE PULPIT $2.00. STONES CRYING OUT $1.00.
TYPES AND EMBLEMS 60c. SERMONS BY TALMAGE $1.00.
TEXT BOOKS OF SCIENCE $1.00. COCHRANE'S SERMONS $1.50.
CANADIAN FARMERS' MANUAL $2.00 DOMESTIC WORLD 75 c.

Sent to any address on receipt of price.

BENGOUGH BROS.,
IMPERIAL BUILDINGS, (One door west of Post Office) TORONTO.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach Grip office not later than Wednesday.—Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

$1.50

Will Wash and Rough
Dry 100 Pieces, at the

TORONTO STEAM
LAUNDRY.

Cor. Bay & Wellington.
OFFICE: 65 KING ST. WEST

H. T. ALLSOPP,
DEALER IN
FINE BOOTS AND SHOES.
219 YONGE STREET,
TORONTO.

TO
YOUNG MEN
Wishing to learn
TELEGRAPHING,
A certificate good for
Twenty Dollars,
Will be sold cheap, good for the
TORONTO INSTITUTE.
Address:—
H. GUMMER,
Box. 2662.

TO SPORTSMEN.

A FIRST CLASS
Breech-loading Rifle.
Manufactured by Messon, Worcester, Mass. For Sale very Cheap, the owner having no
use for it.

APPLY AT
GRIP OFFICE

REAL ESTATE.

Persons having Properties to dispose of in City or Country will find it to their advantage to place it in our hands. We have the

BEST STAND IN THE CITY,
and facilities for
ADVERTISING
which cannot be excelled.
BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
NEXT POST OFFICE,
TORONTO.

PENS AND PENHOLDERS.

A JOB LOT
Very Fancy and very Cheap.
AT
GRIP OFFICE.

$2 000 CASH

Will be paid for a nice Detached or Semi-detached House, 8 or 9 Rooms.
BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
Next Post-office.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabest Beast is the Ass : the grabest Bird is the Owl ;
The grabest Fish is the Oyater : the grabest Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, 30TH MARCH, 1878.

JOHN GRANT, New Glasgow, N. S., will hear of something to his advantage by communicating with "GRIP" office.

The Impossibility.

It was an ancient mariner
Was sitting in a boat,
One end upon the rocks had got
The other was afloat.

"I am a knowing mariner,"
He said, "as you may see,
But I'll be blowed if I can tell
The use o' callin' me."

He said unto the captain bold
A sittin' in the stern,
"For all your pretty uniform,
You has a deal to learn,

"For if so be as you'd hailed me
When you sea-room had got,
I might perwail to make some sail,
Whereby I now can not.

"It's precious clear that steerin' here
To Diffikilty Bay,
Guv your last mate the chance to clear
With all the oars away.

"I am an ancient mariner,
As sails upon the sea,
But shiver all my timbers if
A steering course I see."

The Thing to Do.

"My dear," said Mrs. JONES, "they're all doing it."
"I know," said Mr. JONES. "But my father would have thought it so mean. He always said a bankrupt shouldn't be spoken to; if he was left out of jail it was as much as he could hope for."

"Oh, of course," said Mrs. J. "But his opinions are now as much out of date as his high collared, swallow-tailed coat would be."
"I don't know," remarked Mr. JONES, reflectively, "if honesty can get old-fashioned."

"Old-fashioned; it's never seen," screamed Mrs. J. "Haven't heard of it for years, far less noticed any."

"Well; what do you propose?" asked Mr. J.
"Settle half your estate on me, cash, houses, all that sort of thing; that will put you into such difficulty you'll have to fail next year," said the practical Mrs. J.

Then a new phrase developed itself in JONES. He stood bolt upright, and spoke in a tone which, Mrs. JONES afterwards said, chilled all her back-bone. "I'll starve first!" said JONES.

Then Mrs. J., cried and sobbed, and asked what were she and the children to do. "Go to the deuce," said the now tremendous JONES, going out and slamming the door.

"And do you know," said Mrs. J. afterwards to Mrs. B., "I found I had never cared anything for him till that moment."

House Hunting.

BOGGS and JOGGS meet on 'change. "Where do you live?" say BOGGS. "I live on Spadina Ave." says JOGGS. "Where do you hang out?" "Oh on Jarvis St." says BOGGS. "My wife wants to move," says JOGGS. "Mine too," says BOGGS. BOGGS and JOGGS simultaneously, "Supposing we let them do the hunting, women are never satisfied if a fellow picks out the house himself." Result, Mrs. BOGGS and Mrs. JOGGS start out separately and each find a place that suits them, and the BOGGS and JOGGS families move. "Where did you move to?" said BOGGS to JOGGS on 'change. "Oh we moved up on the street you used to live on, No.—" "That's my old rookery," cried BOGGS, "Now we got a real snug place on your street No.—" "That" remarked JOGGS with glee "is the detestible shanty I left."

TABLEAU.—Before a bar—"We take the same and remember the sugar."

The Modern House-Fiend.

To the Editor of GRIP.

SIR.—I write to you for succor in the most deplorable situation to which humanity is liable. I went to rent a house. There was a disagreeable smell about the cellars, which seemed to pervade all the house above. But as it was in a fashionable location, and had a nice looking front, my wife and daughters liked it, and expected that, as the owner told us, the smell would "go off." The yard was a little close affair, letting no sun on the back of the house. But the landlord said this gave in summer a pleasant shade; and as there were bow windows, and big hall and drawing and dining rooms, we took it. I am sorry to say the smell does not go off, and seems likely to send us off instead, for we are all getting sickly, and you cannot cut your finger but what it will form a sore for weeks. Something is wrong with the drains, but I don't know what, and the landlord had certainly gone to the pains of having what are called all the modern conveniences in the house, which it was the old fashion—and I think a deal healthier fashion—to leave outside. Then the "pleasant shade" in the rear keeps the whole house damp, and the city water is not so good as the good well we used to have a little further from the centre of the city. Altogether I don't like it. Then the house is badly built and shrinking, so that I lost my shaving soap to-day through a crack in the floor. What am I to do? Fashion says stay. Health says go. Advise me.

PERPLEXUS.

March 25, 1878.

Perhaps you don't know it,
But a very great poet
Is in the parliament pie.
You can put in your thumb
And pull out a PLUMB,
And say "Oh, what a poet have I."

Signs of Spring.

"Whose turn is it; mine? Well here goes—"
"Why—what—do you go through that hoop for?"
"Well why shouldn't I?"
"You should have gone through the middle arch first, so you've lost your stroke."
"I went through the middle arch last time."
"Oh, ADOLPHUS, you didn't."
"Why EVANGELINE don't you remember I said that—"
"You never never went through the middle arch."
"I tell you I did; I roqueted you—"
"You didn't, you didn't, you know you didn't."
"Oh, I don't care at all about losing the stroke, but I hate to be cheated out—"
"Who's cheating? I never thought, Mr. SMITH, that a gentleman would call a lady a cheat for one miserable game of croquet."
"But you know Miss JONES, I—"
"I have nothing more to say, sir, you may consider our acquaintance at an end."
(The marriage of Mr. SMITH and Miss JONES will not take place in May as was supposed.)

Ye Fruit Agent.

The melancholy days have come,
The maddest of the year,
When the fearful fruit tree man
Beginneth to appear.

He brings a book of pictures rare
Of apple pear and peach.
And many many moments fly
As he describeth each.

He shows that never had fruit man
Such luscious fruits as these,
And then persuades the farmer bold
To buy his cursed trees.

The bill is paid; the trees come on;
And deep will planted be,
But no fruit on their branches slim
Will the farmer ever see.

MORAL.

N.B.—This moral has been secured at a considerable expense and will be given to the readers of the above pathetic ballad without extra cost. Now is the time to subscribe for GRIP. This moral is worth hundreds of dollars to the farming community.

Now listen all ye farmers bold,
Who wish your peace to keep.
Go plant the agents not the trees
And mind you plant them deep.

THE London, England, Times is hard on JOHN A., but the times in Canada just now are harder.

THE JOLY PASS THINGS HAVE COME TO IN QUEBEC.

THE COMING PREMIER OF ONTARIO.

(AFTER WILLIAM HUNT'S CELEBRATED PICTURE.)

The Exile's Lament, or the Roar of Rossa.

(Sung by him with great applause from a select audience of O'Braligans, Finucanes, and other rightful heirs to the Irish monarchy, in his back parlor).

Och, the devil a fut will I ever be settin'
Agin on the Quane's oogle Canady shore.
What relafe did I fale whin away from it gettin'
I was safely inthrenched in my bar-room wance more.

Sure the thratement I met wid is past all repatin'
And has blotched ivermore the Canajian shield,
For they frickend the people from takin' a sate in
The hall, an' xpinis my spache didn't yield.

Yis, an' then, the bist hall, which my agint was kapin'
For myself, an' had ped for av coorse, as I bid,
They reshumed, for the purposhe fresh insults av hapin'
On myself—Rory Oge's discindint—they did!

Thin the country is all populated wid vilyans.
Whin my hearers I jist had cominced to enthrance,
There pours in a vile mob of some thousands av millions,
Full intirdin' to tear us to paces at wance.

An' the panes they desthroyed, an' the sashes they bate in,
('Twas VICTORIA's others, who sint thim the plan),
An' xicpt that in quick time I made a retrate in,
They'd have indid the chafe av the Donovan clan.

Yis, thim!—the rapscallions—the tyrants—the minions,
Base recayers of gold wid enormity foul—
That they'd dare to touch Arin's bould aigle's bright pinions!
It's their impudence shockin' that burthins my sowl.

It's ingratitude, too, that the deepest I'm falin',
Whin I want to enlighten the hirelings av Guilph—
Whin the grate truths av fraydom I plain was revaylin,
An' was tachin them how to resimble myself.

But it wasn't my thrayson that raised such a storrum.
Sure Lord DUFFERIN's a thraytor far dayper than me,
Av I had him in Dublin myself wuld inforrum
Av well ped, an' delight his suspension to see.

No, it wasn't for that; but their invy was waxin'
Ixtrame, for I med the shuperior plan
From the face av the worruld to root out the Saxin,
Wid the power contained in a dynamite can.

But it's little they know what the omin predicted
Whin on landin', like CAYSAR, I fell on their strand.
To my mind the occurrance immayjit depicted,
Like himself, I'm intindid to conquer the land.

But let no wan suppose that I've any intintion
Of ineroachin' on Canady's soil any more,
Till the time I've complate a noble invintion
To destroy thim while floatin' tin miles from their shore.

Oh, thin with what joy shall each soldier of Arin,
On their frontier debonchin like haroes sublime,
From the disimbered corpses, wid heroic darin',
Take the watches and purses in double quick time.

Ah, it's thus a magnifiscent fund we'll be raisin'
For ould Oireland's brave sons, av all nations the crame,
Thin go back to New Yorruk, an' spind it in plaisin',
Divartin, and likewise enrichin' the same.

The Voices.

A voice was heard through the fields of Canada; it rung through Quebec; it resounded over Ontario, it reverberated across the Manitoban plains. It said in thunder tones "Give us protection to our Industries!"

And another Voice was heard—rather cracked—squeaking from the Mail office, and it shrieked, quivered, tintinnabulated, and clattered from every Conservative printing shanty, "Give us Protection to our—" but no one knew whether the last word was Industries or Politicians.

And another sounded in a worn out sort of bass from the Globe, and choked, gurgled, growled, wheezed, and grumbled from every Reform paper-spoiler, "Give Protection to our"—here it hesitated, and a broad Scotch voice added "Pairty," and all the followers repeated the burden.

And still another voice roared from every importing interest in the land, and was caught up, and clamoured, bellowed, argued, pleaded, prayed for, and threatened for, by every member of parliament, railway man, drummer, retailer, middleman, cornerer, monopolist, and newspaper which could be influenced, "Give us Protection to our great Importing Interest, by which our foreign friends who pay us make money out of you!"

And they all screamed together; but among them the first Great Voice was loudest and would not be silenced, and it swelled louder and clearer, while the others dwindled into little tin-trumpet sounds. And the Great Voice would be heard, and was.

Soliloquy of One Obligated by Necessity to go in the Toronto Street Cars.

Oh, dear; Oh, dear; we're off the track!
This whole thing rattles—I must go—
My feet are thrilled—I'm on the rack—
I cannot stay it shakes me so.

Why do I ever set my foot
Within the things, I dread them so.
From feet to head I throb with pain,
This is a thing I should not do.

I start up. Why? Because—Oh dear,
I pull the bell. The noisy rout
Goes on so loud they do not hear—
I cannot stay—I must get out.

A kindly man says—"Never mind,
There is no danger. Do not fear;
'Twill soon be on again you'll find—
You must not go—indeed—stay here."

"Indeed I can't," I say in pain,
"Indeed I can't. Pray ring again."
I inly feel my ears will crack.
That's not the worst; my back, my back.

CONCLUSION.—The recollection of these daily, or rather ten-times-a-daily occurrences, so discomposed me that I could not go on rhyming any longer. In spite of several ringings of the bell the driver lashed on his horses till we were all rattled on to the track again; but even the placid people whose nerves were well packed in solid flesh had got more shaken than they liked.

END.—Can any one discover the reason of such a state of things? Is it owing to the age of the Cars—as some people think? That cannot be: because the new light ones go off as often as the older, heavy ones—nay, rather oftener. It seems to the writer, to be in the power of the drivers either to cause or to prevent this happening; having observed that those who do not use the whip to their horses don't run the car off.

TERMINATION.—Will the Society for the prevention of Cruelty to Animals take us, the passengers in the Street Railway under their protection, as the proprietors expect too much from our Guardian Angels.

Croaks and Becks.

BLAINE is an ass braying at a lion.

TO SITTING BULL.—Please remain sitting.

A FARE TRADE.—The cheap fare to spring traders.

MALI-TREATMENT of the public—removing the duty.

ADVICE TO THE MUD AND BOOK PEDDLERS.—Dry up.

ARE those who support Mr. TARTE in Bonaventure Tarters?

HAIR-RAISING STORIES.—Those from the London hair factory.

INSTEAD of "hire a hall" it will be "Oh, rent a phonograph."

"DOWN THE R(H)INE."—Most of the papers are down on him.

MOST RINE Clubs are like old maids—they want to change their names.

TORONTO is like the prodigal son, it spends its substance in riot-ous living.

THE Irish Canadian forgets that Lord DUFFERIN is an Irish Canadian too.

THE deserted village—St. Thomas, when the R. R. offices are removed.

HOW TO DEAL WITH A RIOT.—Knock its "i" out and it becomes rot at once.

A SEASONABLE SIGN.—"Green Bushes" at Mrs. MORRISON'S Opera House.

JONATHAN dined on the European plan: He took fish for his dinner and now he hates to pay his bill.

THEY like to egg on a Minister at Ottawa, but the Rev. Mr. SYVRET wishes they would not use such ripe eggs.

IF half the accusations against that London torturer HAR-GRAVE, they lift his first syllable and send him to his second.

MR. RINE wants a suspension of judgment. All right—but if the charges are proven the public will want a suspension of RINE.

THEY say O'DONOVAN ROSSA is entitled to the benefit of Canadian law as much as any other man. Certainly he is. Many Canadians would be extremely pleased to see him get the benefit of the extreme penalty of the law.

ROLLER SKATING RINK.

Off Bay St., Opp. Temperance.

As a health agent, Roller Skating has proved itself to be invaluable. Many ladies who have attended the Rink, have been restored to a standard of health and muscular energy such as they had not enjoyed since the palmy days of girlhood. The chilling effect that accompanies ice skating is wholly obviated, and instead of suffering from cold feet, as on ice, the circulation is so thoroughly established in the extremities, as to insure a vigorous circulation and warmth for a couple of days.

ADMISSION: Afternoon, Free, Evening, 10 Cents.

SKATES EXTRA: Ladies, 15c. Gents, 25c.

WANTED!

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN TO LEARN TELEGRAPH operating for offices opening in the Dominion. Send 3 cent stamp for circular. Address MANAGER, Box 955, Toronto

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY
OF CANADA.

NOTICE.

A Pullman car will run daily between Toronto and Ottawa, commencing to-night

JOSEPH HICKSON, General Manager.

March 7, 1878.

J. F. DANTER, M. D.

Homeopathist and Medical Electrician. Office and Pharmacy: 4 Albert Street, (Cor. Yonge) Toronto. Medicine for sale, vials refilled, Letters promptly answered.

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT.

Ottawa, 1st Feb., 1878.

AUTHORIZED DISCOUNT ON
American invoices until further notice, & per cent.

J. JOHNSON,
Commissioner of Customs.

v-6-11

SKIFF WANTED

APPLY AT

"GRIP" OFFICE.

NEATLY, CHEAPLY, QUICKLY.

Grip Job Department.

OFFICE

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS,

(One door west of the Post-office)

Everything in the Printing line from a

LABEL TO A 3-SHEET POSTER

WITH NEATNESS AND DESPATCH.

CARDS.

We are prepared to fill Orders by Mail for Visiting Cards (Finest Bristol, White or Tinted) immediately on receipt of letter, and forward by FIRST MAIL, at the following

RATES:

25 Cards, (one name, one style type),	30 cents.
50 " " " "	50 "
100 " " " "	75 "

MOURNING CARDS:

25 Cards, (one name one style type),	50 cents.
50 " " " "	75 "
100 " " " "	$1.25 "

Memorial Cards:

Beautiful Designs,..... $ 1.00 per dozen.
Samples by mail,..... 5c. each.

Printing addresses on Cards, 10 cents extra for each Order.

THE FOLLOWING ARE

SAMPLES OF TYPE

FROM WHICH A CHOICE MAY BE MADE

1

Robert Taylor.

2

William Richardson.

3

Miss Maggie Thompson.

4

George Augustus Williams.

5

Mrs. Thomas Jones.

6

William Arthur Crawford.

7

Miss Susie Wade.

8

Byron W. Scott.

9

William Shakespeare.

Write your Name and the Number of the Letter you desire plainly, to prevent mistakes.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS,

TORONTO, ONT.

The Grandest Biblical Engraving of the Age.

Have You Received Your Elegant $7.50 New Year's PREMIUM GIFT?

THAT WE GIVE AWAY

TO EVERY SUBSCRIBER OF THIS PAPER?

Consisting of the beautiful and valuable Steel Engraving, entitled

"GOD'S CHOSEN."

Painted by the world-renowned artist, Raphael, and issued in an American Edition, by the AMERICAN ART UNION, at Cincinnati, O., as a premium to our subscribers, free. The German Edition of this Engraving retails at $16.00 per copy.

The picture illustrates the Old and New Christian World, the Marriage of Joseph and Mary, the Temple of God, the City of Jerusalem, the Beginning of the New Christian Era, etc., etc., comprising in all one of the most wonderful, striking, and authentic Biblical Engravings of the Age.

OVER THIRTY-THREE FIGURES ARE REPRESENTED,

The Beautiful Madonna Faces having No Superior in Art.

We have made arrangements with the old and reliable American Art Union, to supply the subscribers of this paper the valuable and appropriate Engraving, entitled, "God's Chosen."

Its Size is over Three Feet Long by Two Feet Wide.

The subject of this Engraving is taken from St. Matthew, chapter 1st., verses 23, 24, and 25. Every subscriber should send for this premium at once.

Subscribers will therefore cut out and send the following premium certificate to the American Art Union, Cincinnati, O., together with 19 cents in currency or postage stamps, to pay simply the postage and packing and mounting charges, so that it can be delivered to you free.

OFFICE OF THE AMERICAN ART UNION, CINCINNATI, O.
We assure all subscribers that this beautiful Steel Engraving, "God's Chosen," contracted for, is first class in every respect, and that our retail price for same is $7.50 per copy. We will in no case retail it at a less price or send it to any one who does not inclose the following premium order, to denote they are a subscriber of this paper, together with 19 cents to pay postage. Address orders to AMERICAN ART UNION, CINCINNATI, O.

Cut Out this Subscribers' Certificate. It is worth $7.50.

SUBSCRIBERS' CERTIFICATE. On receipt of this Subscribers' Certificate, to return to pay for postage, rollers, wrapping, and mounting, we will send the beautiful Engraving three feet long, and two feet wide, entitled,

"GOD'S CHOSEN."

To every subscriber of this paper, by mail, postpaid. Send for Engraving at once, stating name in full, P. O. address, county, and State. Address all orders to AMERICAN ART UNION, CINCINNATI, O.

None but subscribers of this paper will be allowed this New Year's Premium Gift, and all orders must be accompanied with above Subscribers' Certificate, which bears to cut out and send with directions for mailing. Address all orders to AMERICAN ART UNION, CINCINNATI, O.

The Grandest Biblical Engraving of the Age.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE

GRIP is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.

Subscription price, $2 per annum, strictly in advance. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied.

USE ONLY
ONTARIO
BAKING POWDER.

ASK YOUR
Grocer for it.

THE TORONTO
TURKISH BATHS
233 Queen St. West.
THE ONLY TURKISH BATHS IN
THE CITY.

These baths are useful in Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Coughs, Colds, Congestions, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Skin Diseases, all inflammations, Biliousness, and for sanitary purposes.

Hours:—Gentlemen from 7:30 to 8:30 a.m., and 3 to 9 p.m. Ladies from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. every day. Experienced attendants.

GORRELL,
CRAIG
&
Co.,
LITHOGRAPHERS
13
ADELAIDE ST.
EAST.

FARM FOR SALE.

A very desirable farm for a gentleman's residence, consisting of 31 acres, in the Township of Pickering, County of Ontario, overlooking Frenchman's Bay. A small stream runs through the north west corner. There is of Pears, Plums, Cherry and Apple Trees, covering twelve acres, nine of which are only six years old, just commencing to bear. The soil is as good as can be found in the township, which is equivalent to saying there is none better in the province.

A Capital Orchard

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
REAL ESTATE AGTS
IMPERIAL BUILDINGS.
Next Post Office, Toronto.

"GRIP"
Job Department

Is Stocked with all the latest Styles and Improvements in TYPES.

from the American, Canadian and European foundries, and will be found competent for the execution of all classes of Printing, with

NEATNESS,

CHEAPNESS

DESPATCH.

Office: Imperial Buildings,
(NEXT POST-OFFICE).

MARBLE CLOCKS

Direct from PARIS.

FINEST GOODS EVER SHOWN IN TORONTO.

W. F. ROSS & CO., 83 KING STREET EAST.

[TRADE MARK REGISTERED]

Stanton & Vicars.
PHOTOGRAPHERS,
47, 49 & 51 King St. West.

CAUTION.

Before purchasing your spring shirts, get our prices, our Shirts please everybody our trade this season is far ahead of last. If you want a good shirt at a low price try sample one. Send for circular to A. White, late White & Sharpe 65 King Street West.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, APRIL 13, 1878.

GRIP OFFICE.
IMPERIAL BUILDING.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

5 CTS. EACH.
$2 PER ANNUM.

CHEAP BOOKS.

FOURTEEN WEEKS IN PHILOSOPHY $1.50
LIVES & LESSONS OF THE PATRIARCHS $1.50
TORONTO OF OLD $3.00
PREHISTORIC TIMES $2.50
STUDIES FOR THE PULPIT $2.00
STONES CRYING OUT $1.00
TYPES AND EMBLEMS 60c
SERMONS BY TALMAGE $1.00
TEXT BOOKS OF SCIENCE $1.00
COCHRANE'S SERMONS $1.50
CANADIAN FARMERS' MANUAL $2.00
DOMESTIC WORLD 75 c.

Sent to any address on receipt of price.

BENGOUGH BROS.,
IMPERIAL BUILDINGS, (One door west of Post Office) TORONTO.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach GRIP office not later than Wednesday.—Articles and Literary Correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

$1.50

Will Wash and Rough
Dry 100 Pieces, at the

TORONTO STEAM
LAUNDRY.

Cor. Bay & Wellington.

OFFICE: 65 KING ST. WEST

H. T. ALLSOPP,

DEALER IN

FINE BOOTS AND SHOES.

219 YONGE STREET,

TORONTO.

TO
YOUNG MEN
Wishing to learn
TELEGRAPHING,
A certificate good for
Twenty Dollars,

Will be sold cheap, good for the
TORONTO INSTITUTE.

Address:—
H. GUMMER,
Box, 2662.

TO SPORTSMEN.

A FIRST CLASS

Breech-loading Rifle.

Manufactured by Messon, Worcester, Mass. For Sale very Cheap, the owner having no use for it.

APPLY AT
GRIP OFFICE.

REAL ESTATE

Persons having Properties to dispose of in City or Country will find it to their advantage to place it in our hands. We have the

BEST STAND IN THE CITY,
and facilities for
ADVERTISING
which cannot be excelled.
BENGOUGH & MUSSEN.
NEXT POST OFFICE,
TORONTO.

PENS AND PENHOLDERS.

A JOB LOT

Very Fancy and very Cheap.

AT

GRIP OFFICE.

$2 000 CASH

Will be paid for a nice Detached or Semi-detached House, 8 or 9 Rooms.

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
Next Post-office.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabest Beast is the Ass; the grabest Bird is the Owl;
The grabest Fish is the Oyster; the grabest Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, 13TH APRIL, 1878.

Mr. Mitchell on the Cow.

MISTHER SPAKER, it is myself wud be sayin' that there is gross evil in these parts connected wid the railway. It has been brought to me notice Mr. Spaker, that the buzzums av me constituents have been lacerated in their tenderest pints. Their very livin' is desthroyed and their manes of comfortable and plazin existence denied them. Government, Sir, Government has done this dade. Yis, the minnions av power have been let loose on me humble constituents and have desholated their noblest affections. Yis. Their cows—their cows! I repate it, sur, in a voice av thunder, their COWS! Calm, confidint, and pafeul, the four-legged friends av me humble constituents wandther through the plisint glade. What is it shalutes their ears? What causes their unsuspectin' harruts to trumble? Is it the universal shudderin' of the earth knowin' the deed av darkness about to be perpehratid? The ground shakes, the atmosphere is filled wid the fire and stame concocted by our apology for a government, the horrid many wheeled monster of their wickedness rowls by on the track! What a shrake was there! Terrible to witness whin those unsuspectin' forrums were dashed to paces and imbrued wid gore. Mr. SPAKER, it call for vingeance. Vingeance, black and dreadful, should be poured on the heads of the perpehrators. The loud reprobations of an indignant country shall foriver ring in their polluted ears. They put up a notish—the gentleman says they put up a notish! Is it—I ask it in the face of all this respectable asssembly, is it expicted that the lasht dhop av tyranny shall be expinded on my unfortunate constituents, and that they shall be compelled to give their cows a boardin' school edication? I cannot belave it. No such measure—aquil to the murderin' aydicts av Caligula and the Mejians, can be contimplated. No, Sir, I take pleasure in holdin' up the creators and concoctors av the superhuman outrage to the general reprobation av the worruld; humanity shall cry shame upon them, and the univarsal vardict of indignant posterity shall iverlastingly reshound to the heights av the eternal rocks agin them, now and foriver more—in secula seculorum—av they don't pay the value av the baste!

Sensational Journalism.

Enter Editor of sensational paper (to Sub-editor) Anything stirring?

SUB-E.—Oh, don't know; nothing to make a fuss about. WILD IRISH, Esq., is to lecture here on the 17th.

EDITOR.—Splendid. Great sensation (writes editorial):—

"MOST INJUDICIOUS.

"We hear it is contemplated to allow the celebrated WILD IRISH—well known for his dynamite propensities—to lecture here on the 17th. It is to be much regretted that this step"—et cetera et cetera for days together.

(Next day) EDITOR (to Sub-E).—How do they like that?

SUB-E.—Oh, that has roused them. Here's a batch of letters.

EDITOR.—All right. Print 'em. (Letters appear as follows):—

To the Editor Sensational.

Sir.—I hope the intimation in your columns that that person called WILD IRISH is to lecture on the 17th, is not correct. The city authorities should interfere. No hall should be rented to him in this city. As a Briton I protest against this city being made—&c., &c., &c.

To the Editor Sensational.

Sir.—I think the best way will be to take no notice of the fellow. His vile and infamous career—&c., &c., &c.

To Editor Sensational.

Sir.—The right of free speech must be vindicated. As long as he says nothing treasonable, WILD IRISH is as deserving of—&c., &c., &c.,

(Next day) EDITOR.—How is it going?

SUB-E.—Oh, I tell you, the Sensational is waking them up. Takes it to make things fly. Selling like hot cakes!

EDITOR.—All right. (Writes article):—

"IGNORE HIM.

"Would it not be much the best way to let him say what he has to say, and take no notice? His empty clack cannot hurt us. Perhaps a mild intimation might well be forwarded to him, but really the matter is"—&c., &c., &c.,

(Next day).

"TROUBLE ANTICIPATED.

"If those ill advised persons who engaged the hall for this fanatic individual are possessed of such determination as to carry out their plan, we fear there will be"—&c., &c., &c.,

EDITOR.—How do they take to-day?

SUB-E.—First rate. People believe there is to be a riot, and all want to hear about it. Lots mean to go and see it.

More letters on each side appear. Great talk is indulged in editorially and correspondentially; everybody thinks there will be a fuss, as thousands who but for the newspapers would never have heard a word of it, mean to go and see the fun. The speaker comes. His coming is described in big type and all the incidents noticed as if he were an Emperor or something. Everybody is told where he is going to speak, and if the reporter could find out, would have told what he had for breakfast. The night arrives. Thousands are on the streets, and their presence emboldens all roughs into the idea that something awful is to happen. They make something happen. The police are stoned, many men injured, property destroyed; a precedent is created for plenty of future rows which will some day have to be quelled with ball-cartridge; a tremendously sensational account of the affair appears in the papers, and the papers, which have made a very considerable amount of money by their increased sales, resulting from the publicity given and comments made on an occurrence which but for them would scarce have excited any comment at all, moralize on the whole business in the most innocent manner, and publish long articles wondering where, after all, the blame really rests, and who ought to be punished for the fuss. GRIP could tell them.

The Russian Difficulty.

ALEXANDER.—I'll stay in Turkey, where I mean to smash The British—

PRIME MINISTER.—If you could but get the cash.

ALEX.—Slave; but I say I will. My hurricane Of troops shall sweep them like the peeled rind Before the tempest—

P. M.—Who's to raise the wind?

ALEX.—Sir, when I say I'll do a thing I will.

P. M.—I wish you'd say then that you'll foot the bill.

ALEX.—You talk of money—something strikes me—say,

To Paris telegraph, and say we'll pay

A thumping interest.

P. M.—I've done it, Sir,

They say they should something more require, As for your "thumping" interest, they know Your grandfather paid them exactly so.

When he to Paris came with the Allies,

But they did not quite like it. The replies

Are thus—If you intend to go to war, Sir,

With Britain, why, they want a good endorser.

ALEX.—Why not, ask Prussia, she will not object.

P. M.—Your Majesty, she sends her deep respect,

But old King WILLIAM pious is and good,

You know, and BISMARCK is afraid he would Consider it unchristian and so on

To aid such strife—

ALEX.—The canting fool. Begone!

Austria will do it.

P. M.—No, your Majesty

She rather wants from you security.

ALEX.—Well, Italy?

P. M.—She's on the other side.

ALEX.—The States?

P. M.—They say the distance is too wide

And WASHINGTON has told them still to be

Free from what's called entangling policy.

ALEX.—France won't.

P. M.—There isn't any country more

The fact is that, though it we may deplore,

In Britain lies the cash, which wrong or right,

Is borrowed by us nations when we fight,

She will not lend it now.

ALEX.—Not likely. Then

No matter what my force of fighting men,

I cannot use them. Can't we money get?

P. M.—I must confess I see no method yet.

ALEX.—The game is up. We've beaten, and we're beat.

Go tell them that in Congress we will treat,

An English rascal once, called SHAKESPEARE, said

By poverty, and not by will, we're led.

SARCASTIC.—Office devil (running into composing room):—"Give me the paste for the boss, he wants to write some editorial."

THE FARMER'S FRIEND.

HON. PETER M.—I.L.—“That notice is all well enough, but COULD A COW READ?!”

HON. ALEX.—“Let's take a horn, and say no more about it.”

The Modern Tar.

Go patter to lubbers and swabs, d'ye see,
About danger and fear and the like,
But a two feet of steel and teak backing give me
And on that let their cannon balls strike.

I've heard of some sailors in NELSON's old days
As wanted their foe for to see,
But splinter my plates, in our seafarin' ways
We don't never get wisdom of he.

Snug and tight and shipshape and all rivetted round,
And in under the deep water-mark,
That's the place where blue jackets are now-a-days found,
All closed hup like the beasts in the hark.

But shiver my girders, he musn't suppose,
As Britannia is taken aback.
With our big hundred tonner if we for him goes
Why we blows him sky high in a crack.

For the cap'en above at his winder, you know,
Like hold NOER when he went to sea,
Wires down "Hearts of steel in the coal hole below,
Fire a gun off, three pints N. N. E.

And smash my compartments, the compass we takes,
And we pulls at the galvanic line,
And bang—blow my pudding, but heverthing shakes,
But wot's hit is no business o' mine.

But if we has luck in the haction, and licks,
We don't cheer as we did long ago,
For the cap'en must tell us, or helse in our fix,
Snap my shaft, if we hever would know.

But crack all my screw-rods, what sort of a cheer
Could be heard through a three feet o' steel,
So we don't hepend breath; but the 'ed engineer,
Why, he may make the biler to squeal.

But I'm blest if the houtlook's all pleasin' and safe—
For torpeders may take us aback,
But the cap'en sits up in the turret aloft,
To keep watch they don't blow up poor JACK.

A Continued Conversation.

"But," said Mr. JONES, theatrically, taking a striking attitude in the middle of the floor, "what shall we do?"

"Is business very bad?" asked Mrs. JONES, winding up her gold watch.

"Not a customer for a week!" answered her lord, dolefully, "Yes," he added, with a brightening glance, "there was. A girl came for a row of pins."

"Did she buy 'em?" asked the lady.

"No," replied JONES, gloomily. "She said next door, bankrupt stock, she could get two rows for a cent."

"Well, well," said Mrs. J., "things must change. Next week there may be two, and next week more. Things must mend when they're at the worst."

"Bless me!" jerked in the aroused JONES, hitting his cane sharply on the top of a carved chair, "do you know that there are bills due next week?"

"There's the milk bill," placidly said Mrs. J., "And the butcher would like a settlement, as he told me when he asked what I'd like for to-day."

"Nonsense!" jerked out Mr. J. "Bills! I mean $3,000 due on Friday."

"My poor papa," said the lady, "used always to renew such things."

"I wish I had him here; it is beyond me," said JONES, dropping flop on the cat, as it happened, which escaped with a screech which actually roused Mrs. JONES into animation.

"Goodness!" cried she, "if the thing is really of consequence—"

"Consequence! ma'am," screamed Mr. J., lifting his head suddenly, "Fact is; don't know if it is of consequence in your opinion or not, but if you haven't got the $3,000 we'll be sold out, and you may take in washing, for I'm about played."

"Can't you speculate?" asked Mrs. J., earnestly, the possibilities suddenly developing themselves in alarmingly washtubbian form.

"On what?" asked J.

"Build houses and borrow money on them? folks do it," said the lady.

"Too many did it in Toronto," said JONES.

"Give lectures," said Mrs. JONES.

"Last three in Toronto had doorkeepers for audiences," said JONES. "Go as a clerk," said the lady, "You were one once."

"Three hundred applicants for the last situation advertised," said Jones. "Don't see anything; can't even saw wood; everyone uses coal."

"Nonsense," said Mrs. J. "Start a newspaper."

"Don't understand it," said JONES.

"If you did you'd fail," said the lady. "I know all about it; pa started three. The secret of success is never to write anything; steal all the good things out of other papers; spend all your time looking for advertisements. Sell out before you're found out, and begin again. Lots of folks do it."

"I'll think of it," said JONES.

Spring.I.

Come gentle spring, ethereal mildness, come,
And then we needn't keep so much to hum.

II.

Waft all thy balmy zephyrs through the air,
And tempt us out to catch diptheria there.

III.

The ice dissolves at thy reviving ray
Before we've scarcely put a bit away.

IV.

How thy moist showers bedew the thirsty trees,
And if we're there we all begin to sneeze.

V.

See through their realm the finny tenants play,
And JOHNNY, fishing's nearly drowned to-day.

VI.

How gloriously the sunbeams all downpour,
Which makes the dunghills smell worse than before.

VII.

Now bud the plants in thousand gardens set,
And we shall garden stuffs and colics get.

VIII.

Now taste our youth of open air the joys,
Each street is horrid with the children's noise.

IX.

To pasture on the grass the cows can stray
And milk won't keep much more than half a day.

X.

All things of pleasure and displeasure bring,
These are the pleasures and the woes of spring.

Give us a Rest.

To the Editor of GRIP.

SIR.—I am a persecuted mortal, delivered over to fiends. These fiends are diminutive. I believe they are sometimes called boys. Thirteen hundred and seventy-five live in my neighbourhood, and there is a family with seven moving in across the road. Sir, I cannot go down the street but I must risk a feu d'enfer of stones they are always throwing from things they call catapults. My servant girl has a pain in both ankles from coming perpetually to answer their runaway knocks. They chalk caricatures on my front wall, and break down my shade trees in the street. They swing on my post chains. They play continual peg top and marbles on the sidewalk; they creep under it, and at any moment if not careful, you may step on small boys which strew themselves about in all directions. They play bat and ball, and when your window is smashed the boy you catch always tells you it was the other one, whose residence he don't know. I want to know if they can not be abolished. In China when little, they throw them away. But probably a China boy would break up when thrown away, while ours would make more noise than ever. I do not know what to propose. Perhaps if a Reformatory were established at the North Pole or somewhere for all boys till full grown, or if no boy were allowed without a collar and tag, otherwise to be scooped up by the dog-carts. Something should be done.

Yours,

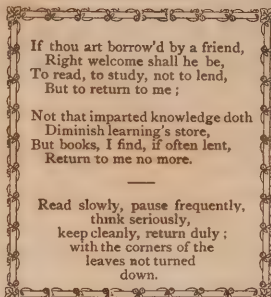

ANTI-PUER.

Toronto, April 10, 1878.

I FEEL CAPITAL—as the tramp said when he held five coppers in his hand.

WANTED!

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN TO LEARN TELEgraph operating for offices opening in the Dominion.
Send 3 cent stamp for circular. Address MANAGER,
Box 955, Toronto

COPIES OF ABOVE

May be had at GRIP Office, or sent free of Postage,
at 25 cents per dozen, or $1.00 per hundred.

TO PHONOGRAPHERS!

Just to hand a full Stock of ISAAC PITMAN'S
Text Books.

Compend of Phonography,	5 cts.
Exercises in Phonography,	5
Grammologies and Contractions,	10
Questions on Manual,	15
Selections in Reporting Style,	20
Teacher,	20
Key to Teacher,	20
Reader,	20
Manual,	50
Reporter,	75
Reporting Exercises,	20
Phrase Book,	30
Covers for holding Note Book,	20
The Reporter's Guide, by Thos. Allan Reid	60

Sent post-paid to any address on receipt of price.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

Next Post Office, Toronto.

J. F. DANTER, M. D.

Homeopathist and Medical Electrician. Office and Pharmacy: 4 Albert Street, (Cor. Yonge) Toronto. Medicine for sale, vials refilled, Letters promptly answered.

CHEAP READING.

Having entered into arrangements with the Publishers
we are now prepared to supply

SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY	and "GRIP,"	$ 5.00.
ST. NICHOLAS	and "GRIP,"	4.00.
DETROIT FREE PRESS	and "GRIP,"	3.50

BENGOUGH BROS.,
TORONTO.

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT.

Ottawa, 1st Feb., 1878.

AUTHORIZED DISCOUNT ON American invoices until further notice, 2 pe cent.

v-6-tf

WANTED.

5 cents each will be paid for the following
BACK NUMBERS OF "GRIP."

VOL. 2.	Nos. 2, 16, 23.
" 3.	" 7, 9, 17, 20, 21, 23.
" 4.	" 1, 2, 4, 5, 6.
" 5.	" 5, 7, 17, 19, 21, 26.
" 6.	" 6, 7, 9, 13, 25.
" 7.	" 4, 12, 20, 21.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

TORONTO.

SKIFF WANTED

APPLY AT
"GRIP" OFFICE.

NEATLY, CHEAPLY, QUICKLY.

Grip Job Department.

Everything in the Printing line from a

Label to a Three-Sheet Poster,
WITH NEATNESS AND DESPATCH.

We are prepared to fill Orders by Mail for Visiting Cards (Finest Bristol, White or Tinted) immediately on receipt of letter, and forward by FIRST MAIL, at the following rates:

25 Cards, (one name, one style type),	30 cents.
50 " " " "	50 "
100 " " " "	75 "

The following are Samples of Type from which a choice may be made.

1

Robert Taylor.

2

William Richardson.

3

Miss Maggie Thompson.

4

George Augustus Williams.

5

Mrs. Thomas Jones.

6

William Arthur Crawford.

7

Miss Susie Wade.

8

Byron W. Scott.

9

William Shakespeare.

Chromo Cards:
(Five Beautiful Pictures)

100 Cards, (one name, one style type)	$1 50.
50 " " " "	1.00.
25 " " " "	75.

Mourning Cards:

25 Cards, (one name one style type),	50 cents.
50 " " " "	75 "
100 " " " "	$1.25 "

Memorial Cards:

Beautiful Designs,	$ 1.00 per dozen.
Samples by mail,	5c. each.
Printing addresses on Cards, 10 cents extra for each Order.

Write your Name and the Number of the Letter you desire plainly, to prevent mistakes.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

Imperial Buildings, (Next Post Office), Toronto.

WARRANTED WATCHES ONLY $4 EACH.

$12 WATCHES

For Only $4 Each.

A BANKRUPT STOCK OF WATCHES,
Warranted for One Year.

This bankrupt stock must be closed out in 90 days. The former price of these Watches was $12.00 each. They are silvered case and open face, all one style, and of French manufacture, the movements of which being well known the world over for their fine finish. They are used on railroads and steamboats, where accurate time is required, and give good satisfaction. Think of it, a $12.00 Watch for only $1.00, and warranted one year for time.

CINCINNATI, O., May 21, 1877.

The Walters Importing Co. is an old established and very reliable house, and we cheerfully recommend them.

After the closure of sale of this bankrupt stock of watches, which will continue 90 days from date of this paper, no order will be filled at less than $12.00 each; so please send your order at once. With each Watch we furnish our special warrant for one year for accurate time. We will forward the Watch promptly to any part of the British Provinces free of duty on receipt of $1.00, or will send C.O.D. if customers desire and remit $1.00 on account.

Address all orders to Walters Importing Co.,
180 ELM STREET CINCINNATI, O.

BE TO WATCH SPECULATORS: We call particular attention to these Watches, as they sell readily at from $12.00 to $20.00 each.

WARRANTED WATCHES ONLY $4 EACH.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE

GRIP is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.

Subscription price, $2 per annum, strictly in advance. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied.

USE ONLY
ONTARIO
BAKING POWDER.

ASK YOUR
Grocer for it.

THE TORONTO
TURKISH BATHS
233 Queen St. West.
THE ONLY TURKISH BATHS IN
THE CITY.

These baths are useful in Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Coughs, Colds, Congestions, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Skin Diseases, all inflammations, Biliousness, and for sanitary purposes.

Hours:—Gentlemen from 7:30 to 8:30 a.m., and 3 to 9 p.m. Ladies from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. every day. Experienced attendants.

GORRELL,
CRAIG
&
Co.,
LITHOGRAPHERS
13
ADELAIDE ST.
EAST.

FARM FOR SALE.

A very desirable farm for a gentleman's residence, consisting of 31 acres, in the Township of Pickering, County of Ontario, overlooking Frenchman's Bay. A small stream runs through the north west corner. There is

A Capital Orchard
of Pears, Plums, Cherry and Apple Trees, covering twelve acres, nine of which are only six years old, just commencing to bear. The soil is as good as can be found in the township, which is equivalent to saying there is none better in the province.

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,
REAL ESTATE AG'TS
IMPERIAL BUILDINGS.

Next Post Office, Toronto.

"GRIP"
Job Department

Is Stocked with all the latest Styles and Improvements in
TYPES.

from the American, Canadian and European foundries, and will be found competent for the execution of all classes of Printing, with

NEATNESS,
CHEAPNESS
DESPATCH.

Office: Imperial Buildings,
NEXT POST-OFFICE.

CAKES & CONFECTIONERY.

Get your CAKES and PASTRY at

H. GUMMER'S NEW BAKERY,

84 Queen Street West.

[TRADE MARK REGISTERED]

CAUTION.

Before purchasing your spring shirts, get our prices, our Shirts please everybody our trade this season is far ahead of last. If you want a good shirt at a low price try sample one. Send for circular to A. White, late White & Sharpe 65 King Street West.

Stanton & Vicars.

PHOTOGRAPHERS,
47, 49 & 51 King St. West.

VOL. X.
No. 24.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, MAY 4, 1878.

GRIP OFFICE,
IMPERIAL BUILDING.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Foul.

5 CTS. EACH.
$2 PER ANNUM.

CHEAP BOOKS.

FOURTEEN WEEKS IN PHILOSOPHY $1.50 LIVE & LESSONS OF THE PATRIARCHS $1.50.
TORONTO OF OLD $3.00. PREHISTORIC TIMES $2.50.
STUDIES FOR THE PULPIT $2.00. STONES CRYING OUT $1.00.
TYPES AND EMBLEMS 60c. SERMONS BY TALMAGE $1.00.
TEXT BOOKS OF SCIENCE $1.00. COCHRANE'S SERMONS $1.50.
CANADIAN FARMERS' MANUAL $2.00 DOMESTIC WORLD 75 c.
Sent to any address on receipt of price.

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS. (One door west of Post Office) TORONTO.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach GRIP office not later than Wednesday.—Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

$1.50

Will Wash and Rough
Dry 100 Pieces, at the

TORONTO STEAM
LAUNDRY.

Cor. Bay & Wellington.

OFFICE: 65 King St. West

H. T. ALLSOPP,

DEALER IN

FINE BOOTS AND SHOES.

219 YONGE STREET,

TORONTO.

TO
YOUNG MEN

Wishing to learn

TELEGRAPHING,

A certificate good for

Twenty Dollars,

Will be sold cheap, good for the
TORONTO INSTITUTE.

Address:—

H. GUMMER,

Box, 2662.

TO SPORTSMEN.

A FIRST CLASS

Breech-loading Rifle.

Manufactured by Messon, Worcester, Mass. For Sale very Cheap, the owner having no use for it.

APPLY AT

GRIP OFFICE.

REAL ESTATE.

Persons having Properties to dispose of in City or County will find it to their advantage to place it in our hands. We have the

BEST STAND IN THE CITY,

and facilities for

ADVERTISING

which cannot be excelled.

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,

NEXT POST OFFICE.

TORONTO.

PENS AND PENHOLDERS.

A JOB LOT

Very Fancy and very Cheap.

AT

GRIP OFFICE.

$2 000 CASH

Will be paid for a nice Detached or Semi-detached House, 8 or 9 Rooms.

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,

Next Post-office.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabeſt Beaſt is the Aſs ; the grabeſt Bird is the Owl ;
The grabeſt Fiſh is the Oyſter ; the grabeſt Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, 4TH MAY, 1878.

The Female Righter.

I am a Female Righter, and
If you will liſt to me,
I ſoon ſhall make you underſtand,
What ſort of rights they be.

I want upon the lounge to ſleep,
Or read, or take my eaſe ;
And want the right my houſe to keep
As dirty as I pleaſe.

I want the right the meat to roaſt,
Quite the reverſe of well ;
And want the right to make the toaſt,
Full indigeſtible.

I want the right mid linen white,
To mix the ruſt-ſpots red ;
And want the right on every night
To find bugs in the bed.

I want the right to let each child
Do juſt as it ſhall pleaſe,
Till not a ſoul—they've got ſo wild—
Can get a minute's eaſe.

I want the right to make the man,
Who choſe to marry me,
Buy twice for me what buy he can,
Or live in miſery.

I want the right my walks to take,
In ſilk and ſatin gay,
And tell my huſband he can break,
If that he cannot pay.

I want the right to make a ſpeech,
Before a yelling crowd,
And high upon a platform ſcreech
And obſcure aloud.

I want the franchise of the land
Which now the men have got,
To vote on all I underſtand
And all that I do not.

These are the rights of woman, and
You'd beſt oppoſe them not,
Or when we get the upper hand,
We'll teach you what is what.

The Melancholy Citizen.

It happened to GRIP that he walked abroad, and ſaw a melancholy man, who walked with head bent down. And GRIP ſaw that his clothes were ragged. Now GRIP, whoſe heart ever is exceedingly tender towards the mournful, ſaid thus unto the man :—
“What aileth thee?”

Then the man ſaid “I am a citizen of Toronto, and for many years I ſaved up money, and acquired ten thouſand dollars, and built houſes with the ſame. And it has come to paſs that I rented the ſame, and lived on the rents, I and my wife, and my children. And I am now weak and unable to work, and have nothing but my rents to ſupport them. And it has been that evil Councils have taxed us very heavily. And alſo certain of my houſes be unrented, owing to hard times, and the reſt do barely pay the taxes now. So that I have nothing to eat, I and thoſe who be with me. Moreover, they are yearly borrowing more money, ſo that all my poſſeſſions will be ſold for to pay the ſame. And I know not what to do.”

“Now ſurely,” ſaid GRIP, “I will ſtraightway utterly deſtroy that wicked Council, and alſo make an end of the ſame.” And he picked up a paving ſtone weighing a ton.

But the man ſaid “Do not ſo, for there never has been a Council gone out of late years but a worſe has been elected.”
So the ſorrowful man went away.

Doctors verſus Undertakers.

To the Editor of GRIP,

SIR :—I am an undertaker's man. I think myſelf underpaid—that is, I think other people overpaid—that is, I think I ought to get more. Sir, take the caſe of doctors. Of courſe, it is well underſtood that in point of education and ſtanding there is no comparison ; but the public do not ſeem fully aware of it, and actually, I think, put us in a lower grade. But what are the facts? What could they do without us? Why, when a man dies by accident, and they hold a poſt mortem, what do they do? Why, return a ſtatement that his air-paſſages were wrong, when it was really the caſe that he had broken his back. Well, of courſe it is underſtood that we will ſee to the matter when we go to bury the body, find out at once what was the trouble, and tell the doctors if they are wrong. We do it, of courſe ; explain to the learned faculty that the man's back was broken, and they hold another poſt mortem or conſultation or diſcuſſion or whatever they like to call it, and ſend in the proper ſtatement. This is all correct, and under our ſuperviſion no doubt things get along very well, and the real cauſe of death is aſcertained, which is the deſideratum required. But what we wiſh is our proper ſtatus. It is very evident to any one who are the true men of learning. The faculty are good friends of ours ; in fact we ſhould not have near ſo much to do without them ; but there is an order of things, and it ſhould be underſtood, and we given precedence accordingly.

Yours,

Toronto, May 1st, 1878.

PETER PLANTER.

The Howly Gate.

Saint PETHER he ſat at the howly gate,
An the avenin was gittin remarkable late,
An himſelf was in amazement grate,
For niver a man kem in.

Niver a Rooſhian nor Turk at all
Nor a Britiſh ſubject grate nor ſhall.
Niver a wan on the Saint wud call,
Nor inthrance thry to win.

An' the Saint he wint an he ſat widin,
An' his pipe he ſmoked beyant the din ?
An priſtiny wan av the howly min
Kem up to have a chat.

An 'himſelf explained to the Saint the thing,
An' towld why time had ſayſed to bring
A ſowl to make the knocker ring
Or pull at the bell or that.

“On the half is tightin', ſurr, you know,
And dyin' ſo why av coorſe they go
To the gentleman who kapes below
His houſe to inthertain.

“An the half is fightin about their ſects,
Orange and Green, and none expects
That they their coorſe this way directs,
Till they from ſich refrain.

“And the reſt has got the full belafe
That works is dead, and faith is chafe,
Which is worſe than the impinent thaſe ;
So our doorway's left clane.”

The Attic Sage.

Removed from men beneath a denizen within an attic I
Whoſe roof upon, as night goes on, great cats continually cry,
Unmoved with ſtove coal by me thrown, which ſmaſhes windows far below,
Or through the ſky that rapidly at them my worn out ſlippers go.

I ſit and think, as from the brink of window ſill I high ſurvey,
All thoſe below who come and go with rapid ruſh the livelong day,
While evermore doth ſkyward ſoar from Turkiſh pipe the odour ſtrong.
And evermore doth ſteady pour beneath the motley crowd along.

My years alſo they come and go, as do the crowd along the ſtreet.
The winter keen, the verdure green, they paſs as ſteady and as fleet.
And I a boy who once with joy obſerved from here the crowd go by,
Now old and grey, in different way regard their movement with a ſigh.

But eve has rolled his darkening fold acroſs the pageant, and I ſee
The perſon paſs who lights the gas, who noddeth on obſerving me, Behind him ſhine, in brilliant line, the lamps his coming courſe which tell,
Alas, each year of mine, I fear, glows not ſo brightly nor ſo well.

The Sanctum Unveiled.

AS IT SEEMS IT MUST BE.

(ENTER furious "Globe" manager gnashing his teeth. He roars for Editor, who approaches trembling.)

MANAGER.—Fellow, instantly write me an article saying that the Protectionists want to place a tariff on coal, and that the poor workman, who uses four tons yearly, will be charged three dollars therefor. Write, I say!

EDITOR (shivering).—But, Sir, the fact is they only want a tariff on the bituminous coal, such as Nova Scotia has. The workman uses hard coal. What is proposed to be placed under tariff is soft coal, which not the workman but the factories, use.

MANAGER.—Wretch, dare to argue, and I telegraph for a new editor! Write it, I say. What does the workman know? Write! Fiends! Furies! Brimstone! Sulphur! Destruction! Write!

(Editor rushes to write, and the above extraordinary statement appears in this week's GLOBE).

Letter From a Practitioner.

To the Editor of GRIP.

SIR.—I understand that the vulgar object to the faculty returning statements to the effect that the cause of death was the air-passages when the back bone or spine of the moribund was fractured. Sir, this is a gross mistake of the unlettered. The true cause of all deaths—the deprivatio vite, or we may say in the Greek, the factigumbus malabobus—in all cases, is the absence of air, or in other words, the want, or lack, or absence, or non-presence, of breath. We die for want of breath—of air. Then there is something the matter with our air-passages. This is the case, even if, instead of an ordinary fracture of the spine, we are broken on a wheel, in which case all the bones are fractured. Nevertheless, the true cause of death is the air-passages—the want of breath.

I cannot, therefore, sufficiently deprecate the clamour roused against the faculty in this case. Why, people actually say that, if brought to us with a fractured bone and unable to speak, we might doctor them for their air passages, and kill them. Nonsense. I assure them and all such untaught persons that even if we did, we should not kill them a bit quicker than we generally do. Fudge!

Yours,

DIPLOMAS LICENTIUS.

Toronto, May 1, 1878.

Notice.

MANAGERS of the Conservative Party are hereby notified to conduct their correspondence hereafter by postal card, and thus save the postmasters the time and trouble of opening their letters.

The Politicians.

1ST POLITICIAN.—But you see I have my friends to attend to.

2ND POLITICIAN.—Who are they?

1ST P.—Why, our side is simply composed of free traders.

2ND P.—Well, why are you free traders? Is it to help importers?

1ST P.—No, not at all. We are as well aware that they are ruining the country as any one—even as the most pronounced protectionist.

2ND P.—Well, why do you back them up? There is not a day but your organ is yelling free trade.

1ST P.—My dear sir, we know what is wrong as well as you. But the fact is, we believe the majority of the farmers are fools enough to believe in free trade, and will keep us in office if we shout for it. Free trade is doing the country great harm; but then $7,000 a year does us much good. (Exit with finger to nose).

The True Canadian Idea.

To the Editor of GRIP.

SIR.—Hearun as you manage Governmint buzziness, I wants to ax you whether this wunt work?

We be the Township of Toozle, and we don't zee why we shouldn't have a Parlymint. We could fix un up fine. There be here a lot of pine we could zell to speculators and zum Crown Lands as would keep a good Parlymint gown for five year or more. There be me and my six sons, and cousin ZEPHANIAH and his three boys, and JIM JONES and his seven brothers. We could get most of us elected, or for that matter we could all elect one another, for there is very few more here in the township. It would pay I very well, for they would make me Prime Minister sartin, and if the pine and land gin out I might raise a loan in Lunnnon.

Yours truly,

HIRAM HIAFDIST.

P.S.—Of course there is nothin' to do. But there would be salary to dror, and we cud always make a good debate on Orange Bills or summat. That is all they do in Toronto. Wy not give us one here?

Township of Toozle, May 1, 1878.

The Jolly Chieftains.

"Mon, mon," said MACKENZIE to Sir JOHN, on hearing of the Quebec election, "had ye no' better resign and try the kirk for the rest o' ye'er days? "Deuce take it; no," answered the knight, "It was my devotion to the kirk, as you call it, that lost my Quebec majority. Come and take something." And at a late hour last night two individuals came down past the Rideau canal, one singing:

"We wonsht go homsh till morningsh,

Till daylightsh dosh—

While the other would interrupt him with:

"We arensh fou, we'sh nosh thatsh fou,

Butsh justsh a drappiesh in our eesh,

The cocksh maysh dawsh; the daysh maysh crawsh

Butsh we—"

Here the sentry took them in charge. It is necessary for GRIP to mention, that it is morally uncertain that these last were the first, as they are getting an abominable habit of libel suits at Ottawa.

A Warning to Local Governments.

We wish to say to you, Sir,

Who were our Premier here,

You have been an abuser,

Of power it does appear.

Wished us, the folks who lived in

The Province of Quebec,

A bushel you to give in,

When you should have a peck

For railways asked such cash, too,

As you right well did know,

Would bring us quite a smash to,

If we should pay it so.

You thought that we would follow

Whate'er the church would do.

The church, sir, if we'd swallow,

You'd add the steeple too.

So just now understand, sir,

And other Locals may,

The lesson find to hand, sir,

At some not distant day.

The load of our taxation

Is getting quite too high;

And, by your last oration,

You'd pile it to the sky.

And told a startling tale, if

We trouble made or doubt,

We each must go as bailiff,

And sell each other out.

We paid you well as Locals,

But to you must be known,

We are not quite such yokels

As to give you all we own.

So you will please vacate, now,

Your seats of Government,

And listen while we state, now,

What is our plain intent,

If as Reform you go in,

Or in as Tory go,

You'll keep the taxes low in

The Province, or you know,

What we have spoke about, friends,

Will shortly you befall,

We'll try and do without, friends,

A Local House at all.

Advertisement--To Young Men of Education.

Wanted a young gentleman as clerk to a lawyer in good standing. The hours are from eight a.m. to seven p.m. No dinner hour, but allowed to eat a lunch while writing, if rapidity of work be still kept up. Is expected to be fairly educated, and not to object if frequently jawed. Salary exceptionally liberal—half a dollar a week. No extras, and must board himself, and must always appear well dressed, and comme il faut in all respects. Address, Sharp & Skinem, Toronto.

The Conservatives regard the Quebec elections as by no means a Joly affair. The Grits don't like it either, for the Cons were thrown out for wanting to grab, and what's the good of getting in if you mustn't do that, you know?

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT,

OTTAWA, 18th April, 1878.

NO DISCOUNT ALLOWED ON
American Invoices until further notice.

J. JOHNSON,

Commissioner of Customs.

v-6-1f

WANTED!

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN TO LEARN TELEGRAPH operating for offices opening in the Dominion. Send 3 cent stamp for circular. Address MANAGER, Box 955, Toronto

PROPERTIES FOR SALE.

ONTARIO STREET north of Wellesley, two brick fronted houses, nine rooms, extra finish, bow windows, folding doors, grates, &c. Good cellar, hard and soft water. Lot 23 x 126. Price $1,900 each.

NIAGARA STREET, two rough cast houses, seven rooms, hard and soft water. $2,500 for both. Would exchange for farm.

DALHOUSIE STREET. Three houses, 6 rooms, hard and soft water. $1,250 each.

RICHMOND ST. WEST. Two roughcast houses, 11 rooms, splendidly finished, bath room and every convenience. $3,000.

WILLIAM HENRY STREET, rough cast house, seven rooms, grate, folding doors, &c. $1,800.

BEACHELL STREET, store and dwelling, $1,100.

Cottage, 5 rooms, hard and soft water, $700.

HURON STREET, two story house, rough cast, eight rooms and summer kitchen, $2,300.

D'ARCY STREET. New brick dwelling, extra finish, eight rooms, bath-room, vestibule and folding doors, bow window, grates, &c. Price $2,700.

ADELAIDE ST. WEST. Brick fronted semi-detached house—eight rooms, hard and soft water. This is a new house and extra well finished. Price $2,800.

CHURCH STREET. Roughcast house, twelve rooms, folding doors, grates, etc. Lot 21x130, to a lane 20 feet wide. Price, $2,500, half cash.

SUFFOLK PLACE, rough cast, detached, nine or ten rooms. $2,600.

PROPERTIES WANTED.

ST. ANDREWS WARD, house of about 8 rooms, near the market. Price $1,000 to $1,500

ST. THOMAS' WARD, a detached or semi-detached house of about nine rooms, good yard, with stable or room to build one. Price about $2,500.

ORDE STREET, rough cast cottage, six rooms. $1,000.

ESTHER STREET, two story dwelling, six rooms. Price $900.

EAST OF YONGE STREET, two story house of six or seven rooms. Price $1,400 to $1000.

ST. JAMES WARD, Cottage of about five rooms.

BENGOUGH & MUSSEN,Real Estate Agents,

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS, (Next Post Office.)

TORONTO.

J. F. DANTER, M. D.

Homeopathist and Medical Electrician. Office and Pharmacy: 4 Albert Street, (Cor. Yonge) Toronto. Medicine for sale, vials refilled, Letters promptly answered.

TO PHONOGRAPHERS!

Just to hand a full Stock of ISAAC PITMAN'S Text Books.

Compend of Phonography,	5 cts.
Exercises in Phonography,	5
Grammologies and Contractions,	10
Questions on Manual,	15
Selections in Reporting Style,	20
Teacher,	20
Key to Teacher,	20
Reader,	20
Manual,	50
Reporter,	75
Reporting Exercises,	20
Phrase Book,	30
Covers for holding Note Book,	20
The Reporter's Guide, by Thos. Allan Reid	60

Sent post-paid to any address on receipt of price.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

Next Post Office, Toronto.

Hints to Borrowers.

"The wicked borroweth, and payeth not again."

If thou art borrow'd by a friend,
Right welcome shall he be,
To read, to study, not to lend,
But to return to me:

Not that imparted knowledge doth
Diminish learning's store,
But books, I find, if often lent,
Return to me no more.

READ slowly, pause frequently, think seriously, keep cleanly, return duly, with the corners of the leaves not turned down.

"I'm not one of those selfish elves
Who keep their treasures to themselves:
I like to see them kept quite neat,
But not for moth or worm to eat.
Thus willingly to any friend
A book of mine I'll freely lend,
Hoping they'll mind this good old mean:
'Return it soon and keep it clean.'"

THE borrower of a book incurs two obligations; the first is to read immediately; the second is to return it as soon as read.—Murphy.

We should make the same use of a book that the bee does of a flower: she steals sweets from it, but does not injure it.—Colton.

"MICHAEL BRAV, my book,
If I it lose, and you it find,
I pray that you will be so kind
As to return it to me again,
And I'll respect you for the same."

"MICHAEL BRAV, his book,
Wherein he should delight to look,
And out of it to learn such skill,
That he may do his Maker's will."

"No entertainment is so cheap as reading, nor any pleasure so lasting."—Washington Irving.

A book may be as great a thing as a battle.—Dieraeli.

Books as spectacles to read nature.—Dryden.

A book is good company. It is full of conversation without loquacity. It comes to your longing with full instruction, but pursues you never. It is not offended at your absent-mindedness, nor jealous if you turn to other pleasures. It silently serves the soul without recompense, not even for the hire of love. And yet more noble, it seems to pass from itself and to enter the memory, and to hover in a silvery transfiguration there, until the outward book is but a body, and its soul and spirit are flown to you and possess your memory like a spirit.—H. W. Beecher.

THE plainest row of books that cloth or paper ever covered is more significant of refinement than the most elaborately carved elagere or side board.—H. W. Beecher.

Copies of above may be had at GRIP office, or sent free of postage, at 50 cents per dozen, or $1.50 per hundred.

NEATLY, CHEAPLY, QUICKLY.Grip Job Department.

Everything in the Printing line from a

Label to a Three-Sheet Poster,
WITH NEATNESS AND DESPATCH.

We are prepared to fill Orders by Mail for Visiting Cards (Finest Bristol, White or Tinted) immediately on receipt of letter, and forward by FIRST MAIL, at the following rates:

25 Cards, (one name, one style type),	30 cents.
50 " " " " "	50 "
100 " " " " "	75 "

The following are Samples of Type from which a choice may be made.

1
Robert Taylor

2
William Richardson

3
Miss Maggie Thompson

4
George Augustus Williams

5
Mrs. Thomas Jones

6
William Arthur Crawford

7
Miss Susie Wade

8
Byron W. Scott

9
William Shakespeare

Chromo Cards:

(Five Beautiful Pictures)

100 Cards, (one name, one style type)	$1 50.
50 " " " " "	1.00.
25 " " " " "	75.

Mourning Cards:

25 Cards, (one name one style type),	50 cents.
50 " " " " "	75 "
100 " " " " "	$1.25 "

Memorial Cards

Beautiful Designs, $ 1.00 per dozen.
Samples by mail, 5c. each.

Printing addresses on Cards, 10 cents extra for each Order.

Write your Name and the Number of the Letter you desire plainly, to prevent mistakes.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

Imperial Buildings, (Next Post Office), Toronto.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE

GRIP is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.

Subscription price, $2 per annum strictly in advance. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied.

USE ONLY

ONTARIO BAKING POWDER.

ASK YOUR

Grocer for it.

TORONTO

TEMPERANCE

Restaurant and Dining Hall.

GRAND OPERA BUILDING,

7 Adelaide St. West.

Best dinner in the city, served from 12 to 3, at 20 cents.

Good meals served at all hours.

A few gentlemen can be accommodated with day board.

Sunday dinner from 1 till 2 o'clock. xi-4-3m

GORRELL,

CRAIG

& Co.,

13

ADELAIDE ST.

EAST.

FARM FOR SALE.

A very desirable farm for a gentleman's residence, consisting of 31 acres, in the Township of Pickering, County of Ontario, overlooking Frenchman's Bay. A small stream runs through the north west corner. There is

A Capital Orchard

of Pears, Plums, Cherry and Apple Trees, covering twelve acres, nine of which are only six years old, just commencing to bear. The soil is as good as can be found in the township, which is equivalent to saying there is none better in the province.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

REAL ESTATE AG'TS

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS.

Next Post Office, Toronto.

"GRIP"

Job Department

Is Stocked with all the latest Styles and Improvements in TYPES,

from the American, Canadian and European Foundries, and will be found competent for the execution of all classes of Printing, with

NEATNESS,

CHEAPNESS

DISPATCH.

Office: Imperial Buildings,

NEXT POST-OFFICE.)

Stock's Celebrated Machinery Oils.

Agents for Quebec: LYMAN, CLAIR & CO., MONTREAL.

CHINIC & BEAUDET, QUEBEC.

Agent for New Brunswick: JOSEPH BULLOCK, ST. JOHN.

Agents for Nova Scotia: HOWARD C. EVANS & CO., HALIFAX.

Office: 14 CHURCH ST.

WORKS: Cor. Don River & Front St., TORONTO.

(TRADE MARK REGISTERED)

Relief Plates,

TYPE HIGH.

Any Subject to Order.

BENGOUGH BROS.

CAUTION.

Before purchasing your spring shirts, get our prices, our Shirts please everybody our trade this season is far ahead of last. If you want a good shirt at a low price try sample one. Send for circular to A. White, late White & Sharpe 65 King Street West.

VOL. XI.

No. 6.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, JUNE 29, 1878.

GRIP OFFICE, }
IMPERIAL BUILDING.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

{ 5 CTS. EACH.
{ $2 PER ANNUM.

BROCKVILLE REGATTA.

The Excursion Steamer,

"EMPRESS OF INDIA,"

Has been engaged to attend this regatta.

Fare for Round Trip, { To Brockville and Return, Including Meals and Berth, } Only $6.00.

For particulars apply at Office on Mowat's Wharf.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach GRIP office not later than Wednesday.—Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned

$1.50

Will Wash and Rough Dry 100 Pieces, at the

TORONTO STEAM

LAUNDRY.

Cor. Bay & Wellington.

OFFICE: 65 KING ST. WEST

JOSEPH LETTORE,

Hairdresser,

10 VICTORIA STREET.

THE POINT FARM

NEAR GODERICH, ONT.

This popular Summer Resort, situated on the high banks of Lake Huron, is now open for the season.

Encouraged by its past success and the increasing demand for room, the subscriber has added an extensive westerly wing, making the establishment one of the largest in the country and now having accommodation for

200 GUESTS.

Amongst other improvements is the completion of the spacious DINING Room 200 x 40, capable of seating 300 persons.

As the house will be conducted this year entirely without the sale of Spirituous Liquors, it will be found more suitable than ever for families as a quiet country home.

Circulars giving full information can be obtained at "GRIP" office, Toronto, or further particulars by addressing

J. J. WRIGHT,

Proprietor.

REAL ESTATE.

Persons having Properties to dispose of in City or Country will find it to their advantage to place it in our hands. We have the

BEST STAND IN THE CITY,

and facilities for

ADVERTISING

which cannot be excelled.

BENGOUGH BROS

NEXT POST OFFICE,

TORONTO.

PENS AND PENHOLDERS.

A JOB LOT

Very Fancy and very Cheap.

AT

GRIP OFFICE.

$2 000 CASH

Will be paid for a nice Detached or Semi-detached House, 8 or 9 Rooms.

BENGOUGH BROS.

Next Post-office.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabest Beast is the Ass; the grabest Bird is the Owl;
The grabest Fish is the Oyster; the grabest Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, 29TH JUNE, 1878.

Letter from John Bull.

Dear Mr. GRIP:

After all my trampin round like DIOGENES, as per your cartoon of last week, I av failed to find a man as is worthy to be the successor of Lord DUFFERIN, and shall request a hextension of time to resume my search. I want to rest my weary soles and get a fresh candle in the old lantern. In the meantime my dutiful DUFFERIN has kindly consented to remain with you some months longer, which I'm sure will delight your 'eart and that of hevery hother loyal subject in the Dominion.

Yours paternally,
JOHN BULL.

HO-in-Lambton.

At Lambton when the pay was low,
And politics were dreadful slow,
Of offices there was no show
For Tor— I mean, Conservatives.

But Lambton saw another sight,
At Sarnia's town they gathered right
And left, resolved at last to fight
ALEX. MACKENZIE, Premier.

"Now how can this be done" quoth they;
"Our champion leaders he can slay,
Indeed he could defeat JOHN A.
If he should come to Sarnia."

MACKENZIE's here a powerful name,
In Kingston stout JOHN A's the same,
Let's join the two and their joint fame
Will carry Lambton splendidly.

Then shook the halls with thunder riven
For thunders of applause were given,
Blessing the thoughts and thanking heaven
Away went the Conservatives.

And thus it is that now we see,
Conservatives in utmost glee,
JOHN A. MACKENZIE head of Re-
Form and of Conservatism.

The American Youth.

(Continued from last week.)

The story left the elopers hanging on the bank of uncertainty and a precipice, uncalculable depths below, the grim American youth smoking like GRANT himself above. The illustrious Duke is dashed into illustrious fragments far beneath. The Youth then extends his stick to ADELINA, she gains the level ground, and they fall into one another's arms, and vow undying love. They proceed homewards and on arriving at the castle find the duchess has died suddenly, and that the will of the fragmented Duke leaves all to ADELINA. She and BENNY rejoice at their good fortune, and prepare to spend their lives happily together, vowing again mutual fidelity, to extend far into the eternal cycles. That evening BENNY, with the usual fine feeling of the American youth in such histories, considers he might as well "rake in the pile alone," and drops ADELINA into the castle oubliette, first carefully cutting off her head with his bowie knife. He then shuts the trap door, and calculates he will marry and go to Congress. He executes the first with great dispatch by forming an alliance with the daughter of a distinguished Senator and whiskey ring operator, and gets himself elected without the slightest difficulty by bribing the unpurchasable American citizens who rule the ballot box. His speech to the mob before the elections is truly pathetic and intensely moving. He says "Fellow citizens, the inwards of my buzzum air thrilled with thrills too thrilling for utterance, and from the bottom of my heart I give yew the thanks which air your dew. It air not, I calculate, often such a scene as I see before me by the slaves of distant Europe, or the motley and howling mass of Britons, Irish, Chartists and Jews, shrieking in abject and grinding slavery under the crushing sceptre of Queen VICTORIA, on her great throne surrounded by lions, bars, and beef-eaters of various and domestick kinds. It air not witnessed in her adjoining dependency of Canada, whar the miserable Kanucks has to go on their knees kerwallop in the mud along the streets whenever the Lord Lieutenant chooses to come out of his vast fortifications at Ottawa, and surrounded by his sanguinary dragoons makes the cirket of his trembling people. Fellow citizens, a great and gellorious day of liberation for all mankind from their chains bound round them in centerries past approaching (Voice from crowd.—Down with the capitalists!) Yes, gentlemen, we shall hev no more capitalists hyar. (Second voice.—Universal division). Yes, gentlemen, we will make arrangements for all that. (Third voice.—Only four hour's labour to be a day's work). Yes, gentlemen, we will hev it arranged. (Fourth voice.—We must hev Canady). Yes, gentlemen, plans for her kapture air made out, and will be proceeded with when I git in. (Fifth voice.—We want revinge on the bloody Saxin for the wrongs ov bleedin and injured Arin!) Yes, Sir, the wrongs of our Irish fellow citizens are what hev kept me awake at nights for years past. There is no peace for America till Britain, Kenedy, and the other dependents be prostrate at our feet, (great cheering) and I may say that "No pent up Utker contracts our powers, for the hull boundless universe hez a right ter be ours!" (Immense cheering). Universal prosperity, cheap food, high wages, short hours, air what I mean to go for. (Cheers). We shall make this hyar a great country, we shell. (Voice.—We want non-liability ter the law extended ter every free citizen). Yew shell hev it, gentlemen; the pressure ov the heavy weight ov legal fictions squeezes the glorious American eagle inter a flat-tailed buzzard; but let her rise superior tew the galling fetters of legality, and she shell take her persition on the topmost pinnacle ov the Rocky Mountains, wave her wings of pearl and alabaster in the light ov coming reason, and scream her defiance over European laws, and their base implanters hyar. (Tremendous cheering). BENNY shortly afterwards takes his seat in Congress, and makes a furious speech against paying the fishery claims. He is engaged presently in tremendous speculations relative to securing the right to cheat the Indians out of the appropriations promised by the U. S., is mixed up with all the gambling halls of the capital, busy in acquiring a secretaryship with a view to a large defalcation, obtains the opportunity of selling his vote on railway matters several times to great advantage is the admired of all classes in Washington, has the finest house, horses, carriages, and dinners of the capital, has three private chaplains, and goes regularly to church three times on Sunday. He is spoken of for President, but it is not yet apparent that he will attain that honour. No one can foretell what pinnacle of greatness may yet sustain the towering figure of the American Youth. He is the hope and will be the destruction of his country.

(Concluded.)

The Policeman's Ghost.

A story related by Constable SHEEHAN to his comrades in the station house on Wednesday morning.

Luckin pale, d'ye say? Well, gud reason I have,
An a moighty quare story I'm goin to relate,
For meself and GREGORY here—yez may laugh!—
Have jist seen a live ghost a walkin the shreet!

It was down on the corner av Church shreet an Queen
I was standin alone whin it shtruck twilve o'clock,
An I thought I hard somethin widin me say "SHEEHAN,
The witchin hour 12, whin spirits do walk!"

Jist thin I lucked up an I got such a fright!
For by all the saints there kem a rale ghost!
It was shaped like a girl, an dressed all in white.
An stud up as straight an as dead as a post.

The eyes they wor shut, an the hair shtramin down,
An wan arm shtuck out loike HAMLET's av old;
An it moved on so shlow in its shroud av a gown.
That me hair stud on ind an me blood it ran cowl!

I clutched for me pistol an baton so shloud,
Intendin to urther the goblin to shlop,
But fwhin it kem up, me wits they gev out,
An as it wint bye I thought I wud drop!

Jist thin I seen GREGORY (a man that's no child)
Follyin the spirit along on the shreet,
Wid limbs on a trimble an eyes starin wild,
An face, ye'll belave me, as fwhite as a sheet.

Party soon there kem others an jined wid us two,
An after the ghost round the block we did shin,
Till we kem to a door that the figure passed through,
Fwhin GREGORY an me marched up and walked in.

The ghost turned around and shud in the hall,
An to judge av me falins I lave yez to troy,
Fwhin we axed fwhat she mint by such conduct at all?
And she opened her eyes an sez "Fwhat do ye soy?"

THE PHILISTINE COMES FORTH!

Grip's Political Digest.

MACKENZIE'S a leal canny Scot, so they say,
But like all has made some mistakes in his day.
When Tories are cornered, one charge never fails,
Their spirits revive at the sound of "Steel Rails."
With gusto refreshing they glory to tell
How this job exceeds e'en the "Neebing Hotel."

To Kamanistiquia next they resort,
Where sensitive Tories make very good sport,
In vain try the Grits to explain it away,—
The others of course don't believe what they say,
Tho' FLEMING located! 'Twas they paid the price,
And here's just the point where they smell a "big mice."

Conservative virtue recoils at the shock
Of "Goderich Harbour" and "St. Francis Lock;"
Things truly sometimes strange directions will take,
And here all the fault falls on innocent BLAKE,
MACKENZIE discovers, alas, in the end,
What trouble sometimes is attached to a "Friend."

MACKENZIE no doubt looks well after the dimes,
But how can he 'scape from the charge of "hard times?"
And as for "Potatoe Bugs" who doesn't know
Turn the Grits out of office, and off they will go,—
The Farmers all know the crops didn't begin
To improve in the least till "reaction set in."

Sir JOHN and his party believe they are sound,
Go in for increasing the duties all round.
Dub that man an ass who expresses his doubts
He can raise himself up by a tug at his boots,
The plan is so simple, the blindest may see,
Their fortunes are made if they can but agree.

Pray why should the Yankees send over their goods,
Made out of the product of Canada's woods,
And ruin our men with the wood at their doors
Who are at their wits ends, and idle by scores?
'Tis enough I'm persuaded to make HAY declare,
I'll cross o'er the border and set up shop there.

And then I will show you what Yankees can do,
With a seventeen per cent. and the railway freights too.
I'll soon make my fortune, and undersell all
You stay at home Canucks. Your profit 's too small!
And thus Sir JOHN A. using means to his ends,
Says, Let us win HAY while the sun shines. my friends.

Our Coal needs Protection. But friends in the west
Say, "Let it alone, that will suit us the best,"
'Twould tax manufactures. What next will you do?
Sir JOHN gives his answer, We'll tax the bread too,
When lo! from the east comes a wail of despair,
And TUPPER unconsciously feels for his hair.

Astonished! confounded! He feels ill at ease
To find their attempts have as yet failed to please,
And so he gets wrath at the Quebec affair,
Blames Mr. MACKENZIE for more than his share,
And wonders what now is the best to be done,
Since Grits down at Kingston have mounted their GUNN.

His dreams are of Ottawa, power and place.
With Grits at his feet, with a woe-be-gone face,
And he and Sir JOHN with a whip in each hand,
Driving Hard Times and Poverty out of the land,
With smoke-stacks all round them, belts, pulleys, and wheels,
And prosperity trotting along at their heels.

Does anyone think that these men cannot cope
With the evils around us? They're wrong let us hope,
A wise legislation relating to Trade,
And proper adjustments of duties once made,
Will make the great centre of industry feel,
They have what they needed the "Fly" off the wheel.

Those Purists MACKENZIE, BLAKE, CARTWRIGHT and BROWN
Will see the grand fabric they builded pulled down.
Our Trade disincumbered from impotent thrall,
Will rise with a bound that will overtop all,
And those little "Boys" who have suffered such pain
In the washing of hands, will be happy again.

Prospects of Toronto.

Several parties address the citizens:

THE MAYOR.—Ah, when, ah, yes. . . Allow me to mention—that is to say, gentlemen, I congratulate you, yes, on the prosperity—progress——and—anything else—I see around me (aside)—I get four thousand—very prosperous for me.

THE TREASURER.—Yes, gentlemen, we are progressing, and when I have funded the debt, and induced your creditors to take five per cent. instead of six, which no doubt they will, as they have good security for six. I think we may say we are prosperous—very, (aside) I get four thousand; never was so prosperous in my life.

THE ALDERMEN.—Prosperity, tremendous, grand; why, we want $400,000 spent for sewers. $400,000 for railways, $75,000 for carrying the exhibition out of the city and putting it where we can speculate in the country round; lots of money wanted at once, rate of taxes must be six per cent. next year. Aint we doing well?—guess we are. Prosperity, grand, tremendous. Hooray!

THE CONTRACTORS.—Hooray! Never was such times. . . Nothing to do but let some aldermen go snacks, and you get contracts such as no one ever heard of. Work cheap, twenty men standing idle where you want one, materials for a song. Prosperity! Borrow some more! Hooray!

THE PROPERTY OWNER.—If this is prosperity, let us have a little poverty. Half my tenants are gone to the States; the rest can't pay the rent; no use selling them out; their furniture wouldn't fetch the auctioneer's fees. Well, I must go borrow some cash from the Loan Company to pay my taxes. If better times don't come I had better pull down my houses.

THE TENANT.—Prosperity! Bless us! Where is it? I have had no work for six months; my family are half starved; three families of us in one house to pay its rent, and can't pay it at that. I must go to the States.

THE MERCHANT.—Well, if the banks won't carry me through, there's no chance, I must smash. No customers; no money; bankrupt stocks everywhere.

THE BANKER.—Well, what's to be done I don't know. Here we are carrying the whole business of the country, and running in debt more and more every year.

THE MANUFACTURER.—Gentlemen, I could make this all square. Take care that I get plenty of work; I can give your people constant work at good wages, and you will see a change very quick. But you don't expect I am coming to a city with taxation like yours. No. If I had protection to-morrow, I could give lots of work, of course, but it wouldn't be in Toronto. No, gentlemen. You choose to think you can make money by running in debt; I wish you joy of it; but you can't expect me with you. (Scene closes with general howl).

MISSKEETOES rarely miss.

L. L. D.—Long Live DUFFERIN.

GRIP moves that the "Glorious 12th" be changed to the "Goryous 12th."

BUSINESS is beginning to move in the west. They have a bakeshop on wheels in Ingersoll.

THE tariff on pills and medicine properly belongs to the department of the minister of the interior.

HAS ANN ARBOUR MILLS anything to do with the Ann Arbour grave robbery business. This is a grave matter.

HALF a loaf is better than no bread but those ill-bred tramps and loafers think a whole loaf is better than bread.

THEY have had a brass band competition in Montreal, and now the bands are mad because they didn't all get the first prize.

THE GOLDWIN-SMITHIAN dream of uniting the two political parties of this country is about to be realized. The Conservatives of Lambton Co., have brought out JOHN A. MACKENZIE as their Candidate. Elect him, and then make him Prime Minister and the thing is done.

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT,
OTTAWA, 18th April, 1878.

NO DISCOUNT ALLOWED ON
American Invoices until further notice.

J. JOHNSON,
Commissioner of Customs.

v-6-1f

WANTED!

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN TO LEARN TELE
graph operating for offices opening in the Dominion.
Send 3 cent stamp for circular. Address MANAGER,
Box 955, Toronto

PROPERTIES FOR SALE.

ONTARIO STREET north of Wellesley, two brick fronted houses, nine rooms, extra finish, bow windows, folding doors, grates, &c. Good cellar, hard and soft water. Lot 23 x 126. Price $1,900 each.

NIAGARA STREET, two rough cast houses, seven rooms, hard and soft water. $2,500 for both. Would exchange for farm.

DALHOUSIE STREET. Three houses, 6 rooms, hard and soft water. $1,250 each.

RICHMOND ST. WEST. Two roughcast houses, 11 rooms, splendidly finished, bath room and every convenience. $3,000.

WILLIAM HENRY STREET, rough cast house, seven rooms, grate, folding doors, &c. $1,800.

BEACHELL STREET, store and dwelling, $1,100.
Cottage, 5 rooms, hard and soft water, $700.

HURON STREET, two story house, rough cast, eight rooms and summer kitchen, $2,300.

D'ARCY STREET. New brick dwelling, extra finish, eight rooms, bath-room, vestibule and folding doors, bow window, grates, &c. Price $2,700.

ADELAIDE ST. WEST. Brick fronted semi-detached house—eight rooms, hard and soft water. This is a new house and extra well finished. Price $2,800.

CHURCH STREET. Roughcast house, twelve rooms, folding doors, grates, etc. Lot 21x130, to a lane 20 feet wide. Price, $2,500, half cash.

SUFFOLK PLACE, rough cast, detached, nine or ten rooms. $2,600.

PROPERTIES WANTED.

ST. ANDREWS WARD, house of about 8 rooms, near the market. Price $1,000 to $1,500

ST. THOMAS' WARD, a detached or semi-detached house of about nine rooms, good yard, with stable or room to build one. Price about $2,500.

ORDE STREET, rough cast cottage, six rooms. $1,000.

ESTHER STREET, two story dwelling, six rooms. Price $900.

EAST OF YONGE STREET, two story house of six or seven rooms. Price $1,400 to $100.

ST. JAMES WARD, Cottage of about five rooms.

BENGOUGH BROS.,
Real Estate Agents,
IMPERIAL BUILDINGS, Next Post Office.
TORONTO.

J. F. DANTER, M. D.

Homeopathist and Medical Electrician. Office and Pharmacy: 4 Albert Street, (Cor. Yonge) Toronto. Medicine for sale, vials refilled, Letters promptly answered.

Hints to Borrowers.

"THE wicked borroweth, and payeth not again."

If thou art borrow'd by a friend,
Right welcome shall he be,
To read, to study, not to lend,
But to return to me:

Not that imparted knowledge doth
Diminish learning's store,
But books, I find, if often lent,
Return to me no more.

READ slowly, pause frequently, think seriously, keep cleanly, return duly, with the corners of the leaves not turned down.

"I'm not one of those selfish elves
Who keep their treasures to themselves:
I like to see them kept quite neat,
But not for moth or worm to eat.
Thus willingly to any friend
A book of mine I'll freely lend,
Hoping they'll mind this good old mean:
'Return it soon and keep it clean.'"

THE borrower of a book incurs two obligations; the first is to read immediately; the second is to return it as soon as read.—Murphy.

We should make the same use of a book that the bee does of a flower: she steals sweets from it, but does not injure it.—Colton.

"MICHAEL BRAV, my book,
If I it lose, and you it find,
I pray that you will be so kind
As to return it to me again,
And I'll respect you for the same."

"MICHAEL BRAV, his book,
Wherein he should delight to look,
And out of it to learn such skill,
That he may do his Maker's will."

"No entertainment is so cheap as reading, nor any pleasure so lasting."—Washington Irving.

A book may be as great a thing as a battle.—Dierraelt.

Books as spectacles to read nature.—Dryden.

A book is good company. It is full of conversation without loquacity. It comes to your longing with full instruction, but pursues you never. It is not offended at your absent-mindedness, nor jealous if you turn to other pleasures. It silently serves the soul without recompense, not even for the hire of love. And yet more noble, it seems to pass from itself and to enter the memory, and to hover in a silvery transfiguration there, until the outward book is but a body, and its soul and spirit are flown to you and possess your memory like a spirit.—H. W. Beecher.

THE plainest row of books that cloth or paper ever covered is more significant of refinement than the most elaborately carved etagere or side board.—H. W. Beecher.

Copies of above may be had at GRIP office, or sent free of postage, at 50 cents per dozen, or $1.50 per hundred.

TO PHONOGRAPHERS!

Just to hand a full Stock of ISAAC PITMAN'S
Text Books.

Compend of Phonography,	- - - - -	5 cts.
Exercises in Phonography,	- - - - -	5
Grammatical and Contractions,	- - - - -	10
Questions on Manual,	- - - - -	15
Selections in Reporting Style,	- - - - -	20
Teacher,	- - - - -	20
Key to Teacher,	- - - - -	20
Reader,	- - - - -	20
Manual,	- - - - -	50
Reporter,	- - - - -	75
Reporting Exercises,	- - - - -	20
Phrase Book,	- - - - -	30
Covers for holding Note Book,	- - - - -	20
The Reporter's Guide, by Thos. Allan Reid	- - - - -	60

Sent post-paid to any address on receipt of price.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

Next Post Office, Toronto.

NEATLY, CHEAPLY, QUICKLY. ✎

Grip Job Department.

Everything in the Printing line from a

Label to a Three-Sheet Poster,
WITH NEATNESS AND DESPATCH.

We are prepared to fill Orders by Mail for Visiting Cards (Finest Bristol, White or Tinted) immediately on receipt of letter, and forward by FIRST MAIL, at the following rates:

25 Cards, (one name, one style type),	30 cents.
50 " " " " " " " "	50 " "
100 " " " " " " " "	75 " "

The following are Samples of Type from which a choice may be made.

1
Robert Taylor

2
William Richardson

3
Miss Maggie Thompson

4
George Augustus Williams

5
Mrs. Thomas Jones

6
William Arthur Crawford

7
Miss Susie Wade

8
Byron W. Scott

9
William Shakespeare

Chromo Cards:
(Five Beautiful Pictures)

100 Cards, (one name, one style type)	$1.50.
50 " " " " " "	1.00.
25 " " " " " "	75.

Mourning Cards:

25 Cards, (one name one style type),	50 cents.
50 " " " " " "	75
100 " " " " " "	$1.25

Memorial Cards

Beautiful Designs, $ 1.00 per dozen.
Samples by mail, 5c. each.
Printing addresses on Cards, 10 cents extra for each Order.

Write your Name and the Number of the Letter you desire plainly, to prevent mistakes.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

Imperial Buildings, (Next Post Office), Toronto.

PUBLISHERS' NOTE

GRIP is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.
Subscription price, $2 per annum, strictly in advance. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied. BENGOUGH BROS.

USE ONLY

ONTARIO BAKING POWDER.

ASK YOUR

Grocer for it.

TORONTO

TEMPERANCE

Restaurant and Dining Hall,

GRAND OPERA BUILDING,

7 Adelaide St. West.

Best dinner in the city, served from 12 to 3, at 20 cents.
Good meals served at all hours.
A few gentlemen can be accommodated with day board.
Sunday dinner from 1 till 2 o'clock.
xi-4-3m

GORRELL,

CRAIG

& Co.,

13

ADELAIDE ST.

EAST.

FARM FOR SALE.

A very desirable farm for a gentleman's residence, consisting of 31 acres, in the Township of Pickering, County of Ontario, overlooking Frenchman's Bay. A small stream runs through the north west corner. There is of Pears, Plums, Cherry and Apple Trees, covering twelve acres. On nine acres of this Orchard the trees are only six years old, just commencing to bear. The soil is as good as can be found in the township, which is equivalent to saying there is none better in the province.

A Capital Orchard

BENGOUGH BROS.,
REAL ESTATE AG'TS
IMPERIAL BUILDINGS.
Next Post Office, Toronto.

"GRIP"

Job Department

Is Stocked with all the latest Styles and Improvements in

TYPES,

from the American, Canadian and European Foundries, and will be found competent for the execution of all classes of Printing, with

NEATNESS,

CHEAPNESS

DESPATCH.

Office: Imperial Buildings,

NEXT POST-OFFICE).

Stock's Celebrated Machinery Oils.

Agents for Quebec: LYMAN, CLAIR & CO., MONTREAL.

CHINIC & BEAUDET, QUEBEC.

Agent for New Brunswick: JOSEPH BULLOCK, ST. JOHN.

Agents for Nova Scotia: HOWARD C. EVANS & CO., HALIFAX.

WORKS: Cor. Don River & Front St., TORONTO.

Office: 14 CHURCH ST.

[TRADE MARK REGISTERED]

Relief Plates,

TYPE HIGH.

Any Subject to Order.

BENGOUGH BROS.

VOL. XI.

No. 25.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1878.

GRIP OFFICE,
IMPERIAL BUILDING.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

5 CTS. EACH.
$2 PER ANNUM.

NOW READY.

BENGOUGH'S comic sketch, in colours, cabinet photo. size, of

HANLAN AND COURTNEY.

COURTNEY.—"What! beat ME! well, you're a good 'un!"
HANLAN.—"Please sir, I couldn't help it; it's a habit I've got into."

May be had at GRIP office and all bookstores. Price 10 cents per copy. The trade supplied by the Toronto News Co., Jordan Street.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach GRIP office not later than Wednesday.—Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

$1.50

Will Wash and Rough
Dry 100 Pieces, at the

TORONTO STEAM

LAUNDRY.

Cor. Bay & Wellington.

OFFICE: 65 KING ST. WEST

JOSEPH LETTORE,

Hairdresser.

10 VICTORIA STREET.

DELAMERE, BLACK, AND REESOR, Barristers, Attorneys, Solicitors, &c., 17 Toronto St. T. D. DELAMERE, DAVIDSON BLACK H. A. REESOR.

MOWAT, MACLENNAN, & DOWNEY, Solicitors, etc., Queen City Insurance Building, 24 Church St., Toronto, OLIVER MOWAT, Q.C. JAMES MACLENNAN, Q.C. JOHN DOWNEY, THOMAS LANGTON.

BIGELOW, N. G., BARRISTER-AT-LAW, etc. Offices corner of King and Yonge streets, Toronto.

TO PRINTERS.

WANTED.—A Newspaper Mailing Machine and Brevier suitable for setting up list. Apply to

GEO. BENGOUGH
Toronto.

FOR SALE.

Breech Loading Rifle,

Manufactured by Frank Wesson, Boston, Mass. Cost $35, will be sold for $20. Owner has no use for it. Apply to

GEO. BENGOUGH,
GRIP Office.

BENGOUGH BROS.

Are prepared to execute orders for

ENGRAVING

in the highest style of the art.

Type Metal Plates

MADE FROM

Pen and Ink Sketches, Photographs, Lithographs, &c.,

More perfect, true and lasting than any wood engraving, and at a much lower cost. Call and see specimens at

GRIP OFFICE,

Next door to Post Office, Toronto

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabest Beast is the Bass; the grabest Bird is the Owl;
The grabest Fish is the Oyster; the grabest Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, 9TH NOVEMBER, 1878.

TO NEWSDEALERS.—The Toronto News Co. are our wholesale agents; any orders from the trade sent direct to them will receive prompt attention.

"Richard's Himself Again!"

What ho! my comrades in the chilly shades,
Pluck up your hearts, our cause is not yet lost,
Your RICHARD is himself again and springs
Into the forefront of your shattered ranks!
I fell upon the field when raged the fight,
And with me fell the hopes of all the Grits;
The standard which I held in pride aloft
Was trailed low in the dust and badly torn;
Our foes, triumphant, yelled with frantic joy,—
For neither in defeat nor victory
Are they aught else than rude and savage men—
They thought that I was wounded unto death,
And when I strove to rise, their ruthless hands
In desp'rate malice sought to hold me down,
But all in vain!
Financiers, like the Truth must still prevail,
And this their policy so false and vain
Must through my crucible at length be put;
And these base men, who tremble at my look,
Must hear plain talk as they have heard before!
My country needs me, and with glowing heart
I rush to do her service once again;
I seek no low ambition to appease,
I have no hope of office in my heart,
But if, perchance, we beat our Tory foes
And cross the floor again to take the loaves,
I'll try and bear it as a hero should!
But hark! I hear the trumpet, hence, away;
"My soul's in arms, and eager for the fray!"

The Chopper's Song.

GRIP was in the country lately—in the far North. He girt him with a belt, put on a red shirt, and took an axe in his hand, (taking care not to let it fall on his toes). As he saw the great trees tumble to the deadly weapons of the backwoods men, he sung:—

You may talk of the joys of the sea, my boys,
Of your ships, and calms, and squalls,
But nothing to me's like the swash of the trees,
When a ninety-footer falls.

With its rushing roar on the winter day,
Like thunder in the air,
And if you think you're in the way
Oh, won't you get a scare!

O, the chopper smites and the good steel bites,
Through the bark to the centre deep,
And it's his delights in good appetites,
For his food and for his sleep.

What a white cascade his chips you see,
From the gaping tree side fly,
But you may forget their poetry
If they hit you in the eye.

Oh, what joy to stay till one was gray,
In the bush a woodman bold,
In the forests free I should love to be,
Be the weather hot or cold.

Then GRIP he took up his axe so bright
And he laid it gently down;
And he took a ticket by rail that night
And he travelled him back to town.

The Boarding House.

"THE very primest steak we could find in the market (except the nine pounds we let go to Colonel JONES's)," said the boarder in brown who sat next to the landlady.

"Thin I pity the teeth av Taranty this day, for the bist in the market is the toughest I iver kem across," said the Irish boarder, a lady arrived the week before.

"Well," said the landlady—who was well off and kept boarders on a "take it or leave it" principle—"where I was brought up we never observed that Irish people knew good beef from bad—in fact we didn't know they ever got any, poor things."

"Faith, thin, av ye only seen a piece of good Irish bafe ye'd niver look at a pace av Canayjin mate agin," said the Hibernian lady wrathfully.

"Then I never want to see any," remarked Captain JONES, "for as I've got to stay here I'd starve."

"I wadna care sae muckle aboot the meat," said the boarder from Edinburgh, "if it werena that the milk is aye compoondit frae chalk and water, and is converted intil a solid substance in twa hoors, and the butter is fu' o' hairs, and vara inferior itherwise. But I dinna jalouse but the Mistress here buys us the best ganging, for a' that."

"Butter!—when did you see any in Scotland?" asked the hostess, laughing.

"In Scotland! Whan did I see it? Weel! weel! Isna Scotland kent the world ower as the vara land o' cakes? What wad we mak them oot o' had we nae butter?"

"Oatmeal and water," said the landlady. "But come now isn't that a fine bit of mutton?"

"Very good for this place; but we wouldn't look at hit in Hingland," said a fat Cockney at the end of the table. "Oh, hif you honly saw hour Southdowns!" (N.B.—He never had). "Hand the cheese is 'orrid."

"Is there anything you like in this country?" asked the landlady.

"Why, one comes 'ere to get a livin'," said the Cockney. "But though one can live 'ere there's no life in the place. That's my hobjection—habsence of life."

"Oh, it's no that bad," said the Scotch boarder, "an' I wull say this is the best boardin' hoose i' the place."

"But zen," remarked the French boarder, who had not yet spoken, "le peoples of Canada is destitute—absolument destitute—of ze life—de esprit—ze legerete zat is someveres else."

"Och, it's a poor place," sighed the Irish lady.

"Why don't you all go back?" asked the landlady. But nobody answered.

The Marriage Question

BY A HOPEFUL LOVER.

In the city of Weissnichtwo there lived a maiden fair;
Oh, beauteous shone her eye of blue, and golden gleamed her hair;
She'd every charm of soul and mind in right proportions blent,
And perfect was her skill in each extant accomplishment.

Most proper too, the views she held on all things in creation,
Such as womanly submission, joined with higher education;
Words fail me, I will merely state that she was just perfection,
And so thought PETER PATERSON when he made her his selection.

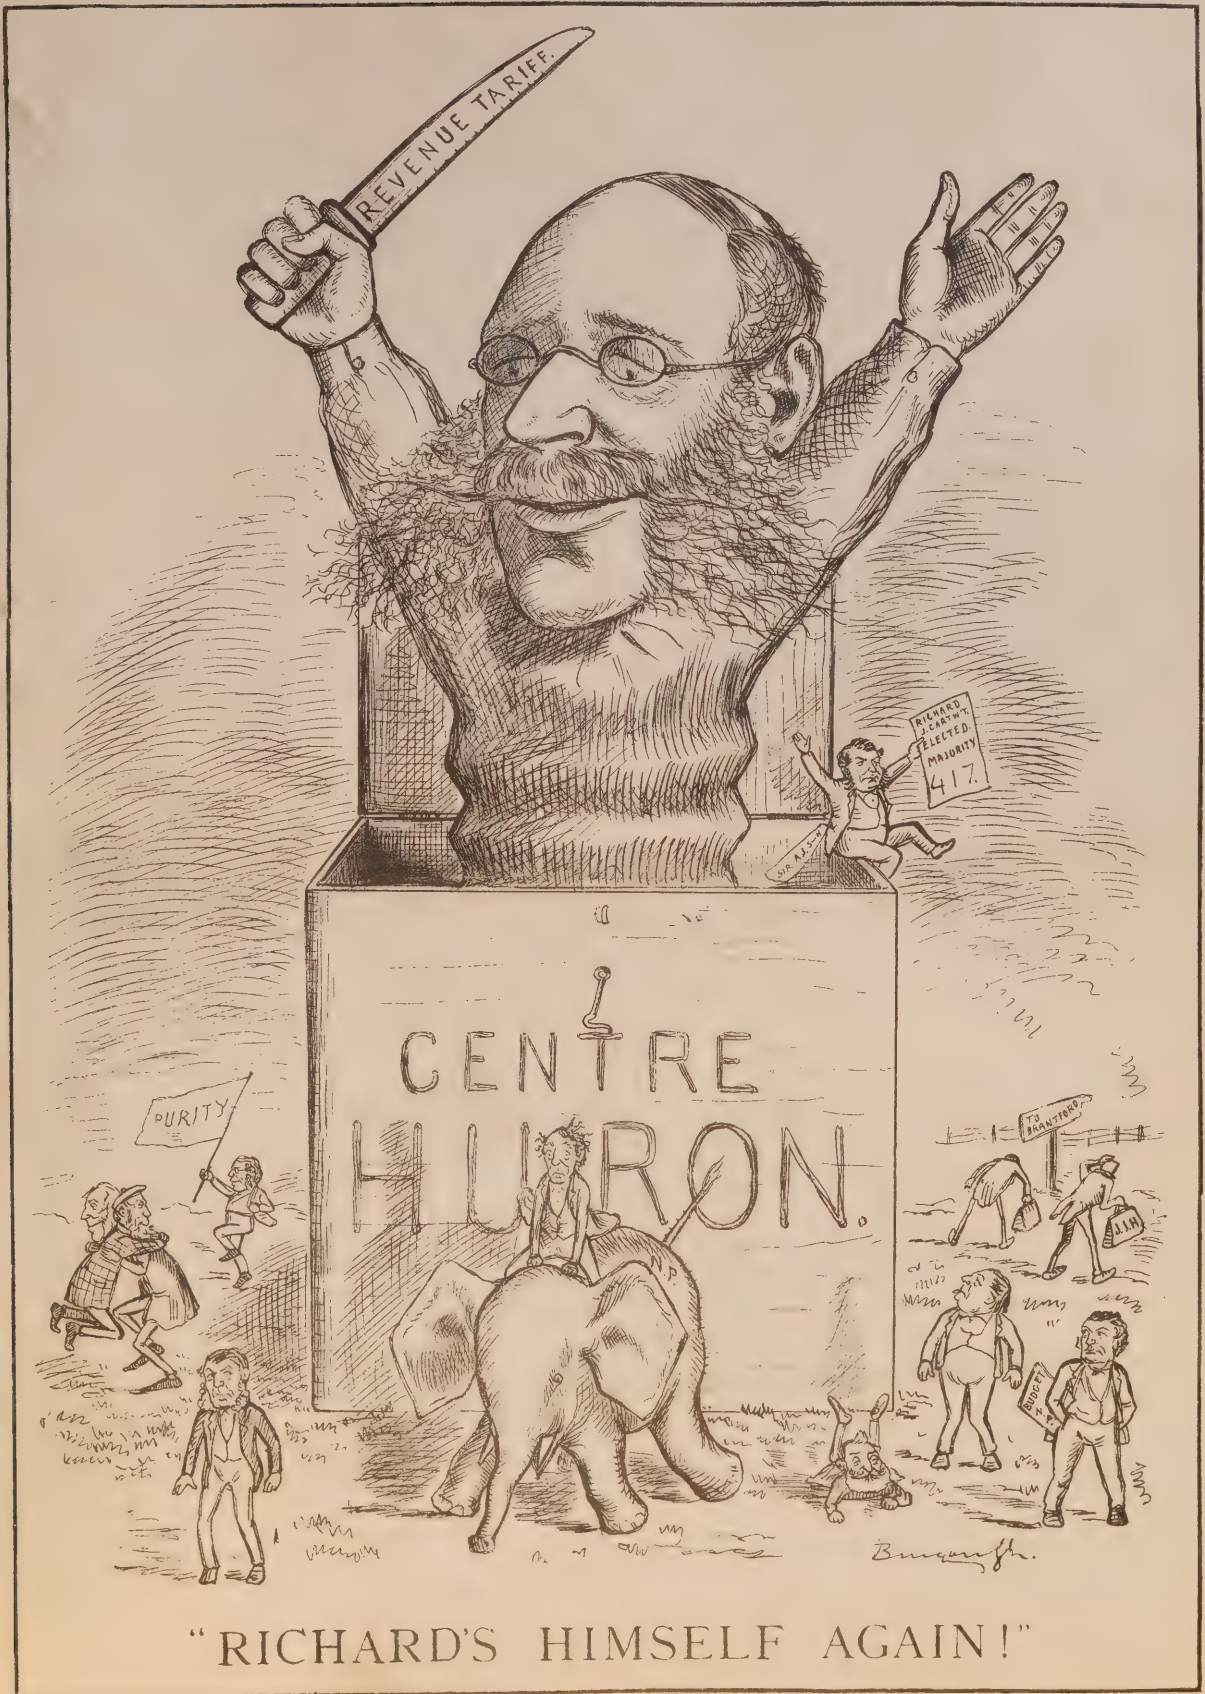

They married on an income of just four hundred dollars;
But ELLEN made the pies and cakes and starched the shirts and collars,
And in that model cottage was ne'er a sight so shocking
As a hole that lacked darning in the heel of PETER's stocking.

She boiled all bones for soups—in short, she was so wondrous thrifty.
That of dollars every year she saved three hundred, also fifty;
She tatted, crotcheted, worked in wools, she painted, played, and sang
Till praise of PETER's blissful lot all o'er the country rang.

Professors, doctors, men of note in army, law, and church,
And every one distinguished for learning or research
Their cottage filled; they entertained at dinner, luncheon, tea,
A nobleman; ay, better still, the Royal Family.

And ELLEN now and PETER are blessed with monstrous wealth,
And all their offspring are endowed with beauty, brains, and health.
The moral is that all young men should very early wed,
And a perfect hurricane of bliss will be upon them shed.

* Will the reader kindly excuse the apparent contradiction in words in the last line. The author searched the vocabulary in vain for more appropriate terms.

"RICHARD'S HIMSELF AGAIN!"

"I know a bank."—SHAKESPEARE

I'd like to know who is this swell, that signs himself a Bank Clerk,
And thinks himself in poverty, although he's safely anchored.
Behind his counter telling out, or taking in our dollars,
Of which one thousand every year he by permission collars.

The one I mean is that bright youth who sneers at early marriages,
And actually turns up his nose at ladies in their carriages!
Because forsooth he can't afford to keep up the same style on His thousand dollars—why should they such airs and graces pile on.

Ye gods! what we are coming to, that with two hundred sterling,
Each year unto him duly paid this chap can't keep from hurling
His wrath upon society? because it can't provide him
With club, cigars and carriage with a wife to sit beside him!

Does he forget when the "old man" out on the tenth concession
Was whacking at the maple trees to get him a profession?
And when his head was found too thick to scan a line of CÆSAR,
His father put him in a Bank to give the girls "a breeze" sir.

Let him abandon his desire to gaze on swells bewitchin',
And cast his 'ristocratic eye on SALLY in the kitchen.
The chances are his earlier years were spent in its vicinity
Before he thought of U. C. C. or "mortar board" of Trinity.

Let him reflect that many a man, and just as good as he is,
On half such pay can keep a wife and children on his knee as Happy as a king, but then perhaps it's his blue blood, sir—
Or dilettante tastes that makes him pine so for his club, sir.

Ingenuous youth, go home and rest, and think while in your attic
How comfortable you could be though less aristocratic,
If you'd only give up aping swells and wait till some more tin come,
Give up cigars and buy a pipe and live within your income.

MATILDA.

To the Editor of "Grip,"

SIR:—This letter, I am aware, should be addressed to the Mail, that enterprising journal having started the subject which heads it, and which is now agitating the minds of the youth of both sexes throughout the Province; but as this is a question affecting Grit and Tory alike, I think it only right that the controversy should be removed from the columns of a purely partisan sheet, such as the Mail, and transferred to one that is read and enjoyed by all classes, Tory as well as Grit—the great advocate of "Protection" (for the oppressed), and of "Free Trade" (in Charity, Humor and all that makes life pleasant). I need not say I mean GRIP.

My case, Sir, differs somewhat—in fact I may say considerably from any of those which have appeared in the columns of the Mail, from "BANK CLERK" downwards. It is briefly this:—I am gradually approaching my twenty-fifth year—if I linger till August next will have lived a quarter of a century. My friends all tell me that I should call myself blessed among young men, yet what is life to me? Poverty? you ask. No. Listen. I hold a Government situation worth $1200 a year. This is also supplemented by £80 stg. which my dear mother in Ireland allows me, to say nothing of the £20 my spinster aunt (from whom I have great expectations) sends me at Christmas, or the £5 note which she encloses whenever she writes—say twice every three months. In addition to this (bless her old heart) she has promised to settle £200 a year on me the day I am married, this over and above what I am to receive at her death. So much for my financial situation. I enjoy the best of health, keep my horse, and am to be seen any fine afternoon, mounted on my barb, and clad in unexceptionable attire, carolaging through the streets of the metropolis, the envy of many a poor Government employée, and I flatter myself, the cynosure of every eye.

Modesty forbids my dwelling for any length on my personal appearance, but I have it on my mother's own authority that I was a remarkably lovely baby, and I believe I have not much changed since my infancy—however I send my photograph.*

There, Sir, you have me as I stand—yet with all these advantages I am a miserable wretch. The cause is briefly: I yearn, yet dread to marry. The summit of my ambition, the acme of my fondest desire is to have a wife. I know I could have one for the asking and yet I dare not ask! Bear with me then, dear GRIP, and advise me. I know seven young ladies, young, pretty, accomplished, well connected—everything—any one of whom would gladly become Mrs. Ego to-morrow, yet I hesitate to ask—to put the fateful question, so sure am I that the answer, whatever it might be, would be destructive to my peace of mind. Should it be "yes," I know I would never forgive myself for not having asked one of the others—and were it "no!"—but my heart sinks, my brain reels at the bare conjecture.

I say nothing of the bitter animosity that would be engendered in the hearts of the six less fortunate maidens, and those of their male and female relatives †—that I know would be awful. I only ask you to take pity on a not altogether "poor young man" and aid me with your counsel.

Your constant reader

EGO.

The Metropolis, Nov., '78.

GRIP's advice to EGO is that of the immortal HORACE—"GREELY," not "FLACCUS"—"GO WEST YOUNG MAN!"

* He sent us seventeen, taken in different attitudes. No, EGO, you do not appear to have changed much since you were a baby. Wait a few years for your whiskers and moustache though. (ED. GRIP)

† Don't let that alarm you, Peacock! (ED. GRIP)

The Conservative Leader to His Followers.

And doth not a meeting like this make amends
For the years that we've spouted at picnics away,
To see once more round me my old Tory friends
All once more looking forward to glad quarter day?

And remember we need not on that day alone
Rest our hopes of progression in booty and pelt,
For each day and each week to the calendar known
Will give each one new chances of helping himself.

Oh, what joys the Pacific hath for us in store,
Which no wonder our TUPPER is anxious to push,
You remember how nearly we grabbed them before,
But our golden bird 'scaped from us into the bush.

He shall not 'scape again; by yon orb of day,
By this goblet which to our success now I drain,
That bright bird Paradisaic shall here with us stay
Till no feather unplucked does upon him remain.

Then Protection—I know that it troubles you sore,
How the work that we've pledged we'll contrive to get through,
Well, what then?—sure experience has taught you before
If you don't wish to pay, why 'tis best to renew.

Its apostle—who got us the places we hold,
How severely and quickly we dished him you know,
We have used him, and then left him out in the cold,
For we won't tread the path where he wished us to go.

You're aware of the reason, your leader has showed
You before,—but keep mum—it is strict entre nous,
But remember it shortly: We don't know the road,
And we won't share our pay with the fellows who do.

So we'll go to the House, and we'll promises make
Of Protection and all of the good things to be,
But remark "Mustn't hurry; some time it will take,
In a session or two such results you shall see."

And we'll committees strike, and we'll evidence bring,
And we'll seem to be doing a deuce of a lot,
And when four or five sessions have flown on Time's wing
Why, quite up in the subject perhaps we'll have got.

Then we'll say "We're all ready Protection to give,
You won't turn us out now we've worked at it so long,
Give us but five years more and as sure as you live,
We'll go in for the National Policy strong.

Then meantime about pickings; but mind you I don't Counsel you; but if people approaching you see
Who would bribe you for tariffs; I hope that you won't
Listen to them—at least, mind, don't implicate me.

We've good salaries got, boys; so give me a cheer,
And don't think for a moment, nor venture to say
That our big thumping majorities are coming here,
Just to vote for good measures. They'll vote for JOHN A.

ADVICE TO PERSONS ABOUT TO MARRY—Write to the Mail.

Grip and Scribner only $5.00.SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY,*Conducted by J. G. HOLLAND*The Handsomest Illustrated Magazine in the World.

The American edition of this periodical is

More than 70,000 Monthly,

And it has a larger circulation in England than any other American magazine. Every number contains about one hundred and fifty pages, and from fifty to seventy-five original wood-cut illustrations. Several illustrated articles descriptive of Canadian Sports and Scenery have recently appeared in its pages, and the magazine during the coming year will devote much space to matters of special interest to the Canadian public.

"HAWORTH'S" by Mrs Frances Hodgson Burnett, author of "That Lass o' Lowrie's." The scene of Mrs. Burnett's new novel is laid in Lancashire; the hero is a young inventor of American birth. "Haworth's" is the longest story Mrs. Burnett has yet written. It will run through twelve numbers of the Monthly, beginning with November, 1878, and will be profusely illustrated.

"FALCONBERG," by H. H. Boyesen, author of "Gunnar," "The Man who Lost his Name," &c. In this romance the author graphically describes the peculiarities of Norse immigrant life in a Western settlement. Some of the incidents will be found of very curious interest, this being a study of a phase of life in the New World with which few Americans, even, are familiar. "Falconberg" began in the August number of 1878.

A STORY OF NEW ORLEANS, by George W. Cable. This story will exhibit the state of society in Creole Louisiana about the years 1809-45, the time of the Cession, and a period bearing a remarkable likeness to the present Reconstruction period.

PORTRAITS OF AMERICAN POETS. This series will be continued, that of Longfellow appearing in November. These portraits are drawn from life by Wyatt Eaton and engraved by T. Cole. They will be printed separately on tinted paper, as frontispieces of four different numbers. Illustrated sketches of the lives of the poets will accompany these portraits.

STUDIES IN THE SIERRAS.—A series of papers (mostly illustrated) by John P. Muir, the California naturalist. These are the most graphic and picturesque, and at the same time exact and trustworthy studies of "The California Alps" that have yet been made. The series will sketch the California Passes, Lakes, Meadows, Wind Storms and Forests.

A NEW VIEW OF BRAZIL. Mr. Herbert H. Smith, of Cornell University, a companion of the late Prof. Hartt, is now in Brazil, with Mr. J. Wells Champney (the artist who accompanied Mr. Edward King in his tour through "The Great South"), preparing for SCRIBNER a series of papers on the present condition,—the cities, the rivers and general resources of the great empire of South America.

THE "JOHNNY REB" PAPERS, by an "ex-Confederate" soldier, will be among the raciest contributions to SCRIBNER during the coming year. They are written and illustrated by Mr. Allen C. Redwood, of Baltimore. The first of the series, "Johnny Reb at play," appears in the November number.

THE LEADING EUROPEAN UNIVERSITIES. We are now having prepared, for SCRIBNER, articles on the leading Universities of Europe. They will be written by an American College Professor, Mr. H. H. Boyesen, of Cornell (author of "Falconberg," &c.),—and will include sketches of the leading men in each of the most important Universities of Great Britain and the Continent, their methods of teaching, &c.

Among the additional series of papers to appear may be mentioned those on How Shall We Spell (two papers by Prof. Lounsbury), The New South, Lawn-Planting for Small Places (by SAMUEL PARSONS, of Flushing), Canada of To-day, American Art and Artists, American Archaeology, Modern Inventors; also Papers of Travel, History, Physical Science, Studies in Literature, Political and Social Science, Stories, Poems; "Topics of the Time" by Dr. J. G. Holland; record of New Inventions and Mechanical Improvements; Papers on Education, Decoration, &c.; Book Reviews; fresh bits of Wit and Humor, &c., &c., &c.

Terms, 4.00 a year in advance; 35 cents a number.

SCRIBNER & CO., 743 & 745 Broadway, New-York.

Subscriptions received at GRIP Office.

TO PRINTERS.—3-Horse Power Boiler and Engine,

New. Horizontal engine and upright boiler attached to one base. Will be sold cheap for cash as the owner has no further use for it. Apply to BENGOUGH BROS., General Agents. TORONTO.GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

AUGUSTUS PITOU Manager.

Monday, November 11th,

For six nights and Wednesday and Saturday Matinees,

John Stetson's Opera Bouffe Company.32--ARTISTS--32

Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Wednesday Matinee, the popular Extravaganza,

EVANGELINE,

With its charming music and wealth of attraction. In active preparation, the Grand Musical Burlesque, Babes in the Wood. Prices, 25, 50 and 75 cents.

BEST

business you can engage in. $5 to $20 per day made by any worker of either sex, right in their own localities. Particulars and samples worth $5 free. Improve your spare time at this business. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT,

OTTAWA, 18th April, 1878.

NO DISCOUNT ALLOWED ON

American Invoices until further notice.

J. JOHNSON,

Commissioner of Customs.

v-6-1f

WANTED.—5 cents each will be paid for the following back numbers of GRIP:

VOL.	Nos.	2, 16, 23.
" 3.	"	7, 9, 17, 20, 21, 23.
" 4.	"	1, 2, 4, 5, 6.
" 5.	"	5, 7, 17, 19, 21, 26.
" 6.	"	6, 7, 9, 13, 25.
" 7.	"	4, 12, 20, 21.
" 8.	"	1, 2, 7, 12, 17, 24.
" 9.	"	3, 15.

BENGOUGH BROS., Toronto.

U can make money faster at work for us than at any thing else. Capital not required; we will start you $12 per day at home made by the industrious. Men, women, boys and girls wanted everywhere to work for us. Now is the time. Costly outfit and terms free. Address, TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

J. F. DANTER, M. D.

Homoeopathist and Medical Electrician. Office and Pharmacy: 4 Albert Street, (Cor. Yonge) Toronto. Medicine for sale, vials refilled. Letters promptly answered.

TO PHONOGRAPHERS!

Just to hand a full Stock of ISAAC PITMAN'S Text Books.

Compend of Phonography	5 cts.
Exercises in Phonography	5
Grammologies and Contractions	10
Questions on Manual	15
Selections in Reporting Style	20
Teacher	20
Key to Teacher	20
Reader	20
Manual	50
Reporter	75
Reporting Exercises	20
Phrase Book	30
Covers for holding Note Book	20
The Reporter's Guide, by Thos. Allan Reid	60

Sent post-paid to any address on receipt of price.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

Next Post Office, Toronto.

$66 a week in your own town. $5 Outfit free. No risk. Reader, if you want a business at which persons of either sex can make great pay all the time they work, write for particulars to H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Maine.

Financial.$10 TO 1000

Invested in Wall St. Stocks makes fortunes every month.

Book sent free explaining everything.

Address BAXTER & Co., Bankers, 17 Wall St., N. Y.

xi-20-1y.

NEATLY, CHEAPLY, QUICKLY.Grip Job Department.

Everything in the Printing line from a

Label to a Three-Sheet Poster,

WITH NEATNESS AND DESPATCH.

We are prepared to fill Orders by Mail for Visiting Cards (Finest Bristol, White or Tinted) immediately on receipt of letter, and forward by FIRST MAIL, at the following rates:

25 Cards, (one name, one style type),	30 cents.
50 " " " "	50 "
100 " " " "	75 "

The following are Samples of Type from which a choice may be made.

1*Robert Taylor.2William Richardson3Miss Maggie Thompson4George Augustus Williams.5Mrs. Thomas Jones.6William Arthur Crawford.7Miss Susie Wade.8Byron W. Scott.9William Shakespeare.Chromo Cards:

(Five Beautiful Pictures)

100 Cards, (one name, one style type) $1.50.
50 " " " " 1.00.
25 " " " " 75.

Mourning Cards:

25 Cards, (one name one style type),	50 cents.
50 " " " " "	75 "
100 " " " " "	$1.25 "

Memorial Cards

Beautiful Designs,..... $ 1.00 per dozen.

Samples by mail,..... 5c. each.

Printing addresses on Cards, 10 cents extra for each Order.

Write your Name and the Number of the Letter you desire plainly, to prevent mistakes.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

Imperial Buildings, (Next Post Office), Toronto.

PUBLISHERS' NOTE

Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.

Subscription price, $2 per annum, strictly in advance. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied. BENGOUGH BROS.

USE ONLY

ONTARIO
BAKING POWDER.

ASK YOUR

Grocer for it.

Bone Manure!

Pure Bone Meal, warranted best quality. Super-phosphates. Ground bones for Vineries. Rates moderate.

Factory, Esplanade & George Sts.
Address R. POLLOCK,

191 Jarvis St.

xii-3-6m.

NOW READY!

DON'T FAIL TO SEE THEM!

NEW YEAR'S

Calling Cards,

WISHING YOU A HAPPY NEW YEAR

Original Comic designs by
J. W. BENGOUGH.

25 Cards, with name, 50c.
50 " " " 75c.

Samples sent to any address on receipt of stamp.

BENGOUGH BROS., Toronto.

FARM FOR SALE.

A very desirable farm for a gentleman's residence, consisting of 31 acres, in the Township of Pickering, County of Ontario, overlooking Frenchman's Bay. A small stream runs through the north west corner. There is

A Capital Orchard

of Pears, Plums, Cherry and Apple Trees, covering twelve acres. On nine acres of this Orchard the trees are only six years old, just commencing to bear. The soil is as good as can be found in the township, which is equivalent to saying there is none better in the province.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

REAL ESTATE AG'TS

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS.

Next Post Office, Toronto.

DIARIES FOR 1879.

*Wallets, Purses, Pocket Books, Letter & Card Cases,
&c., &c., &c.*

BROWN BROTHERS,

Manufacturing Stationers, TORONTO.

[TRADE MARK REGISTERED]

CAUTION.

Before purchasing your spring shirts, get our prices, our Shirts please everybody our trade this season is far ahead of last. If you want a good shirt at a low price try sample one. Send for circular to A. White, late White & Sharpe 65 King Street West.

Relief Plates,

TYPE HIGH.

Any Subject to Order.

BENGOUGH BROS.

VOL. XII.

No. 5.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 21, 1878.

GRIP OFFICE,
IMPERIAL BUILDING.

*The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.*

5 CTS. EACH.
$2 PER ANNUM.

MUTUAL STREET RINK.

The Band will be in attendance every Friday evening throughout the season without extra charge, and season ticket holders admitted FREE.

Tickets can now be procured from the Secretary's office.

WILLIAM RENNIE, Secretary-Treasurer.

OFFICE: COR. JARVIS AND ADELAIDE STS.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach Grip office not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

$1.50

Will Wash and Rough
Dry 100 Pieces, at the

TORONTO STEAM
LAUNDRY.

Cor. Bay & Wellington.

OFFICE: 65 KING ST. WEST

DELAHERE, BLACK, AND
REESOR, Barristers, Attorneys, Solicitors, &c., 17 Toronto St.
T. D. DELAHERE, DAVIDSON BLACK
H. A. REESOR.

MOWAT, MACLENNAN, &
DOWNEY, Solicitors, &c.,
Queen City Insurance Building, 24
Church St., Toronto, OLIVER MOW-
AT, Q. C. JAMES MACLENNAN, Q. C.
JOHN DOWNEY, THOMAS LANGTON.

BIGELOW, N. G., BARRIS-
TER-AT-LAW, etc. Offices
—Staunton's Buildings, north-west
corner of King and Yonge streets,
Toronto.

TO PRINTERS.

WANTED.—A Newspaper
Mailing Machine and Brevier suitable for setting up list. Apply
to

GEO. BENGOUGH

Toronto.

FOR SALE.

Breech Loading Rifle,

Manufactured by Frank Wesson,
Boston, Mass. Cost $35, will be sold for $20. Owner has no use for it.
Apply to

GEO. BENGOUGH,

Grip Office.

BENGOUGH BROS.

Are prepared to execute orders for

ENGRAVING

in the highest style of the art.

Type Metal Plates

MADE FROM

Pen and Ink Sketches, Photographs, Lithographs. &c.,

More perfect, true and lasting than any wood engraving, and at a much lower cost. Call and see specimens
at

GRIP OFFICE,

Next door to Post Office, Toronto.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabeast Beast is the Ass; the grabeast Bird is the Owl;
The grabeast Fish is the Oyster; the grabeast Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, 21ST DECEMBER, 1878.

TO NEWSDEALERS.—The Toronto News Co. are our wholesale agents; any orders from the trade sent direct to them will receive prompt attention.

To Correspondents.

J.M.S., Montreal.—Cannot at present lay our hand on the MS.

The Ballad of Ta Phairson.

TA PHAIRSON is a chieftain bold and fearfully contentious,
Wi' pamphlets on finance affairs—but far frae conscientious;
He oft himsel' has mixed in jobs o' questionable nature,
An' seems to doot there's only good in only ither creature.

He says he fights on neither side, but only for the nation,
An' always strives to tell the truth in every calculation,
But when the field o' battle's clear o' smoke an' a' its glories
Somehow TA PHAIRSON's always found amongst the chiefest Tories.

'Twas in the sacred cause o' Truth he fought against MACKENZIE,
An' scattered pamphlets through the land an' lectured in a frenzy;
An' cooked the public figures up to suit his party purpose,
To show that MAC. had run in debt while JOHN A. had a surplus.

'Twas in the sacred cause o' Truth that on the next occasion
He changed his mode o' reckoning for purpose o' evasion,
An' wi' a show o' bein' fair an' canny an' explicit,
He cooked up MOWAT's surplus an' made it a deficit.

When measured wi' a tailor's tape around this sauncy person,
There's few in a' the kintra side so great as is TA PHAIRSON;
But if ye measure manhood by fairness, truth, an' candour,
Ye'll scarce find any smaller man however far ye wander.

Prophetical Calendar for 1879.

JANUARY.—WENNOR issues a notification that the winter will be severe beyond all previous experience.

FEBRUARY.—Thermometer 120° in shade. Farmers busy ploughing and sowing. WENNOR in second edition of "Peoples Weather Chart" says he foresaw the intense heat when he was a baby, but had somehow forgotten the fact till now. Ontario House on account of trying temperature, postpones Session till 1880. Nobody misses it.

MARCH.—Hon. GEO. BROWN opens ice-cream kitchen for baked-out deserving-poor, in basement chamber of Globe office. Heat wondrous. Harvest commenced.

APRIL.—Editors of Globe and Mail issue joint card addressed "to the unregenerate public," certifying that having become unexpectedly converted by preaching of Mr. RINE, their respective journals will henceforth be run on strictly gospel and inner inwardness principles, and amalgamated under the title of "The Daily and Weekly Consolidated Christian," the only religious Toronto newspaper.

MAY.—WENNOR swaggers about in a white calico suit, and says he did it all, and can do it again whenever he likes. He guarantees that the great heat will last till Xmas. Mr. PATRICK BOYLE "swaps," with Archbishop LYNCH and becomes Archbishop of Toronto. Mr. LYNCH at request of the Pope taking the proprietorship and editorship of Irish Canadian.

JUNE.—Thermometer drops to 84° below zero. An ox roasted whole on Toronto Bay. WENNOR announces that 2nd edition of Peoples Weather Chart will appear immediately.

JULY.—Volume 5 of Census Papers—"in the printers' hands" eighteen months ago—makes its appearance. Lake Ontario frozen solid to the bottom. WENNOR in 3rd. edition says, "I told you so"—and certifies that he is the only original O.K. weather man. He wants a public subscription for a new hairy prophetic mantle, and note book, his present one being nearly worn out. He foresees a remarkable absence of storms for the rest of the year.

AUGUST.—Terrific hurricane from Gulf to Pacific. WENNOR telegraphs from British Columbia to Archbishop BOYLE that by a base hound printer's error; remarkable absence of storms" was substituted for "prevalence of hurricanes." He desires that the printers and publishers be forthwith excommunicated. He has, he says, more weather wisdom in his little finger than there are herrings in the ocean. The Exemption Abolition Bill having passed, the Council spend $100,000 in a grand public display of fireworks, and resolve "That the following pressing items of outlay imperatively requisite, render it impracticable and inexpedient to reduce present low rate of 26 mills in the dollar:—Mace, gold chain and robes for Mayor; Indemnity on Parliamentary basis for Councillors; "Something" for various "Boys;" New City Hall, with tower 380 feet high; Ten new Fire Halls; Silver Cradle for future Mayoresses, who may want it; $500,000 bonus for new railway; Winter garden and rink; Filling up the gap with dressed Ohio stones; Main off-take sewer; Dry dock; Wet dock; Swimming baths for the million; Three additional reservoirs; Permanent pavements in 120 streets; Reclamation of the Marsh; Reclamation of the Island; Something more for some more Boys.

SEPTEMBER.—WENNOR in 4th edition, suggests public statue to himself, as only infallible weather guide and philosopher for the nation. His note-book indicates, as before, continuance of present low temperature. Court presentation female attire at Rideau Hall ordered to be severely on fig-leaf fashion, Anno Mundi 1. No medical certificates entertained to the contrary.

OCTOBER.—Repetition of excessive heat. Not a sea-serpent seen in any ocean or newspaper. WENNOR, in a "stop-press" to his Weather Guide, says that "the old man is right again," and that nothing in the weather prediction is genuine without the signature of the aforesaid L.W.

NOVEMBER.—Proprietors of Consolidated Christian intimate that as the April arrangement has not proved a paying affair, they feel constrained unwillingly to renounce Christianity, and that the "Only Religious" has been resolved into its former dual carnal elements, with all the name implies. Great disgust of Telegram, which having stuck to heathen principles was doing a tremendous business.

DECEMBER.—In a moment of temporary sanity all the Provincial Legislatures, Councils, Lient. Governors, and Executives vote themselves out of existence. A Federal Cabinet and Parliament at Ottawa and the respective County Councils transact respectively all the national and local business amid general public rejoicing. Everybody wonders why the thing was not thought of before. L.W. directs the public to look out for Weather Almanac for 1880—A "sure thing."

OTTAWA, DEC. 16, 1878.

My Dear Mr. GWIP:

Pawdon the liberty I take in addressing you without a personal introduction, but weally you are positively the only one in the Provincial Journal line—beg pawdon again for the twade-like expwession—who seems to have a pwopah idea of the cowect welations based upon the social scale you know, existing between us—when I say us of cawth I mean the Mowhaw Countwy and yourselves the—aw—the Canadians. A military man myself—though on leave at present, I of cawth take moaw interest in matters connected with the awmy, than those in welayon to meah civilians. Now, my deah GWIP—pawdon again the familiawity—what weally is youah opinion as wegawds the new corps heah wearing the uniform of the gawds? I am not pwejudiced, you know; the mens' physyque is vewy good and cweditable for colonial troops; but is it not wather awfully jolly widiculous for them to assume owah uniforms? I weally don't like it. I am witing home by next steamah, and would like your opinion on this and kindred mattaws at once.

I am, Sir, yours and the country's servant,

CARNABY JENKS,

Lieut. 2 Troop Squadron, H. M. 14th Regt.
Sky Blue Guards.

Mr. GRIP presents his compliments to Sir CARNABY JENKS, and begs to say that he is quite in accord with that gallant officer on the subject of colonial military uniform. He is of opinion that the Ottawa guards ought to be clad in such a way as to clearly distinguish them from similar regiments on service at Coldstream, Grenadier, and other places. To this end the men ought to be prohibited from wearing eye-glasses, except when on duty. The uniform should be immediately changed. Let the Canadian troops be clad in a fashion becoming the country. Then helmets, pelisses, tunics, sabretaches, and haversacks should be trimmed with muskrat fur, which would not only be typical, but also useful, as the sentinel could then distinguish the relief from the enemy by his olfactory nerves and might be permitted an occasional nap while on guard. This would also serve to keep the regiment in good odour. Mr. GRIP is further of opinion that our Ottawa guards ought to be furnished with other weapons besides the short and comparatively harmless canes which they at present carry. Although with these ornaments alone our gallant defenders have made many brilliant conquests on Sparks street, they might be found scarcely adequate in a bloody engagement with Gen. BEN BUTLER'S Soft-Money Dragoons, who threaten to invade our Dominion. GRIP will be most happy to furnish Sir CARNABY with a letter of introduction to the Minister of Militia (who knows nearly as much about military affairs as GRIP does), and who will no doubt be happy to have a friendly chat with our gallant correspondent provided our gallant correspondent will order in the champagne.

CHRISTMAS AMONG THE POLITICIANS.

The Campaign of John A.

'Twas what was left of old JOHN A., on his last legs who stood. Turned out for some financial tricks quite the reverse of good, When gaunt and thin in suit of grey he wandered through the town And talked to T. C. PATTESON (where's he?) with visage down.

"Alas," he groaned, as quite forlorn he wandered down each street, "Who would have thought Canadians could see through the ALLAN cheat?

Oh, had it but succeeded what a future were for me, I'm done and blighted—not a leaf is left on any tree.

"Oh, then I had a palace built, not down in Kingston though, For quite too much of me they did down there begin to know. But I'd have had a gorgeous one with dining rooms of state And such a cellar down below as we would excavate.

"But now I'm done; I'm smashed; I'm broke; MACKENZIE'S floored me quite.

Oh, why was I brought up to do the things that weren't right?" Just then he passed where men of thought did congregated be And saw where one did write about a National Policy.

"A big word that; a jolly cry," remarked the sapient JOHN, And made the man explain to him what he was writing on. "I'll never understand it quite, my friend," he said, "I doubt," But I'll be bound I'll learn enough of it to talk about."

He wended straight unto the rooms belonging to the Mail, "Ho! Shout Protection: that's the thing; it must and shall prevail. Hurrah for Nash'nal Policy; mind henceforth that's your biz, And by the way, get some one who can tell us what it is."

They shouted all around the town, and through the country wide, Protection! Policy! The thing! Hooray! it shall be tried. They sought the men who planned it, and they got them to indite Their papers, and the Policy they got them out to write.

And all the crew Conservative who wanted place to get Yelled "Back the Policy; it is, by Jove, the best thing yet, Who cares, boys, what the deuce it means; it means, you'll find out, this.

Worked right, to get our salaries again it will not miss.

And all the honest fellows who the country wished to serve Worked for them, and to get them in again strained every nerve, While all the clique officials who officials were no more Cared, was to use them, when they meant to show them straight the door.

JOHN A. got in, and all his friends he gathered soon around, They drank, they swore, they shouted till the U.E. did resound, By all the ancient Compact's bones; we're in, now take your ease; As for you other chaps, be off; we need no Policies.

The feast is spread at Ottawa, for plunder now prepare, The Nationalists we've turned adrift; there's none with us shall share. There's lots of cash to borrow; there's the Fishery Award; What man of us don't now grow fat is worthy of a cord.

Split.

A FARCE IN ONE ACT.

Dramatis Personæ:—CLUB SWELL, WORKINGMAN, CLUB FOOTMAN.

ACT I, SCENE I.—Club Chambers—Swell at Table C. sitting reading Phipps on Phallacies.

SWELL.—I wonder what those wooden headed caitiffs mean by kicking up such an infernal row about their "rights" as they call them, and at this time of all others, just on the eve of an election! But 'twas ever thus—the old tale of Sops to Cerebus; they don't know when they've got enough. Because they have thought fit to help us and themselves they want to run the whole—

Enter FOOTMAN, Door R.

FOOT.—A gentleman wishes to see you, Sir.

SWELL.—A gentleman? Has he any indications of having any "papers" about him? Has he been here before? (Uneasily) It's not that—

FOOT.—No, Sir it's not him (aside) TED the bailiff.

SWELL.—Show him in.

Enter WORKINGMAN—Walks with hostile expression straight to C. SWELL.

W.M.—Sir, I represent the noble workmen of the Noble Ward, and I want to know at once the course you intend to take as regards me and my feller workmen. Now, I wish to hinform you, Sir, that if the bloated arist—

SWELL.—My good fellow—I should say my dear Sir, kindly be seated, and might I suggest that you remove your hat, the weather outside is severe and you might take cold.

W.M.—All right, Guv'nor (takes off hat and sits opposite C. SWELL)

SWELL.—Sir, you are a workingman and I am rejoiced to see you—JOHN, bring a bottle of port (wine brought). The object of my existence has been since I first conceived the idea of entering into public life to benefit the workingman. Sir, I admire and respect the horny handed worker. I could, Sir, look for hours with pleasure on the workingman toiling at his honest task. I venerate him—take a glass of wine, Sir, do.

W.M.—Thankee, 'ere's towards us. (drinks)

SWELL.—Now, my good fel—dear Sir, may I enquire what your particular work is—your trade in fact, I am deeply interested in the cause I assure you, now, what do you work at?

W.M.—Well, Sir, ye see, I'm appointed President of the Young Men's Working Association, and I 'ave so much to do with Committee affairs—

SWELL.—Now tell me, when did you work last?

W.M.—Well, Sir, you see the times have been so 'ard in concivence of them infernal Grits 'olding the reins of power, that I 'ave not worked for a hawful long time; but if you will hact with us and—

SWELL.—Why, confound you for an egotistical tool of a blatant gathering of ignorami! you're no more a working man than I am. Look you here, Sir! when we have arranged a plan to better your condition, don't you presume to hinder its working by any of your shallow treacheries, or by the great JUPITER TONANS, we'll have you up for conspiring, and act with you as did the ruthless tyrant BROWN, who if ye heed not will remain in a position to trample ye again under the iron heel of his juggernaut—I mean his boot! JOHN, show this fellow out. (Exit workingman I.L.E. on the double)

Tableau—Curtain.

The New Adaptation.

SIR JOHN MACDONALD as "Falstaff."

MACFALSTAFF—(To Canada).—I am called to offices of state. Miss CANADA, say what thing thou wouldst most in the world, it is thine. Hark thee, lend me $7,000; it shall be quintiply repaid. Come to see me at Court. What, shall we not be brave? Marry, we shall.

TUPPER—(As Pistol).—A fico for the worldlings base I of Protection speak, and golded joys. Prithee, Miss CANADA, lend me also $7,000. I will repay thee. Gogswounds! I will! Death and basket-blades! I will most unutterably strike off the head of the base cottle who squeaks I will not! Why, I am about to do thee such favours (what they are I know not, but I read them in a pamphlet) as that mighty Afric and great Ind should be poured into thy lap. Knowst not me! What reach me of thy pecuniaries—thou shalt have interest, coz, I am PISTOL, I! Wilt have the plnnder of the Celestials? Shall I take ATROPOS by the ear; shall he not disgorge for thee? (Roars) I will-l-l hau-l-l him-m-m from the depths of his-s-s infernal-l-l pit-t-t. (Softly) Lend me the $7,000, chuck.

SCENE II.

PISTOL-TUPPER in front of casement. ENTER gang of Speculators.

FIRST SPECULATOR—(Exhibits Manufacturers' Policy leaf).—Good master PISTOL, I do peg you will eat this leaf.

PISTOL-TUPPER—(Jumps up).—Fire, Fiends, Death! Fury! What ho! Help! Sir JOHN! Sir JOHN. (Knocks at casement).

SIR JOHN—(Within).—Can't attend at present! Most important session—matters of State; be off! (Heavy fall heard on bed).

PISTOL-TUPPER.—The Great Sir JOHN

Lies ill of present and contagious hurt,

Leave this, besognios, vanish, scuttlet, tramp,

Or I with ra-a-age unquench-h-h-able shall-l-l-l—

2ND SPECULATOR—(Beats him).—I pray you eat this.—(Gives leaf).

PISTOL-TUPPER—(Eats).—All hell-l-l shall-l-l smoke for this!

3RD SPECULATOR.—Eat well, I pray you; it is good for your green wound, and your ploody coxcomb.

PISTOL-TUPPER.—But I did swear

To put the National Policy in force,

Nor eat such stuff as—

1ST SPECULATOR—(Beats him).—Eat.

PISTOL-TUPPER.—Quiet thy cudgel; thou dost see I eat.

CANADA—(Enters with her Parliamentary servants).—These be two coggig impudent knaves who imposed themselves on me. Turn them out, and others who were with them likewise, I must have capable men.

Tough on William.

GRIP is prepared to read almost anything about his friend the Hon. WILLIE MACDOUGALL in the Grit papers, but he confesses to his astonishment at finding the following words of truth and soborness in the editorial column of the Conservative Free Press of London:

"It is a pity that Mr. Macdougall will not consent to go where he is so much needed, and where he could effect so much through that moral courage so deficient in the Grit ranks. But surely he will not stay long in Ottawa, where he has been so shabbily treated by Sir John and all the rest of the Conservative magnates. He has not only met with the cold shoulder, he has been absolutely ignored in official circles. Cold comfort this for Wandering Willie, and a poor return for such services as he rendered to the patriotic cause during the late campaign. But then it is just like Sir John. He is always alienating his friends, embittering his foes, and snubbing those who have served him and the country at the very moment when service tells.

Municipal Elections.

1879. MAYORALTY. 1879.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF TORONTO.

GENTLEMEN,—

Having been presented with a requisition signed by a very large number of the most influential Ratepayers of the City, asking me to allow myself to be put in nomination for the Mayoralty for 1879, I take this means of placing myself in your hands as a candidate for that position, being assured, by the signatures to the Requisition (which I shall publish at an early day through the press) that I shall receive your hearty support. I remain, Gentlemen, your obedient servant,

P. G. CLOSE.

xii-3-4t.

1879. MAYOR. 1879.

To the Electors of the City of Toronto.

GENTLEMEN,—In response to a numerous signed requisition, and the general demand of citizens interested in economy and improved administration of civic affairs, I place myself before the public as a candidate for the Mayoralty. As I hope to meet my fellow-citizens in public meetings and otherwise, I will hereafter more fully explain my views on the financial and general interests of the city.

Your obedient servant,

JAMES BEATY, Jr.

YOUR VOTE AND INTEREST

ARE RESPECTFULLY SOLICITED FOR

ALEX. MANNING,

AS

MAYOR FOR 1879.

ST. ANDREW'S WARD.

Your vote and Influence are Respectfully solicited forWM. DIXON,
AS ALDERMAN FOR 1879.

The Election takes place on Monday, January 6th, 1879.

EAST TORONTO ELECTION

VOTE FOR

JOHN LEYS,

THE RESIDENT CANDIDATE

Who was one of the first citizens to advocate and help to construct our

NARROW GAUGE RAILWAYS,

Which have been the means of reducing the price of your fuel nearly ONE HALF, and which have done so much to build up East Toronto, and

NOT FOR AN OUTSIDER

Who has no stake in the City, and who has never lost a day or expended a dollar in promoting your interests.

Central Prison of Ontario

Tenders for Prison Labour.

Offers addressed to the undersigned will be received up to noon of

Friday, 20th December,

for leasing, for a term of five years, the labour of 50 or more of the prisoners committed to the Central Prison at Toronto, together with shops and the machinery and fixtures therein contained.

Specifications and terms under which the contract will be carried on, together with description of the shops, plant, and machinery proposed to be leased with the labour, can be seen at the office of the Manager of the Prison Industries on the Prison premises, or upon application to the undersigned, at his office in the Parliament Buildings, Toronto. The highest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted. Bonds for the proper fulfilment of the contract will be required.

J. W. LANGMUIR,

Inspector of Prisons and Public Charities.

Parliament Buildings, Toronto, Dec. 10, 1878.

xii-4-2t

ELECTORS OF EAST TORONTO

VOTE FOR

JOHN LEYS,

THE RESIDENT CANDIDATE!

Whose interests are the same as your own, and

NOT FOR AN OUTSIDER

Who has no Stake whatever in the City.

EAST TORONTO ELECTION

ELECTORS,

VOTE FOR

Hon. Alexander Morris,

A tried and able administrator, and turn out an incapable and extravagant Government.

Vote for HON. ALEXANDER MORRIS, and speed the National Policy and the revival of manufactures in our midst.

Keep out the nominee of George Brown and the Starvationists.

The workmen of East Toronto must have fair play. MR. MORRIS will get it for them. Mr. Leys will not be allowed to help them.

TO PHONOGRAPHERS!

Just to hand a full Stock of ISAAC PITMAN'S
Text Books.

Compend of Phonography	5 cts.
Exercises in Phonography	5
Grammalogues and Contractions	10
Questions on Manual	15
Selections in Reporting Style	20
Teacher	20
Key to Teacher	20
Reader	20
Manual	50
Reporter	75
Reporting Exercises	20
Phrase Book	30
Covers for holding Note Book	20
The Reporter's Guide, by Thos. Allan Reid	60
Self-culture, corresponding style	60
The Book of Psalms, corresponding style	35
New Testament, reporting style	$2.50
Phonographic Dictionary	1.00
Pilgrim's Progress, corresponding style	50
Extracts, corresponding style	20

Sent post-paid to any address on receipt of price.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

Next Post Office, Toronto.

BEST business you can engage in. $5 to $20 per day made by any worker of either sex, right in their own localities. Particulars and samples worth $5 free. Improve your spare time at this business. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

List of Books For Sale
AT GRIP OFFICE.

Harmony of the Gospels (2 vols.)	$1.00
Types and Emblems, Spurgeon.	60c.
The Domestic World, by the Author of "Enquire Within."	75c.
Sermons by Talmage, (cloth).	$1.00
Sermons by Cochrane, (morocco).	$1.50
Studies for the Pulpit, 300 Sermons.	$2.00
Lectures & Sermons by Punshon, (morocco).	$2.50
Toronto of old by H. Scadding, D.D., (morocco).	$3.00
Songs of our Youth, with music, by Author of "John Halifax Gentleman."	$2.50
Views and Interviews on journalism.	$1.00
Workshop Appliances by Shelly, (cloth).	$1.00
Elements of Mechanism, (cloth)	$1.00
Stones Crying Out, (cloth).	$1.00
Business by a Merchant, (cloth).	$1.00
A Legend of the Grand Gordons, Illustrated.	$3.00
Gill's Stair Builder,	$4.00
New Elements of Hand Railing, by Riddell.	$7.00
Ellen Manners,	$1.00
May Lawton,	45c.
Anna, the Runaway.	45c.

REWARD CARDS.

100 Proverbs of Solomon.	15c
100 Sayings of Jesus.	15c.
100 Sayings of St. Paul.	15c.
Sent to any address, postage paid on receipt of price.

U can make money faster at work for us than at any thing else. Capital not required: we will start you $12 per day at home made by the industrious. Men, women, boys and girls wanted everywhere to work for us. Now is the time. Costly outfit and terms free. Address, TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

Financial.

$10 TO 1000 Invested in Wall St. Stocks makes fortunes every month. Book sent free explaining everything. Address BAXTER & Co., Bankers, 17 Wall St., N. Y. xi-20-1y.

PUBLISHERS' NOTE

Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.

Subscription price, $2 per annum, strictly in advance. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied. BENGOUGH BROS.

USE ONLY

ONTARIO
BAKING POWDER.

ASK YOUR
Grocer for it.

Bone Manure!

Pure Bone Meal, warranted best quality. Super-phosphates. Ground bones for Vineries. Rates moderate. Factory, Esplanade & George Sts.
Address R. POLLOCK,
191 Jarvis St.
xii-3-6m.

J. O'CONNOR,
Boot & Shoe Maker,
30 Victoria St., Toronto.

WANTED.—Second-hand Show Cases. Must be in first-class condition.
BENGOUGH BROS.

FARM FOR SALE.
100 ACRES
In the Township of Uxbridge.
Would exchange for entire horse, weighing 1,700 or 1,800 pounds, and not more than 8 years old.
BENGOUGH BROS.

Received Jan. 8, 1879,
PITMAN'S
Teacher, Exercises and Dictionary.

If those customers who favoured us with orders during the past two weeks will kindly repeat, they will be filled without delay.
BENGOUGH BROS.

FARM FOR SALE.
A very desirable farm for a gentleman's residence, consisting of 31 acres, in the Township of Pickering, County of Ontario, overlooking Frenchman's Bay. A small stream runs through the north west corner. There is

A Capital Orchard
of Pears, Plums, Cherry and Apple Trees, covering twelve acres. On nine acres of this Orchard the trees are only six years old, just commencing to bear. The soil is as good as can be found in the township, which is equivalent to saying there is none better in the province.

BENGOUGH BROS.,
REAL ESTATE AG'TS
IMPERIAL BUILDINGS.
Next Post Office, Toronto.

DIARIES FOR 1879.

*Wallets, Purses, Pocket Books, Letter & Card Cases,
&c., &c., &c.*

BROWN BROTHERS,
Manufacturing Stationers, TORONTO.

[TRADE MARK REGISTERED]

Relief Plates,
TYPE HIGH.
Any Subject to Order.
BENGOUGH BROS.

CAUTION.

Before purchasing your spring shirts, get our prices, our Shirts please everybody our trade this season is far ahead of last. If you want a good shirt at a low price try sample one. Send for circular to A. White, late White & Sharpe 65 King Street West.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 22, 1879.

GRIP OFFICE, { The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; } 5 CTS. EACH.
IMPERIAL BUILDING. { The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool. } $2 PER ANNUM.

JOB LOT
MOURNING CARDS, DRAWING BOOKS, PAPER CLIPS, PEN RACKS, &c.,
AT WHOLESALE PRICES.
BENGOUGH BROS., Toronto.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach GRIP office not later than Wednesday.—Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

$1.50

Will Wash and Rough
Dry 100 Pieces, at the
TORONTO STEAM
LAUNDRY.

Cor. Bay & Wellington.
OFFICE: 65 KING ST. WEST

DELAMERE, BLACK, AND
REESOR, Barristers, Attorneys, Solicitors, &c., 17 Toronto St.
T. D. DELAMERE, DAVIDSON BLACK
H. A. REESOR.

MOWAT, MACLENNAN, &
DOWNEY, Solicitors, etc.,
Queen City Insurance Building, 24
Church St., Toronto, OLIVER MOW-
AT, Q. C. JAMES MACLENNAN, Q. C.
JOHN DOWNEY, THOMAS LANGTON.

BIGELOW, N. G., BARRIS-
TER-AT-LAW, etc. Offices
—Staunton's Buildings, north-west
corner of King and Yonge streets,
Toronto.

RODWELL & FELL,
Engravers,

And Manufacturers of Rubber and
Metal Stamps,
PRESS AND WAX SEALS,
Name Plates, Baggage and
Key Checks.

7 Adelaide St. East,
TORONTO.

BENGOUGH BROS.
Are prepared to execute orders for
ENGRAVING
in the highest style of the art.

Type Metal Plates
MADE FROM
Pen and Ink Sketches, Photographs, Lithographs, &c.,

More perfect, true and lasting than any wood engraving, and at a much lower cost. Call and see specimens
at

GRIP OFFICE,
Next door to Post Office, Toronto.

TO PRINTERS.

WANTED.—A Newspaper
Mailing Machine and Brevier suitable for setting up list. Apply
to
GEO. BENGOUGH
Toronto.

FOR SALE.
Breech Loading Rifle,
Manufactured by Frank Wesson,
Boston, Mass. Cost $35; will be sold for $20. Owner has no use for it.
Apply to
GEO. BENGOUGH,
GRIP Office.

GRIP.

EDITED BY MR. BARNABY RUDGE.

The grabeat Beast is the Ass; the grabeat Bird is the Owl;
The grabeat Fish is the Oyster; the grabeat Man is the Fool.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, 22ND FEBRUARY, 1879.

NOTICE TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.—Subscribers will please observe that the date marked on the address-slip, opposite the name, indicates the time up to which the subscription has been paid.

A Typical Photograph.

GRIP extends his congratulations to Messrs. NOTMAN and FRASER on the admirable photographs they have taken of His Excellency and Princess LOUISE; as a Canadian he shares the pride the firm properly feels in the fact that the royal sitters consider the pictures the best they have ever had executed. There is one defect about the photo. of the Marquis, however, that every lover of Canada must regret, namely, an absence of chilliness. True, his lordship is standing almost knee deep in snow, and has snow carefully and artistically distributed in the wrinkles of his coat and cap, and there are several snow banks in the background. But that will not give the folks at home an adequate idea of the climate he is at present so bravely enduring. There should have been an iceberg or two thrown in, and a thermometer indicating forty degrees below zero, and a lady in the distance in a low-necked dress on her way to be presented. It might have heightened the realistic effect still more if the artist could have photographed the Vice-regal nose of a blueish shade, but perhaps that couldn't be done. Our Old Country relatives are beginning to believe that Canada has a pretty decent climate after all, and it is too bad that this erroneous impression should be encouraged in Vice-regal photographs for want of an abundance of cold scenery.

Economy.

"It is beyond doubt, Mrs. JONES," said JONES pater, elevating his head, and looking stern, "that in these hard times we might save a great deal of money by doing things for ourselves, which we now hire people to do."

"That's just like you, Mr. JONES," said JONES mater, "you talk of such things, but you never do them. Why, now there's Mr. BROWN—" and Mrs. JONES tossed her head, to signify that compared to Mr. BROWN, Mr. JONES was in general, nowhere.

"BROWN!" roared JONES, with such explosive effect that the cat, which had been sitting on an elevated piece of furniture by his side, leaped right over his head into the hall, and rushed spitting down-stairs.

But Mrs. JONES merely said, pretending to look across the street, "Were you calling him? I don't see him."

"Pray, what were you saying about him?" asked the subsiding JONES.

"I said he could do something in the economizing line," calmly answered Mrs. JONES, smoothing down the stuff she was sewing.

"What has he done ma'am?" asked JONES, "I never see him do anything."

"Just built himself a lovely new verandah; got the boards and nails, and saved the whole carpenter's bill," answered Mrs. JONES. "And you often promised to build one, when you could afford to pay SHAVINGS' bill. Now, if you could economize, why not do it yourself? you've time enough, and I'll help you. But you can't!"

"By Jingo, I can!" exclaimed JONES, "I will commence to-morrow."

And to-morrow, sure enough, a cart came up to the door, with a great heap of boards, and a box of new tools. Mr. JONES, with great dignity bringing up the rear, and instructing the carter in a very audible voice.

"Put the clear lumber here, the scantling there, and the siding above it!" said Mr. JONES, looking proudly at his wife. "Carry the tool chest into the shed!" All right. The carter left, and Mrs. JONES asked when they would begin.

"Now!" said JONES. His look of Roman decision would have brought down any theatre. It even slightly affected Mrs. JONES. He evidently did know the names of things. But then no doubt the lumbermen had told him.

"Now," said Mr. JONES, with an air of determination, dignity, and resource altogether indescribable, "we will commence. These boards have to be planed, and sawn in two. We will plane them first. Put it on this old table, so, and hold it."

Mrs. JONES did so. Mr. J. took the jack-plane in hand with the look of REGULUS saving his country, and planed. No, he did not plane. It would not plane. It jumped and scratched, and tore up knots and made slivers, and flew right and left, and left the board worse than it found it. Mr. JONES, in a profuse perspiration, took his coat off.

"I think," said Mrs. JONES, looking at the edge of the tool, "it needs sharpening."

"Nonsense," said Mr. JONES, "it is quite new; new tools never need sharpening, for it's just as easy to make them with an edge as not. Apply Logic to the rules of common life, Mrs. JONES, and we never err. What we need is first to saw the board in two."

By their continued they now placed the obstinate board on two chairs. Mr. JONES seized a saw, took good aim, and went for the board as if he were a Chinaman condemned to sleeplessness until he had cut ten cords of firewood. Alas for the intentions of JONES, he had taken the ripping saw instead of the cross-cut, and it hung and caught, and splintered; and bent, and twisted, and at length, half way across the board, would not saw.

"Such tools!" said Mrs. JONES.

This reflection on his purchasing ability maddened JONES. He made a desperate effort. When we make a desperate effort, we either make a great success or a great failure. Mr. JONES did not make a great success: His hand, holding the board on the opposite side, slipped with the fury of his onward rush, and he fell forward, executing a very neat summersault over the saw, receiving its pointed handle in his stomach en passant, while the astounded Mrs. JONES viewed him standing inverted on his best silk hat, which unable to bear the pressure, expanded till his head went completely into it, while with one overbalancing roll his form lay on the floor, his foot went through the window. Mrs. JONES recovers sufficient presence of mind to utter an ear-piercing squall, and the saw vibrating angrily in the wood, buzzed like a reptile which had stung some one. Tableau.

Mr. JONES arose. He could not see, that being, with a hat enclosing one's face, out of the question. In fact, Mrs. JONES had to unhelm him with her scissors, while Mr. J. vigorously rubbed his saw-handle punched stomach. In these emergencies we have always two courses—one to get very angry, the other to laugh the matter off, the latter being invariably adopted when reflection allows. Mr. JONES' process of liberation gave time for reflection, and he laughed, laughed uproariously, and Mrs. JONES, of course, as she had not been hurt, and in fact had had a sort of free ticket to a very amusing entertainment, laughed also. The work then proceeded. "Try the other saw," said Mrs. JONES. It is a remarkable fact known only to philosophers that female advice often contains actual inspiration. They are the medium—the connecting link—not DARWIN's desideratum, but that between us and some superior sphere. This explains the attraction their society possesses, especially for the youthful and enthusiastic, and throw light on a vast variety of endless complications. GRIP begs to remark that this explanation is patent and secured to his heirs, and goes on. The other saw worked like magic, absolutely flying through the board—going through it so fast, in fact, that Mrs. JONES, who was sitting on one end of it, was dropped with remarkable sharpness to the ground. Now this would have been of no consequence, if it had not happened that Mr. JONES, who meant to have all things ready, had had sent to him a pot of liquid glue, which reposed prepared on a window-seat by Mrs. JONES, and that lady rejoicing in a wealth of hair, this glory of woman caught the pot-handle and poured the whole adhesive deluge on her luxuriant tresses, which being at the same moment plunged by her fall into the heap of shavings, converted her instantly into a frightful object, which rose, shrieking and clawing frantically at a huge mass of shavings which seemed determined to involve her head for all future time, and rushed furiously towards the house, where BIDDY, brought to open the door by the turmoil, and seeing some altogether unexplainable and apparently terrible creature rushing towards the entrance, incontinently made loud application in choice Hibernian for the assistance of various highly respectable saints, banged and bolted the door, fled to the kitchen, seized the poker, dropped it, rushed into her bedroom, and stuck her head in the pillows, while the JONES's had to find entrance at the back door.

Over what processes of the toilet restored them to their usual respectable appearance GRIP draws a veil, which he finds it the more convenient to do, as he is ignorant of the particular methods employed. But he knows that next day Mr. JONES employed a powerful African to split the lumber into kindling wood, and sent the tools to a second-hand store, while the topic of glue, shavings, or carpentering operations in general, is rigidly interdicted in the JONES family.

A Fable.—The Fox and the Goat.

ONCE a Fox and a Goat found themselves at the bottom of a deep Depression called Hard Times. The Goat lamented loudly because of its inability to get out. "If this had been properly Protected," said the Goat, "I would not now be here." "True," said the Fox "but I know a plan that will immediately get you out of here. Place your front feet against the side of the Pit; I will climb out over your back and as you can perceive may easily pull you out by the horns." The Goat was much struck with this brilliant proposal and did as requested. On the 17th of September the Fox leaped out of the pit by the aid of the Goat and walked leisurely around. "My dear Goat," said the Fox on being asked to perform his part of the contract, "I will give you your case the most complete consideration. In February I will call together my brethren and we will deliberate on the best method of getting you out." The Goat of Trade is still in the pit.

MORAL.—Every man is at liberty to tie on a moral to suit himself.

Our New "Mail" Managers.
"Now Men, Employed, hold out, or I'll have to stab some of you under the right rib every morning."

The Question of the House.

Oh, he's only a little skittish, don't be frightened
Doctor!

I'm afraid he'll throw us out!

The Depressed Manufacturer
at Ottawa.

Kicking over the Traces.

Benjamin.

The Depressed Manufacturer's wife
at Ottawa.

CURRENT TOPICS.

Soliloquy of the Hon. Wm. MacHamlet. (Shakespeare.)

While such powerful legislators as Mr. Rufus Stephenson, Mr. Rochester, Mr. Haggart and Mr. T. White sit cheek-by-jowl with the Cabinet Ministers, Mr. Macdougall is kept at arms' length.—Hamilton Times.

Now I am alone.

O, what a rogue and peasant slave am I !
Is it not monstrous that this Mr. PHIPPS,
But in a fiction, in a dream of office,
Could force his soul so to his own conceit,
That at his letters all the Cabinet paled,
Globe in his hand, distraction in's aspect,
A caustic pen, and his whole function suiting
With forms to his chagrin ? And all for nothing !
For Policy !

What's Policy to him, or he to Policy
That he should weep for it ? What would he do
Had he the motive and the cue for passion
That I have ? He would upset the Government,
And cleave the general ear with horrid speech,
Make mad the burkers of the great N.P.,
Confound the Cabinet and amaze indeed
The very faculties of eyes and ears !

Yet I,
A dull and wandering politician peak,
Like JOHN A's slave, unpregnant of my cause,
And can say nothing ; no, not for myself
Upon whose services and most dear hopes
A dam'd defeat was made. Am I a coward ?
Who calls me villain ? gives me a back seat,
Shoves me aside and snickers in my face ?
Tweaks me by the nose ? gives ROBINSON and WHITE
And STEPHENSON my place ? Who does me this ?
Ha !

Why, I should take it, for it cannot be
But I am pigeon livered, and lack gall
To make oppression bitter ; or, ere this,
I should have fatted all the vulture Grits
With JOHN A's scandals ; shiftless, tricky villain,
Remorseless, treacherous, heartless, scheming villain !
O, vengeance !

Why, what an ass am I. This is most brave,
That I, a statesman known as practical,
Prompted to my revenge by everything,
Must take this slight, and swallow down my wrath,
And 'fore the gathered wisdom of the land
Be sat upon !

Fie upon it ! foh ! about, my brain. I have heard
That guilty creatures, who have done sly tricks,
Have by a pamphlet setting forth their sins
Been struck so to the soul that presently
They've done the handsome to the writer on't ;
I'll write a pamphlet ! That's the very way
I'll catch again the conscience of JOHN A !

Parliament Boiled down.

Thursday Feb. 13.—Her Majesty's faithful Commons of Canada assembled in the Senate Chamber, and were informed that as soon as they had elected a Speaker they would hear of something to their advantage from the Governor General. The members bowed and repaired to the Commons Chamber.

Rt. Hon. Sir JOHN A. MACDONALD moved, seconded by the Hon. Lieut. TUPPER, that Dr. JOSEPH BODERIC BLANCHET take the chair and the salary.

Hon. WM. MACDOUGALL merely winced.

Hon. Mr. MACKENZIE said he had expected that Mr. ANGLIN would have been reappointed, as Sir JOHN had on a recent occasion blarneyed that gentleman's abilities, and declared his admiration for the British system of making the Speakership an office dependent on health or good behaviour. He was not surprised, however, at the summersault of the Premier.

Dr. BLANCHET was then assisted to the chair, being overcome with the weight of unexpected honour thus thrust upon him.

Hon. Mr. MACDOUGALL winced again, and the House adjourned.

Friday, Feb. 14.—The Commons assembled in the Senate Chamber (those who could get through the crowd of native aristocrats and small boys) and listened to an eloquent speech by the Marquis, specially written for him by Mr. TILLEY. Mr. W. H. FRASER occupied a position behind the Throne. After reciting a few paragraphs about the Fishery Award and other things, copied from back numbers of the Mail, the eloquent Governor said it was the intention of the Government to aid in removing the commercial depression by a readjustment of the tariff with a view to developing and encouraging the various industries of Canada. He also remarked that the Government proposed to resolve itself into a Life Insurance Company.

After returning to their own chamber the Premier moved that the fun do commence on Monday. Carried, and the House adjourned.

Monday, Feb. 17.—Mr. BREKEN moved that the Speech from the Throne be considered satisfactory in every respect. The motion was seconded by Mr. TASSE. Hon. Mr. MACKENZIE with singular originality said the bill of fare was very meagre. Sir JOHN A. MACDONALD said it was no such thing, and if the Grits would hold on a little they would find that the Government would carry out everything they proposed. The motion was carried and the House adjourned.

Tuesday, Feb. 18. Mr. ANGLIN moved for returns to show why certain clerks appointed by him as Speaker, had been dismissed by the Government. He declared this to be an outrage on his own dignity and that of the House.

Sir JOHN A. MACDONALD advised Mr. ANGLIN to keep cool, as the Speaker of a defunct Parliament had no right to make such appointments, and the Government had done the correct thing in kicking the clerks out again. Mr. COCKBURN said Sir JOHN was sound in his ideas. Hon. Mr. MACKENZIE said he was doubtful, but he would say more about it when the returns were brought down. Hon. Mr. MACDOUGALL said he knew something about the powers of a Speaker as he had almost been one himself, and he was inclined to think JOHN A. was acting crookedly.

Wednesday, Feb. 19.—JOHN A. said he hadn't any idea of pardoning RIEL at present. The day was spent in propounding conundrums to the Ministry.

THERE is going to be a fancy dress carnival at the Temperance Street Roller Skating Rink on Thursday, 27th. Members of the Manufacturers Association may appear as log-rollers.

The New College.

THE new Protestant Episcopal School of Divinity, about to be erected on Yonge street avenue, will be a handsome edifice. It is to be in the strictly Evangelical of style architecture—neither High nor Broad. It will be constructed of regular bricks, and will be very unlike Trinity College, which resembles Knox a Little too much. The acoustic properties will be carefully attended to, so that the lecturers on Reformation Principles will give forth no uncertain sound. The seats will be very comfortable, but rather Low for certain sorts of Anglicans. The doors will be so contrived that they will slam shut unceremoniously in the faces of Ritualists and Puseyites, but will open politely before Protestants. Provost WHITIKER will probably not be appointed the first Principal.

THE Government is sweet on the sugar interests.

SALLIE HOLMAN looked nice in the new Pinafore.

NOTICES OF MOTION.—The calling off of the dances.

THE inhabitants of Quebec are plowing already,—with a snow plow.

THE KNOX-LITTLE controversy Knox-Little controversies all to one side.

THE National Policy when once in force will change the customs of the country.

DID you ever know a country to be duped by N. P. promises ? Never. What, never ? Well—hardly ever.

THE Globe admits the Pacific Scandal is dead. Then why not bury it ? What's the use of trying to adopt the mummy business in Canada.

A "PROFESSOR" of Etiquette is teaching ladies how to back with a train, for two dollars a head, which is just one dollar a foot. On the R.R. they back trains by reversing the engine.

PATTESON, PATTESON, my little man,
Stamp all the letters as fast as you can,
Fix 'em and sort 'em and mark them with T. (Toronto)
And try and be useful as Less-e-lie-E.

As a practical joke some young men locked teachers and pupils in St. Mary's School, London, the other day. Now, as a joke of course, these young men should be locked in either of London's institutions, the Jail or the Lunatic Asylum.

JOHN A. appointed Mr. PATTESON Postmaster because he has had experience in managing the Mail. GRIP hopes the new P.M. will not adopt "stabbing under the fifth rib" as one of the principles upon which he will conduct his new business.

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT,
OTTAWA, May 15th, 1878.

NO DISCOUNT ALLOWED ON
American Invoices until further notice.

J. JOHNSON,
Commissioner of Customs.

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY.

The tens of thousands who are making exclusive use of the COOK'S FRIEND Baking Powder, thereby render UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY to its superiority.
Retailled everywhere. xii-12-17

BALDNESS!

Neither gasoline, vasoline, carboline, or Allen's, Aver's, or Hall's hair restorers have produced luxuriant hair on bald heads. That great discovery is due to Mr. Winter-cornby, 61 King-street East, (late 132 Church-street), as can be testified to by hundreds of living witnesses in this city and Province. He challenges all the so-called restorers to produce a like result.
Send for circulars. xii-12-17

U can make money faster at work for us than at any thing else. Capital not required; we will start you $12 per day at home made by the industrious. Men, women, boys and girls wanted everywhere to work for us. Now is the time. Cost of outfit and terms free. Address, TRUB & Co., Augusta, Maine.

WANTED.—5 cents each will be paid for the following back numbers of GRIP:

Vol.	No.	2, 16, 23.
3.	"	7, 9, 17, 20, 21, 23.
4.	"	1, 2, 4, 5, 6.
5.	"	5, 7, 17, 19, 21, 26.
6.	"	6, 7, 9, 13, 25.
7.	"	4, 12, 20, 21.
8.	"	1, 2, 7, 12, 17, 24.
9.	"	3, 15.

BENGOUGH BROS., Toronto.

$66 a week in your own town. $5 Outfit free. No risk. Reader, if you want a business at which persons of either sex can make great pay all the time they work, write for particulars to H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Maine.

TO PHONOGRAPHERS!

Just to hand a full Stock of ISAAC PITMAN'S Text Books.

Compend of Phonography	5 cts.
Exercises in Phonography	5
Grammologies and Contractions	10
Questions on Manual	15
Selections in Reporting Style	20
Teacher	20
Key to Teacher	20
Reader	20
Manual	50
Reporter	75
Reporting Exercises	30
Phrase Book	30
Covers for holding Note Book	20
The Reporter's Guide, by Thos. Allan Reid	60
Self-culture, corresponding style	60
The Book of Psalms, corresponding style	35
The Book of Psalms, cloth	60
Pilgrims Progress, cloth	90
Common Prayer, morocco, with gilt edges	$2.50
The Other Life, cloth	50
New Testament, reporting style	$2.50
Phonographic Dictionary	1.00
Pilgrim's Progress, corresponding style	50
Extracts, corresponding style	20

Sent post-paid to any address on receipt of price.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

Next Post Office, Toronto.

Financial.

$10 TO 1000

Invested in Wall St. Stocks makes fortunes every month. Book sent free explaining everything.
Address BAXTER & Co., Bankers, 17 Wall St., N. Y.
xi-20-17.

NEATLY, CHEAPLY, QUICKLY.

Grip Job Department.

Everything in the Printing line from a

Label to a Three-Sheet Poster,
WITH NEATNESS AND DESPATCH.

We are prepared to fill Orders by Mail for Visiting Cards (Finest Bristol, White or Tinted) immediately on receipt of letter, and forward by FIRST MAIL, at the following rates:

25 Cards, (one name, one style type),	30 cents.
50 " " " " " "	50 "
100 " " " " " "	75 "

The following are Samples of Type from which a choice may be made.

1

Robert Taylor.

2

William Richardson

3

Miss Maggie Thompson.

4

George Augustus Williams.

5

Mrs. Thomas Jones.

6

William Arthur Crawford.

7

Miss Susie Wade.

8

Byron W. Scott.

9

William Shakespeare.

Chromo Cards:

(Five Beautiful Pictures)

100 Cards, (one name, one style type)	$1.50.
50 " " " " " "	1.00.
25 " " " " " "	75.

Mourning Cards:

25 Cards, (one name one style type),	50 cents.
50 " " " " " "	75 "
100 " " " " " "	$1.25 "

Memorial Cards

Beautiful Designs,.....	$ 1.00 per dozen.
Samples by mail,.....	5c. each.

Printing addresses on Cards, 10 cents extra for each Order.

Write your Name and the Number of the Letter you desire plainly, to prevent mistakes.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

Imperial Buildings, (Next Post Office), Toronto.

Grip and St. Nicholas $4.00.

ST. NICHOLAS,

SCRIBNER'S ILLUSTRATED MAGAZINE

For Girls and Boys.

An Ideal Children's Magazine.

Messrs. SCRIBNER & Co., in 1873, began the publication of ST. NICHOLAS, an Illustrated Magazine for Girls and Boys, with Mrs. Mary Mapes Dodge as editor. Five years have passed since the first number was issued, and the magazine has won the highest position. It has a monthly circulation of Over 50,000 Copies.

It is published simultaneously in London and New York, and the transatlantic recognition of it is almost as general and hearty as the American. Although the progress of the magazine has been a steady advance, it has not reached the editor's ideas of best, because her ideal continually outruns it, and the magazine as swiftly follows after. To-day ST. NICHOLAS stands

Alone in the World of Books;

The New-York Tribune has said of it: "ST. NICHOLAS has reached a higher platform, and commands for its service wider resources in art and letters than any of its predecessors or contemporaries." The London Literary World says: "There is no magazine for the young that can be said to equal this choice production of Scribner's press."

Good Things for 1878-79.

The arrangements for literary and art contributions for the new volume—the sixth—are complete, drawing from already favorite sources, as well as from promising new ones. Mr. Frank R. Stockton's new serial story for boys,

"A Jolly Fellowship."

Will run through the twelve monthly parts,—beginning with the number for November, 1878, the first of the volume,—and will be illustrated by James E. Kelly. The scene of this story, like that of the very successful one, "What Might Have Been Expected," published in ST. NICHOLAS, is laid in the South. For the girls a continued tale,

"Half a Dozen Housekeepers,"

By Katherine D. Smith, with illustrations by Frederik Deilman, begins in the same number; and a fresh serial by Susan Coolidge, entitled "Eyebright," with plenty of pictures, will be commenced early in the volume. There will also be a continued fairytale called

"Rumpty Dudget's Tower,"

Written by Julian Hawthorne, and illustrated by Alfred Fredericks. About the other familiar features of ST. NICHOLAS, the editor preserves a good-humored silence, content, perhaps to let her five volumes already issued, prophesy concerning the sixth, in respect to short stories, pictures, poems, humor, instructive sketches, and the lure and lore of "Jack-in-the-Pulpit," the "Very Little Folks" department, and the "letter-box" and "Riddle Box."

The November Number.

Attention is especially invited to the November number, which in many respects approaches nearer to our ideal than any number we have issued. It contains 72 pages, and its illustrations throughout are fine and varied. It begins two splendid serials. Its shorter papers represent a wide range of subject,—History, Travel, Fun, Poetry, Adventure, Science, Natural History, Home-life, Sport, and lively narrative,—the whole crowned by an appropriate Thanksgiving story.

Throughout are seen evidences and fruit of the editor's recent travel across the continent, and Mrs. Dodge's inimitable touches everywhere show the heartiness and zeal with which she resumes active editorial management. One long article and two poems in this number bear the signature, and in the Letter-Box she talks pleasantly with the young folks about her delightful journey to California.

There is a fine portrait of FRANK R. STOCKTON, accompanied by a sketch of his life.

Terms $3.00 a year; 25 cents a Number.

SCRIBNER & Co., 743 Broadway, New-York.

Subscriptions received at GRIP Office, Toronto

BEST business you can engage in. $5 to $20 per day made by any worker of either sex, right in their own localities. Particulars and samples worth $5 free. Improve your spare time at this business. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

PUBLISHERS' NOTE

Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.

Subscription price, $2 per annum strictly in advance. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied. BENGOUGH BROS.

USE ONLY
ONTARIO
BAKING
POWDER.

ASK YOUR
Grocer for it.

Bone Manure!

Pure Bone Meal, warranted best quality. Super-phosphates. Ground bones for Vineries. Rates moderate. Factory, Esplanade & George Sts. Address R. POLLOCK, 191 Jarvis St.

xiii-6m.

VERNON,

Manufacturing Jeweler, 159 Yonge St. Watches and Clocks repaired, Pipes Mounted.

TO PRINTERS.

Any printer having a font of Brevier Italic, in good condition Farmer, Little & Co's make, to work with this face will please communicate stating price and sending sample to

BENGOUGH BROS

FARM FOR SALE.

A very desirable farm for a gentleman's residence, consisting of 31 acres, in the Township of Pickering, County of Ontario, overlooking Frenchman's Bay. A small stream runs through the north west corner. There is

A Capital Orchard

of Pears, Plums, Cherry and Apple Trees, covering twelve acres. On nine acres of this Orchard the trees are only six years old, just commencing to bear. The soil is as good as can be found in the township, which is equivalent to saying there is none better in the province.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

REAL ESTATE AG'TS

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS.

Next Post Office, Toronto.

FOR SALE.

Sample Table, 3 feet wide, 10 feet long. Counter, with drawers, 1 foot 8 inches wide, 7 feet 5 inches long. These articles will be sold cheap for cash, or exchanged for office table.

BENGOUGH BROS.,
Toronto.

Time Books,---Weekly and Monthly.

These Books having been bought a bargain at auction, we are prepared to offer them retail, at wholesale prices.

BENGOUGH BROTHERS,

TORONTO.

(TRADE MARK REGISTERED)

TORONTO, SATURDAY, MARCH 29, 1879.

Grip Office, { The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; { 5 CTS. EACH.
Imperial Building. { The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool. { $2 PER ANNUM.

JOB LOT

MOURNING CARDS, DRAWING BOOKS, PAPER CLIPS,

PEN RACKS, &c.,

AT WHOLESALE PRICES.

BENGOUGH BROS., Toronto.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach Grip office not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, Grip office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

$1.50

Will Wash and Rough
Dry 100 Pieces, at the

TORONTO STEAM
LAUNDRY.

Cor. Bay & Wellington.

OFFICE: 65 KING ST. WEST

DELAMERE, BLACK, AND
REESOR, Barristers, Attorneys, Solicitors, &c., 17 Toronto St.
T. D. DELAMERE, DAVIDSON BLACK
H. A. REESOR.

MOWAT, MACLENNAN, &
DOWNNEY, Solicitors, etc.,
Queen City Insurance Building, 24
Church St., Toronto, OLIVER MOW-
AT, Q.C. JAMES MACLENNAN, Q.C.
JOHN DOWNNEY, THOMAS LANGTON.

EIGELOW, N. G., BARRIS-
TER-AT-LAW, etc. Offices
Stanton's Buildings, north-west
corner of King and Yonge streets,
Toronto.

RODWELL & FELL,
Engravers,

And Manufacturers of Rubber and
Metal Stamps,

FEES AND WAX SEALS,

Name Plates, Baggage and
Key Checks.

7 Adelaide St. East,
TORONTO.

BENGOUGH BROS.

Are prepared to execute orders for

ENGRAVING

in the highest style of the art.

Type Metal Plates

MADE FROM

Pen and Ink Sketches, Photo-
graphs, Lithographs, &c.,

More perfect, true and lasting than any wood engraving, and at a much lower cost. Call and see specimens
at

GRIP OFFICE,

Next door to Post Office, Toronto.

FARM FOR SALE.
100 ACRES

In the Township of Uxbridge.

Would exchange for entire horse, weighing 1,700 or 1,800 pounds, and not more than 8 years old.

BENGOUGH BROS.

FOR SALE.

Breech Loading Rifle,

Manufactured by Frank Wesson,
Boston, Mass. Cost $35, will be sold for $20. Owner has no use for it.
Apply to

GEO. BENGOUGH,
Grip Office.

Stage Whispers.

Mr. STEPHEN FISKE is dramatic critic of the Spirit of the Times.

It is said that GARIBALDI's daughter-in-law is playing in the pantomime in the Surrey Theatre, London.

Mr. CHARLES FECHTER, it is said, is devoting his energies to the completion of a new dramatic drama, the hero of which is "the son of destiny."

WALLACK's, "A Scrap of Paper" (Les Mouches) is being played, according to regular Wallackian tradition, with the natural highly artistic result.

The Dramatic Mirror predicts that "Pinafore" will be killed by the wretched travelling troupes. If some of the wretched travelling troupes are not also killed, they'll be lucky.

The Montreal City Council extinguished Madame FACHON and her follies. The indignant crowd will have to go elsewhere with their announcement, "Played to crowded houses in Toronto."

It seems that Mr. J. L. TOOLE actually won a prize in the Paris Lottery, and strange to say, it was a winnowing machine. Introduced into his next comedy, he will, with its aid, be able to evolve more "chaff" than ever!

Mr. ROSS RAYMOND, a well-known Philadelphia journalist, has had a comedy accepted by Manager GOODWIN of the Walnut. It is soon to be produced under the title of "News, in Three Editions and a Supplement."

GILBERT and SULLIVAN have a new piece, which is expected to be as good as "Pinafore," says London World. Six burglars break into a house, and fall in love with the six nieces of the proprietor before six policemen arrive.

Mr. E. A. SOTHERN arrived in London Feb. 28, where he will remain until April 14, when he will begin a short tour of the British Provinces, preparatory to leaving for America. He will spend the summer in Canada salmon fishing.

Mr. GLADSTONE lately went to see IRVING as Hamlet. But as no one could possibly take it that he was meant, he need not have put on a look of extra solemnity when the Danish Prince remarked that somebody "was a feller of infinite jest."

Mr. JAMES GREEN, son of Gov. GREEN of Toronto Gaol, made his debut at the Royal Opera House here last Thursday night in the character of Henry V. He acquitted himself very well, and now it is in order for all the young ladies to go wild about him.

Miss MARY ANDERS is about to produce "The Daughter of ROLAND," an adaptation of "La Fille de ROLAND," which has been made for her by Mr. JULIAN MAGNUS, whose name is an assurance that the young lady has got a thoroughly good piece of work.

Some of the foremost actors now on the stage are Irish or Irish-Americans. Among the former are JOHN MCCULLOUGH, BARRY SULLIVAN, DION BOUCAULT and JOHN BROUGHAM, all of Irish birth. LAWRENCE BARRETT is of Irish parentage on both sides. So is WILLIAM J. FLORENCE, whose family name is CONLIN, though FLORENCE is now his own legal name. JAMES O'NEILL, recently of the Union Square Company, and an actor of very superior talent, is of the same stock as his name implies. Signor FOLI, of the MAPLESON Opera Company, is an Irishman by birth.

NEATLY, CHEAPLY, QUICKLY.

Grip Job Department.

Everything in the Printing line from a

Label to a Three-Sheet Poster,
WITH NEATNESS AND DESPATCH.

We are prepared to fill Orders by Mail for Visiting Cards (Finest Bristol, White or Tinted) immediately on receipt of letter, and forward by FIRST MAIL, at the following rates:

25 Cards, (one name, one style type),	30 cents.
50 " " " "	50 "
100 " " " "	75 "

The following are Samples of Type from which a choice may be made.

1

Robert Taylor.

2

William Richardson.

3

Miss Maggie Thompson.

4

George Augustus Williams.

5

Mrs. Thomas James.

6

William Arthur Crawford.

7

Miss Susie Wade.

8

Byron W. Scott.

9

William Shakespeare.

Chromo Cards:
(Five Beautiful Pictures)

100 Cards, (one name, one style type)	$1.50.
50 " " " "	1.00.
25 " " " "	75.

Mourning Cards:

25 Cards, (one name one style type),	50 cents.
50 " " " "	75 "
100 " " " "	$1.25 "

Memorial Cards

Beautiful Designs, $ 1.00 per dozen.
Samples by mail, 5c. each.

Printing addresses on Cards, 10 cents extra for each Order.

Write your Name and the Number of the Letter you desire plainly, to prevent mistakes.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

Imperial Buildings, (Next Post Office), Toronto.

Notes of Music.

CAPOUL has signed an engagement for America to sing in operatta. He will receive 210,000 francs for six months.

Music has charms to soothe the savage. This is why we occasionally see a cross dog with a brass band around his neck.—Philadelphia Chronicle-Herald

M. VARNEY, the musician who composed the celebrated chant, "Mourir pour le Patrie," for ALEXANDER DUMAS' historical drama, "Le Chevalier de Maison Rouge," has just died in Paris.

ADELINA PATTI is singing in Geneva, and has in reserve $76,000 which she has made since last October. Nature has been prodigal in bestowing both voice and flesh upon the musical PATTI.

Mlle. NILSSON, the great singer (songstress if you like) is passing the winter in Paris. She is in perfect bodily health, and she is dying of—ennui. Her husband, M. ROUZEAUD will not let her sing.

SIMS REEVES has a second son who is said to be a tenore drammatico of great promise. JOACHIM and STERNDAL BENNETT were his godfathers, and his full name is HERBERT STERNDAL JOACHIM SIMS REEVES. A grave responsibility rests on a youth who starts in life with such a name.

The famous tenor, Father GIOVANNI, whose magnificent vocal powers have given so much pleasure to both foreign and native church-goers in Rome during the last two or three years, has, after a serious illness, resumed his singing in the churches, and draws larger crowds than ever. He refuses to listen to any propositions to go on the stage, though he is said to be the finest tenor Italy has produced in twenty years.

MADAME LEMMENS-SHERINGTON, most finished of concert singers, is about to take up her residence in Belgium, with her husband; but London will have the pleasure of hearing her sweet voice for a few months every year. M. LEMMENS is founding a school at Malines for the study of Gregorian music, to which he has been composing harmonising accompaniments. The scheme has been approved in Rome, and large numbers of the young clergy are to be instructed in the newly arranged chant.

Mme. GERSTER is credited by a correspondent of The Theatre as saying: "My father was a carpenter in Kaschau. I used to go to school and work at home. I was always happy and always singing. I sang about my daily work as a bird sings, because my heart was full of joy and music. Sometimes poorer people stood in front of the window. I thought that was a great compliment, and I would sing just as well as I could. Well, one day when father was out to work and mother was away at the market I felt very happy. I was just twelve years old then, was ironing, and singing with all my might. When I stopped, a man at the window clapped his hands and said, 'Ah, little girl, you sing like a bird.' 'And who are you?' I asked. 'Well, I'm HELMSBERGER. I'm the musical director from Vienna. I'm going to give some concerts here in the village, and when I get through in Kaschau I'm going back to Vienna; and if you want to go with me, I'll take you,' he added. Then," said Madame GERSTER, laughing, "I remember how they fixed me up. Father was to pay for my tuition, and mother was to keep me in clothes. I remember how I cried and laughed and sang all the way to Vienna."

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

By BENGOUGH Bro's, Proprietors. Office:—Imperial Buildings, next to the Post Office, Adelaide Street, Toronto. GEO. BENGOUGH, Business Manager.

Original contributions paid for. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned. Literary and Business communications to be addressed to BENGOUGH Bro's.

SUBSCRIPTION TERMS:—Two dollars per year, payable in advance. Subscriptions and advertisements are received at the office, or by Wm. R. BURRAGE, General Subscription and Advertising Agent, Pacific Building, Scott Street, Toronto.

EDITED AND ILLUSTRATED BY J. W. BENGOUGH.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

Our New Form.

GRIP has thought it well to assume his new and elegant form without any preliminary intimation to his friends. He has preferred to take them by surprise, as the young people do their clergy men—to enter their houses all unannounced, and plump down a basket of good things on the dining room table, thereby creating both astonishment and delight.

It will be observed that in the present shape, GRIP not only retains the former space occupied by original contributions, but also has facilities for brightening up his countenance with the freshest wit and humour of other journalists (who will always get credit for their work,—while his original writers get cash). In addition to this, he has reserved a regular place for Musical and Dramatic notes, which are always interesting to the intelligent reader; and lastly, he has given his artist room to supplement the leading cartoon with minor sketches on general topics.

He has reason to believe this expansion will be eminently satisfactory to all his old friends and patrons, whose generous support has enabled him to effect it; and he also indulges the hope that the more general character of the paper will secure it a host of new friends, whose names will be accompanied with the cash.

In the present arrangement GRIP has not overlooked the claims of his advertisers, whose announcements receive a fair distribution, and are sure to be read, as they deserve to be, to the mutual profit of him who reads and him who advertises.

An Unreported Episode.

GRIP was in the Gallery of the House at Ottawa filling his sketch book with raw material for future cartoons, and listening to the roar of the legislative machinery in operation beneath him. The vote had just been taken on the LETELLIER affair. Suddenly all the noise ceased. A great and solemn silence fell upon the House, and every member sat with his eyes fixed upon the First Minister. Nobody seemed to comprehend the cause of the instantaneous change from deafening clamour to absolute stillness. The silence became oppressive, and great drops of perspiration, begotten of inward apprehension, began to break out on the foreheads of honorable gentlemen on both sides. This period of suspense was at length ended by the Premier, who arose in his place in a manner so calm and dignified that it added tenfold to the strangeness of the whole affair. The honorable gentleman's face was serious; the accustomed twinkle was absent from his eye, and an expression of high moral resolve marked the expression of his features. Gazing steadfastly at the Speaker, he said:

"Sir, I rise to ask you to receive my resignation, and that of my colleagues in the Government. Gentlemen possessed, as we are, of the instincts of honor, and the susceptibilities of true statesmen, can no longer occupy the Treasury Benches after the vote which has just been carried by so large a majority of this Chamber. The Governor of Quebec is an official who is responsible to this Government; this Government is responsible to this House. If that Governor does wrong it is the duty of this Government to censure him, and if this Government fails to do that duty, then it becomes the province of this House to censure this Government for that remissness. If this Government is censured by this House, it becomes the duty of the Government to resign. Sir, I call your attention to these well understood rules of our Constitution, because it is in accordance with these rules that I now tender my resignation. The Governor of Quebec did wrong; this Government did not censure him; this House did censure him, thus plainly censuring this Government for neglect of duty. Mr. Speaker, (here the honorable gentleman shed tears) it has been said by the enemies of this Government that its members have a greater regard for office than for honor. The injustice of that cruel taunt is made apparent at the present moment, by my present action in handing in my resignation rather than clinging to my place after the virtual vote of no confidence which this House has just passed."

The honorable gentlemen resumed his seat amid the cheers of all persons of high moral character in the House. The cheer was so loud that it awoke GRIP, who found himself sitting in his office chair with a copy of the Mail in his hand. He had fallen asleep after reading the report of the LETELLIER debate and the vote with which it ended. He found on enquiry that Sir John hadn't been sensitive enough to resign.

A What-is-It?

A contemporary records the return of BARNUM's manager, who has been abroad purchasing monkeys and elephants, and says that "besides all these he has purchased a most extraordinary unknown animal. The creature is said to be eight feet long, four feet high and weighs nearly a ton. His front quarters resemble the front of a rhinoceros, and his hindquarters are like those of the lion. The head resembles the head of a hippopotamus. A mane eighteen inches in length parts in the middle and falls upon each side of the neck. The animal is said to have four ears, one pair in the proper place and the other about four inches lower down. Two strong, sharp tusks, capable of doing much damage, run from the lower jaw like those of the elephant."

We are astonished at the editor's ignorance in not knowing what this animal is. Why, anybody should know that it is a—excuse us a moment, there's a man in the front office wanting to pay his subscription.

"Nobody Pleased."

DEAR MR. GRIP:

The enclosed letter to the Editor of the Globe has been kept out of that tyrannical sheet, and I mechanically turn to you for justice, just as a magnet turns to a loadstone.

Yours in extremis,

C. H. H.

ROBERTCAGEON, March 20, '79.

To the Editor of the Globe:

SIR,—As I have seen remarked somewhere in your valuable paper, "The subject who is truly loil to the Chief Magistrate will not submit to arbitrary measures." Now sir, I am a truly loil man, and I quite agree with you, especially as to the arbitrary measures of Oats.—Whereon, in accordance with the new Tariff, we are taxed 10c. per bushel. You, sir, are no doubt aware, sir, that that cereal in its various forms and conditions has lately become a very important factor in our daily provender. Even in the highest circles of society it is now considered en regle to have porridge for breakfast, oatmeal cake and sherry for lunch, and gruel and "sowans" in the evening instead of the hitherto fashionable bohea. So, in fact, we now have neither a free breakfast, dinner, or even supper table, on account of this infamous clause in the tariff.

And now, sir, with your permission I will say a word as to the clause affecting Spirits.—It is seldom indeed (except for medicinal or mechanical purposes) that I use alcoholic liquors, and, except while suffering with spasms, never as a beverage. Yet I feel that I would be unworthy the name of a British subject if I am obliged to submit to a YKES' Hydrometer test in making a mixed drink—(I allude to my spasm remedy).—Who the deuce is SYKES anyway? Perhaps a descendant of the veritable BILL of that ilk?

The framers of this obnoxious Tariff while endeavoring to delude the people into the idea that they are protecting the industries of Canada, while taxing all manner of unknown products, such as Melado, Can juice, Beet root juice, and concrete dragon's blood, Damar, Tragacanth, etc., etc., seem to have entirely forgotten

Sassafras.—In our neighborhood some years ago this article was used almost entirely as a substitute for tea. In fact we called it tea—"Sassafras tea." I yet use it my family. It is healthful and economical. As I say almost daily to them, "Give us plenty of porridge or mush, and sassafras tea, and what more do we require?" My eldest son says he would just as soon have a beefsteak, but then he has been to Toronto for a term at the Normal School, and has consequently grown unduly aristocratic in his tastes.

These, my dear sir, are a few of the most notable examples of the false measures in the so called National Policy, and I feel satisfied that had the hon. member from Clarksburg* carried out his own ideas of the same in detail, there would be many fewer complaining voices in the land.

I am, Sir,

Yours truly,

CYRUS H. HEYCEEDE.

* Can the writer mean Mr. PHIPPS?—ED. GRIP.

If Mr. TILLEY feels at a loss to reply to the Globe's objection that the Tariff fails to protect the consumer, might we suggest to him the reply that the manufacturer is himself the consumer, that well protected gourmand being about to consume not only the revenue of the country, but also the substance of all the other classes—possibly the country itself, for aught we can tell.

Song of the Canadian "First Lord."

In the House, the other day, one of the members enquired for certain papers to be brought down from the Marine Department. Hon. J. C. POPE, said the required papers were not in that department, adding that "probably the Grits had hooked them from the pigeon holes before leaving office." The papers were subsequently produced.—Despatch.

When I was a lad I used to be
A dweller down by the deep blue sea,
And before I got into Parliament
I most of my time 'mong the fishwives spent;
I picked up the fishwives' manners so keen,
That now I'm the Minister of Ma-rine.

I proved so keen that I soon was known
As the rudest fellow in all Charlottetown,
And at public meetings in the Market Hall
In interrupting speakers I surpassed 'em all,
I interrupted Grits in a way so mean
That now I'm the Minister of Ma-rine.

As "Free Trade champion" I made my mark,
And denounced Protection and its ways so dark,

But I wanted office and I thought 'twould pay
To turn my coat and wear it 't'other way;
So I talked N. P., and 'twas all serene,
For now I'm the Minister of Ma-rine.

As a Minister of State I'm a big success,
For I draw my salary (more or less),
And my fishwife manners I still retain
As my casual remarks to the Grits make plain,
I can belch more gentlemanly spite and spleen

Than any other Minister of Ma-rine.

Another Open Letter.

MISTER TELLY, Dear Sir, Minister of Finess, Ottawa:

SIR,—With refrense to the letter wich I writ you previously before, and I see they printed it into the pages of GRIP, I beg leave, deer sir, for to give you my hartfelt thanks for your grate kindness in bein so good as to oblige me in so gentlemanly a manner, wich it has been the makin of a pile of money for me. I see by the papers that that misirible man CARTWRIGHT had the cheek for to tell you to your face that you was wrong in givin us bisness men the facilities of gittin our goods threw the Customs by makin arrangements with the banks for us. He had the Adasity to tell you, deer sir, that you was like a merchant a robin of his own till, because the money we saved by the transackshun goes into our own pockits instid of into the Public Treasury. Deer sir, Mr. TELLY, don't mind that misible man CARTWRIGHT. He is a mean feller anyhow and never had any hart to feel for the merchantile community, and give em a hint with refrense to the customs. I write this hopin it will help to sooth the wound CARTWRIGHT made in your feelins, and to show you thet I fer one do not look upon you with abhorrents for givin' me a hint and a friendly hand to make a few dimes. I may also state thet a few of us merchants in this vicinity has been gettin up a little testymonel in the shape of a purse of munny to present to you by way of expressin our esteem at what you have done. I truss you will receive this purse with pleasure. It contains a very Large sum, but please deer sir don't mind that, we kin afford it. It is only a small mite compared to what we have made outen your kind arrangement with the banks for us, and also bare in mind that as CARTWRIGHT says it is only public funs anyhow. I will be down in Ottawa I expect soon to have the pleasure of presentin it to you and so I remane deer sir and Honble Mr. TELLY the honor to be, etc.,

SIMON VERDENT.

P. S.—The Grits here dosen't laf so much jes now with refrense to the N. P.

P. S., No. 2.—JIM SNATCHEM, the Fishell Assignee don't hang round my door enny more. I observe he is now keepin his eye onto my Grit naber, SMITH, who wasn't fortunate enough to get bank arrangements made for him and I guess is bound to bust soon.

Kind Gent.—BEEN "STEALING THE BRAINS OF THE OPPOSITION," HAS HE? PSRAW! LET HIM GO—ITS ONLY PETTY LARCENY!

The Hon. Members.

Extract from Notes of our own Private Secretary taken at alphabetical interview of M.P.'s to obtain correct knowledge of requirements of different constitutencies of Dominion, etc., etc.

FROM A TO E.

MR. ASTORHIEMER, M.P., East Dumfries.—Fine specimen of early Dutch settler. Says that he comes from "Pennsylvania Dutch stock." Thought Pennsylvania was in the United States. Mem.—Must look into this;—can the old man be romancing? Find no traces of German accent in speech. Test him with OLLENDORF, "Vollen zie haben ein kleiney glass schapps mit meer?" Said he couldn't speak Injun. Is satisfied with country. Thinks it the finest in the world. Has never been away, except to Rochester, N.Y. Made his money in saw mill business. Don't care about Parliamentary honors, but wife and family do. Says he used to be a Reformer on account of airs of Major GORE, Captain SYMONS and other local people. Since he made money has joined with the Conservatives, and is now "as good as any of 'em." Can't see exactly what he means. Peculiar person.

MR. BUSTER, M.P., Vandoozer Island.—Extolled wealth and beauty of Pacific Slope. Finest country in the world. Insists upon having C. P. R. completed in short time—(forget how many weeks), otherwise a dissolution of Confederation. Objects to Chinamen, Indians, Yankees and all heathens.

Showed specimens of gold, silver, copper, coal, Amethysts and diamonds from Island Slope. Mem.—Gold very quartzizy; gems not up to those of Golconda, but good for Dollar Store jewellery. Ordered a barrel of each by first through C. P. R. train. Mem.—After dilating further on Slope, slopes himself.

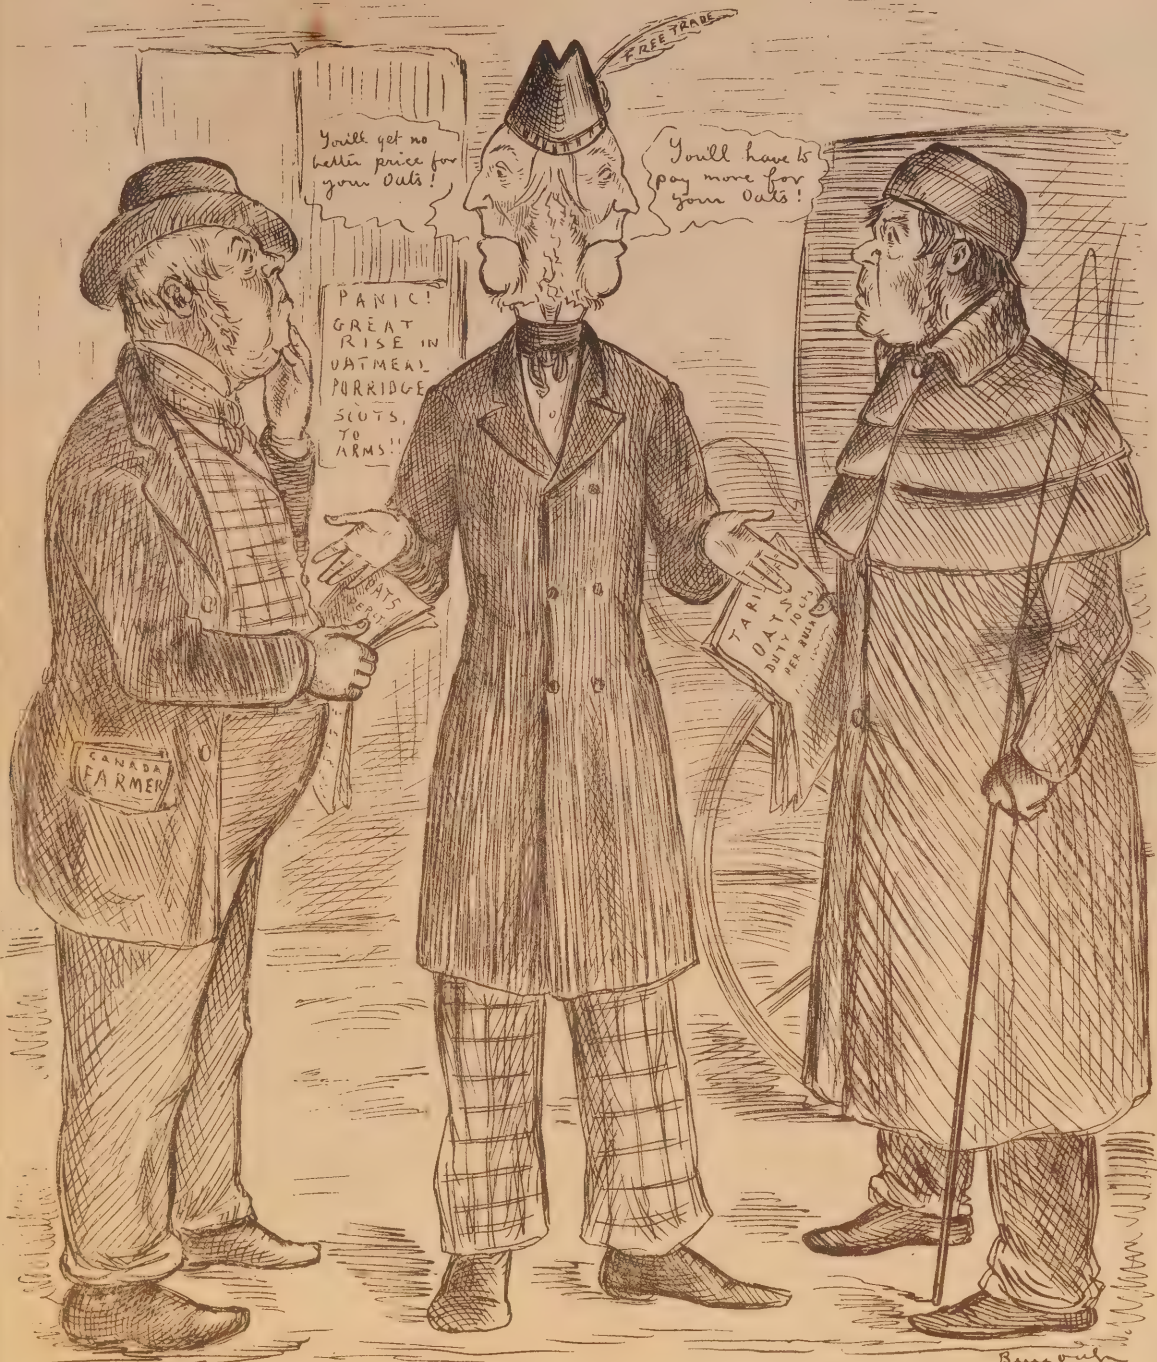

MR. COSTIC, M.P., West Bingen.—Of old U. E. L. family. Rather prolix, would think coloric; very demonstrative in manner; would not judge him to be high in any of the Temperance orders. Said, "No, siree!" to Excellency. Averred that his father "fit in 1812." Would think it not unlikely, judging from present representative of family. Was "through the rebellion, and helped to send CAROLINE over the falls." Mem.—What rebellion, who was CAROLINE, and what falls? Must look this up. Is Tory in politics; objects to term 'Conservative.' Can't abide a Grit; just the same as a rebel. "Wouldn't mind hanging some of them himself." Asks Excellency and myself to have something. Excellency bewildered, and somewhat nervous. Respectfully decline "anything." Hon. mem. appears much surprised, bows and exit. Mem.—Think he would make a good officer for Zulu campaign.

MR. DONOVAN, M. P. Stiffintown.—Descendant of patriots. Is a patriot himself. Although of kingly race, talks democratic. Thinks the country is ruled altogether by Scotch. Believes that he and his fellow countrymen have not had fair play. Almost a "toss up" between JNO. A. and MACKENZIE. Denounces "repeccious" office-seekers, and Government hirelings. Yet would not object to "something good" himself—let us say Sheriff, Crown Attorney, or Registrar. Is not a lawyer. Thinks lawyers should confine themselves to their profession, and avoid Parliament. Mem. Hon. member's ideas somewhat incongruous;—logic queer. Don't tell him so, on account of hostile expression. Would think him from "Sister Isle."

M. EUSTACHEVILLE, M. P., Rimour-ashi.—Descendant of old French family. Had been Courtiers in reign of Louis XIV. Chefs of Battalion at Cressy, Agincourt, Calais, and Poitiers. Served under GODFREY DEBOUILLON in Burgundian wars; defeated Yankees at Chattaquay; rebels at St. Eustasche, and Fenians at Vermont border. Great military family. Old Noblesse. Would not go to Montreal Ball; people there of low degree. Scotch dancing outre, and ne pas le fromage. Would be happy to have the great honor to meet us at Seignory.

THE POSTMASTER GENERAL TO "PUCK."
—Young man, we cannot tolerate you in Canada unless you wear more clothes.

"MR. FACING-BOTH-WAYS."

But there is no scarcity of land fitted to grow oats, and if the price should rise at all, the market will be promptly broken down by the increase of the local supply.—Globe, 22nd March.

A cabman, with four horses, says that he uses about 600 bushels of oats yearly. Ten cents a bushel just takes sixty square dollars out of that man's pocket.—Globe, 22nd March.

THE JOKER CLUB

"The Pun is mightier than the Sword."

Motto from an auction—Be contented with your lot.—Judy.

Burlington says: "Iowa half a million," and Cleveland exclaims: "Ohio several millions."

White wash artists are studying up new designs for the coming campaign.—London Herald.

Gamblers are winsome creatures.—GRIP. Pawnbrokers are loansome creatures.—London Tiser.

A civilized subject of King CETYWAYO is looked upon by ethnologists as a Zulusus naturæ.—Funny Folks.

"Does top dressing pay?" innocently inquires the Utica Herald. We think it does, just at this season, particularly if you are bald-headed.

The women are walking away from the wash-tub. —New York Commercial Advertiser. Let us soap they will sud-denly return to it. —Albany Argus.

A young married lady who could not make pancakes informed her husband that she objected, on principle, to fritter away her time.—London Tiser.

Said the sailor: "We had a pet monkey on board, and when we struck the first bad weather you ought to have seen that monkey-wrench!" —New York News.

The American Agriculturist inquires "where does the dew come from?" Well, our collector finds that the heft of it comes from not exacting payment in advance.

MR. HAYES, of New Milford, claims to have walked four miles in thirty five minutes. Unfortunately the name leads to a suspicion of the count.—Dan News.

An Ohio man had his neck broken while trying to break a colt. The safest way to break a colt is to hire one of your creditors to do it.—Philadelphia Chronicle-Herald.

Very kind gent—"Do you know, my dear, that we have to-day the shortest day of the year?" Lady—"Very true! But your presence makes me forget it."—Funny Folks.

Suggestions for an artist—Cupid asking his mother not to tie the handkerchief over his eyes so tightly this year—he made so many mistakes last season.—Funny Folks.

It has been decided in the Iowa courts that a cookstove is a wife's personal property.—Ex.

Will Iowa wives stand on their legal rights next time the cook-stove has to be moved?

One of the greatest problems for foreigners to solve is which represented or represents the average American the most—GEORGE WASHINGTON or ELI PERKINS?—Paul Dean.

"There are too many women in the world; 60,000 more women than men in Massachusetts," growled the husband. "That is the 'survival of the fittest,' my dear," replied the wife.—Ex.

A down town man says he has the best auction ear in his family. It belongs to his wife, and it hears of every auction in the city, much to the lightness of his purse.—New Haven Register.

The dryest place in this country is Greeley, Col. The region around it is to be irrigated for crops, and the men in town have no saloon to call on when their crops feel parched. —New York Commercial Advertiser.

Young men sending spring poetry to this office will please enclose their names and addresses, not for publication, but as evidence of their insanity in case they are ever arrested for murder.—Philadelphia Chronicle.

Mary had a little lamp,
Filled full of kerosene,
She took it once to light a fire,
And has not since benzine.
—London Tiser.

"La Surprise" is the name of a new hat with three quarters of a yard of feathers hanging from the right side. It is so called from the surprised manner in which the husband says "La!" when presented with the bill.—Norristown Herald.

"BLEU" is anxious to learn whether MR. TILLEY'S Budget speech was written on "foolscap" or "Elephant post?" We should say neither; but rather on blotting paper, judging by its absorbing tendencies, and the efficient manner in which it has dried up the anti-protectionists.—Jester.

A poet named WELLS thus exuberates in the New York Mail:

I am glad, I am glad—
I am glad that the summer is coming again,
With its sunshiny days and its showers of rain!

Of course, Wells have now a chance to get tul.—Boston Traveller.

Remark of severe parent to blooming daughter upon discovering that one of the legs of the big chair in the parlour had been broken the Sunday evening previous: "I wish you to understand, SUSAN, that this chair was constructed with a view to the accommodation of one person at a time, and has not the strength and scarcely the capacity for two."—Newark Call.

MR. OLIVER, of Iowa, wants to amend the calendar so as to make the lengths of the months correspond more closely with the variations of the seasons. If he gets the contract, we trust he will not neglect a long-needed reformation in the number of days that go to make up a week. If he can arrange them in bunches of six days, he will deserve the sincere gratitude of a large and influential class whose faces require tonsorial attention only on alternate days, and to whom each recurring Sunday looms up as an extravagant bugbear.—Puck.

Nothing can reach out further than a cough in church. It may come from the remotest corner in the rear, but its echo tickles the throats of those in front, and then creeps down the aisle, and touches the ushers, and floats from the choir to the minister, and never releases its hold until it has wrung a sympathetic explosion from every victim. Perhaps you've noticed it.—Fulton Times. Yes, we have Brother Williams, but can not say exactly when without looking over our file.—Dan News.

Two men doing business on Griswold street met on a corner Saturday, and indulged in hard words over a transaction which neither seemed to understand very well. At length to bring matters to a climax, one of the men called out:

"I denounce you, sir, as a malicious liar!"
"That's all right," coolly replied the other;
"I have made it a life rule never to pay any attention to anonymous communications, and you are perfectly safe!"—Detroit Free Press.

The child was evidently lost!—cried bitterly—could not tell us where its parents lived, or whether she was an orphan, or what her father was—or where she went to school.—Enter Intelligent Policeman.

Policeman (in a friendly whisper). "Where does your mother get her gin, my dear?"
And the mystery was solved!—Punch.

This is the week when the languid lady who finds the Sunday morning promenade to church, two blocks away, excessively fatiguing, takes in on an average ten "Spring Openings" every day, ascends and descends probably three miles of stair-case, and walks around several thousand counters and show-cases, without exhausting herself in the least.—Puck.

"Come here, you little myth," said JOHN, Then quick she seized the poker, And shrieked, as val'rously she strode Towards the heartless joker, "Why must you of our littleness Continually taunt us? Am I JOHN'S myth?" No! no! said he, "You're only Poker-haunt-us!"
—Yonkers Gazette.

The Poor Fox Hunters.

Many Americans will read with a pang of regret that the fox hunting season in England has been almost an entire failure. This deplorable state of affairs has been caused by the severe frosts. Not only has there been little chance for hunting, but the perils of the chase have been greatly increased. Those noble men—most of them are noblemen—who are willing to risk their lives in this hazardous business, have our deepest sympathy. How little we appreciate, as we sit here in America, the dangers these brave men encounter, and all for the public good. So patriotic are these fox hunters in the pursuit of this terrible animal that it is said, although the statement looks doubtful, they keep up thousands of dollars' worth of horses and dogs for the chase of the fox, and yet don't charge the government a cent for killing the ferocious beasts. An American went over there lately with a patent that he could prove would kill all the foxes on the island in two weeks, and yet they would not listen to him, although he showed them that for every $10 they spent they only killed the one-third hundred and eighty-fifth part of a fox, while his plan would slaughter them at the rate of five cents a dozen. The people over there seem to be very brave, but they are undoubtedly behind the age on modern improvements.—Detroit Free Press.

Lord Dufferin in Russia.

When along Neva's frozen banks
My sledge-bells cleave the air,
It may be I shall turn with thanks
To him who sent me there.
Yet deem not that the arts of BEN
Have bonds of Party cleft,
Mine be the measures of the men
Who dined me ere I left—
And still,—my light through snow and storm,—
Shall shine that Spread at the Reform!

It may be in a month or two,
When I'm thought "well in hand,"
Lord B. may think, "By Jove, he'll do!
There's nothing he won't stand."
But if some Jingo point to score
They have a sudden mind
And wire to me, then all the more
I'll think of where I dined.
And, - like a beacon through the storm,—
Shall shine that Spread at the Reform!
—Punch.

BUTLER COAL!

Arriving daily in box cars fresh from the mines, even in size, clean and dry. All kinds of Coal and Wood of very best quality delivered at lowest prices in the city. TO THE TRADE at all points in Western Ontario we are prepared to offer our SUPERIOR BUTLER COAL, delivered in box cars, at the very lowest rates.

HEAD OFFICE - - - - - 33 ADELAIDE STREET EAST.
BRANCH OFFICE - - - - - 343 & 345 YONGE STREET.
YARD OFFICE - - - - - COR. PRINCESS & ESPLANADE.

TELEPHONE COMMUNICATION BETWEEN ALL OFFICES.

SHIPPERS, MINERS
AND

ELIAS ROGERS & CO.

{ WHOLESALERS
AND RETAILERS.

THE QUEEN'S HOTEL, TORONTO.
THE LEADING HOTEL IN ONTARIO.

Thoroughly heated with steam throughout.
Elegant passenger elevator.
Prices graduated according to rooms.

MCGAW & WINNETT,
Proprietors.

JAMES RYRIE,
Successor to J. Segsworth, Dealer in Fine Watches, Clocks, Jewelry, and Silverware, 111 YONGE ST., TORONTO, ONT.

"YO-SEMITE HOTEL."

W. B. STANLEY, Prop.
NOS. 54 & 56 ADELAIDE ST. EAST, TORONTO, ONT.

Ample Accommodation for Travellers.

$2 Per Annum, Free of Postage.

"GRIP" Now in its sixth year and Twelfth Volume, and more popular and influential than ever before.

Our confidence that the Canadian Public would extend a hearty support to a humorous journal conducted upon principles of honesty and decency has been amply justified in the established success of GRIP, which, during the six years of its existence, has enjoyed the patronage and respect of a large constituency of our best people. In dealing with the public men and affairs of the country it has been the aim of the controllers of GRIP to avoid the coarseness and unfairness which too often characterize satirical publications. The political Cartoons, although sometimes severe, have never been unjust and never vindictive. The attitude of absolute independence which the paper has maintained from the first is attested by the appreciative notices which the Cartoons constantly receive in the press of both Parties.

GRIP has offended somebody, who is anxious to vent his spleen through our columns. Want of space, as well as want of inclination, prevents us from going into the matter. We intend to rival GRIP all we know how, but we prefer to do it in a square way. Canada has not so many clever journals that their editors can afford to be continually snarling at each other. Long life to you, BENGOUGH, "we look towards you."—The Jester.

Well it has come at last. GRIP's "elephant" has been trotted out, and he has been patched up pretty neatly in the manner indicated by the sapient cartoonist.—Cor. Lindsay Post.

Ode to Spring.

WITH ANNOTATIONS BY THE EDITOR.

First MS.

Salubrious season of the year,
(What sloppy stuff they always send)
How diff'rent from bleak autumn sear.
(There in the basket find an end!)

Second MS.

Spring, spring, beautiful spring!
(I think I've seen that line before)
Of thy sweetness I cheerfully sing.
(Plagiarist, by gosh, as well as bore!)

Third MS.

How dreamy, soft and balmy is the air.
(Not softer than his head!)

As if a spirit blest did linger there;
(There; numbered with the dead.)

Fourth MS.

Athwart yon mountain cap of snow
Doth shoot the genial ray;
(That sounds like "shoot the hat;")
His frosty front is all aglow
Upon this beautiful day,
(That's all we want of that.)

Fifth MS.

I'll never more thy radiance see,
(What never? Hardly ever?)
Yet I do welcome thee with glee;
(It's gone up Saline River).

NOTICE.—There will be no more demand for Spring poetry at this office until the good times come.—Ed.

Epigram by a Stock Broker.

If this scandalous bill against us becomes law,
'Twill ruin our chances for wealth at a stroke;
Let us haste to the lobby at cruel Ottawa,
If we don't we are settled—the Broker is broke!

THE meos is deserting me, as the poet said when the cats fighting under his window decamped.

How hot is the sun? asks one of our exchanges. If the editor got up at a decently early hour he would see that it is red hot.

Self-"Protection" is Europe's First Law!

We may be a nation of shopkeepers, but according to the France we shall very soon have either to be content with buying goods of each other or to put up our shutters altogether. Our contemporary distinctly states that M. WADDINGTON considers that the latter fate will ere long be ours.

Our colonies, on the maintenance of which, as a world-wide market for our goods, the Imperial politician so proudly insists, laugh at us. Look at Victoria, for instance, with its thirty-five per cent, ad valorem import duty!

The other colonies, as well as Victoria, are, it seems to us, going in to be our competitors rather than our customers; and as the markets of America and Europe are closed against us, France is now, as her Premier rightly states, the only nation we have to any extent upon our books. And France, it is now said, intends henceforth to "protect" herself. Altogether a bright look out for us.

What has practically happened is that, whilst our Imperial statesman have been protecting our national honor, our colonies, our foreign interests, and other things which, like our prestige, might have been safely left to protect themselves, and dependencies and neighbours on the continent have been "protecting" their native manufactures and products to such purpose that, as the France confidently asserts, ere long we shall have no trade nor commerce left to "protect."

Let those who doubt this study the weekly exports. Paradoxical as it may sound, they are just now of exceptional import.—London Funny Folks.

A SCOTTISH Minstrel writes in the Hamilton Times:

"But Scotia, the land of the mountain and misty cloud,
By the dear ties of friendship, my heart clings to thee—
Land of the streamlet, the fountain and torrent cloud,
Hail me, invite me again o'er the sea."

If this bard is a shareholder in the Glasgow Bank, he may consider that he has a standing invitation "again o'er the sea."

Reciprocity!

The Globe says that the St. Thomas Journal says that SAM DAY, (coming M. P. for East Elgin) says that he "don't care a — for England!" JOHN BRIGHT says that BEACONSFIELD says that England don't care a — for SAM DAY; so that makes it even.

THE novel for verbose letter-writers, Say and Seal.

THAT'S tooth in, as the dog said to the other, who was trying to steal his dinner.

MR. BRITTIE, who presented the newly married Prince with a large picture entitled "A Slave," deserves a seat in the "Joker Club."

ALTHOUGH no one has any faith in Heathen Mythology, a great many would-be wits try very hard to be JOVIAL. JUNO how it is yoursself?

THE Port Hope Guide records the marriage of Miss BULLIED. The young lady must have been unhappy at home, as she had evidently made up her mind not to be bullied any lo ger.

BEST business you can engage in. $5 to $20 per day made by any worker of either sex, right in their own localities. Particulars and samples worth $5 free. Improve your spare time at this business. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

"YOUNG CANADA."

John Bull.—"MY AMAZEMENT, MY SURPRISE, YOU MAY LEARN FROM THE EXPRESSION OF MY EYES."
Young Canada.—"SO MUCH THE WORSE FOR YOU, DADDY."

TWO O'CLOCK IN THE MORNING.

THIS IS NOT THE SLEEP-WALKING SCENE FROM "MACBETH;"
IT IS A FEMALE PEDESTRIAN MAKING UP LOST TIME.

J. BRUCE & CO.,

FINE ART PHOTOGRAPHY,

118 King St. West,
TORONTO.

Unequalled in the Dominion for grace of Pose and beauty of Finish.

AGENTS, READ THIS.

We will pay Agents a Salary of $100 per month and expenses, or allow a large commission to sell our new and wonderful inventions. We mean what we say. Sample free, Address, SHERMAN & CO., Marshall, Mich.
xii-16-3m

F. DIVER & CO.,

Electrotypers and Stereotypers,

AT LOWEST POSSIBLE RATES,
14 KING STREET EAST, - TORONTO.
xii-16-4t

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY.

The tens of thousands who are making exclusive use of the COOK'S FRIEND Baking Powder, thereby render UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY to its superiority. Retailed everywhere. xii-12-1y

BALDNESS!

Neither gasoline, vasoline, carboline, or Allen's, Ayer's, or Hall's hair restorers have produced luxuriant hair on bald heads. That great discovery is due to Mr. Winter-corn, 61 King-street East, (late 132 Church-street), as can be testified to by hundreds of living witnesses in this city and Province. He challenges all the so-called restorers to produce a like result.
Send for circulars. xii-12-1y

U can make money faster at work for us than at any thing else. Capital not required; we will start you $12 per day at home made by the industrious. Men, women, boys and girls wanted everywhere to work for us. Now is the time. Costly outfit and terms free. Address, TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

Financial.

$10 TO 1000 Invested in Wall St. Stock; makes fortunes every month. Book sent free explaining everything. Address BAXTER & Co., Bankers, 17 W. 11 St., N. Y. xi-20-1y.

Opposition Comforts.

"There are comforts in the Opposition."—G. W. Ross, M.P.

O, the Opposition benches
Are after all the best;
No office-seekers spoiling
A fellow's needed rest;
No fighting over contracts,
No making up blue-books,
No weight of Cabinet duty
To spoil one's pleasant looks.

No business to look after,
No Policy to push,
No questions to reply to—
We needn't care a rush!
We holler "butter fingers,"
And laugh a loud haw-haw!
We have no care, no trouble—
No salary to draw.

From all quarters there comes evidence of satisfaction with the tariff as a whole.—London Herald. This item appears in a column that often contains jokes.

The Port Hope Guide says the Grits are grinding their teeth over the Tariff. Wonder what the millers are grinding, now that flour is cheaper than wheat?

A movement is on foot amongst the ladies in England, to restore the costume of ancient Greece. If the ladies would spend more of their time in the larder they would soon restore it.

It would be hypocritical for us to pretend that we would have welcomed the announcement of any fiscal policy of the present Government with other than hostile criticism.—New Glasgow Chronicle.

This is not put here as a joke, but as a rare gem of political honesty.

Forney's Progress is down on female pedestrianism. The Col. says it is a senseless business, affords no excitement and proves nothing. This is merely WESTON invective, as the women continue to go into the business with their whole sole. Let the Progress be quiet or a ROWELL be the result. We WARREN him.

M. J. HYNES & BRO.,

Contractors and Plasterers,

HAVE REMOVED FROM 11 VICTORIA TO
102 KING STREET WEST.

TO PHONOGRAPHERS!

Just to hand a full Stock of ISAAC PITMAN'S Text Books.

Compend of Phonography	5 cts.
Exercises in Phonography	5
Grammatical and Contractions	10
Questions on Manual	15
Selections in Reporting Style	20
Teacher	20
Key to Teacher	20
Reader	20
Manual	50
Reporter	75
Reporting Exercises	20
Phrase Book	30
Covers for holding Note Book	20
The Reporter's Guide, by Thos. Allan Reid	60
Self-culture, corresponding style	60
The Book of Psalms, corresponding style	35
The Book of Psalms, cloth	60
Pilgrims Progress, cloth	90
Common Prayer, morocco, with gilt edges	$2.50
The Other Life, cloth	50
New Testament, reporting style	$2.50
Phonographic Dictionary	1.00
Pilgrim's Progress, corresponding style	50
Extracts, corresponding style	20

Sent post-paid to any address on receipt of price.

BENGOUGH BROS.

Next Post Office, Toronto.

$66 a week in your own town. $5 Outfit free. No risk. Reader, if you want a business at which persons of either sex can make great pay all the time they work, write for particulars to H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Maine.

WANTED.—5 cents each will be paid for the followi 12 back numbers of GRIP:

Vol.	No.	2	16	23.
3.	7.	9.	17.	20.
4.	1.	2.	4.	5.
5.	5.	7.	17.	19.
6.	6.	7.	9.	13.
7.	4.	12.	20.	21
8.	1.	7.	12.	17.
9.	3.	15.

BENGOUGH BROS., Toronto.

PUBLISHERS' NOTE.

GRIP is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.

Subscription price, $2 per annum strictly in advance. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied. BENGOUGH BROS.

USE ONLY

ONTARIO

Baking Powder.

Ask your Grocer for it.

MANUFACTORY:

247 King Street West,
TORONTO.

xii-20-17

BENGOUGH BROS.

Are prepared to execute orders for

ENGRAVING

in the highest style of the art.

Type Metal Plates

MADE FROM

Pen and Ink Sketches, Photographs, Lithographs, &c.,

More perfect, true and lasting than any wood engraving, and at a much lower cost. Call and see specimens at

GRIP OFFICE,

Next door to Post Office, Toronto.

Bone Manure!

Pure Bone Meal, warranted best quality. Super-phosphates. Ground bones for Vineries. Rates moderate.

Factory, Esplanade & George Sts.

Address R. POLLOCK,

121 Jarvis St.
xii-3-6m.

TO PRINTERS.

Any printer having a font of Brevier Italic, in good condition Farmer, Little & Co's make, to work with this face will please communicate stating price and sending sample to

BENGOUGH BROS

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY.

The tens of thousands who are making exclusive use of the COOK'S FRIEND Baking Powder, thereby render UNSOLICITED testimony to its superiority.

Retailed everywhere. xii-12-17

WANTED.—5 cents each will be paid for the following back numbers of GRIP:

VOL. 2. No. 2, 16, 23.
" 3. " 7, 9, 17, 20, 21, 23.
" 4. " 2, 3, 4, 5, 6.
" 5. " 5, 7, 17, 19, 21, 26.
" 6. " 6, 7, 9, 13, 25.
" 7. " 4, 12, 20, 21.
" 8. " 1, 2, 7, 12, 17, 24.
" 9. " 3, 15.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

TORONTO.

$66 a week in your own town. $5 outfit free. No risk. Reader, if you want a business at which persons of either sex can make great pay all the time they work, write for particulars to H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Me.

Time Books,---Weekly and Monthly.

These Books having been bought a bargain at auction, we are prepared to offer them retail, at wholesale prices.

BENGOUGH BROTHERS,

TORONTO.

[TRADE-MARK REGISTERED]

TORONTO, SATURDAY, APRIL 19, 1879.

GRIP OFFICE, } The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; } 5 CTS. EACH.
IMPERIAL BUILDING. } The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool. } $2 PER ANNUM.

BETHESDA WATER.

QUETTON, ST. GEORGE & Co.,

WINE MERCHANTS, 16 King Street, West, Toronto,

SOLE AGENTS FOR CANADA.

The Trade Supplied in Original Packages.

xii-21-27

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach GRIP office not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

$1.50

Will Wash and Rough Dry 100 Pieces, at the

TORONTO STEAM
LAUNDRY.

Cor. Bay & Wellington.

OFFICE: 65 KING ST. WEST

LOVELY!

"What Lovely White Bread!" Is a remark that we often hear made by ladies on first seeing our

Favourite Snow-Flake Rolls.

Delivered daily, 6 cents each.

CRUMPTON'S BAKERY,

171 KING-ST., East.

xii-20-17

RODWELL & FELL,
Engravers,

And Manufacturers of Rubber and Metal Stamps,

PRESS AND WAX SEALS,

Name Plates, Baggage and Key Checks.

7 Adelaide St. East,

TORONTO.

BEST business you can engage in. $5 to $20 per day made by any worker of either sex, right in their own localities. Particulars and samples worth $5 free. Improve your spare time at this business. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

FARM FOR SALE.
100 ACRES

In the Township of Uxbridge.

Would exchange for entire horse, weighing 1,700 or 1,800 pounds, and not more than 8 years old.

BENGOUGH BROS.

U can make money faster at work for us than at any thing else. Capital not required; we will start you $12 per day at home made by the industrious. Men, women, boys and girls wanted every where to work for us. Now is the time. Costly outfit and terms free. Address, TRUE & Co., Augusta, Me.

NEW! NEW! NEW!

THE PERFECTION

Stocking and Glove Darners.

One of the most useful inventions of the age. Every Lady wants one. For sale at the News Depots and Fancy Stores.

Price 25 cts. each.

Liberal discount made to the trade. Sample one sent post-paid to any address for 25 cents.

C. T. BRANDON CO., Manufacturers, 86 King St. E., Toronto.

xii-22-47

Stage Whispers.

It is reported that SANTLEY will come with Col. MAPLESON to this country next fall.

A recent benefit for the family of the murdered actor, PORTER, in Philadelphia, netted $1,500.

Miss BLANCHE THORNE, niece of CHARLES R. THORNE, Jr., will soon make her debut in San Francisco.

It is said that Mr. JAMES O'NEIL, now of San Francisco, has had GEORGE ELIOT's Daniel Deronda dramatized for him.

Mr. STANLEY, the distinguished English tenor once so much admired by American audiences, will never, it is said, return to the stage.

Mme. GERSTER gave a grand concert at Steinway Hall, New York, on the 10th inst., in aid of the German Hospital and Dispensary, assisted by other eminent artists.

The play next in order at the Union Square, "Lost Children," is an adaptation by Mr. CARAURAN of an old French melodrama. It will follow the "Fanker's Daughter."

AMEE begins to get wild about singing operatic music. She has studied "Carmen" and some other roles belonging to the repertoire of the Opera Comique, expressly for her American season.

The play that failed ludicrously at NIBLO's last winter under the title of "New York and London," has just met with a second disaster in London, where it was called "The New Babylon."

Miss LILIAN NORTON, an American singer, had a chance to sing once in Milan, and she calls herself GIGLIO NORDICA. She expects to ride to popular favour on the GIGLIO.—New Orleans Picayune.

Miss HAUKE has definitely decided not to return to America next season. She has been offered and probably will accept an engagement for a season in Madrid next fall, and for the following season she has already had an offer in Milan.

"Romeo and Juliet" has been translated into Bengali. In this translation Romeo becomes Ajaysintha, and Juliet becomes Valosvati, and it is very effective to hear Valosvati exclaim: "Ajaysintha! Ajaysintha! Wherefore art thou Ajaysintha?"

CAMILLA URSO is almost the only woman who has ever attained eminence as a violinist, and yet the art of drawing a beau is innate with the sex.—Cincinnati Commercial. They all do it; only they don't make the same noise about it.—Richmond (Va.) Baton.

COGGSWELL and MACK who pretend to fight every night on the stage as Col. Elevator and Prof. Gillipod, in GROVER'S "Our Boarding House" company, fought in dead earnest across a breakfast table in a Pittston hotel. They threw crockery and chairs at each other and inflicted many disfiguring wounds.

GEORGE, the Count Joannes, has appeared in New York as Lord Dundreary. In a card he says: "I should degrade my intellect if I studied such an idiotic, stammering, sneering, hopping, though humorous character. It is an insult to God's creation. My point is the lex talionis, the 'law of retaliation,' in my endeavour to imitate E. A. SOTHERN as Lord Dundreary, and to do that I descend to his level, as it would be impossible to raise him to my own."

NEATLY, CHEAPLY, QUICKLY.

Grip Job Department.

Everything in the Printing line from a

Label to a Three-Sheet Poster,
WITH NEATNESS AND DESPATCH.

We are prepared to fill Orders by Mail for Visiting Cards (Finest Bristol, White or Tinted) immediately on receipt of letter, and forward by FIRST MAIL, at the following rates:

25 Cards, (one name, one style type),	30 cents.
50 " " " " " "	50 "
100 " " " " " "	75 "

The following are Samples of Type from which a choice may be made.

1

Robert Taylor.

2

William Richardson.

3

Miss Maggie Thompson.

4

George Augustus Williams.

5

Mrs. Thomas Jones.

6

William Arthur Crawford.

7

Miss Susie Wade.

8

Byron W. Scott.

9

William Shakespeare.

Chromo Cards:

(Five Beautiful Pictures)

100 Cards, (one name, one style type)	$1.50.
50 " " " " " "	1.00.
25 " " " " " "	75.

Mourning Cards:

25 Cards, (one name one style type),	50 cents.
50 " " " " " "	75 "
100 " " " " " "	$1.25 "

Memorial Cards

Beautiful Designs, $ 1.00 per dozen.
Samples by mail, 5c. each.

Printing addresses on Cards, 10 cents extra for each Order.

Write your Name and the Number of the Letter you desire plainly, to prevent mistakes.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

Imperial Buildings, (Next Post Office), Toronto.

Literature and Art.

GLADSTONE's magazine articles have been translated into Greek, and have been published in a Greek paper. They read very smoothly in Greece.

Mr. BRET HARTE and Mr. HENRY JAMES have been elected members of the new Rabelais Club in London, formed to promote earnestness, erudition and manly strength in literature. Lord HOUGHTON is one of the members.

Miss ELLA DIETZ, whose poem, "The Triumph of Love," met with such a flattering reception from the critics, is contemplating a volume of her shorter poems, some of which have been set to music—music, by the way, of her own composition.

EMERSON, on his 70th birthday, was on shipboard. One of his fellow-passengers congratulated Mr. EMERSON on his birthday, health and vigour. "Yes! yes!" said the Concord sage, in his most reflective tones, "but I consider it the end of my youth!"

It is no secret in literary circles that the life of Mr. CARLYLE (whenever that interesting but melancholy task comes to be undertaken) will be written by Mr. FROUDE, the historian. Mr. FROUDE has for years been collecting materials for that purpose with the sanction and aid of Mr. CARLYLE himself.

Mr GEO. STEWART Jr. delivered his lecture on Emerson here this week. The essay was brimful of information about that sage, and all his illustrious contemporaries, given from the standpoint of personal acquaintanceship. Mr. STEWART's platform style is easy and quiet. This was his first appearance as a lecturer in this Province.

The new tax on cheap imported literature has brought forth some new publishers of "Libraries," and J. ROSS ROBERTSON'S 15 ct bonanza gradually slips through his fingers. The tax is strongly objected to by the general reading public, but the American authors are overjoyed, as they are now certain of having their books stolen as fast as written.

ROBERT BROWNING has accepted the Presidency of the new Shakespearian Society, which was left vacant at the time the society was founded and was not to be filled "till one of our greatest living poets sees that it is his duty to take it." "The Dramatic Idyls" Mr. BROWNING will shortly publish will be six in number, "Martin Relph," "Pheidippides," "Halbert and Hob," "Ivan Ivano vitch," "Tray" and "Ned Bralts."

KINGLAKE, the historian of the Crimean war, casts his eyes down when his photograph is taken, and this gives him a mild and retiring appearance. People will hardly believe that he is 68 years old. The effect that his sarcastic, studied and circumlocutory rhetoric had upon the court of NAPOLEON II. probably retarded his work, if it did not through the influence of the English Government, wholly discourage him.

HERE is a recent pen sketch of TENNYSON:

"He looked tall, somewhat stout, round-shouldered, and he walked with a stick, as though the gout was hanging about his legs or feet. He had a long beard which almost buried his face, and wore a pair of large, round, Chinese-looking spectacles. He had on a very broad-brimmed, weather-worn felt hat, dark trousers, gaiters, several undercoats or jackets, covered over all by a thin, shabby-looking red tweed dust coat, buttoned very tightly, as though it were much too small for him. Dangling outside, from what should have been a clean white shirt-front, was a pair of large gold-rimmed nose spectacles."

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

By BENGOUGH Bro's, Proprietors. Office:—Imperial Buildings, next to the Post Office, Adelaide Street, Toronto. GEO. BENGOUGH, Business Manager.

Original contributions paid for. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned. Literary and Business communications to be addressed to BENGOUGH Bro's.

SUBSCRIPTION TERMS:—Two dollars per year, payable in advance. Subscriptions and advertisements are received at the office, or by WM. R. BURRAGE, General Subscription and Advertising Agent, Pacific Building, Scott Street, Toronto.

EDITED AND ILLUSTRATED BY J. W. BENGOUGH.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

A Baby Elephant.

The celebrated White Elephant attached to Messrs. TILLEY & Co's Dominion Circus has brought forth a dear little calf. This interesting event took place at St. Catharines, a few weeks ago. The offspring, which has been christened the "Rag baby," is doing as well as could be expected, and promises to be as large and white and clever an animal as the N. P. itself. It is of course somewhat feeble as yet, but under the tender and even affectionate care of ISAAC BUCHANAN, Captain WYNNE and Master WALLACE, who have undertaken to rear it, it will soon be strong and hearty. Its principal food is hair-brains stewed with clap trap, and fortunately this country affords an unlimited supply.

Grip's Historical Readings.

EMBRACING NOTICES OF GREAT EVENTS
AND CELEBRATED MEN.

II.—THE SIGNING OF MAGNA CHARTA.

On the death of RICHARD I. (him who cured de lion), the crown of England was laid upon a sideboard until little Prince ARTHUR should have been measured for a suit of clothes to go through the coronation ceremony with, but in the meantime, a mean man, named JOHN, meanly seized the bauble and put it on his own head. He subsequently requested a party named HUBERT to sear ARTHUR's eye out, but HUBERT couldn't sear it. JOHN then proceeded with his reign under the name, style and firm of King JOHN. Some historians give him the surname of LACKLAND, because he didn't own much real estate, notwithstanding that he had plenty of opportunities of robbing the public till. He really was a poor man (comparatively) and it's greatly to his credit, under the circumstances. We opine, however, that if JOHN had any surname at all it was probably AMICDONALD, or should have been. It is not our intention in the present brief paper to enlarge upon the character and career of this King JOHN; we intend to confine our remarks to the circumstances attending his memorable and most gracious act—the signing of Magna Charta.

The reader may perhaps be aware that, previous to the signing of this grand document, the people of England didn't enjoy much more civil and religious liberty than the people of the United States do to-day, who have emigrated from China. The prerogatives of the Crown were not clearly defined, which was a constant source of trouble to the French members, and often sent the party papers into fits. Former kings had shamefully abused their constitutional privileges, and ground the people under the iron heel of tyranny. King JOHN, however, was "England's greatest statesman," as well as a truly good man, and he was determined that the Barons and the rest of the folks should suffer wrong no longer. He determined to give them Magna Charta—which should be a guaranty of liberty for all time. To accomplish this desirable end, JOHN set himself in opposition to the popular will, and endeavoured to surpass all his predecessors as a tyrant and a task-master. He was ten times more high-handed than LETELLIER; and as defiantly regardless of constitutional usage as MOUSSEAU. Of course the good King only did this to impress upon the Barons the necessity of the Magna Charta; and at length they became impressed. They called a caucus, Nov. 20, 1214, and drew up a round robin which they determined to present to his Majesty. They shook hands all round and swore that they would see the matter through. Some time after this they laid their demands before the King by a deputation, which was politely introduced by Lord-in-Waiting FRAZER. King JOHN replied in the form of words which is still in use in all our government departments, "I'll take your business into consideration." He didn't believe the Barons were really ripe for Magna Charta yet. He said he would see them later, say about the middle of April of the next year; and in the meantime, in order to stir them up to a sense of their true interests, he raised an army of foreign troops to fight them a little. At the appointed time the Barons waited upon King JOHN again, professing to feel exceedingly ready for Magna Charta, even if they had to pay for it with a few thousands of lives. The King longed to bestow the Great Charter upon them, but still he thought they were not yet prepared for it, and he felt obliged to decline their pressing invitation. At this point open war ensued, the conduct of the truly good statesman King being entirely misunderstood by the Barons. The overwhelming forces of the latter soon subdued the royal troops, and with unkind rudeness King JOHN was requested to be on hand at Runnymede, on Monday, June 15, to wind up this Charter business. Of course the King was on hand, and gladly signed Magna Charta, remarking as he threw down the pen, "With all my heart, gentlemen; why didn't you say so before?" Some historians seek to rob King JOHN of the glory of this noble act. What would not such historians do? They would even deny to Sir JOHN A. MACDONALD the credit of passing Confederation and several other measures which he opposed until further opposition meant a loss of place. Out upon such!

Shakespearean Readings.

SIR HUGH ALLAN:—Want no money, Sir JOHN, you shall want none.

—Merry Wives of Windsor, Act ii., Sc. ii.

ALECK PIRIE:—The devil take one Party and his dam the other.

—Merry Wives of Windsor, Act iv., Sc. v.

HON. ALEX. MACKENZIE: Now my co-mates and brothers in exile,
Hath not old custom made this life more sweet

Than that of painted pomp?

—As You Like It, Act ii., Sc. i.

MOUSSEAU (to LETELLIER): You shall
• be soon despatched.

—Henry V., Act ii. Sc. iv.

GILMOLR (to DOMVILLE): Ha! o' my life,
If I were young again the sword should end it.

—Merry Wives of Windsor, Act i. Sc. i.

HON. DR. TUPPER: Shall I tell a lie?
I do despise a liar as I do despise one that is false.

—Merry Wives of Windsor, Act i. Sc. i.

THOMPSON OF CARIBOO (rising in the House):
If you have tears, prepare to shed them now.

—Julius Caesar, Act iii. Sc. ii.

CHORUS OF ALL TORY EDITORS, LED BY TOM WHITE AND CHARLEY MACKINTOSH:
Bind the offender, and take him from our presence.

—Cym. Act v. Sc. v.

SIR JOHN MACDONALD (to OUMET): This speech of yours has moved me.

—King Lear, Act v. Sc. iii.

JOSIAH BURR PLUMB: Ay, much is the favor of heaven-bred poesy.

—Two Gentlemen of Verona, Act iii., Sc. ii.

LORD CHELMSFORD: O God of battles! steel my soldiers' hearts!

Possess them not with fear! Take from them now

The sense of reckoning of the opposed numbers!

—Henry V., Act iv., Sc. 1.

ARCHBISHOP LYNCH: Approved warriors, and my faithful friends,
I have received letters from great Rome.

Titus Andronicus, Act v., Sc. i.

BUNSTER: I am too blunt and saucy.

—Cym. Act v., Sc. v.

HON. L. H. HOLTON: Peace, peace, and give experience tongue.

Pericles, Act i., Sc. ii.

RAG MONEY WALLACE: Pray, do not mock me:

I am a very foolish, fond old man.

King Lear, Act iv., Sc. vii.

HON. MR. MOWAT (at Globe office): Is CÆSAR
yet gone to the Capitol?

—Julius Caesar, Act iii., Sc. i.

GRIP: Let me have men about me that are fat,

Sleek-headed, and such as sleep o' nights.

—Julius Caesar, Act i., Sc. ii.

THEY are beginning to tell HANLAN that the other chap is a HAWDON to beat.

WHEN you offer a tramp bread, and he makes a rye face, you can conclude he prefers whiskey.

JEFF DAVIS is of a forgiving nature.—
N.Y. Herald. Yes, he was for giving the North fits in the late war.

MR. TILLEY is supposed to be an orderly and well behaved citizen, but by his tax on sugar he undoubtedly encourages the people of this country to raise cane.

Was the late overwhelming defeat of the Grit Government of Prince Edward Island
due mainly to the moral force of the Rev.
STEPHEN G. LAWSON's saintly editorials in the Presbyterian?

Is it true that MR. AMOR DE COSMOS intends applying to Parliament to have his name amended again, with a view of limiting his "love of the universe" to that portion of it outside the Chinese wall?

The Dartmouth Sugar Refinery.

The accompanying little sketch, which comes to Mr. GRIP from Nova Scotia, is humble in an artistic point of view, but looked at through patriotic and moral spectacles, it is worth more than any of the best works of PRANG. To a Canadian it is simply priceless, for it attests at once the material prosperity of the country, and the rectitude of her leading men. It illustrates the development of home industry under the new Tariff, which development was prophesied and promised by our statesmen. To come down to particulars, it may be stated that during the late political campaign, Dr. TUPPER and his friends told the people of Nova Scotia that if they voted for the National Policy they would have a Sugar Refinery at Dartmouth. The grateful Blue-nose artist in the above form records the joyous fact that this promise has been realized. The sketch is a faithful representation of the Dartmouth Sugar Refinery, which has just got into operation. Our countrymen, heretofore unfamiliar with great industrial establishments, must not mistake it for a picture of a Mic-Mac brave extracting the sweets of office from Nova Scotia sap-heads; it is, we repeat, a correct representation of the only Sugar Refinery at Dartmouth—the full fruition of Dr. TUPPER's promise!

New Edition of an Old Ballad.

AS SUNG BY THE MARQUIS OF LORNE.

I'm far from my dear native shore,
'Neath a chilly and desolate sky,
Where violent partizans roar,
And politics run very high;
And they've got me just now in a fix,
And against me the editors foam—
Through one of my Minister's tricks
Referring a question to Home;

Chorus.

I feel very weary and sad,
I wish my "instructions" were come;
I'm surrounded with men who are bad,
O, write me a letter from Home.

AN INTERNATIONAL POINT RAISED.
(OUR BOY'S CARBUNCLE.)

The Hon. Members.

Extract from Notes of our own Private Secretary, taken at alphabetical interview of M.P.'s to obtain correct knowledge of requirements of different constituencies of Dominion, etc.

FROM M TO O.

MR. McHAGGIS M. P., Glencabor.—Highland chieftain. Forefathers came over with WOLFE, and were at the capture of Quebec. Once Jacobites; now reconciled to circumstances, and think calmly about the "wee German lairdie;" also CARTWRIGHT. Ultra loyal; grandfather commanded company of fencibles at Queenston Heights; commands company of Volunteers himself. Biggest company in Canada anyway; no man under six feet, flank men seven feet high more or less; all of them sledge throwers; will undertake to "clean out" with self and men any battalion in the force. Apologises to Excellency for not appearing in Highland costume. Don't mind the cold weather, but small boys throw snowballs at him when in kilts and it is undignified to chase them. Has one hundred pipers in a' among his constituents, who will gie His Excellency a "blaw" should he ever do them the honour to visit his neighborhood. His people have plenty of everything and always have had. Don't care about merits of the Tariff or for anything or anybody—says "G a ma ta thu" and departs.

Mem.—Fine specimen of Thane, this member, and doubtless hospitable. Would like to visit him when he is in good humour, otherwise not. Perceptible odour of eau de Cologne—or something spirituelle—after departure.

MR. NASBY M. P., West Bingen. Smart young member. Says his constituency is not excelled in Ontario. Like the Scotch. Has plenty of Scotch supporters. Can "spoke" the Gaelic himself, used to read it up in evenings while at the University. Thinks it double discounts Greek; Latin nowhere alongside of it. Knows Irish too, had to study that for Hibernian supporters. Same thing as to German. Mixed constituency, his. Takes interest in railways and drainage of swamps, anxious as to efficiency of Civil Servants. Has plenty of money. Keeps family carriage, and all that; constituents well off, or if not, their own fault. Would be glad to entertain Governor should he come his way. Graceful bow, and exit.

Mem.—Very accomplished gentleman this; would like to pay him a visit myself. See future "Honourable" in him, if he don't fall into evil associations.

MR. ORSON M. P., Cat Portage.—Western member, constituency sparsely settled, and people of romantic habits. Takes great interest in Lo, the poor Indian. Thinks they have not fair treatment. Don't see why that Injun who perhaps goes to England and receives good education, should be restricted in his liberties. Likes Injuns; has lived amongst them, and knows all about them. Is a strong Protectionist; and wonders why duty is not put on bead-work and moccasins in the new Tariff. Everything and everybody is protected except the poor Indian!—Excellency yawns; Hon. member takes it for exit cue. Exit.

Mem.—Fine man, but think he has got Injun on the brain.

If our esteemed Governor-General never does another distinguished action during his term, his name will ever bloom in our annals. He has shewn a respect for the opinion of his mother-in-law, which is as brave a thing as any man dare do.

The Rag Baby at Ottawa.

It is altogether likely that Mr. WALLACE, the rag-baby representative of Capt. WYNN in the House of Commons, will object to our pinning a placard to his coat-tail inscribed "This is a noodle." He will say that it is a want of common sense which leads us to imagine that he is a noodle, when everybody knows he is, on the contrary, a decent member of Parliament. And yet this same Mr. WALLACE advocates the irredeemable money fraud, and thinks it sensible to take pieces of paper and convert them into currency by merely writing "This is money" upon them, having no basis of gold. If by a fiat of the Government certain scraps of paper may be transformed into money, than by a fiat of GRIP certain paper members may be taken for donkeys.

"I am prepared to swallow it whole."—Speech of Mr. DOMVILLE M. P., on the Tariff.

A conjurer seemingly rash

May swallow big jack-knives or swords,
Some swallow gin cocktails and smash,
Some swallow their vows and their words;
These to DOMVILLE are but a small sup,
His feat quite surprises the town;
As with one most Tariffic gulp,
He swallows the Elephant down.

The Edgar Medal.

One evening this week the room of the Reform Association, on King street, was the scene of a very interesting ceremony. Mr. GEO. W. FIELD, a clever young member of the Pairty, was presented with a handsome gold medal, offered by Mr. J. D. EDGAR to the writer of the best essay. For the benefit of those who have not seen this medal, GRIP (who is similarly situated) has much pleasure in presenting an engraving of it below. If the picture does not faithfully represent the medal, it is the fault of our artist's head and not of his hand, and no doubt the genial EDGAR will overlook it.

THE (RAG) BABY ELEPHANT.

THE JOKER CLUB.

"The Pun is mightier than the Sword."

This is the walking year; the next will be leap year.—Camden Post.

Of what sort of metal is a political ring made?—Rome Sentinel. Steal.

HADLAD, the Cadadiad rower, has a bad code id 'is 'ead.—Detroit Free Press.

Female compositors are continually setting their CAPS for the editor.—Cincinnati Sat. Night.

Texas papers speak of summary executions. Kind of noose summary, as it were.—N. Y. Herald.

The gardener who is training "scarlet runners," cannot be getting up a walking match.—London Tiser.

Pinafore hats for ladies are out. They have been pinned altogether too far behind heretofore.—Norristown Herald.

It is about time for venerable hens to come forward and be hung up in the market for spring chickens.—Utica Observer.

When a woman promenades the streets leading a dog it looks as if she couldn't get anything else to her string.—Phila. Chronicle.

The Pope has sent 5000 liras to the relief of the Hungarian sufferers. The lire is a coin, not a sewing-machine agent.—Danbury News.

A Pinafore Reform Club, with a pledge binding the members "hardly ever" to drink, would be a popular institution.—Boston Traveller.

The Herald P. I. man speaks of the toothache as the grinder-pest. Has he forgotten the hand organ manipulators?—Marathon Independent.

It is a good suggestion that a negro minstrel blacks his face in order to hide his blushes when he makes his usual stale jokes.—New York Herald.

The most economical man is reported as living in the second ward. He took a bung-hole to the cooper to have a barrel made around it.—Rome Sentinel.

Poor and hard worked horses must eat their meals whenever and wherever they can, but the aristocratic nag always dines at a table d'oat.—N. Y. Mail.

A correspondent of the Boston Transcript suggests the following change in a familiar line:

"For men must work, and women must walk."

Benjamin West says the kiss of his mother made him a painter. If Benjamin, however, had lacked genius, the kiss might have made him a whitewasher.—N. O. Picayune.

The result of protection in Canada has been immediate. Two prize fighters went over from the United States and got up a big mill there last week.—Boston Com. Bulletin.

"Dot 'Pinafore' expression was a noosance," remarked a Teutonic gentleman to a genial coaljutor. "Auf you tole a veller somedings he speaks noting but blaine English ober he say: 'Vot, hardly sometimes nefer?' Vot kind of language is dose?"—N. Y. Tribune.

MAN can do many things, but there is one thing he can't do—he can't button on a new collar, just after cutting his thumb nails, without looking up in the air.—Boston Globe.

THE wisest men have generally built up their reputation by keeping their mouths shut. Let men who buy rags and sell fish regard this as a personal item.—Detroit F. P.

"JANE," said he, "I think if you lifted your feet away from the fire we might have some heat in the room." And they hadn't been married two years, either.—Boston Journal.

The exercise of whipping carpets is recommended for the development of muscle. Don't let your wife do it, or she may get the start of you in development.—Chicago Journal.

They are cutting down the trees so fast in some of the Western States that in the event of another war there will be no place for a drafted man to stand behind.—N. Y. Com. Advertiser.

TALMAGE may be guilty of heresy, burglary, arson and murder, but the one great fact that no one can go to sleep under his preaching should weigh tons in his favor.—Detroit Free Press.

Men who make a pleasure of work are not often found, but there is always a look of enjoyment on the face of the man who pounds the bass drum in a brass band.—Newark Call.

A harness maker in Syracuse who ran away with another man's wife, and was pursued and chastised by the wronged husband, returned home a saddler if not a wiser man.—Rome Sentinel.

LOVE rules the court, the camp, the grove, and earth below and heaven above, but it never sewed a gray patch in the seat of your husband's black trousers. That isn't love. That's revenge.—Andrew's Bazar.

The Danbury News man is going to try to eat ten soda crackers in ten consecutive minutes.—New York Herald. So he's in for a square meal, is he?—Rome Sentinel. Yes, but he will find it as dry work as comic lecturing.

In a street car. Lady in shabby dress to animated tailor's model standing in front of her. "Will you please ring the bell sir?" "Pawdon, madam, I'm not the conductaw—ah." "Indeed? What are you?" He gives it up.—Puck.

E. C. STEADMAN, in one of his poems in Scribner, asks, "Why should I fear to sip the sweets of each red lip?" Don't know, CLARRY, unless it is because the new style of coloring now used is poisonous.—Baltimore Every Saturday.

When the mild spring days come, if they ever should, look out for the showy thirty-five dollar baby carriage pushed along the sidewalk by a bedraggled looking mother who hasn't had a square meal all winter.—New Haven Register.

A quiet young man at a party being asked what instrument he preferred, modestly denominated the whistle. Being further pressed to explain what kind of a whistle, he blushing murmured the "Six o'clock whistle."—Danbury News.

The following scrap of conversation was heard on the street early last evening: First young man—"MARY ANDERSON appears at Newark to night." Second young man—"Is that so? How many miles is she going to walk?"—Newark Sunday Call.

There once was a fellow named KNOT, Who pined as the weather grew hot; As a general rule He couldn't keep cool. And he sweat and he swat and he swot.

—St. Louis Journal.

Agricultural hints to ladies.—Now is the time to do your spring sewing; but first prepare a rich top-dressing of straw, ribbon and feathers, in which it is not too early to set out flowers and vines. This dressing is imperative, as it will make even the cabbage-heads look well.—Boston Transcript.

A WITNESS at the TALMAGE trial in Brooklyn, being told that he talked so fast the stenographer would not get half he said, replied that half would be quite enough. And so it is with the country; if it should hear from but half of TALMAGE in the future, it would hear quite enough.—Detroit F. P.

With strawberries selling at a dollar a quart, and other luxuries equally high, it is some comfort to know that the necessities of life are still within reach of the poor man. Ten dollars will buy a season ticket to the Utica base ball ground for 1879. And still people are not entirely happy.—Rome Sentinel.

MRS. BROOKS, we believe, would find cheese sculpture to pay better than butter. We could then place before our guests a cheese bust of perhaps a favorite deity. How aesthetic to exclaim, "Mr. Smith, let me assist you to a small chunk of Minerva's left ear." There's millions in it.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Miss DODS' cooking lecture, the other evening. Lady soliloquizing: "Now that she's got it cooked, I wish she'd tell us how to use up cold mutton." Next lady over-ears and remarks: "I have some infallible recipes." First lady, alert with pencil and note book: "Will you please favor me?" Second lady—"Six boys!"—Phila. Bulletin.

The farmer scythe as he rakes his field

From morning until night,

The tater-bug chews the budding corn,

Hoe! such a harrowing sight!

The plow stands by and does its share—

Weed rather say no more—

But such a thrashing the reaper got

Was never seen before!

—London Advertiser.

The reason that gentlemen do not often attend millinery openings is plain enough. When they go to the theatre they have such an admirable opportunity for the study of feminine head-gear, that they not only don't care to visit the "openings," but sometimes the wretches don't properly appreciate the advantages the ladies so unselfishly bestow on them.—Boston Transcript.

Full soon on the flowerful meadow,

The lambkin will gambol and play;

Full soon in the aisles of the orchard,

The blossoms will fall in a spray.

Full soon in the domiciles scrubbing,

The girl will wax angry and faint;

Full soon we shall see on a placard,

Look out for the paint.

—N. Y. Star.

A COBBOURG (Canada) woman has been sentenced to one week's imprisonment for having two husbands. There is something unjust about this sentence. A man convicted of bigamy would have been imprisoned for two years, and there seems to be no valid reason why woman should not in this case be accorded equal rights. There may, of course, have been extenuating circumstances. The first husband may have worn a wig.—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

Lament of J. A. M."Jam satis superque."

How sorry I am
I have been such an ass,
As to bring myself down
To so lowly a pass;
I have trifled with friends,
And coquetted with foes,
That I now can scarce tell
Which way the wind blows!
It is now very clear
That I'm losing my power,
And shall soon have to seek
For another "right bower,"
As unless I can hit on
Some new "thimble-rig,"
I shall soon have to "foot it,"
And give up my gig;
For the game's nearly up,
And a "gone coon I'll be,"
Unless I find out
How to "bark a new tree."
Now this trip o'er the water,
I don't like at all,
As it surely will lead to
Our well deserved fall:—
Our ambassador also
I very much fear
Will be "posted" right back
With a flea in his ear,
For thirty-two thousands
Will not be enough,
To save us from getting
A Royal rebuff;
But worse still—LETELLIER
The noble St. Just,
Will rise up a knight
To retain his high trust.
Thus, we who have treated
The Marquis with scorn,
Will find that, like SAMPSON'S,
Our locks have been shorn.

DARIUS.

Quebec, 10 April, 1879.

Grip's Guide to the Cities of Canada.

TORONTO—(Continued).

The tourist on viewing the Parliament House, cannot but be struck with its severely chaste and simple architectural design. Built at a period when luxurious "canoe couches damask" were unknown, the architect caused it to be constructed in harmony with the primitive tastes of the early inhabitants of the country, whose highest notions of the sublime in architecture were derived from a contemplation of their meeting houses with steeples either of the pepper-box or order of design. Little did the architect dream of the great change that would, before many years, take place in the ideas of the ambitious descendants of the plain-going citizens with whose tastes he endeavoured to coincide. If he had known that in after years some of the resident Ministers would have their apartments so palatially furnished and adorned with such voluptuous belongings, that weeks would be expended in legislation touching the enormous sums spent thereon, he would have modelled it after the

EXTINGUISHER

PALACE OF VERSAILLES

or the Stadt Haus of the Grand Duchess of Lagersweipen. We have searched the archives of the Canadian Institute in order to find the date of the laying of the foundation stone (or rather brick) of the House, but after deep research we remain still uncertain. In its varied career it has been a Lunatic Asylum, and a barrack room, and in years past the private sentinel did "sentry go" at every corner. Some say it was designed by

GREAT WESTERN RAILWAY.

PASSENGERS

FOR

Manitoba, the North West Territories,

OR ANY POINT IN

WESTERN CANADA OR THE UNITED STATES,

Should remember that this is the most comfortable and direct route; and the only line in Canada running the

CELEBRATED DINING CARS,
in connection with the Michigan Central R. Rd., between Suspension Bridge and Chicago. Wagner's Sleeping Cars attached to all Night Trains, Parlor Cars to Day Trains.

THROUGH TICKETS by this Popular Route can be obtained at Lowest Rates at All Principal Stations, and from Agents representing the Line throughout Canada.

xii-22-12t.

F. BROUGHTON,
Gen. Manager.THE QUEEN'S HOTEL, TORONTO.*THE LEADING HOTEL IN ONTARIO.

Thoroughly heated with steam throughout.
Elegant passenger elevator.
Prices graduated according to rooms.

McGAW & WINNETT.

Proprietors.

xii-22-3t

W. G. BALLS,TAILOR,

40 VICTORIA ST., Near General Post Office.

Clothes cleaned and repaired on the shortest notice, with regard to the strictest economy.

xii-20-4t

WESTERN ICE COMPANY,

Office: 147 Richmond Street West.

We have on hand the

Largest and Best Stock of Beautiful Clear Ice

For office and family use in the city.

WM. BURNS & Co., Proprietors.

xii-20-5t

MAIL CONTRACT.

TENDERS.

Addressed to the Postmaster General, will be received at Ottawa until Noon, on

FRIDAY, 2ND MAY, 1879,

For the conveyance of Letters, Papers, &c., between the several Street Letter Boxes in the City of Toronto, and the Toronto Post Office, on a proposed Contract for Four Years from the 1st July next.

Conveyance to be made in suitable Vehicles, to be approved of by the Department, drawn by one horse or two horses, at the option of the Contractor.

A full description of the Service required, and further information as to conditions of proposed Contract may be seen, and blank forms of Tender may be obtained at the Toronto Post Office, and at the office of the undersigned.

MATTHEW SWEETNAM,

Post Office Inspector.

POST OFFICE INSPECTOR'S OFFICE,
Toronto, 8th April, 1879.

xii-21-3t.

Good Words from the Great Weekly.

Canada has been a sort of a grave for comic papers. They have started up in Montreal, Toronto, and elsewhere, but invariably flickered and went out. This was not caused by a lack of a sense of humour in the Canadian people, as the FREE PRESS has a large circulation in the Dominion, which is evidence that the Kanucks know a good thing when they see it. What was lacking in their comic journals was humour. They had everything else. About six years ago, Grip was started in Toronto, and it possessed not only humour, but in its cartoons great genius, and it has become a power in the land. Last week it doubled its size and quadrupled its cartoons. So cutting are its hits on public men and journals that the Globe a few days ago saw the necessity of devoting an editorial to one of its cartoons, while the Premier, not long since, alluded to Grip on the floor of the House, and its admirable cartoon caused considerable discussion among the M. P's. Mr. J. W. Bengough is the Nast of Canada.—Detroit Free Press.

INDIGO JONES,

others that it was built in the days of the early GEORGES. In these opinions, however, we are not inclined to agree, for although the building has a decidedly

HANOVERIAN LOOK

about it, being composed almost entirely of brick, once red, but now, after the lapse of so many ages, divested of that cardinal virtue; and, from the evident antiquity of the crumbling walls, which threaten at any moment to collapse and bury the collective wisdom of Ontario in their ruins, we would pronounce the building of much more

ANCIENT DATE.

However, we leave that question for the antiquary to decide. The Building is beautifully situated, fronting the Bay, whereof a splendid view is obtained by merely ascending to the roof; and the G.T.R. sheds in its closer proximity afford quite a source of languid amusement to the permanent clerks, as they watch from the departmental windows the labourers at work in the

"SWEET SUMMER TIME," and await with pardonable impatience the hour of Four P.M. The House has two wings, East and West, respectively flanking the main or centre building. These wings are devoted to departmental "work." In the centre building is the Legislative Chamber, which may with propriety be called the Alma Mater of all the celebrated politicians of the country. Here MACKENZIE (WM. LYON, not SANDY of that ilk,) used to make his famous speeches and get pelted with paper balls and other light articles by the playful Tory members. Here it was that "Big Thunder" uttered his famous oration, when the mutilated memo. from the great BLAKE told him—"you had better speak now." It is a gorgeously appointed apartment; its windows hung with costly crimson damask of the same pattern as the celebrated canoe couch. The Throne or Speaker's Chair has a very awe-inspiring effect on the visitor as he enters. Scoffers of grovelling tastes have likened it to an overgrown cottage piano, but the fact remains, that the Speaker in his gown and cocked hat, the Clerk in his official robes, the Mace on the table, not to mention the Sergeant-at-arms with his

DEADLY RAPIER

at his side, give the scene a sort of demi-semi-air of Royalty, which is very useful in awakening the newly arrived country member to a proper sense of his own importance in being a member of the

AUGUST ASSEMBLY

to which he has been introduced.

It has been darkly hinted that the place is to be pulled down, and another and more pretentious building erected. We would be sorry to see this ruthless act of Vandalism, especially as, from all appearance, if left alone for a very few years, a mound of brick like ancient Babylon will be all that remains of the Old Parliament House.

A Pinafore your thoughts!

THE new pavilion in the Gardens will be a better place for vocalists than the old one, though not half so airy.

AND now our City Council want the Government to hand the rifle butts over to them. They say the butts are of no use to the volunteers, when at rifle practice, as they are situated immediately behind the targets. GRIP hopes the Minister will drum out the petition of the Council.

THE CHARGE OF THE RATHER LIGHT BRIGADE, IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

"We know what we are, but know not what we may be."
While we admit that Shakespeare is right, up to a certain point, we cannot agree with him altogether. We do not think that persons can tell truly what they are, until they have had their portraits taken at

THE PHOTO ART STUDIO OF
J. BRUCE & CO.,
118 King Street West, Toronto.

xii-22-17

AGENTS WANTED EVERYWHERE
FOR

"GRIP,"

THE COMIC PAPER OF THE DOMINION.

Enlarged and Improved.

Growing in favour every day.

A RARE CHANCE FOR YOU TO MAKE MONEY NOW

Send for sample copy and terms.

W. R. BURRAGE,

General Agent, Toronto.

M. J. HYNES & BRO.,
Contractors and Plasterers,
HAVE REMOVED FROM 11 VICTORIA TO
102 KING STREET WEST.

Financial.

$10 TO 1000

Invested in Wall St. Stocks
makes fortunes every month.
Book sent free explaining
everything.
Address BAXTER & Co., Bankers, 17 Wall St., N. Y.
xi-20-17

The Charge.

I
Four o'clock, four o'clock
The tower clock thundered,
Into the division list
Rushed the half hundred—
N. P.'s to right of them—
N. P.'s to left of them—
N. P.'s in front of them—
Threefold outnumbered.

II
Take the vote, JOHN A. said—
Was there a Grit dismayed?
Not though MACKENZIE knew
The country had blundered:
Stormed at with N. P. yells,
Boldly they rose and well,
Boldly their vote to tell,
Noble half hundred.

III
Rose all at once in air—
Rose with their scalplocks bare,
Voting the tariff down,
While the world wondered;
Each hero unappalled
Stood till his name was called—
Then they sat down again,
Just half a hundred.

IV
Then, when the vote was o'er,
Came a derisive roar,
Volling and thundering
From N. P.'s to right of them—
N. P.'s to left of them—
N. P.'s behind them—
Threefold outnumbering.

V
Ne'er shall the glory fade
Of the wild vote they made,
'Gainst the N. P. arrayed—
Not to be plundered!
Honor the charge they made,
Honor the light brigade,
(Rather too light we'er 'fraid E'en to bring back Free Trade),
Noble half hundred!

MAY the Postmaster General's visit to England be called a for-LORNE hope?

VERNON,
MANUFACTURING JEWELLER,
159 YONGE STREET.
Watches and Clocks repaired.

Pipes Mounted.
xii-19-8t

AGENTS, READ THIS.

We will pay Agents a Salary of $100 per month and expenses, or allow a large commission to sell our new and wonderful inventions. We mean what we say. Sample free, Address,
SHERMAN & CO., Marshall, Mich.

xii-16-3m

BALDNESS!

Neither gasoline, vasoline, carboline, or Allen's, Ayer's, or Hall's hair restorers have produced luxuriant hair on bald heads. That great discovery is due to Mr. Winter-cornyn, 61 King-street East, (late 132 Church-street), as can be testified to by hundreds of living witnesses in this city and Province. He challenges all the so-called restorers to produce a like result.

Send for circulars.

xii-12-17

TO PHONOGRAPHERS!

PRICE-LIST REVISED APRIL 1, 1879.

Compend of Phonography	5 cts.
Exercises in Phonography,	5
Grammatical and Contractions,	10
Questions on Manual,	15
Selections in Reporting Style,	20
Teacher,	20
Key to Teacher,	20
Reader,	20
Manual,	55
Reporter,	90
Reporting Exercises,	20
Phrase Book,	35
Railway Phrase Book,	25
Covers for holding Note Book,	20
The Reporter's Guide, by Thos. Allan Reid	75
Self-culture, corresponding style,	75
The Book of Psalms, corresponding style,	35
The Book of Psalms, cloth	75
Common Prayer, morocco, with gilt edges	$2.80
The Other Life, cloth	50
New Testament, reporting style,	$2.50
Phonographic Dictionary	1.50
Pilgrim's Progress, corresponding style,	55
Pilgrim's Progress, cloth	90
Extracts, corresponding style,	20

Send post-paid to any address on receipt of price.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

Next Post Office, Toronto.

PUBLISHERS' NOTE

Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.

Subscription price, $2 per annum strictly in advance. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied. BENGOUGH BROS.

USE ONLY

ONTARIO

Baking Powder.

Ask your Grocer for it.

MANUFACTORY:

247 King Street West,
TORONTO.

xii-20-17

BENGOUGH BROS.

Are prepared to execute orders for

ENGRAVING

in the highest style of the art.

Type Metal Plates

MADE FROM

Pen and Ink Sketches, Photographs, Lithographs, &c.,

More perfect, true and lasting than any wood engraving, and at a much lower cost. Call and see specimens at

GRIP OFFICE,

Next door to Post Office, Toronto.

Bone Manure!

Pure Bone Meal, warranted best quality. Super-phosphates. Ground bones for Vineries. Rates moderate.

Factory, Esplanade & George Sts.

Address R. POLLOCK,

101 Jarvis St.

xii-3-6ni.

TO PRINTERS.

Any printer having a font of Brevier Italic, in good condition Farmer, Little & Co's make, to work with this face will please communicate stating price and sending sample to

BENGOUGH BROS

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY.

The tens of thousands who are making exclusive use of the COOK'S FRIEND Baking Powder, thereby render UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY to its superiority. Retailed everywhere. xii-12-17

WANTED.—5 cents each will be paid for the following back numbers of GRIP:

VOL.	Nos.	2, 16, 23.
"	3	7, 9, 17, 20, 21, 23.
"	4	1, 2, 4, 5, 6.
"	5	5, 7, 17, 10, 21, 26.
"	6	6, 7, 9, 13, 25.
"	7	4, 15, 20, 21.
"	8	1, 2, 7, 12, 17, 24.
"	9	3, 15.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

TORONTO.

$66 A WEEK in your own town. $5 outfit free. No risk. Reader, if you want a business at which persons of either sex can make great pay all the time they work, write for particulars to H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Me.

Time Books,---Weekly and Monthly.

These Books having been bought a bargain at auction, we are prepared to offer them retail, at wholesale prices.

BENGOUGH BROTHERS,

TORONTO.

(TRADE MARK REGISTERED)

TORONTO, SATURDAY, APRIL 26, 1879.

GRIP OFFICE,
IMPERIAL BUILDING.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

5 CTS. EACH.
$2 PER ANNUM.

JOB LOT MOURNING CARDS, PAPER CLIPS,

PEN RACKS, &c.,

AT WHOLESALE PRICES.

BENGOUGH BROS., Toronto.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach GRIP office not later than Wednesday.—Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned

$1.50

Will Wash and Rough
Dry 100 Pieces, at the

TORONTO STEAM
LAUNDRY.

Cor. Bay & Wellington.

OFFICE: 65 KING ST. WEST

LOVELY!

"What Lovely White Bread!"

Is a remark that we often hear made by ladies on first seeing our

Favourite Snow-Flake Rolls.

Delivered daily, 6 cents each.

CRUMPTON'S BAKERY,

171 KING-ST, East.

xii-20-17

RODWELL & FELL,
Engravers,

And Manufacturers of Rubber and
Metal Stamps,

PRESS AND WAX SEALS,

Name Plates, Baggage and
Key Checks.

7 Adelaide St. East,

TORONTO.

BEST business you can engage in. $5 to $20 per day made by any worker of either sex, right in their own localities. Particulars and samples worth $5 free. Improve your spare time at this business. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

FARM FOR SALE.
100 ACRES

In the Township of Uxbridge.

Would exchange for entire horse, weighing 1,700 or 1,800 pounds, and not more than 8 years old.

BENGOUGH BROS.

YOU CAN make money faster at work for us than at any thing else. Capital not required; we will start you $12 per day at home made by the industrious. Men, women, boys and girls wanted every where to work for us. Now is the time. Costly outfit and terms free. Address, TRUE & Co., Augusta, Me.

NEW! NEW! NEW!

THE PERFECTION

Stocking and Glove Darners.

One of the most useful inventions of the age. Every Lady wants one. For sale at the News Depots and Fancy Stores.

Price 25 cts. each.

Liberal discount made to the trade. Sample one sent post-paid to any address for 25 cents.

C. T. BRANDON CO., Manufacturers, 46 King St. E., Toronto.
xii-22-4t

Stage Whispers.

The burlesque on "Pinafore," by the San Francisco Minstrels, has become one of the hits of the season. The music as rendered by the company is admirable.

JOE JEFFERSON says the acoustics of the Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York, are very bad, while the Walnut Street Theatre is one of the best places to speak in in the country.

The vivacious ROSE EYTINGE is being sued by LEWIS MORRISON for calling him "a nigger, a liar and a thief." ROSE will find great difficulty in proving Mr. MORRISON a nigger.

JENNIE BLITZ (Mme. Van Zandt and Signora Ranzini) has been engaged for the Teatro Veggio, Turin, Italy, and was to have begun there as Zerlina in "Don Giovanni."

Mr. RUDOLPH ARONSON states that all of the money necessary for the erection of the Musical Pavillion which he intends to build in New York has been subscribed, and that he will proceed with the work at an early day.

WILLIAM J. FLORENCE has been investing some of his mighty dollars in mining stocks. We need not follow the painful story. "I shall never go outside of my profession again," says Mr. FLORENCE with the utmost solemnity.

From Naples:—The five performances given by ADELINA PATTI at the San Carlo have not been so successful as the gifted lady's engagements generally are. The receipts of more than one tell below the 10,000 francs claimed by PATTI and NICOLINI every night. During the representation of "Rigoletto" there was even some hissing in consequence of certain cuts which had been made. Considering the prices of admission the audience thought they were entitled to hear the work in its entirety. The curtain had to be dropped in the third act, and the money taken was returned.

SARDOU's "Andre Fortier," written for the Boston Theatre, has now been played three weeks, but appears to fall short of the great success expected. The ingenious and beautiful scenery is said to be its chief attraction. Although the play is placed in California at the time of the gold fever, all the characters are French and Spanish, not one being American. The tone is melodramatic, and the construction is only in parts equal to SARDOU's usual works. There are dreary dialogues, and the translation of the author's French is not of the best. The conflagration, in which a powder flask is fired under an old aqueduct, thus releasing water that extinguishes the flames, is a marvel of stage mechanism, and invariably excites the audience to a remarkable pitch.

A dramatic correspondent thus speaks of the play of Our Boys, which is in the fourth year of its run: "It has evidently been too much for the actors. It might be imagined, and that by persons accustomed to the artistic conscientiousness of French acting, that such noted performers as Mr. WILLIAM FARREN and Mr. DAVID JAMES (the Sir Geoffrey Champneys and the Perkin Middlewick of the caste) would strive to maintain their respective impersonations to the level of their original merit. On the contrary, they hurry through their parts as though running a race against time. The dialogue, half the time, is converted on their lips into a meaningless gabble, guiltless of point, and unintelligible to at least one-half of the audience.

PUBLIC ATTENTION is directed to the following provisions of the Fishery Laws in the Province of Ontario:

PICKEREL [Dore] cannot be caught from 15th April to 15th May.

MASKINONGE, cannot be caught from 15th April to 15th May.

BASS cannot be caught from 15th April to 15th May.

SPECKLED TROUT, BROOK or RIVER TROUT cannot be caught from 15th Sept. to 1st May.

SALMON TROUT and LAKE TROUT cannot be caught from 1st November to 10th November.

WHITEFISH cannot be caught from 1st November to 10th November.

Net or Seine fishing without licenses is prohibited.

Nets must be raised from Saturday night until Monday morning of each week.

Nets cannot be set or Seines used, so as to bar channels or bays.

Indians are forbidden to fish illegally the same as whitemen.

Each person guilty of violating these regulations is liable to fine and costs, or in default of payment is subject to imprisonment.

No person shall, during such prohibited times, fish for, catch, kill, buy, sell, or have in possession any of the kinds of Fish mentioned above.

By order, W. F. WHITCHER,
Commissioner of Fisheries.
FISHERIES DEPARTMENT,
OTTAWA, 2nd April, 1879. xii-23-3t

$2 Per Annum, Free of Postage.

"GRIP" Now in its sixth year and Twelfth Volume. and more popular and influential than ever before.

Our confidence that the Canadian Public would extend a hearty support to a humorous journal conducted upon principles of honesty and decency has been amply justified in the established success of GRIP, which, during the six years of its existence, has enjoyed the patronage and respect of a large constituency of our best people. In dealing with the public men and affairs of the country it has been the aim of the controllers of GRIP to avoid the coarseness and unfairness which too often characterize satirical public cations. The political Cartoons, although sometimes severe, have never been unjust and never vindictive. The attitude of absolute independence which the paper has maintained from the first is attested by the appreciative notices which the Cartoons constantly receive in the press of both Parties.

Press Notices of Recent Numbers.

"Grip" is becoming to be the representative humorous publication in the Dominion. It is published by Bengough Bros., at Toronto. The TIMES is glad to make it one of its associates.—Fulton (N. Y.) Times.

Twice as much Grip, and no increase in the price, is about the only good thing we have yet got under the N. P.—St. Thomas Journal.

The pictures illustrating Grip this week are of a kind that will tickle those having a predilection for comic political titbits.—Kingston Whig.

Toronto has a comic paper called "Grip," that is full of fun. The people of Toronto should see that they don't lose their "Grip."—Cincinnati Sat. Night.

"Grip" comes to us this week in an enlarged and improved form. Besides the usual full-page cartoon it contains a number of smaller illustrations interspersed throughout the text. Both the reading matter and the illustrations in the number now before us are very clever, and fairly entitle it to be called the Punch of Canada. It is embellished with a portrait of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries which is accompanied by some very appropriate verses. Grip will now compare very favorably with its old established contemporaries on the other side of the Atlantic, and it is certainly ahead of any of the professed humorous journals in the United States unless it may be the New York Fuck. Canada has certainly good reason to be proud of having such a clever cartoonist as Mr. J. W. Bengough.—Patriot, Charlotte, P. E. I.

Literature and Art.

"The Memoirs of Mme. BONAPARTE, Written by Herself," will doubtless soon astonish a world that will consider GREVILLE's Memoirs tame by the side of them.

Mr. SWINBURNE is to be a contributor to the new dramatic dictionary or encyclopedia, to be edited by Mr. THEODORE WATTS. Mr. SWINBURNE has made a special study of the Elizabethan dramatists.

The remainder of the books belonging to the library of CHARLES DICKENS have been secured by SCRIBNER and WELSH ORD. They consist principally of presentation copies from the authors to Mr. DICKENS.

FRANK MCGRAW, a colored boy, seventeen years old, living in Milwaukee, has shown unusual talent in painting, and has been taken in charge by the artists, who intend to give him every opportunity.

Arrangements have been made with D. APPLETON & Co. by HOUGHTON, Osgood & Co., whereby the latter firm will publish the complete edition of BRYANT's poems, uniform with their household edition of the poets.

The rejection of the picture of Mr. THOMAS MORAN by the Society of American Artists is the theme of gossip throughout the art and social world in New York, and Mr. MORAN is in a fair way to arrive at great popularity through the ill will of the society to which he has belonged.

There is to be seen at TIFFANY'S, Avenue de l'Opera, Paris, a life-size statue in marble, by ROSETTI, of Rome, which is most beautiful and cannot fail to be exceedingly popular. It is entitled "Hidden Love," and represents a Cupid, partially enfolded in a veil, which covers the face and part of the body. The marble is tinted, and the rosy lips and roguish eyes are seen through its folds, while the rounded and dimpled limbs are so natural that one almost feels as if the touch of a finger would leave an imprint in the flesh. Two replicas of the statue have already been sold, although it has been on exhibition but a week.

A rather singularly written story is Thos, by GEORGE GRAHAM, published by the LOVELL Publishing Company, Montreal; price not given. The author calls it "a simple Canadian story," and he is not far out of the way. Its simplicity, we think, its chief charm. It is not written to promulgate a theory, or demonstrate a fact; and is utterly devoid of plot or dramatic interest. It is a story, however, that interests a reader from its very homeliness, and was undoubtedly written by a newspaper man or woman. We suspect this last from the faithfulness to detail which characterizes it throughout. It is a wholesome story, and will be a welcome dish in a general bill of fare.

The Saturday Review which reluctantly gives Americans credit for superiority in anything, has testified in favor of the superior merit of American wood-engraving. It says: "Wood-cutting has been brought to a point of perfection it has never attained before. Some of the American engravers are far ahead of any on this side the Atlantic, and only want artists worthy of them to make a revival of the art of Bewick possible. We have not, at the present time in England, a single wood-engraver of the first rank, except for landscapes; but one or two of the French cutters are able to imitate steel engraving on blocks worthy of a better art.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

By BENGOUGH BRO'S, Proprietors. Office:—Imperial Buildings, next to the Post Office, Adelaide Street, Toronto. GEO. BENGOUGH, Business Manager.

Original contributions paid for. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned. Literary and Business communications to be addressed to BENGOUGH BRO'S.

SUBSCRIPTION TERMS:—Two dollars per year, payable in advance. Subscriptions and advertisements are received at the office, or by WM. R. BURRAGE, General Subscription and Advertising Agent, Pacific Building, Scott Street, Toronto.

EDITED AND ILLUSTRATED BY J. W. BENGOUGH.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

The Parliamentary Alphabet.

- A is for ANGLIN, who lately was Speaker,
B is for BURPEE, a milder and meeker.
C is for CARTWRIGHT, a fly off the wheel,
And D is the warrior, bold Major DOMVILLE.
E is for ELLIOTT, whom nobody knows,
And F is for FARRER, who caws like the crows.
G is for GILLMOR, who kicked up the touse,
And H is for HOLTOM, grandma of the House.
I is for INNES, who was lately elected,
And J is for JACKSON, whom South Grey selected.
K is for KILLAM, whose name suggests fight,
And L is for LANGEVIN, who may soon be a knight.
M's for MACDONALD, MACKENZIE, McKAY,
And O is for ORTON, a maker of hay.
P is for POPE, of Compton, of Queens,
And Q is the QUERRIST who doesn't know beans.
R is for ROBERTSON, friend of pool sellers,
And S is for SNOWBALL, most cheeky of fellers.
T is for TILLEY, the chief of Finances,
And V is for VALLER, who shouts, howls and prances.
W for WALLACE the Rag Baby's nurse,
And Y is for YEO, who endeth my verse.

Grip's Historical Readings.

EMBRACING NOTICES OF GREAT EVENTS
AND CELEBRATED MEN.

III.—THE SOUTH SEA SCHEME.

In the year 1720, when GEORGE THE FIRST was King, there was a Grit ministry in power. This was, of course, a sad thing for the country; but, in addition to this, there was a great financial depression,—although we suppose that is only effect following cause, in accordance with the cast-iron laws of nature. It was just at this juncture of affairs that the great South Sea Scheme made its debut in history. This scheme achieved undisputed preeminence as the greatest fraud ever perpetrated on a civilized community, and maintained that reputation down to the date of the Steel Rail Purchase (according to the Mail historian) or the introduction of the N. P. (according to the Globe). In the present paper we purpose setting forth very briefly the facts, etc., of this S. S. S.

About 1710 a mercantile association had been incorporated for the purpose of doing business along the shores of the Pacific Ocean. Whether this business was selling claims, carrying excursion parties, or starting newspapers, we are not aware, though it was probably the latter, as we are told that during the first ten years of its labors the Company didn't make a cent. In the year first mentioned, Sir JOHN BLOUNT, a leading director of the Co., began to see a bonanza ahead. Sir BLOUNT was a man of wonderful financial ability—combining in himself the recklessness of a MACPHERSON, the profundity of a WYNNE, the hopefulness of a WALLACE, the unbounded credulity of a BUCHANAN, and the politeness of a HUGH ALLAN. This combined individual waited upon the Government of the day, and told the Finance Minister that he had a plan for clearing off all the national incumbrances. The Finance Minister asked him if his name was PHIPPS; to which he replied in the negative. He was then invited to sit down and explain himself. He did so. His scheme was, that the Government should grant certain commercial privileges to the Company, which would have the effect of raising the value of its stock, in return for which the Company would give the Government a quid pro quo. The Government, in the words of JOE RYMAL, M. P., a distinguished statesman of that day, "swallowed the bait, hook and line, bob and sinker." When the terms of the bargain leaked out, the Opposition raised a fearful row. Sir ROBERT WALPOLE, a leading Grit, though now in Opposition, made furious speeches in the House, and was ably supported by MACKENZIE and others, who denounced the Scheme as a Pacific Scandal. Nevertheless, as old BLOUNT predicted, it was a big success. The Company's stock went away up out of sight, and the good times came back with such a sudden rush that most of the people went crazy. Nothing ever equalled the S. S. Scheme for bringing back good times instantaneously, excepting the Canadian National Policy of a later date. Speculation became rife—very rife, indeed. Everybody went into it, from boot-blacks down to professional politicians. The Company's stock bore a 1,000 per cent. premium and JOHN T. RAYMOND drew splendid houses with his great play of "Millions In It." Around this Scheme hundreds of others sprang up, and shares were sold faster than the clerks could hand them out. At one time the nominal value of the schemes afloat was more than twice the worth of all the land in the Kingdom, and five times as much as the current cash of all Europe. Capt. WYNNE, Mr. WALLACE and Mr. B. CHANAN, the great inflationists, were almost wild with joy at this marvellous triumph of the rag-baby philosophy, and went swelling around the Royal Exchange with badges on their bosoms, inscribed "A Paper Currency is the Bulwark of Humanity." But before long the bubble burst. People began to hand in their paper checks and ask for specie payment, but the polite clerks informed them that they didn't want the paper currency, as they had a press in the back room and could manufacture all they needed. Then the people began to see where the joke came in, but several of them refrained from laughing. Messrs. WALLACE, WYNNE and BUCHANAN were torn limb from limb by the enraged masses, and thus became martyrs to the glorious cause of Greenbackism. Notwithstanding all which, it is said that the modern representatives of these three distinguished financiers, are following in the footsteps of their misguided ancestors, and courting the terrible doom that overtook them.

A WESTERN man is writing up fire places. He must be a grate author—Ex. Up fire places must be a very uncomfortable place to write. It wouldn't suit us as we'd be afraid of catching the in-flu-en-za.

Dominion Theatre, Ottawa.

GRAND GIFT ENTERTAINMENT.

The Management have unlimited pleasure in announcing the continued success of the popular and successful performances now being given at this place of amusement, and respectfully apprise their patrons that the standard programme will be presented every

Afternoon and Evening, until further notice. All the old favorites in their attractive roles. Look at the array of talent:

PROF. JOHN A., the accomplished juggler, in his new and startling LETELLIER Trick.

ALECK MACKENZIE, in his imitatively droll impersonation, entitled "The man out of Possession."

DAVY MACPHERSON, with his wonderful troupe of Educated Statistics, which will, at the word of command, assume any shape their master may wish, and prove anything he may desire.

DICK CARTWRIGHT, in his lugubrious performances on the Tariff.

TOM WHITE, in his great black face speciality, entitled "Jump Jim Crow."

SAMMY TILLEY, in his side splitting burlesque oration, "How I fooled BOYD wid de telegrams, and still dey wonder at Crime." This noted performer will also have the honor of introducing his trick pantomime entitled, "Humpty Dumpty's Drawback."

LUSH HUNTINGTON, in his new sketch, "The Copper Pirate, or Injured Innocence."

JIM DOMVILLE and WILL GILLMOR, in their great exposition of the manly art of Parliamentary Self-Defence. These famous bruisers will use hard gloves and language. The whole to conclude with the laughable performances of MACDONALD & MACKENZIE'S Combined Troupe of Puppets.

The Management have further to announce that, in connection with this recherche programme, they have introduced the popular feature of

VALUABLE GIFTS!

to be distributed indiscriminately to their patrons. Amongst the beautiful and costly articles to be given away may be mentioned:

1. A National Policy; bran new, with all the modern improvements. This gift, though valuable to any possessor, is especially attractive to the working classes.

2. A National Insurance Co., a most complete apparatus with which the fortunate recipient may be enabled to make any amount of money, and set at defiance the bloated bond-holding stock companies.

3. A Rag Baby, a most ingenious toy, well calculated to amuse the infantile mind.

4. A Sugar Plum, worth $5,261,160. This gift is restricted to the occupant of the private box, and will be presented to that lucky individual in the shape of a tax on Sugar. N. B.—Mr. REDPATH, of Montreal, has secured the private box.

Besides many other attractions too numerous to mention.

In active preparation the Great Constitutional Tragedy,

"THE MURDER OF ST. JUST,"

which will be produced with stage directions, scenery and effects from England. Our agent, M. LANGEVIN is at present abroad securing the accessories for the presentation of this thrilling piece.

MEN of the Time: Watchmakers.

SOLDIERS of the Line: Fishermen.

ALMS givers are hand-some people.

THE boot-black is a bright and shining light.

Brave "Puck."

The above little sketch is a tribute to the wonderful nerve and heroism of the New York Puck, who, with true Democratic and Republican fearlessness, boldly throws mud at the Marquis of LORNE, notwithstanding the high rank of that nobleman, and the fact that only a few hundred miles of railway, an imaginary boundary line separate the daring journal from his very presence. The recklessness of Puck is still more wonderful when we remember that the Marquis cannot answer back, and that if he did attempt to show fight he would have to destroy the entire American army before he could reach the offender. Puck's pluck is incomprehensible to Canadian editors!

Worthy of a Poem.

Tweed, March 3rd, 1879.

To Charles Clairmont, Marmora.

Can get Sisters of Charity from Kingston as nurses, provided authorities secure temporary hospital.

THOMAS DAVIS.

GRIP is sorry that he cannot have this brief telegram printed in gold, as it deserves to be. It is from a Catholic priest in an eastern Ontario county, to a citizen of a village in another part of his parish, in which it had been reported that small-pox had broken out in several Protestant families. No Catholic was known to be afflicted, but the reverend father, with a true Christian heart, in the presence of trouble became a pastor to all alike. It need scarcely be said that the Sisters of Charity gladly consented to go on this mission as soon as word was sent them, but happily it was found that there was no ground for serious apprehension as to the disease spreading. This manifestation of brotherly love must be grateful to all who have a regard for the well being of our country, as well as to the Protestant people of Marmora. GRIP lays aside his jester's garb to grasp the hand of good Father DAVIS and say, "God bless your reverence, would we had more like you in all the churches!"

ACCORDING to the Bothwell Times the Rev. Mr. BEE, of Toronto, preached three sermons in that town on Sunday last. This circumstance adds prophetic beauty to the lines of Dr. WATTS:

"How doth the little busy bee Improve each shining hour."

The Hon. Members.

Extract from Notes of our own Private Secretary, taken at alphabetical interview of M.P.'s to obtain correct knowledge of requirements of different constituencies of Dominion, etc.

FROM P TO Q.

MR. PRUNE, M. P., Cataractus.—Highly polished manner and great command of language, of the blank verse order. Has evidently æsthetic tastes, and mind romantic. Seems imbued with lofty thoughts, arising through long contemplation of grandeur of local scenery. Is heavy on poetical quotations, seemed desirous of delighting Excellency with original sonnet of his own composition. Couldn't go it. Stand him off by looking at watches for time. Hon. member much interested in Kaministiquia River; delighted with river; as a river, compares its "delta" to that of the Rhine, Danube, Nile and other historical streams; but unfortunately it has a habit of filling up with mud every spring; is therefore in favor of P. A. Landing for terminus of Railway. Is a strong Conservative, and has lately been the victim of Grit turpitude. Has triumphed and is now "all serene." His constituency is the oldest, finest and most respectable in Ontario. He furthermore adds that its Capital has within its corporation the best pasture for cattle and ranges for artillery practice in the Dominion.

Mem.—Think there was a great lyrical poet lost when hon. gentleman unfortunately took to politics.

MR. QUIMAL, M. P., Ramcastor. This gentleman is apparently possessed of a vast fund of anecdotes which he seems desirous of recounting, though entirely irrelevant to the subject of conversation in hand. He likewise has the peculiar property of asking the most extraordinary questions. When asked as to the requirements of his constituents he said that one of them desired to be a Notary Public, when he (Mr. Q.) replied that he was glad of it, as he was no tory himself and did not care how public the acknowledgement was made. Here hon. gentleman laughs, and looks enquiringly at Excellency, who seems puzzled. Asks me why does the Capital of Canada resemble JOSHUA of Holy Writ? Inform him I see not the slightest resemblance. Says the latter made the sun stand still, and "Ottawa's tide the trembling moon." Objects to Sir JOHN politically, but admires him as a domestic man. "He is so fond of TILLEY and the Baby." What on earth does he mean? Hope he's not crazy. Asked if he will kindly explain. Hon. gent. says it's only his joke (!) Perhaps it is, but can't see where it lies. Governor looks grave. H. G. "smiles all over" and exits.

Mem.—Have learned since that this is the "funny member" of the House, par excellence. Must enquire why.

"THERE'S MILLIONS IN IT!"

It is said that a party of twelve caught 144 suckers one night lately at the Don. "LARRY" says this baits the police, who consider a dozen of the species a large haul. Perhaps they are not always a-fishin'(). But doesn't this strike the reader as rather a gross transaction.

A Czar-tain Remedy.

MR. GRIP feels for Russia in her present distracted condition. He sympathises with the poor Nihilists, whom "leagued oppression" has driven to the desperate extremity of insurrection, and he sympathises with the despotic, though feeble Czar, whose crowned head must lie very uneasily indeed, just now, if, in fact, he ever goes to bed at all. This feeling of compassion for all concerned has caused Mr. GRIP to give a few of his busy moments to profound consideration of the whole Russian question, and it is needless to state that the result of that consideration has been the conception of a sure and czar-tain method of settling the whole unpleasantness—a method which GORTSCHAKOFF could never have hit upon, with all his experience in statescraft. GRIP's plan, like all the inspirations of true genius, is very simple; it is nothing more nor less than this—Reconcile All the Antagonistic Elements. If the Diplomatic world here strikes an admiring and incredulous attitude, and anxiously asks, But how? GRIP, in reply, leads his old friend DUFFERIN into the presence of the troubled Czar, and addresses his Imperial Majesty to this effect: "Here, Mr. CZAR, is a gentleman who can do the job. You abdicate the throne in his favor, and let his genius for tickling the popular heart have full play, and if he don't pour oil on the Rushin' waters and have them all nice and calm within a fortnight, you may send me to Siberia. We had him out in Canada, and after five years he left our shores with the tender regard of both Grit and Tory; and Mr. CZAR, any man who can mollify the Canadian Grits and Tories will think it only child's play to tame the hearts of Nihilists. This is my specific. As the doctors say, give it a fair trial."

The Earl of Dunmore brought out a wedding march at the Opera in London on the 13th inst., which he was requested to compose in honour of the marriage of the Duke of Connaught. He led the orchestra himself, and the march was pronounced a success.

It appears an English earl
Can do something more than twirl
A mere ornamental stick, for note the fact;
In the operatic field
DUNMORE did the baton wield,
And has pleased the British public in the act.

To compose and lead a Royal
Wedding march was truly loyal;
And though MENDELSSOHN might not approve the score;
Yet let foreigners confess
That, instead of doing less,
Britain now can say with truth she has Dunmore.

A DETROIT baker wants to know what is the greatest knead of the hour? Our greatest need is to get bread cheap.

GOODS PROHIBITED, BUT EVILS ADMITTED.

MISS CANADA.—NOW MR. PREMIER, I DON'T PROPOSE TO ALLOW THIS COUNTRY TO BE MADE A SLAUGHTER-MARKET FOR AMERICAN IDEAS, ANY MORE THAN FOR AMERICAN GOODS.

THE JOKER CLUB.

"The Gun is mightier than the Sword."

The shad is the Bonypart of the finny tribe.—Boston Transcript.

Come gentle Spring; ethereal mildness, c—at-choo!—N. Y. Express.

Circus clowns this year will appear in fool dress.—Boston Com. Bulletin.

A good name is rather to be chosen than an Indian agency.—Rockland Courier.

Toast by our Irish friend—Massachusetts, may she iver Cape Cod.—Boston Transcript.

It is dangerous to ask a woman idle questions when she is adding up a grocery bill.—N. Y. Star.

It is no longer wicked to go the theatre. We predict a great falling off in attendance.—Rochester Express.

Walking against time—colliding with a hall clock when getting upstairs in the small hours.—N. Y. Mail.

"I study two pleas," remarked the judge when the case was left to his decision.—Oswego Record.

Be Sirius and tell us how Saturn got into the Ring? Why Venus sat-a-lite for him.—Phil. Transcript.

A Rochester mule kicked a tub of butter, but it was too strong, and broke the mule's leg.—Syracuse Sunday Times.

The Pope talks English fluently to American visitors. And quite a number of them understand it.—Danbury News.

A young goat may never have a propensity for stealing, yet when he's asleep he's a kid napping.—Hackensack Republican.

How ridiculous it is to see a tramp "out in the cold world" with fire in his eye and benzine on his breath.—N. Y. News.

There's maww a man whose highest ambition is to successfully contest a seat on a nail keg in a corner grocery.—Syracuse Sunday Times.

Nature is drunk; the very buds are on the "bust."—Waterloo Observer. She is simply having her "Spring opening."—Ottawa (Kan) Republican.

"MAY MYRTLE." Somebody has been stocking you with falsehoods. BARNUM's fat woman doesn't wear a magna garter.—Widett Gray.

As the base ball season apprahs there is a lamentable falling off in the attendance upon the average Sunday school.—St. Louis Times-Journal.

The lady who orders the clerk to send home that spool of thread can generally carry a scuttle of coal up three flights of stairs.—Meriden Recorder.

The attraction between the small boy and the mud puddle is daily augmented. The mud puddle is something to add mire.—Marathon Independent.

A Whitehall dog tried to drink ten quarts of milk in ten consecutive hours, on Thursday. He made 347 laps and tipped over the dish.—Whitehall Times.

It is understood that a distinguished bigamist in Illinois proposes to get married one thousand times in one thousand quarter hours.—Buffalo Express.

They have discovered a tree in South America that gives milk. A Yankee would make pumps out of the wood and get a patent.—Turner's Falls Reporter.

Tramps would be more numerous than ever, were it not for the self-sacrificing women of the land who marry and support so many men.—Waterloo Observer.

The admiration we have for ourselves is only equalled by the commiseration we feel for those who are too short-sighted to perceive our virtues.—Eccentric Enquirer.

A domestic named ANGELICA JORDAN has passed over her last name and become a part of her first name. She attempted to kindle a fire with coal oil.—Norristown Herald.

When your wife falls asleep by the fire, take the tongs and poker.—Exchange. Perhaps a shovel wake her.—Boston Post.—But that might fender grately.—Cin. Sat. Night.

Young man know thyself. A $12 silk hat looks well on some persons, but we can't say it becomes a fellow whose salary is too weak to stand up to $1 a day.—Owego Record.

"It may be," says HEFFELSPEIN, "it may be that a man and his wife are one, but I notice that when I come to pay the weekly board bill the landlord doesn't think so."—Horne Sentinel.

It is printed as something remarkable that "glass clothing is now manufactured in Germany," whereas in this country glass has long been used for sashes!—Catskill Recorder.

From the fact that NERO fiddled while Rome was burning, we may infer that business had been pretty dull and he had insured the old place for all it was worth.—N. Y. World.

JONES said, looking into the glass the other morning, "I am a man with three heads on my shoulders—the one I see, the one I feel, and the one BROWN put on me."—Herald P. I.

The old, old story.—Rev. Mr. BEARDSLEY, of New Milford, was offered $100 for his cow. He refused it, and shortly after the cow died. When will the populace learn wisdom?—Danbury News.

A few years back when times were hard, the collectors were among the greatest pedestrians, but they never made any uproar about it. Then a collector would walk 2,700 miles and go 2,700 times for 2.70 cents.—Quincey Modern Argo.

A story is going the rounds to the effect that GAMBETTA's father once sold oranges. Well and what of it? If his son fell so low as to become a statesman, must his honorable father who sold oranges bear the blame?—N. Y. Express.

Paragraphers may yet have cause to combine against the Chinese. Ah Sin, a Sixth street laundryman, winked his almond eye the other day and remarked that he wasn't the biggest Ah Sin the world after all.—Cin. Saturday Night.

It is asserted that sleep first begins at the feet and thence extends to the rest of the body.—Exchange. This foot rule won't work. If it was true a Chicago man could not get asleep until the middle of the next day.—Boston Com. Bulletin.

A Wisconsin editor has just died of apoplexy superinduced by over-eating, and all the other journalists in that section are dying of envy.—San Francisco Post.

PAUL BOYTON is now on his way down the Mississippi river, but the States bordering on that stream haven't as yet offered a reward for the steamboat that runs him down.—Phila. Chronicle Herald.

"Illustrious potentate," says the King of Siam to his guest, General GRANT, "are you to be the next emperor of America?" Then smoked ULYSSES mused a little while in silence, and made answer very gravely, "Yes, Siam."—New Orleans Picayune.

Miss JULIA E. SMITH of the famous Glas-tonbury sisters, aged 87 years, is married. Miss SMITH fought hopelessly all her life for representation at the polls, and now she is married. This shows to what extremes a woman will go to win her purpose.—Danbury News.

It has been proved that the strength, care and thought expended by the average housewife in coaxing a weak-chested, hollow-backed, consumptive geranium up two inches, would lift a ton weight three-quarters of a mile and raise a thousand dollar mortgage out of sight.—Bridgeport Standard.

A diamond weighing 400 karats—the largest in the world—was recently found in India. During the past few weeks the owner has received twenty-seven letters from young Americans who will act as clerks at seaside hotels the coming season. It is easy to imagine the object of the missives.—Norristown Herald.

By securing a divorce, Mrs. BRIGNOLI allows her husband to keep on the even tenor of his way.—Lowell Courier. But she alleged that his ways were base.—Boston Traveller. And she was alto-gether too sharp for such a flat.—Danbury News. The fact is old BRIG. put on too many airs. But, give him a rest; he is over the C.

It is going to cost England $10,000,000 to kill ten or a dozen Zulus. It costs more to kill a Zulu than it does an Indian. Our government never pays more than $200,000 for killing an Indian; and a white man—well in this country you can kill a white man for almost anything you are able to pay a lawyer.—Burlington Hawkeye.

Emotional plays affect men and women differently. A woman will sit through a five act tragedy and use five or six handkerchiefs in weeping over the woes of the heroine. A man rushes out between the acts, bares his fevered brow to the night air and lets the dew fall on him. The dew gathers mostly on the mustache.—Binghampton Republican.

The politicians of Lower Canada are crying "havoc" and may at any moment let slip the dogs of war if LETELLIER is not at once removed. The Montreal Witness publishes an interview with Alderman THIBAUT of that city, who had just returned from Ottawa, and the way the Alderman of that city talks is enough to make England tremble in its shoes. He talked about striking for liberty and a grand rally for independence. We gather from his remarks that Canadians will no longer be slaves. They will never, never put up with British tyranny. At least, "hardly ever." "You will see striking events before long," said the blood-thirsty Alderman to the quaking reporter, "just a very little will lose this province to England." When BEACONSFIELD hears this he will, very likely, want to sell England for what it will bring.—Detroit F. P.

An Episode in the Life of a Statesman.

BILL SMITH made his pile in the mines,
And sighed for love and fame;
But alas! how could he hope for them
With his plebeian name?

"Why have immortal longings high
This bosom often stirred?
BILL SMITH," he sighed, "must never be
One of the common herd."

And then he struck a paying lead—
That is, got an idea,—
And away into the Capitol
Right smartly he did steer.

"O change my name!" he loudly cried,
To the legislators there.
"Down with the dust and we'll change it or bust!"
The members all did swear.

"AMOR DE COSOMS! What a name!
Three languages you've panned:
But you pays your money and takes your choice—
Ten ounces you must stand.

The gold was paid, the bill went through
Till near its latest stage,
When a member an amendment moved
That filled BILL SMITH with rage.

"I move," said he, "to amend the bill,"
And broadly he did grin,
"By striking out all after De,
And putting MUGGINS in."

"AMOR DE MUGGINS!" yelled the House,
And laughed and roared with glee,
At the frightened face of poor BILL SMITH,
Which peered from the galleries.

But lobbyists worked, and WILLIAM coaxed,
Champagne did freely run.
And the motion was lost and the bill was passed—
The majority only one.

Grip's Guide to the Cities of Canada.TORONTO—(Continued).

Probably the most pleasing characteristic of Toronto, and one for which it is justly celebrated from the great lakes to the Gulf of Mexico, is the great number and splendor of its different

PARKS,

the chief of which, beyond doubt, is "The Queens Park." Let us enter at the Queen street avenue leading thereto, and proceed northerly on its magnificent concrete pavement. On either side is a line of stately trees, the prolific horse-chestnut, so deceiving to the juvenile eye and taste; and the towering poplar, which sheds in its season its umbrageous favors on the "Sunday-go-to-meeting" suits of the visitors, and which, strange to say, is actually maligned by some of them as a nuisance! But of course there are people who will grumble at any favor unasked for by them (except, perhaps, a donation of "filthy lucre"), and would doubtless growl if all the scented rose blossoms of

THE VALE OF CASHMERE

were showered upon them. But let us proceed. On arriving at the southern limit of the Park proper, you may behold on every side aristocratic mansions, each with its "paddock" and closely shaven lawn, presenting a very pleasing and strikingly handsome appearance; indeed they are considered of so much value to the common people from an æsthetic point of view, that the city authorities subject them to a merely nominal tax, much to the disgust of the chronic grumbler before mentioned, who can't by any means "see it in that light." Looking to the north, you will behold a brace of pointing in line with the top of your head. Be not alarmed; they have not been loaded since their capture by "our troops" at the fall of Sebastopol. We are not just now quite sure what corps distinguished itself in

BIG GUNS,

GREAT WESTERN RAILWAY.

PASSENGERS

FOR

Manitoba, the North West Territories,

OR ANY POINT IN

WESTERN CANADA OR THE UNITED STATES,

Should remember that this is the most comfortable and direct route; and the only line in Canada running the CELEBRATED DINING CARS, in connection with the Michigan Central R. Rd., between Suspension Bridge and Chicago. Wagner's Sleeping Cars attached to all Night Trains, Parlor Cars to Day Trains.

THROUGH TICKETS by this Popular Route can be obtained at Lowest Rates at All Principal Stations, and from Agents representing the Line throughout Canada.

F. BROUGHTON,
Gen. Manager.

xii-22-2t.

THE QUEEN'S HOTEL, TORONTO.THE LEADING HOTEL IN ONTARIO.

Thoroughly heated with steam throughout.
Elegant passenger elevator.
Prices graduated according to rooms.

McGAW & WINNETT.

Proprietors.

xii-22-3t

W. G. BALLS,TAILOR.

40 VICTORIA ST., Near General Post Office.

Clothes cleaned and repaired on the shortest notice, with regard to the strictest economy.

xii-20-4t

WESTERN ICE COMPANY,

Office: 147 Richmond Street West.

We have on hand the

Largest and Best Stock of Beautiful Clear Ice

For office and family use in the city.

Wm. BURNS & Co., Proprietors.

xii-20-5t

MAIL CONTRACT.

TENDERS.

Addressed to the Postmaster General, will be received at Ottawa until Noon, on FRIDAY, 2ND MAY, 1879.

For the conveyance of Letters, Papers, &c., between the several Street Letter Boxes in the City of Toronto, and the Toronto Post Office, on a proposed Contract for Four Years from the 1st July next.

Conveyance to be made in suitable Vehicles, to be approved of by the Department, drawn by one horse or two horses, at the option of the Contractor.

A full description of the Service required and further information as to conditions of proposed Contract may be seen, and blank forms of Tender may be obtained at the Toronto Post Office, and at the office of the undersigned.

MATTHEW SWEETNAM,

Post Office Inspector.

Post Office Inspector's Office,
Toronto, 8th April, 1879.

xii-21-1t.

A Pity.

"I remember the late Sir Henry Bulwer telling me that if I wished to be the most popular man in England I had only to get some one to kick me down Regent Street every consecutive morning for a month."—London Truth.

It is a pity that this most snobbish of modern egotists, LABOUCHERE, hadn't taken the advice of Sir HENRY, who, of course, was his personal friend—(the paragraph is probably only written to convey that idea)—because if he had secured a popularity in that way everybody would have rejoiced. The man who did the kicking, however, would hold the warmest place in the popular heart.

this act of gallantry, but we believe both the Queen's Own and lay claim to that honor, and both have volunteered to the home authorities to "do it again," should the exigencies of war demand their martial services. The Park is ornamented by magnificent oaks, spared at its laying out from the primeval forest, and its appearance from the banks of the tumultuous stream dividing it from the University grounds is unsurpassed and most enchanting to the beholder.

THE TORONTO FIELD BATTERY,

On Sundays it presents quite a sacerdotal appearance, from the number of amateur theologians who air their peculiar views before a rather nomadic and everchanging congregation, who, however, appear to enjoy the somewhat startling addresses of the al fresco divines. Here we may remark that our friend the "growler" comes in again, and says he objects to all this unorthodox rant, and would greatly prefer the Park in normal quietness. However, there is no doubt it is a favorite place of resort; so much so that the "peelers" are at times obliged to turn out the too strongly fascinated frequenters who remain beyond the prescribed time. We will not dwell on the beauties of Victoria Park, reached by boat east of the city; nor LORNE Park, also reached by boat on the west, nor reached, (we forget how, but would suggest a walk)—which, though as yet almost in embryo, have, as a set off, a rustic simplicity quite charming, where the admirer of nature can at his leisure watch the gambols of the sprightly chipmunk, while he listens with delighted ears to the tuneful bullfrog chanting his plaintive lays in the waters of the adjacent streams.

HIGH PARK.

New Novels.

An enterprising publisher has sent us the following:—"The Unlucky Pedestrian" by the author of "The Last of his Race;" "Going thro' the Whiskey" by the author of "Coming thro' the Rye." "The Unscrupulous Office Seeker" by the author of "Put Yourself in his Place;" "Scabbard and Nightcap" by the author of "Sword and Gown;" "Unlimited Loo" by the author of "Little Loo;" "Chased by a Bull" by the author of "Recreations of a Country Parson;" "The Itinerant Preacher" by the author of "The Perpetual Curate;" "Uncle Jim" by the author of "Anteros;" "Five Hundred Miles on Foot" by the author of "Round the World on Cheek;" "The Lady Killer" by the author of "The Dear Slayer."

Flambeau Flashes.

CAKES that are always frosted—cakes of ice.

CAN back teeth be considered merely inside-dentals?

THE pensioner is mightier than the sword.—N. Y. Herald.

CAN a book on the "language of flowers" be called a book, ah?

If your shoe's tore go to a shoe store and get it repaired.

WHY is an impudent boy like a certain carpenter tool? Because he's saw, see?

THE eyes through which country magistrates generally look—Assize.

WHERE did VICTOR HUGO? Does BISMARCK time correctly?

A "HOME"—THRUST.

Juvenile.—SAY, UNCLE OLIVER, ARE YOU GOING TO A WALKING MATCH?

Uncle Oliver.—WHY, NO, MY DEAR; WHY DO YOU ASK?

Juvenile.—CAUSE MY BROTHER JIMMY SAYS YOU'RE GOING TO GET YOUR WALKING TICKET IN JUNE!

TORONTO HUNT CLUB SKETCHES.—No. I.

Scene.—PARKDALE.

De Muggins—(who has lost the other fellows)—SAY, SONNY, DID YOU SEE A LOT OF HUNTERS PASS THIS WAY?

Small Boy.—LOT HUNTERS? YESSIR, THE'S CROWDS OF 'EM HERE EVERY DAY.

"There is no art
To find the mind's construction in the face."

This was quite true in Shakespeare's time but Art is like everything else in this fast age, progressive; so that by the aid of Photography, the powers of mind combined with visible expressions of character, and all the cardinal virtues are clearly delineated in the portraits taken at the Photo Art Studio of J. BRUCE & Co., 118 King Street West, Toronto.

xii-22-17

AGENTS WANTED EVERYWHERE

FOR

"GRIP,"

THE COMIC PAPER OF THE DOMINION.

Enlarged and Improved.

Growing in favour every day.

A RARE CHANCE FOR YOU TO MAKE MONEY NOW

Send for sample copy and terms.

W. R. BURRAGE,

General Agent, Toronto.

M. J. HYNES & BRO.,
Contractors and Plasterers,
HAVE REMOVED FROM 11 VICTORIA TO
102 KING STREET WEST.

Financial.

$10 TO 1000 Invested in Wall St. Stock;
makes fortunes every month.
Book sent free explaining
everything.
Address BAXTER & Co., Bankers, 17 Wall St., N. Y.
xi-20-17

THOSE DOWNING ST. CLERKS.

MR. LANGEVIN arrives in London and presents his card in the Colonial Secretary's ante-room.

THE CLERK.—From Canada, hey? Business with 'Er Majesty's Government? Anythink with reference to this Canadian sculler, 'Anlan?

OUR Funny Contributor thinks that the practice of marking down the placards in the dollar stores to ninety-nine cents is a cents less proceeding. It was probably done to meet the views of people who look a long while at a dollar.

'ARRY has been reading the contents of our waste basket and thinks writers of spring poetry ought to be arrested as lunatics at large, and puts to us the following legal point: "If spring poets should go (winter the dock oughtn't to be tried summery by the Denison of the police court, or fall under the Jury's diction of a higher court?"

VERNON,
MANUFACTURING JEWELLER,

159 YONGE STREET.

Watches and Clocks repaired.

Pipes Mounted.
xii-19-8t

AGENTS, READ THIS.

We will pay Agents a Salary of $100 per month and expenses, or allow a large commission to sell our new and wonderful inventions. We mean what we say. Sample free. Address,

SHERMAN & CO., Marshall, Mich.

xii-16-3m

BALDNESS!

Neither gasoline, vasoline, carboline, or Allen's, Ayer's, or Hall's hair restorers have produced luxuriant hair on bald heads. That great discovery is due to Mr. Winter-cornyn, 61 King-street East, (late 139 Church-street), as can be testified to by hundreds of living witnesses in this city and Province. He challenges all the so-called restorers to produce a like result.

Send for circulars.

xii-12-17

TO PHONOGRAPHERS!

PRICE-LIST REVISED APRIL 1, 1879.

Compend of Phonography	5 cts.
Exercises in Phonography,	5
Grammatical and Contractions,	10
Questions on Manual,	15
Selections in Reporting Style,	20
Teacher,	20
Key to Teacher,	20
Reader,	20
Manual,	55
Reporter,	90
Reporting Exercises,	20
Phrase Book,	35
Railway Phrase Book,	25
Covers for holding Note Book,	20
The Reporter's Guide, by Thos. Allan Reid	60
Self-culture, corresponding style,	75
The Book of Psalms, corresponding style,	35
The Book of Psalms, cloth	75
Common Prayer, morocco, with gilt edges	$2.80
The Other Life, cloth	50
New Testament, reporting style,	$2.50
Phonographic Dictionary	1.50
Pilgrim's Progress, corresponding style,	55
Pilgrim's Progress, cloth	90
Extracts, corresponding style,	20

Sent post-paid to any address on receipt of price.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

Next Post Office, Toronto.

PUBLISHERS' NOTE.

GRIP is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.

Subscription price, $2 per annum strictly in advance. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied. BENGOUGH BROS.

USE ONLY

ONTARIO

Baking Powder.

Ask your Grocer for it.

MANUFACTORY:

247 King Street West,
TORONTO.

xii-20-17

BENGOUGH BROS.

Are prepared to execute orders for

ENGRAVING

in the highest style of the art.

Type Metal Plates

MADE FROM

Pen and Ink Sketches, Photographs, Lithographs, &c.,

More perfect, true and lasting than any wood engraving, and at a much lower cost. Call and see specimens at

GRIP OFFICE,

Next door to Post Office, Toronto.

Bone Manure!

Pure Bone Meal, warranted best quality. Super-phosphates. Ground bones for Vinerias. Rates moderate.

Factory, Esplanade & George Sts.

Address R. POLLOCK,

191 Jarvis St.

xii-3-6m.

TO PRINTERS.

Any printer having a font of Brevier Italic, in good condition Farmer, Little & Co's make, to work with this face will please communicate stating price and sending sample to

BENGOUGH BROS.

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY.

The tens of thousands who are making exclusive use of the COOK'S FRIEND Baking Powder, thereby render UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY to its superiority. Retailed everywhere. xii-12-17

WANTED.—5 cents each will be paid for the following back numbers of GRIP:

VOL. 2. Nos. 2, 16, 23.
" 3. " 7, 9, 17, 20, 21, 23.
" 4. " 1, 2, 4, 5, 6.
" 5. " 5, 7, 17, 19, 21, 26.
" 6. " 6, 7, 9, 13, 25.
" 7. " 4, 12, 20, 21.
" 8. " 1, 2, 7, 12, 17, 24.
" 9. " 3, 15.

BENGOUGH BROS.,
TORONTO.

$66 A WEEK in your own town. $5 outfit free. No risk. Reader, if you want a business at which persons of either sex can make great pay all the time they work, write for particulars to H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Me.

Time Books,---Weekly and Monthly.

These Books having been bought a bargain at auction, we are prepared to offer them retail, at wholesale prices.

BENGOUGH BROTHERS,

TORONTO.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, MAY 17, 1879.

GRIP OFFICE, }
IMPERIAL BUILDING. }

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

{ 5 CTS. EACH.
{ $2 PER ANNUM.

JOB LOT
MOURNING CARDS, PAPER CLIPS,
PEN RACKS, &c.,
AT WHOLESALE PRICES.

BENGOUGH BROS., Toronto.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach GRIP office not later than Wednesday.—Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

$1.50

Will Wash and Rough
Dry 100 Pieces, at the

TORONTO STEAM

LAUNDRY.

Cor. Bay & Wellington.

OFFICE: 65 KING ST. WEST

LOVELY!

"What Lovely White Bread!"
Is a remark that we often hear made by ladies on first seeing our

Favourite Snow-Flake Rolls.

Delivered daily, 6 cents each.

CRUMPTON'S BAKERY,

171 KING-ST., East.

xii-20-17

RODWELL & FELL,
Engravers,

And Manufacturers of Rubber and
Metal Stamps,

PRESS AND WAX SEALS,

Name Plates, Baggage and
Key Checks.

7 Adelaide St. East,

TORONTO.

SKIFF FOR SALE.

A first class cedar skiff, copper-riveted, twenty-three feet long, two pairs of oars, carpet and rugs. This skiff is light and capable of carrying half a dozen persons with comfort.

Apply to

P.O. Drawer, 2673.

BEST business you can engage in. $5 to $20 per day made by any worker of either sex, right in their own localities. Particulars and samples worth $5 free. Improve your spare time at this business. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

FARM FOR SALE.
100 ACRES

In the Township of Uxbridge.

Would exchange for entire horse, weighing 1,700 or 1,800 pounds, and not more than 8 years old.

BENGOUGH BROS.

U CAN make money faster at work for us than at any thing else. Capital not required; we will start you $12 per day at home made by the industrious. Men, women, boys and girls wanted everywhere to work for us. Now is the time. Costly outfit and terms free. Address, True & Co., Augusta, Me.

Literature and Art.

Judgment was given on Monday in the case of GEO. STEWART, JR., vs. ROSE-BELFORD Publishing Co., in which the plaintiff claimed a royalty on the sale of a book he had written for that firm. The decision went against Mr. STEWART, on the ground that he had made no specific arrangement about remuneration, and that the work had been done in his capacity as editor of Belford's Magazine. This may be good law, but it is poor consolation to Mr. S., after all his hard work. GRIP trusts that ROSE-BELFORD & Co., will have enough feeling to do the fair thing, notwithstanding their legal victory.

Mr. GLADSTONE has received the following message sent by the President of the Bulgarian Assembly: "In the darkest moments of our national life, in the moments of sufferings and neglect, all the Bulgarian nation with joy and enthusiasm heard from you a word of compassion, protection, and consolation. Not heeding the difficulties and the prejudices around, you defended bravely the just cause of an unfortunate nationality, the liberty of humanity now liberated. The Bulgarian nation, in the person of its full National Assembly, performs a great and very sacred duty in tendering its deepest and most heartfelt thanks to you and your noble colleagues for the sympathy you manifested and still manifest towards the Bulgarian nation in the work of its liberation."

The literary and biographical essays included in Mr. GLADSTONE's recently published "Gleanings" are of great interest, especially those on TENNYSON and MACAULAY. The former, published more than twenty years ago, is thoroughly appreciative and just; the latter is by far the best criticism of the great writer that has been written. Whilst eulogizing all MACAULAY's fineness of character and his enthusiasm and industry in political and literary matters, Mr. GLADSTONE does not forget to censure his reprehensible obstinacy in refusing to correct the numerous and elaborate misstatements and misrepresentations with which his "Essays" and "History" abound, notably in the cases of WILLIAM PENN and SIR ELIJAH IMPEY. The Essay on Bishop PATTERSON was evidently a labour of love, and the reader of that on LEOPARDI will find that Mr. GLADSTONE's acquaintance with DANTE is hardly less profound than with HOMER.

ALMA TADEMA's pictures for the Royal Academy number among them one which is, perhaps, as strong as anything he has painted. It is called "Down to the River," and the scene is, of course, in ancient Rome. A Roman matron with her child and maid, about to take a boat across the Tiber, are descending the stairs with its balustrade of Sienna marble, to where two boatmen—one a handsome Roman, the other a rich-colored blackamoor—are bidding eagerly for her custom. A splendid bridge crosses the picture full in the sunlight, and casting its yellow reflections into the dull, greenish-toned stream, above a strip of intense blue sky, gains yet greater value from the precious fleck of vermillion which belongs to a figure in a chariot crossing the bridge. Mr. TADEMA's other pictures are the "Feast of Pomona," a wild dance round an apple-tree white with blossoms, and "A Hearty Welcome," where matron and little maiden greet each other in a garden full of sunflowers and bright with crimson pillars.

NEATLY, CHEAPLY, QUICKLY.

Grip Job Department.

Everything in the Printing line from a

Label to a Three-Sheet Poster,
WITH NEATNESS AND DESPATCH.

We are prepared to fill Orders by Mail for Visiting Cards (Finest Bristol, White or Tinted) immediately on receipt of letter, and forward by FIRST MAIL, at the following rates:

25 Cards, (one name, one style type),	30 cents.
50 " " " " " "	50 "
100 " " " " " "	75 "

The following are Samples of Type from which a choice may be made.

1

Robert Taylor.

2

William Richardson.

3

Miss Maggie Thompson.

4

George Augustus Williams.

5

Mrs. Thomas Jones.

6

William Arthur Crawford.

7

Miss Susie Wade.

8

Byron W. Scott.

9

William Shakespeare.

Chromo Cards:
(Five Beautiful Pictures)

100 Cards, (one name, one style type)	$1.50.
50 " " " " " "	1.00.
25 " " " " " "	75.

Mourning Cards:

25 Cards, (one name one style type),	50 cents.
50 " " " " " "	75 "
100 " " " " " "	$1.25 "

Memorial Cards

Beautiful Designs, $ 1.00 per dozen.
Samples by mail, 5c. each.
Printing addresses on Cards, 10 cents extra for each Order.

Write your Name and the Number of the Letter you desire plainly, to prevent mistakes.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

Imperial Buildings, (Next Post Office), Toronto.

Stage Whispers.

Mlle. EME ROSEAU, the "Baby Mine" singer, is Mrs. EMELINE REED, when she is at home.

HENRY IRVING is playing "Claude Melnotte," in London. The "Pauline" is Miss ELLEN TERRY.

It is said that JAMES O'NEIL, now of San Francisco, has had GEORGE ELIOT's Daniel Deronda dramatized for him.—Buffalo Every Saturday. Ah, yes! Our literary staff is busily engaged in dramatizing the New York City Directory.—Puck.

Mrs. GEORGE MACDONALD, wife of the Scotch poet novelist, in 1877 arranged the second part of Pilgrim's Progress, and it was performed at a private entertainment in Lord DUNCIE's dining hall, London, each part being taken by members of Mr. MACDONALD's family. Rev. EDWARD EGLESTON says the performance was charmingly simple and wondrously affecting and effective.

A French correspondent writes as follows concerning Miss EMMA C. THURSBY: "A young American cantatrice of the highest promise has just appeared, to delight the concert-going public by her brilliant qualities. Miss EMMA THURSBY possesses a beautiful voice and she is evidently an accomplished musician. Her performance at M. PASDELOUP's concert last Sunday electrified the audience, the perfection of her method and her marvellous execution of the most florid passages revealing an artist for whom a very bright future is in store."

It is not correct as asserted by the Gaulois, that MARIO has gone mad. The fact is that under the protracted influence of disappointment and pecuniary difficulties the poor great artist has been lately laboring under softening of the brain. The disease having assumed a disquieting character, it has been found necessary by his friends to put him under medical supervision. There is nothing akin to madness in his case; he is always sober in temper and gentle in manners. But there is reason to fear lest he should linger long in a hopeless condition.

The two gentlemen that visited Toronto last week speak in the highest terms of praise of the attention showed them by the officers of the Philharmonic Society of Toronto. They were at the depot to meet them with a carriage; bespoke the best treatment for them at their hotel; wanted to pay their bills, gave them the best seats at hall for the oratorio of "Elijah," and introduced them to some of the best people. The next day the President, Mr. S. NORDHEIMER, placed his elegant carriage, horses and driver, at their disposal, and lunched them at the Toronto Club, and could not do enough for them.—Buffalo Every Saturday.

The dramatic critic of the Buffalo Every Saturday, thus speaks of the two principal actresses in Evangeline: "Miss VENIE CLANCY has greatly improved since last here, both in manner and in voice, and is certainly one of the brightest and prettiest young ladies on the stage. She received very gracefully an elegant basket of flowers on each night during the "Prison Scene," and was also encored in her song. Miss LIZZIE WEBSTER, who I hope will never leave the opera bouffe boards, as her future husband, Mr. NUNNEMACHER, assures me she intends doing this season, while not in such usual good voice, was very entertaining, and her wonderfully perfect little person was gotten up as gorgeously in outward apparel as the first butterfly of the summer."

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

By BENGOUGH Bro's, Proprietors. Office:—Imperial Buildings, next to the Post Office, Adelaide Street, Toronto. GEO. BENGOUGH, Business Manager.

Original contributions paid for. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned. Literary and Business communications to be addressed to BENGOUGH Bro's.

SUBSCRIPTION TERMS:—Two dollars per year, payable in advance. Subscriptions and advertisements are received at the office, or by Wm. R. BURRAGE, General Subscription and Advertising Agent, Pacific Building, Scott Street, Toronto.

EDITED AND ILLUSTRATED BY J. W. BENGOUGH.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

To Correspondents.

Quip, Windsor, N. S.—Not considered suitable.

THE Session at Ottawa is ended, and the grand allegorical tableau of the Triumph of Virtue, as represented in our cartoon, occupies the centre of the stage amid a blaze of colored lights, as the curtain goes down. The Opposition are crushed; the Ministry are jubilant. The outside public, too, cannot but rejoice that the trouble is over, for every day of the inconsequential squabbling means a pile of hard cash out of the people's pockets. And what have we got for our money? Heaps of first-rate, practical measures. In the first place, there is the National Policy, which has already inspired new life and vigor into several shingle mills, and brought the blessings of high wages to many a horny-handed son of toil; next we have a splendid assortment of Official Assignees, a boon for which the country cannot be too thankful; then we have been favored with the appointment of a new Postmaster in Toronto, and several new officers in many other parts of the country, in all cases, of course, effecting a great saving of money; again, we have received the head of LUC LETELLIER, a measure which must give universal satisfaction; and further, we may mention the Act repealing the Insolvency law, a most meritorious measure. These are but a few of the Acts passed by the present active and energetic Administration. Much more has been accomplished since Sir JOHN returned to his old seat. HANLAN has beaten HAWDON; the Long Island prize-fight has passed off amid great clat; ROWELL has carried away the pedestrian belt, Parole has won the thousand guinea stakes at the races, and several circuses are announced to make their entrance into our disentrained and glorious country! Long live good Government!

THE Prince of Wales introduced a Bill into the House of Lords the other day to legalize marriage with deceased wife's sister, but it was defeated. From this we gather that not many changes of sentiment on this matter Heir Apparent as yet amongst the noble Lords.

The Hon Members.

Extract from Notes of our own Private Secretary, taken at alphabetical interview of M.P.'s to obtain correct knowledge of requirements of different constituencies of Dominion, etc.

FINALE.

Terrible contre temps this morning, DWYER and ELLIOTT argument. Members forget they are not in the House. Forbear giving names—call them respectively X Y Z. Last interview of the season.

THE SCENE—Members heard arguing outside. Enter unannounced altogether.

Mr. X.—Your excellency I have to lay be fore you—

Mr. Y.—(interrupting)—Don't lay anything before him, he'd walk off with it. He's a pyrite your Excellency.

His EXCEL.—(aghast)—What? a pirate?

Mr. Z.—I beg to reiterate the statement made by my honourable colleague, he's a pyrite, and a copper pyrite, that's why he's got brass enough to buck in here ahead of us.

Mr. X.—Your Excellency will perceive that the buffoon who has had the audacity to address you last, has been emitting some wretched attempts at punning on the words pyrites, brass and buccaneers to cast a slur upon an industry that I have been engaged in.

Mr. Z.—I may be a buffoon, but I have never yet been accused of being a "chicken lifter."

His EXCEL.—(in despair)—What is a chicken lifter?

Mr. Z.—A hen thief. I've enquired at the honourable gentleman's hotel, and find that he is very liberally supplied with spring chicken—and the landlord don't pay for them.

Mr. X.—For your foul language the presence of the Governor only restrains me from quickly "cooking your goose."

Mr. Y.—Say that ore again, although my Hon. friend don't mind you much, I'll rise to a point of order and—

Mr. Z.—Never mind. I don't care a copper for him, he's an undermining bore. (all rise and grapple)—Pretorian Guards called—members secured—Tableau—Quick Curtain.

* * * * *

Distribution of Characters at Close.

To the Editor of GRIP,

SIR:—As you apparently approve of my proposal with reference to the "Canadian School of Poetry," I will give you my idea of the manner in which it should be conducted. In the first place, I think it should be called the "Chaucerian Academy," or "Chaucerian Poetical Institute;" it would be a delicate compliment to the "Father of English Poetry."

Secondly—Oh dear! I feel as if I were writing a sermon. I am sure I never can put my opinions under different heads, in fact, I find it impossible to keep them arranged in my own. Papa says that I am very unsystematic. I am sure that he thinks that our brains are full of pigeon-holes and that we should do up our thoughts in parcels and stow them away as he does the papers in his office. But I wander from the subject, I had got as far as secondly. 2ndly, we will suppose that the school is established and Professor and pupils assembled. The first thing to be done is to choose a subject; I should think it well to begin with a Love Poem, for there are many people who are not much affected by the beauties of nature, there are many in whom Mr. MATTHEW ARNOLD's "soulful of involuntary unbelief;" or Mr.

MORRIS' "Mythological Story;" or "vials of tribulation and wrath" poured out by other poets, would awake no responsive chord: but most young people can be brought into a sentimental frame by pondering on the materials for a Love Poem, and though original sentiment is not necessary, it will lighten the work of the professor if the pupils possess it. There is an excellent recipe for a Love Poem in "The Inspired Singer Recipe Book." We are told to take two large and tender human hearts, which match one another perfectly. Arrange these close together but preserve them from contact by placing between them some cruel barrier. Wound them both in several places and insert through the openings a fine stuffing of wild yearnings, hopeless tenderness, and general admiration for stars, etc. There are many other useful recipes in the book. It would also be necessary to have several volumes of poetry, from which ideas could be gathered. Some people call the use of other peoples ideas plagiarism. I do not. When I buy anything, I consider that it is my own property, and if a man chooses to cut his sentiments into given lengths and sell them as poetry, my opinion is that those who buy may make use of them as they please. As you may have observed many of our modern poets agree with me in practice, though not in theory.

Having selected subject and sentiments, the professor should hang printed lists of words that rhyme with each other where all the class could see them. Many words, for instance, rhyme with light, as blight, flight, midnight; then there are such words as cling and wring which are suggestive of dependence and heart breaking. The professor should throw out a few remarks suggesting such ideas; then the class should begin the poem; it might be limited to six verses, the first and third lines of the first verse to end with light and sight, the second and fourth with shine and twine and so through the remaining verses. The pupil must be dull indeed, who would not soon become proficient under such favouring influences. I think no one need despair. I have known girls at school who could hardly distinguish one tune from another, but by practising a great deal they became brilliant musicians, with a surprising amount of execution. Poetic execution could, I am sure, be acquired in the same way. JACK (my brother), says that murder would be the more correct term, but poor JACK is quite destitute of the finer feelings. However he has promised to help me with the sample poems for next week's paper as I have really been too busy to prepare them. As this is a subject in which the public should be interested, if any of your correspondents can propose a better mode of conducting the Poetical Institution, I shall be delighted to listen to their suggestions.

Yours faithfully,

SU SCEPTIBLE.

Candour.

MR. ALEX. WRIGHT may be a very tricky politician, but he is at all events candid on the subject of Federal Interference. He got up boldly the other evening at a public meeting and moved a resolution affirming the proposition that the Local and Dominion Governments ought to work together, and in fact ought to be of one Party. After that we are prepared to hear ALEXANDER declare that bribery funds for the Provincial elections ought to be voted regularly in the Committee of Supply at Ottawa. But, by the way, Mr. WRIGHT is one of the humorist; so perhaps his resolution was intended for a joke.

A MORE stupendous piece of folly than the attempted construction of the Canada Pacific Railway beyond our North West settlements was never, in GRIP's opinion, entertained by any intelligent nation. The absurdity of the thing is only equalled by its expensiveness, and were it not that the crazy undertaking is likely to land us in bankruptcy, we would laugh at it as a huge joke. Of course railway communication with Manitoba is a necessity, and has been achieved. There is no call whatever for doing any more just now. It has always appeared to us that none of our public men ever really believed in the "Policy," but both parties have allowed themselves to be committed to it. The above map gives our own private view of the project—both Grits and Tories to the contrary notwithstanding.

Grip's Historical Readings.

EMBRACING NOTICES OF GREAT EVENTS AND CELEBRATED MEN.

NO. VI.—THE BATTLE OF THE BOYNE.

The intelligent reader who has scanned the picture of King WILLIAM on horseback, which always accompanies the advertisement of L. O. L., No. 7986, must be aware that the Battle of the Boyne was fought in the year 1690, for that date is written in bold figures just under the off hind foot of the prancing charger. He is also probably aware that the parties engaged in that memorable fight were King WILLIE of Orange, and King JIMMY of Scotland, and that they were fighting for—but of course the reader has heard all about it from the dusty and perspiring orators up in the Queen's Park on many a 12th of July. It was a glorious, pious and also immortal affair, and so is its annual celebration, barring, perhaps, the piety. It is believed that on the occasion King WILLIAM crossed the Boyne, though none of the banner-painters appear to have seen him go further than a couple of yards from the shore. His army consisted of a strong force of lodges, embracing thousands of deputy district grand masters in flowing red robes and white factory-cotton trousers. MR. MACKENZIE BOWELL and ex-Mayor MITCHELL were unavoidably absent, but notwithstanding this the display was most imposing. The noble defenders of civil and religious liberty marched into battle to the inspiring strains of "Teeter-tawter," and "Boyne Water," played simultaneously by twenty-five live-and-drum bands belonging to the 'Prentice Boys and O. Y. Britons. We needn't describe the fight, further than to state that it was a success. It was more general in its character, and more respectable than some of the fight which occur on modern Twelfths. And, by the way, it didn't take place on the Twelfth at all, but on the First of July. There must have been some misunderstanding about this; and it is strange that such a mistake could have been made. Perhaps King WILLIAM had no almanac at hand, and merely guessed at the date; or very likely he was knocked a little out of time on the occasion. Subsequent conventions of grand lodges have, however, left the matter alone, and we think very prudently, for it would be a most calamitous thing to crowd the Orange demonstration into the First of July, which is already full of firecrackers and general combustibles. The battle of the Boyne is worthy of being commemorated, for it secured the blessings of liberty to Irishmen of all creeds. Its indirect fruits are also notable. It has secured to the horny-handed son of toil (who is a native of the Emerald Isle), an annual holiday on which he may indulge his appetite for ribbons and rosettes without sacrificing his reputation for sanity. It is the only day in the year on which he can do this. Again, certain candidates have to thank King WILLIAM for a solid vote which in many ridings is simply irresistible. To secure this vote a man must be liberal and enlightened in his views, a friend of progress and good government, and in favor of equal rights to all. So that the country and Parliament are benefitted at the same time.

Crowings.

CANADA's way of HAN'LIN' the oars surprises JOHN BULL.

A POPULAR BEVERAGE.—Fresh from the press.—Tyne-sider.

THERE is danger of Toronto becoming known as Golgotha—a place of skulls.

THE DIFFERENCE.—HANLAN won as he liked. HAWDON would have liked as he'd won.

'ANLAN and 'AWDON.—The Englishman's feelings—ex asperation. Ditto's pronunciation—in-aspiration.

Mr. Phipps' Terrible Revenge.

R. W. P. (log).—Now, sir, in retaliation for your treachery and cruelty to me, I am going to return the Mowat Government to power, and see how you'll like it! Tr-r-remble, thou wretch!!

"LIERS IN WAIT."—Bakers, whose 4 lb. loaves contain but 3½ lbs of bread.

MISS-PRONUNCIATION.—Ladies of Toronto will persist in speaking of the new Lord Bishop of Toronto as a Sweet-man.

CLOCKED stockings should never be allowed to run down.—Boston Transcript. This is a ticklish subject to discuss.—Boston Post. They should certainly be up—to time.

Gwossely Insulted.

I am angwy, dweadfully angwy. Of cawth it isn't good fawm to be angwy, because a fellow cawn't manage his eyeglaus unless he contwols his feelings, you know, but I am angwy nevertheless. And I think I have vewy good cause, too. I have been gwossely insulted in the pwesence of the whole country, and ewvy fellow in the Club knows about it. I suppose you wead about it, dear boy, didn't you?—the wow in the House the othaw day. That beathly Globe fellow pwinted a lot about it. But I am not so angwy at the Globe fellow, who is a wretched Gwit, and doesn't know any bettaw, as I am at the Speakaw, who belongs to the Liberal-Conservative Pawty, and ought to have good mannaws. The Speakaw actually had the pwesumption and the asshawance to awdaw me out of the chambaw! And what for? Why—aw—simply because I took the oppawtunity of expwessing my sentiments on the flaw of the House like a twue Bwiton; simply because I uttered a few sentences about that vulgaw fellow HUNTINGTON, to the effect that he was a wogue and a liaw, or something of that sawt, I don't wewollect pwecisely. Yes,—aw, my boy, the Speakaw awsked me to wetire! And I did wetire; though I came back once or twice maw, just to shew them I wasn't to be gwossed out in that mannaw. And then the covespondent of the Mail, too,—the fellow who dwinks bwandy and soda with me, and is like a bwothaw—he adds insult to injuwry by wewfering to me simply as "a person"—doesn't even mention my name! But the wuffest pawt of the whole dweadful mess is that the Wight Hon. Sir JOHN has had me bwrought to the baw of the House. I thought I could take anything fwom Sir JOHN in the way of a joke, but down't you know, this is weally going too faw with it. Of cawth, I'm not a membaw of the House, and strictly speaking it was a piece of impudence on my pawt to do what I did,—but isn't the Pwemier a fwien'd of mine? But no mattaw; I will weak a terwible wevenge for this!

Grip's illustration of the Hanlan-Hawdon race is capital. Canada's comic journal is a creditable sheet. Let it keep independent in politics and it must succeed—in fact it is the only way it can succeed.—Kingston Daily News.

Thanks; don't be alarmed about our independence, brother. Whenever you find us hitting anybody who don't deserve it, just let us know, and we will take back the blow and apologise. And if you observe any rascalities which have escaped our lash, don't be too bashful to mention them.

CLOSE OF THE PLAY AT OTTAWA.

GRAND TABLEAU.—THE TRIUMPH OF VIRTUE.

THE JOKER CLUB.

"The Pun is mightier than the Sword."

A monarch of the seize—the sheriff—New Haven Register.

To make a fine eye water—Stick an onion to it.—Glasgow Times.

A wife in the house is worth two in the street.—McGregor News.

Grass gets its dew—about the only thing in the world that does.—Ex.

It is better to be the Czar, when he is shot at, than the crowd.—Old City Derrick.

If an old sheep can only jump a fence they call it a spring lamb.—New York Herald.

Advice to the dressmakers—Be sure you are right, then go ahead.—Whitehall Times.

As the sleepy spring fever comes on get out your awnings and yawnings.—New York Herald.

Nervous, ejaculatory women belong to the order of migratious animals—Steubenville Herald.

Prof. PLAZZI SMITH tells a "glowingly-hot" summer. Can't get above '79 anyhow.—Pittsburg Telegraph.

Mr. and Miss KEETER are preparing for business and the presenting of their little bills.—Pittsburg Telegraph.

Trust not the circus athlete as he bowlingly enters the arena. He is a man of revolutionary intentions.—Boston Transcript.

"Our First Baby," is the title of a new book. It is bound in muslin, of course, and has a weak back.—Spring City Sun.

The Americans had to pay ROWELL here, but the Englishman have had to Parole well over there.—N. Y. Commercial Adv.

When an obnoxious lecturer is frescoed with chickened eggs, can it be called a spawn-taneous ovation?—Chicago Com. Adv.

A Nevada tramp applied to a doctor for some work and the doctor asked him what he could do. "Well," said he, "I could dig graves."—Ex.

A enthusiastic Utica communist hates kings and aristocrats so heartily that he proposes to put an end to the royalty on patents.—Utica Observer.

Time is money, and leisure is five cents to the man who reads the morning paper on a newsdealer's counter without paying for it.—New Orleans Picayune.

Visitor—"Mrs BOBITOL at home?"
New Footman—"Mrs. BOBITOL is not at home, sir. But I don't rightly know if she won't see you!"—Punch.

"Columbia, the gem of the"—Dominion of Canada threatens to secede. Great Britain says, "Do minion, and I'll fetch you back again."—Cin. Sat. Night.

Since the war everything has gone down, except the price of postage stamps. Where are the newspapers that do the national fault finding?—St. Louis Spirit.

We have met many people who never knew enough to attend to their own business, but they always knew how to run a newspaper.—Quincy Modern Argo.

And now the young man whose steps totter as he goes to the wood-pile to saw a stick, steps off in a walking match with the vigor and elasticity of a Jersey bull.—Editor Green-slett.

Would'st know what lesson hums the bee,
With dapper wings unfurled?

Translated means that sweet bees hum
"Bees-hum-thing in the world."

—Yonkers Gazette.

DEXTER SMITH has written a Decoration Day song entitled "They died for you and me." Probably refers to the old fellows that we hired to color their hair and whiskers and go out as substitutes.—Boston Bulletin.

A gentleman from Leadville, Col., is in the city exhibiting specimens of gold and silver ore from the mines out there. He did not bring a specimen of Leadville bread. It was too scarce and costly.—Milwaukee Sun.

Anxious mothers are not in so much fear as they used to be about their children getting drowned while in swimming, but they have to keep a bright look-out to prevent their doing themselves to death in walking matches.—Cin. Sat. Night.

There is an innocent abroad here in Toledo. He asked a friend what was the best bait for fish. "Try angle worms," said the friend, and may we be hornsogled if that man hasn't had every boy in the city trying to find him triangle worms.—Toledo Commercial.

"What is love?" inquires a poet whose verses appear in the Philadelphia North American. The idea of a poet not knowing what love is. It's so long ago that we almost forget, but so far as we can remember, it was a sort of heart toothache.—N. Y. Com. Advertiser.

How doth the little housewife now improve each shining hour? She trots around with broom and mop and mind intent to scour. O, mortal man—unhappy soul, so hopelessly demeaned! O, happy man, if man there be, whose house need not be cleaned.—St. Louis Journal.

Nothing is so painful at this season of the year, as the disheartening spectacle of a nine-year-old hen, looking through the fence at a man digging a garden, while she exercises her rugged legs and incisive claws on the plank walk, just keeping in practice until the garden is ready.—Burlington Hawkeye.

A man and a wife can never agree upon what constitutes a tidy-looking room. A woman will grow irritable when she finds half a dozen cigar stumps sticking to the scorched mantle-piece, and he can't be expected to keep calm when he finds a bunch of long "combing" in his shaving mug.—Puck.

Times have been so hard in the West this year that a great many people have been obliged to discount their crystal and china weddings from three to seven years, in order to raise the wind at that particular time when a financial atmospheric disturbance would most happily and forcibly strike them right where they lived.—Burlington Hawkeye.

A party of artists and art critics came to the following conclusion regarding their dinner: That the hash was low in tone and defective in composition; the beer well-drawn but flat; the anatomy of the turkey strong; the bread too freely handled; the veal raw and cold, and hurried in execution; the butter strong, the coffee weak, except in the foreground; and altogether too much impaste in the bill.—Harper's Bazaar.

The picnic season is approaching, and the wise man, when he goes out in the morning and meets a decorated job waggon jammed full of happy sweltering children, who are trying to sing in the intervals of having their livers jolted up against their palates, the wise man returns home and arms himself with umbrella and overshoes, for he knows it will rain that afternoon.—Boston Bulletin.

Indignant father to his son, whose picture has not even been skied at the Academy:

"You're a nice artist. Here you are 45 years old Christmas week, and yet no picture of yours has ever been received."

"But, sir"—

"Silence, sir! Don't you presume to 'but,' sir," me. Sir, at your age RAPHAEL had been dead for ten years."—Ex.

When a student at the bar is called up for examination he is asked the question, "What is law?" Whereupon he replies, his eye in a fine frenzy rolling: "Law, in its most general and comprehensive sense, signifies a rule of action. In this sense it is applied indiscriminately to all kinds of actions, whether animate or inanimate, rational or irrational." Three years after he has begun practice, if he is asked what law is, he answers disgustedly, "Law is a deuced uncertain way of making a precarious living."—Newark Call.

A very amusing scene transpired in the justice court yesterday. A constable was preferring a charge against a party whom he had arrested for drunkenness, or rather was giving in his testimony relative to the case. "The prisoner," he said, "was lying upon the steps of May's drug store; he was abusive in his language to passers by, besides which he called me a fool." The prisoner conducted his own defense, and at this point he said, "You mean to say that I called you a fool, do you?" "I do," was the reply. Then turning to the court the prisoner said, "I would ask the court if the fact of my calling that man a fool is an evidence that I was drunk?"—Waterbury American.

It is evident that Pinafore has about had its day with us. We have been Pinafored to death. We look with indifference upon Sir JOSEPH PORTER with his inevitable "sisters and his cousins and his aunts." In fact we have come to dislike any allusion to them. Dear little BUTTERCUPS have ceased to be dear, and are remarkably cheap now—hardly worth five cents a cup. JOSEPHINE, the handsome captain's daughter, or the handsome daughter of the captain, for the captain isn't generally selected for his good looks, has ceased to charm, or DICK DEADEYE to appal. RALPH RACKSTRAW may be an able seaman, but he isn't able to interest us any further in his love affairs. Swapped for some one else when he was a baby, he may be traded off again without creating the least excitement. We have been raked Pinafore—and aft repeatedly, and can't stand any more of it never. What, never? Well, h-a-r-d-l-y ev—bang!!! [Note by the publisher—Dear Suffering Readers: It is not often that we resort to the Texas code and take the law into our own hands, nor do we approve as a general thing of shooting a newspaper writer while working at his desk, but in this case we feel perfectly justified. A placard has been hung up in our office for some time proclaiming that the penalty for getting off a Pinafore "gag" by any writer for the SATURDAY NIGHT was death, yet the writer of the above has seen fit to disregard it and has met the doom he merited. His body awaits the coroner.—Cin. Sat. Night.

Grip's Guide to the Cities of Canada.

TORONTO—(Continued).

THE HORTICULTURAL GARDENS.

Gentle spring has come, and has remained with us some weeks. Ethereal mildness, hitherto looked upon as its unflinching companion, has not yet arrived; but will probably with the next steamer. What pleasant memories are associated with spring!—the period of the year when youthful swains and tender maidens open their souls, surcharged with poesy, and send their effusions to the different local papers, or purchase The Evening Telegram, in which such contributions are "welcome." In this connection we boldly say that if there is a place more calculated than another for the purpose of courting the divine muse, that place is the Horticultural Gardens.

This charming spot is the delight of our citizens, old and young—of all tendencies and tastes. Some visit it to court the muse, others to court the nursery maids, who, with their tender charges, religiously come every fine afternoon to the "Hulchy Culchy" Gardens (as their aforesaid infant care pronounces it), and pretend to read ten cent novels under the shade of the umbrageous oaks.

We will not attempt to describe, or botanically designate, the component parts of the floricultural display that makes up the flower beds, gorgeous in all the colors of the rainbow, and emitting a fragrance delightful as that which is popularly attributed to

ARABY THE BLEST,

nor the marble fountain throwing aloft its mass of crystal water, pure and bright from the filtering basin on the Island, which, descending in glittering mist like miniature diamonds, distributes itself around, rendering brightly green, and awakening to new life the fuchias, regalias and gymgamthimus, smiling in their beds in its vicinity—(oh my!)—And then the pleasantest place to hear summer concerts or theatricals in the city, where, instead of being jammed in the stuffy parquette seat of a theatre, or perspiring in a melancholy lecture room, you can sit al fresco in the balmy breeze (barrin' its raining) along side of your adored one, and listen to the tuneful SALLIE HOLMAN in her role of Josephine, or weep sympathetic tears with some heavy tragedian while you perfume the air with your choice partaga. The pavilion, like unto the "course of Empire," or a Manitoba emigrant, has taken its way westward from its former site in the centre of the Gardens. It is an airy and fairy like structure, built of light material in order that if it should happen to "come down by the run" (as some envious and ill-natured people say it may) it will not endanger the heads of the fashionable audience underneath. We would advise all our country friends by all means to patronize the Gardens. Everything is free—only a small contribution of 25 cts. at the gate.

THE PAVILLION,

The Philadelphia Record estimates that already $238,000 has been paid in that city to witness performances of Pinafore.

A "Life of Admiral FARRAGUT," by his son, LYL FARRAGUT, will be published in the fall by D. APPLETON & Co. The book will contain the letters and diary of the late Admiral, from his entrance into the Navy at the age of ten years to his death, and promises to be as interesting as it is important.

GREAT WESTERN RAILWAY.

PASSENGERS

FOR

Manitoba, the North West Territories,

OR ANY POINT IN

WESTERN CANADA OR THE UNITED STATES,

Should remember that this is the most comfortable and direct route; and the only line in Canada running the

CELEBRATED DINING CARS,

in connection with the Michigan Central R. Rd., between Suspension Bridge and Chicago. Wagner's Sleeping Cars attached to all Night Trains, Parlor Cars to Day Trains.

THROUGH TICKETS by this Popular Route can be obtained at Lowest Rates at All Principal Stations, and from Agents representing the Line throughout Canada.

F. BROUGHTON,

Gen. Manager.

xii-22-12t.

ONTARIO SOCIETY OF ARTISTS.

Seventh Annual Exhibition of OIL AND WATER COLOUR PAINTINGS.

14 King Street West.

OPEN DAILY FROM 9 A.M. TO 6 P.M.

Admission 25c. Art Union Tickets to be had of the Curator. xii-26-2t.

TORONTO LACROSSE CLUB.

Spring Handicap Games.

NEXT SATURDAY,

17TH MAY, ON CLUB GROUNDS, JARVIS ST.

100 yards dash, 120 yards hurdle, quarter mile, half mile, one mile, and three mile walk.

Silver medals for first and second in each race. Above are open to all amateurs, and entries, accompanied by entrance fee of 50c. for each event, will be received up to Thursday, 15th inst. Admission to grounds 25c.

JAMES PEARSON, Hon. Sec. T. L. C.

P.O. Box 547.

xii-26-1t.

$2 Per Annum, Free of Postage.

"GRIP" Now in its sixth year and Twelfth Volume, and more popular and influential than ever before.

Our confidence that the Canadian Public would extend a hearty support to a humorous journal conducted upon principles of honesty and decency has been amply justified in the established success of GRIP, which, during the six years of its existence, has enjoyed the patronage and respect of a large constituency of our best people. In dealing with the public men and affairs of the country it has been the aim of the controllers of GRIP to avoid the coarseness and unfairness which too often characterize satirical publications. The political Cartoons, although sometimes severe, have never been unjust and never vindictive. The attitude of absolute independence which the paper has maintained from the first is attested by the appreciative notices which the Cartoons constantly receive in the press of both Parties.

Press Notices of Recent Numbers.

The happy talent of Grip's artist for presenting the situation at a glance was never more conspicuous than in the recent cartoon, wherein the well-known N.P. Elephant was fondling its new-born irredeemable-currency offspring, while Sir John adjured Mr. Tilley not to kill the calf, as they might want to ride it in the next political campaign.—The Globe, April 26th.

Canada, following in our footsteps, already has its protective tariff and its growing Chinese question, and is being further Americanized by the development of the germs of a Greenback party. Its "rag baby" was successfully ushered into the world at a meeting recently held at St. Catharines, Ontario, where resolutions in favour of a Canadian paper currency were adopted. Grip, the Canadian Punch, in a recent number, hits off the situation capably; the new issue being represented as the offspring of the Protection elephant. Sir John Macdonald, who rode into power on the parent animal, gazes on the calf with an expression of sly satisfaction, and says to a supporter, "Don't kill it, let it thrive; who knows but it may be our biggest card next time we go through the country." Well more unlikely things have happened.—Boston (U.S.) Traveller.

The Assignee.

I.

Said he, "Of late I used to be a blooming official assignee; I overhauled the papers and I scrutinized the books, And searched well for errors in crannies and in nooks; At meetings of the creditors my eye was ever peeled, And I kept a bright look out for everything revealed; I could white-wash a creditor and make him pure as snow, Till joyfully he would through Insolvency go. But now, alack-a-day! my occupation's gone, I walk around all night till the breaking of the dawn; I'm almost a maniac, as you can plainly see, Since BECHAND passed the Bill to repeal Insolvency!"

II.

Then I took out a paper, and showed him how the Senate Objected to the measure, and in fact were dead "agin' it," I advised him to go home and take a ten grain pill, For the Senate snubbed the Commons and quashed the little Bill; Then the stranger jumped and doffed his hat, and gave cheers three times three, Saying, "Bully for the Senate, I'm again an Assignee!"

Legal Delights.

We wonder if the young gentlemen who compiled the programme of toasts for the forthcoming banquet of a certain legal literary society ever read OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES' harrowing account of the fate which once befel an individual who allowed himself to be very funny? We fear not; otherwise they would never have dared to cram so much dangerous wit into so small a compass. We shall not be surprised—though of course we shall be exceedingly pained—to hear that, in the midst of the after-dinner performances, on the coming occasion, a sudden explosion occurs which will rob the profession of several scores of promising barristers and attorneys. If this dire calamity does happen, the person or persons responsible for the authorship of the toasts and sentiments—(especially the sentiments)—will assuredly have reason to resolve, with the hero of HOLMES' poem, that never again will he "be as funny as he can." But perhaps the reader, who cannot hope to get a smell of the dinner, is anxious to get a little taste of the programme, and by way of gratifying this reasonable desire, and at the same time giving the unknown legal humorist the benefit of our columns, we transcribe a few of the toasts:

CANADA:

"For we ourselves have said it,
And it's greatly to our credit,
That we are Canadian;
And in spite of all temptations
To belong to other nations,
We remain Canadian."

—H. M. S. Pinafore.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT, ETC.:

"And the lean and hungry raven,
As he picks our bones will start,
To see "N.P.," "LETELIER," graven Neatly on our blighted hearts."

—Old Song.

ARMY, NAVY AND VOLUNTEERS:

"Of legal knowledge I acquired such a grip
That they took me into their partnership,
And that junior partnership I ween,
Was the only ship that I ever had seen.
But that kind of ship so suited me
That now I am the ruler of the Queen's Navee."

—H. M. S. Pinafore.

THE LADIES:

"Our sisters, and our cousins and our aunts."
—H. M. S. Pinafore.

GRIP hopes the merry young students of the grave old profession will enjoy themselves at their feast of reason and flow of soul, and have no cause to deem themselves sadder next morning. Also, he hopes that the wit in the programme may, after all, prove harmless.

DWYER-ELLIOTT AT OTTAWA.

AND STILL WE WONDER THAT AMERICAN ROUGHS MAKE CANADA THE SCENE OF THEIR DISCREDITABLE FIGHTS.

"Be wise to-day, 'tis madness to defer."

There are seasons in a man's life when the truth of this old proverb is clearly seen—but in no case is delay more reprehensible than in neglecting the opportunity of having your portrait taken at

THE PHOTO ART STUDIO OF
J. Bruce & Co.,
118 KING STREET WEST, TORONTO.
xii-22-17

AGENTS WANTED EVERYWHERE
FOR
"GRIP,"

THE COMIC PAPER OF THE DOMINION.

Enlarged and Improved.

Growing in favour every day.

A RARE CHANCE FOR YOU TO MAKE MONEY NOW

Send for sample copy and terms.

W. R. BURRAGE,

General Agent, Toronto.

M. J. HYNES & BRO.,
Contractors and Plasterers,
HAVE REMOVED FROM 11 VICTORIA TO
102 KING STREET WEST.

Financial.

$10 TO 1000

everything.

Invested in Wall St. Stock makes fortunes every month. Book sent free explaining.
Address BAXTER & Co., Bankers, 17 Wall St., N. Y.
xi-20-17

The Recent Fight.

Not for the purpose of making the paper sell, nor for the gratification of a depraved taste, but from the lofty motive which actuated the Globe and Mail—namely, the salutary disgusting of the public—GRIP proceeds to give an account of the recent DWYER-ELLIOTT fight:

First Round.—From the reputation of the men, it was expected that some gentlemanly science would be displayed; but it turned out to be far otherwise. After a little preliminary dancing around, DWYER, with hands well up, let out a feeler, and HUNTINGTON said Sir JOHN A. was a miserable charter-seller. Both men claimed first blood.

Second Round.—This was a horrible bout. ELLIOTT got in a hard one on DWYER's face, and DWYER bruised ELLIOTT's eyes. TOM WHITE gave HUNTINGTON a fearful pummeling, and both men went down at the ropes, bleeding profusely.

Third Round.—DWYER came up quickly. ELLIOTT responded, and received a crushing blow on the forehead. HUNTINGTON got a few heavy blows in on the countenance of WHITE, to which WHITE replied by calling HUNTINGTON a robber, and reading out charges from a newspaper. The men clinched and fell heavily.

Fourth Round.—ELLIOTT already appeared groggy, and his eyes presented a horrible appearance. DWYER danced around and hit his opponent a terrible blow on the head, knocking him down. Sir JOHN MACDONALD delivered one from the shoulder, giving HUNTINGTON the lie direct in the teeth.

Fifth Round.—Both hit out with terrible force and viciousness. ELLIOTT fetched DWYER a severe blow on the cheek, and DWYER got in a crashing knock on ELLIOTT's swollen eye. HUNTINGTON responded that if JOHN A. was outside of the House he would call him a blackguard—Cries of foul arose at this point, but JOE GOSS wouldn't admit it.

Sixth Round.—ELLIOTT held DWYER, and got in a few terrible blows, but DWYER got free and pummeled ELLIOTT's face out of all shape. CHARLEY RYKERT said COCKBURN was a coward and a sneak. MACKENZIE responded with a sharp blow on RYKERT's eye. [The rest of this report is held over, out of respect for our country.]

VERNON,
MANUFACTURING JEWELLER,

159 YONGE STREET.

Watches and Clocks repaired.

Pipes Mounted.
xii-19-8t

AGENTS, READ THIS.

We will pay Agents a Salary of $100 per month and expenses, or allow a large commission to sell our new and wonderful inventions. We mean what we say. Sample free, Address,
SHERMAN & CO., Marshall, Mich.
xii-16-3m

BALDNESS!

Neither gasoline, vasoline, carboline, or Allen's, Ayer's, or Hall's hair restorers have produced luxuriant hair on bald heads. That great discovery is due to Mr. Winter-corn, 61 King-street East, (late 132 Church-street), as can be testified to by hundreds of living witnesses in this city and Province. He challenges all the so-called restorers to produce a like result.

Send for circulars.

xii-12-17

TO PHONOGRAPHERS!

PRICE-LIST REVISED APRIL 1, 1879.

Compend of Phonography	5 cts.
Exercises in Phonography,
Grammatical and Contractions,	10.
Questions on Manual,	15
Selections in Reporting Style,	20
Teacher,	20
Key to Teacher,	20
Reader,	20
Manual,	55
Reporter,	90
Reporting Exercises,	20
Phrase Book,	35
Railway Phrasing Book,	25
Covers for Holding Note Book,
The Reporter's Guide, by Thos. Allan Reid	20
Self-culture, corresponding style,	75
The Book of Psalms, corresponding style,	35
The Book of Psalms, cloth	75
Common Prayer, morocco, with gilt edges	$2.80
The Other Life, cloth	50
New Testament, reporting style,	$2.50
Phonographic Dictionary,	1.50
Pilgrim's Progress, corresponding style,	15
Pilgrim's Progress, cloth	90
Extracts, corresponding style,	20

Send post-paid to any address on receipt of price.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

Next Post Office, Toronto.

FOR TIP TOP LAGER ASK FOR THOS. DAVIES & CO'S.

PUBLISHERS' NOTE

GRIP is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.

Subscription price, $2 per annum strictly in advance. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied. BENGOUGH BROS.

USE ONLY

ONTARIO

Baking Powder.

Ask your Grocer for it.

MANUFACTORY:

247 King Street West,
TORONTO.

xii-20-17

BENGOUGH BROS.

Are prepared to execute orders for

ENGRAVING

in the highest style of the art.

Type Metal Plates

MADE FROM

Pen and Ink Sketches, Photographs, Lithographs, &c.,

More perfect, true and lasting than any wood engraving, and at a much lower cost. Call and see specimens at

GRIP OFFICE,

Next door to Post Office, Toronto.

Bone Manure!

Pure Bone Meal, warranted best quality. Super-phosphates. Ground bones for Vineries. Rates moderate. Factory, Esplanade & George Sts.

Address R. POLLOCK,

191 Jarvis St.

xii-3-6m.

TO PRINTERS.

Any printer having a font of Brevier Italic, in good condition Farmer, Little & Co's make, to work with this face will please communicate stating price and sending sample to

BENGOUGH BROS

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY.

The tens of thousands who are making exclusive use of the COOK'S FRIEND Baking Powder, thereby render UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY to its superiority.

Retailed everywhere. xii-12-17

WANTED.—5 cents each will be paid for the following back numbers of GRIP:

- | | |
|---------|-------------------------|
| Vol. 2. | Nos. 2, 16, 23. |
| " 3. | " 7, 9, 17, 20, 21, 23. |
| " 4. | " 1, 2, 4, 5, 6. |
| " 5. | " 5, 7, 17, 19, 21, 26. |
| " 6. | " 6, 7, 9, 13, 25. |
| " 7. | " 4, 12, 20, 21. |
| " 8. | " 1, 2, 7, 12, 17, 24. |
| " 9. | " 3, 15. |

BENGOUGH BROS.,

TORONTO.

$66 A WEEK in your own town. $5 outfit free. No risk. Reader, if you want a business at which persons of either sex can make great pay all the time they work, write for particulars to H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Me.

ZELL'S POPULAR ENCYCLOPÆDIA.

A gentleman leaving the city offers for sale a copy of ZELL'S POPULAR ENCYCLOPÆDIA, complete in 2 Vols., bound in half Morocco with gilt edges, for only $30, cost $39.50.

Address E. O. T., GRIP Office.

(TRADE MARK REGISTERED)

TORONTO, SATURDAY, JUNE 7, 1879.

GRIP OFFICE,
IMPERIAL BUILDING.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

5 CTS. EACH.
$2 PER ANNUM.

JOB LOT MOURNING CARDS, PAPER CLIPS, PEN RACKS, &c.,

AT WHOLESALE PRICES.

BENGOUGH BROS., Toronto.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach GRIP office not later than Wednesday.—Articles and literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

$1.50

Will Wash and Rough
Dry 100 Pieces, at the

TORONTO STEAM LAUNDRY.

Cor. Bay & Wellington.

OFFICE: 65 KING ST. WEST

LOVELY!

"What Lovely White Bread!" Is a remark that we often hear made by ladies on first seeing our Favourite Snow-Flake Rolls. Delivered daily, 6 cents each. CRUMPTON'S BAKERY, 171 KING-ST., East. xii-20-17

RODWELL & FELL, Engravers,

And Manufacturers of Rubber and Metal Stamps,

PRESS AND WAX SEALS,

Name Plates, Baggage and Key Chicks.

7 Adelaide St. East,
TORONTO.

SKIFF FOR SALE.

A first class cedar skiff, copper-riveted, twenty-three feet long, two pairs of oars, carpet and rugs. This skiff is light and capable of carrying half a dozen persons with comfort.

Apply to

P.O. Drawer, 2673.

BEST business you can engage in. $5 to $20 per day made by any worker of either sex, right in their own localities. Particulars and samples worth $5 free. Improve your spare time at this business. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

FARM FOR SALE. 100 ACRES

In the Township of Uxbridge.

Would exchange for entire horse, weighing 1,700 or 1,800 pounds, and not more than 8 years old.

BENGOUGH BROS.

U CAN make money faster at work for us than at any thing else. Capital not required; we will start you $12 per day at home made by the industrious. Men, women, boys and girls wanted every where to work for us. Now is the time. Costly outfit and terms free. Address, TRUX & Co., Augusta, Me.

COAL AND WOOD,
OF THE BEST QUALITY.

AND AT LOWEST PRICES.

NAIRN'S.

Office, Next Post Office.

Docks, Foot of Church Street.

Literature and Art.

A large picture, believed to be a genuine work of TURNER, has just been brought to light in Scotland under peculiar circumstances. It was procured, the story goes, directly from the artist by the late H. F. MYLIUS, and was bequeathed by him to a relative. This man has been ignorant of its great worth, but on showing it to a connoisseur was informed that it was a genuine TURNER. The picture will be put up by auction, and the representatives of several public galleries are expected to be present.

JINGLE ON THE CARNIVAL.—The Carnival! Author's Carnival, so called. No authority for it. Merely a masquerade. And such a mix. But it is very pretty. Bright costumes. Lovely girls. Noble object. Charity. Bad cigars. No smoking. Sensible rule. Man bought a cigar. Attempted to light it. Police put him out. Persevered in the effort. Succeeded. Took three whiffs. Tried to pick the pocket of a wooden Indian. Deliberately took out a life insurance policy. Knew he would outlive the company. Or be sliced up like a pine apple. According to the latest approved methods. He recovered. Life insurance company dead. Total loss. Moral. Let the other man smoke. To return to our mutton. The carnival is gay. It is bright. It is kaleidoscopic. Occasionally it is hot. But there is lots of lemonade. And stomach ache. Such fun. Romantic young man. Gaily clad. Noble courtier. Knee breeches. Slim shanks. Much tinsel. Built like a lead pencil. Equally romantic young lady. Gorgeously equipped. But stout. And hearty. They promenade. He suggests lemonade. And ice cream. Not to mention cake. This pleases her. Strawberries! Of course. They flirt. He would be were a glove. I look upon him as a muff. Time to settle. Young man in a pickle. Money in his other clothes. Humiliating confession. Romance all gone. He now wants money. And pain killer. The gallant knight is meek. Red as a rose is the girl. The reckless youth retires. He smiles a sickly smile. His dream of love is o'er. Next. I like carnivals. They are generally so solemn. You don't expect fun at a funeral. It would be out of place. This carnival is quite merry. It is light and cheerful. It would tickle some authors. Others would roll over in their graves and groan. Everybody is represented. From JOSEPHINE to Mrs. E. D. E. N. Southworth. The Dime Novel is also represented. Nobody reads COOPER. The New York Ledger is more popular. Historical characters are ably represented. By young people who never read history. They are not prejudiced. They can sell gum gums just as well. "Please buy this." "Do take a chance." Only ten cents, and so utterly useless. Copied from a church sociable. With a flavor of Niagara Fall. Just like a religious circus.

Or a theological caravan. It brings out human nature. Shows our liking for gay colors. Proves this conclusively. We are all actors. Or think we are. Much the same thing. Supplies a public want. Times are hard. We want cheap amusements. Cheap funerals. Cheap cigars. Don't fail to go. Buy a coupon ticket. It will pay—the other party. Encourage the authors. This is what they wrote for. Really it is worth more than one visit. The booths are attractive. The girls are as lovely as strawberry ice. There is a perfect avalanche of them. But the funniest part of the show is this: The passing crowd.—ALFRED JINGLE, in Buffalo Every Saturday.

A HANDSOME LIBRARY FOR NOTHING!

At the Toronto Agency of the
LI-QUOR TEA Co. of LONDON, Eng.,
295 Yonge Street,
xiii-2-3m 6 Doors north of Cruckshank.

Grip and Scribner only $5.00.

SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY,

Conducted by J. G. HOLLAND.

The Handsomest Illustrated Magazine in the World.

The American edition of this periodical is

More than 70,000 Monthly,

And it has a larger circulation in England than any other American magazine. Every number contains about one hundred and fifty pages, and from fifty to seventy-five original wood-cut illustrations. Several illustrated articles descriptive of Canadian Sports and Scenery have recently appeared in its pages, and the magazine during the coming year will devote much space to matters of special interest to the Canadian public.

"HAWORTH'S" by Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett, author of "That Lass o' Lowrie's." The scene of Mrs. Burnett's new novel is laid in Lancashire; the hero is a young immigrant life in a Western settlement. "Haworth's" is the longest story Mrs. Burnett has yet written. It will run through twelve numbers of the Monthly, beginning with November, 1878, and will be profusely illustrated.

FALCONBERG, by H. H. Boyeson, author of "Gunnar," "The Man who Lost his Name," &c. In this romance the author graphically describes the peculiarities of Norse immigrant life in a Western settlement. Some of the incidents will be found of very curious interest, this being a study of a phase of life in the New World with which few Americans, even, are familiar. "Falconberg" began in the August number of 1878.

A STORY OF NEW ORLEANS, by George W. Cable. This story will exhibit the state of society in Creole Louisiana about the years 1802-4-5, the time of the Cession, and a period bearing a remarkable likeness to the present Reconstruction period.

PORTRAITS OF AMERICAN POETS. This series will be continued, that of Longfellow appearing in November. These portraits are drawn from life by Wyatt Eaton and engraved by T. Cole. They will be printed separately on tinted paper, as frontispieces of four different numbers. Illustrated sketches of the lives of the poets will accompany these portraits.

STUDIES IN THE SIERRAS.—A series of papers (mostly illustrated) by John P. Muir, the California naturalist. These are the most graphic and picturesque, and at the same time exact and trustworthy studies of "The California Alps" that have yet been made. The series will sketch the California Passes, Lakes, Meadows, Wind Storms and Forests.

A NEW VIEW OF BRAZIL. Mr. Herbert H. Smith, of Cornell University, a companion of the late Prof. Hartt, is now in Brazil. Mr. J. Wells Champney (the artist who accompanied Mr. Edward King in his tour through "The Great South"), preparing for SCRIBNER a series of papers on the present condition,—the cities, the rivers and general resources of the great empire of South America.

THE "JOHNNY REB" PAPERS, by an "ex-Confederate" soldier, will be among the raciest contributions to SCRIBNER during the coming year. They are written and illustrated by Mr. Allen C. Redwood, of Baltimore. The first of the series, "Johnny Reb at play," appears in the November number.

THE LEADING EUROPEAN UNIVERSITIES. We are now having prepared, for SCRIBNER, articles on the leading Universities of Europe. They will be written by an American College Professor, Mr. H. H. Boyeson, of Cornell (author of "Falconberg," &c.), and will include sketches of the leading men in each of the most important Universities of Great Britain and the Continent, their methods of teaching, &c.

Among the additional series of papers to appear may be mentioned those on How Shall We Spell (two papers by Prof. LOUNSBURY), The New South, Law-Planting for Small Places (by SAMUEL PARSONS, of Flushing, Canada), To-day, American Art and Artists, American Archaeology, Modern Inventors; also Papers of Travel, History, Physical Science, Studies in Literature, Political and Social Science, Stories, Poems; "Topics of the Time," by Dr. J. G. Holland; record of New Inventions and Mechanical Improvements; Papers on Education, Decoration, &c.; Book Reviews; fresh bits of Wit and Humor, &c., &c., &c.

Terms, 4.00 a year in advance; 35 cents a number.

SCRIBNER & CO., 743 & 745 Broadway, New-York.

Subscriptions received at GRIP Office.

Stage Whispers.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—TONY PASTOR'S double company is announced to appear to-night and to-morrow (Saturday) afternoon and evening. Those who had the pleasure of hearing his company on a previous visit will be glad of another opportunity, and any who enjoy a high class variety entertainment we would say hear the toniest of the tony.

FRANK MAYO is going to Europe to play Davy Crockett.

Next season JOE JEFFERSON will have a company of his own.

CHANFRAU has got a new play written by a member of the New York Bar.

M'LE MORLACCHI and her husband TEXAS JACK, are to retire from the stage.

ABBEY & SCHOEFFEL paid LOTTA $5100 a week and all her expenses during her recent tour.

MR. HENRY S. LEIGH'S new piece for the London Gaiety is to be called The Great Casimir.

MR. and MRS. GEORGE H. KNIGHT go to England, under the management of H. J. SARGENT.

MR. and MRS. CHARLES WOLCOT are considering an offer for a professional tour in Australia.

BYRON is writing an extravaganza called Dundreary's Private Theatricals for SOTHERN, who will produce it first in America.

The spot chosen by Mr. J. L. TOOLE for his new theatre in London is at the corner of the Strand and King William street.

VICTORIEN SARDOU'S Martha has been translated for Miss MAGGIE MITCHELL by MR. BARTON HILL with the approval of the author.

It is said that Mr. CHARLES FECHTER has been solicited to play in Mr. CHARLES READE'S version of L'Assommoir at the Princess's Theatre, London.

The opera which ARTHUR SULLIVAN and Mr. GILBERT are preparing for this country is said to treat military affairs in the same spirit as naval affairs are treated in Pinafore.

MR. WILLIAM SHAKSPERE, the well-known English tenor singer, recently appeared at the Memorial Theatre at Stratford-on-Avon, and caused a sensation by his resemblance to the familiar busts of his great namesake.

Miss ALICE CHANDOS has sailed for Europe. She goes to London under two months engagement to create a Yankee dialect part in a new play called Foreign Relations. She will return to New York by the middle of August.

Theatrical realism has gone a long way in a recent performance of Pinafore by a Boston company at Halifax, N. S. The boatswain's mate of H. M. S. Griffon volunteered and "piped the side" when SIR JOSEPH came aboard. A real sailor from the same ship ran up the signals, and the yard furnished the bell, binnacle and masthead light six brass guns, piles of shot and belaying pins, with a bugler, marines and gunners. Then when the piece had been played and the curtain had fallen the Yankee vocalists were entertained on board the Griffon by the officers and were afforded every opportunity of inspecting the ship and of becoming familiar with the regulations of the "Queen's navee." If the Boston Pinafore Company do not give the thing with absolute nicety hereafter they must be land-lubbers, indeed.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

By BENGOUGH Bro's, Proprietors. Office:—Imperial Buildings, next to the Post Office, Adelaide Street, Toronto. GEO. BENGOUGH, Business Manager.

Original contributions paid for. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned. Literary and Business communications to be addressed to BENGOUGH Bro's.

SUBSCRIPTION TERMS:—Two dollars per year, payable in advance. Subscriptions and advertisements are received at the office, or by WM. R. BURRAGE, General Subscription and Advertising Agent, 26 Adelaide Street East, Toronto.

EDITED AND ILLUSTRATED BY J. W. BENGOUGH.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

Our Competent Critic.

Mr. GRIP has not, up to the present number, attempted to give anything like a critical notice of the works now on view in the Art Exhibition of the Ontario Society. He has merely called attention to the show, and amused himself with a few thumb-nail sketches from the principal works. This apparent indifference to the interest of art needs a word of explanation, in justice to Mr. GRIP's established reputation as a warm patron of all things artistic; and the explanation is, that we have been waiting for the arrival of our specially engaged Competent Critic from Europe. That distinguished personage landed early this week, and immediately went to work. He should have been here a fortnight ago, but states that he was unexpectedly detained in London to advise the Royal Academy upon a delicate hanging matter. Our Competent Critic, like all critics of that kind, works very slowly, as he necessarily must, since he deliberately stakes his reputation on every word, and therefore it need not surprise the reader to learn that the following brief article represents all he has done as yet, notwithstanding the very liberal remuneration he is to receive.

REVIEW.

No. 1. Study of a Female Head. H. R. H. PRINCESS LOUISE. Right royally painted, though cannot be described as finished picture. Complexion well put on and hair done up in good style. Would suggest as companion picture, Study of a Female Head.

No. 3. Sunset, Muskoka. T. M. MARTIN. Very fine, indeed. Stately trees, mellow light, first-class arable land. MARTIN's sun is undoubtedly setting, but his star is in the ascendant. We give this Muskoka a free grant of our commendation.

No. 5. Sheep. By the same. So catalogue says. Does it mean the visitor, or the animals in the picture? Very poor sheep, though apparently fat. Should have put them into his Muskoka landscape. Why didn't he? Anti-emigration fellow suggests that would have been cruelty to animals. Hard on Muskoka.

No. 6. Quinces. F. A. VERNER. Ver'n'r perfection. That patient study should produce such fruit is a natural consequence.

No. 9. "I'd be a Gipsy, merry and free." MRS. SCHREIBER. Study of a young woman who doesn't like housework. Apparently willing her mother should do it all. Loafing in a ten-acre field, without a hat. Why don't she go off and become a pedestrian, or something useful like that? Must ask MRS. SCHREIBER.

No. 10. Canadian Lynx. RICHARD BAIGENT. Typical picture of British connection. Looks shanky about the shanks. Would like to see GOLDWIN SMITH snap this Canadian Lynx.

No. 17. The Patient. H. PERRE. "The gentlemen that pays the rint" has been taken ill and the crisis has arrived—as well as PADDY. The pig has been well rendered and might have been better if it had been interlarded with more bright color, and a more liberal application of the palette knife bestowed.

No. 19. Canadian Fruit. F. A. VERNER. This picture is interesting to our agricultural friends, as showing the mighty effect the N. P. has had on the fruits of the earth. The portrait of a bronze plate, grown here, shows the prolific nature of the soil.

No. 32. A Widgeon. T. M. MARTIN. An excellent example of painting and graining. The composition of this picture is quite o-widgeon-al, although this is not the artist's first appearance on the boards. It is a really fine and clever work, with the exception of the bird, which would stand a more careful study of de-tail.

No. 52. Preparing for a Smoke. W. RAPHAEL. Hard to find a match for this, though certainly not up to Mr. RAPHAEL's previous production called "The Transfiguration."

No. 67. Study of a Child. O. R. JACOB. This picture is not for sale. For which we are thankful. But what could this child have done to the artist that he should have taken such a merciless revenge upon it?

(To be Continued.)

NOTE.—On receiving the above MS. from Our Competent, we gave him something on account, whereupon his eye was seen to sparkle. We hope he is a teetotaler. We will know in the course of the week.

Gentlemen.

Before I saw that article in the Mail informing me that we Canucks are all gentlemen, either descendants of the Grande Seigneurs of France, or greater still, noble scions of old country officers of the "retired list," I hardly knew what was the matter with me. "What's the reason I don't want to work on this doggoned old farm?" was a question I often asked myself, while splitting rails or manipulating the graceful log-chain at a "bee." I always had an inward consciousness that I was born for greater things than feeding cattle and doing chores "to hum." That article of the Mail has settled it, and I have finally concluded on cutting the farm, and becoming a professional man of some sort. Law would suit me, I know. I tell you I'm immense in argument at our debating society at the school house on the Town line. In the first place I would be an undisputed gentleman (by act of Parliament), and perhaps become a great special pleader like JIMMY BETHUNE, ED. BLAKE or some of those chaps, who carry a red bag chock full of briefs, and have my name appear in legal documents, as Mr. UNDERBRUSH, Q.C., counsel for so and so. That would be immense. Perhaps after a time I would be UNDERBRUSH, J., and be "beloved" by Her Majesty. I think I'll try it. The only thing required is money, and that I lack. If I only knew enough law to raise money on my "individual interest in the south-west portion of the north-east half of the south half of Lot No. 21, in the concession lying south, south-west of the Corduroy road," I would be solid.

Unfortunately, lawyers as a rule don't pay their hired men much. A feller by the name of NEWMAN NOGGS, who wore brass paper fasteners by way of shirt-studs, told me he kept books and wrote all day for a swell law firm, "for and in consideration in hand to him well and truly paid by the said S. L. F., of the sum of four dollars of lawful money of Canada per week, with the proviso everything herein or hereout, to the contrary notwithstanding, that his the said N. N.'s stipend should be reduced to a greater or less extent during the long vacation, when he the said N. N. could take advantage of the warm weather and bivouac in High Park, or other local rustic situation not in this agreement mentioned, thereby saving a weekly outlay for lodgings, amounting to the sum deducted from his wages during the said vacation as aforesaid, as is hereby specially agreed." My friend Mr. NOGGS added that he made it a rule never to ask more than four dollars, because the only time he was offered and engaged for a larger sum than this there was default made in payment, and as he very truly remarked, "$5.00 a week is too much to be beat out of." Mr. N. strongly advised me to give up the notion of law; suggested a position on the geological staff of city, or a quarter-mastership on one of the tenders to the dredge at the Esplanade. I would not hear of the like; told him I must be a gentleman; whereupon he flashed up and expressed himself after the manner following, that is to say: "Why, all those miserable shysters call themselves gentlemen. Most of them belong to the 'Club.' If you want to go into law, find out some respectable firm, but look out for the 'shysters.' They are mean enough to cheat a poor widow out of her hard earnings; bilk their poor clients out of their dues when recovered at law; or beat their half-starved employees out of the wages due them. There are not meaner petty larceny thieves in the Central Prison than a good number I know among the 'Act of Parliament gentlemen.'" And Mr. NOGGS, producing a five-cent sandwich in an official envelope, said he would go down to the Esplanade for a "lunch."

AND so it is to be Sir LEONARD instead of Sir SAMUEL, in the case of TILLEY, Kt. This is the doing of the Premier; and what it somebody should cut the RICHARD off in the case of CARTWRIGHT, Kt., and make him Sir JOHN? It is appalling to think what the consequence might be of having two Sir JOHNS in the same House with such a violent affection for one another as these two gallant knights have.

The Rose-Belford Monthly for June is on our table—a good, solid number. Amongst the contents we note a sonnet by GOWAN LEA, of Montreal. Subject, Love, of course. Sweet and refined enough to do credit to REDPATH himself. FRED. A. DIXON, of Ottawa, tells what he knows about Dinners and Dinners. Exhibits a profound knowledge of gourmand literature, and an amazing appetite for one so young. "FIDELIS" expatiates upon the New Ideal of Womanhood, and gives notice that the gals are going to carry their own trains, literally and figuratively. T. C. B. FRASER writes on the Growth of the Post Office. No reference to the superabundance of employees in the Toronto branch. Miss BELLE CAMPBELL makes her debut as an authoress with "Margaret's Sorrow," a touching little story, all about a nice young lady who—but perhaps you had better read it for yourself, as well as the other articles which we haven't space to particularize.

A Great Souller.

Mr. GRIP has much pleasure in presenting the public with a copy of the portrait of Mr. ANGUS MORRISON which was unveiled at the entertainment of the Toronto Rowing Club last Saturday. That is, a copy of the original with a few alterations and improvements suggested by the Club fellows, whose President the genial ANGUS is. A brief account of this celebrated oarsman will, no doubt, be interesting to our citizens. He made his first appearance on the water in 1840, when eighteen years of age, and carried off the championship of the Toronto Bay, being the first man in the world to achieve that honor. His next effort was as one of the Law Student crew, in a match rowed for admission to the Bar. This was the hardest pull of his life, but fortunately it did not prove fatal. ANGUS was now on the high rowed to success. He determined to win his way to fame and fortune by the use of his scull, so he took the first opportunity to make a match for the Parliamentary cup, which he was lucky enough to win. He subsequently carried off the Mayor's chair several times. On the appearance of HANLAN, Mr. MORRISON retired from active practice, not wishing to stand in the way of a promising young oarsman. He now devotes himself mainly to the after-dinner aspect of athletics, and takes pleasure in telling the rising generation about the famous victories he has won by the use of his scull, backed by his good nature.

JOHN BULL'S LATEST THEORY.

"Oh, 'ANLAN, its hall up now! We've discovered your secret! Its hall in the twist hof the wrist, my boy!"

Brudder Gardner in Toronto.

One day last week this city was honored with a visit from Brother GARDNER, President of the Detroit Lime-Kiln Club. The distinguished gentleman came upon the invitation of his colored brethren of St. John's Ward, and by kind permission of M. QUAD, of the Free Press. He was met at the station by a select deputation of gentlemen, representing the Ethiopian population of the city. An address of welcome was read, after which the illustrious Brother held a Reception in the general waiting room, at which formal introductions were given to many prominent colored citizens. These exercises being over, Brother GARDNER was escorted to an elegant vehicle belonging to Mr. PEABLOSSOM CHROMO, the whitewash artist of York street, and driven to the residence of GEORGE WASHINGTON BRINDLEBLOOM, Esq., the recognized leader of the colored society of Toronto. In the evening the meeting which the famous visitor had come to attend was held in Zulu Hall, Chestnut street, that handsome edifice being crowded to the door by a most intelligent and interested assembly. Promptly at eight o'clock, Brother GARDNER ascended the platform, accompanied by Mr. G. W. BRINDLEBLOOM, who, in a few choice words, introduced him to the audience. On stepping forward the great philosopher was received with enthusiastic applause. Silence at length being restored, he spoke as follows:

"Respeck'd Frens and feller pussons ob colour: I feel de greatest ob consternation an' demonstration in standin' for the fust time on de sile ob de British Empiah, and to feel de salubrious influence ob de presence ob de monarkal fawm ob gov'ment. I am glad to hab de opporchunity of coming to dis city of Toronto, whar I observe de culled people enjies all de blessings of eddication and open peanut stands equally de same as what dey do in Detroit. But dar's one dey don't enjie, and de reason I have ben sent fo' for to come heah, is because dey don't enjie it. I refer to political influence. De culled people of Canady, I am infomed, don't get a fair shake in electin' of members to de Parlymint, and de objec of dis visit is fo' de puppos of establishin' an' lyin' de foundation of a branch of dat grand instiitooction, de Lime-Kiln Club, in dis city. Dat Club, as you mus be 'war, has done moah fo' de culled folks ob de States dan any instiitooction sence de days of HAM, an' it can do de same fo' you. Whar ever de citizen ob color am crushed undah de brazen huf ob anarchy, and de nihilism ob humanity busts in a storm upon de fenceless widow and chillen, dar you find de Lime-Kiln Club standin' up fo' de rights ob man an' so much a squar yard fo' white-washin! (cheers). De Branch Club I propose settin' up heah, will take in de literary, de morail, an' de domestic interests ob de people, an' encurrige a love fo' art an' chickens; it will do all dat, but de chief objec' of it am to secure to de culled citizen de right ob havin' culled members in de House. We heah de Irish shoutin' 'bout justice to de Catholics, an' de Scotch, dey won't stand no nonsinse, but must have a finger in de porridge, and why shud de Ethiopean git de bounce? We're detarmined dat we won't stand it, gemmen. We've sot down our foot, an' demand culled members. De gin'ral election is too fur gone to do anything jis now, but we kin git our Club into shape, an' agitate, agitate, agitate! Let us begin de good work, an' when de nex' lection comes round, if we use de genius what we got, de party managers will find dat besides de Irish Catholics havin' dar candidates on both sides, dar will also be a nigger on de fence! (Loud and prolonged cheers, amid which the distinguished gentleman resumed his seat).

Particulars of the future proceedings of the evening will be given in our next.

TORONTO HUNT CLUB SKETCHES.—No. 2.
DE MUGGINS is in at the death and secures the brush!

A Gentle Hint.

A correspondent, whom the editor describes as a "well educated and accomplished young lady," writes to the Berlin News giving her impressions of that town, where she is at present staying on a visit. She is highly pleased with the place, and closes her letter by saying: "I wouldn't object very much myself to leave my city home and make my abode here, were suitable circumstances to arise." If this happened to be leap year, we should feel disposed to compliment the fair correspondent on the neatness of her hint to the young fellows of Berlin. Calling an eligible party a "suitable circumstance" is good, and we hope something of the sort will arise, and pop the question before the young lady's visit is over.

We call the attention of the author of "Natural Selection" to the interesting fact that nine paragraphs out of ten in the American funny papers have the mule for their subject.

WAITING FOR A GLIMPSE OF THE DUKE OF ARGYLE.

“SEE THE CONQUERING HERO COMES!!”

THE JOKER CLUB.

"The Fun is mightier than the Sword."

Love knots should be tied with a single beau.—Hartford Journal.

"When taken to be well shaken:" The boy that upset your ash-barrel.—N. Y. News.

Toronto is a loud city. Her rower surpasses that of the British lion.—Stamford Advocate.

Spelling matches are about to be revived. Words that make trouble will be put out.—Fon du Lac Reporter.

A great many young men measure their affections by the length of their girls' silk dress trains.—Lambton.

It doesn't follow that a person with a false set of teeth should have a falsetto voice.—Danielsonville Sentinel.

The last new book is entitled, "What Shall My son Be?" Why, he'll be a boy, of course.—Rockland Courier.

It is the young man that asks for the young lady's hand and receives it that carries off the palm.—Yonkers Statesman.

It is perfectly surprising how much some men know about things they know nothing about.—St. Iliac Lumberman.

There is nothing so deceiving as the orange peel and nothing so real as the sidewalk under it.—Marathon Independent.

The contemplative doctor strolls through the cemetery and sees his patients on a monument.—Chicago Commercial Advertiser.

Stick to the farm, young fellow, particularly if you flounder in a quagmire, and no one is near to help you from sticking.—N. Y. News.

JOHNNY laughed when his grandmother fell down stairs, and his mother got away with him six slaps to the smile.—Steubenville Herald.

Nothing will more remind a man of the value of little things than a plate of strawberries at a church festival.—Middletown Transcript.

Extremes—A lady clutching her dress to save it from the mud meeting a gentleman grabbing his hat by the crown in order to bow.—Syracuse Sunday Times.

"Oh, solitude, where are the charms that sages have seen in thy face?" ALEX., why didn't you ask at the shops where the don't advertise.—Turners Falls Reporter.

Trying at the same time to drink in the beauties of the bonnets of two ladies who are walking in opposite directions has made many females crosseyed for life.—Uncle Sam.

Scene: Cambridge High School, class in mythology. Teacher—Who was Hebe? First girl—Wife of Hercules, and first cousin of Sir Joseph Porter, K. C. B.—Harvard Crimson.

Now goeth the small boy to swim 'Gainst the wishes of Ma. The pretence That he makes for his shirt being turned, He "did it in climbing the fence."

—Bradford Era.

New York proposes to call back its Pinafore companies before the next census is taken. If it don't there is no knowing where the balance of power will light.—Bridgeport Standard.

The most interesting part of a circus performance is when the big, fat clown mops the perspiration from his brow and gently murmurs, "Kiss me mother, kiss your darling."—Waterloo Observer.

Did you ever notice how carefully a woman fills the bottom of the clock with trash, and with what good taste the key is hung upon the wall fully two yards out of a fellow's reach?—N. Y. Express.

Most of us pass our lives regretting the past, complaining of the present, and indulging false hopes of the future, when it would be vastly better to cut a pole, dig some bait and go fishing.—Oil City Derrick.

Monkeys that emigrate to this country generally obtain good positions. Some few become connected with the circus, but the majority manage to secure situations as collectors for organ grinders.—Chila Chronicle.

An ethereal maiden called Maud, Was suspected of being a fraud.

Scarce a crumb was she able

To eat at the table—

But in the back pantry * * * O lawd!

Said cynical SIMONDS, "I tell you they are all alike, all alike. Every man has his price. There's no gainsaying it." "Very true," replied JONES, mildly; "there is no gain saying it, even if it were true."—Boston Transcript.

It doesn't take long for a rural neighborhood to find out what kind of carpets and furniture a newly-arrived family possesses, after the usual round of formal calls have been made by observing women.—Turners Falls Reporter.

It is said of a suburban lass of forty-five summers that trading in Danbury, and having five cents her due, and being offered a five cent cake of soap to settle with, she refused, naively saying: "I have no use for it."—Danbury News.

Spring is a very pleasant season, with its cool mornings, its balmy days, its wealth of buds and blossoms, its early, fresh vegetables, and all that, but one never can tell when a man with the odour of spring onions on his breath is going to tackle him and tell a long story.—Ex.

There is one thing which seems unaccountable to the average city fisherman, and that is, that an overgrown, awkward, saucy boy with a bean pole for a fishing rod and cotton twine for a line, will catch more fish than he with his fancy jointed rod and fine silken line.—Ex.

"Papa," said a bright little girl at the breakfast table the other morning, "Do you know why our kitten is called a Maltese?" "On account of its colour," was the reply. "Oh, no, that's not the reason," persisted she. "What then, my child?" "It's because I mauled him and MAY teases him."—Geneva Gazette.

The gay and festive soda fount
Now sizzles in the land,
And Deacon and good Mrs. Jones
Around the counter stand.

The lady's gentle nectarine
Within the glass is fizzin';
The deacon slyly winks and says
He'll take the same in his'n.

—Rochester Express.

An Irishman who had listened very attentively to a sermon on Sunday was asked by the priest the next day how he liked the discourse. "Oh, very much, your riverance," said MIKE. "Then it suited you, did it?" said the good father. "Faith, it did that," said MIKE; "it was the best I ever heard. I should loike to see it in print, for I never understud a word of it."—Rome Sentinel.

The Winnipeg papers have got it bad. Look at this:—"HANLAN has such winning ways."—Free Press. Oh, give oar, please give oar.—Times. We shall not; we're hanlan this thing racefully ourselves.—Free Press. That last effort is, we are certain, the production of a single scull.—Times. Not a numb scull as you rowin' is.—Free Press. These Winnipeg papers seem to feather high, and put in long, sweeping strokes, as it were.—Thunder Bay Sentinel.

Blowing into the muzzle of a shot gun is a standard method of producing newspaper items. It remains for a young lad down town to introduce a variation. The street hose wouldn't work; the water was turned on at the spigot all right, but there seemed to be an obstruction. He placed his mouth completely over the end of the nozzle and blowed just once. The pressure of the whole reservoir suddenly broke loose, concentrated into that one nozzle. The lad let go with his mouth and sat down about fifty feet away, down the street, and he has not yet been relieved of the impression that his brain is watersoaked.—New Haven Register.

The natural world is full of illusions. The apparent rising and setting of the sun, the gorgeous clouds that prove to be only a dreary mist when you get caught in them, the mirage that reveals things below the horizon and shows us ships sailing keel up in the air, the coming together to a point of two right lines when seen in perspective, the mistake of supposing the train in which we are seated to be in motion when another train at our side begins to start, the deceptive ideas that we have of distance, as in the instance of a lofty mountain, which may seem to be close at hand, when, in fact, it is scores of miles away; these are all considered illusions, as the world goes, but a man never fully realizes what constitutes a full-blooded illusion until he attempts to eat a rare done egg with a fork.—Oil City Derrick.

By the way, I met Mr. NELSON, of the American Express Company, when I went up the river. He is a capital traveling companion, and a brother-in-law of Captain MCKELL, of Burlington. On one of his trips up the river there were a lot of raftmen among his fellow-passengers. One of these useful, but unostentatious, men sat next to NELSON at the supper table. The lumber navigator took a large baked potato, broke it in two, gouged a hole in one half with his knife, filled the hole with butter, and then he thrust the seething, blistering mass in his mouth. He didn't hold it there very long, however. He just shut his mouth down on it once, and then with a wild, startling expression on his countenance, he turned his head over his shoulder and fiercely spat the offending potato out on the floor. Then he looked defiantly up and down the cabin and listened for comment, but hearing none, he turned to NELSON, and in firm, self-approving tones, with the air of a man who had met the emergency and was equal to it, remarked, "Many a blamed fool would have swallowed that ar!"—Burlington Hawkeye.

K. M. G.

BY HER LADYSHIP.

When I was young I used to go
With pail in hand to the fields below,
For to milk the cows in the dewy grass,
And cultivate the lettuce and the graden sass;
I'd root up the sassafras to make our tea,
And dance "French fours" at a paring bee;
It was then that HANK came a courting me,
And now he is Sir HENRY and a K. M. G.

I married HANK, and in good time
We cut the old farm for the dry-goods line;
We sold our calicoes, pantaloons and coats,
And traded for butter, and barley and oats;
The barley and butter we would sell for cash,
So we made plenty money and could cut a dash;
We spent our money so skilfullee
That now I'm the wife of a K. M. G.

In township Councils HANK got such a name
That in a short time an M.P. he became,
He palavered with the Premier, with the French "parley vou'd,"
Till he soon on the floor at a front desk stood.
He didn't say much, but he voted all right,
And he brought in his colleagues when they were very tight,
And for thus "supporting" them so earnest-
lee,

He now is a swell and a K. M. G.

I've often sighed for a carriage and pair,
Or a brougham or a barouche just to take the air,
I long for a coachman with a gold hat-band,
And footman behind in uniform to stand,
As befitting a lady of high degree
Whose husband is a Knight and a K. M. G.

L'Envoi.

I sometimes think in a reverse
Could I ever have danced at a paring bee?

Our Own Dick Deadeye;

OR, PLAIN WORDS FROM A PLAIN HAND.

"I have heard it stated," says the Marquis of LORNE, "that one of the many causes of the gross ignorance which prevails abroad with reference to our beautiful climate is owing to the persistence with which our photographers love to represent chiefly our winter scenes." Quite true, me lud, only it is the sitters, and not the photographers, who love to make our country ridiculous in this way; and those sitters are usually old country people of more or less noble blood, who get themselves "took" knee deep in snow for the express purpose of enlightening the friends at home.

EDWARD BLAKE addressed immense and enthusiastic audiences in several places during the past week. Why can't we induce this gifted orator to go on the lecture platform occasionally, with a subject aside from politics?

The leading statesmen of all other countries make more or less figure in art and literature; is it possible that our party Chiefs have no knowledge of anything beyond the little strategies of our pigmy politics? Surely it would be a grateful change for all concerned if they would once in a while devote their talents to other things.

I don't think I ever heard so much bosh talked in the course of my long political life as I have heard within the past few weeks in connection with the Local contest, which is now happily over.

GREAT WESTERN RAILWAY.
PASSENGERSFOR
Manitoba, the North West Territories,
OR ANY POINT IN

WESTERN CANADA OR THE UNITED STATES,
Should remember that this is the most comfortable and direct route; and the only line in Canada running the
CELEBRATED DINING CARS,
in connection with the Michigan Central R. Rd., between Suspension Bridge and Chicago. Wagner's Sleeping Cars attached to all Night Trains, Parlor Cars to Day Trains.

THROUGH TICKETS by this Popular Route can be obtained at Lowest Rates at All Principal Stations, and from Agents representing the Line throughout Canada.
F. BROUGHTON,
Gen. Manager.

xii-22-121.

Scientific American.

THIRTY-FOURTH YEAR.

The Most Popular Scientific Paper in the World
Only $3.20 a Year, including Postage. Weekly.
52 Numbers a Year. 4,000 page pages.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN is a large First-Class Weekly Newspaper of Sixteen Pages, printed in the most beautiful style, profusely illustrated with splendid engravings, representing the newest Inventions and the most recent Advances in the Arts and Sciences; including New and Interesting Facts in Agriculture, Horticulture, the Home, Health, Medical Progress, Social Science, Natural History, Geology, Astronomy. The most valuable practical papers, by eminent writers in all departments of Science, will be found in the Scientific American.

Terms, $2.20 per year; $1.60 half year, which includes postage. Discount to Agents. Single copies ten cents. Sold by all Newsdealers. Remit by postal order to MUNN & CO., Publishers, 37 Park Row, New York.

PATENTS. In connection with the Scientific American, Messrs. MUNN & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, have had 34 years experience, and now have the largest establishment in the world. Patents are obtained on the best terms. A special notice is made in the Scientific American, of all Inventions patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. By the immense circulation thus given, public attention is directed to the merits of the new patent, and sales or introduction often easily effected.

Any person who has made a new discovery or invention, can ascertain, free of charge, whether a patent can probably be obtained, by writing to the undersigned. We also send free our Hand Book about the Patent Laws, Patents, Caveats, Trade-Marks, their costs, and how procured, with hints for procuring advances on inventions. Address for Paper or concerning Patents, MUNN & CO., 37 Park Row, New-York.

Subscriptions received by BENGUGH BROS., Toronto.

Financial.$10 TO 1000

Invested in Wall St. Stocks makes fortunes every month.
Book sent free explaining everything.

Address BAXTER & Co., Bankers, 17 Wall St., N. Y.
xi-20-1v

Historical.

"The Chicago Tribune says: "Napoleon's war-cry was: 'Up Guards, and at 'em!'" This is evidence of the rapid advance of historic knowledge in the West. It was Wellington who cried at Waterloo: "Up, Guards, and at 'em!" When a man undertakes to write for a newspaper he should not make his pen talk nonsense."
—New York Mercury.

Dear friend, neither Napoleon nor Wellington used the words, so that historic knowledge may still be regarded as evenly balanced between the east and the west. The words were first put into Wellington's mouth by an enthusiastic penny-a-liner, who was hundreds of miles from Waterloo on the day of the battle.—London Herald.

Well now, are you sure it wasn't your contemporary the Advertiser who first used the words. "Up guards and at 'em!" on Thursday last, addressing the emigrants so basely maligning by Mr. TAYLOR. You remember that Mr. T. stigmatized them as—guards.

Many of our fashionable churches have tony pastors.

I have a notion to establish a lecture bureau, and provide a popular course next season. How would this list do: "Irish Oratory," Mr. EDWARD BLAKE; "Poesy," Mr. BURR PLUMB; "Macchiavellei," Sir JOHN A. MACDONALD; "The Temperance Reform," Sir SAM. L. TILLEY; "Journalism," Mr. GEO. BROWN, etc., etc. I believe these lectures would be liberally patronized and do an immense amount of good. This is not a joke.

* * *

A correspondent of the Canada Presbyterian comes up to time this week and gives the Globe a 'solid hit between the eyes for its hypocrisy in condemning prize-fighting, and at the same time giving a detailed account of the DWYER-ELLIOTT brutality. Quite right; 'twas a most arrant piece of 'Uriah Heapism, done for the sake of a few bawbees. But why not include the Mail sinner, Mr. Correspondent? They were both in the same miserable boat.

* * *

GEORGE BROWN may be the Dictator that Conservatives paint him, but he certainly occupies more space in the editorial columns of the Telegram than he does in the ranks of the Party.

* * *

Mr. GOLDWIN SMITH made a clumsy blunder when he called Gritism "Calvinism in Politics." He intended it as a sneer, when in point of fact it was a high and, unfortunately, undeserved compliment. This would be a happy country if all its people acted on the principles of Calvinism.

* * *

Let this knighting business go on a little longer and we will be obliged to distinguish gentlemen of mark by calling them Mistfers.

* * *

The preliminary sparring on the copper- pyrites charges between HUNTINGTON and WHITE during the session, has culminated in a match for $50,000 damages, to be fought out on the floor of a court house at an early day. I'm glad to hear it, and I devoutly hope that the one who has been telling the lies may get a worse mauling than the wretched ELLIOTT received at Long Point.

* * *

It is stated in the cable despatches that probably Lord CHELMSFORD will ask for a leave of absence from his post in Zululand when Gen. WOLSELEY arrives. This is a neat way of putting it, and recalls forcibly the incident of our late Postmaster asking to be superannuated.

* * *

On behalf of the distinguished Secretary of the U. E. Club, I rise to ask the Dignity of the House of Commons what it proposes to do about that little insult affair.

* * *

I clip this from Monday's Mail:

"The sources whence the Globe derives all its wonderful stock of fresh and accurate information have always been a deep and impenetrable mystery; but after all there was not much in the mystery—there seldom is much in any mystery. A paragraph in a recent issue telegraphed from Ottawa affords a clue to the source of the stream of information which flows forever Globe-wards. It was as follows:—

The workmen and servants at Rideau Hall speak without exception in the warmest manner of the affability displayed by the Princess LOUISE towards them on all occasions."

Over this rather far fetched thrust stood the heading, "Fons et origo mail," which looks as if it might mean—"Such also is the fountain and origin of Mail intelligence."

BRIGADIER GEN. SIR GRIP REVIEWING THE TROOPS AFTER THE TERRIFIC SHAM FIGHT OF THURSDAY, JUNE 5TH.

"Children seem spirits from above descended,
To whom still cleaves heaven's atmosphere serene;
Their very wildnesses with truth are blended;
Fresh from their skiey mould, they cannot be amended."

While we do not profess to improve on nature, all the world in general, and mothers in particular, know that for taking children's pictures in their happiest moods, there are none like J. BRUCE & CO., 118 King St. West.

xii-22-17

CAUTION.
EACH PLUG OF THE
MYRTLE NAVY TOBACCO
IS STAMPED
T. & B.
IN GILT LETTERS.

NONE OTHER IS GENUINE.
xiii-1-3m

M. J. HYNES & BRO.,
Contractors and Plasterers,
HAVE REMOVED FROM 11 VICTORIA TO
102 KING STREET WEST.

BALDNESS!

Neither gasoline, vasoline, carboline, or Allen's, Ayer's, or Hall's hair restorers have produced luxuriant hair on bald heads. That great discovery is due to Mr. Winter-corn, 61 King-street East, (late 132 Church-street), as can be testified to by hundreds of living witnesses in this city and Province. He challenges all the so-called restorers to produce a like result.

Send for circulars.

xii-12-17

The Ontario General Sham Fight.

Official address of Brig. Gen. Sir GRIP, Commander-in-Chief, after the engagement.

BATTERED AND GLORIOUS VETERANS:

I have it in command to convey to you the entire approbation of the Public in General for your admirable soldier-like appearance and general efficiency.

In the terrific combat of June 5th you all did nobly. Those of you who abstained from whiskey, displayed great steadiness.

Where you all did your utmost to secure good government for this Province, I shall make no distinction; I shall name neither PHIPPS nor MACPHERSON. The polling booths were as usual in the most creditable order, and the voters who came, some of them from great distance, during the night, fell into line looking as smart and soldier-like as though just turned out of a guard-house.

It affords me pleasure to state officially, that the cheering at the announcement of the result was simply immense.

The manner in which you marched past the bounds of decorum during the campaign reflected the highest credit upon you.

The field day and sham fight which followed, tried the steadiness of the young troops engaged. The ground was cramped, and the operations were impeded by the crowding in of issues which had no business to be introduced.

The various orders of the leading organs were, however, promptly and efficiently obeyed, and the will of the people has in general been carried out.

HON. G. B., to Globe office "devil"—Boy, did you carry yon proofs to the foremen?
Boy—Yes!

HON. G. B.—Hoot! ha'e ye no manners, speakin' yon way, ye urchin! Why canna ye say Sir, when ye speak to me?

Boy—What would I say "Sir" for? you ain't no knight, are you?

A news item says Michigan has gone into peanut culture. And has it come to this, that Detroit cannot import enough peanuts from the markets of the world to satisfy the rapacious appetite of M. QUAD?

THE NEW DOMINION,
3 MONTHS ON TRIAL
FOR 25 CENTS.

A large 8-page, 40-column weekly family paper. The cheapest and best serial ever yet published. Address B. FRANK WILSON, 13 Victoria St., Toronto, Ont., Canada.

TO PHONOGRAPHERS!

PRICE-LIST REVISED APRIL 1, 1879.

Compend of Phonography	5 cts.
Exercises in Phonography,	5
Grammologies and Contractions,	10
Questions on Manual,	15
Selections in Reporting Style,	20
Teacher,	20
Key to Teacher,	20
Reader,	20
Manual,	55
Reporter,	20
Reporting Exercises,	20
Phrase Book,	35
Railway Phrase Book,	25
Covers for holding Note Book,	20
The Reporter's Guide, by Thos. Allan Reid	60
Self-culture, corresponding style,	75
The Book of Psalms, corresponding style,	75
The book of Psalms, cloth	75
Common Prayer, morocco, with gilt edges	$2.80
The Other Life, cloth	50
New Testament, reporting style,	$2.50
Phonographic Dictionary	1.50
Pilgrim's Progress, corresponding style,	55
Pilgrim's Progress, cloth	90
Aesop's Fables, in Learner's Style	20
That Which Money cannot Buy, etc. cor. style	20
Being and Seeming, My Donkey, A Parish Clerk's Tale, etc., cor. style	20
Character of Washington, Speech of George Canning at Plymouth, etc., with printed key, rep.	20
Address of the Earl of Derby, on being installed
Lord Rector of the University of Edinburgh,
etc., rep. style	20
Sent post-paid to any address on receipt of price.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

Next Post Office, Toronto.

FOR TIP TOP LAGER ASK FOR THOS. DAVIES & CO'S.

PUBLISHERS' NOTE.

GRIP is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.

Subscription price, $2 per annum, strictly in advance. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied. BENGOUGH BROS.

USE ONLY

ONTARIO Baking Powder.

Ask your Grocer for it.

MANUFACTORY:

247 King Street West,
TORONTO.

xii-20-17

BENGOUGH BROS.

Are prepared to execute orders for

ENGRAVING

in the highest style of the art.

Type Metal Plates

MADE FROM

Pen and Ink Sketches, Photographs, Lithographs, &c.,

More perfect, true and lasting than any wood engraving, and at a much lower cost. Call and see specimens at

GRIP OFFICE,

Next door to Post Office, Toronto.

Bone Manure!

Pure Bone Meal, warranted best quality. Super-phosphates. Ground bones for Vineries. Rates moderate.

Factory, Esplanade & George Sts.

Address R. POLLOCK,

191 Jarvis St.

xii-3-6m.

TO PRINTERS.

Any printer having a font of Brevier Italic, in good condition Farmer, Little & Co's make, to work with this face will please communicate stating price and sending sample to

BENGOUGH BROS

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY.

The tens of thousands who are making exclusive use of the COOK'S FRIEND Baking Powder, thereby render UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY to its superiority.

Retailed everywhere. xii-12-17

WANTED.—5 cents each will be paid for the following back numbers of GRIP:

Vol. 2.	Nos. 2, 16, 23.
" 3.	" 7, 17, 20, 19, 24.
" 4.	" 1, 2, 4, 5, 6, 7.
" 5.	" 5, 7, 17, 19, 21, 26.
" 6.	" 6, 7, 9, 13, 25.
" 7.	" 4, 12, 20, 21.
" 8.	" 1, 2, 7, 12, 5, 16.
" 9.	" 15.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

TORONTO.

$66 A WEEK in your own town. $5 outfit free. No risk. Reader, if you want a business at which persons of either sex can make great pay all the time they work, write for particulars to H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Me.

GRAND LACROSSE MATCH.

TORONTO LACROSSE CLUB v. ST. REGIS INDIANS.

—ON—

TORONTO LACROSSE CLUB GROUNDS, JARVIS STREET.

Saturday, 11th June Instant, at 3 o'clock.

Admission 25 Cents.

JAS. PEARSON, Hon. Sec'y T. L. C.

(TRADE MARK REGISTERED)

TORONTO, SATURDAY, JUNE 14, 1879.

GRIP OFFICE,
IMPERIAL BUILDING.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

5 CTS. EACH.
$2 PER ANNUM.

JOB LOT MOURNING CARDS, PAPER CLIPS, PEN BACKS, &c.,

AT WHOLESALE PRICES.

BENGOUGH BROS., Toronto.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach GRIP office not later than Wednesday.—Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

$1.50

Will Wash and Rough
Dry 100 Pieces, at the

TORONTO STEAM

LAUNDRY.

Cor. Bay & Wellington.

OFFICE: 65 KING ST. WEST

GERMAN

RYE BREAD,
FAMILY BREAD,
BROWN BREAD,
SNOWFLAKE ROLLS,
CRUMPTON'S BAKERY,

171 KING-ST. EAST.

7 Doors east of Market. xii-20-17

RODWELL & FELL,

Engravers,

And Manufacturers of Rubber and Metal Stamps,

PRESS AND WAX SEALS,

Name Plates, Baggage and Key Checks.

7 Adelaide St. East,

TORONTO.

SKIFF FOR SALE.

A first class cedar skiff, copper-rivvetted, twenty-three feet long, two pairs of oars, carpet and rugs. This skiff is light and capable of carrying half a dozen persons with comfort.

Apply to

P.O. Drawer, 2673.

BEST business you can engage in. $5 to $20 per day made by any worker of either sex, right in their own localities. Particulars and samples worth $5 free. Improve your spare time at this business. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

FARM FOR SALE. 100 ACRES

In the Township of Uxbridge.

Would exchange for entire horse, weighing 1,700 or 1,800 pounds, and not more than 8 years old.

BENGOUGH BROS.

YOU CAN make money faster at work for us than at any thing else. Capital not required; we will start you $12 per day at home made by the industrious Men, women, boys and girls wanted every where to work for us. Now is the time. Costly outfit and terms free. Address, TRUE & Co., Augusta, Me.

COAL AND WOOD,
OF THE BEST QUALITY.

AND AT LOWEST PRICES,

NAIRN'S.

Office, Next Post Office.

Docks, Foot of Church Street.

Literature and Art.

Princess LOUISE has accepted the dedication of a narrative poem, entitled "From the Cradle to the Grave," written by Mrs. A. M. BURGESS.

Mr. RALPH WALDO EMERSON recently gave what it is feared will be his farewell lecture before the students of the Harvard Divinity School.

Mrs. FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT, the author of "Haworth's" and "That Lass o' Lowrie's," has written a tragic story of artist life in Quartier Latin, Paris.

A life of the late Dr. LIVINGSTONE is in progress, under the supervision of his family, bearing especially on his personal and domestic character, and his work as a missionary. The preparation of the book has been entrusted to Prof. BLAICKIE, of Edinburgh.

The Marquis de LORNE is at work upon his book, which is to be called "Travels in the Dominion." It will consist of both poetry and prose, and will be charmingly illustrated by the Princess LOUISE, who is one of the most indefatigable and accomplished of amateur artists.

Mr. RASSAM, who is carrying on the work begun by the late Mr. GEORGE SMITH, has just discovered at Babylon an octagonal cylinder, on the sides of which are engraved a history of the campaign of SENNACHERIB against King HEZEKIAH. This important find is to be sent to London for safe keeping in the British Museum.

The immediate publication is announced of the early poem by ALFRED TENNYSON entitled "The Lover's Tale," which has not hitherto been included among his works. Two only of the three parts have been privately circulated, but the third is quite unknown. Seeing, however, that these first two parts have of late years been printed without his sanction, the author has determined to suffer the whole poem at last to come to light, accompanied with a reprint of the sequel—a work of his mature life—"The Golden Supper."

Some of the literary magnates here are angry with the remarks of Mr. JAMES A. FROUDE, at the literary dinner in London, in which he spoke of BRET HARTE as the "greatest living American writer," and one of the literary authorities thinks such praise is misapplied to a mere "consul at an obscure German port." BRET has never been popular in Boston since he spoke disrespectfully of the Harvard crew in reporting a boat race for the New York Tribune, and generally failed to be as impressed as a Western barbarian should be with the greatness of the University. Mr. HOWELLS is the divinity of this section, though he, too, is a Westerner, for he never fails to glorify the city of culture and constructs novels with plots of the most thrilling description, which hinge upon the important events of caste in society. Hence it is that while HARTE writes for and of humanity, HOWELLS confines himself to the every way superior kind of humanity which is found only in the neighborhood of Boston and Cambridge. But English and other outside barbarians don't know much about this latter kind, and all Mr. HOWELLS' finest situations are lost upon people who don't realize what a thrilling catastrophe impends where the lowly Cincinnati pork dealer's son is almost about to ensnare the heart of a highborn Cambridge lady, whose family have never dealt in anything baser than codfish.—Boston Letter to Detroit Free Press.

A HANDSOME LIBRARY FOR NOTHING!

At the Toronto Agency of the
LI-QUOR TEA Co. of LONDON, Eng.,
295 Yonge Street,
xiii-2-3m 6 Doors north of Cruckshank.

Grip and Scribner only $5.00.

SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY,

Conducted by J. G. HOLLAND.

The Handsomest Illustrated Magazine in the World.

The American edition of this periodical is

More than 70,000 Monthly,

And it has a larger circulation in England than any other American magazine. Every number contains about one hundred and fifty pages, and from fifty to seventy-five original wood-cut illustrations. Several illustrated articles descriptive of Canadian Sports and Scenery have recently appeared in its pages, and the magazine during the coming year will devote much space to matters of special interest to the Canadian public.

"HAWORTH'S" by Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett, author of "That Lass o' Lowrie's." The scene of Mrs. Burnett's new novel is laid in Lancashire; the hero is a young inventor of American birth. "Haworth's" is the longest story Mrs. Burnett has yet written. It will run through twelve numbers of the Monthly, beginning with November, 1878, and will be profusely illustrated.

FALCONBERG, by H. H. Boyesen, author of "Gulnar," "The Man who Lost his Name," &c. In this romance the author graphically describes the peculiarities of Norse immigrant life in a Western settlement. Some of the incidents will be found of very curious interest, this being a study of a phase of life in the New World with which few Americans, even, are familiar. "Falconberg" began in the August number of 1878.

A STORY OF NEW ORLEANS, by George W. Cable. This story will exhibit the state of society in Creole Louisiana about the years 1802-4-5, the time of the Cession, and a period bearing a remarkable likeness to the present Reconstruction period.

PORTRAITS OF AMERICAN POETS. This series will be continued, that of Longfellow appearing in November. These portraits are drawn from life by Wyatt Eaton and engraved by T. Cole. They will be printed separately on tinted paper, as frontispieces of four different numbers. Illustrated sketches of the lives of the poets will accompany these portraits.

STUDIES IN THE SIERRAS.—A series of papers (mostly illustrated) by John P. Muir, the California naturalist. These are the most graphic and picturesque, and at the same time exact and trustworthy studies of "The California Alps" that have yet been made. The series will sketch the California Passes, Lakes, Meadows, Wind Storms and Forests.

A NEW VIEW OF BRAZIL. Mr. Herbert H. Smith, of Cornell University, a companion of the late Prof. Hart, is now in Brazil, with Mr. J. Wells Champney (the artist who accompanied Mr. Edward King in his tour through "The Great South"), preparing for SCRIBNER a series of papers on the present condition—the cities, the rivers and general resources of the great empire of South America.

THE "JOHNNY REB" PAPERS, by an "ex-Confederate" soldier, will be among the rarest contributions to SCRIBNER during the coming year. They are written and illustrated by Mr. Allen C. Redwood, of Baltimore. The first of the series, "Johnny Reb at play," appears in the November number.

THE LEADING EUROPEAN UNIVERSITIES. We are now having prepared, for SCRIBNER, articles on the leading Universities of Europe. They will be written by an American College Professor, Mr. H. H. Boyesen, of Cornell (author of "Falconberg," &c.), and will include sketches of the leading men in each of the most important Universities of Great Britain and the Continent, their methods of teaching, &c.

Among the additional series of papers to appear may be mentioned those on How Shall We Spell (two papers by Prof. LOUNSBURY). The New South, Lawn-Planting for Small Places (by SAMUEL PARSONS, of Flushing), Canada of To-day, American Art and Artists, American Archaeology, Modern Inventors; also Papers of Travel, History, Physical Science, Studies in Literature, Political and Social Science, Stories, Poems; "Topics of the Time," by Dr. J. G. Holland; record of New Inventions; and Mechanical Improvements; Papers on Education, Decoration, &c.; Book Reviews; fresh bits of Wit and Humor, &c., &c., &c.

Terms, 4.00 a year in advance; 35 cents a number.

SCRIBNER & CO., 743 & 745 Broadway, New-York.

Subscriptions received at GRIP Office.

Stage Whispers.

Her London physicians told Miss NEILSON she must choose between leaving the stage and death.

ALBANI and JENNY LIND live in houses nearly opposite in the district known as the Beltons, South Kensington.

Pinafore—new version by the Boston Advertiser: "I hope you treat your crew well, Capt. CORCORAN—and often."

BOUCICAULT plays The Shaughraun in California as an equestrian drama, and CLAIRE rides on the stage on the back of a horse.

The Banker's Daughter brought $125,000 into the treasury of the Union Square, N. Y., of which Mr. HOWARD got $5000 as royalty, and Mr. PALMER $45,000 as profit.

VICTOR HUGO's Ruy Blas, recently reproduced in Paris, was rehearsed seventy-two times before the critics assembled for the first night were allowed to pronounce their opinion.

JAMES GREEN, who a short time ago made his debut as Henry V. in this city, has been engaged by the HELEN BLYE Combination to play leading business; the Company is at present traveling through Ohio.

Mr. EDWIN BOOTH will divide his time this summer between Newport, Saratoga, Long Branch and other watering places. We hope he won't be popped at with anything more dangerous than a champagne cork.

Miss FANNY KEMBLE BUTLER lives now in Queen ANNE'S Mansion in London. Mr. HENRY IRVING has taken her up very sharply in the Theatre for her depreciatory allusions to the stage in her "Recollections."

Father GIOVANNI, the wonderful Roman tenor, is reported to be growing wealthy through his voice. He gets a very large salary for his musical services, and sings also in society. He is getting enormously fat, and his voice appears to grow in proportion.

A San Francisco clothing-dealer is said to have, in good faith, offered LAWRENCE BARRETT $100 a night when playing Hamlet in that city, if he would, after uttering the words, "customary suits of solemn black," add, "The kind they sell at—for $24."—Boston Herald.

Mr. EDWIN BOOTH is quoted as saying of his recent assailant that he is "a dangerous lunatic—nothing more;" but the nervous shock of the occurrence, he says, "has been so severe to both Mrs. Booth and myself that we have been unable to do much more than play nurse to each other since the event."

In a letter to the Baltimore American "JENNIE JUNE" says: "If Fatinita runs all next year, as is considered probable, Mr. DAN HARKINS contemplates 'taking the road,' and is desirous of securing Miss ANNA DICKINSON's new play of Aurelian as his piece de resistance. It is already promised, however, to Mr. BARTON HILL for production at the California Theatre next autumn, Miss DICKINSON to play the part of "Zenobia." This lady is now engaged in writing a play with a strong human motive, in which a woman of the people is the principal character. If it is possible for her to accomplish the difficult task of fitting herself with the part, we may still see in ANNA DICKINSON the great American actress of the future."

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

By BENGOUGH Bro's, Proprietors. Office:—Imperial Buildings, next to the Post Office, Adelaide Street, Toronto. GEO. BENGOUGH, Business Manager.

Original contributions paid for. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned. Literary and Business communications to be addressed to BENGOUGH Bro's.

SUBSCRIPTION TERMS:—Two dollars per year, payable in advance. Subscriptions and advertisements are received at the office, or by WM. R. BURRAGE, General Subscription and Advertising Agent, 26 Adelaide Street East, Toronto.

EDITED AND ILLUSTRATED BY J. W. BENGOUGH.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

The Fifth of June.

Great Speech of Professor Calcimine.

WHAR'S ALL DE ENTHUSIASAM!

What old and classic memories does the word Amphitheatre bring up! Visions of Olympic games, with fierce set-to's between the "fancy" of the period, TOM MILTIADES, of Sparta, and JIM THEMISTOCLES, of Athens, for one hundred talents a side, and the championship of Greece. Not to mention the javelin throwers and all those fellers, who must have been a bad crowd to handle. These reflections arose to my mind as I gazed on a large poster (it was the fifth of June) informing me that for the small consideration of ten cents, I would be able to get the latest intelligence as to the result of the Ontario elections from the different constituencies; furthermore, that the place wherein I could be so enlightened was "The Amphitheatre." Never having been in a regular out-and-out Amphitheatre, I determined to go. So proceeding to the chaste and classic region of James street, I chipped in my dime and entered the sacred enclosure. The place hardly represented the ideal I had conjured up, it having on the whole a snide and, as it were, lumber yardish look in its appointments. The atmosphere alternated between that of a saw mill and a guard house, being at times strongly suggestive of each. I arrived just in time to get a fair opportunity to hear the celebrated Professor CALCIMINE, a powerful orator, and one of the political lights of the Ward. The eloquent gentleman being loudly called for, came forward to the front of the rostrum. His appearance was darkly grand. He was clothed in a customersy suit of solemn black, but it was "not alone his inky cloak" but the commanding and almost Cetewayish presence that caused the outburst of applause as he commenced this SPEECH.

Mistah Speakah, and Gemblem all.—I come befo' you dis evening to delucidate de reasons why I am and always hab been Conservative. I will not enthusamize to much of an extent on de N. P., case brudder TILLEY form St. Bruns, New Johnswick, de odder evening spoke most delapidatedly on dat question. Tell you what it is, my belubbed hearers, dat we don't want no moah shoo fly on de wheel policy for dis kentry. Massa CARTWRIGHT went to England to try to raise money on a shield. Tried to make de people ober dar tink it was silvah; but old BULL couldn't be fooled—no, sah—he turned de shield ober and he found it was brass! and de consecue is, dat now in de old kentry Toronto benches ain't woth a cent—and de benches hab been sent back to Mr. HAY, who made 'em; and dey was mighty good bass-wood benches, too! (cheers). Dat shield business is good enough for a Zulu to fight with, but we don't want no moah of it yar, I tell you (loud applause). Now, gemblem, I'll just 'splain to you de reason why de Grits stayed too long in powah. Why, its because we habn't got enuff of enthusiam, dat's what's de mattah. I see, my hearers, dat de reports coming in is not quite so favoble to de cause as I did expectorate; but, gemblem, if we had shown a little moah enthusiam in de hulchycultural districts dar would hab been a clean sweep; yes, gemblem, in de language ob de Telegram poet,

If we enthuse on the fifth of June,
We'll sweep the country with a bran new broom,

Enthusamism will gain the day
From Ottawa City to Thunder Bay.

(Tumultuous applause.)

(Here the eloquent gentleman after wiping his mouth with a tumbler, proceeded to read several messages just received)

Feller citizens—I hab jest recebed intelligence dat Mistah MOWAT and Mistah CROOKS hab been elected by a majorthy ob two each, and dat Mistah GEORGE BADGEROW WASHINGTON is in fo' East Yawk—(Receives another message)—Feller sufferers (to dissolving crowd) don't go. I want to tell you dat HARDY and de rest ob de Ministars am in, and dat we's all gone coons! oh, my belubbed hearers, whar oh, whar's all de enthusamism?

I, not being able to answer the question, and finding myself alone, stepped down and out the "Amphitheatre."

Our Competent Critic.

We know now. He is not a teetotaler. We are sorry we went to the expense of bringing him out from Europe. He has been quite incapable of doing the art exhibition ever since he got that slight advance on account, and before we can get him sobered up the doors will be closed and the pictures all sold. For the sake of the artists we hope their works won't be sold so badly as we have been with this competent critic. The following fragment of criticism is sent to us by the mistress of the boarding house where the gifted but unsteady individual is staying. It shows what a dilapidated state his mental faculties had got into, and we print it here more as a warning to the young than anything else.

REVIEW, CONTINUED.

78. The Signal. F. A. VERNER. Glad and astonished to find an Indian subject from this artist's brush. The painting 'is full of point, and a noble red-man standing on it, waving a flambeau to apprise his friends that the Toronto's are beaten in three straight games. Would advise Mr. VERNER to make a specialty of Indian subjects; he seems to have great ab-originality.

140. The Glory of the Fall. JOHN A. FRASER. Should have been JOHN A. MACDONALD, who glories in the fall. See? 17th September.

49. Cupid on a bed of Roses. MRS. SCHREIBER. A love of a picture, though not the Cupid our fancy painted. Thought the little deity had ambrosial locks, etc.? Seems not; or else Mrs. S. has made a model of some mundane youngster rolling on the floor preparatory to entering the Saturday night wash tub.

55. Waterfall. F. M. BELL-SMITH. Very disappointing; poor rendering of human hair. Let us shin on to the next.

62. Newsboy. R. HARRIS. The artist is very happy in this; much happier than the newsboy, apparently. He has a stock of Telegrams on hand. That accounts for the depressed look. Let him invest in GRIPS if he wants to prosper.

To the Editor of GRIP:

SIR—I must apologise for failing to keep my promise to send you the poems for the Poetic Academy. I hope that the establishment of that institution has not been delayed in consequence. I began to write one day when the thermometer stood 90° in the shade, but found that though heat may make most things expand, it had not that effect upon my brains. Though, as you doubtless perceive, I am usually gifted with great fluency of expression. Upon that occasion I ransacked my head in vain for an idea. The following week, I was assisting in theatricals which were gotten up to help defray the debt on our new church. Of course, everything must give way to a religious object. I have not yet recovered from the fatigue consequent upon my exertions, so JACK has written a few verses for me. He wishes me to say that he possesses an abundant supply of language and ideas which object to being cramped by rhymes and metre; that upon the few occasions when he has endeavored to express his sentiments in verse, he has experienced a sensation somewhat similar to that which HANLAN would feel, if he had to row in a mill pond and found himself obstructed on all sides by floating timber. He therefore considers it 'bootless labor to attempt to make his feet fit, so you must excuse incorrect metre.

JACK'S POEM.

Musings on the Moon.

This eve while the moon gleamed over the lake,
These solemn reflections mv brain pan did shake:
I considered how bored she must surely be feeling,
But like many a dame her boredom concealing.

Though she constantly looks upon mortal emotion,
Smiles, tears, broken vows or endless devotion.
She gleamingly gazes, as calm in the face
As if little she heeded the whole human race.

For aught we can tell, she's as good as when new,
Nor passe has grown since she made her debut,
Though she's passed over ages still calm she's proceeding,
With that air of repose which stamps dames of good breeding.

MORAL.

Now ladies attend, while I kindly advise,
If the foot prints of Time you'd erase from your eyes,
Have your foreheads unwrinkled, expressio' ne'er acid,
In future, just like the fair Luna, Be Placid.

Jack desires me to say that he is not ungallant enough to think that ladies ever have a vinegary aspect, but acid was the only word he could find to rhyme with placid,

Very sincerely yours,
SU SCEPTIBLE.

In a tavern in Calcutta there is a notice hung on the walls. "Guests are requested not to beat the waiters and servants."—Ex. Of course they are at liberty to beat the landlord.

LAST Thursday's vote had nothing to do with the N. P. The great question decided at the polls was whether Mr. MOWAT was in a better condition to govern this Province than the late Mr. JOHN SANDFIELD MACDONALD. And the people decided that he was.

Mr. GRIP would fain be a tender as well as a faithful father to the little political boys of his household, but he must be faithful at all events, and if any of the boys deserve punishment, he will assuredly not "spare the rod." Just at present he is under the painful necessity of taking CHARLEY TUPPER over his knee, for the disgracefully mean way in which that youth is acting as head of the Railway Department of the Dominion. Reports come from the Lower Provinces, authenticated by journals on both sides, which go to show that CHARLEY TUPPER is a practical believer in that most abominable of Yankee doctrines, "to the victors belong the spoils." He has been ejecting worthy persons from the situations upon which their livelihood depended, purely from political motives, and to make way for his own friends. Even poor, helpless cripples have not been spared at the hands of this pigmy tyrant, and so flagrant have some of his acts of cruel injustice been that they have called forth a protest in formal petition even from such thorough partisans as Mr. DOMVILLE. This demoralization of the Canadian Civil Service, by the dismissal of worthy persons on purely partizan grounds, is in our opinion the most atrocious outrage a Cabinet Minister can commit against the country, whose servant he is, whether he be Grit or Tory; and the Party that will deliberately endorse and applaud such action on the part of its leaders, is unworthy to be entrusted for a day with the control of affairs.

The Duke's Visit.

DONALD.—I'm chust ashamed o' America, altogether. Here is MacCALLUM MORE himself i' the country, an' the folk goin' on wi' their wark as usual!

We learn by Cabul that the Afghan war is over. YAKOOB KHAN now retire.

Politics.

A FARCE IN ONE SCENE.

DRAMATIS PERSONÆ—Club Swell; JOHN, the waiter.

SCENE—U. E. Club. 11:30 p. m. June 5th.—Swell discovered at table, sitting, looking over returns.

SWELL—"Confound their politics!" as the National Anthem hath it! I hate the very idea of politics, and the names of the politicians. The election's over; we're beaten, and I wish to hear no more of it—at least to-night. However, there's no use in repining, I'll order a solace in the shape of a glass of wine—(pulls bell—enter JOHN)

JOHN—Ring, sir?

SWELL—Yes; bring me some wine.

JOHN—Claret, sir? I can bring some excellent claret; very fine—out of the wood.

SWELL—No; confound your claret, and your wood, too!—(bitterly)—we'll have enough of Wood for the next four years.

JOHN—Perhaps, sir, you will try our Native wine from Cookville. It's getting to be a quite fashionable drink, now (smilingly). Foster native industries, you know, sir!

SWELL—(aside)—Politics again! (haughtily)—My good fellow, I'll give you a small piece of advice, which you can foster at your leisure: Be good enough to keep your suggestions to yourself; and see here, bring me a bottle of champagne. Hurry up, will you.

JOHN—(aside)—Hallo! what's the matter now? He used to be fond enough of the subject himself—(aloud)—Yes, sir,—[Exit JOHN]

SWELL—(solus)—Well, I am sorry for having spoken so harshly to the man, but politics seems to loom up in the simplest question, and the result of this infernal election is enough to put a Conservative saint out of sorts. (Enter JOHN.)

JOHN—Here's the wine, sir.

SWELL—What wine is it?

JOHN—Champagne, sir.

SWELL—(irritably)—Champagne of course, but what brand?

JOHN—MOET and—

SWELL—MOWAT! why, you infernal villain, there you go again with your politics! (Seizes JOHN by the throat and chokes him—finally JOHN gets away.)

JOHN—(gasping)—Beg pardon, sir, but—SWELL—What the deuce do you mean by talking to me of MOWAT at a time like this? I've a good mind—

JOHN—Beg pardon, sir, I'm sure, but I was only going to say MOET and SHANDON! (Tableau and curtain.)

A young lady the other evening, kissed, in the dark, a young man whom she mistook for her lover. Discovering the mistake she said, "it's not he but it's nice."

"The Premier's N. P. Galop," is the title of the latest musical composition by Prof. KOEBER, of this city. We heard the Prof. play it the other day, and deem it our duty to pronounce it a tariff-ic success. If JOHN A.'s trade policy only works as harmoniously as this galop it will be highly satisfactory to the country.

THE Montreal Spectator, in a biographical sketch of Sir Dr. TUPPER, informs us that that gentleman has represented Halifax ever since he entered public life, whereas we know that he has never represented that city at all. This would be an unpardonable blunder in any ordinary journal, but it must be recollected that the Spectator is a "high class newspaper"—so high that humble little facts quite escape its notice.

MAGISTRATE.—Have you ever been here before?

PRISONER.—No, never.

MAGISTRATE.—What, never?

PRISONER.—Come now, hold up. Name the fine, but don't go for to get off that Pinafore business with me. It's played out.

Not in the Side Show.

The circus is abroad in the land, and pretty soon we shall gaze upon the man with the plug hat and the stentorian voice, as he stands on a packing box at the door of the side-show and tells lies till the veins of his neck are ready to burst. He will claim to have on the inside a collection of the "greatest curiosities on the top of earth," when the fact is he hasn't a single one of the following objects:

A man who does not say "It's a fine day."

A man who has not "just commenced smoking" when asked for "a few whiffs."

A man who can take up his note without renewing, and borrowing the balance from his friends.

A bashful commercial traveler.

A policeman or an umbrella that is on hand when wanted.

An old maid who has not refused several good offers.

A lady belonging to a sewing-circle who has never—or hardly ever—talked scandal.

A politician who redeems all the pledges he makes on "nomination day."

A man who when called upon to make a few remarks—with a written speech in his pocket—does not apologize for the sud denness, etc., with which he has been called up.

IN THE WORLD'S EYE.

THE N. P. IN DANGER!!

THE JOKER CLUB.

"The Pun is mightier than the Sword."

The first coat of paint is always a prime job.—Oil City Derrick.

Hope is the sugar coating on the pill of life.—Whitehall Times.

The country is tired of hanging-matches. Now bring on Sunday school pic-nics.—N. Y. Express-ions.

Early to bed and early to rise enables a fellow to keep the chickens out of the garden.—Rochester Express.

The college boat races have begun, and we shall now see the result of the winter's hard study.—Boston Transcript.

A grave-digger—A small boy in a hurry to go fishing, digging for worms when he can't find any.—Keokuk Constitution.

Now that the ice cream season has set in it will be well to announce a grand opening in spring pocket-books.—Bradford Era.

Did you never notice that the largest profits seem to be monopolized by the houses that are "selling out at cost?"—St. Louis Times-Journal.

"Yes, Agnes, I'm going to have a cream-colored summer silk, provided pa doesn't veto the appropriation ma has passed."—Waterloo Observer.

Beware of people who make a great deal of you, for you may depend upon it that they mean to make a great deal out of you.—Hartford Sunday Telegram.

Beware of little things! A coat collar with a single little hair on its surface will cause more trouble than a ten dollar switch any where else.—Elmira Gazette.

The man who advertises in a newspaper don't waste any flour pasting up bills or wear out any shoe leather traveling around the country.—Oswego Times.

Out in West Philadelphia yesterday a man knocked a three-story house down with a single blow of a hammer.—He was an auctioneer.—Philadelphia Item.

No one has ever been able to find out why a boy slams the door when he goes out mad, but good guessers imagine that it is because he daren't slam the family.—Detroit F. P.

Little boys now go down to the river, stick their toes in the water and exclaim, "Its getting bully." What in the mischief do they mean?—Philadelphia Chronicle-Herald.

Tell us not with painted pictures,
Circuses are what they seem,
For the soul sees through such mixtures,
And circus bills are but a dream.
—Steubenville Herald.

You can go to England and buy a horse and bring him here and own him, but you can't do that with a ship. Congress is not a fool on the subject of horses.—Detroit Free Press.

A Michigan girl coaxed her lover to take her carriage riding, and the horse ran away and killed her. Showing this paragraph to the girls will be thousands of dollars in the pockets of our young men.—Philadelphia Chronicle Herald.

Scene in a narrow lane. Footpad—"Say, farmer, your ox won't let me pass." Rustic—"Well, 'spose you let him pass." Footpad—"There isn't room." Rustic—"Well, perhaps he'll toss you for it."—Punch.

Scientists say the sun will cease to shine seventeen millions of years hence, but by that time Edison's electric light will be in complete working order, and we shall not mourn the loss of old Sol. Stick a pin here.—Norristown Herald.

The wheelbarrow is the most useful and elegant appendage of a well-regulated back yard. Any one coming in contact with one on a very dark night can not fail to be struck forcibly with the truth of this remark. He'll tumble to it at once.—Keokuk Constitution.

A legal gentleman met a brother lawyer on Court street one day last week, and the following conversation took place; "Well, Judge, how is business?" "Dull, dull; I am living on faith and hope." "Very good, but I have got past you, for I'm living on charity."—Boston Courier.

The society of the REV. PHILANDER DORSEY, of this city, tendered him a donation party last week. By practicing the strictest economy during the remainder of the year, and by his wife turning her winter's dress and doing without a bonnet, the good man hopes to survive the donation, though he is exceedingly puzzled to know what to do with the four flower-pots, the bird-cage and a bound volume of "Harper's," which are the only tangible results of the devastating visit.—Rockland (Me.) Courier.

An attempt is being made in Paris to found a paper modeled after the American style of journalism. When a physician whose sands of life have nearly run out, offers the editor of the French journal seventy-five boxes of pills in exchange for two hundred dollars' worth of advertising, and the sheriff soon after kindly volunteers to dispose of his paper and material to the highest bidder, the Frenchman will not entertain such an altitudinous opinion of the American style of journalism.—Norristown Herald.

Abou Tamerlik and Rhumul em Uhp.

It was during the reign of the good Caliph, when ABOU TAMERLIK came to the City of Bagdad, threw his grip-sack on the counter, and, as he registered, spake cheerfully unto the clerk, saying:

"A sample-room on the first floor, and send my kyster up right away, and call me for the 6:28 train east in the morning."

And BASLER EL JAB, the clerk, looked at him, but went away to the mirror and gazed at his new diamond.

And ABOU TAMERLIK hied him forth and went into the booths and bazaars, and laid hold upon the merchants and enticed them into his room and spread out his samples and besought them to buy. And when night was come he slept. Because, he said, it is a dead town and there is no place to go.

And before the second watch of the night, RHUMUL EM UHP, the porter, smote on the panels of his door and cried aloud:

"Oh, ABOU TAMERLIK, arise and dress, for it is train time!"

And ABOU arose and got his raiment about him, and hastened down stairs and crept into the 'bus.

And he marveled that he was so sleepy, because he knew he went to bed exceedingly early, and marvelously sober.

And when they got to the depot, lo! it was the mail west, and it was 10:25 p.m.

And ABOU TAMERLIK swore and reached for the porter, that he might smite him, and he said unto him:

"Carry me back to my own room, and see that thou call me at 6:28 a.m. or thou diest."

And ere he had been asleep even until the midnight watch, RHUMUL EM UHP smote again upon the panels of his door, and cried aloud:

"Awake, ABOU TAMERLIK, for the time waneth and the train stayeth for no man. Awake, and haste, for slumber overtook thy servant, and the way is long and 'bus gone."

And ABOU TAMERLIK arose and girded up his loins, and set forth with great speed, for his heart was anxious. Nevertheless he gave RHUMUL EM UHP a quarter and made him carry his grip, and he cursed him for a driveling laggard.

And when they were come to the train it was 11:45 p.m., and it was a freight going south.

And ABOU TAMERLIK fell upon RHUMUL EM UHP and smote him and entreated him roughly, and said:

"Oh! pale gray ass of all asses, the Prophet pity thee if thou callest me once more before the 6:28 a. m. east."

And he got him into his bed.

Now, when sleep fell heavily upon ABOU TAMERLIK, for he was sore discouraged, RHUMUL EM UHP kicked fiercely against the panels of his door, and said:

"Oh! ABOU TAMERLIK, the drummuh, awake and dress with all speed. It is night in the valleys, but the day star shines on the mountains. Truly thy train is even now due at the depot, but the 'bus is indeed gone."

And ABOU TAMERLIK, the drummuh, swore himself awake and put on his robes, and hastened to the depot, while RHUMUL EM UHP, the porter, went before with a lantern.

For it was pitch dark and raining like a house on fire.

And when they reached the depot it was a gravel train going west, and the clock in the steeple tolled 2 a.m.

And ABOU TAMERLIK fell upon RHUMUL EM UHP, the porter, and beat him all the way home, and pelted him with mud and broke his lantern and cursed him, and he got him to bed and slept.

Now, when ABOU TAMERLIK awoke, the sun was high, and the noise of the street car rattled in the street. And his heart smote him, and he went down stairs, and the clerk said to him:

"Oh, ABOU TAMERLIK, live in peace. It is too late for breakfast and too early for dinner, nevertheless it won't make any difference in thy bill."

And ABOU TAMERLIK, the drummuh, sought RHUMUL EM UHP, the porter, and caught him by the beard, and said unto him:

"Oh, chuck el edded pup (which is, 'Thou that sleepest at train time')! why hast thou forgotten me?"

And RHUMUL EM UHP was angry, and said:

"Oh, ABOU TAMERLIK, the drummuh, hasty in speech and slow to think; wherefore shouldst thou get up at daybreak, when there is another train goes the same way to-morrow morning?"

But ABOU TAMERLIK would not harken unto him, but paid his bill and hired a team and a man to take him to the next town. And he hired the team at the livery stable, and he cursed the house that he had put up at.

Now, the livery stable belonged to the landlord, all the same. But ABOU TAMERLIK the drummuh wist not that it was so.—Burlington Hawkeye.

Our Own Dick Deadeye;

OR, PLAIN WORDS FROM A PLAIN HAND.

"Domestic economy is at the root of the life of every true woman," quoth our fair and cultured Princess. I would like to hear Her Royal Highness apply that noble sentiment to corporations as well as women, and repeat it with emphasis in every town where the people foolishly strain their resources to prove their loyalty by giving the Vice Regal party a grander reception than the civic treasury can stand.

I read that two railway carriages are being built for the use of the Vice-Regal party on their excursions, at a cost of $15,000. Of course this will come out of the Vice Regal private purse, as a sensible couple like the present representatives of the Queen wouldn't think of letting an already over-burdened people indulge in any such nonsensical extravagance on their account. As the Royal LOUÏSE has remarked: Domestic economy is a great institution, or words to that effect.

One of our high-toned papers expresses the opinion that the recent creation of Gingerbread Knights has done a great deal to perpetuate British connection. I don't know whether there is any foundation for this idea, but I do know that it has done a great deal to perpetuate the healthy contempt which sound-hearted people have long felt for the jackdaw who strutted in peacock's teathers.

I am astray—those carriages are being built at the expense of the country. And, furthermore, they are being built at Troy, N. Y., N. P. to the contrary, notwithstanding. And is this the way in which our rulers keep Canada for the Canadians? O, my country, land of liberty and bosh!

The great question, Is lager-beer intoxicating? is now agitating St. John, N. B. To decide it they are trying a case in court, and hearing the evidence of chemists as to the analysis of the beverage. Pshaw! why don't they set a few kegs before the jury, and let the matter be tested in a practical and agreeable manner.

The Minister of Finance is going on a visit to his constituents next Tuesday. As he has no public business down that way, I suppose his mission is to let them see how he looks in a Knighthood, and to state to them officially whether it is to be Sir SAMUEL or Sir LEONARD.

The Globe fellow, who is doing the Vice-regal visit to Quebec, says that when the PRINCESS declared the Kent Gate corner stone to be well and truly laid, she did so in a low musical voice, which, however, could be heard by all on the platform. I venture to say the voice was a good business like voice, without any low musical nonsense about it, or it wouldn't have been so audible.

What this correspondent is after is that glittering title that was so magnanimously declined by his employer. And if he will write plenty of these pretty little pieces about the PRINCESS, and send marked copies of the papers to the proper quarter, who knows but what he might get it.

Montreal promised St. John sufferers ten thousand dollars, but has only given them eight—Repudi-eight.

GREAT WESTERN RAILWAY. PASSENGERS

FOR
Manitoba, the North West Territories,

OR ANY POINT IN
WESTERN CANADA OR THE UNITED STATES.

Should remember that this is the most comfortable and direct route; and the only line in Canada running the CELEBRATED DINING CARS, in connection with the Michigan Central R. Rd., between Suspension Bridge and Chicago. Wagner's Sleeping Cars attached to all Night Trains, Parlor Cars to Day Trains.

THROUGH TICKETS by this Popular Route can be obtained at Lowest Rates at All Principal Stations, and from Agents representing the Line throughout Canada.

F. BROUGHTON
Gen. Manager.

xii-22-121.

Scientific American.

THIRTY-FOURTH YEAR.

The Most Popular Scientific Paper in the World
Only $3.20 a Year, including Postage. Weekly.
52 Numbers a Year. 4,000 book pages.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN is a large First-Class Weekly Newspaper of Sixteen Pages, printed in the most beautiful style, profusely illustrated with splendid engravings, representing the newest inventions and the most recent Advances in the Arts and Sciences; including New and Interesting Facts in Agriculture, Horticulture, the Home, Health, Medical Progress, Social Science, Natural History, Geology, Astronomy. The most valuable practical papers, by eminent writers in all departments of Science, will be found in the Scientific American.

Terms, $3.20 per year, $1.60 half year, which includes postage. Discount to Agents. Single copies ten cents. Sold by all Newsdealers. Remit by postal order to MUNN & CO., Publishers, 37 Park Row, New York.

PATENTS. In connection with the Scientific American, Messrs. MUNN & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, have had 34 years experience, and now have the largest establishment in the world. Patents are obtained on the best terms. A Special notice is made in the Scientific American, of all Inventions patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. By the immense circulation thus given, public attention is directed to the merits of the new patent, and sales or introduction often easily effected.

Any person who has made a new discovery or invention, can ascertain, free of charge, whether a patent can probably be obtained, by writing to the undersigned. We also send free our Hand Book about the Patent Laws, Patents, Caveats, Trade-Marks, their costs, and how procured, with hints for procuring advances on inventions. Address for Paper or concerning Patents, MUNN & CO., 37 Park Row, New-York.

Subscriptions received by BENGOUGH BROS., Toronto.

M. J. HYNES & BRO.,
Contractors and Plasterers,
HAVE REMOVED FROM 11 VICTORIA TO
102 KING STREET WEST.

VERNON,
Manufacturing Jeweller,
159 YONGE STREET.

Watches and Clocks Repaired. Pipes Mounted.
xiii-4-1f

Financial.

$10 TO 1000 Invested in Wall St. Stocks;
makes fortunes every month.
Book sent free explaining
everything.
Address BAXTER & Co., Bankers, 17 Wall St., N. Y.
xi-20-1y

THE advent of the JOLY ministry was a mercy to Quebec; and the recent election in St. Hyacinthe was still MERCIER.

THE Steamer Rothsay is now a revenue-cutter. At least that is what the cashier of a rival boat thinks as he watches Captain DONALDSON's craft moving out of the harbour with the biggest crowd, on one of her 30 ct. excursions.

The Zulu Club.

BRO. GARDNER having concluded his address, as reported in our last number, a cordial vote of thanks was tendered to him, the same being proposed in touching terms by Mr. JEFFERSON JARVIS JENKINS, and seconded by Mr. JOSEPHUS ORANGEBLOSSOM.

THE CHAIRMAN—I suggest, frens, dat we now purceed to organize de Club, an' I would call on our distinguish visitor, de honorable Mr. GARDNER, to read de draf ob de constitution an' by-laws, wat he wrote up to my house dis ebening, on de back ob a handbill. (Hear, hear).

BRO. GARDNER—Well, Mars' CHAIRMAN, I am agreeable to dat, an' I beg leave to read de aforesaid constitution and by-laws as follows:

CONSTITUTION.

De name of dis Club shall be called De Zulu Club of Toronto, in filliation wid de Lime Kiln Club of Detroit, and wid friends ob justice in de hull world at large.

De objec shall be to improve de members whar dat ken be safely done, and to secure to de culled men in Canady de same political show as wat de Irish gits.

Two gemmen ob color shall fowm a chorum, an' kin transack business on behalf ob de African citizen ob de kentry.

De financial consarns ob de Club shall be in de hans ob a committee ob three members, who kin furnish proof dat dey understan' de hanlin' ob funs, an' haint made arrangement in dar own private affaihs mor'n twice sense de hard times sot in.

BY-LAWS.

No smoking allowed, 'cept on business. De initiation fee shall be Two Dollahs, payable in advance, not necessarily foh publication, but as a guaranty ob good faith.

White folks kin be elected honary mem-bahs, provided dey will not disturb de meeting by eating peanuts.

Meeting ob de club shall be held eberv once in a while, and reports ob de same shall be put into de paper ob GRIP.

On motion of Mr. DANDYLION GROSVENOR, seconded by Elder JINKS, the constitution and by-laws as read were adopted, and the meeting proceeded to the election of officers for the first quarter. The following gentlemen were chosen: President, GEO. WASHINGTON BRINDLEBLOOM, Esq.; 1st Vice, ARCHIBALD H. JACKSON; 2nd Vice, Mr. GEORGE BROWN DAVIS; Secretary, Mr. ALPHONSO VAN AMBURG DOESKIN; Treasurer, Mr. PEARBLOSSOM CHROMO; Janitor, UNCLE JEFF BUCHANAN.

Finally, notice will be given of the first regular meeting of our club.

Absurd Rumor.

That it is in contemplation to create a new office in connection with the Ontario Government, the occupant to be known as keeper of the Catholic vote.

That SIR CHARLY TUPPER's Hamilton speech was pleasant reading for the Globe people.

That SENATOR MACPHERSON has declared that he will never write another pamphlet for the ungrateful people of Ontario.

That Mr. JACK A. MACDONALD intends to apologise to Parliament for the insult he put upon its dignity last session.

That the reason Mr. ALEX. MACKENZIE did not open his mouth during the local election was that he preferred to keep quiet.

MR. MOWAT may be a very good man, but Mr. ROBERTSON, the pool-selling member for Hamilton, is a better.

BUILDING UP A CHARACTER.

MISS MONTREAL—Now, officer, if you catch that murderer, remember I promise a thousand dollars reward.

OFFICER—Madam, we will do our duty faithfully without thought of the reward. We do not know but you may repudiate payment, same as you did in the St. John case.

THE BALANCE OF POWER.

WORTHY PRELATE—Now, my dear, take good care of that child and give it plenty of pap, or I'll take it away from you and hand it over to this other little party to nurse.

"A man's best things are nearest him, Lie close about his feet."

Some people have a habit of going away from home when they want a good thing, and are often willing to pay a double price for it. In photography there is no need of this, as you can now where else get portraits of equal merit, as at the Photo-Art Studio of J. Bruce & Co., 118 King St. W., Toronto.

xii-22-17

BALDNESS!

Neither gasoline, vasoline, carboline, or Allen's, Aver's, or Hall's hair restorers have produced luxuriant hair on bald heads. That great discovery is due to Mr. Winter-corn, 61 King-street East, (late 132 Church-street), as can be testified to by hundreds of living witnesses in this city and Province. He challenges all the so-called restorers to produce a like result.

Send for circulars.

xii-12-17

CAUTION.

EACH PLUG OF THE
MYRTLE NAVY TOBACCO

IS STAMPED

T. & B.

IN GILT LETTERS.

NONE OTHER IS GENUINE.

xiii-1-3m

A Terrible State of Affairs.

SIR—The people of this country are mad. They have gone entirely out of their senses, sir, if they ever were in them. I am convinced of it beyond all doubt by the event of last Thursday. I had a dread suspicion of it after what happened on the 17th of September, but I suspended judgment until I should see how the Ontario elections would go, and now, sir, as I have already said, I am convinced. The people have plainly said by their ballots that they demand corruptionists to rule over them, and as between competent and incapable ministers they enthusiastically decide for the latter. Sir, these are bold statements, but I am going to prove them in a very few words. What did they do on the memorable 17th? Why, sir, put JOHN A. and his besmirched companions back into power, and weren't they aware from the columns of the Globe that these base persons had perpetrated scandals innumerable and squandered millions of the people's money; whereas, MAC-KENZIE and his compeers were a body of pure, patriotic and able men, against whom no charge could be successfully made? There, sir, the first position is established. Now, what did they do last Thursday? Why, the same thing over again. They returned MOWAT and his ministry, notwithstanding that the Mail has informed them over and over again about the Protón outrage, the Fence Scandal, and the other most disreputable acts which these men have been guilty of, and rejected the services of Messrs. MORRIS, MEREDITH and the other members of the Opposition, who are highly respectable and trustworthy persons. There, sir, is the second position made fast. And now am I not justified in coming to the conclusion that the people of Ontario are mad—or at all events, which is still worse, that they have no moral perception, and deliberately prefer bad men to good?

Yours indignantly, MENS SANA.

The motto of the early cocktail seeker:
"Early to bed and early to ryes."

S. R. QUIGLEY,
ENGRAVER & JEWELLER
MASONIC & SOCIETY REGALIA, EMBLEMS, &c.
10 KING ST. EAST, TORONTO. xiii-4-17

THE
NEW DOMINION,
3 MONTHS ON TRIAL
FOR 25 CENTS.

A large 8-page, 40-column weekly family paper. The cheapest and best serial ever yet published. Address S. FRANK WILSON, 13 Victoria St., Toronto, Ont., Canada.

TO PHONOGRAPHERS!

PRICE-LIST REVISED APRIL 1, 1879.

Compend of Phonography	5 cts.
Exercises in Phonography	5
Grammologies and Contractions	10
Questions on Manual	15
Selections in Reporting Style	20
Teacher	20
Key to Teacher	20
Reader	20
Manual	55
Reporter	90
Reporting Exercises	40
Phrase Book	35
Railway Phrase Book	25
Covers for holding Note Book	20
The Reporter's Guide, by Thos. Allan Reid	60
Self-culture, corresponding style	75
The Book of Psalms, corresponding style	35
The Book of Psalms, cloth	75
Common Prayer, morocco, with gilt edges	$2.88
The Other Life, cloth	56
New Testament, reporting style	$2.50
Phonographic Dictionary	1.50
Pilgrim's Progress, corresponding style	55

Sent post-paid to any address on receipt of price.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

Next Post Office, Toronto.

THOS. DAVIES & CO'S LAGER-BEER is nourishing and refreshing. Try it.

PUBLISHERS' NOTE.

GRIP is published every SATURDAY morning at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.
Subscription price, $2 per annum, strictly in advance. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied. BENGOUGH BROS.

USE ONLY
ONTARIO
Baking Powder.

Ask your Grocer for it.
MANUFACTORY:
247 King Street West,
TORONTO.
xii-20-17

BENGOUGH BROS.
Are prepared to execute orders for
ENGRAVING
in the highest style of the art.

Type Metal Plates
MADE FROM
Pen and Ink Sketches, Photographs, Lithographs, &c.,
More perfect, true and lasting than any wood engraving, and at a much lower cost. Call and see specimens at
GRIP OFFICE,
Next door to Post Office, Toronto.

BEST business you can engage in. $5 to $20 per day made by any worker of either sex, right in their own localities. Particulars and samples worth $5 free. Improve your spare time at this business. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

RODWELL & FELL,
Engravers,
And Manufacturers of Rubber and Metal Stamps,
PRESS AND WAX SEALS.
Name Plates, Baggage and Key Checks.
7 Adelaide St. East,
TORONTO.

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY. The tens of thousands who are making exclusive use of the COOK'S FRIEND Baking Powder, thereby render UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY to its superiority.
Retailled everywhere. xii-12-17

WANTED.—5 cents each will be paid for the following back numbers of GRIP:

- | | |
|---------|-------------------------|
| Vol. 2. | Nos. 2, 10, 23. |
| " 3. | " 7, 17, 19, 21, 26. |
| " 4. | " 1, 2, 4, 5, 6, 7. |
| " 5. | " 5, 7, 17, 19, 21, 26. |
| " 6. | " 6, 7, 9, 13, 25. |
| " 7. | " 4, 12, 20, 21. |
| " 8. | " 1, 2, 7, 12, 5, 16. |
| " 9. | " 15. |

BENGOUGH BROS.,
TORONTO.

$66 A WEEK in your own town. $5 outfit free. No risk. Reader, if you want a business at which persons of either sex can make great pay all the time they work, write for particulars to H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Me.

LACROSSE.

SATURDAY, 28th June. TORONTO LACROSSE GROUNDS, JARVIS STREET.
Acmes vs. Torontos. For Championship of Ontario.
ADMISSION 25 Cents.
DOMINION DAY, WHITE EAGLE'S TEAM OF CAUGHNAWAGAS VS. TORONTOS.
JAMES PEARSON, Hon. Sec. T. L. C.

(TRADE MARK REGISTERED)

TORONTO, SATURDAY, JUNE 28, 1879.

GRIP OFFICE, } The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; } 5 CTS. EACH.
IMPERIAL BUILDING. } The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool. } $2 PER ANNUM.

A. H. GORRELL & CO.,

— PROPRIETORS OF THE —

TORONTO LITHOGRAPHING COMPANY,

33 Wellington Street East, Toronto.

COAL AND WOOD, AND AT LOWEST PRICES, NAIRN'S. Office, Next Post Office. Docks, Foot of Church Street.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach GRIP office not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

ZELL'S POPULAR ENCYCLOPEDIA.

A gentleman leaving the city offers for sale a copy of ZELL'S POPULAR ENCYCLOPEDIA, complete in 2 Vols., bound in half Morocco with gilt edges, for only $30, cost $39.50.

Address E. O. T., GRIP Office.

GERMAN

RYE BREAD, FAMILY BREAD, BROWN BREAD, SNOWFLAKE ROLLS.
CRUMPTON'S BAKERY,
171 KING-ST, East.
7 Doors east of Market. xii-20-17

SKIFF FOR SALE.

A first class cedar skiff, copper-rivvted, twenty-three feet long, two pairs of oars, carpet and rugs. This skiff is light and capable of carrying half a dozen persons with comfort.

Apply to
P.O. Drawer, 2673.

U CAN make money faster at work for us than at any thing else. Capital not required; we will start you $12 per day at home made by the industrious. Men, women, boys and girls wanted every where to work for us. Now is the time. Costly outfit and terms free. Address, TRUE & Co., Augusta, Me.

Literature and Art.

Mr. THEODORE TILTON is to publish a new book of poems in the autumn.

Mr. WALTER FRANCIS BROWN, a young American artist in Paris is making the illustrations for the book which MARK TWAIN is preparing on Europe and the Europeans. This announcement will be hailed with delight by the public, for MARK threatened to make the pictures himself.

The Norristown Herald man's constant theme is the dulness of the "wit" in the English comic papers. It is undoubtedly true that Punch, Judy, and Fun are often flat, stale, and unprofitable to the searcher for mirth, but not more often so than the department of the Herald written by their "funny man." It appears to us that this paragonizing system has developed more conceited wittlings than there is room for on this continent.

"It may surprise you to know," said Mr. DUFF the other day, "that the song 'He is an Englishman' made the success of Pinafore in London—such success as it had. The English people never caught either the humor or the satire of the work as we have done this side the Atlantic. 'Hardly ever,' and all the little bits of the piece that have gone over this country like wildfire, never seemed to strike them. They took all those things simply as good bits, but not at all as anything out of the 'common run.'"

The editor of the Literary World, of Boston, blames FROUDE, the historian, for saying a good word for BRET HARTE, and says that except the 'Heathen Chinee,' the latter has written little that is a credit to American literature. Whereupon the Boston Traveller has the courage to respond that 'it is Mr. HARTE's temporary misfortune that he does not belong to that mutual admiration ring which has its headquarters in this city, and has long been engaged with more or less success in foisting a lot of very second rate writers upon the public, as the representative literary men of America.'

The Chicago Tribune in noticing an illustration in Frank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper of the debarkation of the Duke of Argyll at New York says: "The honourable Duke is represented as coming down the gangway with his honorable hat jammed tightly over his eyes, while all the spectators are holding their hats elegantly between their thumb and forefinger as if they were attending a funeral or bowing to a pretty woman. There is no reason why good Americans should lift their hats to the Duke of Argyll. He ought to uncover his head before a sovereign people. We bow only to Death and Beauty."

Mr. J. E. MILLAIS the painter, was introduced to a lady whom he was to take down to dinner, but neither he nor his partner caught the other's name. So soon as they were seated at the table the lady opened fire with the usual questions. "Have you been to the Academy?" "I have," said Mr. MILLAIS. "And did you notice that odious old MILLAIS's pictures?" "Well, yes, I saw them too." Presently the champagne came around. Said Mr. MILLAIS, with his best smile: "I am going to ask you to take wine with me, and not a mere sip, but to drain your glass to me, to strengthen your nerves." The lady pledged him accordingly. Then said the artist quietly: "Now that you are fortified, I may venture to tell you that I am the odious old MILLAIS." The lady put up her hands in horror. "Good gracious" was all she could find to express herself.

ARE YOU FOND OF READING?—Drink the Li-Quor Pure Tea and get a Handsome Library for Nothing, AT THE TORONTO AGENCY OF THE

LI-QUOR TEA Co. of LONDON, Eng.,
295 Yonge Street,
xiii-2-rt 6 Doors north of Cruckshank.

M. J. HYNES & BRO.,
Contractors and Plasterers,
HAVE REMOVED FROM 11 VICTORIA TO
102 KING STREET WEST.

VERNON,
Manufacturing Jeweller,
159 YONGE STREET.
Watches and Clocks Repaired. Pipes Mounted.
xiii-4-rt

Scientific American.
THIRTY-FOURTH YEAR.
The Most Popular Scientific Paper in the World
Only $3.20 a Year, including Postage. Weekly.
52 Numbers a Year. 4,000 page pages.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN is a large First-Class Weekly Newspaper of Sixteen Pages, printed in the most beautiful style, profusely illustrated with splendid engravings, representing the newest Inventions and the most recent Advances in the Arts and Sciences; including New and Interesting Facts in Agriculture, Horticulture, the Home, Health, Medical Progress, Social Science, Natural History, Geology, Astronomy. The most valuable practical papers, by eminent writers in all departments of Science, will be found in the Scientific American;

Terms, $3.20 per year, $1.60 half year, which includes postage. Discount to Agents. Single copies ten cents. Sold by all Newsdealers. Remit by postal order to MUNN & CO., Publishers, 37 Park Row, New York.

PATENTS. In connection with the Scientific American, Messrs. MUNN & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, have had 24 years experience, and now have the largest establishment in the world. Patents are obtained on the best terms. A Special notice is made in the Scientific American, of all Inventions patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. By the immense circulation thus given, public attention is directed to the merits of the new patent, and sales or introduction often easily effected.

Any person who has made a new discovery or invention, can ascertain, free of charge, whether a patent can probably be obtained, by writing to the undersigned. We also send free our Hand Book about the Patent Laws, Patents, Caveats, Trade-Marks, their costs, and how procured, with hints for procuring advances on inventions. Address for Paper or concerning Patents, MUNN & CO., 37 Park Row, New-York.

Subscriptions received by BENGOUGH BROS., Toronto.

Tenders for Steel Rails.

TENDERS addressed to the Honorable the Minister of Railways and Canals will be received at the Canadian Emigration Office, 31 Queen Victoria street, E. C., London, England, until JULY 15, next, for Steel Rails and Fastenings, to be delivered at MONTREAL, as follows:

5,000 tons by October 1st, 1879.
5,000 tons by June 1st, 1880.
5,000 tons by October 1st, 1880.

Specifications, Conditions, Forms of Tender, and all other information will be furnished on application at this office, or at the Canadian Emigration Office, 31 Queen Victoria street, E. C. London, England.

By order,

F. BRAUN.

Secretary.

Department of Railways and Canals, }
OTTAWA, 13th June, 1879. }

xiii-6-3.

Stage Whispers.

Mlle. FECHTER, the daughter of the actor, is a very pretty young girl, a slender brunette, with much of the dramatic nature. She has been trained for the lyric stage with moderate success.

MISS MAUDE HOWE, daughter of JULIA WARD HOWE, took the character of Aspasia in some tableaux in Rome recently, at which the King and Queen of Italy were present. RISTORI robbed her, and CASTEL LANT lent her some almost priceless jewelry which he has just sold to the British Museum.

W. E. SHERIDAN recently made his appearance among the stars. He filled an engagement at Halifax, appearing in a round of the leading characters in tragedy. All who know Mr. SHERIDAN professionally are aware of his talents, his ample experience, his worth of character, and his zealous devotion to the dramatic art.

Certain young men of Louisville, Ky., have raised a fund of $1,500, which will be used to purchase a thoroughbred Kentucky horse, and the animal will be presented to Miss MARY ANDERSON at Long Branch this summer. JOSEPH ANDERSON, a brother of Miss ANDERSON, seventeen years of age, expects to adopt the stage as his profession, and to make his first appearance next year.

When MAPLESON, the other night, in London, found that NILSSON, GERSTER and MINNIE HARK were all on the sick list, he rushed to Mme. TREBELL and she consented to go to his rescue, leaving her dinner uneaten. "A basin of soup after the first, and a chop after the second act of Carmen, was all the meal she had until her heavy day's work was over. Yet a better performance of M. BIZET's opera has scarcely, if ever, been heard," says Figaro.

Says the London Figaro: Mr. J. H. SARGENT is daily expected in London to confer with Mr. HENRY IRVING on the only reasonable proposition which has yet been put forward for the tragedian's visit to the United States. Mr. SARGENT's proposition is that Mr. HENRY IRVING should undertake a very brief season at BOOTH'S Theatre in the autumn, during which time Madame MODJESKA should have the Lyceum, Mr. IRVING being guaranteed a certain sum in both cases.

"Miss THURSBY is doing for Paris what some years ago Miss CRAMPTON did for London—delighting many drawing rooms by her exquisite singing. Her name figures in every entertainment and reception, and Mrs. MACKAY is incessantly giving soirees musicales because the name of Miss THURSBY brings everybody to Mrs. MACKAY whom Mrs. MACKAY chooses to invite. Miss THURSBY is an American, and she is called the American PATTI. But this title is scornfully assailed by the American press, because say they, ADELINA is an American." The London World recently claimed Miss THURSBY as an English woman.

Mr. ARTHUR SKETCHLEY's attempt to restore the character of "Falstaff" to the London stage does not appear to have been brilliantly successful. He appears to have made the fat knight a male edition of his "Mrs. BROWN," and one of the critics says his performance was "even tinged at times with something approaching to a melancholy strain." Melancholy in connection with "Falstaff" is something entirely new, and Mr. SKETCHLEY must certainly be credited with originality.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

By BENGOUGH Bro's, Proprietors. Office:—Imperial Buildings, next to the Post Office, Adelaide Street, Toronto. GEO. BENGOUGH, Business Manager.

Original contributions paid for. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned. Literary and Business communications to be addressed to BENGOUGH Bro's.

EDITED AND ILLUSTRATED BY J. W. BENGOUGH.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

To Subscribers in New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, and Nova Scotia.—Please remit Dominion Notes if convenient, as there is a discount of 5 per cent. on your Local Bank Notes here.

The Reception of Hanlan.

A meeting of influential citizens was held in the Mind's Eye Hotel the other night, with a view to arranging the details of the great reception to be tendered HANLAN.

Mr. ANGUS MORRISON, first sculling champion of the Bay (1840) was appointed to the Chair, and opened the proceedings by calling for three cheers for NED.

The cheers were given very heartily, whereupon

The Chairman said he would be pleased to hear any suggestions from citizens in good standing with reference to the business in hand.

Mr. GEORGE BROWN ventured to propose the erection of a fine arch on the corner of King and Yonge streets—an arch typical of aquatic matters in general and HANLAN in particular. For example, it might be ornamented with shells from the shore of the Island. He himself would be happy to supply a pair of his cast off shoes which might be hung at the apex of the arch to symbolise HANLAN's great feat on the Tyne.

Mr. HARRY PIPER thought Mr. BROWN's idea a very good one. He, also, had an idea to submit, namely, a grand typical procession in honour of the champion's having made the fastest time on record; a procession of fast young men from St. John's Ward and elsewhere. He, (Mr. PIPER) would be only too happy to ride at the head of such procession.

Mr. Alderman HAMILTON suggested, that as this reception was strictly of a civic character, it would be a good idea to have the books and documents of the City Council carried in the procession by the respective officers of the Corporation. He felt certain the public would be greatly gratified by a sight of the public accounts, especially those relating to the Water Works business.

Mr. JACK A. MACDONNELL approved of the suggestion, but thought that, as the reception was in some sense national, the proposition might be made to include documents of a national notoriety also. In that case he would have pleasure in riding a mule and displaying conspicuously the written apology which it was not his intention to present to the House of Commons for having insulted their dignity.

Mr. G. R. PATULLO said torchlight should by no means be overlooked, as it was one of the first elements of an intellectual demonstration. He had a large assortment of torches at the Reform Club rooms, which he would be pleased to lend for the occasion. They had been provided for the 17th of September, but the Reform Party had decided not to use them on that occasion so they were now just as good as new.

Mr. NED FARRA said they had a similar stock of torches up at the Mail office, which they had refrained from using on the 5th of June. The Conservative Party would not be on done in generosity by the Grits, and the Committee were heartily welcome to the use of these torches.

Mr. JOHN HALLAM proposed that in honor of the auspicious occasion of the Champion's return, an edict should be passed by the City Council exempting the premises of poor men from taxation for this year, and imposing upon the lawns and paddocks of the rich a reasonable tax.

Mr. GUS THOMAS suggested that a medal be struck to commemorate the great Tyneside victory. It might have a head of HANLAN on one side, and on the other "HANLAN AHEAD."

Prof. DAN'L WILSON proposed that the degree of B. Sc., be conferred upon Mr. HANLAN in the presence of the public by the Senate of University College. He supposed he need hardly explain that B. Sc. meant Bachelor of Science, which in this case might be freely interpreted Boss Sculler.

Dr. WRIGHT said he understood a sweet little heir had made its appearance in Mr. HANLAN's home since his departure, and, if this were true, it would be well to take into consideration the propriety of having a baby show in connection with the reception, the first prize to be awarded by acclamation to the juvenile HANLAN.

After many other valuable suggestions had been thrown out the meeting broke up in good order.

Positively the Last and Worst.

Last evening while standing on the uncertain margin of the moss-covered Esplanade, viewing with some interest the splendidly developed fungoids luxuriantly growing among its crumbling timbers, I was startled out of my botanical reverie by the sudden appearance of a stalwart youth with a red night-cap on his head, and carrying, like the melancholy Dane in the grave-yard scene, a "scull" in his hand. He was picturesquely got up in the prevailing arg nautical style, which is a compromise between the garb of an English cricketer and a Levantine pirate. "My dear GRIP," said the amateur Corsair, breathlessly, "I've a splendid joke for you."

"Heave ahead, my hearty, give her sheet; pay out the slack of your jaw-tackle," said I, in the language of the fore-castle, in compliment to his WILL WATCH-like appearance. "Well," continued the Rover of the Deep, "we were out to-day in a new yacht of NOVERRE's, who came along with us and took the helm to test her sailing qualities. The wind was dead from the south'ard, and we had to go about off the light house and stand in on the port tack for the shore." "Belay all that, and come to the joke. I'm in a hurry," said I. "But I'm telling you the joke," said the mariner, and continued, "You know NOVERRE was at the helm, and when young PONSONBY JONES suddenly asked me who built the boat, I replied, NOVERRE." JONES says, "What, NOVERRE?" I was going to explain, when HILDEBRAND SMITH, who was on the look-out, observing that we were dangerously approaching the boulders off the New Garrison, shouted, "Hard-a-lee, NOVERRE!" "Ha! ha!—funny, wasn't it?" Ye gods! I had been listening all this time to a Pinfore gag, told by an imbecile Bly water sailor?

A root of bitterness—The Bute Inlet Route.

Anxious Enquirers.

Since Mr. JOHN BRIGHT announced his intention of making an enquiry relative to Canadian affairs in the British House of Commons, a great deal of interest concerning this Dominion has been awakened amongst the members, and it is highly probable that other questions will follow that of Mr. BRIGHT.

An Hon. member gives notice that he will ask the Colonial Secretary if measures have been taken to secure the neutrality of Canada in the war now raging in the adjacent country of Peru.

A Right Hon. gentleman will enquire whether it is the intention of Her Majesty's Imperial Government to send out to Ottawa an adequate supply of provisions, so as to obviate the humiliating necessity for the Vice-Regal authorities of the Dominion to sustain themselves by the precarious method of fishing for salmon.

An Hon. member will ask whether the Government has been officially informed of the recent invasion of Montreal, Canada, by grizzly bears, and whether it is true that the savage animals demolished a canteen, and almost deprived the inhabitants of their supply of Beef.

An Hon. member will enquire whether the Colonial Secretary succeeded in learning from Mr. LANGEVIN what he, the said Mr. LANGEVIN did with the $32,000 he got from Sir HUGH ALLAN?

An Hon. member will enquire whether it is the intention of Her Majesty, as reported, to confer Knighthood upon EDWARD HANLAN, the Canadian oarsman. If so, if the Government is prepared to give the House full particulars as to the charges made against the said HANLAN, together with the evidence upon which he has been convicted and sentenced to this punishment.

An Hon. member will ask whether instructions have been given to the Dominion Government to furnish His Grace the DUKE of ARGYLE with a body guard and competent Indian interpreters during his travels in the Province of New Brunswick.

An Hon. member will request to be informed whether it is true that the present Government of the Dominion really intend to change the terminus of the Intercolonial Railway from Winnipeg to Bute Inlet, P.Q.

An Hon. member will inquire whether Her Majesty's Government intend to sanction the permission granted to a certain company to drain Lake Ontario in order to get possession of valuable farming lands for purposes of speculation.

"The Toronto oarsman having defeated England's best men, Hawdon and Elliott, should now meet Courtney, of Union Springs, again. Many people are confident Courtney can defeat Hanlan in a fair contest, and will not be satisfied until the Toronto man and the Union Springs man have another brush."

We clip this rich paragraph from the columns of the Rome, N. Y., Sentinel. This well-known journal keeps a professional funny man, and those who know anything about the relative merits of HANLAN and COURTNEY as oarsmen, will consider this one of the most laughable things he ever wrote.

That Low Cartoon.

Mr. GRIP read in last Tuesday's Telegram that his HANLAN cartoon was a very low, spiteful and wretched affair, and one that ought to make every right minded Canadian blush. Being a sensitive bird, Mr. GRIP felt a keen pang of shame on reading this. Not so much that he had published a wicked picture, as that the demoralized people of the country seemed to like it so well that several editions had to be issued to satisfy their demands.

Grip's Solo.

He is an Englishman !
And, if he himself had said it,
'Twould have been more to his credit,
Than to sign himself "Kanuck,"
He's been laying odds on ELLIOTT,
And he don't feel very well yet
To'rds GRIP and HAN-I-LAN ;
Yes, that's just what's the matter,
With the writer of that letter,
He is an Englishman ;
He is an Englishman !

A New Position for John Bright.

JOHN BRIGHT got up in the Imperial House the other day to make an enquiry about the visit of the Canadian Ministers, and some of the prominent Conservative papers here are saying he was put up by GEORGE BROWN. It should have been left to some conceited and unscrupulous Grit paper to say that, as it implies an amount of influence and greatness on the part of Mr. BROWN that his opponents are not generally willing to give him credit for. GRIP has not the pleasure of an intimate personal acquaintance with JOHN BRIGHT, but he has read and heard a good deal about that gentleman, and unless he has been greatly misinformed, he would consider JOHN badly adapted for a cats-paw. GEORGE BROWN is undoubtedly a very powerful giant, strong enough to bend MACKENZIE to his purposes, and to twist MOWAT around his finger, and to crumple GOLDWIN SMITH all out of shape—but there are at least two individuals in the world fairly beyond his influence, namely JOHN BRIGHT and GRIP. At least we shall believe that JOHN BRIGHT is one of these until the Conservative organs produce some evidence of his having been manipulated by the Globe man in the way they affirm.

Grip's Lecture Course.

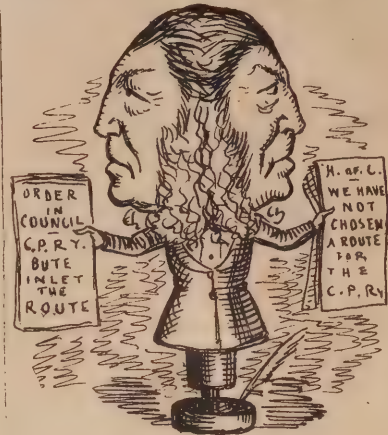

LECTURE II.—BY HON. EDWARD BLAKE.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

My subject is "Ambition." To look at me you wouldn't think I knew much about that subject, and I must confess I do not either look or act like a very ambitious man. Still, I am not devoid of this trait. I do entertain an ambition, though not many know just what it is. Indeed, I am not sure that I know myself. It hangs in my mind in a nebulous and fantastic shape. It is not to become the leader of the Local Government, for I have outgrown that dignity; it is not to attain a high place at the bar, for I have already attained the foremost position, and hold it as easily as HANNAH holds the Challenge Cup; it is not to write poetry for the Globe, for I have carefully avoided the muses, and choked off all risings of fancy by the study of logic; it is not to become the leader of the Reform Party of Canada, for I could have that position to-morrow with the benediction of every Reformer in the land. And I may tell you here privately that you needn't be surprised if I do take the reins before long just to accommodate my friends. If JOHN A., that most un—but let me be calm—is dismissed from office over this LETELLIER affair, I shall rally the scattered legions of the Grits and lead them back to office. Then I shall give you those grand and glorious measures—Representation of Minorities, Compulsory Voting, and all the others foreshadowed in my Aurora speech. Still, this is not my real ambition. I would as soon stay home and read a brief as do all this. Wait till confederation of the Empire is achieved, and the Imperial Arena is open to the genius of the Colonies, and then, perhaps, I may begin to display something worthy of the name of Ambition. With these few remarks I will resume my seat.

Lager-Bier.

It is settled. The flat has gone forth from the Court House in St. John, N. B., never to be recalled—Lager beer is intoxicating! After a long trial, conducted with British impartiality before an incorruptible judge, that respectable German citizen Lager Bier has been found guilty of containing alcohol. The only question that now remains to be decided is, what will those teetotalers do with all the lager they have been drinking under the innocent conviction that it was a temperance beverage.

The Globe's Device.

Lest "The Tupper Turpitude" should slip his memory, the editor of the Globe has, it is rumored, carved out a little figure of the Minister of Public Works like the one represented above. This he has placed upon the desk of his chief leader-writer as a constant reminder, though it also serves the purposes of ink-bottle and paper-weight. It will be observed that all the facts are brought out in the figure, and the full "turpitude" expressed. With one face he is telling the House of Commons that no terminus has been selected for the C. P. R'y., and with the other he is looking towards the British Columbians, whom he has already assured that Buta Inlet has been selected.

"Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty," but CHARLEY RYKERT can be bought for $10,000.

THE FIRE CRACKER NUISANCE:

OR, FIRST OF JULY ASSURANCE.

GAMIN.—Don't be alarmed, boss; I'll set 'em off as easy as I kin!

DOMINION DAY.

SOMETHING FOR THE "FATHER OF CONFEDERATION" TO THINK OVER.

SIR JOHN—My dears, I congratulate you on the twelfth anniversary of your Glorious Union. What can I do to add to your happiness? MADEMOISELLE QUEBEC—(Vigorously) Mind your own Federal business, and permit us to manage our local affairs to suit ourselves, according to the terms of Union—that's what you can do, Sir!

THE JOKER CLUB.

"The Pen is mightier than the Sword."

Germans are but a children of a larger growth.—N. Y. Mail.

The archery craze is here, and the girls are all trying target beaus.—Philadelphia Item.

With merchants the road to wealth is through the buyways and highweights.—Whitehall Times.

"Extremes meet," as the man said when he made a dinner of ox-tail soup and calves-head stew.—Uncle Sam.

Now nicely the amateur fisherman's bait now worms itself into the confidence of the foolish bullhead.—New York News.

"I think I know your phiz," as the soda water fountain remarked to an opposition fountain next door.—Bradford Era.

When an unmarried woman of uncertain age says she has remained single from choice, she means that she is self-maid.—Boston Transcript.

A man in Utica has been detected in the act of translating Pinafore into Welsh. Wght! nvgr! wjell hrdgly evjr.—N. Y. Com. Advertiser.

When a baby stuffs his toe into his mouth, he little realizes how hard it will be for him in later years to make both ends meet.—New Haven Register.

An axiom in the philosophy of the young lady whose dresses are a little too thin: "There's no effect without gauze."—Hackensack Republican.

A mud fountain recently erupted at Sarnia, Ont. A stream of mud shot up 150 feet. There must have been a political stump speaker at the bottom of it.—Nor. Herald.

The Quincy Modern Argo has a column of selected funny items headed 'why we laugh,' and those editors whose items do not appear in the column wonder why it is.—Peck's Sun.

And now an Indiana man has eaten twenty four goose eggs on a wager. Good enough; but isn't there something herein smacking of cannibalism?—Boston Transcript.

A scolding woman, like a train conductor, is pretty much on the rail.—Modern Argo. And a smiling young widow, very much like the rail, is pretty much on the tie.—Keokuk Constitution.

A bursting soda-water fountain killed a North Carolina man, a few days ago. Young women, beware how you lead young men up to a loaded soda fountain.—Philadelphia Chronicle-Herald.

Circumstances alter cases. The man who is on the train thinks it carries too long at way stations; not so the one who is half a block away and coming rapidly towards it when the whistle toots.—Puck.

All the bread yet unearthed at Pompeii shows evidences that the emptying had soured and that the loaves were heavy. They must have had cooks at $4 per week in those days as well as these.—Detroit Free Press.

"There is truth in my remarks," yelled out a scolding wife to her suffering husband, and he meekly answered, "I'll grant all the truth there is in your remarks if you will only put fewer remarks into your truth."—Bridgeport Standard.

"JOHNNIE, what is a noun?" "Name of a person, place, or thing." "Very good, JOHNNIE, give an example." "Hand-organ grinder." "And why is hand-organ grinder a noun?" "Because he's a person plays a thing."—Springfield Union.

A new song is called "The Old Wooden Pitcher." It is evidently intended to be sung by base ball clubs. There are a great many wooden pitchers among them. And these "pitchers," by the way don't hold the "batter."—Norristown Herald.

When a young man is riding along with his adorable, and is speaking to her in the softest of soft tones, and is giving her all manner of sweet taffy, it takes all the poetry out of the scene for him suddenly to discover that a gamin is hanging on behind taking it all in.—Salem Subbeam.

Said BROWN to PARKER:—I say, PARKER, what is the difference between a ripe water-melon and a decayed head of cabbage?" "Give it up; can't tell?" BROWN laughed softly as he said, "You'd be a nice man to send to buy a water-melon, you would."—Stray Paragraph.

The boy who thinks himself killed when asked to saw a stick of wood at home will go over to JOHNNY BRIGGS' house, and not only saw all the wood he can lay hands on, but split it and pile it up in the bargain, and come home and tell what a "good time" he has had.—Boston Transcript.

"Nothing seems to me so ill-bred," says a young man, "as to smoke in the presence of ladies."

"Well," a friend asks, "how do you manage when there are ladies present and you want to smoke?"

"How do I manage? Why, I seem ill-bred."—French Witicism.

Milwaukee Sun: The Waupun Leader contains an article informing its readers "when to eat pickerel." We did not read the article but suppose of course that the Leader says, eat pickerel at meal times. Nothing appears so much out of place as to see a man in business hours walking along the street picking the bones out of a piece of pickerel.

"Why, what are you good for?" petulantly exclaimed a mother, when her daughter who was reading the New York Sickly, said she didn't know how to iron a shirt. And then she added sneeringly, "Why I don't believe you could even play JOSEPHINE in Pinafore!" No doubt the mother underestimated her daughter's ability.—Nor. Herald.

Six years ago a man arrived in this country with five dollars in his pocket. He started a patent outside newspaper in a country town, and last week he died and left property in the town valued at two millions of dollars. He left it because he couldn't take it with him. And the owners of the property would not have permitted him to take it if he could.—Nor. Herald.

A correspondent wants to know if wearing a hat tends to make a person bald. We believe it does. Women don't wear hats and they are not bald—at least they don't wear them on their heads, and so they are not bald there. Hats destroy hair. A woman's hat is worn on the back of her head, and that is the reason women have to buy so much back hair.—Danbury News.

It is only when the foreman says he lacks just four lines for the funny column and must have it in a minute, that the paragraphist realizes how serious is the business of getting up fun to order.—Cincinnati Saturday Night.

Some persons have a great faculty for getting on in the world. The little shaver who stood at the foot of his class when we were schoolboys together now proudly guards the left field in some crack base ball club, and is playing for a field average of .976.—New Haven Register.

It's getting around toward that season of the year when young men in colleges, who usually study the girls instead of their books, and know more about tobacco and beer in a minute than they do about science in four years, begin to brace up for the preparation of an essay on "protoplasmic evolution of the molecule, as manifested in the development of the homogenous and undifferentiated Cosmos."—Stebenville Herald.

When a bee brings pollen into the hive, he advances to the cell in which it is to be deposited and kicks it off; another bee, one of the indoor hands, comes along and runs it down with his head and packs it into the cell as a dairy maid packs butter into a firkin.—John Burroughs. We would prefer not to have any dairy-maid pack our butter that way.—Travelers Record. If our butter must be packed in that way, let it be done by a bald headed dairy-maid.—Rome Sentinel.

An agricultural journal tells how to make a very pretty window ornament. Take a good-sized sponge, it says, sow it full of rice, oats or grass seed, and place it in a dish of water. The sponge will absorb the water, and when the seeds begin to sprout, attach a cord to the sponge and suspend it in a window. We should like to serve some of the good-sized "sponges" in this neighborhood in the manner described, but the difficulty is they are already very seedy, and will not absorb water worth a cent.—Norristown Herald.

A Pandit's Catechism.

When may ladies who are enjoying themselves be said to look wretched? When at the opera, as then they are in tiers.

What is the difference between a bee-hive and a diseased potato? None at all, as one is a bee-holder, and the other a speck'd tater.

Why are lawyers such uneasy sleepers? Because they lie first on one side and then on the other, and remain wide awake all the time.

Why are ladies' eyes like persons separated by the Atlantic ocean? Because although they may correspond they never meet.

Why are the actions of men like great rivers? Because we see the course they take, but not the source from whence they spring.

In a letter to a friend, a young lady states that she is not engaged, but she sees a cloud above the horizon about as large as a man's hand.

Why is JOSEPH GILLOTT a very bad man? Because he wishes to accustom the public to steel pens, and then tries to persuade them that they do write.

Why was the whale that swallowed JONAH like a milkman who has retired on an independence? Because he took a great profit out of the waters.

Why is a short man struggling to kiss a tall woman like an Irishman going up Vesuvius? Because, sure, he is trying to get at the mouth of the crater.—Exchange.

Our Own Dick Deadeye;

OR, PLAIN WORDS FROM A PLAIN HAND.

An artist in British Columbia sends me a pencil sketch illustrating the local railway squabble, which is little understood here in the east. From the drawing and the note accompanying it, I get at the case as follows.

* * *

Burrard Inlet is close to New Westminster, which town is immediately opposite Victoria, Vancouver Island. Victoria does not wish to see the rival town made the terminus of the C. P. Ry., but wants the line to end at Bute Inlet, away up the coast, from which it would have a ferry established across to the Island, and an additional line of railway run down the shore to Victoria.

* * *

This little scheme, if carried out to please this little town of Victoria, will cost a good many millions of money, but I suppose they can carry their point easily enough, if they get the politicians at their back.

* * *

When I directed attention last week to the wonderful enterprise of the Telegram in connection with the HANLAN-ELLIOTT race, I find I didn't do that journal full justice. On looking over its special cable despatch I find that the Telegram's too awfully clever correspondent sends a message of "HANLAN in sight and leading by a good distance" at a moment when, as we subsequently learned, they had not made a start!

* * *

I AM happy to hear that the Government has saved the self-respect of the country by recalling the permission granted to the 69th N. Y. Fenian regiment to pay a visit to Montreal on Dominion Day. There is no objection to receiving American companies and indulging in a little mutual soft soap and bosh once in a while, but Fenians cannot be looked upon by Canadians as legitimate citizens of the United States or any other country.

* * *

I understand that Sir JOHN, Sir CHARLES and Sir LEONARD are about to proceed to England to ask JOHN BULL for another big loan to enable them to go on with that QUIXOTIC enterprise, the British Columbia Railway. I hope JOHN BULL will not give a farthing until the knights demonstrate the feasibility and common sense of the scheme.

* * *

"Is Canada loyal?" enquires the London Ecaminer. Why, bless your editorial heart, yes, of course it is! You don't suppose that Prof. GOLDWIN SMITH would deliberately take up his abode in a country that wasn't loyal, do you?

A "Karrackter."

Mr. O. J. DEVLIN, a Montreal Grit, has written the following to the Gazette of that city:

"I had business in Ottawa the other day, and although the Ministers knew my previous political history well, yet I was treated with as much courtesy and consideration as if I had been a life-long supporter of the Conservative party. The Minister of Justice in particular exhibited a kindly interest in my mission, and gave my case as much attention as I could expect and as if there was no such thing as politics in the world."

The Hamilton Times looks at this and concludes that Mr. DEVLIN is an egotist and a sycophant of the worst description. We are inclined to the more merciful view that Mr. DEVLIN is a humorist, and that the above

GREAT WESTERN RAILWAY.

PASSENGERS

FOR

Manitoba, the North West Territories,

OR ANY POINT IN

WESTERN CANADA OR THE UNITED STATES,

Should remember that this is the most comfortable and direct route; and the only line in Canada running the CELEBRATED DINING CARS, in connection with the Michigan Central R. Rd., between Suspension Bridge and Chicago. Wagner's Sleeping Cars attached to all Night Trains, Parlor Cars to Day Trains.

THROUGH TICKETS by this Popular Route can be obtained at Lowest Rates at All Principal Stations, and from Agents representing the Line throughout Canada.

F. BROUGHTON,
Gen. Manager.

xii-22-121.

J. L. DAVIS & SONS,

399 VONGE STREET, TORONTO.

HOUSE, SIGN, & ORNAMENTAL PAINTERS,
PAPER HANGERS &c. xiii-5-21

PACIFIC RAILWAY.

TENDERS.

TENDERS for the construction of about one hundred miles of Railway, West of Red River, in the Province of Manitoba, will be received by the undersigned until noon on Friday, 1st August next.

The Railway will commence at Winnipeg, and run North-westerly to connect with the main line in the neighborhood of the 4th base line, and thence Westerly between Prairie la Portage and Lake Manitoba.

Tenders must be on the printed form, which, with all other information, may be had at the Pacific Railway Engineer's Offices, in Ottawa and Winnipeg.

F. BRAUN,

Secretary.

Department of Railways and Canals, }
OTTAWA, 16th June, 1879. }

xiii-6-51.

$2 Per Annum, Free of Postage.

"GRIP" Now in its seventh year and Thirteenth Volume, and more popular and influential than ever before.

PRESS OPINIONS.

"GRIP" is particularly clever this week. The cartoon is devoted, as a matter of course, to Hanlan and his victory over Elliott. The centre piece represents the champion between his friends, Ward and Heasley, in the act of putting on his coat and saying to John B.L., who shields the weeping English sculler in his rear, "have you any more champions, Mr. Bull, before I put my coat on?" Besides the main picture there are a number of others on the same subject, viz. Hanlan's select crew of vanquished scullers, six theories how he did it. Time the only sculler who can beat our boy, the news in Australia, &c. The political notes are very amusing and embrace portraits of Sir John, Sir Samuel, Mr. Langevin who declares he was not so great a success in England as Hanlan, Mr. Norquay riding the "English" mule, Mr. Joly, Mr. Macpherson, Mr. Goldwin Smith, Mr. Geo. Brown and Mr. John Bright. The letterpress is as usual, quite up to the mark, making altogether an excellent number of this sprightly paper which never descends to anything low or impolite. — Quebec Chronicle.

—Bengough's cartoons on the Hanlan-Elliott race are very amusing. They illustrate the various theories of Hanlan's success, and are got up in a manner which would bring a smile to the gravest countenance. — Addington Reporter.

Financial.

$10 TO 1000

everything.

Address BAXTER & Co., Bankers, 17 Wall St., N. Y. xi-20-14

Invested in Wall St. Stock; makes fortunes every month. Book sent free explaining certificate of character handed to the Government is one of the broadest pieces of satire that he, or any other Grit, ever got off. The idea that considerations of politics could affect the dealings of Cabinet Ministers with individuals visiting Ottawa on private business affairs is really rich. The Gazette man, a friend of the Government, should have cuffed Mr. DEVLIN's ears for suggesting such a thing.

Sound Sense.

The Bobcaygeon editor is anticipating a visit from the royal party in September, and in view of that event says:

"LOUISE is the daughter of our Queen, and is entitled to every consideration by her birth; she is also an artist, and thereby entitled to our admiration; and likewise a doctored nice girl and consequently entitled to our love. All of which she shall have when she comes here, and we will give her of the best we have, and put on our Sunday clothes, and spend a little money with our professional friend, the hair-dresser, next door. But having done this and made her heartily welcome, it would be folly to do more, and it is to be hoped that our people will not go crazy as they are doing in Toronto under similar circumstances, and spending money which, if their own, they can't afford; and if not their own, is dishonest. —"

This editor is a sterling old brick, and a man after the Princess LOUISE's own heart, if what we have heard of that royal lady is true. An ostentatious and extravagant parade of tawdry grandeur by our over-taxed city could not fail to disgust persons of sound sense, as their Excellencies undoubtedly are, and we hope there may be enough aldermen of the mental calibre of this Bobcaygeon editor to prevent any such costly funkeyism being engaged in.

The Three Knights.

Dedicated to Sir JOHN, Sir CHARLES and Sir LEONARD.

I.

Three knights went roving out into the west,
Out into the west as the writs came down;
Each thought that Ontario's love was the best,
And the National Policy dreaded her frown;
For knights must work, though voters may weep,
There's much to get and many to keep,
Though the farmers all be moaning.

II.

Three editors sat in a U. E. room,
And they trimmed their lamps as the sun went down,
They read the returns in sorrow and gloom,
And swore that reaction was rolling up BROWN;
But we must work though candidates weep,
Reverses are sudden and voters are deep,
It never will pay to be moaning.

III.

Three knights forsaken by faithless bands,
In the morning gleam as the news came down,
With tearful eyes were wringing the'r hands,
For those who will never come back to town.
We worked so hard, but now we must weep,
The game is up; we may as well sleep
While Ontario laughs at our moaning.

To be candied with a young lady in expressing your admiration for her, it is not necessary to give her taffy.

MR. GEORGE LAIDLAW's speeches are considered by many to be too C. V. R. on his opponents. He should have his style corrected right o' way.

MUNCHAUSEN THE FISHMONGER.

Fresh, Missus! I should say they was! Wy! the Princess and the Markis sends 'em to me as fast as they catches 'em!

THE MONTREAL ORANGE MACHINE

My dear, there is no Grit government to embarrass, so you needn't mind vindicating your "evil and religious rights" by walking this year! Politics first, you know, my darling.

I found one morning that the sun,
Too early had his course begun;
"Photo's," said I, "why so much haste?"
He answered, "I've no time to waste:
Photographs are in such demand,
I promised BRUCE I'd be on hand."

J. BRUCE & Co., opp Rossin House.

xii-22-17.

BALDNESS!

Neither gasoline, vasoline, carboline, or Allen's, Ayer's, or Hall's hair restorers have produced luxuriant hair on bald heads. That great discovery is due to Mr. Winter-cornby, 61 King-street East, (late 132 Church-street), as can be testified to by hundreds of living witnesses in this city and Province. He challenges all the so-called restorers to produce a like result.

Send for circulars.

xii-12-17

CAUTION.
EACH PLUG OF THE
MYRTLE NAVY TOBACCO

IS STAMPED

T. & B.

IN GILT LETTERS.

NONE OTHER IS GENUINE.

xiii-1-3m

"Sentry Go!"

"In consideration of the gallantry displayed by non-commissioned officers and men at Rorke's Drift, the issue has been sanctioned of a flannel shirt and pair of trousers to each man present, to compensate for damage to clothing."—English Paper.

A soldier sat cleaning his belts
And pouches for morning parade,
With profuse perspiration he melts,
'Tis one hundred degrees in the shade!
He had served long in all sorts of lands,
Had marched round Quebec in the snow:
And he now in the famed "burning sands"
Of Africa does "Sentry go!"

He fought through the Crimean fights,
Was bayoneted at the Redan,
And wounded at Alma's steep heights,
Got sabred at dread Inkerman;
Through the Indian Rebellion he served.
And was at the relief of Lucknow:
From his duty he never once swerved,
But he still has to do "Sentry go!"

And so in the course of events
He happened to be at Rorke's Drift,
When some thousands of bold "colored gents"

Were seen coming down through the mist.
While there in his mealie-bag fort
He many a Zulu laid low;
He was only doing his part
As he would when he cried "Sentry go!"

The brigade now fell in for parade,
And soon were formed into square,
And the Colonel some compliments paid
To the men of Rorke's Drift who were there.

The country with gratitude seized
For their actions through blood, heat and dirt.
Had added to each man if he pleased,
A new pair of pants and a shirt!

FRED.—"ANNIE what makes you look so dull?"

ANNIE—(Who has been waiting for FRED to propose).—"Because I'm not yet Anniemated."

S. R. QUIGLEY,
ENGRAVER & JEWELLER,
MASONIC & SOCIETY REGALIA, EMBLEMS, &c.
10 KING ST. EAST, TORONTO. xiii-4-17

THE
NEW DOMINION,
3 MONTHS ON TRIAL
FOR 25 CENTS.

A large 8-page, 40-column weekly family paper. The cheapest and best serial ever yet published. Address
S. FRANK WILSON, 13 Victoria St.,
Toronto, Ont., Canada.

TO PHONOGRAPHERS!

PRICE-LIST REVISED APRIL 1, 1879.

Compend of Phonography	5 cts.
Exercises in Phonography,	5
Grammologies and Contractions,	10
Questions on Manual,	15
Selections in Reporting Style,	20
Teacher,	30
Key to Teacher,	30
Reader,	20
Manual,	35
Reporter,	90
Reporting Exercises,	30
Phrase Book,	35
Railway Phrase Book,	25
Covers for holding Note Book,	20
The Reporter's Guide, by Thos. Allan Reid	60
Self-culture, corresponding style,	75
The Book of Psalms, corresponding style,	35
The book of Psalms, cloth	75
Common Prayer morocco, with gilt edges	$2.80
The Other Life, cloth	50
New Testament, reporting style,	$2.50
Phonographic Dictionary	1.50
Pilgrim's Progress, corresponding style,	55
Pilgrim's Progress, cloth	90
Esop's Fables, in Learner's Style	20
Ten Pounds and Other Tales, cor. style	20

Send post-paid to any address on receipt of price.

BENGOUGH BROS.

Next Post Office, Toronto.

Try RYRIE, the Jeweller, FOR WATCHES, CHAINS, RINGS, &c., &c., 113 YONGE STREET.
EVERYTHING WARRANTED.

THOS. DAVIES & CO'S LAGER BEER is nourishing and refreshing. Try it.

PUBLISHERS' NOTE.

GRIP is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.

Subscription price, $2 per annum, strictly in advance. For sale by all newsmen. Back numbers supplied. BENGOUGH BROS.

USE ONLY

ONTARIO Baking Powder.

Ask your Grocer for it.

MANUFACTORY:
247 King Street West,
TORONTO.

xii-20-19

BENGOUGH BROS.

Are prepared to execute orders for

ENGRAVING

in the highest style of the art.

Type Metal Plates

MADE FROM

Pen and Ink Sketches, Photographs, Lithographs, &c.,

More perfect, true and lasting than any wood engraving, and at a much lower cost. Call and see specimens at

GRIP OFFICE.

Next door to Post Office, Toronto.

Readers of "GRIP"

Desiring anything in the Book or Music line, which they may not be able to procure at home, can have them forwarded, at once, if in the city, by addressing BENGOUGH BROS., next P.O., Toronto.

RODWELL & FELL, Engravers,

And Manufacturers of Rubber and Metal Stamps,

PRESS AND WAX SEALS,

Name Plates, Baggage and Key Checks.

7 Adelaide St. East,
TORONTO.

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY.

The tens of thousands who are making exclusive use of the COOK'S FRIEND Baking Powder, thereby render UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY to its superiority. Retailed everywhere. xii-12-19

WANTED.—5 cents each will be paid for the following back numbers of GRIP:

VOL. 2	No. 2, 16, 23.
" 3	" 7, 17, 20, 19, 24.
" 4	" 1, 2, 4, 5, 6, 7.
" 5	" 5, 7, 17, 19, 21, 26.
" 6	" 6, 7, 9, 13, 25.
" 7	" 4, 12, 20, 21.
" 8	" 1, 2, 7, 12, 5, 16.
" 9	" 15.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

TORONTO.

$66 A WEEK in your own town. $5 outfit free. No risk. Reader, if you want a business at which persons of either sex can make great pay all the time they work, write for particulars to H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Me.

"THE HANLAN-ELLIOTT RACE."

Another edition of "GRIP" of June 21st, containing this cartoon, will be ready to-day.

BENGOUGH BROS.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, JULY 5, 1879.

GRIP OFFICE,
IMPERIAL BUILDING.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

5 CTS. EACH.
$2 PER ANNUM.

A. H. GORRELL & CO.,

— PROPRIETORS OF THE —

TORONTO LITHOGRAPHING COMPANY,

33 Wellington Street East, Toronto.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach GRIP office not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

ZELL'S POPULAR ENCYCLOPEDIA.

A gentleman leaving the city offers for sale a copy of ZELL'S POPULAR ENCYCLOPEDIA, complete in 2 Vols., bound in half Morocco with gilt edges, for only $39. cost $39.50.

Address E. O. T., GRIP Office.

GERMAN

RYE BREAD. FAMILY BREAD. BROWN BREAD. SNOWFLAKE ROLLS.

CRUMPTON'S BAKERY,

171 KING-ST. EAST.

7 Doors east of Market. xii-10-19

SKIFF FOR SALE.

A first class cedar skiff, copper-riveted, twenty-three feet long, two pairs of oars, carpet and rugs. This skiff is light and capable of carrying half a dozen persons with comfort.

Apply to
P.O. Drawer. 2673.

CHEAP READING.

We will send to subscribers of GRIP any of the following magazines and papers for one year at prices annexed.

Scribner, $4. Grip, $2, both, $5.
St. Nicholas, $3, Grip, $2, both $4.25.
Scientific American, $3.20, Grip, $2, both $4.75.
Detroit Free Press, $2, Grip, $2, both, $3.25.

BENGOUGH BROS.

COAL AND WOOD,
OF THE BEST QUALITY.

AND AT LOWEST PRICES,

NAIRN'S.

Office, Next Post Office.

Docks, Foot of Church Street.

Selections.

The Canadian Thames.

Navigation has closed at London, Ont. It may seem rather early in the season, yet the Advertiser says: "Owing to the lowness of the water all the steamboats have stopped running on the Thames." This state of things is deplorable when the lowness is due to natural causes, but this is not the case in London. The utter stoppage in the vessel interests is caused by the new water works pumping too much out of the river, and it is feared that if this hot weather continues the river will be forced into bankruptcy and London will have to forego all hope of being a prominent maritime city. No doubt several pails of water have been taken on the sly from this mammoth stream, and thus the interests of navigation have been seriously jeopardized by unthinking persons. Any person who has had the privilege of gazing on the magnificent proportions of the Thames at London might imagine that the steamers were about the size of a Detroit River skiff, but in reality they are large boats that will carry 300 persons. Last year 200 Detroiters, who were visiting London, greatly enjoyed their four-mile ride on the little river and big steamer. The steamers are broad and flat and draw very little water. During the season of 1878 a rumor reached this city that one of the steamers was lost by running ashore on an oyster can, but Mr. WASTIE, Chief of the Fire Department there, and owner of the steamer, called at the Free Press office shortly after and contradicted the rumor. He told some interesting anecdotes about the dangers of the deep as shown by the navigation of the Thames at London. On one occasion the boat with a hundred and fifty persons on board was returning from a voyage when a cow was standing on the track—that is in the river. The cow was perfectly satisfied with her position and would not move. Unfortunately the boats are not provided with cowcatchers. For half an hour that cow kept the tired Londoners from their home. Every movable article on board except the anchor was flung at the cow. The boat was run up to the cow and the whistle tooted, but the bovine merely moved up the stream and chewed the cud of sweet and bitter fancies. At last a boy, for ten cents, rolled up his trowsers, stepped over the guard and drove the cow ashore, and then climbed back on the steamer which went on its way rejoicing. Another time the steamer, which had on a heavy load, did not return at the hour it was expected. Mr. WASTIE, becoming alarmed, started down the river bank in search of the missing boat. About a mile down he saw her in the centre of the stream stuck on a sandbar, while some dozens of men were out in the river trying to shove her back. Taking the situation in at a glance, Mr. WASTIE mounted a bluff, made a trumpet of his hands and shouted to the captain: "Get all the passengers aft: then back out and take the north channel." The captain, who did not recognize his employer in the dusk, cried: "See here, granger, you go and tend to your cows. I'm running this boat." In ten minutes after WASTIE was running the boat and running her toward London too.—Detroit Free Press.

Do not despise small beginnings. Many a boy starts out in the world as a friendless orphan with only one pair of pants, and ultimately reaches the exalted position of a seaside hotel clerk and wears a fifty-cent diamond breastpin.—Middletown Transcript.

ARE YOU FOND OF READING?—Drink the Li-Quor Pure Tea and get a Handsome Library for Nothing, AT THE TORONTO AGENCY OF THE

LI-QUOR TEA Co. of LONDON, Eng.,

295 Yonge Street,

xiii-2-3m

6 Doors north of Cruickshank.

M. J. HYNES & BRO.,

Contractors and Plasterers,
HAVE REMOVED FROM 11 VICTORIA TO
102 KING STREET WEST.

VERNON,

Manufacturing Jeweller,

159 YONGE STREET.

Watches and Clocks Repaired. Pipes Mounted.

xiii-4-tf

Scientific American.

THIRTY-FOURTH YEAR.

The Most Popular Scientific Paper in the World

Only $3.20 a Year, including Postage. Weekly.
52 Numbers a Year. 4,000 book pages.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN is a large First-Class Weekly Newspaper of sixteen Pages, printed in the most beautiful style, profusely illustrated with splendid engravings, representing the newest inventions and the most recent advances in the Arts and Sciences; including New and Interesting Facts in Agriculture, Horticulture, the Home, Health, Medical Progress, Social Science, Natural History, Geology, Astronomy. The most valuable practical papers, by eminent writers in all departments of Science, will be found in the Scientific American.

Terms, $5.20 per year, $1.60 half year, which includes postage. Discount to Agents. Single copies ten cents. Sold by all Newsdealers. Remit by postal order to MUNN & CO., Publishers, 37 Park Row, New York.

PATENTS. In connection with the Scientific American, Messrs. MUNN & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, have had 34 years experience, and now have the largest establishment in the world. Patents are obtained on the best terms. A Special notice is made in the Scientific American, of all inventions patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. By the immense circulation thus given, public attention is directed to the merits of the new patent, and sales or introduction often easily effected.

Any person who has made a new discovery or invention, can ascertain, free of charge, whether a patent can probably be obtained, by writing to the undersigned. We also send, free of charge, our Hand Book about the Patent Laws, Patents, Caveats, Trade-Marks, their costs, and how procured, with hints for procuring advances on inventions. Address for Paper or concerning Patents, MUNN & CO., 37 Park Row, New-York.

Subscriptions received by BENGOUGH BROS., Toronto.

Tenders for Steel Rails.

TENDERS addressed to the Honorable the Minister of Railways and Canals will be received at the Canadian Emigration Office, 31 Queen Victoria street, E. C., London, England, until JULY 15, next, for Steel Rails and Fastenings, to be delivered at MONTREAL, as follows:

5,000 tons by October 1st, 1879.

5,000 tons by June 1st, 1880.

5,000 tons by October 1st, 1880.

Specifications, Conditions, Forms of Tender, and all other information will be furnished on application at this office, or at the Canadian Emigration Office, 31 Queen Victoria street, E. C. London, England.

By order,

F. BRAUN.

Secretary.

Department of Railways and Canals; }
OTTAWA, 13th June, 1879. }

xiii-6-3.

Stage Whispers.

We are to have a week of Pinafore in the delightful Gardens, by LAURENT'S Fifth Avenue Opera Co., commencing on Monday evening 17th.

Let those now laugh who've often laughed before,
And those who've never laughed see Pinafore.
Miss THURSBY is singing in ballad concerts in London, England.

They say SOTHERN took the Juke of Beaufort along to dig the worms.

Miss MARY ANDERSON has a new play entitled "For Sybil's Sake."

J. H. HAVERLY has SALVINI on all engagements played by him outside of New York city next year.

ADA CAVEDISH remains in this country next season, and will star under the management of MAT CANNING.

Either next fall or 1880, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. FLORENCE propose to make "The Mighty Dollar" pass current in England.

TOM TAYLOR's play "Retribution" has been revived at the Olympic Theatre, London, after a sleep of twenty-three years.

MR. W. W. STORY in the intervals of his modelling, has found time to write a charming little comedy for his own private stage. Its title is "Second Thoughts."

ADELAIDE NEILSON will make her first appearance in this country next season at the Park Theatre, Brooklyn, on October 20. She will not play in New York until January.

MR. WALLACK is said to have bought a play that has had a great success in Copenhagen. It represents in the most satirical manner a party of adventurers who have a plan for a railway to St. Paul's from the moon.

The death of CHARLES A. CALVERT, the English actor and theatrical manager, is announced from London. Mr. CALVERT was chiefly known in this country by his supervision of the stage spectacles Henry V. and Sardanapalus, produced in Booth's Theatre in the same style in which they were first presented by Mr. CALVERT in Manchester.

A story concerning the late Mrs. HOWARD PAUL is related by the Dramatic News. Once in London, when there was a large take, SIMS REEVES, who was the hero of the hour, sent word that he was indisposed. This meant a return of the money. Mrs. HOWARD PAUL was one of the singers, and at a moment's notice she went on for Mr. REEVES, and imitated his voice and manner so correctly that no one knew the difference.

Mme. NILSSON had a rapturous reception on her first appearance at Her Majesty's Theatre a few days ago. She had not sung in London for two years, and the public was delighted to hear her again. She chose Kauai to effect her reappearance in, and it is said by the English papers that she was never more charming as "Marguerite" than on this occasion. CAMPANINI was the "Faust," and FOLI the "Mephistopheles."

MR. CARL ROSA has arrived in New York, and is looking over the operatic field in this country, with a view to investing some of the surplus capital which he is said to have derived from a highly successful season in London. Mr. ROSA will have to secure the services of a regiment of militia to protect him from the advances of an army of amateurs who have served a professional apprenticeship before the mast of H. M. S. Pinafore.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

By BENGOUGH Bro's, Proprietors. Office:—Imperial Buildings, next to the Post Office, Adelaide Street, Toronto. GEO. BENGOUGH, Business Manager.

Original contributions paid for. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned. Literary and Business communications to be addressed to BENGOUGH Bro's.

EDITED AND ILLUSTRATED BY J. W. BENGOUGH.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

To Subscribers in New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, and Nova Scotia.—Please remit Dominion Notes if convenient, as there is a discount of 5 per cent. on your Local Bank Notes here.

To Correspondents.

Frater.—Shall be pleased to hear from you again. Try something shorter.

Advertiser, London.—GRIP goes regularly from this office to your address. Why it fails to reach you is one of those things no fellow can find out. Perhaps our postmaster don't know where your little town is.

A Subscriber.—You say, "Our postmaster, being of an aquatic turn of mind has kept my copy of GRIP." We have sent another, but would prefer that the Government should put an appropriation in the estimates to provide those postmasters with copies of GRIP in future, and save us from these unceasing complaints.

The Judicious Sir John.

SIR JOHN—I am the monarch of Premiers,
And I haven't any fears,
But I can extricate myself from any kind of mess,
ALL—No more have his colleagues, his Party or his press.

SIR JOHN—I was once thrown out of power,
And they said my day was o'er,
But again the country gave me its caress,
ALL—And so did his colleagues, his Party and his press.

SIR JOHN—Now this here Letellier dish
Is a pretty kettle of fish,
It has very nearly settled me, I do confess,
ALL—And so do his colleagues, his Party and his press.

SIR JOHN—But while the Frenchmen fume,
I will just take ship for home,
For I happen to have business there, more or less,
ALL—And so have his colleagues, his Party and his press.

SIR JOHN—So when the breezes blow,
And Quebec is all aglow,
I will not be there to be spoken to, I guess,
ALL—No, nor will his colleagues, his Party nor his press.

How I Passed Dominion Day.

5 a.m.—Arose; refreshed; looked out on the glorious summer morning, its delightful quiet yet undisturbed by the fresh-fish and strawberry fiends, or the untuneful though welcome clang of the matutinal milkman's bell.

How glorious the thought that but a few short years ago I was a mere colonist, and to-day, Dominion Day, I am a—a—what am I anyway? what shall I call myself? A Canadian I was before Confederation, and the name is usually corrupted into "Canuck," which is not by any means an euphonious title. Dominion and Dominionist are both equally objectionable.

Mem.—Must write to the Government as to adopting new name.

8 a.m.—Refreshed. Started out "on pleasure bent." Where shall I go? what shall I do? I am told by an advertiser in the Telegram, (city circulation 500,000, &c.)

to "Hurrah for the Old Sandbar at Home."—I won't hurrah for the Old Sand bar, or any other bar, at home or abroad, I object to all bars, sand, saloon or legal; they are to me all "bars sinister." Go to the Falls? No; the Falls are a fraud, and the TUPPER like turpitude of the inhabitants of its surroundings is as proverbial as TUPPER's philosophy. Crossing the Lake is very well in fair weather; fine groupings of passengers, handsome mothers, lovely children, pensive maidens reading (?) Lakeside novels; charming black-eyed damsel and good-looking swain, probably bank clerk—looks banky—sitting on rail eating caramels. Fine study for artist, but on the whole too spooney for general observer. Crossed last week with volunteers; splendid corps; well up in South African drill,—they were safely "laagered" all the passage.

10 a.m.—Weather hot; called at Rossin House,—refreshed. Must go somewhere. Why not Victoria Park? It is the height of enjoyment with some to go to Scarborough on the "Maxwell;" the boat seems inseparable from the place. Happy thought, why not call the Park Maxwell town? So poetic! "Maxwelltown braes are bonny."—Mem.—Must write to proprietors as to this.

11 p.m.—Called at Queen's Hotel; met friend from Oxford, Eng. Self and friend refreshed. Friend nil admirari, won't go to Victoria Park; won't go anywhere. Vulgar to amuse oneself, especially on a holiday. Refresh again. Suggest Lorne Park;—fine sail on lake; place of rustic simplicity. Proprietors say it is "peerless." Don't know, but think it likely will be peerless some day after a heavy East gale. Told friend there was to be a regatta. Friend says "Pshaw! you've nothing here, you know, for me to see in that way. You ought to come home, where—" (Friend here stops short; something apropos to the subject recurring to him—but continued) "Well, yaas, you have some fair oarsmen here, I know."

12 noon.—Refresh; bid good-bye to Oxonian. Guess I'll go up to ALLAN Gardens. Change of name here was suggested by me. Long walk—felt quite exhausted.—Stepped into wayside inn and refreshed. Old fashioned place; lithograph^s of BURNS and his Highland MARY over bar; landlord conversing with customer in unfamiliar tongue, either low Dutch or broad Scotch; proved to be the latter. Debating on the propriety of inserting a certain "ad" in the Globe. Hot words over it. Question referred to me. Landlord said that as a Reformer he thought it wrong for a Grip paper to be an instrument in spreading Conservative fallacies. "I presume, Sir," said I, "you keep a no-tory public." No reply, but Globe of 25th ult. put in my hand. "Ad" referred to was in the words and figures following, that is to say, "Files of the Toronto Leader, dated from 1846 to 1873, well bound, for sale cheap, Box 535, P.O., Toronto." Great JUPITER BLAKE! a treasure trove. My old friend the "Patriot" (it was I who suggested the name being changed to the Leader) going as it were begging! I addressed the North Briton BONIFACE thus: "My friend you are a self accused Grit, and consequently my deadly political foe, but you have done me a lasting kindness, and are now my friend the enemy—Refresh the crowd. To-day I thought to seek amusement among the votaries of pleasure in uncongenial company, but when I look upon that advertisement I can cry with the Greek philosopher, Eureka! Let all hands refresh again."

I sought out 535 P.O., obtained the volume, returned to my room, and passed the remainder of the day in quiet enjoyment, happy in devouring the contents of the Toronto Leader from 1846 to 1873.

The Birthplace of Hanlan.

The birthplace of a great man has always a more than common attraction. Being on a visit to the city I thought it would not do to leave without visiting the birthplace of HANLAN. Accordingly, hiring a boat for an hour, I pulled over to the Island, sprung out on the shore—which I found to be nothing more or less than a low sand bank—pulled up the boat, and turned around to feast my eyes on the immortal structure. The last glimmer of day was fading in the west, a gentle breeze disturbed the foliage of the trees which surround the building, through which the beams of the moon pierced, and silvered o'er the roof; lamps were shining brightly in the windows, and from the open door came forth a sound as of tumblers falling on a counter and exploding pop bottles—for it was Dominion Day—to mingle with the laughter and hum of loiterers along the shore, and the musical squeak of rickety swings. As I gazed I thought how beautiful! how impressive! But soon my feelings of admiration and pleasure found vent in words like these: "And this is the birthplace of HANLAN! Who would have thought that I should have lived to see so goodly a sight? Surely now my life has not been in vain." As visitors generally carry away, if it is at all convenient, some memorial of their visit, some relic of thee, at whose shrine they have met, in whose admiration they have indulged, I proceeded to the corner of the house and commenced to cut off a small chip, but was aroused from my work by a person who, I suppose, belongs to the place, kindly offering me his boot to help me away. However, upon explaining the object of my visit, and sincerity of intention, he allowed me the consolation—since I could not carry away the chip—of nibbling a pebble against the boards until it imbibed all the charms, and became, as it were, a part of the house itself; which pebble, I assure you, Mr. GRIP, I shall ever wear on a chain of gold around my neck, as the greatest treasure a Canadian can possess.

While still my bosom swelled with admiration, I turned and spoke to the waves: "Oh, ye waves that roll day and night unceasingly upon the shore, I would that I were one of ye. Proud would I be to think that I had kissed the sands while yet they bore the impress of the feet of the mighty HANLAN, that I had borne his boat upon my bosom and felt his arms embrace me, that I had washed the pebbles his hands had gathered in childhood, as he was wont to linger long beside me to dream of future glory—rejoice, for ye are honored above all other waves!" Then a wave, as it rolled back from the shore, murmured sweetly, "HANLAN;" the wind caught up and bore onward until a thousand waves responded, "HANLAN!" and back from over the waters came an echo, "HANLAN." A straggler passed me by and on his hat and collar I saw HANLAN; the sand seemed rolling into the features of HANLAN; I looked toward the house and all was HANLAN; the moon, and she had put on the face of HANLAN; on every side, where'er I turned my gaze, all, all was HANLAN. Getting into the boat I pulled for the city, with "HANLAN" still ringing in my ears and dancing before my eyes, running the risk in my hurry of riding down a returning excursion boat. I reached the wharf to find that I had been three hours out instead of one, but I didn't mind the extra charge as the pebble I bore away I have set beyond value. As though to make all complete, as I paused for a moment on the steps of the hotel to take a parting look of the island, an owl swooped down and, close to my ear, screeched "HANLAN!"

Jubilation Overmuch.

There is a limit to all things, it is said, and perhaps there will be a limit to the jubilation of the dominant party in Ontario over the result of June 5th. But up to the present writing the beginning of the end is not in sight. Mr. Mowat and Mr. BLAKE having just returned from a grand blow-out over the event at Woodstock, are on the eve of changing cars for Markham, where another celebration of the glorious victory awaits them. Of course GRIP has no objection to this. It amuses Mr. Mowat, and don't hurt anybody else, only it is rather calculated to make ironical Tories say that if the victory of the fifth was no more than such a good ministry had a right to expect, why all this delightful crowing? As for Mr. BLAKE, we are pleased to see him bestirring himself at anything, for it indicates that he still lives. These little outings may perhaps inspire him with a reasonable amount of interest in the larger questions of the country, and help him to get up steam for the great job that lies ahead of him, to wit, the leading back to power of his shattered party. Meantime, gentlemen, don't blow too hard, for, remember, pride goeth before destruction.

GRIP TO HIS WORSHIP.

Now Mr. Mayor, we want your official sanction to this, and don't lose any more time about it!

A Frog Story.

Two ponds lay alongside of each other, and a different species of frogs dwelt in each; but between the two there was continual traffic. The frogs of one of the ponds built up a partition between the two which they called a "Policy," that the waters of the other pond might not roll in upon them. A large frog called JOHN A., who had been chief in the erection, sat upon a stone to view his Policy; when, lo! he saw a troop of frogs headed by an enemy of his called BROWN, who had become their head by his large feet—which made him an excellent swimmer,—trying to pull down the Policy; and he sighed, "Alas! alas! has it come to this? I thought ten thousand frogs should have leaped from their puddles to avenge even a look that threatened my Policy with disdain; but the shadow has passed away, the sun has shone in and with the light they have received eyes. Alas! alas!" Just then a frog from the other side raised his head over the partition, and cried "We come, we come!" and the large frog on this side replied "Welcome, welcome; but friend, there is a time for everything; wait patiently, it will take four years yet to remove all the props; but at present you may throw me over a pair of boots, if you can do it without being seen, and have any large enough."

The Political Guillotine.

The guillotine is an ingenious contrivance, invented in France, for the purpose of bringing all parties to one mind. The subject to be operated on is introduced into the presence of the machine, and if he has any desire to remain in a state of health, he lays aside his own opinions and adopts those of the dominant party; if, however, he prefers not to do this voluntarily, then the dominant party puts him in the proper position, and with the guillotine removes his head, and lays both it and his opinions aside together. It is, of course, greatly to the advantage of a country that the people should all think alike on political questions. This is the view taken by the able and paternal government which at present rules in Canada, and for the purpose of practically carrying out this view it is said the government have imported and set up a guillotine, which has been working admirably for some time past. The ranks of the Civil Service have furnished the victims for the machine, and the heads of Grit postmasters, weights and measures inspectors, etc., are reported to be lying about the country by the basketful. Some of Mr. Mowat's friends and supporters are advising him to set up a similar machine in Ontario, by way of retaliation, but whether he will or not remains to be seen.

Old Mrs. "Mail" to Mr. Joly.

And so they tell me I put my foot into it when I pitched into you so severe the other day for holding of a meeting of Parlyment on the Sabbath day, and thus proving yourself to be a bad wicked boy, like all the Grits is! Well, I don't care if I did put my foot into it; I am a good respectable old lady, and I can't abear to hear of people showing such violent disrespect of the first day of the week. If I used strong language and said sharp things about people in general when I got started, it was only because my feelings was strong, and I had to give 'em vent. Of course, seeing as how you didn't hold no meetin' on Sunday, why, that makes a considerable of a difference, though to be sure, you might have done so. Being that you are a Grit, I am surprised that you didn't do so. But, as in point of fact you didn't, why I suppose I'll have to excuse you this time; but don't you do it agin. You needn't take what I said about you to heart this time; it is jest put there to let you see what you may expect if you do hold a meetin' on Sunday!

The Lacrosse Match.

WHITE EAGLE came down like a big bird of prey, And with the Toronto's first twelve got away!

SIR JOHN A. MACDONALD PORTER, K.C.B.
"AND WHEN THE BREEZES BLOW I GENERALLY GO BELOW, AND COURT THE SECLUSION WHICH A CABIN GRANTS."

THE JOKER CLUB.

"The Pun is mightier than the Sword."

The rows that all are praising—Hanlan's.
—Syracuse Evening Herald.

"Winter," says a Nevada paper, "is now after summer with an icicle."—Boston Advertiser.

A mixed up boy asked for a "ten-cent bake of loafer's bread."—Boston Advertiser.

The man and the umbrella that have lost a r.b. should be re-paired.—Boston Transcript.

The new summer bonnet turns the head of every woman that does not wear it.—New York People.

"There's a woman at the bottom of it," as the man said when his wife fell in the well.
—Elmira Gazette.

Many so called "self made men" relieve their parents of a fearful load of responsibility.—Wheeling Leader.

Mrs. JONES says her husband will never be struck by lightning, because he always gets insulate.—Stubenville Herald.

"Stand up and tell the truth like a little bell punch," is the latest addition to the phraseology of slang.—Ex.

No modern family can do without a piano, a sewing machine, a kit of mackerel and a Presidential candidate.—N. Y. Herald.

The man with a diamond stud never wears a lambeauin shirtcover scarf—unless his shirt is in the wash.—Chicago Com. Adv.

"And the iron entered my soul," said Grayhead, as he pulled the tack out of the bottom of his slipper.—Boston Transcript.

A farmer on the shores of Lake Ontario has had nine acres washed away in twenty years. He is evidently losing ground.—New York Herald.

A man never enjoys the keen enjoyment of fishing on the part of the fish, until he get the hook well into the ball of his thumb, —Syracuse Times.

Strange that it wearies a man's legs so much less to stand up in front of a bar, than it does to stand up by a work bench.—Syracuse Sunday Times.

A man will treat a crowd to seventy-five cents worth of liquor, and then tell his wife he is too poor to purchase a quart of strawberries.—Oil City Derrick.

The world is made up of two kinds of people—those who work and those who spend all their time in getting ready to work.
—Boston Transcript.

When you come right down to "sounds of industry," a boy, a club and an old tin pan can do as much business as six carpenters working on a new house.

It is seldom you meet a chap who is more cleaver than the butcher. Why, even your wife is not ashamed to be seen smacking her lips over his chops.—New York News.

An old captain in the regular army says that a soldier can get drunk on cold water, if it is in a demijohn and there are stringent orders that all demijohns shall be suppressed.

"Swarm weather this," yelled a punster as he struck out over a ten acre lot followed by a secret society of hornets that he had fired into with a shot-gun.—Wheeling Leader.

If Mr. Ajax, hadn't just taken out a $5,000 insurance policy on a $600 house, he wouldn't have been so anxious for the lightning to strike in his vicinity.—Owego Record.

A Mississippi man puts in thus: "At the earnest solicitation of those whom I owe money I have consented to become a candidate for country Treasurer."—Detroit Free Press.

"Scratch a Russian, and you'll find a Tartar," and scratch a match on the parlor wall, and you'll find the old lady down on you like a thousand of brick.—New Haven Register.

A great many people are going over to examine the effete monarchies of Europe this season. Some of them will go out in the first cabin and come back in the steerage.
Cincinnati Commercial.

We buried him slyly on Monday night, the sods with our shooting-sticks turning, for he wrote a new poem and read it with might, in spite of the editor's snoring.—Stillwater Lumberman.

If the man who gave us by mistake the lead quarter he was saving to put into the contribution box Sunday, will call, we will cheerfully allow him to rectify his error.—Stillwater Lumberman.

A mother on Cottage hill saw her little daughter draw her sleeve across her mouth, and said, "Tilly, what is your handkerchief for?" "To flirt with, mamma," was the innocent reply.—Oil City Derrick.

We presume the reason why a coachman possesses such a peculiar fascination for many young ladies, is because he is so closely related to the bridle halter, and is a single.—Hackensack Republican.

A tinsmith will criticise a man's poetry to his face and tell him where it is weak and watery, but let the poet attempt to tell him where one of his kettles is defective and he will get mad.—N. Y. Sunday Star.

"Why, Alf, what in the world are you doing with that red paint?" exclaimed a fond mother, addressing her six year-old darling. "Why," replied the observing innocent, "I am paintin' my nose so it'll look like papa's." —American Punch.

The clown in the circus last week got off a new joke, and the audience were moved to tears by the wild and bewildered manner of the ring master to whom it came as unexpected as a snow storm in August.—Marathon Independent.

A little love will do for man.

But woman claims it ever,
Her heart, built on the broad-gauge plan,
Transports without endeavour
Whole tons of love, which she would fain
Bestow at her sweet pleasure,
But should you tread upon her train,
Her hate will know no measure.

New Haven Register: A ten-year old boy will climb all over the frame-work of a new house like a monkey and never get a fall or a scratch; but when his mother, half scared to death, sees him on the ridgepole and starts for him, she will stub her toe over a half-inch board and go headlong into the dirt, disfiguring her face so badly that she can't go to the sewing society for three weeks.

The man who goes fishing and sits in a cramp-inviting posture on a narrow wharf from early morn till dewy eve, and calls it fun, is the same chap that never goes to church because the pews aren't comfortable.
—Yonkers Gazette.

When a man is standing with one foot on a truck and the other on a case on the sidewalk, and the horse suddenly starts and causes him to open like a pair of shears, the rapidity with which he can't decide what to do is one of the most insoluble phenomena of human nature.—New York Star.

The play was at its height in the card-room of a well know club, and from a distant corner was heard, "We are two to two!" "By Jove, we are two to two too!" responded a player at an adjoining table. No wonder that a German there present likened our language to a French horn.—Judy.

A young lady in town well connected, in her talk was very affected. For neither she always said nither; And one day at the dentist's, Before the tooth was ejected, She said she believed she'd take "ither."
—Wheeling Sunday Leader.

A circular advocating a summer resort calls attention to "numerous cozy seats 'n forked trees and elsewhere—some of them just large enough for two persons." We defy the production of an attraction that can go ahead of that. We shall pass the major part of the summer there.—New Haven Register.

Little Billy was told, "Never ask for anything at the table. Little boys should wait until they are served." The other day little Billy was forgotten at the distribution, and was not served at all. What could he do? Presently, after reflecting seriously, he asked, "Mamma, when little boys starve to death, do they go to heaven?"—French Paper.

"A smile costs the giver nothing," says a good writer. Doesn't he? Perhaps not, but we know of a Rockland man who began to "smile" four years ago, and then got into the habit of generously giving his friends "smiles" also. He has smiled away a house and lot, a span of horses, a good business and his soul and character.—Rockland Courier.

'Tis the rose-bud with its delicate blush, that now adorns the lapel of the swell young gent. He would like to convey the impression that it was placed there by some fair hand that plucked it from its bush while yet it sparkled with the morning dew. This is not the case. It is one that he reached across the fence and stole from a front yard on his way down town.—New Haven Register.

A writer on archery says, "A lady walking through the fields or on unfrequented roads is well protected if she is an expert archer, for a thirty-pound bow will put an arrow through the stoutest tramp." A thirty pound bow might be useful, but a hundred-and-fifty pound beau would be vastly better. The lady could then be all the archer.—Uncle Sam.

A correspondent wants to know if wearing a hat tends to make a person bald. We believe it does. Women don't wear hats and they are not bald at least they don't wear them on their heads, and so they are not bald there. Hats destroy hair. A woman's hat is worn on the back of her head, and that is the reason why women have to buy so much back hair.—Danbury News.

A New Order.

Dear GRIP: -I have a project of great moment to communicate to you, and in the carrying out of which I crave your patronage and advice. There is a big thing in it, I assure you, and I have been urgently requested to favor the "Dictator" of the Globe with the offer of the position of patron or godfather. But I am not to be caught in that trap. He would want to own the whole thing himself, and thus put us completely in the back-ground. I will disclose it to you carefully and gradually, in order that you may not be completely carried away by surprise at its novelty, and enthusiastic admiration at the brilliancy of its conception. You are aware, my dear sir, of the great benefits social, financial, moral, religious and political, and of the rewards, honors, profits and advantages generally that are conferred upon their members by the various and numerous secret Orders and societies established in this country. Now, I am working up a new Order, having all the best features of all known orders, as well as many more new and important ones of my own invention. It will cause the benefits and advantages above mentioned, and now offered by the Free Masons, Orangemen, Knights of Pythias, and Odd Fellows to fade into the most despicable insignificance.

Allow me to enumerate some of our special features, to give you a faint outline of the glories of this new and unrivalled combination of benefits. In the first place, the entrance fee is to be small; much less than that of all existing Orders. This is to prevent the exclusion of any good but possibly impecunious individual.

Next, there is to be no blackballing. We have observed that the blackball seems to serve no purpose whatever unless to keep out occasionally persons politically obnoxious.

All persons are from the beginning of their membership to have as many degrees as they like, and wear as many brilliantly colored cloaks, badges, aprons and ribbons, and as many pieces of jewelry of glass, brass, or any other material, and spangles, stars, etc., etc., as fancy suggests, or they can purchase or carry.

We see no reason why these things should be limited in numbers, or to certain persons who are quite likely to be the meanest in the community. On the same ground and on the ground that they cost neither money nor effort, we will allow each and every member to choose and adopt whatever and as many titles of honour as he can invent, steal or borrow. We have often thought it absurd that men who were almost unknown, or known only to be disliked among their neighbors, should be held in high respect and dignity at the annual meetings of these antiquated societies, and be there addressed as "Most Worthy Grand Hidalgo" etc., etc. We hope by making these honors and titles open to all that some of them at least will be worthy work.

Then we shall have not only annual dinners, but monthly or weekly affairs of that kind, (in fact as many as we can afford) where we can all get drunk without check. This attraction will, we expect, more than any other we have to offer, induce members of existing orders to come to us. Our rules will prevent us from soliciting members, but we may insinuate that it will pay them to join us. They will understand by this that we are all bound by cast iron oaths to countenance or encourage no one but those of our own order, and those to help in sickness and in death, in difficulties pecuniary, and criminal,

GREAT WESTERN RAILWAY.

PASSENGERS

FOR
Manitoba, the North West Territories,
OR ANY POINT IN
WESTERN CANADA OR THE UNITED STATES.

Should remember that this is the most comfortable and direct route; and the only line in Canada running the
CELEBRATED DINING CARS,
in connection with the Michigan Central R. Rd., between Suspension Bridge and Chicago. Wagner's Sleeping Cars attached to all Night Trains, Parlor Cars to Day
Trains.

THROUGH TICKETS by this Popular Route can be obtained at Lowest Rates at All Principal Stations, and from Agents representing the Line throughout Canada.

F. BROUGHTON,
Gen. Manager.

xii-22-12t.

J. L. DAVIS & SONS.

399 YONGE STREET, TORONTO.

HOUSE, SIGN, & ORNAMENTAL PAINTERS,
PAPER HANGERS & C. xiii-5-2t

PACIFIC RAILWAY.

TENDERS.

TENDERS for the construction of about one hundred miles of Railway, West of Red River, in the Province of Manitoba, will be received by the undersigned until noon on Friday, 1st August next.

The Railway will commence at Winnipeg, and run North-westerly to connect with the main line in the neighborhood of the 4th base line, and thence Westerly between Prairie la Portage and Lake Manitoba.

Tenders must be on the printed form, which, with all other information, may be had at the Pacific Railway Engineer's Offices, in Ottawa and Winnipeg.

F. BRAUN,
Secretary,

Department of Railways and Canals, }
OTTAWA, 16th June, 1879. } xiii-6-5t.

$2 Per Annum, Free of Postage.

"GRIP" Now in its seventh year and Thirteenth
Volume, and more popular and influential than ever before.

PRESS OPINIONS.

"GRIP" is particularly clever this week. The cartoon is devoted, as a matter of course, to Hanlan and his victory over Elliott. The centre piece represents the champion between his friends, Ward and Heasley, in the act of putting on his coat and saying to John Bull, who shields the weeping English sculler in his rear, "have you any more champions, Mr. Bull, before I put my coat on?" Besides the main picture there are a number of others on the same subject, viz, Hanlan's select crew of vanquished scullers, six theories how he did it, Time the only sculler who can beat our boy, the news in Australia, &c. The political notes are very amusing and embrace portraits of Sir John, Sir Samuel, Mr. Langevin who declares he was not so great a success in England as Hanlan, Mr. Norquay riding the "English" mule, Mr. Joly, Mr. Macpherson, Mr. Goldwin Smith, Mr. Geo. Brown and Mr. John Bright. The letterpress is as usual, quite up to the mark, making altogether an excellent number of this sprightly paper which never descends to anything low or impolite. —Quebec Chronicle.

—Bengough's cartoons on the Hanlan-Elliott race are very amusing. They illustrate the various theories of Hanlan's success, and are got up in a manner which would bring a smile to the gravest countenance. —Addington Reporter.

Financial.

$10 TO 1000 Invested in Wall St. Stocks;
makes fortunes every month.
Book sent free explaining
everything.
Address BAXTER & Co., Bankers, 17 Wall St., N. Y.
xi-20-1v

nal, and in all contests with outsiders, whether in the way of trade or politics.

And finally, in order that the common prejudice in favor of orders of ancient origin may not prevent our success, we shall christen ourselves "The Sons of ADAM," and declare (and never waver from it) that we have existed as an order from the time of good old father ADAM, who established our ancient and honorable society and initiated the first members.

Yours sincerely,
JONES, P.D., G.M.K.G., etc.

More Ideas on the "Woman Question."

By SU SCEPTIBLE.

In the "New Ideal of Womanhood," to which I promised a critical reply, I observe the passage, "How often it happens that women, throw their whole being into a precarious affection, because morbidly sensitive to the most trifling sights, and brood over them till their mental balance is seriously disturbed * * * To a woman crushed by a heavy personal grief, nothing can be a greater blessing than a larger interest, whether it be in art, literature, or philanthropic work."

This mistaken theory is not new to me, in fact, some time ago, when G—, no, I will not refer to him, the subject is still fraught with pain to a sensitive spirit—but I may say, that in past days, when my heart was cruelly pierced, some persons wished me to try to forget my own affection by working for creatures of a low and uninteresting type. To expect a refined and too sensitive being to be brought into active association with such creatures is simply outrageous, they are all very well to make a good contrast in a poem, or picture, as characters in a novel, or anything of that sort; but when one is yearning for another glance from expressive grey eyes, or longing to hear again the softly modulated tones of a manly voice, it is the refinement of cruelty to drag her—as a sympathising friend did me—into a close, dirty, unpicturesque looking hovel, and expect her to be diverted from her sorrows by the sight of a number of cross, untidy, sickly, uninteresting children. I have a very liberal mind. If people's souls do not soar above such things, I have no objection to their taking their amusement in their own way. Some prefer making flannel shirts and petticoats for the tropical heathen, others seem to find recreation or solace in soup. (I mean in making it for the poor; one of my friends has quite a mania on that subject). Pray do not suppose that I take no interest in the church, or in charity; indeed, I am invariably energetic, I dote on bazaars, tableaux, strawberry festivals, and everything of that kind in connection with the church. I roused myself sufficiently to sell at the flower table, at a bazaar, just when I was feeling most deeply G—'s heartless conduct. I must confess that a little judicious weeping is very becoming to me. Some girls look dreadful after a "good cry." If I were one of that class I would certainly contrive to keep up my spirits by some means. I know a case of blighted affection where the girl is growing more unprepossessing in appearance every day. (She certainly never was a beauty!) If crying gave me a red nose, swelled cheeks, and dim eyes, I would consider it a positive duty to control my feelings. I would write for the magazines, take drawing lessons or even visit the poor, but when the "circled trio of a night of tears," gives an interesting melancholy to one's countenance, and adds to the brightness of one's eyes, grief (of course in moderation), is quite excusable.

"FARE COMPETITION IS THE LIFE OF TRADE!"

I found one morning that the sun,
Too early had his course begun;
"Phoebus," said I, "why so much haste?"
He answered, "I've no time to waste:
Photographs are in such demand,
I promised BRUCE I'd be on hand."

J. BRUCE & Co., opp. Rossin House.
xiii-22-17.

THE NEW DOMINION, 3 MONTHS ON TRIAL FOR 25 CENTS.

A large 8-page, 40-column weekly family paper. The cheapest and best serial ever yet published. Address S. FRANK WILSON, 13 Victoria St., Toronto, Ont., Canada.

CAUTION. EACH PLUG OF THE MYRTLE NAVY TOBACCO

IS STAMPED

T. & B.

IN GILT LETTERS.

NONE OTHER IS GENUINE.

xiii-1-3m

In view of the tremendous battle at present raging between the rival steamboats on the Niagara route, people are beginning to ask "What are we coming to?" and the above little sketch is GRIP's reply to the query. This will probably be the spectacle presented on the Yonge Street wharf some of these fine mornings. The representatives of the boats will become as boldly aggressive as the hackmen now are in cities where their wills are unrestrained, and the moment an intending passenger makes his appearance, he will find himself the object of a three cornered attack that will be entirely new in the history of navigation. His baggage will be seized and pulled in one direction, and his coat in another, and meantime his ears will be assailed with shouts of "Patronise the People's boat!" "Don't you do it—take the old popular steamer!" "Down with monopoly," etc., etc., etc.

The travelling public will put up with this all good naturedly, so long as the rival navigators don't tear their clothes; in fact this war is about the best thing the travelling public have any recollection of. It has brought the beautiful Niagara to our very doors, and there is now no excuse for anybody dying in the city for want of a taste of fresh air.

The Hanlan Reception.

Has his worship the Mayor taken any action as yet with reference to the HANLAN reception? If not, surely it is high time that were done, unless Toronto is willing to be humiliated in the eyes of the whole world by having the projected demonstration end in a fizzle. The "boy" is now a good distance on his way home, and there is no time to be lost. Let the Mayor call a public meeting at once, and organize executive committees. There are hundreds ready and willing to work actively, who are at present waiting only for the word of authority. Don't procrastinate any longer!

The papers speak of the little sloop Uncle Sam being manned by GOLDSMITH and his wife. Why can't these editors be precise and say manned and womaned.

S. R. QUIGLEY,
ENGRAVER & JEWELLER,

MASONIC & SOCIETY REGALIA, EMBLEMS, &C.
10 KING ST. EAST, TORONTO. xiii-4-17

BALDNESS!

Neither gasoline, vasoline, carboline, or Allen's, Aver's, or Hall's hair restorers have produced luxuriant hair on bald heads. That great discovery is due to Mr. Winter-corn, 61 King-street East, (late 132 Church-street), as can be testified to by hundreds of living witnesses in this city and Province. He challenges all the so-called restorers to produce a like result.

Send for circulars.

xiii-12-17

TO PHONOGRAPHERS!

PRICE-LIST REVISED APRIL 1, 1879.

Compend of Phonography	5 cts.
Exercises in Phonography,	5
Grammatical and Contractions,	10
Questions on Manual,	15
Selections in Reporting Style,	20
Teacher,	20
Key to Teacher,	20
Reader,	20
Manual,	55
Reporter,	90
Reporting Exercises,	90
Phrase Book,	35
Railway Phrase Book,	25
Covers for holding Note Book,	20
The Reporter's Guide, by Thos. Allan Reid	60
Self-culture, corresponding style,	75
The Book of Psalms, corresponding style,	35
The Book of Psalms, cloth	75
Common Prayer morocco, with gilt edges	$2.80
The Other Life, cloth	50
New Testament, reporting style,	$2.50
Phonographic Dictionary	1.50
Pilgrim's Progress, corresponding style,	55
Pilgrim's Progress, cloth	90
Aesop's Fables, in Learner's Style	20
Ten Pounds and Other Tales, cor. style	20
That Which Money cannot Buy, etc. cor. style	20
Being and Seeming, My Donkey, A Parish Clerk's Tale, etc., cor. style	20
Character of Washington, Speech of George Canning at Plymouth, etc., with printed key, rep. style	20
Address of the Earl of Derby, on being installed Lord Rector of the University of Edinburgh, etc., rep. style	20

Sent post-paid to any address on receipt of price.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

Next Post Office, Toronto.

Try RYRIE, the Jeweller, FOR WATCHES, CHAINS, RINGS, &c., &c., 113 YONGE STREET. EVERYTHING WARRANTED.

THOS. DAVIES & CO'S LAGER BEER is nourishing and refreshing. Try it.

PUBLISHERS' NOTE.

GRIP is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.
Subscription price, $3 per annum, strictly in advance. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied. BENGOUGH BROS.

USE ONLY
ONTARIO
Baking Powder.
Ask your Grocer for it.
MANUFACTORY:
247 King Street West,
TORONTO.
xii-20-17

BENGOUGH BROS.
Are prepared to execute orders for
ENGRAVING
in the highest style of the art.

Type Metal Plates
MADE FROM
Pen and Ink Sketches, Photographs, Lithographs, &c.,
More perfect, true and lasting than any wood engraving, and at a much lower cost. Call and see specimens at
GRIP OFFICE,
Next door to Post Office, Toronto.

Readers of "GRIP"
Desiring anything in the Book or Music line, which they may not be able to procure at home, can have them forwarded, at once, if in the city, by addressing BENGOUGH BROS., next P.O., Toronto.

RODWELL & FELL,
Engravers,
And Manufacturers of Rubber and Metal Stamps,
PRESS AND WAX SEALS,
Name Plates, Baggage and Key Checks.
7 Adelaide St. East,
TORONTO.

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY. The tens of thousands who are making exclusive use of the COOK'S FRIEND Baking Powder, thereby render UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY to its superiority.
Retailed everywhere. xii-12-17

WANTED.—5 cents each will be paid for the following back numbers of GRIP:

VOL. 2. Nos. 2, 16, 23.
" 3. " 7, 17, 20, 19, 24.
" 4. " 1, 2, 4, 5, 6, 7.
" 5. " 5, 7, 17, 19, 21, 26.
" 6. " 6, 7, 9, 13, 25.
" 7. " 4, 12, 20, 21.
" 8. " 1, 2, 7, 12, 5, 16.
" 9. " 15
BENGOUGH BROS.,
TORONTO.

$66 A WEEK in your own town. $5 outfit free. No risk. Reader, if you want a business at which persons of either sex can make great pay all the time they work, write for particulars to H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Me.

"THE HANLAN-ELLIOTT RACE."

Another edition of "GRIP" of June 21st, containing this cartoon, is now ready.
BENGOUGH BROS.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, JULY 19, 1879.

GRIP OFFICE, } The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; } 5 CTS. EACH.
IMPERIAL BUILDING. } The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool. } $2 PER ANNUM.

A. H. GORRELL & CO.,
— PROPRIETORS OF THE —
TORONTO LITHOGRAPHING
COMPANY,
33 Wellington Street East, Toronto

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach GRIP office not later than Wednesday.—Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

ZELL'S POPULAR ENCYCLOPEDIA.
A gentleman leaving the city offers for sale a copy of Zell's POPULAR ENCYCLOPEDIA, complete in 2 Vols., bound in half Morocco with gilt edges, for only $30, cost $39.50.
Address E. O. T., GRIP Office.

GERMAN
RYE BREAD,
FAMILY BREAD,
BROWN BREAD,
SNOWFLAKE ROLLS,
CRUMPTON'S BAKERY,
171 KING-ST., EAST.
7 Doors east of Market. xii-20-17

SKIFF FOR SALE.
A first class cedar skiff, copper-riveted, twenty-three feet long, two pairs of oars, carpet and rugs. This skiff is light and capable of carrying half a dozen persons with comfort.
Apply to
P.O. Drawer, 2673.

CHEAP READING.
We will send to subscribers of "GRIP" any of the following magazines and papers for one year at prices annexed.
Scribner, $4. Grip, $2, both, $5.
St. Nicholas, $3, Grip, $2, both, $4.25.
Scientific American, $3.20, Grip, $2, both, $4.75.
Detroit Free Press, $2, Grip, $2, both, $3.25.
BENGOUGH BROS.

COAL AND WOOD, AND AT LOWEST PRICES, NAIRN'S. Office, Next Post Office. Docks, Foot of Church Street.

Literature and Art.

MR. JOHN FISKE, of Harvard University, has recently delivered in London, a course of six lectures on "America's Place in History."

The first edition of 3,000 copies of GEO. ELIOT's new book was sold before it was published. One circulating library took 300 copies.

EDWIN P. WHIPPLE, the well-known and brilliant essayist, is said to be busy on a life of Massachusetts's great war governor, JOHN A. ANDREW.

MISS THOMPSON, a granddaughter of BURNS, has recently married Mr. DAVID WINGATE, one of the leading "working-men poets" of the age.

AUGUSTUS BRINKEBANK, who recently died at Halberstadt, Germany, was the hero of FREILIGRATH's spirited poem, "The Trumpeter of Gravelotte."

The life of one of the greatest American statesmen, ALEXANDER HAMILTON, written by Judge SHEA, is now on the press of HOUGHTON, OSGOOD & CO.

MR. EDGAR BRINSMEAD, the London piano-forte maker, will soon issue a very elaborate and exhaustive history of the "Development of the Piano."

HENRI GREVILLE's new book, Un Violon Russe, is one of the literary sensations of Paris. It is a metaphysico-musical novel, and is said to be full of subtle character studies.

A gray marble medallion of BAYARD TAYLOR has just been presented to Cornell University by the graduating class, a tribute to their ex-lecturer on German literature, as well as a great poet.

The tomb of the great English novelist, HENRY FIELDING, at Lisbon, Portugal, was recently entirely renovated and guarded by an iron fence at the expense of the resident English chaplain there.

The Buffalo Courier speaks in high terms of Miss Emily Gilmore, of Port Hope, Canada, who is but fourteen years old, and is said to give great promise of some day becoming a clever pianist.

The London World says that visitors to HUGO HERKOMER's studio were recently highly amused by a joke which he perpetrated on those of his brother artists who might be called extremists. A portrait of the artist was called "an arrangement in velvet and calico." The head was painted in the Pellegrini manner; below it were the front halves of a veritable velvet coat, and a pair of shepherd's plaid trousers glued to the canvas, as well as a bit of vest, from which hung a gilt watch chain.

The picture by Earnest Parton, which was recently bought by the Royal Academy of London, was entitled "The waning of the Year." It has just been discovered that Parton is an American, and there is a great-to-do among the big wigs. The British Lion growls through the London press: "It is no assistance to British art to buy a Yankee picture, however fine, and it is probable that the Master of the Rolls may be invited to express his opinion on this transaction." To which G. W. Smalley spunkily answers: "Well, let him express it. I should say it might be argued that the stimulus to British art was very direct. If anything could sting the British into fresh effort, it would surely be the sight of British cash thus diverted into an American pocket solely on account of the admitted superiority of an American painter."

ARE YOU FOND OF READING?—Drink the LI-QUOR Pure Tea, and get a Handsome Library for Nothing, AT THE TORONTO AGENCY OF THE

LI-QUOR TEA Co. of LONDON, Eng.,
295 Yonge Street.
xiii-2-3m 6 Doors north of Cruickshank.

VERNON,

Manufacturing Jeweller,

159 YONGE STREET.

Watches and Clocks Repaired. Pipes Mounted.

xiii-4-tf

Scientific American.

THIRTY-FOURTH YEAR.

The Most Popular Scientific Paper in the World

Only $3.20 a Year, including Postage. Weekly.
52 Numbers a Year. 4,000 book pages.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN is a large First-Class Weekly Newspaper of Sixteen Pages, printed in the most beautiful style, profusely illustrated with splendid engravings, representing the newest Inventions and the most recent Advances in the Arts and Sciences; including New and Interesting Facts in Agriculture, Horticulture, the Home, Health, Medical Progress, Social Science, Natural History, Geology, Astronomy. The most valuable practical papers, by eminent writers in all departments of Science, will be found in the Scientific American.

Terms, $3.20 per year, $1.60 half year, which includes postage. Discount to Agents. Single copies ten cents. Sold by all Newsdealers. Remit by postal order to MUNN & CO., Publishers, 37 Park Row, New York.

PATENTS. In connection with the Scientific American, Messrs. MUNN & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, have had 34 years experience, and now have the largest establishment in the world. Patents are obtained on the best terms. A Special notice is made in the Scientific American, of all Inventions patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. By the immense circulation thus given, public attention is directed to the merits of the new patent, and sales or introduction often easily effected.

Any person who has made a new discovery or invention, can ascertain, free of charge, whether a patent can probably be obtained, by writing to the undersigned. We also send free our Hand Book about the Patent Laws, Patents, Caveats, Trade-Marks, their costs, and how procured, with hints for procuring advances on inventions. Address for Paper or concerning Patents, MUNN & CO., 37 Park Row, New-York.

Subscriptions received by BENGUGH BROS., Toronto.

Tenders for Steel Rails.

TENDERS addressed to the Honorable the Minister of Railways and Canals will be received at the Canadian Emigration Office, 31 Queen Victoria street, E. C., London, England, until JULY 15, next, for Steel Rails and Fastenings, to be delivered at MONTREAL, as follows:

5,000 tons by October 1st, 1879.

5,000 tons by June 1st, 1880.

5,000 tons by October 1st, 1880.

Specifications, Conditions, Forms of Tender, and all other information will be furnished on application at this office, or at the Canadian Emigration Office, 31 Queen Victoria street, E. C. London, England.

By order,

F. BRAUN.

Secretary.

Department of Railways and Canals, }
OTTAWA, 13th June, 1879. }

xiii-5-3.

Financial.

$10 TO 1000

everything.

Address BAXTER & Co., Bankers, 17 Wall St., N. Y.

xi-20-1y

Stage Whispers.

MR. SOTHERN, in his farewell speech in the Theatre Royal of Dublin, in the garb of "Garrick" and the accents of "Dundreary," said he was going to Canada to fish among the Indians, and that the pursuit of the gentle art there was nice, but exciting, as you had to angle with a rifle cocked in your left-hand, a bowie-knife between your teeth, and an uneasy feeling in the top of your head.

A London paper says: "A new American star, Mlle. NEVADA, has just had a great success at Vienna, in the salons of Mme. MARCHESI, the world famous professor of singing. This young lady who comes from the 'far West,' sang Ophelia's air from THOMAS's Hamlet, in so superb a manner as to speak much for both teacher and pupil. Mlle. NEVADA, whose real name we suspect to be WIXOM, is destined to a brilliant operatic future."

Mme. ALBANI will remain in England until October, to sing at the Hereford and Bristol, and perhaps at the Birmingham Festivals. It has been decided that this great artist shall return to the stage of the Royal Italian Opera next season, to resume her parts of "Elsa," "Elizabeth" and "Senta," and to play the chief part in HEROLD's Pre aux Ursus.

The celebrated English actor IRVING and the celebrated French actor DELAUNAY met recently in the house of a mutual friend, and each gave the other a taste of his quality. DELAUNAY recited the ballad of Fortunio and MR. IRVING, HOOD's Eugene Aram, the effect of which was almost lost upon the Frenchman, who does not speak English. He was, however, greatly interested in the English actor's gestures and expression.

An enormous audience crowded St. James' Hall, London, to hear the first performance for many years of the famous choral song, in forty real parts, of THOMAS TALLIS. Written in 1575 to Latin words, this historic curiosity was set to English words in 1630, and performances are still on record, by the Madrigal Society in 1834, and some years ago by MR. HULLAH's choir at Exeter Hall. Only four copies of the work are known to be in existence, one of them being in Her Majesty's library at Buckingham Palace, the others at the British Museum, in the library of Sir F. GORE OUSELEY, and in that of the Sacred Harmonic Society. It was from the copy belonging to the Sacred Harmonic Society that the performance was conducted by MR. HENRY LESLIE.

Of the performance of SARAH BERNHARDT in Hernani, the critic of the London Times says: "In the last scene, just before 'Ruy Gomez' winds the fatal horn and appears to claim the life over which 'Hernani' has given him an absolute right, there occurs a passage beginning, 'Ce calme est trop profond,' the delivery of which by SARAH BERNHARDT is one of the most perfect passages of spoken music we have ever heard upon the stage. We need say nothing of the intensity of her agony in the closing scene, the tenderness with which she composes herself to death on the bosom of her beloved, and the beautiful cadence of her last speech, beginning, 'Mort! non pas! nous dormons.' It left a profound impression, which neither the guilty passion of 'Phedre,' the jealous fury of 'Andromaque,' nor the less classic sufferings and sacrifice of 'Zaire' are likely to efface."

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

By BENGOUGH BROS., Proprietors. Office:—Imperial Buildings, next to the Post Office, Adelaide Street, Toronto. GEO. BENGOUGH, Business Manager.

Original contributions paid for. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned. Literary and Business communications to be addressed to BENGOUGH BROS.

SUBSCRIPTION TERMS:—Two dollars per year, payable in advance. Subscriptions and advertisements are received at the office, or by WM. R. BURRAGE, General Subscription and Advertising Agent, 26 Adelaide Street East, Toronto.

EDITED AND ILLUSTRATED BY J. W. BENGOUGH.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

CAUTION.—All our Agents have printed receipts and written authority from us or Mr. W. R. Burrage, our General Agent. The public are advised not to pay subscriptions to others, with whom they are unacquainted. BENGOUGH BROTHERS.

The Best of the Crown Jewels.

GRIP THE PROPHET.

(These lines will be more fully appreciated, we venture to say, a few months hence.)

The Koh-i-noor may hang its head—
In triumph, not in shame,
A "Garnet" now reigns in its stead,
And WOOLSELEY is its name.

The Perils of the Deep!

ARRIVAL OF THE "CHICORA."

HANLAN SEA-SICK!

Three hours from land to land—Heavy gales—
Blizzards, Typhoons, Monsoons and Pom-pers—
Caught in a Cyclone!—All for 25c.

Thrilling account of the passage from the Log of Our Marine Reporter.

Everything was lovely and serene to the unpractised eye of the wretched land lubber as your reporter stepped on board the noble vessel in Niagara; but any nautical man with experience beyond that of a Pinafore main-top man could, by simply lifting his weather eye, tell that we were in for heavy weather. Mr. HANLAN quite ill. Hoisted on board on a boatswain's chair and at once retires. Very sorry, hope he'll pull through. Think it likely—he generally does.

I keep a log. Couldn't report any nautical matters without one. Call log in use. My deckalog—my old logs, back logs—good idea.

8 Bells—Jumped on board the Chicora—say "How are ye, my hearty," to Captain—get no answer. Don't know me, perhaps. Such is fame! Immense multitude on board. The poor but honest Bankist, the gushing caramel-eating Syren; the university student on parole from his native cloisters, the unprotected maiden and the inevitable cigaretted masher of the matinees.

2 Bells—Get under weigh.—Fort Niagara, bearing N.N.E. Fort George, N.N.W. HANLAN sick. Wind freshening. Gentlemen passengers ditto. Weather begins to look "dirty"—so do the decks. Assume guardianship ad libem—of young, unprotected maiden; bewitching blonde—would

I get her a chair? Would I, you bet I would!

So I got myself a chair, and one chair more,
For the pretty little blonde in the pinafore.

3 Bells—Wind and sea rising—HANLAN worse. He took a pull—at a bottle. Ladies one by one retire to the seclusion of the cabin. My beautiful and banged blonde gets more blondy. Says something about Europe and goes below.

4 Bells—Tremendous head-sea—Blowing "great-guns." Captain says, "Mr. Mate, desire those remarkably fine looking 'Roustabouts' to come on deck, and we'll put a couple of reefs in the topsails—if you please." Mate says, "Aye, aye, sir!" Jump up here, lazy, lubberly, idle, Irish sons of Freedom and take in sail—if you please."

"Stand by your reef-tackles—settle away your halyards! Small pull of your weather topsail braces! Belay all! Now jump aloft, and haul out two reefs in one, in five minutes, or I'll rub you down with a belayin' pin, you brass-cased silver-mounted, long-shore, ungentelemanly sons of the brine!—if you please." Coarse man, that mate.

6 Bells. Weather of a decidedly typhoon hurricane sort—HANLAN indisposed—Man at mast head cries, "Sail, Ho!"—Captain, "Where away?"—"Dead astern—gaining on us fast."—"Does she look like a pirate?"—"No!"—"What does she look like?"—"The Rothsay!"—"What, after us!"—Mr. Mate, get those gentlemanly fellows on deck again—Turn out here and make sail, you picked-up, junk-devouring, bulwark-scrubbing sons of sea cooks, and get those top-gallant sails on here in two minutes and a half, or I'll part your hair with a heaver!—if you please. Mate's name is KIDD, used to be a captain.

7 Bells. Chaos Confusion and cold water—ship on beam ends—Hove to under after smoke stack.—Bank clerks' canes taken and piled with stout ladies to windward—"Throw a tarpauline over them," the cruel captain said,—they won't get very wet."—Ship a tremendous sea—recollect no more for a time. Fortunately am washed into Bar—Just as we weather the light house, weather moderates—come on deck—officers in good humour—seamen taking grog—Rothsay hull down to the southward—but poor HANLAN still lies sick

As we sail in the gale,
To the Bay of To-ron-to.

NOTE.—Our excuse for inadvertently allowing the above in our columns is our ignorance of nautical matters, which permitted us to be deceived by our reporter, who, unfortunate man, concocted the whole story in LORNE PARK, while under the influence of the Demon Lager. His excuse is that, being a sailor, rum is his usual beverage, and that the lager went to his head. This excuse is of the gauziest. It is needless to say he has been ignominiously discharged from our employ.

Plums from Blake's Speech.

"Marry come up."—Shakespeare
"Come up Neddie."—Old Song.

"It behoved the farmers to buy whatever they might want as cheaply as possible."
Leave the "honest yeomen" alone for that, EDWARD.

"Look to a National Policy that would hasten the day when Canadians would be able to shake hands with their fellow subjects in the British Isles, and say 'I, too, am a fellow-subject of yours. 'I, too, have a voice in the councils of the Great Empire of which you are a subject.'"

Glorious idea, EDWARD! Then the subjects in the British Isles can reciprocate and shake hands with us Canucks and truly say, "I, too, have a voice in the councils of your Great Dominion." Bully! It quite brings us back to the good old times. Put it there, EDWARD—shake!

"He objected to anything which tended to produce inequalities among our people and desired the continuance of that state of things under which the son of the artisan and the son of the wealthy man would have equal opportunities to gain a thorough education and to rise in the world."

Just so, EDWARD, but we thought our Universities were free to every body's son, providing always he can raise the wind to pay his fees, and does not prove to be an utter son of a gun, and consequently get expelled, a fate which might happen as readily to the son of the wealthy man as to the artisan's "hopeful." And then there are artisans who are wealthy, and a wealthy artisan must be a wealthy man, although a wealthy man must not of necessity be an artisan.

And "it is the people in the Colonial Office who create the Knights, and not the Queen personally." And how they will laugh at the chosen Canadians. "That is so." They very likely will—they are so funny. In fact I believe they are given very much to laughing at colonial pretensions, and doubtless will continue to laugh at everything from Canada—except, of course, you, EDWARD. They wouldn't be audacious enough for that—of course not. You'd stop their foreign wars. That's what you'd do, EDWARD.

The Taste of the Mosquito.

Down by the dashing Restigouche,
Where lordly salmon rise
To make themselves acquainted with
A Princess armed with flies.

The Princess reasoned with the sprite;
What else could fisher do?
"My newest, dearest, armed Knight,
Would I could fly with you!"

"I know your taste, your ladyship,
You love a "laddie" bonny,
While I forego the vulgar sip
For blood that's sweet as honey.

Indeed I own a stinging wit,
That nothing will suffice;
The best blood of the land's but fit
For me, I love what's nice!

I welcome to the "fisher's luck,"
Those who most need repose,
Far from the stings of GRIP or Puck,
Those witlings who give blows!

I welcome Princess, Marquis, suite,
To my domain of right,
Where the St. Lawrence river meet,
And all can get "a bite."

Your taste to streams and valleys takes,
Where the scaled salmon come,
Admiring fauna, flowers and breaks:
My rule's to stay "to hum!"

Lady, then seek great Ottawa,
There in your brightest sheen,
May all your paths for many a day,
Be robed in evergreen!"

NOTICE TO GENTLEMEN.—The red lamps hung in the Horticultural Gardens warn you to "Beware of the trains!" Even now, such a fashion—it is a hoopless matter to obey the warning.

HANLIN'S N.S. PINNACLE RETURN.

GOLDWIN SMITH—HERE, STOP BLOWING THOSE IMPRACTICABLE BUBBLES, AND BEAR A HAND TO HELP THE CART ALONG.

THEORY AND PRACTICE.

THE JOKER CLUB.

"The Pun is mightier than the Sword."

Campin' gout is prevalent.—Fon du Lac Reporter.

The eloping young lady of the period is the lily of the valet.—Utica Observer.

The Bull Dog is published in Texas. It can get a good GRIP in Toronto.—Norr. Herald. What a dog-oned joke.

Go to the dishonest grocer, consider his weighs and be wise enough to avoid him.—Steubenville Herald.

It is one of the curious ways of the world that a male hair dresser often dyes an old maid.—Philadelphia Item.

The grate art of kontentment konsists in in being perfectly satisfied with what yer hain't got.—Josh Billings.

The shortest life is long enough if it leads to a better, and the longest is too short if it does not.—Hartford Journal.

The intelligent compositor who set up "defective" for "detective" was not such a fool as he looked.—N. Y. Mail.

Better bare feet and contentment therewith, than patent leather boots and a corn on each toe.—Marathon Independent.

Speaking of butter, we may respect its color, but do not hesitate to turn up our noses at its rank.—Turner's Falls Reporter.

We always have our suspicions of a man who invariably takes his soda from the other side of the fountain.—Quincy Modern Argo.

Ajax defied the lightning, but it is worthy of remark that the Jersey variety was not then invented.—Cincinnati Saturday Night.

"Man wants but little here below," wherever he may roam, and when he calls for lager beer, he wants but little foam.—Carry Herald.

"My father, what is an Israelite?" "My son, an Israelite is a rich Jew." "And what is a Jew, my father?" "A poor Israelite."—Puck.

Never believe a man who is always telling what he used to do, who always deals with the past tense, for the past tense is a pretense.—Boston Transcript.

"The Lively Hens," is the name of a New Orleans base ball club. Isn't this foul play?—Detroit Free Press. Can't say; but we believe it's a femi-nine.—Boston Post.

Now is the season of the year when the small boy tieth a string around his waist and considereth himself properly arrayed to take a bath in public.—Salem Sunbeam.

Intoxication takes all the quicksilver from the mirror which nature holds up to man, and hence the very errors it magnifies are lost in his contemplation.—Wade Whipple.

When a young classorator arose to speak it was remarked that "there were fifty pairs of beautiful eyes riveted on his countenance." In that supreme moment he should have had his picture taken, before the rivets unloosed and the eyes dropped.—New Orleans Picayune.

What terminates a man's smile about as quick as anything else, is to have his cane slip out of his hand and drop through a grating in front of an unoccupied building.—N. Y. Star.

It is more reputable to adapt yourself to circumstances than it is to fit yourself with another man's new silk hat, when he is taking dinner at a crowded hotel.—Many-hatted Lukens.

The zinc statue of Tom Moore at Dublin has a crack in its head, and is half full of water. Which is a thing that never happened to him during his lifetime.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

The man who discovers a medicine that is warranted to cure "all the ills that flesh is heir to," may get rich quicker than his neighbor, but he doesn't live any longer.—Norristown Herald.

The boy who says it's "my turn" as the short cake is being passed, rarely makes the same remark when the mowing machine knives have to be ground after dinner.—Marathon Independent.

The dear girl who read a thrilling essay, "How to get along in Life," when she graduated last summer, is getting along nobly. She is now the mother of triplets.—Philadelphia Chronicle.

It's about time for the annual appearance of the story of the old man 97 years of age, who cuts seven acres of heavy grass with a scythe and puts it in cocks between sun and sun.—Lockport Union.

Pleasure has many definitions, but in reality it consists of going somewhere, being perfectly uncomfortable all the time while there and calling it "the best time you ever had."—Marathon Independent.

It is estimated that the people of the United States consume 3,000 barrels of liver pills a year, and yet there is occasionally a man left to reach his end by a railway collision.—Middletown Transcript.

Why is it that the average young lady can remember accurately three hundred pages of a novel, but can never remember a single page of history? Psychologists will please come to the front on this question.—Quincy Modern Argo.

"There have been numerous cases of death this year," he said, seriously, "from a poisonous sediment that gathers in the freezers." But it would not do, and she cooed, thoughtfully, "Oh, what a sweet way to die!"—St. Louis Spirit.

An uptown man when asked last evening if he was a member of a certain church, replied: "Well, I dunno; b'lieve I'm a sort of honorary member or something. Anyhow, when they have a donation, I always send something along."—Albany Argus.

It seems to us that Mr. Toast must be a perennial inebriate. We never see his name mentioned without being followed by a statement that he was drunk; and this amid the applause of the ton, and sometimes even at cold water banquets.—Rochester Express.

When the "orator of the day" at the Valley Forge dedication asked, "Shall we ever forget what was done and accomplished here? No! never!" about one thousand Pinafore-nauseated persons struck for the depot with the intention of taking the next train home, while nearly the same number made tracks across the fields. They thought he was going to add: "Well, hardly ever!"—Norristown Herald.

A careful housemaid puts wall paper on the front room in the spring time rather than in the fall. MILLIE's young man never leans his greasy back hair against the wall in the summer time, and the paper can consequently be kept clean. The front gate, you know.—New Haven Register.

There's a wonderful charm in the little word "yes," When pronounced by some roseate fair; And it thrills you with ecstasy double-distilled, From the soles of your boots to your hair. Unless 'tis pronounced to your formal request (Ah, then, how your whole being quails) To take one more saucer of berries and cream, When to back you your exchequer fails.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

If the people who send you circulars soliciting money, with a stamped return envelope, would only enclose the stamp loose in the circular there would be some profit in receiving them, but it takes considerable time to cut 'em off the envelope and put them in your stamp box.—Boston Commercial Bulletin.

A London Correspondent says that the Prince of Wales is "a living proof that no amount of tobacco can enfeeble either mind or body. Ah, yes; but the Prince buys his tobacco. It is only begged tobacco that shatters the mind, weakens the constitution, and sends young men to an early grave."—Norr. Herald.

"Ah," said Mrs. Hickenlooper, in a sentimental tone, "how quickly the things we cherish in this life are gone, and we know them no more for ever." Mr. Hickenlooper was looking from the window, and saw three lazy tramps slowly ambling out of sight. "Yes," he remarked, "one by one our idles pass away."—Rockland Courier.

And now ariseth a medical man who says he can prove to anybody's satisfaction that the bites of mosquitoes are positively beneficial to the human system. He avers that they drain the system of bad blood, and that persons bothered with pimples or eruptions would find relief by permitting themselves to be bitten thirty or forty times a day.—Detroit Free Press.

"I would enquire, madam, if you would like to purchase a lead pencil for three cents," remarked the ex-tramp as he humbly stood upon the back door step. "And also, if you would be so kind as to assist me to a change of linen. I'm ashamed to beg, indeed I am, but I have only one shirt in the world, madam, and"—clutching his coat collar closely about his neck—"I haven't that with me."—New Haven Register.

An old man fell dead in Mansville, Pa., one Sunday night recently, while sitting in the parlor where his daughter and her young man were sparking. It may be that the conduct of the young couple sickened the old man, and caused his death, but it will do no harm, and perhaps much good, to cut this paragraph out and show it to the old folks who are addicted to sticking in the parlor on Sunday evenings when their daughter's beau wants to tell her a great many secrets and so forth.—Norristown Herald.

A sad event has occurred in the family of asteroids. Hilda is lost. One of the nearly two hundred members of the planetary sisterhood revolving between Mars and Jupiter can no longer be found in her accustomed celestial haunts. It is not known whether Hilda has eloped with her father's coachman, or has run away and joined a travelling Pinafore troupe. We have predicted time and again that if Hilda's parents didn't keep a close eye on her she would give them trouble. Being a revolver it is not strange that she has "gone off."—Norr. Herald.

"Mrs. Lapseeeling on Newspaper Stories."

If one thing more than another is to my mind unworthy of a disapproval, it is the remission of voracity by the disporters of the press. As SHAKESPEARE, through the mouth of Hollowfurnace, in a paregorical manner, observes: "He draweth out the thread of his verbosity finer than the staple of his armament." I can remunerate a striking instant of this case of unreliability. A short time ago, I pursued a sexton of the Mail, which stated that by means of a moderate invention, a freezing mixture could be rejected into the veins of living animals, thus reducing a spontaneous fragility; or, in other words, changing them simultaneously into icebergs. Thus, if the pronunciation of a bleat was arrested by the transmigration of a sheep into an icicle, the unuttered half of the sound would remain putrified in the mouth of the animal till its restoration to its ordinary sheepish state by the rejection into its artileries of an unfreezing mixture. In this state of solution, animals could be retained for any limited, indefinite period.

This startling diatribe roused my mind into a state of petrification. I became reprehensive that iceburg animals would become house! old ornaments; that mischance a pair of eloquent iced-cows would stand as centuries at the foot of my friend's staircase; or, perhaps, an iced-lamb would appear as a statute at the supper and be chemically refunded to life at the terminus of the feast; thus changing the vestal board into a gambling table.

But numerable are the exigencies to which many would resort, and I grievously feared that some of my fellow-creatures myself included, might fall a victory to a parabolical advice. A hospitable enemy might thus disport his animadversion and by transcending me into an icicle, in a literary manner isolate me from the world. This harrying thought so prosecuted me that at times it almost caused the reverberations of my heart to be seized.

But unforseen were these prophecies of my mental vision, for after pursuing a diagram in another paper, I discovered that the subsequent article which I had previously read was only the fanatical inventory of some ingenious brain; and that the iceburg story was nothing but a sans fraud. That a disporter of newspaper antidotes must not be disqualified by veraciousness is a seculsion to which we must all arrive; and I cannot better include myself than by misquoting the frays which Sir JOHN MACDONALD has so beautifully compressed in an elegant simony. "Every minute now should be the father of some stratagem. The times are wild."

Our Own Dick Deadeye;

OR, PLAIN WORDS FROM A PLAIN HAND.

EDISON takes a back seat in the presence of JAMES H. RILEY, an awfully smart Yankee oarsman, who has invented a process for beating HANLAN. By the use of this contrivance JAMES admits that he himself can "make the champion howl." Like all really great inventions this one is extremely simple, namely, to force HANLAN to row so fast for the first mile, that he'll be done for at two. In the meantime Mr. RILEY has been beaten by COURTNEY. Why he didn't try an experiment with his invention in this case is not stated.

* * *

THOMPSON, FAHEY & CO., Financial, Estate & Insurance Agents

STOCK BROKERS, &c.

AGENTS FOR Sovereign Fire Insurance Company of Canada; Inman Line of Ocean Steamships,

10 KING STREET EAST, TORONTO.

English Office: 52 LIME STREET, LONDON E.C.

PACIFIC RAILWAY. TENDERS.

TENDERS for the construction of about one hundred miles of Railway, West of Red River, in the Province of Manitoba, will be received by the undersigned until noon on Friday, 1st August next.

The Railway will commence at Winnipeg, and run North-westerly to connect with the main line in the neighborhood of the 4th base line, and thence Westerly between Prairie la Portage and Lake Manitoba.

Tenders must be on the printed form, which, with all other information, may be had at the Pacific Railway Engineer's Offices, in Ottawa and Winnipeg.

F. BRAUN,

Secretary,

Department of Railways and Canals,
OTTAWA, 16th June, 1879.

xiii-6-5t.

The Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway Co. will run an excursion train from Toronto to Owen Sound and return, Friday and Saturday, July 18th and 19th, for the small sum of two dollars, tickets good for ten days.

$2 Per Annum, Free of Postage.

"GRIP" Now in its seventh year and Thirteenth Volume, and more popular and influential than ever before.

PRESS OPINIONS.

"Grip," the comic paper of Canada, has recently come to our hands, enlarged to eight pages, and with an increased number of illustrations. It is a remarkably clever and well-got up publication. It is published by Bengough Brothers, of Toronto.—Reporter, Prescott, England.

Our Canadian Punch is unusually good this week. The principal cartoon represents Sir John, Sir Charles, and Sir Samuel on shipboard. "The weather looks 'muddy,' especially towards the east, where a haze gathers over 'Quebec,' distinctly showing the 'Letellier Difficulty.' Sir Charles, with binocular extended, remarks to Sir Samuel standing near, 'There's going to be a big breeze over there.' Sir John with his hat under his arm and looking 'scart,' is hurrying to the cabin. Underneath we have: 'Sir John Macdonald Porter, K. C. B.—And when the breezes blow I generally go below, and court the seclusion which a cabin grants.'—Belleville Ontario.

GRIP is unusually bright and clever this week. Again the condition of affairs political in the Province of Quebec affords the ever attractive cartoon. Sir John is represented as the great sword swallower in the act of doing something disagreeable. The Lieutenant-Governor or with his arms pinioned is kneeling to the left of the Chieftain anxiously thinking of his fate. Sir John's sword bears the legend "Advice to dismiss Letellier" and he addresses the impatient audience in these words, "Ladies and gentlemen, I will now proceed to—ah—er—um—cut off this person's head, or else—er—er—swallow this sword.—I don't know which." Mr. Joly stands at one wing of the stage in a threatening attitude with his clenched fist raised, and says: "Dare not to touch him! we demand justice," while Mr. Mousseau from the right shrieks out "Off with his head, we demand blood!" The spirit and idea of the design are exceedingly rich, and really present the condition of things in rather a truthful light. The smaller cuts are also very good and represent Goldwin Smith, Messrs Mousseau, Langevin, Hanlan, Ross and Warren Smith, the Halifax oarsman, in various positions. This number is especially interesting to the people of Quebec. GRIP is never dull or common place.—Chronicle, Quebec.

I am rather astonished to find that the papers of this continent have taken no notice whatever of the fact that HANLAN sent back his cup for a second helping of tea at breakfast yesterday morning. Surely HANLAN and his cup have not been forgotten already?

* * *

Speaking of newspapers, what a pestilent set of wretches those interviewers are. Their infinite cheek is not so bad as their mendacity, however. HANLAN says he didn't talk half the stuff they gave him credit for in the New York journals.

* * *

After all, it must be admitted that nothing in a paper is more eagerly read than an interview, be it veracious or the contrary, and perhaps the character of the interviewer is oftentimes denounced by fellows whom he has never thought it worth while to torture.

The Mail points out that Mr. BLAKE should include members of Parliament in his compulsory voting measure. Hear, hear! Let us put a stop to this disgraceful system of shirking votes in the House.

* * *

One by one the great questions are benignly solved. The National Policy is a fact; Representation by Population, Confederation, and the Secularization of the Clergy Reserves, are laid to rest for ever. The Quebec conundrum and Apostolic Succession are just on the eve of solution, and I may venture to hope that before long even the subject of GRIP's HANLAN-ELLIOTT cartoon will cease to agitate the Telegram people.

* * *

I am inclined to agree with Mr. GOLDWIN SMITH that Mr. BLAKE's new fangled reform measures are more ornamental than useful just at present, especially the Imperial Federation idea. Still, Mr. BLAKE is a man not to be sneezed at, as the British members will find out when he rises as Canadian representative to address the Imperial House of Commons.

* * *

Is Mr. R. W. PHIPPS, who wrote the LETELLIER letter in Monday's Globe, the Mr. R. W. BHPHIS who wrote a Protection pamphlet not long ago? "We are led to this enquiry" by noticing that whereas the Reform papers then referred to him as a jumped-up lunatic, they now allude to him as a brilliant and well read gentleman.

* * *

I observe that THICKPENNY's sentence has been commuted to imprisonment for life in the Penitentiary. But why not the Asylum, if the man is insane? And if he is not insane, why commute the sentence? May we welcome this as an indication of the Government's intention to abolish capital punishment?

* * *

The Detroit Free Press exclaims: "If there is anything in this world more detestable than an old maid who loves gossip and slander, a chromo will be given to the person who can tell what it is." It is an old maid who wears a towering headdress, and sits directly in front of you at the performance in the Pavilion at the Gardens. Please pack that chromo carefully and send it right along.

* * *

Mr. EDISON is anxious to get a lot of platinum, and to this end he has sent out circulars to postmasters and others, in which he says, "This metal, as a rule, is found in scales associated with free gold." I am not aware that he will trouble Canadian P. M's. with the circular, as there is no free gold in the country for the platinum to associate with.

THE REFORM PAUL PRY.

P. P.—I'm not at all curious, but I'd just like to know why JOHN A. doesn't go to England.

ST. JOHNS, N. B. WAITING FOR THE VICE-REGAL VISIT.

"I'll paint your picture, darling," cried An artist to his lovely bride,
"I'll dip my brush in colors rare,
And show the world that thou art fair."
"No don't," she answered, "what's the use,
When I can have it done by Bruce?"

J. BRUCE & Co., opp Rossin House.

xii-22-17.

THE
NEW DOMINION,
3 MONTHS ON TRIAL
FOR 25 CENTS.

A large 8-page, 40-column weekly family paper. The cheapest and best serial ever yet published. Address S. FRANK WILSON, 13 Victoria St., Toronto, Ont., Canada.

CAUTION.
EACH PLUG OF THE
MYRTLE NAVY TOBACCO

IS STAMPED

T. & B.

IN GILT LETTERS.

NONE OTHER IS GENUINE.

xiii-1-um

A CONSTITUTIONAL QUESTION.

If the Governor-General fails to take PHIPPS' advice, will PHIPPS have to resign?

A Query from St. Catharines.

Should we who live along the line of the Canal be called Canaille, by would-be jokers or others?

No; you are not down to that level yet. You would very rightly look upon it as a "deep cut." We can Welland truly say it is a sad misnomer, and think that in future those funny people had better keep Thorold jokes locked up.

The Law Society.

It appears to be an understood thing that the Marquis is to be admitted to the Bar during his coming visit to Toronto. As far as we know, his Lordship's legal record is brief, but no doubt he will make Osgoode a lawyer as most of the aspirants to legal honors; we suppose he Cantyre the patience of the Court as well as his more practical brethren, without making a Mull of it. It is to be hoped he will be successful in his special pleading with juries, and that his eloquence McGillum More to his views of the case.

S. R. QUIGLEY,
ENGRAVER & JEWELLER,
MASONIC & SOCIETY REGALIA, EMBLEMS, &c.
10 KING ST. EAST, TORONTO. xiii-4-17

BALDNESS!

Neither gasoline, vasoline, carboline, or Allen's, Ayer's, or Hall's hair restorers have produced luxuriant hair on bald heads. That great discovery is due to Mr. Winter-cornby, 144 King-street, West, opposite Revere Block, as can be testified to by hundreds of living witnesses in this city and Province. He challenges all the so-called restorers to produce a like result.

Send for circulars.

xiii-12-17

TO PHONOGRAPHERS!

PRICE-LIST REVISED APRIL 1, 1879.

Compend of Phonography	5 cts
Exercises in Phonography,	5
Grammologies and Contractions,	10
Questions on Manual,	15
Selections in Reporting Style,	20
Teacher,	20
Key to Teacher,	20
Reader,	20
Manual,	55
Reporter,	90
Reporting Exercises,	40
Phrase Book,	35
Railway Phrase Book,	25
Covers for holding Note Book,	60
The Reporter's Guide, by Thos. Allan Reid	75
Self-culture, corresponding style,	35
The Book of Psalms, corresponding style,	75
The book of Psalms, cloth	$2.80
Common Prayer morocco, with gilt edges	50
The Other Life, cloth	$2.50
New Testament, reporting style,	1.50
Phonographic Dictionary	55
Pilgrim's Progress, corresponding style,	90
Pilgrim's Progress, cloth	20
Æsop's Fables, in Learner's Style	20
Ten Pounds and Other Tales, cor. style	20
That Which Money cannot Buy, etc. cor. style	20
Being and Seeming, My Donkey, A Parish Clerk's Tale, etc., cor. style	20
Character of Washington, Speech of George Can-nan at Plymouth, etc., with printed key, rep. style	20
Address of the Earl of Derby, on being installed Lord Rector of the University of Edinburgh, etc., rep. style	20

Send post-paid to any address on receipt of price.

BENGOUGH BROS.

Next Post Office, Toronto.

Try RYRIE, the Jeweller, FOR WATCHES, CHAINS, RINGS, &c., &c., 113 YONGE STREET. EVERYTHING WARRANTED.

THOS. DAVIES & CO'S LAGER BEER is nourishing and refreshing. Try it.

PUBLISHERS' NOTE.
GRIP is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.
 Subscription price, $2 per annum, in advance. For sale by all wholesale dealers. Back numbers supplied. BENGOUGH BROS.

SE ONLY
ONTARIO
Baking Powder
 Ask your Grocer for it.
 MANUFACTORY:
 17 King Street West,
 TORONTO.
 xiii-10-1y

100 A MONTH guaranteed, $12 a day made at home by the industrious. Capital not required; we will start Men, women, boys and girls to money faster at work for us than at anything else. The work is easy and pleasant, and such as anyone can go right at. Those who are who see this notice will send us addresses at once and see for themselves. Costly Outfit and terms Now is the time. Those who are at work are laying up large sums of money. Address TRUE O., Augusta, Maine. xiii-10-1y

HEAP READING.
 We will send to subscribers of "GRIP" any of the following magazines and papers for one year at its annexed.
 Libner, $4. Grip, $2, both, $5.
 Nicholas, $3, Grip, $2, both $4.75.
 Centific American, $3.20, Grip, $2, both $4.75.
 Profit Free Press, $2, Grip, $2, both $4.25.
 BENGOUGH BROS.

SOLICITED TESTIMONY. The tens of thousands who are making exclusive use of COOK'S FRIEND Baking Powder, thereby render UNSOLICITED MONY to its superiority.ailed everywhere. xii-12-1y

BENGOUGH BROS.
 prepared to execute orders for
ENGRAVING
 highest style of the art.

ype Metal Plates
 MADE FROM
 and Ink Sketches, Photographs, Lithographs, &c., e perfect, true and lasting than wood engraving, and at a much cost. Call and see specimens door to Post Office, Toronto.

GRIP OFFICE,

100 TO $6000 A YEAR, or $5 to $20 a day in your own locality. No risk. Women do as well as Men. Many make more than the stated above. No one can make money fast. Any one the work. You can make cts. to $2 an hour by devoting evenings and spare time to it. It costs nothing to business. Nothing like it ever making ever offered business pleasant and strictly le. Reader if you want to about the best paying business for the public, send us your and we will send you full rs and private terms free; worth $5 also free; you can ce up your mind for yourself, GEORGE STINSON & rtland, Maine. xiii-10-1y

"THE HANLAN-ELLIOTT RACE."

Another edition of "GRIP" of June 21st, containing this cartoon, is now ready.

BENGOUGH BROS.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, JULY 26, 1879.

GRIP OFFICE, { The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; { 5 CTS. EACH.
 IMPERIAL BUILDING. { The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool. { $2 PER ANNUM.

A. H. GORRELL & CO.,

— PROPRIETORS OF THE —

TORONTO LITHOGRAPHING COMPANY,

33 Wellington Street East, Toronto.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach GRIP office not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

$66 A WEEK in your own town, and no capital risked. You can give the business a trial without expense. The best opportunity ever offered for those willing to work. You should try nothing else until you see for yourself what you can do at the business we offer. No room to explain here. You can devote all your time or only your spare time to the business, and make great pay for every hour that you work. Women make as much as men. Send for special private terms and particulars, which we will mail free. $5 Outfit free. Don't complain of hard times while you have such a chance. Address H. HALLET & CO., Portland, Maine. xiii-10-1y

ZELL'S POPULAR ENCYCLOPEDIA.

A gentleman leaving the city offers for sale a copy of ZELL'S POPULAR ENCYCLOPEDIA, complete in 2 Vols., bound in half Morocco, with gilt edges, for only $30, cost $39.50.

Address E. O. T., GRIP Office.

GERMAN

RYE BREAD, FAMILY BREAD, BROWN BREAD, SNOWFLAKE ROLLS, CRUMPTON'S BAKERY,

171 KING-ST. EAST.

7 Doors east of Market. xiii-20-1y

Readers of "GRIP"

Desiring anything in the Book or Music line, which they may not be able to procure at home, can have them forwarded, at once, if in the city, by addressing Bengough Bros., next P.O., Toronto.

L AND WOOD, AND AT LOWEST PRICES, NAIRN'S. Office, Next Post Office. Docks, Foot of Church Street.

Literature and Art.

HENRY GRENVILLE has written eight novels within three years.

KINGLAKE ascribes much of his love of the East to his mother's reading Homer to him in his childhood.

ROBERT LOWELL, the brother of the poet, is writing a novel based on life as it was in Boston and Cambridge, Mass., during the early part of the Colonial epoch.

A colossal statue of Buddha has been dug up on the spot where the founder of the most wide-spread religion in the world is known from external evidence to have died.

MEISSONNIER began a decade ago a portrait of the late Prince Imperial, which he laid aside when the events of 1870 interrupted the work. He will now finish it and send it to the Empress EUGENIE.

GEROME, the painter, is credited with the remark that young American women have the loveliest faces he has ever seen. He often walks along the boulevards of Paris and drives in the Bois purposely to admire them.

The historian GREGOROVIVUS is now, the Academy says, engaged on a life of Pope URBAN VIII., and has collected many important documents elucidating the policy pursued by that pontiff during the thirty years' war.

Mrs. C. A. PLIMPTON, of Cincinnati, has discovered how to make figures in relief on pottery, and exhibits several specimens of her work at the art sales rooms. She has been trying to find out the secret of producing these figures for some time, and after several failures has succeeded in making figures in four colors.

The Academy, of London, says of Mr. William Winter's "Thistle Down," that it is "a stronger book than its modest name denotes," and that "there is considerable force and pathos in many of the lyrics." It takes exception to an expression in one of the poems, and then adds that "such a poem as 'The Last Scene' ought to cover a multitude of sins."

Here is an advertisement from a London paper:—NOTICE TO MANAGERS.—Mr. CHAS. READE, finding that all ordinary advertisements have failed to keep thieves and vagabonds from pirating, 'It Is Never Too Late to Mend,' now advertises for thief-takers, and will give a handsome reward to any person who will give him timely notice of piracy, and furnish him with the means of bringing it home to the deliberate criminals who commit it in the teeth of this notice."

Germany is rich in works of art and on art. And why should it not be? For it has had more than twelve centuries in which to collect and produce such works! The well known publisher of art and illustrated works, Mr. Paul Neff, of Stuttgart, is now engaged in bringing out, in semi-monthly issues, folio form, what will be, when completed, a magnificent work of art and on art, under the title: "The French Painters of the Eighteenth Century. A Collection of their most important Works. Edited, with Descriptive Text, by A. von Wurzbach. Heliotype by M. Rommel." This work will be completed in thirty issues or parts, and contain about sixty heliotype and photographic reproductions of as many paintings of the leading French painters of the eighteenth century.

FREE LITERATURE!

AT THE

LI-QUOR TEA Co. of LONDON, Eng.,
295 Yonge Street,

xiii-2-3m

6 Doors north of Cruickshank.

AUCTION SALE

OF THE

LEASES OF TIMBER LIMITS.

AN Auction Sale of the Leases of Nineteen Timber Limits, situate on Lake Winnipegosis and the Water-Hen River, in the North-West Territories, will be held at the Dominion Lands Office, Winnipeg, on the 1st day of September, 1879. The right of cutting timber on these limits will be sold subject to the conditions set forth in the "Consolidated Dominion Lands Act." They will be put up at a bonus of Twenty Dollars per Square Mile, and sold by competition to the highest bidder.

Plans, Descriptions, Conditions of Sale and all other information will be furnished on application at the Dominion Lands Office in Ottawa, or to the Agent of Dominion Lands in Winnipeg.

By Order,

J. S. DENNIS,

Deputy Minister of the Interior.

Dept. of the Interior,
Ottawa, 17th July, 1879.

xiii-10-6t

Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway.

CHEAP EXCURSION

TO

OWEN SOUND,
FRIDAY AND SATURDAY,
1st & 2nd August, 1879.

Return Fare only TWO DOLLARS.

TICKETS GOOD FOR RETURN WITHIN TEN DAYS.

Tickets now on sale at T. G. and B. Offices, corner Bay and Front streets, and Union Station.

EDMUND WRAGGE.

General Manager.

PACIFIC RAILWAY.

TENDERS.

TENDERS for the construction of about one hundred miles of Railway, West of Red River, in the Province of Manitoba, will be received by the undersigned until noon on Friday, 1st August next.

The Railway will commence at Winnipeg, and run North-westerly to connect with the main line in the neighborhood of the 4th base line, and thence Westerly between Prairie la Portage and Lake Manitoba.

Tenders must be on the printed form, which, with all other information, may be had at the Pacific Railway Engineer's Offices, in Ottawa and Winnipeg.

F. BRAUN,

Secretary,

Department of Railways and Canals,
OTTAWA, 16th June, 1879.

xiii-6-5t.

Financial.

$10 TO 1000
everything.

Address BAXTER & Co., Bankers, 17 Wall St., N. Y.

Invested in Wall St. Stock;
makes fortunes every month.
Book sent free explaining

xi-20-1y

Stage Whispers.

MISS FLORENCE DAVENPORT has given up the idea of opera, and will go into the theatrical profession.

AGNES BOOTH, the actress, assists her husband to keep a hotel during the summer at Manchester, N. H.

Last week we had HAVERLEY's Minstrels at the Royal two nights and a matinee. They played to large houses. We listened to the "old, old story" of the chicken walking through the soup on stilts, and other pre-historic jokes, coeval with the fossilized animal from which the troupe derives its name. These "upheavals" can be tolerated when from the ordinary aggregation of burnt cork "artists," but there were 40 of these—40—we repeat it—40!

Speaking of the performance of the Colored Pinafore Company, in Boston, a correspondent says: "The performers go through their parts with the courage and coolness of sublime ignorance, interpolating, revising and amending the text at their sweet fancy. There was richness in the original idea of making a sentimental 'Little Buttercup,' out of a bum-boat woman, though all of our American actresses seem to have entirely missed the author's meaning; for the original and only bum-boat woman is a horrible creature between 'Sairey Gamp' and 'Pleasant Riderhood,' a voracious, foul-mouthed, lying, gin-drinking, libel on womanhood. To make of such an original the sentimental maiden who chants sweet ditties by moonlight to a tender hearted captain was extravagant enough. When the transformation is carried further, and she becomes a dusky damsel with a tendency to double-shuffle, imagination fails to take her in. As this is about the worst stage of the Pinafore mania, so it is probably the last of it, on the public stage at least. Amateurs will hold on to it for a few decades, probably, after which it will pass a century or two in the living death of the circus and minstrel company and then find a quiet grave in Harper's Drawer, Ayer's Almanac, or some other department of contemporary oblivion."

At the Gardens, the Fifth Avenue Opera Company had the benches well filled, notwithstanding the secession of the two "leading" people, Mr. LAURENT, and Mlle. CORRELLI, whose roles, however, were subsequently filled by other members of the company, the new Josephine, Mlle. ELLANI becoming quite a favorite. The new Rackstraw, Mr. NORMAN, though a pleasing tenor, is hardly of the physique that the "remarkably fine seaman" is supposed to be; nor did he display the exuberance of spirits for which that historic personage the "British Tar" is so famous. He should endeavor to infuse a little more life into the part. The Captain, Mr. BRAND, was good, as were the crew. Deadeye, Mr. STURGES, has an excellent voice, which he knows how to use; his make-up, however, was a trifle too grotesque. The First Lord, Mr. BURNETT, was deservedly well received, as were his Sisters, etc., etc.—. This company intend producing Fantasia at the Gardens sometime next month. A word. Why don't the management furnish the stage with that very necessary appendage, a drop curtain? The lengthened contemplation of canvas guns or other stage properties does not help the imagination in entering into the spirit of the expected representation. And would it not be well to give the auditorium a gentle ascent from the orchestra? These are almost absolute requirements to make this place a successful "Summer Theatre."

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

By BENOUGH BROS., Proprietors. Office:—Imperial Buildings, next to the Post Office, Adelaide Street, Toronto. GEO. BENOUGH, Business Manager.

Original contributions paid for. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned. Literary and Business communications to be addressed to BENOUGH BROS.

SUBSCRIPTION TERMS:—Two dollars per year, payable in advance. Subscriptions and advertisements are received at the office, or by WM. R. BURRAGE, General Subscription and Advertising Agent, 26 Adelaide Street East, Toronto.

EDITED AND ILLUSTRATED BY J. W. BENOUGH.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

CAUTION.—All our Agents have printed receipts and written authority from us or Mr. W. R. Burrage, our General Agent. The public are advised not to pay subscriptions to others, with whom they are unacquainted. BENOUGH BROTHERS.

"Wild Sports of the West."

MUSKOKA FELIX—NIMROD'S PARADISE—A NOBLE SPORTSMAN.

From the Journal of our Sporting Editor.

Monday morning. Stroll by Queen's—great surprise! Meet friend from Europe—Lord BALLYTODY, north of Ireland—Castle Batherem. Visited him last spring—great Irish peer—now strictly incog—SHAMUS O'SHAUGHNESSY in hotel book. Left retainers in Griffintown for short holiday—all from "Black North." Expect they will enjoy themselves—Irish fashion. My Lord going "to do a bit of shooting and fishing in Muskoka"—will I join him? Certainly. Told him plenty stories while in Ireland of buffalo, bear, grizzlies, catamounts, and Injuns. Assume the DAVY CROCKETT role. Take Northern train unattended, and escape the dread "address" from burghers en route. Ha, ha! They are foiled! They know not we are people of distinction. Arrive in Bracebridge. Hire Injun and canoe. Unpack munitions of war. Lion guns, with two ounce balls. Shot guns. Duck gun warranted to kill an acre of ducks in one broadside—quite mitrailleuse. Prepare to start for camp. Injun anoints himself with fat pork—no shirt. Atmosphere unlike Bendamere, or "Araby the blest." Advises us to use cosmetic—"Flies no like grease"—Refuse. Reach encampment. Muskoka soil—rocks and sand. Leave Chipeway in charge of commissariat—two pounds bread and cheese, and imperial gallon of KILLAHAN'S Irish whiskey. Start for woods. No bear, no deer, no wolves, no nothing but chipmunks—yes; flies, of course,—Mosquitos, sand flies, black flies, and "bull-dogs" or Cariboo flies. Lordship sees black animal slowly approaching. "Be japers its a bear!" Bang! "Down he comes! Fix bayonets and charge on him!" Find wounded heifer. Owner approaches. Countryman of his Lordship. Obligated to pay $20 for the "baste" shot. Lose our way. Give five dollars to Irishman to pilot us to camp. Nearly blind with mosquitos. Arrive in camp. Injun has "received nomadic friends of his tribe; whiskey all gone—warriors dead drunk. Canoe stove in. Give Irishman ten dollars to pilot us through the woods to village. Obligated to use mosquito preventative—murder! Cologne no where! Arrive at Bracebridge blind. Passengers leave our car on entrance. Railway people object to carrying us. Explain matters—Are suffered to proceed. Arrive in Toronto. Nearly arrested by "peelers" as tramps. Get to Queen's. Obligated by landlord to take bath before admission. His Lordship goes to bed ill. Takes the next steamer for Belfast. Says he has had enough of "Canadian sport." Farewell! Bon voyage!—Adieu!

Our Own Dick Deadeye.

As soon as the Premier gets time he must turn his attention to the appointment of successors to Profs. McCALL and CROFT in our University. It is suggested that the opportunity should be taken to establish a chair of Constitutional Law. If this is acted on there can be no possible difficulty in making a choice of a professor, after the display of legal and constitutional acumen made by Mr. R. W. PHIPPS, N. P., in his LETELLIER letter to the Globe.

Some of our steamboats run regular excursion trips on Sundays just now, and the authorities decline to stop the practice, on the ground that the working classes need rest and recreation, and Sunday is their best day for getting it. The engineers and firemen of the boats no doubt endorse this idea.

The Chicago Journal announces that much of the tobacco which is being smoked or chewed this year was last year stored in the yellow-fever districts of the South. Upon reading this, the judicious young man will cease to buy tobacco, and take to borrowing from his friends.

The present night editor of the Globe is no doubt beloved by the printer who happens to get his elaborate headlines to set up, but the general public would like him better if he always took care to print the news he announces in such a loud manner.

The Globe ought to write a scathing article on the Sunday meeting of the Dominion Cabinet, which, according to the Hamilton Times' correspondent, was held last week. And then it ought to be discovered that no such meeting was held. And then the Mail ought to chuckle.

Some people are born great, others achieve greatness, and others have greatness thrust upon them, but Miss ANNIE EDWARDS, of this city, snoozed herself into renown. She attended a prayer-meeting in the Metropolitan Church, fell asleep during the service, was locked in until 2 o'clock in the morning, broke a window, and was arrested in the act of creeping out. Hence her name has been telegraphed to all the papers.

The moral of this sad case is, don't make your meetings so dry that people will go to sleep in them.

The boat-builders and boat-house keepers of the city ascribe the improvement in their lines of business directly to the N. P.—which being interpreted means, NED'S Presence.

The sea serpent is on hand promptly for the opening of the seaside season. He has just been seen by the crew of the pilot schooner Advance, in the Gulf of Mexico, heading in a south west direction and going at the rate of nine miles an hour. On his way to Long Branch, undoubtedly!

I read the Mail's column of "Personals" with considerable interest, but here is one item from Tuesday's edition, I don't quite see the drift of:

Mr. Henry Beatty, of the Beatty line of steamers; Sarnia; Mr. E. Patrick, Clerk of the House of Commons, Ottawa; Mr. S. S. Peck, M.P.P., Minden; Mr. A. H. Webster, freight agent Erie railroad, Buffalo; Mr. W. C. Ruger and Judge Wallace, U. S. Court, Syracuse, N.Y., are at the Rossin House; also Dr. Volney, of Brockville.

Finding that the Twelfth of July celebration is so delightfully in keeping with the genius of Canada, the Belleville Orangemen have determined to celebrate the Twelfth of August, too, that being the anniversary of the opening of the Gates of Derry. Medically this is unfortunate, as two big sprees so close together must be bad for the health.

Of course in other respects it is all right and most praiseworthy. The Twelfth of August should be held sacred by all means. If the Gates of Derry hadn't been opened on that occasion, there is no doubt the Derry people would have been uncomfortably hot, and Canada would at the present moment be suffering all the horrors of the Spanish Inquisition.

If members of opera companies don't like to be arrested and locked up, they shouldn't get tight and raise a disturbance at the wharf, as Sir Joseph Porter, K.C.B., did the other day. Our policemen are utterly impartial and inexorable, and they'll Teach you all ere long,

To refrain from liquor strong.

The HANLAN Homestead Fund appears to get along slowly. Up to the present time $2 800 have been secured, and I suppose five, ten or twenty thousand are wanted. How would it do to call upon EDWARD himself for a portion of that $32,000 he is said to have brought home in the shape of winnings?

But perhaps the rumour of his having won that amount is unfounded. Mr. LANGEVIN happened to be in England at the time of the race, and the person who started the report about $32,000 probably got that eminent statesman mixed up with the Oarsman.

Lieut.-Col. Gibson, M.P.P. won the Prince of Wales' prize of £100 and a badge yesterday at Wimbledon, with a score of ninety-four. This is certainly most creditable, and we congratulate the gentleman upon his success.—Hamilton Times.

And GRIP extends the same to Hamilton,

On having such a clever M.P.P.,
No riding can produce a greater gun,
He'll be a man of mark most certainly.

Hint to those in want of employment—
Look for it.

If the dead body of a free-booter is cremated isn't it a pyre-atical affair.

When HANLAN gets into his new homestead he will think its very like a row-manse.

Fish are said to be good brain food. There must be some mistake here as many fish when landed are in seine.

The New A. D. C.

Col. GZOWSKI has been honored with an appointment as A.D.C. to Her Majesty the Queen. GRIP extends his congratulations, and signalizes the happy event by making a portrait of the gallant Colonel. The distinction has been well earned, for "a better officer don't walk the deck, your honor," if we may be permitted to use a Pinaphorism Under his command the Canadian Team at Wimbledon have covered themselves with glory, and received complimentary notice from Royal Dukes and Cabinet Ministers, on account of their neat, soldierly and highly civilized appearance. They have also done better shooting than any other commanding officer could get out of them. Her Majesty is to be felicitated on having secured so competent an A. D. C., for GRIP has no doubt Col. Gzowski will be able to perform the arduous and important duties of the position with credit to himself and all concerned.

Mrs. Lapseesling Attends "Penny Readings."

Last week I attended "Penny Readings" in a rural parish. A penny is merely an anonymous omission fee, as tickets were fifteen cents, or more, at the auction of the purchaser. The problem was not curtailed to readings, but consisted of oral and instrumental solars, dialogues, and original enunciations from SHAKESPEARE and other extinct poets. The first piece was TENNYSON'S "Battle of Waterloo." Words would be inaccurate to describe the reader's somniferous tones, he roared rapidly, till I would in vain have closed my ears to the voice of the stormer. As this youth is studying for the church my serious inflection is that he will be inextinguishable as a similar syllabub pew rant.

Though I am not myself a musician, I can depreciate the art, and well I know, as Mrs. HEMAN'S portrays, that "music hath charms to soothe the savage beast." But on this occasion I was evolved in inexplicable confusion of mind. The second performance was to have been Pantasm, by A Flat Major, but the Major was evidently a falsetto, as a young girl, (perhaps his daughter) appeared. Though she patiently thought herself the Supreme Madonna of the entertainment, I would not: attempt to extricate her style, and though I am not an amateur in architectural musical terms, I feel convinced that any implicit cricket would agree with me in saying that the thrills and octagons were fingered in a subdownant manner.

A soprano sympathy followed, and then elections from "The Idols of a King" were read by another executionist, in such a lack the most voice that it nearly caused my risible tears to flow, though his enumeration was so ineligible that his meaning was a mitigation to my understanding. I could not even declare with any degree of opacity, to which king he had deference; but I think it was SOLOMON. Ere my emotion was alienated, a young man, whose voice was a terror, sang, "Oh, Share my Cottage, Gentle Maid." He gazed at me as he warbled, but I thought of the late lamentable TOBIAS SAPSEESLING, and enclosed my heart to his syrian walls.

The performance was closed, or in professional terms the maledictory was pronounced by a sextant from Know-me-Oh and Tulia; it is very old, and very pretty; but I wish that HOMER and other dogmatists would not use absolute terms which procure their meaning. What sense is there in the remark "Entreat, arise, to wink at spears till they return"?

Belleville.

HON. BILLA FLINT, of Belleville, cel brated the fiftieth anniversary of his arrival in that place by writing to last Saturday's Intelligencer some of his reminiscences. He tells of a great many things which were not to be found in Belleville fifty years ago, but the list might have been made a good deal longer. For instance, fifty years ago Belleville had no newspaper with such an outlandish name as Daily Ontario.

Fifty years ago there was no railway connecting Belleville with Picton, and travellers were obliged to stage it across Prince Edward County.

Fifty years ago there was no handsome and commodious station at the Grand Trunk railway.

Fifty years ago the Intelligencer didn't rejoice in Government "ads." etc., etc.

The Hum of Prosperity.

There has been a great deal of talk of late about the Hum of Prosperity, which is said to be travelling through this happy land, and Mr. GRIP, believing that his readers would like to see a correct portrait of the aforesaid Hum, has secured a specimen and pinned it up here before them. It will be observed that this Hum is a species of bug.

Our Mayor.

His Worship the Mayor is said to be agitating for an official chain and gown, to wear on the occasion of the forth-coming Vice-Regal visit, but some of the Aldermen do not approve of his suggestion. Moreover, the Telegram sneers at the proposition. GRIP comes to his Worship's defence, and says he shall have a chain and gown, and also a Scotch bonnet and kilt, and a boy to hold up his train, too, so he shall. One glance at the little sketch above is sufficient to convince the most stubborn Alderman that the dignity of the city will be greatly enhanced if our Chief Magistrate is fitted out in an imposing and at the same time typical style. The gown and chain as above will fully gratify our civic pride, while the headgear cannot fail to charm the heart of the Governor and his royal spouse.

The Golden Wreath.

POOR TRACY TURNURELLI
Who lived upon his wit,
Was anxious—very anxious,
For a Governmental "sit;"

So with prodigious labour
He raised a golden wreath,
And offered it to BEACONSFIELD,
Who threw it in his teeth.

This unexpected conduct
Upon old DIZZY'S part,
Has very nearly broken
POOR TURNURELLI'S heart;

But still he needn't languish
Nor throw that wreath away,
He perhaps might get an office
If he gave it to—some other Premier.

Naval.

We perceive that a retired naval officer has opened a boarding house in Muskoka for the accommodation of tourists and invalids. Here is the right man in the right place. A man who can hand reef and steer and "ship a salvagee," is just the one to see that the gear of the pleasure boats is safely and securely fitted, and coming from the Royal Navy he would very naturally know the proper way to "receive boarders."

THE POLITICAL "FLAMING ZONE."

Bunce

"The Pun is mightier than the Sword."

The fly is never positive. He always specs so.—Cin. Star.

Women's rights are the mates to women's lefts.—Rome Sentinel.

Brown College graduates are spoken of as Brown bread men.—N. Y. Star.

Fine clothes do not make the man until they are paid for.—Boston Courier.

Speaking of TALMAGE, brevity is not the soul of DE WITT.—N. Y. Herald.

Does the tide become full from carrying too many schooners?—Philadelphia Item.

Beware of the man of one book—especially if he is the agent for it.—Albany Argus.

Dead men tell no tales, because their tomb stones do it for them.—Steubenville Herald.

The greatest perfumer we know of is the centre of the world.—Tioga County Record.

Give a woman a hen instead of a gun if you want to see her shoot.—Ottawa Republican.

In France every man is of noble blood; that is to say, he is descended from a pere.—Boston Post.

The highest mountain gives the finest view, but give us a little one for ascent.—Boston Post.

In selecting a barber, remember that a fulness under the eyes denotes language.—Cin. Enquirer.

An electrical girl has been discovered in Canada. She ought to marry a good conductor.—Free Press.

"VENNOR predicts a wet summer, with cold and frosts." But Vennor we to get it?—Norristown Herald.

England may be "mistress of the C's," but she has never yet been able to fairly master the H's.—Yankee Paper.

Let it be Recorded, said the newspaper reporter to the teamster whose load of wood was overturned.—Meriden Recorder.

Why are good resolutions like a squalling baby at church? Because they should always be carried out.—Keokuk Constitution.

It is strangely singular how much the boy with a pair of new suspenders hates to wear a coat.—Philadelphia Chronicle-Herald.

A lover will often take a whole year to press his suit, when any smart tailor would do it for him in less than an hour.—New York News.

There is one field of labour that women can never enter—collecting bills; for "women's work is never dun."—Boston Commercial Bulletin.

Two bottles of "unfermented wine for communion purposes" exploded in Norwalk, being disturbed by its unusual surroundings.—Danbury News.

The oldest Mason is to be matched against the oldest Odd Fellow in a go-as-you-please contest to see which will die first.—New Orleans Picayune.

A cuff on the wrist is worth two on the ear.—American Punch.

A country girl getting off a train at Cape May, was asked if she might be helped to alight, and she replied that she did not smoke.—New York Herald.

Said he, as he stole one, "I seal my love with a kiss." And she, suiting the action to the word, replied, "I seal mine with whacks."—Boston Transcript.

A poet in the Whitehall Times exclaims: "I am haunted, wierdly, by the dripping of the rain." The Boston Post would advise new shingles as a remedy.—Ex.

The boy who calls another bad names does not become dignified when he heaves a rock at him, although he adds stone to his remarks.—Hackensack Republican.

"Scratch a Russian, and you'll find a Tartar," and scratch a match on the parlor wall and you'll find the old lady down you like a thousand of brick.—New Haven Register.

It was a self-made doctor in Michigan who wrote to JOHN BRIGHT asking him how his disease got along, and he is justly indignant that his letter was never answered.—Detroit Free Press.

People who wonder why it is that the fly always goes for the human head, should remember that insects in general show a decided preference for the softest spots.—Phila-Chronicle.

And the night shall be turned into gaslight, From our brow the sweat we shall wipe, Then grab the pillow by the back of the neck, And give the mosquito a swipe.—N. Y. Express Coates.

An editor being asked, "Do hogs pay?" says a great many do not. They take the paper several years and then have the postmaster send it back marked "refused."—Shelbyville (Ill.) Union.

Several boys weeding onions at Southport were prostrated by a stroke of lightning. Boys whose fathers own onion beds should cut this out and paste it in their fathers' hats.—Danbury News.

If NOAH had foreseen the future, and killed the two mosquitoes which took refuge in the ark, he would have rendered some of the strongest words in the English language unnecessary.—Exchange.

"This," said the dentist, "is my office." "And that?" inquired the visitor, pointing to the apartment where stood the tooth-pulling chair. "Ah, that," replied the proprietor, "that is my 'drawing' room."—Chicago Journal.

"In childhood's happy, sunny days, we take no note of Time," sang an old poet. And that's where you get stuck. Be wise. Take a note of time and everyone else. And bond and mortgage when you can get them.—Salem Sunbeam.

This is the season of the year when the good little boy refuses to go in bathing with his companions, because his mother forbid him, stays on the bank to mind their clothes and scoots for home after tying knots in the sleeves of their trousers.—Puck.

Mistress (to new cook)—"Now SARAH, remember if you are strictly honest and economical in your marketing, I will give you a few shillings extra per month." New cook—"Thank you, ma'am; I will think it over, and let you know in the evening."—Funny Folks.

A Bridgeport young man who looks deep into the foundation of things went insane the other day. Investigation followed, when it was discovered that he had been studying over the problem why the last exercises of a college are called commencement. The strain had been too much for him.—Bridgeport Standard.

Pour into your friend's ear great nuggets of wisdom, bristling with the choicest elucence, and he will say, "JONES is a good fellow, but a confounded bore." And let him talk for an hour, and though you utter not a word, yet will he go away impressed with your distinguished intelligence and miraculous conversational powers.—Boston Transcript.

When the robin jumps along the lawn or flies from tree to tree scattering the dew-drops from the leaves; when the bee coquets with the flower; when the first golden beams dart from the sapphire skies, and gild the filmy clouds; when the clover trembles in freshening breeze, and when all nature seems imbued with the charms of paradise; then, it is sweet to turn over in bed and take another nap.—Uncle Sam.

A Roseville young lady has invented a capital plan to keep a horse up to his pace when she is out riding with her lover. She doesn't like the use of the whip, and so when the animal lags a little in his gait she turns to THEODORE a pair of rosy lips, and then an emphatic smack breaks the stillness, and the horse springs forward at the sound as if he had been touched by an electric battery.—Newark Call.

When P. T. BARNUM, a young man poor and in debt, left Danbury, he said to Judge WHITTLESEY: "I will pay that bill when I get rich." The judge drew down his judicial features, and disdainfully replied: "That will be when a sieve holds water." In a few years the visionary young man was in a condition to pen the following brief letter to the judge: "I have fixed that sieve."—Danbury News.

A young lady book-agent called on us the other day with a volume of prose and poetical selections, which she thought we could no longer do without. We told her that the book would not benefit us. "Why," she replied, "here are the ideas of many writers on various subjects, and surely a hundred heads are better than one. Now"—flirting over the leaves of the book—"let us see what is said under the chapter of Kissing." "Yes," we assented, "when it comes to kissing even two heads are better than one, but the subject can be thoroughly discussed without referring to a five hundred page book." And we didn't invest.—Norristown Herald.

The Canadian Government has resolved to civilize the Indians and train them up in the way they should go. The red man is to be made a gentleman of culture—agriculture. Thirteen Canadian farmers are to go to the Northwest to teach the Indian idea how to make corn shoot. These grangers are to get $750 a year and "found." They are found in agricultural implements, and among the farming implements each receives a bowie knife, a revolver, a Martini-Henry rifle, and several hundred rounds of ammunition. All scalping is barred out and will be declared foul. Probably the Canada ruralist will sit on the fence with a rifle across his knee, a revolver in one hand and a bowie in the other, shouting to the perspiring Indians in the corn fields, "Hoe faster, you red fiends, or I'll open out on you."—Detroit Free Press.

The Queen's Navee and the Police.

MAGISTRATE—Who are you?

FIRST PRISONER—I am the mon-ark of the seas!

MAGISTRATE—Oh, indeed! And your friend? (To Officer)—Desire that remarkably fine young man to step forward. Now, sir, who are you?

SECOND PRISONER—One of the men, your honor.

MAGISTRATE—You look like a smart young man.

SECOND P.—Yes, your honor, although I say it myself, there isn't a smarter—

MAGISTRATE—There that'll do. But both of you are charged with using—to put it mildly—harsh language on the Queen's Highway, or rather on Yonge street wharf.

SECOND P.—Your honor, if you will kindly permit me, I will explain. My friend and I were "rehearsing," as we were waiting for the boat (my friend being about going to New York), we had got as far as "demme it's too bad!" when the constable "pulled" us.

MAGISTRATE—What ship do you belong to?

PRISONERS—H. M. Ship Pinefore.

MAGISTRATE—Well, I can't help thinking the Service is going to the deuce when I see a Lord of the Admiralty along with a common seaman. Can either of you dance a hornpipe?

PRISONERS—No, your honor.

MAGISTRATE—Ah, that looks bad! I had some idea of sending you to a dungeon cell, but in consideration of your being British tars, you can go. So top your booms, my hearties, and sheer off.

PRISONERS—Aye, aye! your honor. Thank ye. You yourself have said it—you are an Englishman!

Two Petitions.

TO HIS EXCELLENCY, THE MARQUIS OF LORNE, ETC., ETC:

May it Please Your Excellency:

We, the dutiful and loyal Grits of the Dominion approach you to say that we think it your undoubted duty to refuse the iniquitous advice of JOHN A. and his miserable colleagues in re the LETELLIER case. And we have no doubt whatever but you will do so. It cannot be otherwise. No member of the House of ARGYLL was ever yet known to trample upon the constitutional liberties of the people to serve the wretched little ends of faction. We have the utmost confidence that you will prove yourself a true ARGYLL in this affair, but if you don't, you will find some interesting reading in the organs of our party. Beware!

We have the honor to be, etc.,

G. BROWN, and others.

TO HIS EXCELLENCY THE MARQUIS OF LORNE, ETC.

May it Please Your Excellency:

We, the superloyal and dyed-in-the-wool Tories of this Dominion approach your person with profound politeness, and hope your Excellency's health is good. We also wish to say that we have no doubt you will act upon the advice of your Ministry and dismiss LETELLIER. The House of Argyle has never yet submitted to tyranny, and we hope it never will. Now of course you know that LETELLIER is a tyrant, and you cannot more highly honor your family crest than by kicking him out. By so doing you will also save our friends the trouble of resigning. We fully trust you will act upon this suggestion of ours, but if you do not, look out for lively notices in our papers. We have the honor to be &c., U. E. CLUB and others.

REGULATIONS*Respecting the Disposal of certain Dominion Lands for the purposes of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,

Ottawa, July 9th, 1879.

"Public notice is hereby given that the following regulations of the Dominion Lands situate within 110 (one hundred and ten) miles on each side of the line of the Canadian Pacific Railway:—

1. "Until further and final survey of the said railway has been made west of the Red River, and for the purposes of these regulations, the line of the said railway shall be assumed to be on the fourth base westerly to the intersection of the said base by the line between ranges 21 and 22 west of the first principal meridian, and thence in a direct line to the confluence of the Shell River with the River Assiniboine.

2. "The country lying on each side of the line of railway shall be respectively divided into belts, as follows:

"(1) A belt of five miles on either side of the railway, and immediately adjoining the same, to be called belt A;

"(2) A belt of fifteen miles on either side of the railway adjoining belt A, to be called belt B;

"(3) A belt of twenty miles on either side of the railway adjoining belt B, to be called belt C;

"(4) A belt of twenty miles on either side of the railway adjoining belt C, to be called belt D; and

"(5) A belt of fifty miles on either side of the railway, adjoining belt D, to be called belt E.

3. "The Dominion Lands in belt A shall be absolutely withdrawn from homestead entry, also from pre-emption, and shall be held exclusively for sale at six dollars per acre.

4. "The lands in belt B, shall be disposed of as follows: The even-numbered sections within the belt shall be set apart for homesteads and pre-emptions, and the odd-numbered sections shall be regarded as railway lands proper. The homesteads on the even-numbered sections, to the extent of eighty acres each, shall consist of the easterly halves of the easterly halves, also of the westerly halves of the westerly halves of such sections; and the pre-emptions on such even-numbered sections, also to the extent of eighty acres each, adjoining such eighty acre homesteads, shall consist of the westerly halves of the easterly halves, also of the easterly halves of the westerly halves of such sections, and shall be sold at the rate of $2.50 (two dollars and fifty cents) per acre. Railway lands proper, being the odd-numbered sections within the belt, will be held for sale at five dollars per acre.

5. "The even-numbered sections in belt C will be set apart for homesteads and pre-emptions of eighty acres each, in manner as above described; the price of pre-emptions similarly to be $2.50 (two dollars and fifty cents) per acre; the railway lands to consist of the odd-numbered sections, and to be dealt with in the same manner as above provided in respect of lands in belt B, except that the price shall be $3.50 (three dollars and fifty cents) per acre.

6. "The even-numbered sections in belt D shall also be set apart for homesteads and pre-emptions of eighty acres each, as provided for in respect of belts B and C, but the price of pre-emptions shall be at the rate of $2.00 (two dollars) per acre. Railway lands to consist, as in belts B and C of the odd-numbered sections, and the price thereof to be at the uniform rate of $2 (two dollars) per acre.

7. "In the belt E, the description and area of homesteads and pre-emptions, and railway lands respectively, to be as above, and the prices of both pre-emption and railway lands to be at the uniform rate of $1 (one dollar) per acre.

8. "The terms of sale of pre-emptions throughout the several belts, B, C, D and E shall be as follows, viz: Four-tenths of the purchase money, together with interest on the latter, at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, to be paid at the end of three years from the date of entry; the remainder to be paid in six equal annual instalments from and after the said date, with interest at the rate above mentioned, on such balance of the purchase money as may from time to time remain unpaid, to be paid with each instalment.

9. "The terms of sale of railway lands to be uniformly as follows, viz: One-tenth in cash at the time of purchase; the balance in nine equal annual instalments, with interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum on the balance of purchase money from time to time remaining unpaid, to be paid with each instalment. All payments, either for pre-emptions or for railway lands proper, shall be in cash, and not in scrip or bounty warrants.

10. "All entries of lands shall be subject to the following provisions respecting the right of way of the Canadian Pacific Railway or of any Government colonization railway connected therewith, viz:

a. In the case of the railway crossing land entered as a homestead, the right of way thereon shall be free to the Government.

b. Where the railway crosses pre-emptions or railway lands proper, the owner shall only be entitled to claim payment for the land required for right of way at the same rate per acre as he may have paid the Government for the same.

11. "The above regulations shall come into force on and after the first day of August next, up to which time the provisions of the Dominion Lands Act shall continue to operate over the lands included in the several belts mentioned, excepting as relates to the belts A and B, in both of which, up to the said date, homesteads of 160 acres each, but no other entries will, as at present, be permitted.

12. "Claims to Dominion lands, arising from settlement, after the date hereof, in territory unsurveyed at the time of such settlement, and which may be embraced within the limits affected by the above policy, or by the extension thereof in the future over additional territory, will be ultimately dealt with in accordance with the terms prescribed above for the lands in the particular belt in which such settlement may be found to be situated.

13. "All entries after the date hereof of unoccupied lands in the Saskatchewan Agency, will be considered as provisional until the railway line through that part of the territories has been located, after which the same will be finally disposed of in accordance with the above regulations, as the same may apply to the particular belt in which such lands may be found to be situated.

14. "The above regulations it will, of course, be understood will not affect sections 11 and 29, which are public school lands, or sections 8 and 26, Hudson's Bay Company lands.

"Any further information necessary may be obtained on application at the Dominion Lands Office, Ottawa, or from the agent of Dominion Lands, Winnipeg, or from any of the local agents in Manitoba or the Territories, who are in possession of maps showing the limits of the several belts above referred to, a supply of which maps will, as soon as possible, be placed in the hands of the said agents for general distribution."

By order of the Minister of the Interior,

J. S. DENNIS,

Deputy Minister of the Interior.

LINSLEY RUSSELL,
Surveyor General.

xiii-10-4t

VERNON,Manufacturing Jeweller,

159 YONGE STREET.

Watches and Clocks Repaired. Pipes Mounted.

xiii-4-tf

THOMPSON, FAHEY & CO.,Financial, Estate & Insurance Agents

STOCK BROKERS, &c.

AGENTS FOR Sovereign Fire Insurance Company of Canada; Inman Line of Ocean Steamships,

10 KING STREET EAST, TORONTO.

English Office: 52 LIME STREET, LONDON E.C.

CREDIT VALLEY RAILWAY.TENDERS.

Tenders will be received at this office for the erection of FIVE GRAIN WAREHOUSES; also for the supplying of the material necessary to build a wharf opposite the Union Station.

Plans, specifications, and all other information may be obtained from Mr. Bailey, Chief Engineer of the road.

GEO. LAIDLAW,
President C. V. R.

xiii-10-2t.

An interesting experiment it being tried at the Zoological Gardens. Eggs laid by an ostrich have been cunningly painted to resemble an emu's, and placed under a male emu to be hatched.—Ez.

Thus do the scientific fellows emu's themselves.

OUR SATURDAY EXCURSION BOAT.

Only one more Wharf to call at!

TILLEY'S TRIUMPH.

"I'll paint your picture, darling," cried
An artist to his lovely bride,
"I'll dip my brush in colors rare,
And show the world that thou art fair."
"No don't," she answered, "what's the use,
When I can have it done by Bruce?"

J. BRUCE & Co., opp Rossin House.

xii-22-17.

THE
NEW DOMINION,
3 MONTHS ON TRIAL
FOR 25 CENTS.

A large 8-page, 40-column weekly family paper. The cheapest and best serial ever yet published. Address S. FRANK WILSON, 13 Victoria St., Toronto, Ont., Canada.

CAUTION.

EACH PLUG OF THE

MYRTLE NAVY TOBACCO

IS STAMPED

T. & B.

IN GILT LETTERS.

NONE OTHER IS GENUINE.

xiii-1-3m

Seraphine.

By EDGAR ALLAN P.

The skies they were brilliant and azure,
When I called on my own SERAPHINE,
My own darling, sweet SERAPHINE!
I was certain, and so was her ma, sure,
That a finer day never was seen.
Their lawn was as large as a pasture,
With its exquisite tinting of green;
It's so lovely! you'd say if you'd cast your Eyes on the beautiful scene.

My own SERAPHINE, with her tresses
So bright, said, " 'Tis awfully warm!"
I agreed—'twas excessively warm.
She wore just the sweetest of dresses,
Made out of white muslin or lawn;
I suggested a walk on the lawn,
(I don't mean the muslin or lawn)
While her tresses the light breeze caresses,
I feel I am dreadfully "gone."

Then my darling with parasol o'er her,
Said, "Let us go where it's less waum;
For it's quite too most dreadfully waum."
It was then I thought of the Chicora,
And assured her the Lake must be cawm.
I said, "Let us take the Chicora,"
Then my angel sprang up like a fawn.
Dear SERAPHINE, how I adore her!
As we walk to the lake from the lawn.

We're on board and away past the Island,
When suddenly rises a storm,
A terrible, old fashioned storm!
O, could I once set foot on dry land!
With my SERAPHINE whom I have torn
From her pa and her ma, I'm a vile and Wicked wretch! Bring me a horn
Of brandy and water—What! Nigh land?
My SERAPHINE safe from the storm,
Oh! bring me a duplicate horn!

So silent and sad and so limp was
My SERAPHINE—so was her lawn,
(I refer to her white dress of lawn).
She said she as wet as a shrimp was,
My attentions she treated with scorn.
Disgusted and angry the nymph was,
As we now reached the gates of the lawn,
She said that a shame and a sin 'twas
To coax her away from her lawn
To the lake with its terrible stawm!
(Her accent is of the haut ton)
So I've never more stood in that lawn,
The dreary and desolate lawn!

S. R. QUIGLEY,
ENGRAVER & JEWELLER,
MASONIC & SOCIETY REGALIA, EMBLEMS, &c.
10 KING ST. EAST, TORONTO. xiii-4-17

BALDNESS!

Neither gasoline, vasoline, carboline, or Allen's, Ayer's, or Hall's hair restorers have produced luxuriant hair on bald heads. That great discovery is due to Mr. Wintercorbyn, 144 King-street, West, opposite Revere Block, as can be testified to by hundreds of living witnesses in this city and Province. He challenges all the so-called restorers to produce a like result.

Send for circulars.

xii-12-17

TO PHONOGRAPHERS!

PRICE-LIST REVISED APRIL 1, 1879.

Compend of Phonography	5 cts.
Exercises in Phonography,	5
Grammatical and Contractions,	10
Questions on Manual,	15
Selections in Reporting Style,	20
Teacher,	20
Key to Teacher,	20
Reader,	20
Manual,	55
Reporter,	99
Reporting Exercises,	20
Phrase Book,	35
Railway Phrase Book,	25
Covers for holding Note Book,	20
The Reporter's Guide, by Thos. Allan Reid	60
Self-culture, corresponding style,	75
The Book of Psalms, corresponding style,	35
The book of Psalms, cloth	75
Common Prayer morocco, with gilt edges	$2.80
The Other Life, cloth	50
New Testament, reporting style,	$2.50
Phonographic Dictionary	1.50
Pilgrim's Progress, corresponding style,	55
Pilgrim's Progress, cloth	90
Aesop's Fables, in Learner's Style	20
Ten Pounds and Other Tales, cor. style	20
That Which Money cannot Buy, etc. cor. style	20
Being and Seeming, My Donkey, A Parish Clerk's Tale, etc., cor. style	20
Character of Washington, Speech of George Canning at Plymouth, etc., with printed key, rep-
style	20
Address of the Earl of Derby, on being installed
Lord Rector of the University of Edinburgh,
etc., rep. style	20

Sent post-paid to any address on receipt of price

BENGOUGH BROS.,

Next Post Office, Toronto.

Try RYRIE, the Jeweller, FOR WATCHES, CHAINS, RINGS, &c., &c., 113 YONGE STREET. EVERYTHING WARRANTED.

PUBLISHERS' NOTE.

Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.

Subscription price, $2 per annum, strictly in advance. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied BENGOUGH BROS.

USE ONLY
ONTARIO
Baking Powder.

Ask your Grocer for it.

MANUFACTORY:

247 King Street West,
TORONTO.
xii-20-1y

SAMPLE SHEETS
—OF—
New Year's Calling Cards,
Ready December 1st,
BENGOUGH BROS.

ZELL'S

POPULAR ENCYCLOPEDIA,
Complete in 2 Vols., bound in half calf, Morocco with marble edges, for only $30, cost $39.50.

Address,
X. Y. Z. GRIP Office.

SECOND-HAND JOB TYPE
FOR SALE.
SPLENDID VALUE.

Send for Sample sheet.

BENGOUGH BROS.

CHEAP READING.

We will send to subscribers of "GRIP" any of the following magazines and papers for one year at prices annexed.

Scribner, $4.50, Grip $2, both, $5.50.

St. Nicholas, $3, Grip, $2, both $4.50.

Scientific American, $3.20, Grip, $2, both $4.75.

Detroit Free Press, $2, Grip, $2, both, $3.25.

BENGOUGH BROS.

WANTED.—5 cents each will be paid for the following back numbers of GRIP:

VOL.	No.	2, 10, 23.
"	3	7, 17, 20, 19, 24.
"	4	1, 2, 4, 5, 6, 7.
"	5	5, 7, 17, 19, 21, 26.
"	6	6, 7, 9, 13, 25.
"	7	4, 12, 20, 21.
"	8	1, 2, 7, 12, 5, 16.
"	9	15.

BENGOUGH BROS.,
TORONTO.

$1500 TO $6000 A YEAR, or $5 to $20 a day in your own locality. No risk. Women do as well as men. Many make more than the amount stated above. No one can fail to make money fast. Any one can do the work. You can make from 50 cts. to $2 an hour by devoting your evenings and spare time to the business. It costs nothing to try the business. Nothing like it for money making ever offered before. Business pleasant and strictly honorable. Reader if you want to know all about the best paying business before the public, send us your address and we will send you full particulars and private terms free; samples worth $5 also free; you can then make up your mind for yourself. Address GEORGE STINSON & CO., Portland, Maine. xiii-10-1y

LOOK OUT FOR

GRIP'S COMIC ALMANAC!

FOR 1880.

(TRADE MARK REGISTERED)

TORONTO, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1879.

GRIP OFFICE, IMPERIAL BUILDING.	The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.	5 CTS. EACH. $2 PER ANNUM.
------------------------------------	--	--------------------------------

GRIP'S ALMANAC

Now in course of preparation, will be a bright, lively and original work, of 64 pages, containing pictorial record of political events of 1879, weather prognostications, warranted to suit all latitudes—A literary department containing original humorous articles profusely illustrated. A limited number of advertisements will be received. The editor will be pleased to receive contributions from his facetious friends throughout the country. Address care of the Publishers.

BENGOUGH BROS.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach Grip office not later than Wednesday—Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, Grip office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

ORGAN FOR SALE

Best expression organ ever introduced into this country. This is a rare chance for a lover of good music.

WILL BE SOLD VERY CHEAP.

Apply to A. K.,
xiii-22-2t GRIP Office.

$66 A WEEK in your own town, and no capital risked. You can give the business a trial without expenditure. The best opportunity ever offered for those willing to work. You should try nothing else until you see for yourself what you can do at the business we offer. No room to explain here. You can devote all your time or only your spare time to the business, and make great pay for every hour that you work. Women make as much as men. Send for special private terms and particulars, which we will mail free. $5 Outfit free. Don't complain of hard times while you have such a chance. Address H. HALLET & CO., Portland, Maine. xiii-10-1y

BENGOUGH BROS.
Are prepared to execute orders in the highest style of the art.

ENGRAVING

Type Metal Plates
MADE FROM

Pen and Ink Sketches, Photographs, Lithographs, &c.,

More perfect, true and lasting than any wood engraving, and at a much lower cost. Call and see specimens at

GRIP OFFICE,

Next door to Post Office, Toronto.

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY. The tens of thousands who are making exclusive use of the COOK'S FRIEND Baking Powder, thereby render UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY to its superiority. Retailed everywhere. xiii-10-1y

IMPROVED.

We have adopted a new method of making our SNOWFLAKE ROLLS, where by they are much improved, remaining moist much longer and being perfectly sweet. They are not surpassed by any bread on the market. 7 cents each. Delivered daily. CRUMPTON'S Bread and Cake Bakery, 171 King Street East.

Readers of "GRIP"

Desiring anything in the Book or Music line, which they may not be able to procure at home, can have them forwarded, at once, if in the city, by addressing BENGOUGH BROS., next P.O., Toronto.

$300 A MONTH guaranteed. $12 a day made at home by the industrious. Capital not required; we will start you. Men, women, boys and girls make money faster at work for us than at anything else. The work is light and pleasant, and such as anyone can go right at. Those who are wise who see this notice will send us their addresses at once and see for themselves. Costly Outfit and terms free. Now is the time. Those already at work are laying up large sums of money. Address TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine. xiii-10-1y

COAL AND WOOD, AND AT LOWEST PRICES, NAIRN'S. Office, Next Post Office. Docks, Foot of Church Street.

Literature and Art.

The recently discovered Farnesina frescoes and the objects of art found in the Tiber, have been placed in the "Museo Tiberino" at Rome.

The late Lady WALDEGRAVE left Sir JOSHUA REYNOLDS' picture of the Duchess of Gloucester to the gallery of the Duc d'Aumale.

M. PROTAIS, the French battle painter, is making a picture for the ex-Empress, representing the Prince as he lay dead in the Zulu maize field.

Apollo and Marsyas, a genuine RAPHAEL, is for sale in Rome, price 500,000 francs—only $100,000, and the buyer will be able to carry it away in a good sized carpet sack.

There has been on exhibition for some time past in the corridor of Brighton Beach Hotel, at Coney Island, a reported Ecce Homo of Correggio, which bears very strong proofs of authenticity. It was disposed of by raffle, and can now be seen for a short time at GIBBON'S Art Gallery.

Boston has an important art association in the Highlands Crayon Club, which was organized last January. Only professional artists are eligible to active membership, but any gentleman may become a passive member. A boys' school of art has been established in connection with the Club.

The Musical Review, an excellent journal devoted exclusively to music, has issued its first and second numbers. It treats in carefully considered articles of the musical interests of the time, and is rendered attractive to the general reader by its foreign letters, and notes of the movements of musical celebrities.

The Misses GILMORE, of Port Hope, give the greatest promise of distinguishing themselves in the Art World. Speaking of their performance last week at a grand concert at Peterborough, the Review says:—"The wonderful playing and singing of the very youthful Misses GILMORE of Port Hope especially called forth enthusiastic plaudits." Mr. Franz Rummel, the distinguished pianist says that the elder sister (Miss Emily) "possesses extraordinary musical ability." And the Princess Louise in a recent graceful letter to the young pianist says: "Her Royal Highness wishes you every success in your musical career." The Misses GILMORE are already engaged for several concerts this season.

There are no less than 1376 reproductions in the Dresden exhibition, which is now open, and they form, as so large a number well may, a very interesting collection of RAPHAEL. The reproductions are in oil, water colors, copper-plate engravings, color-prints and photographs, and are classified in the catalogue under the head of RAPHAEL'S portraits. Old Testament, New Testament, various religious pieces, Holy Family, Life of the Virgin MARY, saints, various portraits, Vatican frescoes, Loggia, various frescoes, architectonic works, sculptors, drawings and studies. In addition the collection includes twenty-nine original, and for the most part well authenticated drawings, which were lent from various private galleries, and nineteen sketches and paintings in oil, the authenticity of which is disputed. Upon these latter the judgment of RAPHAEL connoisseurs is solicited. The success of the exhibition has in a large measure been due to the powerful assistance given by the director of the Royal Galleries of Paintings, at Dresden.

INTERCOLONIAL RAILWAY

RIVIERE DU LOUP BRANCH.

SEALED Tenders addressed to the undersigned, endorsed "Tenders for Cars," will be received at this office up to noon of TUESDAY, the 25th instant, for the supply of—

Four Snow Ploughs,
Three Flangers,
Three Wing Ploughs,
Two First Class Cars,
Two Second Class Cars,
Two smoking and Postal Cars,
Two Baggage Cars.

Plans, specifications and forms of tender can be had at the Mechanical Superintendent's office at Moncton.

The Department not bound to accept the lowest or any of the tenders.

By order, F. BRAUN,

Secretary.

Dept. Railways and Canals, }
Ottawa, 7th Nov., 1879. }

xiii-26-27.

A. H. GORRELL & Co.,

PROPRIETORS OF THE

TORONTO LITHOGRAPHING

COMPANY,

33 Wellington Street East,

TORONTO.

xiii-21-17

Second-Hand Machinery.

WANTED.

Shingle Machine. Double Edger. Band Saw. Wood Turning Lathe—large. Shaping Machine. Jig Saw. Lawn Mower. Yacht Engine—suitable for a yacht with 40 feet keel, with or without boiler. Cylinder Press—Double Royal.

FOR SALE.

3 h.p. Engine with 4 h.p. Boiler. 6 h.p. Engine with 7 h.p. Boiler. 36 h.p. Engine with 40 h.p. Boiler. 68 h.p. Engine with 2 Boilers 48 inch shell 25 feet long 16 in. flues. 1 Boiler 44 inch shell 22 feet long 14 inch flues. 1 (Stearns) Saw Mill. 1 (Stearns) Log Turner. 1 (Stearns) Double Edger. 1 Stock Gate with Crank Shaft, Crank, Pulleys and Press Rollers. 1 Slabbing Gate with chain feed. 1 Counter Shaft (4 inch) 7 feet long with Pillar blocks, drums and pulleys. 164 inch Circular Saw. 148 inch Circular Saw. A lot of drums and pulleys suitable for a mill. 1 No. 1 Gordon Press (new). 1 Water Motor, good as new. We are agents for

Reid's Patent Seamless Water Trap,

The best, because the strongest Trap in the Market. We invite the inspection of Plumbers and Architects.

WM. DINGMAN & Co.,
42 FRONT STREET EAST.

Machinery taken on consignment and no charge for storage. We guarantee every Machine leaving our establishment in good working order.

Financial.

$10 to $1000! Invested in Wall St. Stocks makes fortunes every month
Book sent free explaining everything.

Address BAXTER & CO., Bankers, 7 Wall St., N. Y.
xiii-22-17

A GOOD PLAN. Combining and operating many orders in one vast sum has every advantage of capital, with skillful management. Large profits divided pro rata on investments of $25 to $10,000. Circular, with full explanations how all can succeed in stock dealings, mailed free. LAWRENCE & CO., 55 Exchange Place, New York.
xiii-22-17

Stage Whispers.

The New York Aquarium is at present the home of English opera. The "Bohemian Girl" is sung there nightly in a very acceptable manner, and the Sabbath School Juvenile Pinafore company appear every afternoon, except Saturday.

Mr. PITOU is about to mount a battery of big guns at the Grand. DANIEL E. BANDMANN and his English Company open a brief engagement in a round of legitimate plays, at that house on Monday. The name of BANDMANN is familiar to all patrons of the drama as that of a German-English tragedian of the first rank, who, like FECHTER, has kept the pens of the critics busy for many years. In the great Shakespearean roles he has made many bold innovations, of the merits of which Toronto play-goers will have an opportunity to judge. He is accompanied by Mrs. BANDMANN, who has long shared her husband's histrionic fame. The members of the company are selected from the principal theatres of London and the English provinces.

Mrs. SCOTT-SIDDONS renewed her former brilliant triumphs in this city on Monday and Tuesday evenings, when she made her alleged farewell appearance. Mrs. SIDDONS (we drop the SCOTT, since the lady has dropped the man who bestowed the name upon her) is the pet of fortune. To use the language of the lowly sailor, Rackstraw, in her "there meet a combination of elements" which conspire to make her a phenomenal success. She has a great stage name; classic beauty of form and feature; original dramatic talent of a high order, a charming manner, and last, but by no means least, she is, in theatrical slang, "a good dresser." She reads SHAKESPEARE magnificently, managing the small parts as well as a woman could, she has also a complete mastery of the pathetic and the humorous styles. Her chief stumbling-block is dialect. She cannot do the Irish brogue, at all events—and where is the Englishwoman who can? All in all she is a charming little person and will always retain a warm spot in our hearts.

BRONSON HOWARD'S new play entitled Wives is pronounced very good. The action is compressed within a few hours and its drift is merely to show what an egregious donkey an old man may make of himself when he undertakes to train up a young girl to be his wife. There are two stories in Wives, but being a good deal alike, they harmonize very nicely and run smoothly together to the end. The best part is that of Agnes, one of the prospective "wives." This is charmingly played by Miss CATHERINE LEWIS, who made a decided hit the first night. Such a demure and ingenious little puss has not often been seen at the footlights, and her song, "I'm such a little fool" is rendered with a naïveté that captures the house at once. Both author and manager are fortunate in having the part in such competent hands, for if Agnes were not well played the play itself would be in danger. CHAS. FISHER and WM. DAVIDGE as the two old men with recipes for making wives, have parts which suit them admirably, and play them with an unction that is thoroughly enjoyable. The play is superbly mounted, and in the item of dresses, DAILY again shows the enterprise and excellent taste which drew special attention to his earlier management. If Wives fails to secure a good run, it will not be his fault or that of the leading members of his company.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

By BENGOUGH BROS., Proprietors. Office:—Imperial Buildings, next to the Post Office, Adelaide Street, Toronto. GEO. BENGOUGH, Business Manager.

Original contributions paid for. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned. Literary and Business communications to be addressed to BENGOUGH BROS.

SUBSCRIPTION TERMS:—Two dollars per year, payable in advance. Subscriptions and advertisements are received at the office, or by WM. R. BURRAGE, General Subscription and Advertising Agent, 26 Adelaide Street East, Toronto.

NOTICE TO ARTISTS.

The publishers of GRIP will be pleased to receive from amateurs and others, sketches of a humorous character on either political or social subjects. Such as are accepted will be published with the artist's name attached. Rejected sketches will be returned, if the requisite postage is enclosed.

EDITED AND ILLUSTRATED BY J. W. BENGOUGH.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

Volume XIV.

It is a gala night at Mr. GRIP's theatre. The handsome edifice is packed from pit to gallery, with the genius, beauty, bone and sinew of the Dominion. (That is to say, all Mr. GRIP's subscribers are present). The Royal box contains the Vice-Royal party; the other boxes are crowded with distinguished statesmen, judges, lawyers, clergymen and literati; and in the body of the house every class of the community is largely represented. Full dress, opera glasses, and scented handkerchiefs are the order of the occasion. It is a gala night. The country has assembled to do honor to Mr. GRIP's seventh birthday, and to witness the inauguration of his Fourteenth Volume. The roaring piece entitled, "A Fine Child for Adoption," has just been finished amid demonstrations of approval. Senator BROWN and his friends being particularly demonstrative in their applause. (See Globe of Monday morning). With unanimous voice the audience demand the appearance of Mr. GRIP before the curtain, and that sagacious, profound and gifted individual comes forth, radiant in a swallow-tail and white gloves, his plumage glistening in the gas-light, and a fragrant bouquet gracing his button-hole. A tremendous round of applause, echoed from ocean to ocean, greets his appearance, and the most respectful and impressive silence then falls upon the multitude. With a voice betraying genuine emotion, Mr. GRIP speaks as follows:

My Friends and Patrons:—Unaccustomed as I am to public speaking (applause) you will readily believe me when I say that I feel myself unequal to the task of thanking you adequately for this warm and generous reception. When I ventured seven years ago to embark upon the stormy sea of humorous journalism, I left a shore which was strewn with wrecks, and I was not unprepared for a rough voyage, or even a disaster. I determined, however, that, should my craft meet the doom of all its predecessors, it should not be on account of rotten timbers in its hull, or because of navigating in questionable waters. I made up my mind that it should never engage in an unworthy traffic, nor carry articles that were too heavy. Abiding by these first principles, I have to tell you that our voyage on the sea of popular approval has been a prosperous one. In the words of the poet:

"We sail the ocean blue,
And our saucy ship's a beauty,
We're sober men and true,
And attentive to our duty."

To drop this nautical metaphor, I, GRIP, rejoice in a continued and ever increasing popularity, which is in part, no doubt, owing to the ability with which I perform my functions of public censor, if I may be allowed modestly to think so—and in part certainly to the generosity of the humor-loving public, whom I have sought to serve, and who have expressed their sympathy in the tangible form of giving me a good subscription list. On the completion of my Thirteenth Volume, I am able to look back upon my work with satisfaction. No doubt there are flaws which the artistic hand would fain correct, but there are no lines which the moralist would demand should be obliterated. It is my purpose, ladies and gentlemen, to go on in the same path for the future, extenuating nothing, and setting down nought in malice. Amid the strife of politics it is often necessary to speak plain words with the pen and pencil, but plain words are not necessarily malignant or unjust. Hitherto it has been my aim to be kind as well as honest, and in the future that humorist shall continue to be my model—him of whom it was written,

"His wit in the combat as gentle as bright,
Never carried a heart-stain away on its blade."

At the conclusion of this brief but brilliant speech, Mr. GRIP bowed his acknowledgments amid the most enthusiastic applause and waving of handkerchiefs, and retired with difficulty over the heaps of bouquets which impeded his path.

A Cure for Hiccough.

JOHN SMITH had a bad hiccough the other day and tried a number of so-called cures. He put a cold key down his back, but it did no good: he held his breath till he thought he would burst, and when he did burst it was into a hiccough; he took nine consecutive swallows of water without one inhalation of air. All was no use. At last he remembered that his mother used to say that a sudden shock or surprise was certain death to the hiccough. He meditated for some time on the best method of surprising himself. Then he grabbed his leg violently, but the surprise wasn't sudden enough. He then shut his eyes and walked slap up against a door, but the old thing wouldn't work. He stubbed his toes, trod on his favorite corn, threw a glass of cold water in his face, and performed many other practical jokes at his own expense, which would have surprised him greatly at another time. The hiccough was worse than ever! Then he went out, turned down the Receiver-General's lane from Toronto street, and asked his friends to surprise him. There were a number of them present, as this all took place during business hours. One told him that fashionable girls were really learning to cook, but he had heard that before; another said that of late, PHIPPS looked no more self-satisfied than J. D. EDGAR, but he couldn't believe it, and was, consequently not surprised; another assured him that the Globe was receiving more cable specials than the Mail, but he wasn't surprised a bit. The hiccoughs still continued. Then some one told him that the U. E. Club intended to pay their notes, and for a moment it seemed that SMITH's hiccough had ended. But then he reflected on the pavement of the bottomless pit and his surprise vanished in incredulity. Then some one informed him that the police were trying to suppress houses of ill-fame; that Mr. JOHN TURNER had no intention of running for Mayor; that GEORGE BROWN is becoming popular; that Mr. BLAKE does not wish to supplant Mr. MACKENZIE; that Senator MACPHERSON hadn't signed his name to a letter for their works; that the Marquis of LORNE thought that he had been decently treated by Sir JOHN in the LETELLIER matter, and twenty other equally surprising statements. Still the hiccough continued and SMITH was about to conclude that he could not be surprised, when a man outside was heard to swear, "This copy of the Globe does not contain one attack on the manufacturers." The effect on SMITH was electric. He was not surprised by the statement itself, but he was so much surprised to feel that it did not surprise him that the hiccough stopped at once, and permitted him to get back to this office.

To Live Forever.

Doctor SCHMOBLER is a very great man,
And he can tell what nobody can,
(Nobody else, that is, you know)
The way to survive to a million or so.

Only imagine, the Doctor has told
How we can all be a million old,
GRIP puts it a million, not harshly to strike
Your feelings, but fact is—as long as you like.

We all of us knew that the way we must live
Was to eat; it was left for the Doctor to give
The diet immortal—it's simply to stuff
Yourself every morning with lemons enough.

And you never will die—only think what a thing,
And what wonders the cycles revolving still bring,
And how lucky, no matter how many there be
We've not got to die off, but may stop here and see.

But a sad thought arrests the smooth flow of GRIP's pen,
What on earth will become of the funeral men?
We shall soon meet them begging—all little and big,
Frozen out undertakers, with no graves to dig.

And a few thousand years from to-day, as we walk
Smarmily round, and with some great-great-grand-child talk (It needs fifty more greats, but his columns have been So much crowded of late, that GRIP can't get them in).

Then that small many-greaved will ask us to say
"What are all those queer stones there decaying away?"
And unto him we shall make instinctive reply,
"They are gravestones, set there once, when folks used to die."

"Have you taken your lemons?" And now by the way,
What if we do for lemons in that coming day?
We'll need one lemon orchard all over the land
While the folks will increase, till there's no room to stand.

There'll be small houses everywhere under the trees,
There'll be chaps in the branches as thick as you please.
We'll be hard up for room if we don't learn to fly
And annex some waste planets far up in the sky.

With a soil fit for lemons. And what comes to pass
With the doctors and chemists, and folks of that class?
Say, how lucky that TUPPER and TILLEY have got Into politics; they'd have been dished, would they not?

But the subject's too vast e'en for GRIP's mighty view,
And he can't sing always; he has business to do,
Which reminds him—"Say, office-boy, send for a ship
Full of lemons, directed, 'Toronto, for GRIP.'"

A Ground Plot—Making up a plan to rob a cemetery.

Horse fanciers are very fond of jewellery—notably studs.

Mennonites—Fellows who get home late from the Club.

When a small boy ties an oyster can to a dog's tail he remembers the Latin motto, Cave can'em.

When a writer swears when his articles are refused it's a proof that rejected communications corrupt good manners.

Served Him Right!

We have heard it said that aldermen are of little practical use, particularly when they are ideal aldermen—very, very portly. This may be true so far as civic affairs are concerned, and on ordinary week days, but it is now certain that stout aldermen are eminently useful, in connection with sacred things on Sundays. At least our distinguished city father BAXTER has proved himself a handy—or rather a footy—man to have around when any ribald fellow undertakes to disturb public worship. We learn from the Hamilton Times that a certain “infidel” attempted to interrupt the services in the Queen St. Methodist Church on a recent Sunday, by interjecting remarks during the sermon, much to the annoyance of the congregation, when Mr. BAXTER, who was present—as he always is—inflicted condign punishment on the irreverent fellow by walking him out to the door and kicking him down the steps. This may not have been dealing gently with the erring, but it served the intruder right. If the worthy alderman would mete out similar treatment to some of his useless colleagues at the Council board, he would confer a public favor.

Oh, Oh!

JONES—Do you do the carving at home?
SMITH—No, my wife attends to that,—she's my help-meat, you know!

Political Cookery.

“Ladies,” says assistant Chef BLAKE, “we will now proceed to cook Mr. MAC-KENZIE's goose.”
“Pardon me,” says Grand Chef BROWN, “you mistake the programme. I do not see in the Globe any announcement such as you have made. Moreover, the bird in question is exceedingly tough.” And the Great Chef smiled widely, and straightway proceeded to parboil Mr. BLAKE's younger and tenderer bird.

MORAL—The best intentions are sometimes at fault.

The Blakette Grit.

Written by MR. BLAKE, and “designed to encourage independence of thought and action in the lower branches of the Service.”

The BLAKEITE Grit is a soaring soul,
As free as a mountain bird,
His energetic fist should be ready to resist
A dictatorial word!

His views should veer and his votes should change,
His words should shift, and his hopes should range,
He should sit very loose from his colleagues slow,
And his fist be ever ready for a knock-down blow.

His eyes should flash with Aurora fire,
His brow with scorn be wrung,
He never should bow down to an editorial frown
Or the tang of a tyrant tongue.

His ideas should grow and his faith should soar,
His promises be many and his actions more,
His thought should expand and his hopes protrude,
And this should be his customary attitude!

(Squaring up at G. B.)

The Humble Pie.

The other day the editor of the Globe received from certain of his admirers at Woodbridge, a magnificent humble pie, which he duly ate in the presence of the public, but for which he expressed no thanks whatever. Mr. GRIP considers this a breach of good manners, and comes forward on this, his first opportunity, to acknowledge, on behalf of the Globe magnate, the receipt of the pie, which was in every way delicious. The pastry was too well done, however, as it made the editor feel decidedly crusty for a long time.

The Hum.

BY A HOPEFUL PROTECTIONIST.

While Premiers and policies to hard times succumb,
There's nothing like fallacies—catch-words like “hum”!
The good times long promised have not yet been seen,
And to keep up our courage we loudly have been
Shouting hum, hum, sweet, sweet hum,
Be it ever so silly, there's no cry like hum.

There's REDPATH's Refinery, which, under Grit rule,
Had been all broken up in a manner most cruel,
Now it's working like mad; it's good time has come,
For now our dear sugar is all made “to hum,”
Hum, hum, sweet sugar hum,
There's nothing like monopoly to make a big hum.

The sturdy old yeoman drives into the town,
And sees with disgust that the market is down;
So to cheer up his heart he indulgeth in rum,
And when he's full he can talk of the hum,
Hum, hum, sweet, sweet hum,
There's nothing like liquor to make you hear hum.

So rest ye contented, content is the sum
Of comfort and happiness, so wait for the hum,
The good times are coming, so be of good cheer,
Your ears for the humming you scarcely can hear
With the hum. I will come, will the hum,
Be joyous and hopeful, we'll soon have the hum!

The Denouement.

The serio-comic tragedy in Quebec has reached a temporary close. Virtue, in the person of Mr. CHAPLEAU, has triumphed gloriously. The JOLY villain of the piece—he who dishonoured his Province by giving her decent Government, and wiping away a large portion of her debt, is flung headlong from office; and the noble minded and incorruptible FLYNN, who has made himself illustrious in the character of BENEDICT ARNOLD, rushes into the arms of the fickle genius of Quebec. The next act is to be performed when the general election comes on, and it wouldn't surprise the world a great deal if JOLY should then come up smiling, and poetic justice be done all around.

Political Nonsense.

A certain French Bleu, full of art,
Thought to get of the spoils a fair part,
But when foiled in his game
Quite Ronge he became,
And declared CHAPLEAU's grapes very Tarte.

A certain young Ottawa Mayor
For a Government job did tendare,
Which was clever, no doubt,
For he stepped down and out
With a couple of thousand per year.

An Apology.

Mr. GRIP regrets that by an inadvertence he gave it out in his last two numbers that the Hon. EDWARD BLAKE was seeking election for the riding of East Durham, when he should have said West Durham. He hopes that this unfortunate circumstance did not put the electors of the former riding to too much trouble and expense. If they have held a number of meetings and worked up a great excitement, and spent a large part of their valuable time in canvassing, on the strength of the erroneous announcement, of course it cannot be helped now, and the most GRIP can do is to offer this apology. Let us trust that the work done may not be altogether lost, however. It may do for the next general election.

The story of a “Broken Engagement” is of (one) match less interest.

“Well, I'm blown,” as the bubble said to the child. “I'm so ‘appy,” as the child said to the bubble.

"HIS CUSTOMARY AT-TI-TUDE!!"

"I ALTOGETHER DECLINE TO ACCEPT ON MY RE-ENTRANCE INTO PUBLIC LIFE ANY MORE STRAIGHTENED CONDITIONS THAN HERETOFORE."

—Hon. E. Blake, at West Durham.

THE JOKER CLUB.

"The Gun is mightier than the Sword."

A contented sheep is a good sign of settled weather.—[Denielsonville Sentinel.]

Reformed gamblers may be classed among the ex sports of this country.—Marathon Independent.

All that the American Navy needs is some boats. It has plenty of water.—Burlington Hawkeye.

Don't laugh at the cat for running round after her tail. She is only pursuing her end.—Boston Transcript.

Knows no bounds : A played out rubber ball.—Yonkers Statesman. Knows no bounce : A tramp.—Salem Sunbeam.

Between keeping her sauce from working and her girls at work, the housewife has her hands full.—Syracuse Times.

One way to let people know you are not going to the poorhouse, is to wear rings outside of gloves.—C. B. Lewis.

A reporter on a daily paper got some good points recently by climbing over a spiked fence.—Baltimore Every Saturday

The chromo that comes with a package of tea is less a work of art than is the stuff called tea.—New Orleans Picayune.

If those who over-eat and those who half starve were to strike a balance, the world would be pretty well fed.—New York Mail.

Girls are wearing boys' hats, boys' ties, and boys' cravats.—Yonkers Gazette. And boas about their necks, the darlings.—Lockport Union.

When he sighs for her and she sighs for him, the sighin's of the times may be considered auspicious for a wedding.—Steubenville Herald.

COURTNEY'S song: "Hop bitters 's my lot! How could these fellows do it! They sawed my boot in two, and no one there to glue it."—Syracuse Herald.

Some influential papers announce that they are "entered in the post-office as second-class matter," and they do not lie.—Hartford Sunday Journal.

"I rise for information," said a member of a legislative body. "I am very glad to hear it," said a bystander, "no man wants it more."—Andrews' Bazar.

GASPERONI, a noted Italian brigand has recently died aged ninety; from which we infer that brigandage in Italy is ten per cent. below par.—Steubenville Herald.

Theman who has got the sweetest little wife in the world is surprised to find that it takes just as much saccharine matter for his coffee, as it did before.—N. Y. People.

There are lots of men who have attained high reputation for strict attention to business, but the trouble has been it wasn't their own business.—Marathon Independent.

GEORGE R. WENDLING has named a new lecture "The Problem of the Ages." If he means the ages of the fair sex, and has really solved the problem, he is a genius.—Chicago Journal.

The only difference between a restaurant and a boarding house is that at one you order what you want, while at the other you order what you don't want.—Lockport Union.

Young man, a diamond pin looks real nice and glistens brightly, but when four dollars a week supports a man and pin both, one or the other is not genuine.—Oswego Record.

Solon was one of the seven wise men of Greece. He never stopped to argue when his wife told him to get out of his warm bed and build a fire in the kitchen stove.—Wheeling Leader.

—Scarce do we bid adieu to ills

That mark the reign of summer,

Than premonitions bid us grieve

The stove man and the plumber.

—Lowell Sun.

Why will people insist in commending honest industry when they see, every day, that it brings thousands of masons, carpenters, and plasterers to the scaffold?—Somerville Journal.

An article is going the rounds treating on the best method of putting away potatoes. A family of about eight, including three boys and three girls, can put away potatoes about as successfully as is necessary.—Rome Sentinel.

When you see evidences of hair on 'the lappel of a young man's coat, and the concave side of his sleeve worn threadbare, it is tolerably safe to conclude that he has been hugging something more than a delusion.—Keokuk Gate City.

No boy of ordinary ability, who has to manipulate the buck saw and axe, and furnish the family with fire wood, will think of going to work before he has selected a convenient place where he can hide the knots that split hard.—Oswego Times.

"Yes, Robert," said Mrs. Yeast to her young hopeful, "indulging in forbidden fruit in our neighbor's orchard, especially while a policeman is in the vicinity, is often attended by very unpleasant results. You may feel a very severe attack of collierer."—Yonkers Statesman.

The engagement of Miss HELEN ASTOR, of New York, to Mr. J. COLEMAN DRAYTON is announced.

When DRAYTON Astor to be his,
Miss HELEN grew quite soppy,
And warmed J. COLEMAN so by "yes,"
He forthwith Astor Poppy.

—Lampton.

They have found a big lot of ancient Roman coins, gold and silver, near Zurich, and you bet when the ancient Roman hears of it, he will be dreadfully sorry that he didn't spend the money instead of hiding it. Nobody will ever find any coins we hide.—Hawkeye.

A man has just died in the Portsmouth, N. H., poor house, who was 118 years old, and who had been an inmate of the poor house for 76 years. Young men, if you want to live to a good old age, quit your carousing and go to the poor house. It beats a liver pad.—Peck's Milwaukee Sun.

"Well, my son," said a good-natured father to an eight-year old son, the other night, "What have you done to-day that may be set down as a good deed?" "Gave a poor boy five cents," replied the hopeful. "Ah, ah! that was a charity, and charity is always right. He was an orphan boy, was he?" "I didn't stop to ask," replied the boy. "I gave him the money for licking a boy who upset my dinner basket!"—Ex.

The average small boy's ambition is to be a trapper, or pirate, or song and dance man. "When I wath a little boy," lisped a very stupid society man to a young lady, "all my ideath of life were thentred on being a clown." "Well, there is at least one case of gratified ambition," was the sharp reply.—Meriden Recorder.

Three or four pretty good men, pastors of Massachusetts churches preferred, are wanted immediately to go down to the Grand River Divide and talk pleasantly to the Ute Indians about the pleasures of peace and the tranquil enjoyments of domestic life. Good salary and short hours. Hair restoratives for sale at this office in pints and quarts.—Burlington Hawkeye.

"What is nobler than a man wrestling, his bread from the stubborn soil by the sweat of his brow and the break of his back?" asks a philosopher. We don't recall anything nobler at this moment, but we know what is a blamed sight more popular—hiring some other fellow to do it, while you sit on the fence and superintend him.—Keokuk Gate City.

A "cap festival" is the latest social caper. Each lady makes two caps of paper cambric, one of which is sold for fifty cents, while the buyer seeks one to match it, and escorts the lady to supper. These "festivals" cap the climax in the way of offering a young lady an opportunity to "set her cap" for a man. The ingenuity of woman is past finding out.—Norristown Herald.

A fashion item says: "The drawers this year are made very short, and some have lace ruffles." Some fashion reporter has evidently been looking over our back fence at the clothes line. But they got awfully fooled. The shortness of those drawers was caused by the flannel shrinking and the lace ruffles the reporter noticed is where a calf chewed them when they were hanging out to dry last fall on Black Hawk Island, when a gun kicked us out of a boat. Some of these fashion reporter's think they are smart.—Peck's Sun.

An atom is indivisible and is a particle of matter; nothing is indivisible, therefore a particle of matter is nothing, and matter being composed of particles which are nothing is necessarily nothing, therefore the world and its people which are matter are nothing. Hence we are but creatures of imagination, which is a faculty of beings of nothing and consequently a creature of nonentity and—Professors HUXLEY and TYNDALL, will please take charge at this point and finish the train of thought.—Steubenville Herald.

Love and Poetry.

A practical man of business, with a poetic fancy and an eye to the main chance, thus opened up the tender subject of matrimony to the girl he had his eye on:

"Can my darling wash the dishes?
Can she scrub the kitchen floor?
Will she keep on mending stockings
When she hears the baby roar?
Does her nose detect bad butter,
With which the grocery stores abound?
Tell me, darling, are you careful
To keep tidy all around?"

And the equally practical maiden, in a straight-forward, mercantile manner, thus met him in his own vein:

"Can you black your boots, my darling?
Keep the sidewalk clear of snow?
Can you duly split the kindlings?
Will you to the market go?
Can your eye detect the shoddy
Of which tailors' shops are full?
Tell me, darling, is your ulster
Lined with cotton or with wool?"

Exchange.

THE HUM HUNT.

SIR L. TILLEY—How do you find business, Mr. MANUFACTURER?
MANUFACTURER—Splendid; making lots of money!
WORKINGMAN—Yes; out of me!

HANLAN AND HIS "GREAT BIG CALF."

O! wad some power the giffie gie us
To see ourselves as ithers see us!

J. BRUCE & CO.

HAVE THE POWER TO BESTOW THAT GIFT
AT
118 KING STREET WEST.
xii-22-1y.

TO PHONOGRAPHERS!

REVISED PRICE-LIST OF ISAAC PITMAN'S PUBLICATIONS.

Compend of Phonography	5 cts.
Exercises in Phonography	5
Grammologies and Contractions	10
Questions on Manual	15
Selections in Reporting Style	20
Teacher	20
Key to Teacher	20
Reader	20
Manual	50
Reporter	75
Reporting Exercises	40
Phrase Book	35
Railway Phrase Book	25
Covers for holding Note Book	20
The Reporter's Guide, by Thos. Allan Reid	60
Self-culture, corresponding style	75
The Book of Psalms, corresponding style	35
The Book of Psalms, cloth	75
Common Prayer morocco, with gilt edges	$2.80
The Other Life, cloth	50
New Testament, reporting style	$2.50
Phonographic Dictionary	1.50
Pilgrim's Progress, corresponding style	55
Pilgrim's Progress, cloth	90
Aesop's Fables, in Learner's Style	20
Ten Pounds and Other Tales, cor. style	20
That Which Money cannot Buy, etc. cor. style	20
Being and Seeming, My Donkey, A Parish Clerk's Tale, etc., cor. style	20
Character of Washington, Speech of George Canning at Plymouth, etc., with print & key, rep. style	20
Address of the Earl of Derby, on being installed Lord Rector of the University of Edinburgh, etc., rep. style	20

Sent post-paid to any address on receipt of price.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

Next Post Office, Toronto.

Important!

SERVANT—Massa GRIP, de Governor General am down stars, wants to see you on important affairs ob state.

MR. GRIP—Tell His Excellency to call some other time; I'm busy getting out my Almanac for 1880.

Acrostic.

TO A HUGE FRAUD.

Chilly and cold's the weather,
Oh gracious! it is freezing,
Unless one's lungs are leather
Rowing must be displeasing.
Toronto sports may weep, for
Now their chance is over
Ever to make a sweep, or Yankee stamps to go for.

The Dufferin has out-duffered
His former actions quite,
Edward again has suffered,

Done by the feather white.
Uncle SAM's disgusted,
FRENCHY has brought his saw back,
Frauds who can't be trusted,
Even on the Potomac,
Retire e'er they get "busted."

GRIP, here's our flip!—Exchange. Thank you brother, but we prefer Tom and Jerry

S. R. QUIGLEY,
ENGRAVER & JEWELLER,
MASONIC & SOCIETY REGALIA, EMBLEMS, &C.
7 1-2 ADELAIDE ST. EAST, TORONTO. xiii-4-1y

BALDNESS!

Neither gasoline, vasoline, carboline, or Allen's, Ayer's, or Hall's hair restorers have produced luxurious hair on bald heads. That great discovery is due to Mr. Wintercorbyn, 444 King-street, West, opposite Revere Block, as can be testified to by hundreds of living witnesses in this city and Province. He challenges all the so-called restorers to produce a like result.

Send for circulars.

xii-12-1y

WM. DINGMAN & CO.,

DEALERS IN ALL KINDS OF

SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.

STEAM ENGINES AND BOILERS

From a 3 Horse-power upwards.

Machinery Received on Consignment and no Charge For Storage.

42 FRONT ST. EAST & 33 WELLINGTON ST. EAST,
TORONTO.

Entrance on Front St.

"GRIP" Now in its seventh year and Thirteenth Volume, and more popular and influential than ever before.

$2 Per Annum, Free of Postage.

PRESS OPINIONS.

In your last you noticed that the Earl Dufferin ordered his name to be put on Grip's subscription list. Well may you say, score another for Grip. Grip is without a doubt the best expounder of Canadian social and political movements. He administers the lash to whoever deserves it in a ludicrous manner, yet in a manner very easily understood. Mr. Grip will no doubt find his way to the court of the Czar of Russia. Grips are peculiar to secret societies. Will this fact make Grip distasteful to the Czar? Will his imperial majesty order Grip to Siberia, or will he treat him as a bird of omen. Grip may now be considered a bird of passage—as he is on his way to St. Petersburg. Pleasant voyage to you, Mr. Grip, and may you be able to secure favor in the eyes of the Emperor of all the Russias.—"WANDERING WILLIE," in Chatham Tribune.

PUBLISHERS' NOTE.

Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.

Subscription price, $2 per annum, strictly in advance. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied. BENGOUGH BROS.

USE ONLY

ONTARIO

Baking Powder.

Ask your Grocer for it.

MANUFACTORY:

247 King Street West,
TORONTO.

xii-20-17

SAMPLE SHEETS

—OF—

New Year's Calling Cards,

Ready December 1st,

BENGOUGH BROS.

ZELL'S

POPULAR ENCYCLOPEDIA,
Complete in 2 Vols., bound in half calf, Morocco with marble edges, for only $30, cost $39.50.

Address,

X. Y. Z. GRIP Office.

SECOND-HAND JOB TYPE
FOR SALE.

SPLENDID VALUE.

and for Sample sheet.

BENGOUGH BROS.

CHEAP READING.

We will send to subscribers of "Grip" any of the following magazines and papers for one year at prices annexed.

Scribner, $4.50, Grip $2, both, $5.

St. Nicholas, $3, Grip, $2, both
$5.

Scientific American, $3.20, Grip,
both $4.75.

Detroit Free Press, $2, Grip, $2,
both, $3.25.

BENGOUGH BROS.

WANTED.—5 cents each will be paid for the following back numbers of
"Grip":

1. 2. Nos. 2, 16, 23.
2. " 7, 17, 20, 19, 24.
3. " 1, 2, 4, 5, 6, 7.
4. " 3, 7, 17, 19, 21, 26.
5. " 6, 7, 9, 13, 25.
6. " 4, 12, 20, 21.
7. " 1, 2, 7, 12, 5, 16.
8. " 15.

BENGOUGH BROS.,
TORONTO.

500 TO $6000 A YEAR, or $5 to $20 a day in your own locality. No risk.
Women do as well as men. Many make more than the highest stated above. No one can make money fast. Any one wants to make money. You can make $1.50 cts. to $2 an hour by devoting your evenings and spare time to business. It costs nothing to the business. Nothing like it money making ever offered before.

Business pleasant and strictly legal. Reader if you want to get all about the best paying business before the public, send us your name and we will send you full circulars and private terms free; circulars worth $5 also free; you can make up your mind for yourself
address GEORGE STINSON &
Portland, Maine. xiii-10-17

AL AND WOOD,
OF THE BEST QUALITY.

AND AT LOWEST PRICES,
—AT—

NAIRN'S.

Office, Next Post Office.

Docks, Foot of Church Street.

LOOK OUT FOR GRIP'S COMIC ALMANAC! FOR 1880.

(TRADE MARK REGISTERED)

TORONTO, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1879.

GRIP OFFICE,
IMPERIAL BUILDING.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

5 CTS. EACH.
$2 PER ANNUM.

LOOK OUT FOR GRIP'S
COMIC ALMANAC
FOR 1880.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach GRIP
office not later than Wednesday.—
Articles and Literary correspondence
must be addressed to the Editor,
Grip office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

S. GOULDEN,
JEWELLER.

4 King St. East, Diamond Mounter
&c. Every description of Jewellery made to order. Fine rings a specialty. Repairing, Gem setting &c.
xiv-3-17

$66 A WEEK in your own town, and no capital risked. You can give the business a trial without expense. The best opportunity ever offered for those willing to work. You should try nothing else until you see for yourself what you can do at the business we offer. No room to explain here.
You can devote all your time, or only your spare time to the business, and make great pay for every hour that you work. Women make as much as men. Send for special private terms and particulars. Which we will mail free. $5 Outfit free. Don't complain of hard times while you have such a chance. Address H. HALLET &
CO., Portland, Maine. xiii-10-17

BENGOUGH BROS.

Are prepared to execute orders for

ENGRAVING

in the highest style of the art.

Type Metal Plates

MADE FROM

Pen and Ink Sketches, Photographs, Lithographs, &c.,

More perfect, true and lasting than any wood engraving, and at a much lower cost. Call and see specimens
at

GRIP OFFICE,

Next door to Post Office, Toronto.

UNSOLICITED TES-

TIMONY. The tens of thousands who are making exclusive use of the COOK'S FRIEND Baking Powder, thereby render UNSOLICITED
TESTIMONY to its superiority.
Retailled everywhere. xii-12-14

CRUMPTON'S

Snowflake Rolls,
Family Bread,
Brown Bread,
Rye Bread,

Baked and delivered Daily.

CRUMPTON'S

Bread and Cake Bakery, 171 King Street East.

Readers of "GRIP"

Desiring anything in the Book or Music line, which they may not be able to procure at home, can have them forwarded, at once, if in the city, by addressing BENGOUGH BROS., next P.O., Toronto.

$300 A MONTH guaranteed.
$12 a day made at home by the industrious. Capital not required; we will start
you. Men, women, boys and girls make money faster at work for us than at anything else. The work is light and pleasant, and such as anyone can go right at. Those who are wise who see this notice will send us their addresses at once and see for themselves. Costly Outfit and terms free. Now is the time. Those already at work are laying up large sums of money. Address TRUE
& CO., Augusta, Maine. xiii-10-17

Literature and Art.

The closing of the National Gallery in London during October is considered by the Athenæum needless and vexatious.

The Belgian government has ordered a picture from CHAS. BAUGNIET for the Brussels museum of Modern Art, now building.

DEL SARTO's fresco of the Holy Family, known as the "Madonna del Sacco," in the Church of the Annunciation, at Florence, is being destroyed by leakage.

DR. PAUL RICHTER has been studying the MSS. of LEONARDO DA VINCI, in the Royal Library of Windsor, and will give some of the results of his work in the "Life of DA VINCI," soon to appear in the "Illustrated Biographies of the Great Artists."

Thanks to the success of the Franco-American Lottery, the whole of BARTHOLDI's colossal statue of Liberty will be completed in less than two years, and before its departure for its transatlantic destination will be put together temporarily for inspection by the Parisians.

A fine art gallery is to be opened in London, the character of which will be purely dramatic, and the object to bring together a variety of paintings illustrative of theatrical art, including portraits of deceased and living actors. The distinguishing feature of the collection will be that it will consist solely of contributions from actors and actresses of the British stage.

The model of the proposed bronze statue of WM. CULLEN BRYANT, to be erected in Central Park, has been finished by J. S. HARTLEY, the sculptor. The poet is represented as seated musing in the open air, in a rustic arm-chair. He leans his head on his right hand, while his left hand is on a sheet of paper lying on his right leg, showing that he is composing. On the sides of the pedestal are bas-reliefs from "Thanatopsis" and the "Flood of Years."

The deterioration of WILKIE's pictures has for some time past been deeply regretted by visitors to the National Gallery. "An Artist," writing to the Athenæum, suggests that, having the inevitable end in view, an end which the stopping of cracks and other reparations can hardly even delay, it would be desirable at once to have copies to be made from these and other pictures—copies of an extremely faithful character, and of a quality such as shall represent the peculiarities of the technique of WILKIE and other painters. This suggestion deserves the immediate attention of the authorities.

Considerably less than a century has elapsed since HORACE WALPOLE said that Sir JOSHUA REYNOLDS in his old age had become avaricious, because he asked 1,000 guineas for the picture of the three Ladies WALDGRAVE! Formerly his prices had been much lower—only 200 guineas for a whole length portrait, 100 for a half-length, and 70 for a "kit-cat." It is needless to say that no one would part with the portraits for such a figure now. In 1774 for instance, Lord CARYSFORT gave Sir JOSHUA 50 guineas for the Strawberry Girl, which Lord HERTFORD paid £2,205 for at SAMUEL ROGERS' sale in 1856. The great name of GAINSBOROUGH reminds us of a still more conspicuous instance of the same kind. The celebrated Duchess of Devonshire was bought by WYNN ELLIS for £65, and was re-sold, as everyone knows, to Messrs. AGNEW for 10,000 guineas.

SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY.

So great has been the demand for recent numbers of this magazine that the monthly circulation has increased more than 20,000 copies within the year, and the edition for November, 100,000, was exhausted two weeks after issue. The English edition has recently doubled, and the magazine has everywhere taken its place as the most handsomely illustrated popular periodical published in the English language. Every number contains 160 pages of contributions from the best American authors, and from 50 to 100 wood engravings. The publishers call attention to the following

Announcements for 1880.

The Reign of Peter the Great, by Eugene Schuyler, will begin in an early number, and continue through two years. It will be a work of great historical significance and of rare graphic and dramatic interest. Bureaus of illustration have been established in Paris and St. Petersburg, specially for the execution of the pictorial part of the enterprise—an enterprise involving a greater outlay than any previously undertaken by a popular magazine.

Three Serials in Scribner's Monthly by American Writers.—The Grandissimes, a story of New Orleans Creole life, by George W. Cable, author of "Old Creole Days." Louisa, a novellette of American life, by Frances H. Burnett, author of "That Lass o' Lowrie's." Confidence, by Henry James, Jr., begun in the Midsummer Holiday (August) number.

Canada Picturesque.—A number of papers by Principal Grant, of Queen's College, Kingston, and W. G. Beers and Chas. Farham, are in the press in preparation for SCRIBNER'S, which will give thorough accounts of the historical, political, picturesque, and other phases of the country.

Papers on Art.—The growth of art has made it necessary for the modern magazine to devote considerable attention to this subject, and in this respect SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY will continue to occupy the leading place, both in the judicious selection and in the artistic execution of the subjects chosen.

Poets and Poetry.—Edmund Clarence Stedman will contribute to SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY during the coming year critical essays on this subject, including the beginnings of the poetic art in this country, and its subsequent history. Richard Henry Stoddard will furnish studies of subjects connected with English poetry, the first paper being on "The English Sonnet."

Saunterings with Dickens.—A number of unique papers to be contributed to SCRIBNER by Alfred Rimmer, Esq., of Chester, in England. For the illustration of these Mr. Charles A. Vanderhoof has been sent on a special trip to England.

Practical Papers on Home Subjects.—This class will include a number of finely illustrated papers on "Small Fruits and their Culture," by Rev. E. P. Roe, of Cornwall, N. Y., one of the most successful of horticulturists. Papers on Church and home Architecture will be contributed by Russell Sturgis, Esq.

Sports and Recreations.—In addition to an illustrated account of the recent excursion of the Yale Club in a Canal-boat, there will be a number of special papers during the year upon outdoor recreations, such as Fox-hunting, Shooting, Walrus Hunting, Lobster Fishing, Canoeing in the Rapids of the Hudson, and several papers of a novel character.

Other Features of Scribner.—"Extracts from the Journals of Henry J. Raymond," edited by his son H. W. Raymond; Accounts of the South Pass Jetties, American Arms and Ammunition in Europe. The U. S. Coast Life-Saving Service, The New Albany Capital, Child-Saving Work, etc., etc. Sketches of Louisiana Life and Scenery, New-York City and Vicinity, American Life in Florence, Kansas Farming, California Mountain Sheep and Forests (by John Muir), House-hunting in Paris, Sheep Ranching in the West, and many other interesting subjects. And there will be the usual variety of essays, poems, and short stories.

Price, 35 cents a number, $4.00 a year. For sale and subscriptions received by all Booksellers, Newsdealers, and Postmasters, or sent post-paid by the publishers on receipt of price.

SCRIBNER & CO., 743 B'dway, N. Y.

Bengough Bros., will receive subscriptions for St. Nicholas $3, or will send Grip and St. Nicholas to one address for $4.50, or Scribner's Monthly and Grip $5.50 or St. Nicholas the Monthly and Grip $8.

BALDNESS!

Neither gasoline, vasoline, carboline, or Allen's, Ayer's or Hall's hair restorers have produced luxuriant hair on bald heads. That great discovery is due to Mr. Winter, corbyn, 144 King-street, West, opposite Revere Block, and can be testified to by hundreds of living witnesses in this city and Province. He challenges all the so-called restorers to produce a like result.

Send for circulars.

xil-12-13

Stage Whispers.

Our readers will all have heard with feelings of pain, of the burning of the Grand Opera House of this city on Saturday morning. The loss of three human lives lends a deeply mournful aspect to the disaster. It is understood that Mr. MANNING, the proprietor, will proceed immediately to rebuild, and the new house is promised in time for Miss NEILSON's engagement in February.

At the Royal on Monday and Tuesday, Mr. BANDMANN received benefits, which were well patronized. Much sympathy is felt for this distinguished performer, who lost his splendid SHAKESPEREAN wardrobe, comprising costumes donned in former days by MACREADY and other eminent tragedians and valued at the handsome sum of $20,000, by the Grand Opera House fire. The "Queen's Evidence Combination," with Mr. GEO. C. BONIFACE as leading attraction occupy the boards here this week, and after them comes the favourite HAVERLY with his mastodon Minstrels. Mr. CONNOR for the time being has the whole dramatic field to himself, and will doubtless endeavor to bring on the very best talent procurable.

The quality of the German stage in New York is much better than is supposed generally, and its merits are appreciated by few of the large number of people that supports the theatres. Aside from the drag upon its success, found in its presentation in German, we still would be inclined to think that its uniform excellence would attract more who are not thoroughly conversant with the language. To students of German it is invaluable, and it attracts lovers of legitimate drama, for the plays, always of the higher class, follow one another rapidly, and are acted as well, or better than any in the city.

The Court Theatre in applying to the ever-ready and ubiquitous Mr. BYRON, the management has done well, and "Courtship" bids fair to prove as great a success as any of its predecessors. The plot is very slight. Miss Millicent Trevelyan, a rich young heiress, living in a somewhat curiously isolated position, is sought in marriage by two lovers. One of them cares only for her money, the other, "self-made man," is anxious to improve his social position, and fancies that his best chance in doing so lies in a marriage with a lady of rank. There is also a third lover, a country squire of moderate fortune, but he does not declare himself, and can only be considered a pretendant by implication. After a bespeak at a local theatre, Miss Trevelyan decides to try her suitors in the style adopted by Portia in "The Merchant of Venice," which she has just witnessed. Two acts are occupied in the test. In one the young lady represents herself as almost portionless, to the second as of low birth, to the third as both. The Squire, Trentham, who has hung back through fear of seeming a fortune-hunter, avows his love and is accepted. And with the close of the second act the play appears to end. Not at all. In the third and last act, which is by far the most dramatic piece of work that Mr. BYRON has given us, Millicent avows the deception that she has practised, and estranges her honest lover Trentham. A surprise to the audience and actors reveals the fact that Millicent's uncle, whose legatee she has been, is not really dead, but has been striving all the while to save her complete happiness. And on her union with Trentham the curtain falls upon a triumphant success.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

By BENGOUGH BROS., Proprietors. Office:—Imperial Buildings, next to the Post Office, Adelaide Street, Toronto. GEO. BENGOUGH, Business Manager.

SUBSCRIPTION TERMS.—Two dollars per year, payable in advance. Subscriptions and advertisements are received at the office, or by WM. R. BURRAGE, General Subscription and Advertising Agent, 26 Adelaide Street East, Toronto.

Original contributions paid for. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned. Literary and Business communications to be addressed to BENGOUGH BROS.

NOTICE TO ARTISTS.

The publishers of GRIP will be pleased to receive from amateurs and others, sketches of a humorous character on either political or social subjects. Such as are accepted will be published with the artist's name attached. Rejected sketches will be returned, if the requisite postage is enclosed.

EDITED AND ILLUSTRATED BY J. W. BENGOUGH.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

The Editor of GRIP's forthcoming Almanac desires to thankfully acknowledge contributions for its pages from Mr. JAS. FOSTER COATES, N. Y. Express and Mr. ED. L. ADAMS, Marathon Independent, and E. D. DEEMING, Gowanda Enterprise. They are spicy, too. He has still a warm spot for the other funny fellows.

Amen.

ADMIRAL AMEN is getting up a Franco-American Company to construct the long looked for Nicaraguan Canal, and it is rumoured that Gen. GRANT, (U.S.) is to be the President. No "Britishers" are allowed to hold any stock in the Company. This is quite a new departure, British gold generally being quite acceptable to most people. However, the bloated Briton may console himself with the thought that he has sunk enough money already in the Egyptian, Turkish and other bonds, and no doubt, too, he will be glad to respond to the Company's decision with a hearty Amen.

Dyspeptic Papers.

No. 2.—HAGGIS AND NATIONAL SOCIETIES.

The immortal haggis testifies more than all their victories to the courage of the Scottish people. TOM BROWN, sitting cold and wet on the top of a mail coach, felt a surly pleasure in the endurance so dear to the heart of every Englishman. It must be some such feeling which causes Scotchmen in all lands to gather round the haggis on St. Andrew's night, and prove their bravery by assaulting their hereditary enemy, and their more than stoicism by looking cheerful as they devour him.

They get together to show one another that the awful thing has no terrors for them under the changed circumstances of life in a new country. For three hundred and sixty-four days in the year they live on Christian viands, abandoning their hereditary "spune meat" for substantial food, and eating real puddings after tangible dinners. But they have a secret fear all the time that they are becoming effeminate, even as the Scotch hunter did as he kicked away the lump of snow from under his son's head, with the observation that he would permit of no luxurious habits in his family.

Your true Scot feels that there is something incongruous—even wicked—in being habitually well fed. Reflective by habit, he muses on the vicissitudes of humanity, and never loses sight of the possibility that even individuals of his race may revert to the primitive condition of their ancestors, to whom plenty of "parritch" was the summum bonum, and an occasional haggis necessary to make them content with their ordinary fare. Wishing to prove themselves equal to any fate, Scotchmen abroad cling to the annual haggis as a touch-stone of their capacity to meet ill-fortune.

It is not inconceivable that in old days gaunt Scots may have required no unusual fortitude to devour the fearful composition of sheep's stomach and nasty sweet things. It may have seemed no worse to them than treacle-and-sulphur to the lank youths at Dotheboy Hall. They proved their endurance by merely existing, being even mighty men of valor on the thinnest sustenance. But now that they have wherewith to line their stomachs every day, it is indeed an evidence of sublime courage that the haggis is annually cooked and cheerfully eaten. Such, at least, is the belief which prevails with the dyspeptic.

An occasional objection is made by native Canadians to the yearly Scottish glorification. But it is hard to understand why anyone should find fault with their St. Andrew's assemblage. Could it even have been thought strange that the children of Israel should have rejoiced periodically in companies at their escape from the land of Egypt, and out of the house of bondage? Have not Scotchmen in Canada every reason to exult exceedingly that they are not in Scotland, a country where banks fail and directors are wicked? It is indeed strange that they should enjoy one another's company, but perhaps their apparent merriment when met together is due to the knowledge that they are not compelled to meet so many Scotchmen every day, nor to confront the terrible haggis more than once a year. It is reported that a great deal of toddy is necessary to make them wait contented for the better associations of the St. Andrew's morrow.

Englishmen and Irishmen in foreign lands are like Scotchmen in this habit of assembling together once a year. A common thankfulness at the change of habitat is really at the root of these national demonstrations. It is possible that Canadians might have national societies in Paradise, any other change of residence after the introduction of the N. P. would be so much for the worse that each man would bemoan his sad fate in solitude.

A Little Mixed.

Dramatis Personæ:

HON. ALEX. MACKENZIE,
HON. EDWARD BLAKE,
HON. GEO. BROWN.

The scene is laid in BLAKE's office, Toronto.
Time—The day following the recent banquet at Ottawa. Hon. EDWARD and Hon. ALEX. discovered conversing familiarly.

HON. ALEX.—Weel, ma gude freen', what think ye o' this banquetting beensness? Sic a daff-like set, to be banquetting an awfu' scoundrel lek yon mon. Dinna ye ken however, it has a mighty effect upon the country. The people are sic awfu' fules, they really think JONE A has benefitted the country. (Aside—Alas! that they should be so near right). Would na it be a grand idea, to have the great Reform Pairty tender their leader a banquet?

HON. EDWARD—Your ability, my esteemed friend, as a philosopher and manipulator of men, has never been denied; and this excellent idea you have promulgated, gives but another proof of your sagacity in dealing with mankind. And I am sure you will not accuse me of egotism, when I say I shall receive with pride and satisfaction any honor the great Reform Party may confer on me.

HON. ALEX.—Aye, mon, but it should be the leader, the chieftian, ye ken, that should be banquetted.

HON. EDWARD—I quite coincide with you, my dear sir, and as leader, I may—

HON. ALEX.—Leader!! Are ye daft a' thegither, mon? Who made ye leader?—I—

(Enter GEO. BROWN.)

GEO.—Hail brithers in a mighty cause! What's a' the contravarsy?

ALEX.—(Excited)—Yon mon, BLAKE, dares to say he's leader o' the Pairty—

HON. EDWARD.—(Sneeringly)—That MACKENZIE fellow, fails to perceive his "usefulness is gone"—

GEO.—Aye, aye; but dinna squabble, bairns. I ken yer baith wrang. I—I—I, (very impressively and planting his left half-acre very fiercely on the floor), AM THE "PAIRTY" AND THE "PAIRTY'S" LEADER!!

(Tableau).

The Hunting of the "Hum."

There was an F. M. who said "Come,
I'm determined to capture this "hum,"

'Twill be easily found,
And if not, I'll be bound
I'll indulge in a jolly good "bum."

His face that at first was all glee,
Soon lengthened—the shape of a V—
As he'd peer through the gloom,

To discover the "boom,"
The Grits would all chuckle—"hee, hee!"
What'd've seen?"

No music enlivened his way,
No mirth—tho' at one place, they say,
Some indigent Tories
Climbed up on a door as

He passed, and said, feebly, "Hoo—ray!"
That's their way.

He talked to the people of hope,
And gave himself plenty of rope,
But the people thought half he Related was "taffy,"

The other half chiefly "soft soap,"
Merely "trope."

Said he, "It becomes very clear
To some other point I must steer.
What the deuce has become
Of the "boom" and the "hum,"
I can't tell, but, for sure, they ain't here,
'Twould appear."

When home he returned to his folk,
They asked him, by way of a joke,
If he'd "captured the hum,"
And he merely looked glum,
Put his hands in his pockets and spoke—
With a (h'm h'm) choke.

"I found it a terrible tug
To make things in Ontario snug,
This blessed N. P.
Is too many for me," * * *
And the people called him—a hum-bug.

Tough Mutton.

Last week the Mail gave in its telegraphic brevities the following extraordinary story:—

"Fourteen fat sheep belonging to Mr. THOMAS JOHNSTON, were left last night in BULLOCK's butcher yard, London East. This morning ten of them were found dead and greatly mangled, but still alive. They were attacked by dogs, and being confined in a small space were easy victims.

Considering that ten of them although found dead and greatly mangled, were "still alive" we can hardly see the propriety of calling them "easy victims."

Is this what is Meant?

The Globe of Wednesday stated that it had reason to believe that "the regulations for grinding in bond are being systematically evaded." We should think it had "reason to believe" so! Why, didn't the Hon. SAMSON BLAKE publicly cast off the bonds at Bowmanville and make a deliberate declaration to the effect that he wasn't going to grind any more for any man?

Our theatrical critic says, "The great interest in Pinafore is Dead-eye think."

When a paragrapher is corned, he often criss another's jokes.

MESSRS. GILBERT and SULLIVAN should get their lives insured; Pinafore is being murdered throughout the country, and the blood-thirsty performers may take a fancy to the authors next.

Evening Terrible Editorials.

SIR JOHN stands pre-eminent as the one statesman of Canada, because he succeeds in obtaining credit in some quarters for all the progressive legislation of the past forty years. It was no blame to him that he of old took an attitude of opposition against the unscrupulous agitators whose success caused him wisely to seize the last moment for giving the people many reforms.

Nothing can be more disgraceful to a politician than to lose office as the consequence of maintaining doctrines which circumstances render no longer expedient. At the same time a strict adherence to principle is the one thing to be demanded of those who are placed in responsible public positions. Mr. MACKENZIE showed his utter incapacity as a leader of men in not seizing the opportune moment to follow where the protectionist wing of his party pointed the way. It is because Mr. BLAKE may be depended on to refrain from forcing his opinion on a reluctant Liberal party that he is the hope of all those who take wide views of the exigencies of the situation. The inscrutable silence of Mr. BROWN on the agitation of compulsory minorities will never have the effect of causing the foremost of the younger Reformers to conceal his intention of making changes sometime or other. This quality of intention to do at the right time what may happen to be popular is what makes Mr. BLAKE so formidable an opponent. It is a pity that Sir JOHN and Mr. BLAKE could not join together and affect the precisely opposite reforms which we see so plainly are absolutely necessary.

Affectionate.

Hon. J. H. POPE is Minister of Agriculture. He loves the honey-handed son of toil, as a dear, though humble brother, but it is the noble yeoman who has the strongest hold on his affections. At the "working-man's" reunion on Tuesday evening, he said that he envied the working-man, who, after taking off his "leather apron" in the evening, retires to his cheerful cottage and the bosom of his family. But the farmer! why, he would like to hug the matron (the farmer's wife), and, as for the farmer's daughters, he sees nothing objectionable in actually kissing them. Here is a sensible Minister. GRIP quite agrees with him. What could be nicer than kissing a farmer's daughter at the conclusion of her song of "Silver Threads," or "Starry Waves," while she has been taking, in the language of our statesman, "a turn at the piano?"

The Banquet Jokes.

SIR JOHN's jokes, at which the Ottawa banqueters laughed "fit to kill," have almost drawn tears of pain from the eyes of the Globe magnate. This is, to say the least, a striking phenomenon. It by no means explains it to say, flippantly, O, well, the Globe man is a Scotchman, and a Scotchman can't see a joke, for it so happens that there were several Scotchmen at the banquet who could discover and laugh at the jokes almost before they were uttered by the speaker—though it is possible their wits were somewhat sharpened by a lively sense of favors past or future. The Globe's own explanation of the matter is that there was nothing worth laughing at in the speech—except the portions uttered in downright seriousness by the Premier. This cannot be true, for surely the Mail would not pronounce it a masterpiece of wit if there were no jokes in it. Mr. GRIP is inclined to think the defect is in the Globe man's vision, and so he has generously come forward, and supplied him with a few "helps to read"—by means of which it is hoped he may be able to spy out the hidden humorisms.

Something for the "Boy."

JACK.—Watsy'r hurry JIM,—where y'r goin'?

JIM.—Down to see if I can't git that situation in the Custom House. I heard the Boy wot was there got bounced out. It's a boss sit, too! Big wages, and nothin to do but behave yerself!

The Local Shop.

OLIVER MOWAT & Co. beg to announce that, having secured a new lease of the above premises, they will re-open the same for the transaction of business on the 7th of January next, when they will have the pleasure of displaying a fine new stock of bills, acts and measures, embracing everything likely to be called for by the public. That department of the premises known as Mr. MOWAT's "Consideration," is now chock full of goods, some of which may possibly be placed before customers this season. Amongst the articles there is a Bill abolishing Tax Exemptions, which may or may not be brought out, as circumstances direct. The public are cordially invited to call for anything they don't see. By adhering to his past practice of square dealing, and by strict attention to business, Mr. MOWAT hopes to retain the large patronage with which the people of Ontario have favoured him in by-gone years.

The Hum.

SIR TILLEY.

All our factories are running,
Busy hands at forge and loom,
Business is getting stunning,
Hi, Ho, Hi Ho, Hum!

Brighter days for shopmen looming,
The N. P. begins to bloom,
Brighter days apace are coming,
Hi, Ho, Hi Ho, Hum!

How the Grits do daily cackle,—
At their bosh I crack my thumb,
The N. P. they cannot shackle,
Hi, Ho, Hi Ho, Hum!

G. BROWN.
Vast monopolies are springing
Up and down the land of gloom,
The N. P. is ruin bringing,
Hi, Ho, Hi Ho, Hum!

See our people starving, dying,
Each to fill a pauper's tomb,
Yet the Tories go on lying,
Hi, Ho, Hi Ho, Hum!

Hear them talk how very silly,
When so many lack a crumb,
Cease your blowing, Master TILLEY,
Hi, Ho, Hi Ho, Hum!

Tips and Wings

Are very fashionable for ladies bonnets this season. Mr. GRIP don't mind giving any lady a tip, but cannot promise a wing.

SIR SAMUEL'S HUM IN GUELPH.
A TUNE CERTAIN PARTIES DON'T LIKE.

"The Pen is mightier than the Sword."

A gem that every woman possesses—Strategem.—McGregor News.

The running race that benefits the world is the mill race.—Adams.

Don't let your angry passions become yeasty.—Yonkers Gazette.

Farmers, look to your interest—particularly if it is overdue.—W. S. Way.

A suitable texture for a baldheaded person would be mo'hair.—Marathon Independent.

Nausea seldom affects an acrobat. He is used to having his stomach turned.—N. Y. News.

A man never knows how many friends he has until he goes into office, or how few until he goes out.—Balt. Every Saturday.

The secret of many a man's unbounded success is that he always kept himself and his ventures within bounds.—N. Y. News.

Should the people of Leadville ever run short of bullet material, they might start a crematory and sift the ashes.—Rock. Express.

A cotemporary speaks of its "corps" of contributors. The intelligent compositor should be added to them.—Norristown Herald.

The individual who wrote "O, Solitude, where are thy charms," was a business man who didn't advertise.—Cincinnati Saturday Night.

"Dare to do write," would be an excellent motto for editors who never have anything original in their papers.—Gowanda Enterprise.

A young lady attending balls and parties should have a female chaperone until she is able to call some other chap her own.—N. O. Picayune.

The Ute Indians are a mean treacherous lot, but none of them wear their watch chains from the top outside pockets of their coats.—Wheeling Leader.

If a hunter will only hunt long enough he will be sure to pull his gun over the fence by the muzzle, and the day he does that he quits hunting.—Detroit Free Press.

The saddest hour of a young bride's life is when she discovers that she hasn't got a mother to get up of a cold morning and start the kitchen fire for her.—Way.

"Chicago has chic," says the Cincinnati Commercial, in a complimentary mood. Very true; but the English way of spelling that sort of chic is cheek.—Balt. Gazette.

"Revolutionists," said DUMAS, "are a good deal like the street-sprinklers—they can make it muddy in sunshine, but they can't make sunshine when it is muddy.

It is not strange that writers sometimes get puzzled in their choice between "that," "which" and "who." Relatives are always more or less troublesome.—Boston Transcript.

Some unscrupulous paragon has been listening to what young ladies on the street were talking about. But all that the abandoned wretch could make out was, "A—nd he said."—Ex.

You nail a political lie by hammering it down with a bigger lie.—Modern Argo.

Every lady who goes to the theater has a perfect right to wear a high hat. The people behind her should have secured the seat in front. If they did not she is not to blame.—Detroit Free Press.

The boy looked on the burning deck,
His parent tossed in the fire;
And fervently wished to wring the neck
Of that sanctimonious sire.
—Oswego Record.

A Chicago belle, while traveling through Rhode Island, put her ear out of the window to hear the distant roar of the ocean; all the fowls in the State went to roost and the cows turned homeward.—St. Louis Spirit.

The New York Star relates that a Boston woman cut her dress from a pattern in a magazine dated 1873, before she discovered that it wasn't 1879, and it took two doctors to tide her over that long, lonely night.

Although fraud may be written on the face of the insurance companies, and though corruption may be their head-light, we cannot but feel kindly toward them when we reach out after a blotting pad.—Fulton Times

JONAS SAUNDERS, of Indiana, tied a cow's legs to keep her from kicking over the milk pail, and when she tried to kick she fell over on him and broke his back. There is such a thing as being too smart.—Detroit Free Press.

A drink-as-you-please society has been organized in New York City. In other cities that we know of, whole blocks of citizens have long belonged to such an organization, by a mutual though unexpressed understanding.—Chicago Journal.

It used to be a common thing at a social gathering, for one man to get another's hat, but now things have changed, and if you succeed in getting away without wearing off some woman's hat, you are a lucky chap.—Quincy Modern Argo.

The weird glory of Halloween fell upon Danbury, Friday night. Sentimental young ladies looked timidly into the future for the coming husband, while the coming husband was around heaving cabbages against people's doors.—Danbury News.

One of the most pleasing illustrations of cheek is when a man writes a letter to a newspaper, of no earthly interest to anybody but himself, and not only demands its publication, but that five or ten copies be sent him. They are always sent.—Boston Herald.

Mother—"His name is GEORGE SMITH."

Father—"You mistake; it is JACOB."

Son and Heir—"M! 'tain't either; it's JOHN."

Mother—"So it is! I knew it was something that began with G." (Applause.)—Ex.

The subject for conversation at an evening entertainment was the intelligence of animals, particularly dogs. Says SMITH, "There are dogs that have more sense than their masters." "Just so," responds young FITZ-NOODLE, "I've got that kind of a dog myself."—Ex.

We were thinking last night, as we ran through the elections returns, that it was singular that young men should persist in kissing their own girls at parties when they might just as well improve the opportunity and do a little general and promiscuous kissing. From our own limited understanding of the subject we should say this would be all clear gain, as they can kiss their own girls any time.—Bridgeport Standard.

As the evenings begin to spin out, the young people begin to have sociables. A sociable is a place where you go and watch your hands and feel rigid till ten o'clock, when you refresh on all kinds of cake and coffee, and then go home to have the night mare.—Marathon Independent.

When an Ohio bank president will pay $4,000 for a "gold brick," worth about a dollar and a half, can a newspaper man be blamed for buying a horse whose teeth have been filed down?—Detroit F. P. We should say certainly not, when it is remembered a newspaper most always prefers a complete file.—Richmond Baton.

As Thanksgiving day comes next week we trust we shall be very thankful, and while newspaper men are reveling in the luxuries of "roast goose stuffed with sage and inyans," let us remember the thousands of poor readers who are unable to pay their subscriptions, and pity them.—Toronto Graphic.

"Those suspenders, madam, are long enough for the shortest boy or short enough for the longest man; they will just fit your fine looking youngster." "Perhaps so; but I don't want to see buttons on his boot-legs; I want them to hold his pants on. Them suspenders is long enough for the Colossus of Rhodes." "Just so, madam; I sold old Colossus a pair out of the same box yesterday."—N. Y. Telegram.

The other day there died a performing bear, the property of a brewer. The owner was so overcome with grief that he got drunk and went stumbling about, weeping sometimes over the body of the dead bear and at others over a barrel of beer. When rebuked for his folly, he replied that it was all the same thing, for whether he cried over the bear harrel or bear, he was certainly weeping "over the bier of his own bruin."—Unknown Exchange.

A piece of poetry written some years ago contains the line, "hear the muffled tramp of years come stealing up the slope of Time." This is all right and probably suited the age in which it was written, but now-a-days it would be more appropriate to say: "I hear the ragged tramp of 27 years come shuffling up the garden walk, and I'll fly and lock the door before he steals the overcoats in the hall." Time works wondrous changes, and poetry must be made to fit the age in which we live.—Rome Sentinel.

A young farmer in the country wants us to give him some hints on fall plowing. All right, we will do it. In the first place, select your fall. Don't pick out a fall that is excessively cold nor yet too warm. And while a very dry fall doesn't plow easy, neither would we recommend one that was wet to an extreme. About a medium fall, we should say, if we were going to plow it ourself. Having settled on a fall that suits you, take a plow and plow it. Don't be afraid to ask questions at any time. It is for the purpose of answering them that we are here.—Cin. Sat. Night.

"I know I'm losing ground, sir," tearfully murmured the pale-faced freshman, "but it is not my fault, sir. If I were to study on Sunday, as the others do, I could keep up with my class, sir—indeed I could; but I promised my mother never, never to work on the Sabbath, and I can't, ne-ne-ver," and as his emotions overpowered him he pulled out his kerchief with such vigor that he brought out with it a small flask, three faro chips, and a euchre deck, and somehow or other the professor took no more stock in that freshman's eloquence than if he had been a graven image.—Phila. Telegraph.

Pyctures of Societie.

BY ASPER.

No. 2.—YE OLD POLYTYCIAN.

Ye old polytycian is a great character. He is a man who hath, during his lifetime, seen many and bitter struggles, and not uncommonly knows more about what measures are ye best adapted to serve ye publick than any statesman, however famous, of either ye Tory or ye Whig party. He doth pass his time when election times are not at hand in catching his friends and acquaintances by ye button-hole at ye street corners, and in ye clubs, and expounding to them ye true and correct principles of polytycal economy and other puzzling questions of ye state. Nor doth he let them go easily, but if they do, to ever so small an extent, endeavour to break away from him, he doth all ye more din into their ears ye same refrain again and yet again.

If he be of ye Whig persuasion he doth in ye roundest terms abuse ye Tories and their leaders. If of ye Tory party, he doth, on ye contrary, find no measure of good whatever in ye opposite side, but doth denounce all them that hold views contrariwise to his as knaves, or fools, or both. Nor doth he always give a full meed of praise even unto his own leaders, but oftentimes saith, that in ye distribution of offices they do shew neither discernment nor judgment. He doth accuse them of passing by ye just claims of those who have stood by their party in ye brunt of ye fight, and of putting into comfortable positions young upstarts, who have done their cause more harm than good. He doth generally conclude his dissertation by a prediction that if this course is pursued much further, it will ruin ye party, and alienate from it men of good principles and correct views.

But when ye time comes in which ye voters do exercise their franchise, then, indeed, is he in ye height of glory. No longer doth he abuse his leaders, but is always ready to defend their actions of however destructive a character. He doth take his place at ye committees, of which he is oftentimes made ye Chairman, and doth shew to ye uninitiated and inexperienced how profound is his knowledge of all things and persons.

If any person doth express a doubt as to how such an one may vote, he doth sapiently, and with a wise look upon his venerable countenance, exhort them "to leave him to me, and I will see to him." He doth thus in many cases deter ye eager from canvassing ye voters, and doth persuade them to leave it to him, in which event ye most probable result is, that ye voter will vote for ye party contrary to what was expected of him.

As ye election contest approacheth its consummation, oftentimes this old fox will enquire as to where ye money will come from, and when told that there is no money, will declare that ye elections are not what they used to be in ye good old times; and in many instances he will then retire to his home disgusted and disheartened, and will take no more interest in ye elections. The reason of this is hard to discern, although some evil disposed scandal-mongers do darkly hint that these old persons do come out of elections in which there is plenty of money with their pockets more replete with wealth than when they went into them. This, however, may be slander, and ye writer doth not vouch for ye-truth thereof.

When ye votes are polled, again doth ye old polytycian come forth in glory (that is, provided that his side are victors in ye strife) and doth shout himself hoarse in loud sounding praises of his candidate. But if ye

FARM FOR SALE,
Or Exchange for City Property.

That valuable farm, containing 30 acres and being the N.W. ¼ of Lot 3, Con. 2, of the Township of Reach, County of Ontario. There is an orchard of 60 fruit trees of choice varieties, a frame house, and a barn with stone foundation and underground stables. The soil is a rich clay loam.

GEO. BENGOUGH,
Drawer 2673, Toronto.

Second-Hand Machinery.WANTED.

Shingle Machine. Double Edger. Band Saw. Wood Turning Lathe—large. Shaping Machine. Jig Saw. Lawn Mower. Yacht Engine—8 x 10, and Screw 38 in. diameter. Cylinder Press—Double Royal. Machine Lathe 14 ft. bed, 22 in. swing. Hand Biscuit Machine. Give description and number of knives.

FOR SALE.

3 h.p. Engine with 4 h.p. Boiler. 6 h.p. Engine with 7 h.p. Boiler. 36 h.p. Engine with 40 h.p. Boiler. 68 h.p. Engine with 2 Boilers 48 inch shell 22 feet long 16 in. flues. 1 Boiler 44 inch shell 21 feet long 14 inch flues. 1 (Stearns) Circular Saw Mill. 1 (Stearns) Log Turner. 1 (Stearns) Double Edger. 1 Stock Gate with Crank Shaft, Crank, Pulleys and Press Rollers. 1 Slabbing Gate with chain feed. 1 Counter Shaft 164 inch Circular Saw. 148 inch Circular Saw. A lot of drums and pulleys suitable for a mill. 1 No. 1 Gordon Press (new). 1 Water Motor, good as new. Power Mortising Machine, Wooden Frame. We are agents for

Reid's Patent Seamless Water Trap,

The best, because the strongest Trap in the Market. We invite the inspection of Plumbers and Architects.

WM. DINGMAN & Co.,
55 FRONT STREET EAST.

Machinery taken on consignment and no charge for storage. We guarantee every Machine leaving our establishment in good working order.

Financial.

$10 to $1000 Invested in Wall St. Stocks makes fortunes every month
Book sent free explaining everything.
Address BAXTER & CO., Bankers, 7 Wall St., N. Y.
xiii-22-1y

A GOOD PLAN. Combining and operating many orders in one vast sum has every advantage of capital, with skillful management. Large profits divided pro rata on investments of $25 to $10,000. Circular, with full explanations how all can succeed in stock dealings, mailed free.
LAURENCE & CO., 55 Exchange Place, New York.
xiii-22-13t

N. P. Jokes.

(The following are patented. Any person publishing them, will suffer the full rigor of the law.)

The Quebec Government's motto—No tri-FLYNN!

That the N. P. will LEONARD (lean'ard) on the poor man, can now be authoratively denied.

The Globe man evidently intends to hammer away at the N. P., TILLEY either busts it, or vice versa.

"Can TUPPER Canada be relieved for a short time, from building railroads for the whole of the Dominion?" is now a pressing question.

Quite likely a number of those who are quoting With approval E. BLAKE on compulsory voting, Should the boon be bestowed they so ardently long for, Would turn round on the system they go in so strong for, "Down with tyrannous laws! British freedom forever!" What, vote on compulsion? No never, sir, never.

The most profane nobleman in Europe—the DUKE OF MECKLENBURG Schoerin, other party do gain ye day, he doth remain at home, and doth declare to all comers that he did always foretell defeat, and doth say that ye new and young blood do not perceive how to properly manage affairs of such moment and importance, and that if ye election had been organized and conducted as he desired, ye result would have been widely different.

And afterwards he doth repair to ye winning candidate, and doth boldly proffer his request, and being refused, doth betake himself of ye nearest hostelry, and therein doth, in a cup of sack, drown all his cares and sorrows.

A Catechism on Natural Selection and the Survival of the Fittest.

BY ZEDEKIAH TIMBERTOP.

Q.—What do you understand by the term "Natural Selection?"

A.—The term "Natural Selection" may be defined to mean, that phase of mind by which a person, or persons, naturally choose that which they like best.

Q.—What do you understand by the term "Survival of the Fittest?"

A.—This may be explained as just the opposite of the old saw "The weakest goes to the wall."

Q.—Can you give an instance of "Natural Selection?"

A.—Yes, the result of the last General Election, when the people naturally selected those who promised to do the most for them.

Q.—What is the end scientists hope will be reached by this theory?

A.—A gradual approachment of the various races existing on the earth's surface to perfection.

Q.—Can you give any instances either in the case of races or individuals in whom some result of this theory is apparent?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Name them?

A.—Well, there is "Canada's Greatest," the "Globe Magnate," the Canadian people, and the average Canadian Politician.

Q.—As to "Canada's Greatest?"

A.—Well, nothing is more clearly shown than "Natural Selection" in his case in the occupation (politics) he chose for himself, for the way in which he hoodwinks men, and twists them round his finger, shows that nature intended him for nothing else than a Politician, and then he is about the only survivor of all his early contemporaries and that proves the survival of the fittest.

Q.—As to the "Globe Magnate?"

A.—The theory is sufficiently proved in this case by the fact that he is the "Globe Magnate," if further proof be needed, it may be stated that he is also "The Grit party," the Ontario Government, the editor of all the Grit newspapers in the Dominion, and a great many other things.

Q.—As to the Canadian people?

A.—They have proved their right to be examples of the theory for all time, for, having lost their heads, is it not natural that they should have an "N. P." and should now want a National currency?

Q.—As to the average Canadian Politician?

A.—Well, the average C. P. proves his claim to this distinguished position seeing that it is second nature to him to select the fattest jobs he can lay his hands on whenever he gets the chance, and he will live longer, and grab more in the course of his life, than any dozen ordinary men.

CAN'T SEE THE POINT.

MILK AND STRONG STUFF.

O! wad some power the giftie gie us

To see ourselves as ithers see us!

J. BRUCE & CO.

HAVE THE POWER TO BESTOW THAT GIFT

AT
118 KING STREET WEST.

xlii-22-17.

TO PHONOGRAPHERS!

REVISED PRICE-LIST OF ISAAC PITMAN'S PUBLICATIONS.

Compend of Phonography	5 cts.
Exercises in Phonography,	5
Grammologies and Contractions,	10
Questions on Manual,	15
Selections in Reporting Style,	20
Teacher,	20
Key to Teacher,	20
Reader,	20
Manual,	50
Reporter,	75
Reporting Exercises,	20
Phrase Book,	35
Railway Phrase Book,	25
Covers for holding Note Book,	20
The Reporter's Guide, by Thos. Allan Reid	60
Self-culture, corresponding style,	75
The Book of Psalms, corresponding style,	35
The Book of Psalms, cloth	75
Common Prayer morocco, with gilt edges	$2.80
The Other Life, cloth	25
New Testament, reporting style,	$2.50
Phonographic Dictionary	1.50
Pilgrim's Progress, corresponding style,	55
Pilgrim's Progress, cloth	90
Aesop's Fables, in Learner's Style	20
Ten Pounds and Other Tales, cor. style	20
That Which Money cannot Buy, etc. cor. style	20
Being and Seeming, My Donkey, A Parish Clerk's Tale, etc., cor. style	20
Character of Washington, Speech of George Canning at Plymouth, etc., with print & key, rep. style	20
Address of the Earl of Derby, on being installed Lord Rector of the University of Edinburgh, etc., rep. style	20

Sent post-paid to any address on receipt of price.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

Next Post Office, Toronto.

"Milk for Babes," &c.

The room in which the great ministerial banquet was held the other evening was brilliantly decorated, and mottoes more or less appropriate were displayed upon the walls. Amongst these was one which bore this strange device—"Milk for the babes; meat for the strong men." It has puzzled a good many to find out the peculiar appropriateness of this quotation under the circumstances. It is suggested that the ministers sought in this round-about way to comfort the hearts of the rag-baby sponsors, and admonish them to go slow in their agitation. Another conjecture is that a scarcity of viands being anticipated, notice was thus given that meat would only be supplied to those gentlemen who commanded big majorities in their constituencies—in other words, were politically "strong men." These explanations are plausible enough, but appear rather far-fetched. Isn't it more likely that the motto was intended to indicate the line which should be drawn when the cloth had been removed—on one side teetotal "babes," who would be bountifully supplied with milk or water, or both mixed; and on the other, the "strong men," who could take strong stuff. The word "meat," as everybody knows, may be used for liquid as well as solid refreshments.

A Bone! A Bone!

WHAT DID HE SAY?

The Globe reports that SIR JOHN, at the "banquet," said in his great speech that MR. MACKENZIE threw the title proffered him, "like a bone to that hungry dog, the renegade Tory, CARTWRIGHT." The Mail says SIR JOHN's words were, "he threw the title to that renegade Tory, CARTWRIGHT, as one would throw a bone to a hungry dog." Others who were present say the language was, "like a bone to a renegade dog, he threw the title to the hungry Tory." Although, indeed, we learn from high authority that what was really said was this: "he threw the title 'boned' from the Imperial Government, like a hungry Tory to a renegade dog." Compliments are so rare among political opponents now a-days, that it is a great pity that the great statesman's remarks were not more accurately reported.

S. R. QUIGLEY, ENGRAVER & JEWELLER,
MASONIC & SOCIETY REGALIA, EMBLEMS, &c.
7 1-2 ADELAIDE ST. EAST, TORONTO. xliii-4-17

HEWITT Fysh,
Manufacturer of all kinds of
CHOICE CAKES AND CONFECTIONERY,
222 YONGE STREET.
Wedding cakes a specialty. xiv-3-127

WM. DINGMAN & CO.,
DEALERS IN ALL KINDS OF

SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.
STEAM ENGINES AND BOILERS

From a 3 Horse-power upwards.

Machinery Received on Consignment and no Charge For Storage.

42 FRONT ST. EAST & 33 WELLINGTON ST. EAST,
TORONTO.

Entrance on Front St.

"GRIP" Now in its seventh year and Thirtieth Volume, and more popular and influential than ever before.

$2 Per Annum, Free of Postage.

PRESS OPINIONS.

"GRIP" AGAIN GOOD.—The impartiality of Grip, the comic paper, is beyond doubt. This week the Grip's are receiving the lion's share of attention. The leading cartoon represents Blake, as a member of the 'Pinafore' crew, in the act of resenting Brown's dictation. The Hon. Geo. takes the part of the captain, who attempts to 'taw' the insubordinate tar, and put a straight jacket upon him, this poem upon the event reading:

"The Blakite Grit is a soaring soul,
As free as a mountain bird,
His energetic fist should be ready to resist
A dictatorial word!"

Mr. Gordon Brown, eating humble pie: the defeat of Mr. Joly and the triumph of virtue in the person of Mr. Chapleau; the "hum" hunt, and Hanlan and the "great big calf" are all laughable drawings, which do the facile pencil of Mr. Bengough much credit.—Kingston Whig.

PUBLISHERS' NOTE.

Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.

Subscription price, $2 per annum, strictly in advance. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied. BENGOUGH BROS.

USE ONLY

ONTARIO

Baking Powder.

Ask your Grocer for it.

MANUFACTORY:

247 King Street West,

TORONTO.

xii-20-19

SAMPLE SHEETS

—OF—

New Year's Calling Cards,

Ready December 1st,

BENGOUGH BROS.

ZELL'S

POPULAR ENCYCLOPEDIA,

Complete in 2 Vols., bound in half calf, Morocco with marble edges, for only $30, cost $39.50.

Address,

X. Y. Z. GRIP Office.

SECOND-HAND JOB TYPE FOR SALE.

SPLENDID VALUE.

Send for Sample sheet.

BENGOUGH BROS.

CHEAP READING.

We will send to subscribers of "Grip" any of the following magazines and papers for one year at prices annexed.

Scribner, $4.50, Grip $2, both, $5.50.

St. Nicholas, $3, Grip, $2, both $4.50.

Scientific American, $3.20, Grip, $2, both $4.75.

Detroit Free Press, $2, Grip, $2, both, $3.25.

BENGOUGH BROS.

WANTED.—5 cents each will be paid for the following back numbers of GRIP:

VOL. 2. Nos. 2, 16, 23.
" 3. " 7, 17, 20, 19, 24.
" 4. " 1, 2, 4, 5, 6, 7.
" 5. " 5, 7, 17, 19, 21, 26.
" 6. " 7, 9, 13, 25.
" 7. " 4, 12, 20, 21.
" 8. " 1, 2, 7, 12, 5, 16.
" 9. " 15.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

TORONTO.

$1500 TO $6000 A YEAR. or $5 to $50 a day in your own locality. No risk. Women do as well as men. Many make more than the amount stated above. No one can fail to make money fast. Any one can do the work. You can make from 50 cts. to $2 an hour by devoting your evenings and spare time to the business. It costs nothing to try the business. Nothing like it for money making ever offered before. Business pleasant and strictly honorable. Reader if you want to know all about the best paying business before the public, send us your address and we will send you full particulars and private terms free; samples worth $5 also free; you can then make up your mind for yourself. Address GEORGE STINSON & CO., Portland, Maine. xiii-19-19

NOW READY

GRIP'S COMIC ALMANAC!

FOR 1880.

(TRADE MARK REGISTERED)

TORONTO, SATURDAY, JANUARY 3, 1880.

GRIP OFFICE,
IMPERIAL BUILDING.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

5 CTS. EACH.
$2 PER ANNUM.

GRIP'S
ALMANAC
FOR 1880.

SELLING
LIKE HOT CAKES.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach GRIP office not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

S. GOULDEN,
JEWELLER,

4 King St. East, Diamond Mount &c. Every description of Jewellery made to order. Fine rings a specialty. Repairing, Gems re-set, &c. xiv-3-19

$66 A WEEK in your own town, and no capital risked. You can give the business a trial without expense. The best opportunity ever offered for those willing to work. You should try nothing else until you see for yourself what you can do at the business we offer. No room to explain here. You can devote all your time or only your spare time to the business, and make great pay for every hour that you work. Women make as much as men. Send for special private terms and particulars, which we will mail free. $5 Outfit free. Don't complain of hard times while you have such a chance. Address H. HALLET & CO., Portland, Maine. xiii-19-19

BENGOUGH BROS.

Are prepared to execute orders for

ENGRAVING

in the highest style of the art.

Type Metal Plates

MADE FROM

Pen and Ink Sketches, Photographs, Lithographs, &c.,

More perfect, true and lasting than any wood engraving, and at a much lower cost. Call and see specimens at

GRIP OFFICE,

Next door to Post Office, Toronto.

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY.

The tens of thousands who are making exclusive use of the COOK'S FRIEND Baking Powder, thereby render UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY to its superiority. Retailed everywhere. xii-12-19

CRUMPTON'S

Snowflake Rolls,
Family Bread,
Brown Bread,
Rye Bread.

Baked and delivered Daily.

CRUMPTON'S

Bread and Cake Bakery, 171 King Street East.

Readers of "GRIP"

Desiring anything in the Book or Music line, which they may not be able to procure at home, can have them forwarded, at once, if in the city, by addressing Bengough Bros., next P.O., Toronto.

$300 A MONTH guaranteed $12 a day made at home by the industrious. Capital not required; we will start you. Men, women, boys and girls make money faster at work for us than at anything else. The work is light and pleasant, and such as anyone can go right at. Those who are wise who see this notice will send us their addresses at once and see for themselves. Costly Outfit and terms free. Now is the time. Those already at work are laying up large sums of money. Address TRU & CO., Augusta, Maine. xiii-19-19

COAL AND WOOD,
OF THE BEST QUALITY.

AND AT LOWEST PRICES.

NAIRN'S.

Office, Next Post Office.
Docks, Foot of Church Street

Literature and Art.

M. RICE is again in Paris, having returned from his sojourn in Venice.

The Musée Viollet le Duc, a new collection of historical monuments, is to be established in Paris in honor of the late architect.

The first prize of 15,000 francs in the competition for the best design for a memorial of the defence of Paris has been awarded to M. BARRIS.

HENRY HUGH ARMSTEAD, the sculpture and designer, and JOHN EVANS HODGSON, the painter, have been elected to the Royal Academy.

The Winter Exhibition of Cabinet Pictures in oil, at the Dudley Gallery, contains four hundred and seventy-one cabinet pictures. Six pieces of sculpture are also exhibited.

JULES ELIE DELATNY has been elected a member of the French Academy of Fine Arts to succeed the late ALEXANDER J. HESSE. M. BONNAT was his chief opponent.

"OUIDA's" name is ROSE DE LA RAMA, and she is the daughter of a Frenchman. More information than this the most indefatigable interviewer has not been able to get from the author. She lives in a lovely villa about two miles from Florence, where she is surrounded by books, pictures, and, what she prizes more than both of these, dogs. She has a burying-ground on the place for her dogs, where they are laid away with a tenderness that is not always bestowed on the human race.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Philadelphia Academy of Fine Arts, held last week, Mr. THOMAS EAKINS was unanimously chosen as successor to the late Professor SCHREUSSELE, chief instructor in drawing and painting in the Academy. Mr. EAKINS is a native of Philadelphia, studied in Paris under GEROME and BONNAT, and is best known in this country by his large picture, "Prof. Gross," which received so much criticism in the last exhibition of the Society of American Artists in New York.

The Queen has sent to the South Kensington Museum a number of objects from Zululand, which were placed in the first court last week. The largest object is a basket for carrying grain, which was taken at Upoko in June last. There are also wicker spoons for straining beer, a wood pipe from Pondoland, a metal body-scraper, a Kaffir snuff-box, a signal-whistle of wood from Secocoeni's country, a magnetic stone to be worn by a chain, from the same place, a Zulu comb, a necklace as worn by Kaffir women, and a specimen of a head-ring worn by Zulu married men.

In the inner court of the Louvre, called the Sphinx, the marble fragments are now being put together which form the pedestal of the statue of Victory in the hall of the Caryatides, and which represent the front of an old Greek war vessel. In 1863 M. CHAMPOISEAU, the French Consul at Samothrace, found the statue of Victory and sent it to Paris; but the remains of the marble pedestal had to be left behind on the island until the present government supplied M. CHAMPOISEAU with the means of despatching them to France. There are twenty-four marble blocks altogether in the pedestal, each of them weighing from nearly one ton to more than two tons. The pedestal is of considerable value and interest, as it forms almost the only complete model of an old Greek war vessel which has been preserved. It dates from about 280 B. C.

This cut represents the celebrated DOVEY BOILER AND ENGINE, for which we are agents. Send for circular.

Second-Hand Machinery.

FOR SALE.

3 h.p. Engine with 4 h.p. Boiler. 6 h.p. Engine with 7 h.p. Boiler. 20 h.p. Engine with 40 h.p. Boiler. 68 h.p. Engine with 2 Boilers 48 inch shell 22 feet long 16 in. flues. 1 Boiler 44 inch shell 21 feet long 14 inch flues. 1 (Stearns) Circular Saw Mill. 1 (Stearns) Log Turner. 1 Crank, Pulleys and Press Rollers. 1 Slabbing Gate with chain feed. 1 Counter Shaft (4 inch) 7 feet long with Pillar blocks, drums and pulleys. 64 inch Circular Saw. 48 inch Circular Saw. A lot of drums and pulleys suitable for a mill. 1 No. 1 Gordon Press (new). 1 Water Motor, good as new. Power Mortising Machine, Wooden Frame.

WM. DINGMAN & Co.,
55 FRONT STREET EAST.

Machinery taken on consignment and no charge for storage. We guarantee every Machine leaving our establishment in good working order.

1880. MAYORALTY. 1880.

JAMES BEATY, JR.,

Respectfully requests the votes of the Electors of Toronto for re-election as Mayor.

Election 5th January, 1880.
iv-27-2t.

To the Electors of

ST. GEORGE'S WARD.

Gentlemen:—

You are respectfully requested to re-elect

PETER RYAN

BY A LARGE MAJORITY.

By Order of "GRIP."

xiv-5-2t.

BALDNESS!

Neither gasoline, vasoline, carboline, or Allen's, Ayer's or Hall's hair restorers have produced luxuriant hair on bald heads. That great discovery is due to Mr. Winter-corn, 144 King-street West, opposite Revere Block, as can be testified to by hundreds of living witnesses in this city and Province. He challenges all the so-called restorers to produce a like result.

Send for circulars.

xii-12-1y

Stage Whispers.

BARTLEY CAMPBELL earns $900 a week now, so it is reported. He used to get $25 per week as a newspaper reporter.

Miss JOSEPHINE MEEKER recently gave a lecture on her Indian experiences, and she has since been offered two hundred dollars a week and her expenses to travel as a lecturer upon that subject.

CHANFRAU paid C. W. TAYLOR only $300 for the American drama, "Kit," and CHANFRAU has made over $70,000 out of it. The play, before he accepted it, had been condemned by several New York managers.

M. W. LEFFINGWELL, the comedian, left behind him a son who is likely to achieve considerable success upon the stage. He has received many excellent notices for his work upon the stage this season with NEILSON's company.

Manager McDOWELL informs us that the coming theatrical sensation is the new political burlesque "H. M. S. Parliament, or the Lass who loved a Government Clerk." The idea was suggested by GRIP's cartoons, and the play was written by a gentleman in Ottawa for the "Shaughraun Company," who will produce it in Toronto shortly. The characters and chorus are all to be made up to represent prominent Members of Parliament, viz: TILLEY, MACDONALD, MACKENZIE, BLAKE, WHITE, &c. Each party will have an opportunity to express their sentiments in a satirical way on the Budget Speech, the N. P., the Boom, &c., &c. This is something decidedly new, and we hope it may, as it probably will, prove a great financial and artistic success.

CAMPANINI, with his fine talent as an artist, and his remarkable popularity, is withal as modest a man to-day as when he was struggling for a bare living, ten years ago. Instead of "putting on airs" and exhibiting himself for a consideration at a fashionable hotel, he is content, during his engagements in New York, to occupy part of a small and modest house near the Academy. There is no style about it at all, and I dare say there are third-class singers who would not consider it good enough to live in. He has been married several years and his wife, a lady who had gained some popularity in opera in Europe, fully shares his simplicity of taste. They live quietly and happily in plain apartments, and keep house just as modestly as before the popular tenor became the favorite of the opera world. CAMPANINI receives a salary of 18,000 francs (something over $3,500 a month,) for about ten months in the year. He has been offered 20,000 francs per month, but he prefers his engagement with MAPLESON to one at a higher rate with a manager less reliable. MAPLESON never breaks up, or down, and he always pays promptly. Out of an income of $35,000 a year, CAMPANINI can, of course, save money, and as he has no extravagant habits, he can save a good deal. He means to have enough to keep him comfortable when his time comes to retire, though, as he is yet only 33, that time may still be far off. I understand that he has just made a contract to sing in seven concerts, when the opera season is over—four in Boston and three in Cincinnati—for $3,500. CAMPANINI is MAPLESON's surest card. He never fails to please, and what is fully as important to the manager—he scarcely ever suffers from the "indisposition" that is so common among singers. He takes the best care of himself, physically, and is always in good order for work.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

By BENGOUGH BROS., Proprietors. Office:—Imperial Buildings, next to the Post Office, Adelaide Street, Toronto. GEO. BENGOUGH, Business Manager.

SUBSCRIPTION TERMS.—Two dollars per year, payable in advance. Subscriptions and advertisements are received at the office, or by WM. R. BURRAGE, General Subscription and Advertising Agent, 26 Adelaide Street East, Toronto.

EDITED AND ILLUSTRATED BY J. W. BENGOUGH.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

Our Carriers' Address.

Mr. GRIP's carrier boys will have a neat little address to present to our city subscribers with this issue. After presenting it they will wait long enough to enable each genial subscriber to put his hand in his pocket—and fetch it out full.

The Mayoralty.

Who'll be Mayor for 1880? Mr. ANGUS MORRISON says he will, if the citizens have no objection; and Mr. JAMES BEATY opines that it will be a gentleman about his size and appearance. On another page of this issue will be found a pictorial argument which may assist some of our ratepayers to form an opinion as to the relative merits of the candidates. Mr. GRIP's preference, it may be seen, is given to our present Mayor. It would be easy, however, to produce a good many points in favour of Mr. MORRISON. For instance,

1. He is a jolly good fellow, and highly competent to fill the chair—at a dinner party.
2. He looks very pretty in frills and ruffles.
3. He has done his best to encourage water-drinking amongst our citizens by the gift of an elegant fountain.
4. He is never absent when he makes a speech; he is all "here."
5. He has been Mayor before and proved himself a master of the art of how not to do it.

Why do Summer Roses Fade?

A PSYCHOLOGICAL ROMANCE.

CHAP. I.

The super-consciousness of egotism is seldom without its reflex influences. The contact of a subtly magnetic nature with more profuse and introspective ones tends to irradiate as with lambent sun-gleams the entire moral environment. Whereas, on the other hand, the perplexities which result from a too fervid differentiation are directly in the ratio of its irrespectiveness.

ELVINA MULREAU, the daughter of aristocratic and wealthy parents, whose life had never known the sordid cares of a more humble lot, awoke to a sense of the futile self-absorption which ever and anon culminated in the contemplative mind. Thought-germs slowly fructifying in an intellect of the expansive order, opened strange vistas into a realm of opal-hued splendor. "O life," she murmured, "what are these ideals, so evasive and yet so potent, which evermore flit athwart our pathway? What those strange faint murmurings, these restless voices which seem to speak to my soul?"

"It is the hum!" said her father, who had overheard her soliloquy.
He was a Tory.

CHAP. II.

RANDOLPH CHURCHILL, a tall, fair-complexioned young barrister, strolled carelessly along the main street of the village. "So," he soliloquized (if our characters did not have this convenient habit the labor of the novelist would be much more arduous)—"There is no condition so problematical that hope will not illumine by a fitful radiance the gloomful hour. But yesterday, and the proud daughter of yon bloated bond-holder, MULREAU, barely deigned a passing nod of condescension—but now her glance has a tenderness which augurs success to my suit. Even her haughty father bids me welcome to his mansion. To-night will I seek her presence and woo her with my most poignant conundrums. I will ask her how to give a friend a good send-off, and when with the frankness of a perhaps too reticent nature, she gives it up, I will tell her to bid him bestride the kindly mule. The mule, by the way, is not a fur-bearing animal. Oh no. Much otherwise."

CHAP. III.

'Twas a scene of revelry. The mansion of the banker FERDINAND MULREAU, whose name indicates his patrician Norman blood, was brilliantly illumined, and a gay throng of knights (recently created in honor of the safe return of the Princess LOUISE) cavaliers, members of the U. E. Club, and reeves of the neighboring townships, were assembled within its walls. The wassail bowl went round with jest and song. Far-bowled among the fair was ELVINA, whose radiant cheek lighted with a flush that mantled to her peerless alabaster brow, as RANDOLPH CHURCHILL propounded the conundrum of the evening:

"Why are the people of Canada the hum-blest?"

"But," observed a personage commonly reputed to be the editor of the Bystander, "the question is based upon a historic fallacy. The people of Canada are not the humblest. Their condition is infinitely superior, for instance, to that of the Zulus or the Abyssinians or the Patagonians. In fact many other nations at various epochs of the world's history have presented in their manner of life and their acquaintance with those—"

"Oh, hire a hall!" impertinently observed Sir FREDERICK CLARENCE DE BILKINS, K. C. B., whose affectionate care of LOUISE's pet spaniel during her absence had procured his promotion to the ranks of the Canadian aristocracy.

The Bystander withered him with a glance of scorn.

"The answer is," said RANDOLPH, "because they have been blest by the hum-blest, don't you see?" [Applause.]

At this stage of the proceedings our reporter left.

CHAP. IV.

A deep gloom settled down athwart the once joyous features of ELVINA MULREAU. Blithe and blossoming girlhood had gone, and the current of her young life was perturbed by an unknown woe.

"No," said her father, "thou shalt never be the bride of RANDOLPH CHURCHILL."

"!!!!!!"

"Miserable girl, he is all unworthy of an alliance with our house and lot. He is the dupe of designing knaves—the propagator of a heresy which outrages the holiest sentiments of our common humanity. He is an advocate of the Rag Baby."

ELVINA fell fainting to the floor.

The demon of gold and greed had triumphed.

CHAP. V.

The following note was received by the author after sending in the foregoing chapters:

"Our space is limited—boil down—wind up your story.—ED. GRIP."
"Never," said ELVINA, "will I wed the insidious DE BILKINS. He has no soul—no aspirations towards the absolute. How true and yet how beautiful are the touching lines of the poet,

"No evanescence blooms beyond the mist
Which holds chief consciousness in potent awe,
Alike in sparkle of the amethyst
And deathless motives such as Nihil saw,
A recognition which perchance may claim
A boundless apt serenity of space,
Pulsant frenzy sharing yet the blame
Which ill-esteemed besides in every case."

'Tis ever thus. And if, in the weary march of life a drooping spirit may be cheered to struggle on towards the goal—if the seeds of good may have been planted or the eye unsealed to greet with prophetic vision the harbingers of a bright future, the object of the writer will have been achieved.
Please send $5 by the boy.

THE END.

Rural Rhymes.

NO. 3—THE GIRL IN THE CALICO DRESS.

Oh! what to me are your jewels and silks,
If the girl is fair to view;
Let me look on her silken hair,
And her eyes of azure blue.
The simple tastes of the rustic maid,
In her springhood's loveliness,
Is the magnet that holds my heart in thrall,
To the girl in the calico dress.

I see our maidens parade the streets,
In a wealth of laces and flowers;
I see them in gossamer robes fit by
When music asserts her powers.
Such baubles will never assail my heart,
And willingly, I confess,
I would choose far simpler, calmer joys
With the girl in the calico dress.

How sweet when the evening shadows flit,
'Mong the trees by her rural cot,
To sit on the stoop with the girl you love,
In her charming polka dot.
Oh! the joy one feels at the whisper'd word,
Or the fond and warm caress,
As your arm encircles the polonaise,
Of the girl in the calico dress.

To see her fresh as the morning rose—
No praises her tongue can utter—
Milking the cows in the pasture near,
Or up to the wrists in butter.
And to hear her laugh with the boys at play,
I worship her none the less—
For a romp is better than doctor's drugs,
With the girl in the calico dress.

She has no piano to thump and grind—
She embroiders no fancy slippers,
But she's hefty at cooking and churning cream,
And handling the delf and dippers.
Yet she trips the light fantastic toe,
Like a fairy I must confess—
Last year she was belle of the Granger's ball,
Was the girl in the calico dress.

Now if I was only a marrying man,
And was looking out for a mate
To cheer me along life's dreary way—
I soon would know my fate;
For I'd fly on the wings of love, or else
Take the lightning stage express,
For a private interview with the papa
Of the girl in the calico dress.

Beggars often present an imposing appearance.

When sun spots appear, "old sol" is only putting on his specs to get a better view of the earth.

Prof. PROCTOR, the Astronomer, talks of the immensity of space. But where is the immense city?

The Bystander Before the World.

Mr. GRIP has too much respect for the impersonality of journalism to reveal pictorially or otherwise who the Bystander is, but the above allegorical sketch will indicate plainly enough what the role of that distinguished individual is to be. He is revealed as the school-master abroad, and his mission is to teach the world all it ought to know. It is to be hoped the world will be an apt pupil, and fully appreciate the trouble the Bystander puts himself to in issuing month by month his invaluable lesson-sheets. If the year 1880 does not turn out to be happier than any of its predecessors, it will not be because the nations of the earth did not get full instructions as to their proper course of conduct.

Soft Money.

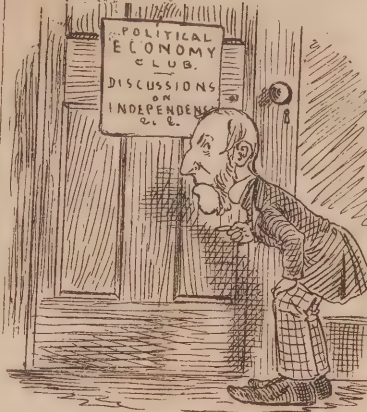

A tramp, on being asked his views on the "Rag Baby agitation," answered that the plan was useless unless the hearts of the people were softened at the same time.

Irish Sufferers.

Mr. GRIP respectfully begs to introduce this interesting family group,—a fair specimen of many more to be found in our city—to the notice of those benevolent people who are getting up the fund for the relief of the Irish sufferers. Mr. McFinnigan and his household have a good claim to a portion of the help, for in the first place they are Irish sufferers, and in the next place, Charity commences at home. There can be no objection to our charitably disposed citizens contributing of their abundance to the relief of distress in distant parts of the world, if such assistance is really called for, but it seems rather ironical benevolence to reach the hand of charity over the heads of the poor whom we have always with us, to feed the poor of another community. In the case of Ireland it is not clear that foreign assistance is as yet invoked; at all events that is the view expressed by the Catholic clergy of Montreal, who have issued a circular admonishing their people to govern themselves accordingly.

He Scents Treason.

Mr. GRIP hails with delight the formation of the Montreal Political Economy Club, for it promises to break up the monotony now reigning in public affairs, and furnish food for his pencil in the near future. If, as the Globe thinks, it is a veritable hot-bed of treason, so much the better. Nothing suits GRIP's fancy so well as flaying red-banded traitors. In the meantime we can discover nothing very portentous in the fact of a few good natured gentlemen meeting together to demolish choice dinners, and to make little speeches on Independence, Annexation or the N. P. The Rev. Mr. BRAY appears to be the head and front of the organization, and we have every confidence that his cloth if nothing else will prevent him from sanctioning the wholesale assassinations which lay members may determine upon.

Military Law.

"A Private should not obey an illegal order of his Officer."—JUDGE DAVIS

Private BRIGGS finds some difficulty in the way of putting the above advice into practice. (He has been ordered to retire, but doubts the legality of the order).

The Distinguished Arrival.

We cordially greet Mr. EIGHTEENTH, who has arrived and registered at the World's Hotel, though we are sorry to observe that his valet is that same seedy-looking individual who accompanied the late Mr. EIGHTEEN-SEVENTY-NINE. It is to be hoped that our distinguished guest will not be with us long before he will be able to furnish his valet with a new suit of clothes, and otherwise improve his appearance, or, better still, banish him altogether. So far as Canada is concerned, our Finance Minister will be only too happy to aid in the latter course. Mr. EIGHTEENTH arrives at a very interesting period of the world's history, as he may see by glancing at the pictures on the wall. All the nations are in a turmoil. England is being led into debt and dishonor by the scheming BEACONSFIELD; Ireland is indeed a land of fire, and the unhappy landlords are being rent in pieces; Germany struggles with the poisonous reptile of Socialism; the Russian bear has overturned the Nihilist hives and is in a peck of trouble with the bees; the French Republic is again tossed upon the stormy sea of internal strife, and the storm-cloud of Communism once more rises above the horizon; the Sick Man of Turkey is as sick as ever; in the United States the great fight of partyism waxes hot, and the ghost of CÆSAR rises once more to frighten timid souls; and in Canada the ins and outs are at it hammer and tongs as in days of yore. Wherever the eye falls it meets scenes of strife and misery. Let us hope that Mr. EIGHTEENTH may have the pleasure of replacing all these grim pictures with scenes of peace and comfort before he leaves the World's Hotel.

The Coming Session.

The members are about to be called in once more, and it is to be hoped that each one of them will be furnished with a copy of the Bystander with a blue line around the paragraph referring to the prodigious waste of valuable time which usually marks the sessions of the House.

There will probably not be much improvement in this respect, however. Sir TILLEY will possibly occupy a couple of weeks in explaining the meaning of the word "boom," then TUPPER will follow with a fortnight's speech on the iniquity of buying steel rails before they are needed; then the country expects a ten days' oration from BLAKE on the beauties of unstraitened circumstances; then MACKENZIE must occupy a month or so in sifting all the corrupt acts of the Administration during the recess, and of course we shall hear from Sir JOHN about the same length of time on the essential connection of potato bugs and Grits. Meantime the country will scrape around and raise the necessary funds to pay our patriotic legislators their $4 per day and mileage.

DISTINGUISHED ARRIVAL AT THE WORLD'S HOTEL.
 "MR. 1880 AND VALET."

THE JOKER CLUB.

"The Pen is mightier than the Sword."

Thanks.

Mr. GRIP wishes to convey his best thanks to the members of the paragraphic fraternity who so generously contributed to his ALMANAC—as well to those whose articles the editor was obliged to omit for want of space, as to those whose contributions appear. The ALMANAC is now abroad in the land, shedding its rays of humor, and receiving the kindest notices of press and public.

The greediest man in the world—The railroad hog.—Modern Argo.

He won her, she won him, and that makes them both one.—Lampton.

It's hard to fool castor oil—that is, its hard to take it in.—Unknown Etr.

No fair-minded man will find fault with the grab-bag.—Boston Transcript.

As the school boy's brain is bent so is the Latin verb declined.—N. Y. News

GRANT parses "Presidency" and "White House" as indeclinable nouns.—N. Y. People.

Crows are the worse behaved of birds because they carri-on so.—Danielsonville Sentinel.

A Texas man has been born without a brain. The jury box yawns for him.—Waterloo Observer.

Mrs. SPIKE says orchestras are immoral because so many base viol men belong to them.—N. Y. People.

"Time is money;" but it wouldn't seem so, judging from the way some people spend it.—Ed. I. Torrialle.

"What struck you most in Italy?" a newly returned traveler is asked. "The sun," says he.—New York Herald.

Teacher—"Bob, what's the meaning of sweet-meats?" "Canned fruit put up for company."—Pulaski Democrat.

If it be true that circumstances form character, some persons have led very uneventful lives.—Steubenville Herald.

The youth who mustard enough courage to kiss his sweet heart is now suffering from a blister on his lip.—Waterloo Observer.

A young fellow who had a rich aunt to keep him in money, referred to her as his fine aunt cial backing.—Steubenville Herald.

The human skeleton consists of over 200 distinct bones, a regular bone anser for the medical student.—Cincinnati Saturday Night.

What an object of pity that man is whose extreme sense of dignity won't allow him to have any fun in the world.—Cin. Saturday Night.

A man named ICE is in the West Virginia prison. They do not allow him a fire for fear he will escape by thawing out.—Oil City Derrick.

If deaf persons can hear through their teeth, why cannot the blind be made to see through their eye teeth?—Cincinnati Saturday Night.

If some men were as thin as the assertions they make, they would have to be tied down to blowing away.—Heavy Weight Chrysal.

The manner of the man who shrinks from responding to a sentiment offered at the festive board partakes of quail on toast.—Rome Sentinel.

The woman who sews patches on the seat of her boy's pants, is the real messenger of piece. She heels the breeches.—Keokuk Gule City.

"This is a high-handed outrage," as the boy remarked when he found that his mother had put the cookies on the upper shelf.—Boston Transcript.

It is stated that EDGAR A. POE was an inebriate. He even confesses in one of his poems to one sup on a midnight dreary.—Marathon Independent.

A few years' experience as editor of a country paper will "knock the stuffin' clean out" of a fellow's poetic imagination.—Hackensack Republican.

"How long shall girls be courted?" asks an English newspaper. Not later than 2 o'clock in the morning, we think, excepting when it rains.—Elmira Free Press.

The mercury is gradually sinking lower and lower, and the first thing we know it will be a candidate for governor of Kentucky.—Cincinnati Gazette.

Breeches of promise—those which your tailor for the last two weeks has been assuring you would certainly be finished by Saturday night.—Sunday Voice.

If a man is bald it is said to be conclusive evidence that he has been thoroughly married. A smooth head and a smooth life seldom go together.—New York Herald.

The only bulb that will keep all winter without being wrapped in sixteen old dresses and laid down cellar is that little fellow in the thermometer.—Detroit Free Press.

If a man can't make both ends meet let him sit down on the end of a shaky barrel. When the head caves in the problem will be solved to his complete satisfaction.—N. Y. People.

A woman may be strictly temperate, yet when she is continually looking at the reflection of her back hair in the mirror, she raises the glass too often.—Hackensack Republican.

Another American girl is to marry a nobleman. Why is it that our girls refuse to support their own countrymen? There is a lack of patriotism somewhere.—Atlanta Constitution.

A writer says that "the ballot is the only protection the American citizen is in need of," and yet the average American will keep right on carrying an umbrella when it rains.—Rome Sentinel.

We know of a benevolent man who is always sorry he didn't send a Thanksgiving barrel of flour to somebody, but he never thinks of Christmas until it has gone by.—Elmira Free Press.

"It is vulgar to pay more than $50 for a Christmas present," says an exchange. Perhaps it is; but if any of our friends should break this rule on our account, we shall overlook the offense.—Boston Post.

"Idleness always envies industry," may be a truthful old adage, but we can distinctly remember the time that we could sit on the fence and watch our respected father and brother IKE hoe corn and not envy 'em a bit. Keokuk Constitution.

There was a young man from Cabul, Who tried to shake hands with a mule, His neighbors took pains To hunt up his remains, And they wrote on his tombstone—Phool. —N. Y. People.

EDISON makes light of a piece of paper. We suppose it is too late for suggestions, but if he is looking around for incandescent substances, it strikes us that still better results may be reached by using a section of a politician's nose.—N. Y. People.

Drunkness causeth all crime; rum causeth drunkenness; sugar-cane maketh rum; niggers grow sugar-cane. Hang the Ethiopian! This is a chain of reasoning. The reasoning of the inquisition hath always consisted of chains.—Puck.

When you see a young man in gorgeous apparel walking about the streets with his arms in curves from his body like the wings of an over-heated turkey on a summer's day, it isn't because he is in pain. It is because he has been "abroad."—Lowell Courier.

Will science please stand up and tell us why a girl who freezes to death every time she has to sweep off the front steps, can ride fifteen miles in a sleigh with nothing around her but some other girl's brother's arm, without getting a blue nose?—Meriden Recorder.

'Tis sweet to hear the watch dog's honest bark, 'tis sweet to hear the hum of bees and the merry laugh of childhood, but there is something about the sound of a man learning to play the cornet in the room next to yours that reminds you of an exhausted paragrapher trying to snatch a dead joke out of its coffin.—Merry Andrews' Bazaar.

In this season of benefit fairs and suppers, the church expects every man to do his duty. Monday it is a ham, Tuesday it is a chicken, Wednesday, it's a cake, and the plot begins to thicken; Thursday, it's an oyster supper, Friday, you must buy a ticket, Saturday, it's something else, and if you don't take it all in, well, it's because you're wicked.—Stamford Advocate.

It is astonishing, now that we come to think of it, how intoxicated a man can get on turkey and cranberry sauce sometimes.—Pomeroy Democrat. Yes, and we know a man who became so thoroughly drunk, merely by going down to post his books, that two policemen couldn't convince him that he wasn't a candidate for the Presidency.—Oil City Derrick.

One of them says: "So many poets die ere they are known." Too true, too true! When an editor discovers the quality of his verses he kills him on the spot without stopping to ascertain his name. The poet's father should take him around and introduce him to all the people in the country, and then it might be different. He would be known before he died.—Norristown Herald.

"This is a cold world"—especially in the winter time. But Prof. PROCTOR says it will not be as cold as the moon now is for 2,500,000,000 years yet. Some of us may be dead before that time arrives. The Washington monument may be finished inside of 2,500,000,000 years, but it is feared HANLAN and COURTNEY will still be wrangling over their forthcoming boat race.—Norristown Herald.

A Hum Amongst the Poets.

Whatever the real facts may be as to the present state of business, the Finance Minister may congratulate himself that at all events he has caused a hum amongst the poets, and Mr. GRIP has to suffer the consequences. This week he is favored with two effusions on the all absorbing topic, and as they are from opposite directions he deems it fair to give both a hearing. "FELIX FLASHER" comes from the Maritime Province of N. B. and singeth as follows:—

THE HUM.

How doth Sir LEONARD K. C. B.—
Improve each shining hour;

While "hum"—bug Grits—the drones, you see,
Abuse upon him shower.

He flies about from hive to hive,
And doth the lively "hum";
While dromish mar-plotis vainly strive
To prove it all bunc-hum.

The factories all employment give
For those who want to work;
So there is no excuse for drones,
Who labor like to shirk.

The Grit press seems to take delight—
In each Canadian town—
To prove us bankrupts to the world,
And cry our credit down.

But such we know is not the case,
And dare them to the proof;
When asked to meet us face to face
They always stand aloof.

The tariff is an ogre grim
Which tariff-ies the Grits,
They can't see it's a tilley-ty,
And therefore "give it fits."

The times may be a little hard,
And trade not over brisk;
A darkening cloud may now obscure
The noonday sun's bright disc.

But be assured to every cloud
There is a silver lining,
And though its face is now obscured
'Twill soon be brightly shining.

Don't mind these foul ill-omened birds
Who croak of "ruin blue";
Stand firm—do right—be just—work hard,
And we will yet pull through."

The next comes from the west, and is pitched in quite a different key, to wit:

How cruel fraud,—inflating public sense,
With stones for bread, prolonging keen suspense,
How strange, 'mong mortals that there should be some Content to grind that flinty thing called "Hum."

"Where is it?" asks the working class, who wait,
All patience, for their wage to rise in rate,
While consolation only comes to some
In faintest echoes, singing, "Hum, sweet Hum."

Untutored classes are, by this strange test
Confused, 'mong wildest fancies, and perplexed,
Their faculties, by sophistry made numb,
To know the meaning of this strange word "Hum."

And men of letters wonder—well they may,
By WEBSTER guided, and in reason say,
"Why label noise, that cannot e'er be dumb,
The symbol sure, of true commercial "Hum."

Do bees not, when disturbed, in hum rebel—
'Mong broken quiet, leave their work and cell?
Then may not men with spirits sad and glum,
Be sinking, mid excitement's boasted "Hum."

And what if scanty stores alarm the hive,
Doth it not hum, its loss of hope to thrive?
Then may the humming making mortals grum,
Be wide apart from bustling, healthful "Hum."

But doubts are hidden 'neath the party cry,
Which to conceal, the crafty pen must ply
In cooked reports, for false and true must come Within the Royal Speech the word called "Hum."

'Tis then, if not before that day, we trow
The country cheated will be made to know
From conquered sophistry, in truth may come
Through other hands, to all the land a "Hum."

When a man gives another a chew of tobacco for a pinch of snuff he is only giving him a quid pro quo.

SEALED TENDERS marked "For Mounted Police Supplies," and addressed to the Right Hon. the Minister of the Interior, Ottawa, will be received up to noon on THURSDAY, the TWENTY SECOND day of JANUARY next, for the following supplies, viz:—

Grey Military Flannel, 30 inches wide, 50z. to the yard.....	3,000 yds.
Brown Duck, 12 oz.....	2,500 "
Woolen Undershirts, full fashioned, (double breasted).....	750
Woolen Drawers, full fashioned, (double seated by extra thread of yarn).....	750 pairs.
Woolen Socks, long legs.....	1,500 "
" Stockings, long legs.....	750 "
" Mitts, long wrists.....	500 "
Blue Artillery Cloth, (shrunken) 54 inches wide.....	1,200 yards.
Scarlet Serge, (shrunken) 54 inches wide.....	600 "
Scarlet Cloth (shrunken) 54 inches wide.....	600 "
White Serge lining, 35 inches wide.....	500 "
Yellow Overall Lace, 2 inches wide.....	2,000 "
Yellow Russian Braid.....	2,000 "
Helmets with spikes & chinstraps complete.....	300
Forage Caps.....	400
Buffalo Coats made from No. 1 Summer robes.....	150
Waterproof Sheets, 4 ft. by 6 ft.....	200
Moccasins, all loose, large sizes, 6 inches high in leg.....	500 pairs.
Kit Bags.....	100
Mosquito bars.....	400
Gauntlets, Buckskin, unlined.....	350 pairs.
" Teamsters, Deerskin, unlined.....	100 "
Blankets, 10 lbs.....	300 "
Towels, large, linen.....	300
" small, ".....	300
Nose Bags.....	300
Curry Combs, Web handles.....	300

MATERIAL FOR THE MANUFACTURE OF BOOTS.

Grained Leather, 18 to 22 feet each side.....	280 sides.
No. 1 Canadian Kip Skins, 10 to 12 lbs. each.....	1,400 lbs.
No. 1 Spanish Sole Leather, 18 to 24 lbs. per side.....	3,350 "
No. 1 Slaughter Sole, for heel stiffeners, 15 to 18 lbs. per side.....	150 "
No. 1 Russet Sheep Skins, for linings.....	17 doz.

The skins must be neatly trimmed, have a good spread and be free from holes.

Patterns of all Articles, except Leather, may be seen at the Department.

The Flannel, Brown Duck, Leather, Red and Blue Cloth, Red and White Serge, and Yellow Lace and Braid, to be delivered at the Penitentiary, Kingston, within six weeks of acceptance of contract.

The other Articles to be delivered at Ottawa, not later than 1st April.

Every article will be subject to examination and rejection if not fully equal to sample.

Freight charges from places of shipment to Kingston or Ottawa, as the case may be, to be paid by the Contractor.

Any Customs duties payable on the above supplies to be paid by the Contractor.

Printed forms of tender may be had on application to the undersigned.

Samples to accompany tenders.

Tenders may be for the whole or any of the above Articles.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

Payment for these supplies will be made on the 3rd July next.

No payment will be made to Newspapers inserting the above advertisement without authority having been first obtained.

J. S. DENNIS,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

FRED WHITE,
Chief Clerk,
OTTAWA, Dec. 22nd, 1879.

xiv-7-31.

Financial.

$10 to $1000 Invested in Wall St. Stocks makes fortunes every month
Book sent free explaining everything.
Address BAXTER & CO., Bankers, 7 Wall St., N. Y.
xiii-22-17

A GOOD PLAN. Combining and operating many orders in one vast plan has every advantage of capital, with skillful management. Large profits are divided pro rata on investments of $25 to $10,000. Circular, with full explanations how all can succeed in stock dealings, mailed free.
LAWRENCE & CO., 55 Exchange Place, New York.
xiii-22-17

"TYPES OF MANKIND."—Printer's types

Proverb in Paris:—"WORTH makes the woman."—Et. And often unmakes the man who foots the bills.

Pyctures of Society.

No. 3.—YE YOUNG POLITICIAN.

BY ASPER.

Ye young Polytician if possible knows more than ye old one, but as a rule strange to relate he follows on whatsoever side of Polytics his father doth happen to favour, although he always doth aver that ye old man doth not influence his ideas one jot or tittle. He doth attend meetings of ye electors, at which he oftentimes makes himself conspicuous by his remarks on ye opinions of ye speakers, and ye interruptions thereof with ye noise of stickes on ye floor, and other means by which he doth manifest his disapproval of ye sentiments of ye orators.

He is puffed up with vanity, and doth entertain a most high opinion of himself and his abilities. He doth generally have one man in polytics whom he professeth to honour above all others, and he will swear with great oaths that that man is always right in whatsoever he doeth. Sometimes indeed on being argued with he finds that he hath not the means of answering his opponent and then he doth close the controversy by averring that what the other man saith, "is alle rotte."

In this manner he doth dispose of his antagonist, and doth gain the admiration of all beholders. At ye elections he doth go forth with canvassing-book in hand, and if perchance ye section that he importuneth in, doth give to his candidate a majority of votes, he doth vauntingly and boastfully claim ye whole credit for himself, and doth assert that it was he who carried ye warde.

After ye elections are over he doth as a rule imbibe freely of sack and other wines, and doth loudly praise his own side and abuse ye other in round terms.

He doth longingly look forward to ye time when he shall be returned as a member of ye Parliament of ye King, and doth give his fellows to understand what great measures he would inaugurate were he there. But alas! such is the fallacy of human hopes and wishes, that oftentimes he doth sink down to ye level of what is called a Warde Polytician, and even sometimes fallett so low as to become an alderman.

Conversational Brilliancy of New Year's Calls.

FITZAGUSTUS, entering first drawing-room: Compliments of the season, Miss BLANCHE—aw, thanks! Had many calls? This is my thirty-fifth—been at it all day. Had many Christmas cards this year? I sent a couple of hundred, by Jove! They walk off with a tremendous lot of money, don't they? Thanks, no! No coffee—thanks so very much! Good-bye, Miss BLANCHE!

Ditto, entering second drawing-room: Thanks, Mrs. MACFLITHERS! The same to you, I'm sure. What a very charming selection of Christmas cards one had to choose from, this year. Did you send many? Think I must have sent a couple of hundred, by Jove! Had many calls to-day? This is my thirty-sixth, I believe. Thanks, no coffee,—very fond of it, but it affects my nerves, you know. Good-bye!

Ditto, entering third drawing-room: Compliments of the season, Miss CARRIE! Compliments of the season, Miss NELLIE! Compliments of the season, Miss KATE. You've had any number of Christmas cards this season, I suppose? Very pretty, this season, are they not? I sent a tremendous number this season, myself. Had many calls? This is my thirty-seventh—pretty fair day's work, don't you think so? Thanks, no!—must deny myself, though so awfully fond of it! Good-bye! good-bye!

A HUM, FOR SURE!

SIR DICKEY.—Yes, of course you hear a "hum;"—that arises from a want of honey in the hives, though.

WHO'S THE BEST MAN FOR MAYOR?

O! wad some power the giftie gie us
To see ourselves as others see us!

J. BRUCE & CO.
HAVE THE POWER TO BESOW THAT GIFT

AT
118 KING STREET WEST.
xii-22-1y.

TO PHONOGRAPHERS!

REVISED PRICE-LIST OF ISAAC PIT-
MAN'S PUBLICATIONS.

Compend of Phonography	5 cts.
Exercises in Phonography,	5
Grammalogues and Contractions,	10
Questions on Manual,	15
Selections in Reporting Style,	20
Teacher,	20
Key to Teacher,	20
Reader,	20
Manual,	50
Reporter,	75
Reporting Exercises,	20
Phrase Book,	35
Railway Phrase Book,	25
Covers for holding Note Book,	20
The Reporter's Guide, by Thos. Allan Reid	60
Self-culture, corresponding style,	75
The Book of Psalms, corresponding style,	35
The book of Psalms, cloth	25
Common Prayer morocco, with gilt edges	$2.80
The Other Life, cloth	50
New Testament, reporting style,	$2.30
Phonographic Dictionary	1.50
Pilgrim's Progress, corresponding style,	55
Pilgrim's Progress, cloth	90
Aesop's Fables, in Learner's Style	20
Ten Pounds and Other Tales, cor. style	20
That Which Money cannot Buy, etc. cor. style	20
Being and Seeming, My Donkey, A Parish Clerk's Tale, etc., cor. style	20
Character of Washington, Speech of George Can- ning at Plymouth, etc., with print 2 key, rep. style	20
Address of the Earl of Derby, on being installed Lord Rector of the University of Edinburgh, etc., rep. style	20

Sent post-paid to any address on receipt of price.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

Next Post Office, Toronto.

Sir. Tilley's Triumphant March.

CHORUS OF MANUFACTURERS.

See the Finance hero comes,
Looking for the N. P. hums;
Let us drain a welcome cup,
For our trade is looking up;
Let us feast him—laud his name,
Hero bold of N. P. fame,
Now depression's cloud is rent,
Workmen happy and content!

CHORUS OF TORY FARMERS.

See the statesman proud advance,
Let our youths and maidens dance,
Let us tell of grain-tries full,
Prices rise on wheat and wool;
Though we could not help a frown,
When Mackenzie kept us down,
Now we welcome him with glee,
Hero of the great N. P.!

GRAND CHORUS OF WORKINGMEN.

See the Finance humbug comes,
With his N. P. booms and hums,
We will let him plainly know
Food is up, and wages low;
Tea and sugar, clothes and such,
Almost now beyond our reach,
Let him know his fate in store;
No N. P. deceives us more.

Our funny Contributor informs us that on Christmas day he was in receipt of numerous valuable presents of stationery, etc. These gifts consisted of a large and varied assortment of wrapping paper sent by young lady friends with requests to send them copies of GRIP for 1880 containing his (our Contributor's) jokes. Our Contributor adds that the only Christmas cards he was in receipt of were postal cards from his creditors, requesting immediate payment.

MARY ANDERSON is doing the biggest business ever known on the Kansas and Missouri Circuit. At Kansas City hundreds were turned away.

SULLIVAN has received very handsome offers from Mapleson and Carl Rosa for an original opera. Perhaps he does not see the beauty of the "offer."

S. R. QUIGLEY,
ENGRAVER & JEWELLER,
MASONIC & SOCIETY REGALIA, EMBLEMS, &C.
7 1-2 ADELAIDE ST. EAST, TORONTO. xiii-4-1y

HEWITT Fysh,
Manufacturer of all kinds of
CHOICE CAKES AND CONFECTIONERY,
222 YONGE STREET.
Wedding cakes a specialty. xiv-3-12

DO NOT ORDER YOUR

NEW YEAR'S
CALLING CARDS

Until you have seen

Grip's Special Humorous Designs

FOR 1880.

Will be ready in good time for the occasion.

For sample sheet address

BENGOUGH BROS., Toronto.

REMOVED.

WM. DINGMAN & CO.

MACHINERY BROKERS,

Have Removed to more Commodious Premises,

No. 55 FRONT ST. EAST.

Ask your Grocer for - T. DAVIES & CO'S - Bottled Ales, Porter & Lager.

PUBLISHERS' NOTE.
GRIP is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.
Subscription price, $2 per annum, strictly in advance. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied. BENGOUGH BROS.

USE ONLY
ONTARIO
Baking Powder.
Ask your Grocer for it.
MANUFACTORY:
247 King Street West,
TORONTO.
xii-20-17

MACHINERY HALL
55 Front St. East.
SECOND-HAND
MACHINERY
FOR SALE:
3 h. p. Engine with 4 h.p. Boiler.
6 h.d. Engine with 7 h.p. Boiler.
36 h.p. Engine with 40 h.p. Boiler.
68 h.p. Engine with 4 boilers 48 inch shell 22 feet long, 16 in. flues.
1 Boiler 44 inch shell 21 feet long 14 inch flues.
1 (Stearns) Circular Saw Mill.
1 (Stearns) Log Turner.
1 (Stearns) Double Edger.
1 Stock Gate with Crank Shaft, Crank, Pulleys and Press Rollers.
1 Slabbing Gate with chain feed.
1 Counter Shaft (4 inch) 7 feet long with 11 pulleys, drums and pulleys.
64 inch Circular Saw.
22 inch Circular Saw.
A lot of drums and pulleys suitable for a mill.
1 No. Gordon Press (new).
1 Water Motor, good as new.
Power Mortising Machine, Wooden frame.
WE ARE AGENTS FOR
REID'S
Patent Seamless Water Trap.
The best, because the strongest Trap on the Market. We invite the inspection of Plumbers and Architects.
Wm. Dingman & Co.
55 Front St. East.
Machinery taken on consignment, no charge for storage. We guarantee every Machine leaving our establishment good working order.

CHEAP READING.
We will send to subscribers of GRIP any of the following magazines and papers for one year at 1/2 price annexed.
Scribner, $4.50, Grip $2, both, $5.
St. Nicholas, $3, Grip, $2, both, $5.
Scientific American, $3.20, Grip, $2, both $4.75.
Detroit Free Press, $2, Grip, $2, both, $3.25.
BENGOUGH BROS.

$500 TO $1,000 A YEAR. or $5 to $20 a day in your own locality. No risk. Women do as well as men. Many make more than the amount stated above. No one can make money fast. Any one can do the work. You can make $500 cts. to $1,000 in 10 days in your evenings and spare time to business. It costs nothing to do the business. No one like it, money making even after 10 years. Business pleasant and strictly moral. Reader if you want to know all about the best paying business before the public, send us your address and we will send you full particulars and private terms free. Copies worth $5 also free. You can make up your mind for yourself. Address: GEORGE STINSON & CO., Portland, Maine. xiii-10-17

NOW READY
GRIP'S COMIC ALMANAC!
FOR 1880.

TORONTO, SATURDAY, JANUARY 10, 1880.
GRIP OFFICE, } The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; } 5 CTS. EACH.
IMPERIAL BUILDING. } The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool. } $2 PER ANNUM.

EDITOR'S NOTE.
ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach GRIP office not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

S. GOULDEN, JEWELLER,
4 King St. East, Diamond Mounter &c. Every description of Jewellery to order. Fine rings a specialty. Repairing, Gems re-set, &c. xiv-3-17

$66 A WEEK in your own town, and no capital risked. You can give the business a trial without expense. The best opportunity ever offered for those willing to work. You should try nothing else until you see for yourself what you can do at the business we offer. No room to explain here. You can devote all your time or only your spare time to the business, and make great pay for every hour that you work. Women make as much as men. Send for special private terms and particulars, which we will mail free. $5 Outfit free. Don't complain of hard times while you have such a chance. Address H. HALLET & CO., Portland, Maine. xiii-10-17

BENGOUGH BROS.
Are prepared to execute orders for ENGRAVING in the highest style of the art.

Type Metal Plates
MADE FROM
Pen and Ink Sketches, Photographs, Lithographs, &c.,
More perfect, true and lasting than any wood engraving, and at a much lower cost. Call and see specimens at

GRIP OFFICE,
Next door to Post Office, Toronto.
UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY. The tens of thousands who are making exclusive use of the COOK'S FRIEND Baking Powder, thereby render UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY to its superiority. Retailed everywhere. xii-12-17

CRUMPTON'S
Snowflake Rolls, Family Bread, Brown Bread, Rye Bread,
Baked and delivered Daily.
CRUMPTON'S
Bread and Cake Bakery, 171 King Street East.

Readers of "GRIP"
Desiring anything in the Book or Music line, which they may not be able to procure at home, can have them forwarded, at once, if in the city, by addressing Bengough Bros., next P.O., Toronto.

$300 A MONTH guaranteed. $12 a day made at home by the industrious. Capital not required, we will start you. Men, women, boys and girls make money faster at work for us than at anything else. The work is light and pleasant, and such as anyone can go right at. Those who are wise who see this notice will send us their addresses at once and see for themselves. Costly Outfit and terms free. Now is the time. Those already at work are laying up large sums of money. Address TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine. xiii-10-17

WAL AND WOOD, OF THE BEST QUALITY. AND AT LOWEST PRICES. NAIRN'S. Office, Next Post Office. Docks, Foot of Church Street.

Literature and Art.

The Art School of the Ontario Society opens next week.

An open meeting of the Toronto Woman's Literary Club was held at the residence of the President, Mrs. EMILY H. STOWE, M.D., Church Street, on the evening of Friday last, the friends of members being invited. Interesting original papers were read by Miss DE CUE and Mrs. SHAW, the subject of the former being "Life in San Francisco," and the latter "Men's Rights," which she treated in a sa'castic vein. Both papers were loudly applauded. Vocal and instrumental music was furnished by Misses HAMILTON, MCKENZIE, STOWE and JENKINS, and Mr. and Madame STUTTAFORD, which was much appreciated, and Mr. SHAW gave a pleasing recitation.

Her Royal Highness the Princess LOUISE has not been idle with her pencil since she has been in Canada. At the London Exhibition of the Society of Painters in Water Colors (now open), Her Royal Highness has contributed some very interesting drawings, which are thus spoken of by the art critic of the Chronicle:

"We do not remember to have before seen Her Royal Highness the Princess LOUISE to such advantage artistically, or exhibiting so many works at one time as in the present collection. Five of the seven works from Her Royal Highness' pencil are reminiscences of her Canadian home:—'Fishing on the Restigouche, Canada' (51), some human beings in most quaint-looking canoes, fishing; 'Views from Citadel, Quebec' (115), prettily touched and effective sketches; 'Courtyard of the Citadel, Quebec' (148); 'Lumber village on the Ottawa'; and 'Laril, a half-breed Indian boatman' (158), a drawing as good in character as in color; and two others—one a scene in Cumberland, 'View from Muncaster,' and the other in Dumfriesshire, 'View of Woods, Roseneath' (408)—both showing thoughtful observation of nature as well as no little executive skill."

FREDERICK DIELMANN, known to the reading public as an illustrative artist, and to the art world by his studies of heads, has acquired a high reputation during the past few years by his admirable illustrations in the magazines. He is an excellent type of a class of good artists rapidly growing in numbers who have turned their attention to magazine illustration by the high stamp of artistic work now required on their pages. He was born in Hanover, Germany, in 1848, and taken early in his childhood to Baltimore. He received his art education in the various schools of the Royal Academy, Munich. He was one of the original members of the Society of American Artists. His studies are painted with great minuteness of detail and exercise of technical skill. C. S. REINHART is another good type of this class of artists. He is more prolific than DIELMANN and does much work for the illustrated papers in addition to the magazines. He was born in Pittsburgh, Pa., in 1844, and in 1868 began the study of art in Paris, going afterward to Munich, where he studied drawing, etching and painting. In addition to his illustrative work he exhibits frequently oil and water color paintings at the National Academy of Design. His strength lies chiefly in figures, and in his late sketches of Puritan scenes he has won marked success. JAMES E. KELLY, perhaps the most versatile in illustrative work of the three mentioned, was born July 30, 1855. He received his art education at the Academy of design, and the Art Students' League in New York. He has been very successful in depicting action, and his figures of men and horses are well chosen. In all his work the anatomy has been blocked out severely, and in none of his illustrations do we find an imperial moulded form where beautiful outline attracts rather than strength and action.

AT NEATLY, CHEAPLY, QUICKLY.

Grip Job Department.

Everything in the Printing line from a

Label to a Three-Sheet Poster.

WITH NEATNESS AND DESPATCH.

We are prepared to fill Orders by Mail for Visiting Cards (Finest Bristol, White or Tinted) immediately on receipt of letter, and forward by FIRST MAIL, at the following rates:

25 Cards, (one name, one style type), 30 cents.
50 " " " " " 50 "
100 " " " " " 75 "

The following are Samples of Type from which a choice may be made.

1

Robert Taylor.

2

William Richardson.

3

Miss Maggie Thompson.

4

George Augustus Williams.

5

Mrs. Thomas Jones.

6

William Arthur Crawford.

7

Miss Susie Wade.

8

Byron W. Scott.

9

William Shakespeare.

Copperplate Printing.

Engraving Copper-plate	$ 2.00
Printing 100 Gents' Cards	1.00
" 100 Ladies' "	1.50

Birch Bark—Latest Novelty.

25 Cards	$ 0.75
----------------	---------

Chromo Cards:

(Five Beautiful Pictures)

100 Cards, (one name, one style type) $1.50
50 " " " " " 1.00.
25 " " " " " 75.

Mourning Cards:

25 Cards, (one name one style type), 50 cents.
50 " " " " " 75 "
100 " " " " " $1.25 "

Memorial Cards

Beautiful Designs,	$ 1.00 per dozen.
Samples by mail,	5c. each.
Printing addresses on Cards, 10 cents extra for each Order.

Write your Name and the Number of the Letter you desire plainly, to prevent mistakes.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

Imperial Buildings, (Next Post Office), Toronto.

Stage Whispers.

The WILLIAMSONS are making money in Australia.

Miss KATE CLAXTON goes to San Francisco in the spring.

Manager A. M. PALMER has engaged Signora MAJERONI.

W. G. WILLS is rewriting the drama of "Black-eyed Susan."

Miss CLARA MORRIS will depart for San Francisco in a few days.

MAUD GRANGER is to be married. The gentleman is not known.

M'me SINICO, now at the Haymarket, London, is shortly to be heard in Paris.

Washington, D. C., reports that theatre parties are becoming quite fashionable in that city.

The New York Sunday Times says that BARTLEY CAMPBELL is spending his money like COAL OIL JOHNNY.

DEN THOMPSON and his manager, J. M. HILL contemplate purchasing the Gaiety Theatre, Boston, and fitting it up in superior style.

Mr. and Mrs. McKEE RANKIN and Mr. SHERIDAN go to London in May to bring out "The Danites" at Mrs. BATEMAN's Sadler's Wells Theatre.

At the Opera Comique, London, during the Christmas holidays, there were matinees of "Pinafore" performed by children. This caper is copied from America.

Recently Mrs. B. A. COTTON, wife of the well-known performer, secured a verdict of $5,000 against the Stonington Railway Company for injuries she received in consequence of a passenger-car in which she was seated having left the track.

Miss ANNIE E. DICKINSON's play of "Aurelia" has, it is said by Manager MACAULAY, been taken to Europe, there to be put upon the stage. Mr. MACAULAY adds that Miss DICKINSON is now writing another play on a Russian subject.

Mrs. CHANFRAU accompanies her husband, Mr. F. S. CHANFRAU, on his tour this year, though she does not play with him. On his New England tour she has been appearing at the matinees, but with no pecuniary success. It is understood that she has definitely given up the idea of starring alone.

GILBERT and SULLIVAN's new Comic Opera, "The Pirates of Penzance," has been produced in New York with signal success. The libretto is in GILBERT's best vein, while the music is of a higher class than that of "Pinafore." Many of the characters are counterparts of the "Pinafore" celebrities, although the plot is entirely different. On the whole it is a pronounced improvement on "Her Majesty's Ship."

The principal item of gossip in the Athenaeum, is the announcement (the only correct part of which appeared in Truth five weeks ago) that "the drama Mr. TENNYSON has written for the St. James" is founded upon a story in the Decameron. As a matter of fact, Mr. TENNYSON did not write the little piece referred to—it is absurd to call it a drama—either for the St. James or for any other theatre. Some time after it had been completed it was indirectly offered to Mr. HARE, and he accepted it.—London Truth.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

By BENGOUGH Bro's, Proprietors. Office:—Imperial Buildings, next to the Post Office, Adelaide Street, Toronto. GEO. BENGOUGH, Business Manager.

SUBSCRIPTION TERMS:—Two dollars per year, payable in advance. Subscriptions and advertisements are received at the office, or by WM. R. BURRAGE, General Subscription and Advertising Agent, 26 Adelaide Street East, Toronto.

Original contributions paid for. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned. Literary and Business communications to be addressed to BENGOUGH Bro's.

EDITED AND ILLUSTRATED BY J. W. BENGOUGH.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

A Romance of Leap Year.

MARMADUKE MCGUIRE MCCARTY

Was a youth of birth and rank,
Stylish he, and strong and hearty,
Kept the ledger in a bank;
Took his soda at the club, or Else perhaps at friendly house,
Made a point in friendly rubber,
Or whirled his girl to waltz of STRAUSS.

MARMADUKE MCGUIRE MCCARTY,

On New Year's day set out to call
On her, who at an evening party
Stole away his heart last fall.
MARMADUKE, although his passion
For the lady was most warm,
Knew she was a belle of fashion
While all that he possessed was "form."

MARMADUKE MCGUIRE MCCARTY

Thought for sure beyond all doubt,
Should he propose, old MORIARTY
Would "sit on him" or "fire him out;"
For her papa had oft been known to Take a youth who did propose,
When at the door, where he'd been shown to,
And bang the suitor on the nose.

And with his form mop the verandah,
Then march him to the postern gate.
Boot him till he could not stand, or
Fire him forth in the darkness straight.
And now it was that young MCCARTY
With fear and trembling called at noon,
Enquired for Miss MAUDE MORIARTY,
Who led him into the drawing room.

He bowed his best, and Miss MORIARTY
Blushed, when he wished him "happy new year,"
Electrified was the young MCCARTY
When she smiled and said "My dearest dear
"Four years I've waited for this lele a
"Tele with you—'tis Leap Year now,
"A.D. One thousand eight hundred and eighty,"
And she rested her ear on his manly brow.
And the old man came in and caressed them,
And cordially gave his consent,
Behold how kind LEAP YEAR has blessed them,
They'll married be before it's Lent.
No CARDS.

Mrs. Perkins on Buttons.

It was one of those charming and peaceful interiors that the domestic artist so loves to pourtray. The hour was evening. The last meal of the day was over, the music of the children hushed in balmy repose. Mr. PERKINS, on one side of the table, read his paper by the light of the glowing lamp. Mrs. PERKINS, on the other, and by the aid of the same luminary, worked an antimaccassar in a new crewel stitch. The pleasing silence had for some time remained unbroken, when, upon turning over a page of the evening contemporary, Mr. PERKINS opened his mouth.

"Those brown trowsers of mine, MARIANNE," he began in a gentle, almost deprecatory tone.

"SAMUEL!" interrupted Mrs PERKINS so shrilly that her husband gave a little jump in his chair. "Don't tell me that the buttons are off those trowsers again! I declare to goodness, I never in the whole course of my life met a woman who was such a martyr to buttons as I am. I don't say you cut them off, I don't say you do it on purpose, mind! You'll never have it to reproach me with, that I make an accusation I can't prove. Not at all. But I do say this, SAMUEL, that you're the unluckiest man with buttons I ever heard of. I believe its the way you bounce into a chair—though that wouldn't account for your wristbands, I suppose. Why can't you learn to walk differently, then? It must be the way you walk. I was looking after you, the other day, as you went down street trying to overtake that Mrs. A RABESQUE. Horrid little flirt, don't you suppose she thought you a softy for your pains? And, I declare, the way you swaggered along was something too ridiculous in a man of your age. I wish you could have taken a lesson in walking from my dear father, SAMUEL. He stepped about so softly, I don't believe he ever lost a button in his life.

"Oh! I am sure, my dear," said Mr. PERKINS politely, "if I had been married to your mother I would have walked quite as meekly, myself. But as to those brown—"

"That's right! Sneer at your mother-in-law every chance you get. And you'll wear a thing without ever taking it off your back for three weeks at a time, and then blame me for not sewing the buttons on! I suppose you've got those identical trowsers on at this moment, with your suspenders pinned to them, and when the pin ran into your back just now, you thought it a fine opportunity to turn round and abuse me. I hope I do my duty every Saturday, SAMUEL, in the way of mending and darning, as a Christian woman should. But it's your buttons on the other days of the week that upset me, and I don't believe the consolations of religion take buttons into account. There! I tell you, SAMUEL PERKINS, it makes me feel wicked to see you coming round, with an injured air and a button off, at all times and seasons, and expect me to sew it on. It's no matter what I happen to be about—oh, no! Whether my hands are in pie-crust, or I'm dressing for a call, or—or—anything—I must stop and sew it on!"

"Yes, MARIANNE," said Mr. PERKINS who had caught a word here and there. "What you say has some elements of justice in it, I admit. But what I was about to remark was—"

"Some justice, indeed!" burst out Mrs. PERKINS afresh. "Is it to be expected that I should always have the exact button, the exact thread, and the exact needle at hand to suit all emergencies? Why, if you'd even pick up your coat and waistcoat buttons when you see them drop off, it would be a great point gained. But I suppose now you wouldn't take fifty dollars and run along the sidewalk on King street after a button you saw rolling away? eh, SAMUEL?"

"Well," said Mr. PERKINS slowly, "I don't know—"

Whereupon his wife burst into a triumphant laugh, exclaiming, "now isn't that too like a man? But you'd let me leave my work next day and go tramping a mile and a half into town looking in a dozen shops for a match to the button."

"The shops are very gay at this season, I believe," observed Mr. PERKINS.

"Very! But isn't it a curious thing that a woman doesn't lose her buttons so? You see this shabby old gown of mine? this is the third season for it, you know—and not one button gone!"

"Look here, MARIANNE, suppose you come down town with me to-morrow, and buy yourself a new one. It is a long time since we went shopping together, my dear, isn't it? About those trowsers I—"

"As to those brown trowsers, SAMUEL, you know how I have always hated them. I see you haven't got them on after all, and while I think of it, I believe I'll go and make them into a bundle, and lay them aside for JOE in the morning. He's kept the sidewalk so beautifully. Sew buttons on them again I won't, not for—"

"Why, MARIANNE, that's just what I've done myself," exclaimed Mr. PERKINS. "I've been trying to tell you all evening that JOE—"
"SAMUEL, I don't believe you!" said his wife promptly; but after a few minutes she took occasion to leave the room, or was for some time absent, examining the wardrobe upstairs. The conversation did not run on buttons after her return.

New Year Resolutions.

MAMMA to six-year-old son: You know, FRANKY dear, when the New Year comes, everybody makes new resolutions; and now, I want my little boy to tell me what he has resolved to do, or to keep from doing, all through this new year.

FRANKY, with a large piece of butter-toffee in his mouth: What are real resolutions, mamma?

MAMMA, more distinctly: New Year resolutions, FRANKY. Whatever naughty things you did last year, you will determine to try and not do, this year. Now, dear, think of one.

FRANKY: I can't think. Tell me again.

MAMMA: Why, you see, good people want to get better every year they live. And on New Year's day, they begin to remember how much better they might have been in the past, and so resolve to be different in the future, and this is what is called making good resolutions. Now, FRANKY, I want you to make some.

FRANKY: I don't understand it yet, mamma. Say it some other way.

MAMMA: Why, dear, think of something you used to do last year that I wouldn't like you to do, and then make up your mind, very earnestly, that you won't do it this year. Now, darling, think hard! What is it you're not going to do?

FRANKY: Ain't butter toffee awfully sticky?

MAMMA: Why, yes, dear, it seems to be, but I want you to think about what I'm saying to you now, FRANKY. Aren't you going to be very much better than you ever have been next year?

FRANKY: Oh, mamma, you said this year the other time—you know you did!

MAMMA: Well, of course, dear, I mean this new year that we have just entered upon, and which we may speak of as next year, as so little of it has yet elapsed. So, tell me darling, are you going to try and be a good boy this year, or next year?

FRANKY: I don't care, that's not fair. That's two years, mamma, and you said only one year, at first, and FREDDY JACKSON's waiting for me on the sidewalk, all this time, and if you make me be good for two years, he'll go home, and then I can't show him my new sleigh, and you said I might. So may I go now?

(Exit FRANKY, while mamma's face assumes a thoughtful expression.)

A fashion magazine says: "Ulsters will be worn somewhat longer this winter." Well, then, by George, the men who wear them have got to wear stilts, that's all.—Burlington Hawkeye.

Davin the Scientist.

A couple of individuals came to town the other day and opened an exhibition, their stock in trade being a living rooster with his head cut off. Before the show had been going on long the enterprising proprietors thereof were apprehended at the instance of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and the case came up before the police tribunal in due course. The defendants were fortunate enough to secure the services of Mr. NICHOLAS FLOOD DAVIN, who is not only a brilliant lawyer but an eminent scientist, and as a necessary consequence they got off scot free. Mr. DAVIN's line of defence was that there was no cruelty in the case at all. This he proved by shewing that the rooster had not really lost his head any more than the counsel for the prosecution. He still retained a certain amount of brain—a good deal more than was possessed by many roosters whom he (Mr. D.) was acquainted with. This was not intended as a covert allusion to the city aldermen or other respectable persons. The learned counsel went on to shew that the cruelty in such a case all depended on the amount of material that was taken off the head. For example he himself had been robbed of all his hair, and yet he had felt no pain or inconvenience, and did not think of bringing an action against Dame Nature. Scientific experts were put in the witness box to corroborate this theory of the learned counsel, which they did to the satisfaction of the Magistrate, and the happy defendants left the court in company with their brilliant adviser, who metaphorically speaking wore a rooster's feather in his legal cap.

Elegant Extracts from the reflections of a National Tomnoddy.

Vulgarity is so much an English characteristic that one is always inclined to suspect a well-bred Englishman of being a man of rank. The Englishman of rank however seldom incurs suspicion in the way indicated.

There are no vulgar Irishmen,—the nation is too imaginative to sink into the sordid commonplace which is the essence of the vulgar character.

If all but Scotchmen were destroyed there would be no vulgarity. It is after all a quality ascertainable only by comparison with refinement, and in a Scotch world there would be nothing with which vulgarity could be compared.

The reason why a vulgar Canadian seems so very vulgar is that one expects a perfectly free mah, who must have had opportunities for education, to be high minded, easy and refined.

The most offensive animal in existence is the Canadian, who, in trying to pass himself off for an Englishman, imagines that he deceives his hearers into the belief that they see a foreign and not a native flunkey.

The meanest of all flunkeys is he who, being awed by rank, assumes to it an insolent demeanour. No—a lower depth is reached by the individual who brags of being insolent when he really acted the lick-spittle.

As one is so much in his own society he should strive to make that as refined and agreeable as possible.

The Rev Dr. JOHN HALL is said to have received over $10,000 in wedding fees during the last year.—Exchange.

Wouldn't it be more appropriate to spell him Rev. JOHN HAUL?

INDEPENDENCE

LEADS TO

ANNEXATION.

Exempt us from Exemptions.

MR. GRIP hopes that the Hon. OLIVER MOWAT will be deeply impressed by the cartoon in this issue, and that he will not after examining the picture and remarking upon the faithfulness of his own portrait, quietly relegate it to that capacious receptacle of forgotten lore which he calls his consideration. The subject of the abolition of exemptions is one which has had consideration enough, and now demands action. If the Premier feels disposed to do a genuine kindness to his struggling fellow citizens, he will signalize the new year by easing them of the load of taxation they have to bear under the present unjust system of exemptions.

The Maine Political Trouble.

Reformed gamblers may be classed among the ex-ports of this country.—Marathon Independent. And vicious children among the imp-orts.

The Bystander.

THE BOOK.

An Idyl after Tennyson.

"Speak, babbling book," said I, and in this rhyme The cerulean Stander-by replied.

I leave my haunts to hoot and spurn
In many a lively sally,
The things that most Canadians learn :—
The Globe and Mail I rally.

On thirty texts I lay it down ;
I keep my readers busy ;
Poke fun at BLAKE and GEORDIE BROWN ;
And take a slap at DIZZY.

And still toward UNCLE SAM I go
Across the brimming river,
Canucks may come before they know
To go that road forever.

Poor Nation, did you die, your wits worn out,
Striving to make Canadians think like men ?

I moralize on Tory ways
In stinging sharps and trebles,
Consume with scorn LORD LYTTON'S bays—
And fling some well aimed pebbles.

O'er many a British sin I fret ;
Frown down the Jingo's shallow ;
And more than once I earn and get
The praise of schoolboys callow.

I chatter, chatter never—no ;
But loftily deliver
The thoughts to make Canadians go
'Cross Uncle SAMMY'S river.

But GEORDIE chatters more than book ; he's heard—
Old GEORDIE—every day where spreads the Globe

I hear the stout rag baby shout,
Though others say he's wailing,
He yet may turn both parties out
Though in the States he's failing.

With here and there a slight mistake
O'er men and things I travel ;
Some epigrams of value make,
Some knotty points unravel ;

Queer inferences draw, and show
Just how, across the river
Canadians really ought to go
And lose themselves forever.

Oh—darling ALEXANDER GALT—the one,
The only man who gets a word of praise.

I rail at wicked party plots
From cerulean covers,
I show that liberals and Scots
Of Grit stripe can't be lovers.

I slip, I always gloom, I glance
On him who party swallows ;
Long to get GEORDIE down and dance
Upon him till he hollers.

And always still I plainly show
My writer's nervous shiver ;
In fear Canucks will never go
Cross Uncle SAMMY'S river.

A clock pendulum is bound to keep time
if it has to swing for it.—New Orleans Picayune.

WHEN SHALL THIS BURDEN BE REMOVED ?

THE JOKER CLUB.

"The Bun is mightier than the Sword."

It is a fact that a hogshead is larger than a hog.—Philadelphia Item.

Courtship is a draw game—marriage is a tie.—Chicago Journal.

Writers should belong to the authorodox church.—Danisonville Sentinel.

The painter who fell over with his ladder full of paints went down with colors flying.—McGregor News.

When a thief snatches a watch and transfers it to a confederate, he does so merely to pass away time.—N. Y. News.

It is found that Mrs. SOUTHWORTH has killed over 700 persons in her novels, and is still at large.—Turner's Falls Reporter.

Many a writer of note languishes in prison. Put another man's name on the note, you see.—Marathon Independent.

A man arrested for firing a barn, whereby its contents were destroyed, said he didn't know it was loaded.—Boston Transcript.

Paragraphers will not be allowed in boat-houses, hereafter, they have so many old saws at their command.—Yanook Strauss.

It was a merciful police justice who told us, once upon a time, that he'd rather commit a blunder than a prisoner.—N. Y. News.

When a thing you much desire is just beyond your reach, a man sadly realizes that Contentment is better than reaches.—Whitehall Times.

Before marriage a girl frequently calls her intended "her treasure," but when he becomes her husband she looks upon him as her "treasurer."

Men are naturally poor cooks. This was demonstrated in army days, when officers going to housekeeping always made a mess of it.—Boston Transcript.

The Toronto GRIP thinks Uncle Sam wants to re-open the fishery question. Well, we're not afraid to tackle it: "Have you had a bite?"—Yonkers Statesman.

No matter how low down a man gets in the world, there are two things he can always get, somehow or other; good advice and bad whiskey.—Newark Sunday Call.

"Money," says Mr. TALMAGE, "is a golden-breasted bird with silver beak." Yes; and it's a kind of poultry that most men are particularly fond of.—Chicago Times.

The Washington Capital remarks: "Some of our slow subscribers, who may not find our paper in their mail, can understand that its absence is due to their unremitting kindness."

All doctors recommend people to go to sleep lying on the right side. This is all the better if you are a little deaf in the left ear and don't get home till late.—Detroit Free Press.

A bicycle rider was thrown off his fiery, untrained steed and fatally injured in Chicago, and the citizens want the Governor to appoint another Thanksgiving day. All the good things are coming in a heap this year.—Norristown Herald.

We never met an organ-grinder, no matter how humble he was, who wouldn't put on airs every time he saw a group of children playing in front of a house.—N. Y. News.

"I allus takes things as they come," remarked the tramp, as he lifted the apple pie that had been left out of doors to cool, and industriously ambled out of sight.—Rockland Courier.

There is something soft and tender in the fall of a single snowflake, but when it comes to crawling out in the morning and shoveling away a big drift, its ornery, mean and disgusting.—Detroit Free Press.

Along late in the forenoon JOHNNY was found crying as if his heart was broken. "Why, JOHNNY," said his mother, "what's the matter?" "Boohoo, boohoo," he shuffled, "it's nearly dinner time and we're goin' to have turkey, and I ain't hungry."—Steubenville Herald.

A poet says: "Love holds me so! I would that I could go! I flutter up and down, and to and fro. In vain—Love holds me so." Eat a raw onion just before you go to see her and she will loosen her grasp and throw up a window. Paste this in your hat.—Peek's Mahanuck Sun.

There is nothing so charming as the innocence of children. "Mamma," said a five-year-old the other day, "I wish you would not leave me to take care of baby again. He was so bad that I had to eat all the sponge cake and two jars of raspberry jam to amuse him."—San Francisco Post.

"Some more cheese, please," said a small boy of eight to his papa at dinner. "No, my child," was the reply of the prudent parent, "you have already had enough. When I was a child I had to eat my bread and smell my cheese." Well, said sonny, "please give me a piece to smell."—Portland Transcript.

"MARIA," observed Mr HOLCOMB, as he was putting on his clothes, "there ain't no patch on them breeches yet." "I can't fix it now, no way. I'm too busy." "Well, give me the patch then, and I'll carry it around with me. I don't want people to think I can't afford the cloth."—Unknown Etc.

A little girl in the infant class of a Sunday-school thoroughly appreciated the difference between being good from choice and from necessity. At the close of the school one day the teacher remarked, "BECKIE, dear, you have been a very good little girl to-day." "Yes 'm couldn't help being good; I got a tiff neck," BECKIE replied, with perfect seriousness.—Unknown Etc.

Presidents of nearly a dozen prominent colleges deny the statement made lately by a religious newspaper that our best schools teach that physical man was evolved from irrational animals. If, now, they could deny authoritatively that man himself is generally an irrational animal they would afford unspeakable consolation to politicians and preachers.—New York Herald.

When a young man makes the acquaintance of a pretty girl in a car, and takes a seat beside her, he feels as if he was in Paradise, and he wishes the journey was two thousand miles long instead of only ten miles. He keeps on wishing this until one end of his shirt-collar slips its cable and climbs up toward the top of his ear. Then the young man would prefer a seat on the coal-box near the door, and wishes he was going to get off at the next station. A collar warranted not to leave the moorings at unexpected periods would drive all the others out of the market.—B. Dadd.

The man who can devour a dozen and a half raw oysters at one sitting, is the man for eighteen ate he. (What ho, without there! Seize him and hurl him from the loftiest battlements of the donjon keep, into the foaming portcullis that flows past the postern gate.) It is done. The limp ripples of the silently flowing turret close above the eddying sally port, and all is over.—Burlington Hawkeye.

Scene—Gold Hill Public School. Object lessons in the primary class. Subject, grammar.

Teacher—"Form a sentence with the word 'deaf' in it."

First Pupil—"A deaf man cannot hear."

Teacher—"Correct. Next, form a sentence with the word 'blind' in it."

Second pupil—"Pull down the blind."

Sensation in school.—Unknown Etc.

The story is told of a clergyman, that, after preaching an interesting sermon on "Recognition of Friends in Heaven," he was accosted by a hearer, who said, "I liked that sermon, and I now wish you would preach another on the recognizing of people in this world. I have been attending your church for three years, and not five persons in the congregation have so much as bowed to me in all that time."—Unknown Etc.

A few jokes about young ladies embroidering slippers for holiday presents to friends, are now in order.—Cin. Saturday Night. Are, eh? Well, here goes on the slippery subject: EM. BROIDER, a favorite in Cincinnati society, was observed the other day to take out a new horse blanket to the croquet ground, and trace over its entire extent sinuous lines in charcoal. When asked what she was doing, she replied, "O, I'm designing a slipper pattern for the Fat Contributor, but I'm afraid there isn't cloth enough."—Buffalo Sunday Times.

Dreamily wrapt in reverie sits the maiden. JOHN, dear JOHN, is coming up for the holidays and the whole business is to be settled. They are engaged, of course, but the day, the joyous day, when the wedding ring—ah, the door bell rings. The postman leaves a letter. With heart beating quickly she breaks the seal. "Well, old boy, going up country to see my little 'mash.' She's a daisy, but she'll have to go. I'll break her heart, but she has no money. I've made an impression on LONGPULSE's oldest and susceptible daughter—" She reads no more. JOHN has mailed the wrong letter and she's mad, tearing mad; for two months ago she'd thrown aside honest JNO. HARDWORKER because he had no style about him, and now she's reaping her reward. This story might have been strung out in five numbers of the Weekly Continuation, but we prefer giving it in a lump.—New Haven Register.

It isn't every man who can make a good stinging retort, neat and at the same time merciless. To do it well requires perfect coolness, great precision in language and rare laconic talent. Lord CLAUDE HAMILTON caught it the other day from FRANK LOCKWOOD. His lordship said in a speech at the Conservative Club, King's Lynn, "I have a great many friends among the Liberals with whom I often smoke a cigar and drink brandy and water." He then described Mr. LOCKWOOD, the liberal candidate, as a "political fledgling." Now mark what Mr. LOCKWOOD said in reply. "Lord CLAUDE HAMILTON has cal'ed me a fledgling. I don't know when Lord CLAUDE was hatched, but from what I gather from his speech, he seems to be a gentleman who is old enough to drink brandy and soda, and is young enough to talk about it." While this is hardly definite enough to fix his lordship's age, it is sharp enough to fix him.—Tribune.

Our Serial Story.

Parents, guardians and all thoughtful teachers of youth must be aware that the literature furnished to the rising generation is shamefully tame and goody-goody. Mr. GRIP, determined to do his share in rectifying this crying evil, has engaged the celebrated author, Mr. JIMUEL BRIGGS, to write a thoroughly blood and thunder serial for the young, and here goes for the first instalment.

The Pirates of Toronto Bay:

A MORAL STORY FOR BOYS.

BY JIMUEL BRIGGS.

CHAP. I.

Whatever booms the hour brings.
Remember still that time has wings,
And if perchance—some careless phrase
Should speak to thee of bygone days,
I really don't see that it makes any particular difference.
—Euripides.

"Telegram, sir?" said the newsboy. He was poorly clad and shivered in the keen March air. "Only one cent."

"In which respect it resembles a missionary," said the interrogated citizen. "No, you need not laugh unless you want to—the jest is somewhat ancient. Give me a paper, —and these" as half a dozen others rushed up, "are the children of poverty and indigence. Didn't ever reflect, my boy, upon the wrongs of the poor and the grinding despotism of capital?"

"Never!"
"What n—ot at all?" said the citizen, suddenly checking his too indiscreet utterance. "Ah, 'tis sad. Mark you proud and haughty aristocrat, rolling luxuriously in his gorgeous chariot! Dost not know that his wealth is wrung from the toil-worn hands of labor. How long is this injustice to continue? Think of these things."

"Gimme my cent fur the paper," responded the newsboy.

"Ah, true, I had forgotten; here—do not lavish it in reckless extravagance and dissipation."

He has gone. But his words have sunk deeply into the plastic mind of his youthful auditor.

"No more," he mutters, between his clinched teeth, in the intervals of his engrossing vocation, "no more will I—Telegram, sir!—submit to the scorn and contumely of the proud—Telegram, sir!—and unfeeling, who care no more for the sufferings of the poor than for the veriest worm that they tread beneath—Telegram, sir!—their feet.—Telegram, sir! No, I can't change no five dollar bill, so git a paper from some wealthy cuss, and go to thunder, for I've quit the business and I'm going to be a pirate! Ha, ha!"

CHAP. II.

The stars that gem the vault profound,
In emblematic nucleus throng,
Whisper a semblance rarely found,
The utterance of a stately song;
A thought which brightens to the last
In memory of the bioplast.

—J. D. Edgar.

Come with us, gentle reader, to the pirate's cave. The casual stroller upon the sandy shore of the Island in Toronto Bay might have observed a lowly fisherman's cot upon a narrow point of land seemingly devoid of the appurtenances of luxury. Had he entered, however, and pressed the secret spring concealed 'neath the humble door-mat, a trap door would have flown open, leading by a flight of steps and secret passage way to the haunt of the gang of free-booters, which have long been the scourge of Toronto Bay.

The scene was one never to be forgotten.

SEALED TENDERS marked "For Mounted Police Supplies," and addressed to the Right Hon. the Minister of the Interior, Ottawa, will be received up to noon on THURSDAY, the TWENTY SECOND day of JANUARY next, for the following supplies, viz:—

Grey Military Flannel, 30 inches wide, 50z.	3,000 yds.
Brown Duck, 12 oz.	2,500 "
Woolen Undershirts, full fashioned, (double breasted)	750 "
Woolen Drawers, full fashioned, (double seated by extra thread of yarn)	750 pairs.
Woolen Socks, long legs	1,500 "
" Stockings, long legs	750 "
" Mitts, long wrists	500 "
Blue Artillery Cloth, (shrunken) 54 inches wide	1,400 yards.
Scarlet Serge, (shrunken) 54 inches wide	600 "
Scarlet Cloth (shrunken) 54 inches wide	600 "
White Serge lining, 35 inches wide	500 "
Yellow Overall Laid, 2 inches wide	2,000 "
Yellow Russian Braid	2,000 "
Helmets with spikes & chinstraps complete	300 "
Forage Caps	400 "
Buffalo Coats made from No. 1 Summer robes	150 "
Waterproof Sheets, 4 ft. by 6 ft.	200 "
Moccasins, all loose, large sizes, 6 inches high in leg	500 pairs.
Kit Bags	700 "
Mosquito bars	400 "
Gauntlets, Buckskin, unlined	350 pairs.
" Teamsters, Deerskin, unlined	300 "
Blankets, 10 lbs	300 "
Towels, large, linen	300 "
" small	500 "
Nose Bags	300 "
Curry Combs, Web handles	300 "

MATERIAL FOR THE MANUFACTURE OF BOOTS.

Grained Leather, 18 to 22 feet each side	280 sides.
No. 1 Canadian Kip Skins, 10 to 12 lbs. each	1,400 lbs.
No. 1 Spanish Sole Leather, 18 to 24 lbs. per side	3,350 "
No. 1 Slaughter Sole, for heel stiffeners, 15 to 18 lbs. per side	150 "
No. 1 Russet Sheep Skins, for linings	17 doz.

The skins must be neatly trimmed, have a good spread and be free from holes.

Patterns of all articles, except Leather, may be seen at the Department.

The Flannel, Brown Duck, Leather, Red and Blue Cloth, Red and White Serge, and Yellow Lace and Braid, to be delivered at the Penitentiary, Kingston, within six weeks of acceptance of contract.

The other Articles to be delivered at Ottawa, not later than 1st April.

Every article will be subject to examination and rejection if not fully equal to sample.

Freight charges from places of shipment to Kingston or Ottawa, as the case may be, to be paid by the Contractor.

Any Customs duties payable on the above supplies to be paid by the Contractor.

Printed forms of tender may be had on application to the undersigned.

Samples to accompany tenders.

Tenders may be for the whole or any of the above Articles.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

Payment for these supplies will be made on the 3rd July next.

No payment will be made to Newspapers inserting the above advertisement without authority having been first obtained.

J. S. DENNIS,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

FRED WHITE,
Chief Clerk,
OTTAWA, Dec. 22nd, 1879. xiv-7-3t.

BALDNESS!

Neither gasoline, vasoline, carboline, or Allen's, Ayer's or Hall's hair restorers have produced luxuriant hair on bald heads. That great discovery is due to Mr. Winter-cornby, 144 King-street, West, opposite Revere Block, as can be testified to by hundreds of living witnesses in this city and Province. He challenges all the so-called restorers to produce a like result.

Send for circulars. xii-12-1y

Financial.

$10 to $1000! Invested in Wall St. Stocks makes fortunes every month
Book sent free explaining everything.
Address BAXTER & CO., Bankers, 7 Wall St., N. Y.
xiii-22-1y

A GOOD PLAN. Combining and operating many orders in one vast sum has every advantage of capital, with skillful management. Large profits divided pro rata on investments of $25 to $10,000. Circular, with full explanations how all can succeed in stock dealings, mailed free.
LAWRENCE & CO., 56 Exchange Place, New York.
xiii-22-1y

The spacious apartment lighted up by costly chandeliers and adorned with the choicest *chef d'oeuvre*s of the old masters; heaps of glittering spoil littered in careless profusion upon the mahogany table and tessalated pavement, and the swarthy, dark-haired men, who occupied their time in alternately brandishing on high their trusty blades, and quaffing the choicest vintages of France from richly chased goblets, could not but impress the most careless beholder. All pirates are swarthy and black-haired. No red-headed, blonde-complexed fellow could earn his salt at the business.

There was a respectful hush as a tall youth, whose form displayed the symmetry of an Apollo entered the apartment with a panther-like stride.

"What ho! brave comrades all."

"No hoe, most noble captain—Our hands have long been strangers to the weapons of servile toil," said a heedless youth.

The captain's brow darkened. Other men would have broken into a storm of passion, but he maintained his imperturbable calm and drawing a revolver shot the rash speaker through the heart.

"Discipline must be preserved," he said sternly. "Without it there is an end to all authority.—How many times have I told you that the regular thing when your captain enters is the 'Pirates' Chorus?'"

The following appropriate air was then rendered in a manner which reflected great credit on the performers:

THE PIRATE'S CHORUS.

Who would not be
A pirate bold,
With a thirst for Blood
And a lust for Gold,
For we sail the sea
Ha Ha!!

So wild and free,
Ha Ha!
A merry, merry pirate band!

"Excellent," said the chief. "If, however, I may be allowed to criticize a performance which is first-class in the main, you RINALDO are a trifle shaky in your upper register. You GOUZLIO might have imparted somewhat more feeling and abandon as it were, to the latter section of the chorus, and as for you, BERTRAND de SANTIAGO, your pianissimo notes are well nigh inaudible. Practise it for an hour daily. Still you're improving and 'tis well. A month since, when we captured our last prize in Ash-bridge's Bay, the chorus was shamefully rendered, as the Mail remarked at the time it was an insult to a Toronto audience."

CHAP. III.

And if mid distant scenes we pine
For some familiar spot,
Tis surely * * * * * sign
If otherwise, why not?
—P. E. W. Meyer.

The decks of the good ship Armintha Jane reeked with gore and tobacco juice. The pirates, after a determined resistance, were masters of the situation, and the captain, JASPER COURTLEY, falling on his knees before the successful freebooters begged for his life.

"Wretch, you shall die," thundered a voice of command. "Ay, if you had 1,000 lives, all insured. Dost not know me? Ay, gaze on these features and recognize in Red Handed RUDOLPH the dreaded pirate of Toronto Bay, the humble newsboy whom once you spurned from your door with the paltry excuse that you didn't want any Telegram! Now! Ha! ha!! You shall die!"

He died. I-o-dide of potassium, but that was not what ailed Capt. J. COURTLEY to any extent. The detectives are working up the case.

(To be continued).

Try the - ALBERT COFFEE ROOMS for DINNER.
Best Brands of OYSTERS Always on hand.
Prices, with Tea, Coffee or Cocoa
11 ALBERT STREET, TORONTO.

6 Tickets for $1.00
Raw, 25c., Stewed, 25c., Fried, 20c.
xiv-8-10-13t.

"THE BYSTANDER." ISN'T THIS RATHER A MISNOMER FOR A PARTY WHO JOINS IN THE FRAY?

THE ANNEXATION SCARE.

O! wad some power the giftie gie us
To see ourselves as others see us!

J. BRUCE & CO.
HAVE THE POWER TO BESTOW THAT GIFT

AT
118 KING STREET WEST.
XII-22-1Y.

TO PHONOGRAPHERS!

REVISED PRICE-LIST OF ISAAC PITMAN'S PUBLICATIONS.

Compend of Phonography	5 cts.
Exercises in Phonography,	5
Grammologies and Contractions,	10
Questions on Manual,	15
Selections in Reporting Style,	20
Teacher,	20
Key to Teacher,	20
Reader,	20
Manual,	50
Reporter,	75
Reporting Exercises,	20
Phrase Book,	35
Railway Phrase Book,	25
Covers for holding Note Book,	20
The Reporter's Guide, by Thos. Allan Reid	60
Self-culture, corresponding style,	75
The Book of Psalms, corresponding style,	35
The book of Psalms, cloth	75
Common Prayer morocco, with gilt edges	$2.80
The Other Life, cloth	50
New Testament, reporting style,	$2.50
Phonographic Dictionary	1.50
Pilgrim's Progress, corresponding style,	55
Pilgrim's Progress, cloth	95
Esop's Fables, in Learner's Style	20
Ten Pounds and Other Tales, cor. style	20
That Which Money cannot Buy, etc. cor. style	20
Being and Seeming, My Donkey, A Parish Clerk's Tale, etc., cor. style	20
Character of Washington, Speech of George Canning at Plymouth, etc., with print & key, rep. style	20
Address of the Earl of Derby, on being installed Lord Rector of the University of Edinburgh, etc., rep. style	20

Sent post-paid to any address on receipt of price.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

Next Post Office, Toronto.

A Fish Story.

ED. I. TORIALLE.

The father took his little boy,
And placed him on his knee,
And told him all about the fish
That swam around the sea.

"What crazy things the fishes are,
To get caught in a net,
If I," said JOHNNY, "was a fish
I'd have more sense, you bet!"

"They are, indeed, a crazy set,"
The father did explain;
"For when they're found within a net,
They always are in-seine."

Opinions of the Press on Grip's Almanac.

GRIP'S ALMANAC for 1880, has been received, and fully bears out the promise indicated in the sample sheet sent us, being witty and wise, and full of good and amusing jokes and nicely illustrated. Price 15 cts.—Owen Sound Tribune.

GRIP'S ALMANAC.—We have had the pleasure of reading this comic work and feel sure that it will be welcomed in every Canadian home. It is full of humorous sketches and reading matter; the "hits" are good and it deserves a liberal support.—Whitby Gazette.

GRIP'S ALMANAC for 1880 has been received, and a comical little book it is. Of course it contains a large number of illustrations, political and otherwise, which are very amusing. It, we have no doubt, will have a large circulation. It is for sale at the book stores.—Kingston News.

GRIP'S ALMANAC.—This very amusing and profusely illustrated annual for 1880—as full of fun as an egg is of meat—is to hand; and we congratulate the publishers of Grip upon their success as Almanac makers. Its "political record" alone is well worth the price. Our readers should obtain a copy at their earliest convenience.—New-market Era.

"GRIP'S" ALMANAC.—Grip's almanac is capital. It is funny, clever, neat and useful. In some respects it is equal to Venior as a weather prophet—at all events one may follow it with more certainty. The cuts are well executed, and the letter-press is in every way worthy of the clever pen which freshens and enlivens the pages of our Canadian Punch every week.—Quebec Chronicle.

We have received from Messrs. Uglow & McGiffin Grip's Almanac for 1880—a perfect repository of wit and sarcasm. As an almanac it is entirely on the safe side, as its monthly record, so far as its cartoons are concerned, refer to events of the present year. All the prominent political events of the past year are there portrayed in the order of their occurrence. The weather predictions are exceedingly funny.—Ottawa Free Press.

CORRECTION.—In the list of Canadian newspapers given in GRIP'S ALMANAC, the circulation of the Whitby Chronicle was stated as 700. This was a typographical error for 1700.

S. R. QUIGLEY,
ENGRAYER & JEWELLER,
MASONIC & SOCIETY REGALIA, EMBLEMS, &C.
71-2 ADELAIDE ST. EAST, TORONTO. xiii-4-1Y

HEWITT FRYSH,
Manufacturer of all kinds of
CHOICE CAKES AND CONFECTIONERY,
222 YONGE STREET.
Wedding cakes a specialty. xiv-3-121

SALMON ANGLING.

DEPARTMENT OF MARINE & FISHERIES,
FISHERIES BRANCH,
OTTAWA, 31st Dec., 1879

WRITTEN OFFERS will be received to 1st April next, for the ANGLING PRIVILEGES of the following rivers:

River Kegashka (North Shore).
"Watsheeshoo	do
"Washeecootai	do
"Romaine	do
"Musquarro	do
"Pashasheeboo	do
"Cornelle	do
"Agwapus	do
"Magpie	do
"Trout	do
"St Marguerite	do
"Pentecost	do
"Mistassini	do
"Beesie	do
"Little Cascapedia (Baie des Chaleurs).
"Nouvelle	do
"Escumencac	do
"Malbaie (near Perce).
"Magdalen (South Shore).
"Montlouis	do
"Tobique (New Brunswick).
"Nashwaak	do
"Jacoet	do
"Charlo	do
"Jupiter (Anticosti Island).
"Salmon	do

Rent per annum to be stated: payable in advance
Leases to run for from one to five years.
Lessees to employ guardians at private cost.

By Order,

W. F. WHITCHER,

Commissioner of Fisheries.

xiv-8-4t.

PUBLISHERS' NOTE.

Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.

Subscription price, $2 per annum, strictly in advance. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied BENGOUGH BROS.

USE ONLY
ONTARIO
Baking Powder.

Ask your Grocer for it.

MANUFACTORY:

247 King Street West,
TORONTO. xii-20-ry

MACHINERY HALL
55 Front St. East.
SECOND-HAND
MACHINERY
FOR SALE:

- 1 Sticker.
- 1 Sewing Machine Lathes.
- 1 Milling Machine.
- 1 15-h.p. Waterous Engine and Boiler.
- 1 h. p. Engine with 4 h.p. Boiler.
- 1 6 h. p. Engine with 7 h.p. Boiler.
- 1 36 h.p. Engine with 40 h.p. Boiler.
- 1 68 h.p. Engine with 2 Boilers 48 inch shell 2 feet long, 15 in. flues.
- 1 Boiler 44 inch shell 31 feet long 14 inch flues.
- 1 (Stearns) Circular Saw Mill.
- 1 (Stearns) Log Turner.
- 1 (Stearns) Double Edger.
- 1 Stock Gate with Crank Shaft, Crank, Pulleys and Press Rollers.
- 1 Slabbing Gate with chain feed.
- 1 Counter Shaft (4 inch) 7 feet long with Pillar blocks, drums and pulleys.
- 1 A lot of drums and pulleys suitable for a mill.
- 1 No. Gordon Press (new).
- 1 Water Motor, good as new.
- 1 Power Morising Machine, Wooden Frame.

WE ARE AGENTS FOR
REID'S

Patent Seamless Water Trap.
The best, because the strongest Trap in the Market. We invite the inspection of Plumbers and Architects.

Wm Dingman & Co.
55 Front St. East.

Machinery taken on consignment and no charge for storage. We guarantee every Machine leaving our establishment in good working order.

CHEAP READING.

We will send to subscribers of "Grip" any of the following magazines and papers for one year at prices annexed.

- Scribner, $4.50, Grip $2, both, $5.50.
St. Nicholas, $3, Grip, $2, both $4.50.
Harper's Magazine $5.50, Grip $2 both $6.50.
Harper's Weekly $5, Grip $2, both $6.
Harper's Bazar $5, Grip $2, both $6.
Scientific American, $3.50, Grip, $2, both $4.75.
Detroit Free Press, $2, Grip, $2, both, $3.25.

BENGOUGH BROS.

$1500 TO $6000 A YEAR, or $5 to $20 a day in your own locality. Women do as well as men. Many make more than the amount stated above. No one can fail to make money fast. Any one can do the work. You can make from 50 cts. to $2 an hour by devoting your evenings and spare time to the business. It costs nothing to try the business. Nothing like it for money making ever offered before. Business pleasant and strictly honorable. Reader if you want to know all about the best paying business before the public, send us your address and we will send you full particulars and private terms free. Samples worth $5 also free; you can then make up your mind for yourself Address GEORGE STINSON & CO., Portland, Maine. xiii-10-1y

NOW READY

GRIP'S COMIC ALMANAC!
FOR 1880.

[TRADE MARK REGISTERED]

TORONTO, SATURDAY, JANUARY 31, 1880.

GRIP OFFICE,
IMPERIAL BUILDING.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

5 CTS. EACH.

$2 PER ANNUM.

"And Don't you Forget it!"

IF YOU INTEND TO SECURE A COPY OF GRIP'S
COMIC ALMANAC
FOR 1880,
you must SPEAK NOW!
Price 15 CENTS.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach Grip office not later than Wednesday.—Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP OFFICE, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

S. GOULDEN,
JEWELLER,

4 King St. East, Diamond Mounter &c. Every description of Jewellery made to order. Fine rings a specialty. Repairing, Gems re-set, &c. xiv-3-1y

$66 A WEEK in your own town, and no capital risked. You can give the business a trial without expense. The best opportunity ever offered for those willing to work. You should try nothing else until you see for yourself what you can do at the business we offer. No room to explain here. You can devote all your time or only your spare time to the business, and make great pay for every hour that you work. Women make as much as men. Send for special private terms and particulars, which we will mail free. $5 Outfit free. Don't complain of hard times while you have such a chance. Address H. HALET & CO., Portland, Maine. xiii-10-1y

BENGOUGH BROS.

Are prepared to execute orders for

ENGRAVING

in the highest style of the art.

Type Metal Plates

MADE FROM

Pen and Ink Sketches, Photographs, Lithographs, &c.,

More perfect, true and lasting than any wood engraving, and at a much lower cost. Call and see specimens at

GRIP OFFICE.

Next door to Post Office, Toronto.

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY. The tens of thousands who are making exclusive use of the COOK'S FRIEND Baking Powder, thereby render UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY to its superiority. Retained everywhere. xii-12-1v

SNOWFLAKE

If you want extra good bread, very white, light and flaky, and of good flavor, order the favorite "Snow Flake Rolls," made only at

CRUMPTON'S BAKERY,

171 KING ST. EAST.

2 for 13 cents, delivered daily

Readers of "GRIP"

Desiring anything in the Book or Music line, which they may not be able to procure at home, can have them forwarded, at once, if in the city, by addressing Benjamin Bros. next P.O., Toronto.

$300 A MONTH guaranteed to a day made at home by the industrious. Capital not required; we will start you. Men, women, boys and girls make money faster at work for us than at anything else. The work is light and pleasant, and such as any one can go right at. Those who are wise who see this notice will send us their addresses at once and see for themselves. Costly Outfit and terms free. Now is the time. Those already at work are laying up large sums of money. Address TRU & CO., Augusta, Maine. xiii-10-1y

COAL AND WOOD, AND AT LOWEST PRICES. NAIRN'S. Office, Next Post Office. Docks, Foot of Church Street

Literature and Art.

Sir GARNET WOLSELEY is writing a life of MARLBOROUGH.

KINGLAKE, of Crimean fame, is suffering from bronchitis, and has gone to the continent.

Lord DERBY has protested against the publication of his father's memoirs by his brother.

The Russian Government has given permission for the publication of the correspondence of PETER the Great.

Nuremberg is growing so rapidly that the destruction of her interesting, many-towered old wall has been decided upon.

ARCHIBALD FORBES, the correspondent, announces an article criticising Lord CHELMSFORD's conduct during the Zulu war.

Mr. PERRAULT's new monthly the Colonial Emancipator is out. In appearance it resembles the Bystander though not in literary merit.

Macmillan is to have a highly sensational article for February. King CETYWAYO is to publish an "Apologia pro Vitasua," interspersed with running comments on the Zulu war.

The "Tablette" photograph, designed and introduced by the distinguished firm of NOTMAN & FRASER, is very much admired. Some exceedingly beautiful specimens may be seen at their studio on King St.

The London Society of Painters in Water Colors has lately announced, in its last catalogue, that there are no vacancies for lady members, which has made quite a stir in London art circles, for ladies up to this time have been sparingly elected.

A special meeting of the Society of Painters in Water-colors has been called by Sir JOHN GILBERT, R.A., to memorialize the Italian Minister of Public Works in regard to the proposed restoration of the facade of St. Mark's, in Venice.

A fine collection of original drawings of JOHN LEECH has been purchased by subscription for the Charterhouse, the school at which LEECH spent his early years. The drawings are now arranged and exhibited in the library at the Charterhouse.

The Spectator says of the Princess LOUISE's contributions to the Water Color Exhibition, "that people will think them very able, for a princess," and that "some of the sketches are more fitted for a young lady's album than exhibition in a London gallery."

A gentleman writes us to know if we will accept a series of articles "pitching into" the management of the Canadian Academy of Art. As the Academy is scarcely yet in existence we think it hardly generous to attack its management—at least until something objectionable has been done.

The two child-songs, by ALFRED TENNYSON, written especially for St. Nicholas, appear in the February issue. Both songs have been set to music under Mr. TENNYSON's supervision, and one of the musical accompaniments forwarded by him will also be given in the same number.

The Berlin National Museum has lately been enriched by what is said to be the largest modern group of sculpture known. It is a "Prometheus" group, modeled out of one block of Carrara marble weighing three hundredweight, and has been executed by Professor GUSTAV MÜLLER, of Coburg, a sculptor long resident at Rome.

NEATLY, CHEAPLY, QUICKLY.

Grip Job Department.

Everything in the Printing line from a

Label to a Three-Sheet Poster,

WITH NEATNESS AND DESPATCH.

We are prepared to fill Orders by Mail for Visiting Cards (Finest Bristol, White or Tinted) immediately on receipt of letter, and forward by FIRST MAIL, at the following rates:

25 Cards, (one name, one style type),	30 cents.
50 " " " " " "	50 "
100 " " " " " "	75 "

The following are Samples of Type from which a choice may be made.

1

Robert Taylor.

2

William Richardson.

3

Miss Maggie Thompson.

4

George Augustus Williams.

5

Mrs. Thomas Jones.

6

William Arthur Crawford.

7

Miss Susie Wade.

8

Byron W. Scott.

9

William Shakespeare.

Copperplate Printing.

Engraving Copper-plate	$ 2.00
Printing 100 Gents' Cards	1.00
" 100 Ladies' "	1.50

Birch Bark—Latest Novelty.

25 Cards	$ 0.75
----------------	---------

Chromo Cards:

(Five Beautiful Pictures)

100 Cards, (one name, one style type)	$1.50.
50 " " " " " "	1.00.
25 " " " " " "	75.

Mourning Cards:

25 Cards, (one name one style type),	50 cents.
50 " " " " " "	75 "
100 " " " " " "	$1.25 "

Memorial Cards

Beautiful Designs, $ 1.00 per dozen.
 Samples by mail, 5c. each.
 Write your Name and the Number of the Letter you desire plainly, to prevent mistakes.
 Printing addresses on Cards, 10 cents extra for each Order.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

Imperial Buildings, (Next Post Office), Toronto.

Stage Whispers.

A local juvenile comic opera troupe gave performances of Pinafore at St. Andrew's Hall this week.

Mr. J. C. CONNER has resigned the business management of the Royal Opera House of this city. He will be succeeded by Mr. LUCIEN BARNES, late of BARNES' Revellers.

REMEYNI, the violinist, was greeted by a large audience who enjoyed his performance beyond all expression. It is not likely that the negotiations with JOSEFFY will eventuate in the appearance of that wonderful artist before the Toronto public.

The "Commercial Travellers" is a new organization on the plan of the "Tourists." M. V. LANGHAM is to be the leading man, and the company includes WM. DAVIDGE, Jr., CORA DANIELS, and others. The first date is set for Wilmington, Del., Jan. 19.

Mme. NILSSON's debut at Madrid in "Faust," on Dec. 4, was one of the greatest triumphs of her career. After the garden scene she was re-called three times, also at the end of each following act, their Majesties joining in the applause, which at certain moments was almost frantic.

MINNIE PALMER with her comedy company occupies the stage of the Royal at present. The piece, which is called The Boarding School, abounds in humor and music and proves a good attraction. Mr. WM. J. SCANLON the well known Irish comedian plays the leading male part.

Queen VICTORIA is very fond of the drama, and Mrs. DAVENPORT says the profession is indebted to her for a valuable idea—that of turning the lights of the audience down during the acts, and up between them. The advantage was so obvious, and royalty having suggested it, it at once became the rule.

As an evangelist DAN RICE shows the same appreciation of the value of advertising that he did when he led a circus-van. On his letter headings is a circus clown gaudily pictured on a skeleton horse, with these words in red, "DAN RICE's New Departure—A Jump from the Ring to the Rostrum."

JOHN E. McDONOUGH, the veteran actor, has been interviewed by a Pittsburgh paper. He claims to have brought LOTTA out in 1858, finding her in a third story room of a San Francisco boarding house picking a banjo. He says that she had previously attempted to play in New York, but failed, and he started her on the road to success.

After JOHN E. OWENS, the comedian, had retired to his chamber in the Palace Hotel, in San Francisco, the other night, he caught the sound of something crinolined in the hall, and heard a gentle tap on the door of his room. He opened the door. He shut it again. For on the mat outside lay a pretty baby boy, who was crowing lustily. Pinned to the baby's clothing was the following note: "My Dear Sir:—I have seen your performance of Higgins in 'Dr. Clyde,' and consider it one of the finest impersonations I ever witnessed. The only way in which I can evince my gratitude to you is by offering you one of the loveliest infants I could select from the orphan asylum. Take it and cherish it, and God bless you and prosper you.—AN UNKNOWN ADMIRER." Mr. OWENS struggled with conflicting purposes for a few moments, and then summoning all his friends that could be found, solemnly announced that baby's adoption as "JOHN E. OWENS, Jr."

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

By BENGOUGH Bro's, Proprietors. Office:—Imperial Buildings, next to the Post Office, Adelaide Street, Toronto. GEO. BENGOUGH, Business Manager.

SUBSCRIPTION TERMS:—Two dollars per year, payable in advance. Subscriptions and advertisements are received at the office, or by WM. R. BURRAGE, General Subscription and Advertising Agent, 26 Adelaide Street East, Toronto.

Original contributions paid for. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned. Literary and Business communications to be addressed to BENGOUGH Bro's.

EDITED AND ILLUSTRATED BY J. W. BENGOUGH.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

Vers de Societe.

I.—THE ANTIQUATED BEAU.

Well JACK, I saw you looking tender
Last night, at slim and pallid JANE,
And with strange envy knew the splendor
Of youth and hope, in a sudden pain.
Queer that till forty I have heeded
So lightly how the seasons go,
That sight of your young love was needed
To make me feel an antiquated beau.

Your thrills translated me to twenty;—
The lights burned dimmer in the room;
Long faded roses grew in plenty,
I felt their fragrance, saw their bloom;
And NELLY—little jilt!—stood smiling,
A rose herself! how long ago!
That now I'm dead to such beguiling,
Proves me an antiquated beau.

Then LILY with her golden tresses,
And eyes of most perplexing blue;
And MABEL—guide to wildernesses
Of fancy, sweet to wander through;
SYBIL with wooing looks—how many
Came back one moment to bestow
Their smiles, more lovely far than any
That greet an antiquated beau.

Fair visions all, balmoral skirted,
Enclosed in magic ring of hoops,
They moved—the girls with whom we flirted,
Their garments hanging down from loops—
Some serious move of JANE here rustles
Her silken folds—I wake, and lo!
A world of girls sheathed close; no bustles;
And I an antiquated beau!

You standing there, a revelation—
The first—of youth no longer mine;
JANE straightly clad in imitation
Of narrow night-gowned saints divine;
Plumpness long vanished out of fashion,
Belles striving all their bones to show,
Æsthetic furniture a passion,
And I an antiquated beau!

JACK reach me down—I want her nearer—
That pictured girl in crino ine,—
Had she been true and held me dearer,
How different my fate had been!
Young voices might proclaim me father,
And little footsteps come and go—
Well, had it been, perhaps I'd rather Envy the antiquated beau!

BOZENI.

National Poetry.

"Does Canada furnish Material for National Poetry?" This question was debated at a public meeting of the University Literary and Scientific Society last Friday night, and the public will no doubt be astonished and disgusted to learn that Prof. WILSON, who acted as chairman, gave his decision in the negative. The blame, however, must be altogether charged upon the young men who undertook to uphold the affirmative, for it is presumed the chairman decided strictly in accordance with the evidence. Now, what kind of arguers can those young collegians have been to allow such a question to be answered in the negative? Question? Why, there's no question about it, Canada furnishes more material for national poetry than could be hauled in one of the Grand Trunk drays. Look at the array of national poets Canada has, whose prolific muses feed on home made material exclusively. Where does our poet PLUMB gather his inspiration, for example? Are not his beautiful and touching sonnets all made of Canadian material? What about the beaver, the maple leaf, the Thousand Islands, the Falls of Niagara, the magnificent water stretches, the great Lone Land, the forest primæval, the Pacific railway Charter, the salary grab, the Ottawa aristocracy—do not these and thousands of other native institutions that might be enumerated furnish unlimited material for poetry? What could those young men have been thinking of? They deserve to be punished severely—and no more fitting punishment could be devised than to compel them to read all the native poetry that has been written.

Something like Fables.

BY BEZONI.

THE UNSUSPICIOUS RAT.

A Rat was seated on a large wooden Wedge, engaged in devouring the only piece of pork in a barrel, when another, enviously watching, exclaimed, "Take care of the thin edge of the wedge." The alarmed rodent hastily jumped off his support which was immediately seized by the other, who in comfort devoured the coveted morsel, while the dispossessed animal was drowned in the brine.

Moral: It is a great art in politics to do the wrong thing at the right season.

THE SAVAGE AND HIS DOGS.

A Grand Old Reforming Savage, who possessed a fine Bull-terrier and a large Newfoundland, each remarkable for his strength of jaw, attacked a neighboring Robber in his Castle, and with the aid of his Dogs, secured much Spoil. Putting the Terrier in charge, with the Newfoundland as assistant, the Grand Old R. S. went fast asleep with one eye open. The Routed Foe took up a new position and by persistently yelling "Yah!" so much discomposed the mortified Newfoundland's nerves that he said he would go to Europe to recuperate his health. Taking advantage of his absence the enemy forced the Bull-terrier and his Master to leave the spoil, which they did with many protestations that the country was lost to a Nasty Plunderer. On the Newfoundland's return with his poor Nerves in good order he offered to lead a new attack, but the Bull-terrier refused to follow, and the Grand Old Savage indignantly stood on his head. Thus the enemy was left in possession of the Coveted Spoil which he profusely distributed to a pack of Jackals sworn to defend him.

Moral: When honest men fall out thieves come by their own.

THE STUDIOUS DONKEY.

A Studios Donkey discovered a plan for getting oats at the Public Crib, and communicated it to a wily old Roadster. The latter at once put it into practice, and while munching away with great pleasure, in company with so many of his comrades that the Studios Donkey was excluded from the crib, turned to the latter and thanked him with much effusion. "Keep your thanks," said the Studios Donkey, "and let me get my head into the crib." Whereupon the horses only laughed, and the impatient Donkey, too hungry to wait until a place was made for him, went off in search of a party from whom he might get gratitude for future favors.

Moral: Better wait the convenience of one's obliged friends than seek the sympathy of a heartless world.

THE INSECT, THE BULL AND THE BEAVER.

A British Insect, mounted on the top of a lofty Canadian Maple, saw an Industrious Beaver pass below, and began to revile him as a vile, National Native. The Beaver merely stopped to reply, "Coward! it is not I you revile, but the place on which I stand." After saying this he met a herd of British Bulls, to whom he told the adventure. The Bulls immediately accused him of high treason, whereupon the National Beaver stood on his tail and made a low obeisance, humbly protesting his loyalty to any country but his own.

Moral: The sentiments that may be safely uttered in private should not be told to the herd.
(Ask Mr. MACMASTER, if you don't believe it.)

THE BEAVERS AND THE BULL.

As some Beavers were constructing a dam to keep out the flood from their meadow, a Bull, who intended to hold possession of it when the work was done, set up a tremendous bellowing because a Hunter looked on their work. "He will annex the meadow and injure us all," roared the Bull, while the Beavers fearing to lose their skins silently plunged into their houses.

Moral: Those in dread of the worst injuries don't always make the loudest noise.

THE ORACLE.

In days of yore a mighty Mumbling was heard from the shrine of an Oracle, and Multitudes stood for years in expectation of some wonderful Utterance. At last, as rosy-fingered Aurora touched the world, the voice became distinct, and people were told that their salvation depended on initiating a scheme for compulsory minoritics.

Moral: Some mountains don't even bring forth a mouse.

THE PHILOSOPHER AND THE SHEEP.

Some sheep in which two parties had a joint ownership, were accustomed to be fleeced by their proprietors during alternating periods. A Philosopher from Oxford passing by noticed that they had recently been sheared by one party, and was informed that they would be sheared by the other in the following year. "Rebel against both," he shouted in a fit of moral indignation, "and follow me." "No," answered the sheep, "these men fleece us with decency and skill and we know not what might happen if we passed into new hands. Our Shepherds are sure to want wool wherever we go." "Brutes, deserving of your fate," answered the angry Philosopher, "I will inform the Eagle of your whereabouts."

Moral: Better put up with the ills we can endure than follow advice that we can't.

"Soapy Sam."

From the Globe we clip the following little story, taking the liberty to embellish the same with an illustration, as above:

Of the late Bishop WILBERFORCE this story is told:—On one occasion, while staying in a country house not many miles from Windsor, the daughter of his host, a little girl of seven, suddenly broke out before all the assembled company, "I want to ask you a question, my lord; will you answer me very, very truly?" The Bishop smiled, took the child on his knee, and said:—"Of course I will, my little dear. What is it?" The child looked gravely up at him and let fall the following terrible question:—"Why does everyone call you 'Soapy Sam'?" You can easily imagine the feelings of the company; but the Bishop was quite equal to the occasion, and after having cast a half-mocking and cynical glance round the room, replied simply:—"I will tell you my darling. People call me 'Soapy Sam' because, whenever I get into hot water, I always come out with my hands clean."

The Sentiments of Pidgers.

"Shoot them!—dead, Sir!—dead as door-nails! of course I would," said PIDGERS, and he looked as ferocious as a canary bird at the man who doubted whether Canada-First men were guilty of high treason. "We hold this country for England, Sir. By the strong arm we won it—I heard my father say so. Who cares for national interests?—except England's. Why care for Independence? Where's the reason?" And the rash Canadian saw that there must be deuced little reason in a country where fellows like PIDGERS give a "tone" to public and private life.

The Local Lads.

Mr. GRIP—Well, Master MOWAT, and what are you doing just now?

Master MOWAT—Nothing, sir.

Mr. GRIP—And you, Master MEREDITH?

Master MEREDITH—Please, sir, I'm helping OLIVER.

Jenkins' Disappointment.

He thirsted for oratorical fame, and knew the weakness of his nerves. But at the dinner of last week he was determined to speak to the toast of "the ladies." Three long hours for three evenings were devoted to the preparation of his speech. Three more evenings saw him committing the effort to memory, and a fourth heard him delivering it to his sisters amid the wildest applause. How witty and brilliant it was the world will never know, because after drinking himself up to the state of sublime courage he was not called on to reply. Another fellow spoke on the subject so dear to the heart of JENKINS, who will never have a chance again to deliver himself because he is to be married in a fortnight. Wildly the Sauterne flowed through his maddened brain, and he wept tears in the gray morning.

St. John's Ward and Her Pet Alderman.

The city still remains in suspense as to whether or not the Council is to have the services of Mr. PIPER. If the question might be decided according to the generous impulse of the genius of the Noble Ward, there wouldn't be a moment's delay,—a tumultuous cry would at once ascend from a thousand throats—"Gib us HARRY or gib us death!" But, alas, it is the stern law that must pronounce upon the matter; Law, that does not take into consideration the moral affinities which may make an alderman dear to his constituency, nor the sentiments of love which may bind their hearts together. It is of no avail therefore for the Noble Ward to clasp HARRY to her bosom and declare that nothing shall part them; Justice, unmindful of her sobs and tears, will simply enquire whether or not he got his election by crooked means, and in accordance with the evidence the decision shall be rendered.

Improbabilities.

That the Revd. Dr. PORTS will ever appear as Dick Deadeye in Pinafore.

That Mr. FRAZER will get Archbishop LYNCH's permission to allow Mr. MOWAT to deal with the question of tax exemptions.

That Conservatives will ever see that a fly-on-the-wheel Ministry is less injurious than a drag-on-the-wheel Cabinet.

That the creditors of the United Evaders Club will long be content to permit the Committee to be "at home" to everyone but themselves.

That Canadians will view with pleasure the projected "court" at Ottawa.

That the Tomnoddies will understand till too late that Canadian institutions are not republican only because they are democratic.

Boyle vs. the Globe.

Brother BOYLE, having trailed his journalistic coat-tail on the ground, the great Globe man trod upon it,—and then Brother BOYLE demanded ten thousand dollars damages. He didn't get it, however; in fact such damages as resulted from the suit affected the plaintiff himself more than the defendant. There is a great lesson to be learned from this, namely, that it does not pay as a general rule to sue the Globe for libel, for that paper has an awkward habit of usually being in the right as to matters of fact. The revelations of contractual crookedness brought out during this trial must be extremely edifying to the public in general, and the ministry in particular. If this sort of thing is done with the knowledge and consent of ministers, it is surely temperate to say that the country is at present in the hands of a bad gang.

The following extraordinary announcement is made in the Seaside Library: "Who Breaks Pays"—Mrs. JENKINS. We presume the lady keeps a boarding house and that the notice refers to refractory boarders.

One for Vennor.

The Thermometer to the Prophetic VENNOR—Now, my boy, don't let there be any hard feeling between us. We haven't agreed very well for some time back, but it wasn't my fault, you know. Perhaps, if you would attend to your own affairs, and not concern yourself with my future movements, we would get along better, hey?

AN ADAPTATION AFTER KELLY, IN HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE.

THE TOURNAMENT.

THE JOKER CLUB.

"The Pen is mightier than the Sword."

A cigar for a penny is quite enough for a scent.—Waterloo Observer.

When a man proposes he makes his maiden effort.—Phila. Item.

The man doth illy choose who chews tobacco.—Marathon Independent.

If wishes were fishes what a whaling time we would have.—McGregor News.

A young man should always question the pop before he pops the question.—McKean Co. Miner.

No kissing by telephone for us. We prefer to take the electricity direct from the battery.—Whitehall Times.

The parlor sofa: The shorter it is the longer you like to sit on it, with good company.—New Haven Register.

A celebrated Chinese engineer has invented a new style of engine. We presume it must go.—Chicago Tribune.

We have heard of some people who say they could live on music. Then it must be on note meal.—Salem Sunbeam.

The mania continues. Years hence our children will speak with pride of their Pinaforefathers.—Bradford Era.

Lock your four-year-old boy up in a dark closet and you will have some idea of the force of compressed heir.—N. Y. People.

"Better is a dinner of herbs where love is," than a whole hoghead of church festival soup where oysters are not.—Whitehall Times.

Time is money, and leisure is 5 cents to the man who reads the morning paper in a news depot without paying for it.—Meriden Recorder.

COURTNEY promises to row HANLAN next April. Better make the race on the first, and then we'll know what to expect.—Waterloo Observer.

Did it never strike you as remarkable that amid all the fluctuations in prices of commodities, paper remains stationary.—New York People.

Don't use your breath in blowing forth scandal. It can be put to a better use—whistling "Pinafore," for instance.—Danielsonville Sentinel.

A physiognomist says that large ears denote generosity, which is probably the reason why a mule squanders his hind legs.—Herald P. I.

It frequently occurs that the men who gave their whole mind to the sermon don't give anything to the contribution box.—McGregor News.

There was PAGANINI the fiddleist, and here's CAMPANINI the tenor. Rather singular how many minnies get into the musical ranks.—Rockland Courier.

It is far easier to "raise the wind" for a church organ than to waft a denomination to financial prosperity on the breeze of promises unfulfilled.—Hackensack Republican.

Some of our exchanges are debating the question, "Is Life worth Living?" but we notice that they all give the affirmative side the benefit of all doubts.—Salem Sunbeam.

The youthful minor pants for twenty one,
The statesman pants for office and a haul,
The poet pants for an undying fame,
The tailor only 'tis who pants for all.
—Keokuk City Gate.

Ask your wife what kind of beef to get for mince meat and she will tell you the best. Ask the manufacturer of the prepared article, what kind he uses and he will tell you the neck's best.—Keokuk Gate City.

So many societies for the promotion of things are established, that JOHNNIE wants to know why somebody doesn't get up a society for the promotion of boys in schools, without making them study so.—N. Y. Mail.

The question is continually being asked, "What shall we do with our boys?" The people know what to do with their boys, but the trouble appears to be that the boys won't let them do it.—Danielsonville Sentinel.

When you see a fickle maiden,

Who is jesting all the while,

'Bout love affairs and flirting,

You may know that's jester style.

—Sandie Stone.

The average housewife will take more pains to carry a sickly fifteen-cent plant through four months of winter than she will to keep butter on the ice during three months of hot weather.—Detroit Free Press.

If you would show your new bought clothes, Built in the latest style,

The safest way to do the thing Is, when the choir stands up to sing,

Glide down the middle aisle.—Puck.

Yung Wing, the Chinese ambassador has had a son born to him. Paraphraser will be sportsmen enough to shoot this item on the Wing, and will please spare the Yung one.—Meriden Recorder.

In Japan they have iron coins worth about the one-hundredth part of a cent. If such a thing were known in this country, they would all find their way into the contribution box in about two Sundays.—Keokuk Gate City.

By a careful computation it is discovered that a child from five to seven years of age will assume three thousand seven hundred and sixty-one distinct and separate positions during an ordinary Sunday sermon.—Erratic Enrigue.

We had heard so much talk about this self-raising flour that we bought a barrel of it, the other day, and yet, when the bill came in, we had to go and raise the amount ourself. There are all kinds of swindles now-a-days.—Peck's Sun.

"My, my," said an old lady, "who can these Vassar girls be? I hardly pick up a paper that I don't see something about them. The Vassar family must be an awful big one, or what there is of 'em must be mighty smart."—Stubenville Herald.

An excellent chest-protector for a cold day, is a folded newspaper buttoned under the overcoat. But in case a paper is used on which the subscription is unpaid the party is liable to be frozen stiff in a very short time.—Rockland Courier.

Some of PAT's companions were joking him on an alleged breach of propriety. He stood the chafing a while, and then brought the session to an uproarious end by saying: "Bedad, you fellows who 'alk so much about the shortcomings of others should remember that people with glass eyes ought not to live in stone houses."—Rome Sentinel.

Says an exchange: "Happy is the man now whose chickens are laying eggs." We suppose then the ordinary chickens have been addicted lately to laying pipe stems, old shoes and rake-handles for a living. It is just like them.—Yonkers Gazette.

"Can alligators smile?" asked a studious subscriber. No, my son. The only living creature that can smile with any kind of success, is the politician. And his smile is as rare as it is sweet, and like an eclipse, we only see it semi occasionally.—Oswego Record.

"Are the girls of to-day fitted for wives?" asks an exchange. They may be up your way, sir; but down here they are better fitted for husbands.—Waterloo Observer. Up here they are oftener fitted for men's dresses, and you should hear their "pa's" howl when the bills come in.

A dispatch from Fargo, Dakota, during the cold weather, stated that the thermometer was forty-six degrees below zero. They ought to have dug down in the ground so as to give the thermometer a chance. No thermometer can do anything if it is cramped for space.—Peck's Sun.

The winter holidays are fairly over. The children are twisting themselves all out of shape on hard school-room benches, and the mothers of the land, bless 'em, where would we have been without 'em, calmly sit down in the forenoon and wonder where all the noise is gone to.—New Haven Register.

The Pope's new journal Aurora, already has five thousand subscribers, so the publishers will not be obliged to solicit wood and pumpkins in exchange for subscriptions. Although his paper is only a week old, he has received several communications signed "An Old Subscriber."—Norristown Herald.

There are some women so afraid of missing a particle of gossip concerning their neighbors that they haven't time to attend to their domestic affairs. These are the wives who make home so pleasant that their husbands spend their evenings in more congenial company.—Cincinnati Saturday Night.

A famous teetotaler in England has inherited the finest lot of old wines in existence "to be applied to scientific purposes." He is puzzled to know what scientific purposes they can be applied to, but a good thing would be probably to use them in passing railroad and insurance bills in the legislature.—Albany Times.

Somebody asked a great German chemist, "What is man?" "A pinch of phosphorus and a bucketful of water," he replied. He referred to a temperance man, of course—or else an editor. He couldn't find a bucket full of water in one of those fellows who spend from five to fifteen dollars a week in coloring their noses.—Ez.

An exchange undertakes to tell how far bells may be heard. Careful observation convinces us that it depends altogether on circumstances. A school boy bell may not be heard by a boy in the next lot, while the faintest sound of a dinner bell will be readily caught by a man who is digging potatoes in an adjoining township.—Keokuk Gate City.

A bank cashier has come to be a very important personage in this country. Whenever he takes a trip to Canada or Europe for his health, the fact is telegraphed all over the land. Now, a country editor could go off and stay 150 years, and nobody would get excited about it but his washwoman and the man he owed for a pair of suspenders.—W. Scott Way.

Pessimism.

They were enjoying æsthetic tea, and the hostess said, "Now, you who read all that sort of thing, Mr. FITZBOODLE, do tell me exactly what Pessimism is. I have an idea of it, you know, of course but I should like to have it clearly defined."

"Very glad to hear you say so. It's a habit of my own mind, and most important, I do assure you, most interesting. Yes, a definition is a valuable and important thing. Makes it all so much clearer, you know, opens up a regular vista of—that is, ah—opens up a regular vista, as one might say," Mr. FITZBOODLE replied. "And as to this new application of the word Pessimism, you know, they're using it in quite a different sense in these days. MALLOCK and SPENCER, and the other Agnostics have—ah—differentiated it, to adopt the modern term. Used to be something in the prayer-book, you know. Can't exactly turn up the passage, but such is my impression. In fact, I think I am quite right about it. But the prayer-book is, now-a-days, you know—well, our advanced thinkers, the Agnostics, you know, have rather set aside the prayer-book, and that sort of thing, and Pessimism has gone with the rest. That is, it is used, you know, but in a different sense. Do I make myself clear? Oh, I read all these books, you know, MALLOCK, SPENCER, and the rest, and I should say that Pessimism, as used at present, is a kind of feeling that everything is worse than anything else—though also better as it were. Yes, thank you, I will trouble you for another cup."

Are We the Shuttlescocks of Fate?

A CONUNDRUM ANSWERED IN FIVE CHAPTERS.

BY STUBBS.

I.

She was seventeen, fresh from college, and fair and gentle as a spring lamb. She read OUIDA's novels. She longed for her affinity. She didn't do plain sewing to any extent.

His was a mind and a moustache of no common order. He felt the fire of a poetic genius burning within him, and determined at no distant day to surprise the world with something grand. At present, however, he contented himself with writing poetry for the Telegram, and nursing his moustache.

He lived with his mother.

They met by chance. It is needless to say that they loved. Any fool knows that. We shouldn't have been writing about them else.

II.

In the seclusion of her boudoir she murmured, "Did I not feel that subtle, sympathetic thrill, that magnetic oscillation of the inmost nerve-centre, which is vouchsafed alone to those who truly love? Alas, cruel Fate, that we are strangers, whom thou hast so plainly marked for each other!" She sighed therefore. Both of them languished in misery, and implored their stars to grant them acquaintance.

III.

The stars took the matter into consideration, after the manner of Mr. MOWAT, and concluded to grant the petition of the lovers. They met again—this time after the formal fashion of society. What bliss, what rapture was theirs? Two harmonized, intellectual organisms that contained but a single sentiment; two unified seats of vitality whose blended throbbings were as one.

IV.

Nothing now was wanting to consummate their happiness but the consent of the stern

BENGOUGH BROS.Book and Job*PRINTERS

Are prepared to execute every description of

Plain and Fancy Printing

WITH

NEATNESS,CHEAPNESS,

AND

DESPATCH.

OUR mechanical department being under the superintendence of an experienced and skillful foreman, we can guarantee satisfaction to all who favor us with their patronage.

(OFFICE—

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS, ADELAIDE ST.

(NEXT THE POST OFFICE),

WORKS—

55 FRONT STREET EAST.FORSALE.

A DESIRABLE DWELLING HOUSE, No. 2 Smith's Terrace, Seaton Street. The house (which is comparatively new) contains ten rooms, tastefully painted and papered, and is in excellent condition throughout. Hard and soft water on the premises; also a work shop suitable for a carpenter or painter. Will be sold on easy terms, or would be leased for a term of years at a liberal rate to a suitable tenant. For particulars apply at GRIP Office, Adelaide Street.

BALDNESS!

Neither gasoline, vasoline, carboline, or Allen's, Ayer's or Hall's hair restorers have produced luxuriant hair on bald heads. That great discovery is due to Mr. Wintercorbyn, 144 King-street, West, opposite Revere Block, as can be testified to by hundreds of living witnesses in this city and Province. He challenges all the so-called restorers to produce a like result.

Send for circulars.

xii-12-17

parent of the adored one. The s. p.'s opening interrogatory to him was "What are your means?" The young man hastened to explain that as he was at present living on love, he hadn't thought it necessary to provide himself with any, but that he hoped—the remainder of his hope was uttered to the moaning night wind alone, for the iron of the old man's sole had entered him. Yet, as he mournfully departed, he comforted himself with repeating the assurance of his darling that she would never cease to fondly, madly love him until the moment of her final molecular dissipation.

V.

A few years have passed away, and the personages of our story have not unnaturally become older. We wish we could record the triumph of love, but an inherent reverence for facts constrains us to be veracious. The divine one has become stout, and was peacefully married not long ago to a widower with four children. Strange to say, the memories of her bygone love don't seem to trouble her much. They don't ever come to her in the dread unhappy night, and when the rain is on the roof, and torture her soul with overpowering remorse. She gets stouter all the time, and the way that widower has to stand from under is systematic and thorough.

We regret to say, too, that the young man has, to appearances at least, pretty well laid the ghost of his former affection. He is now the enterprising proprietor of a steam laundry, and fully convinced that the prosperity of this country depends upon making the Chinese go.

We are.

Judgment Deferred.

GLADSTONE holds the opinion that young men born to a competence belong to the dangerous classes. So the Saturday Review says.

In what class would he include the young men born to an incompetence? Till Piddgers of the Standard Bank, Flobbets of the civil service, and Doobil of nothing in particular, know his answer to that question they hardly know what to think of GLADSTONE.

We respectfully direct the attention of the U. E. Club to the Ottawa Citizen, which has recently indulged in open treason to the Conservative Party by referring in a sneering tone to Lord BEACONFIELD's spirited foreign policy. The offence consisted in putting the word "spirited" in inverted commas. This sort of thing cannot be allowed to go unchecked if the Conservatives of Canada wish to retain their connection with the grand imperial Party of Jingoism.

A democratic paper like the London Advertiser should never attempt anything in the Court JENKINS way. In its columns the other day there appeared a long piece about the Vice-Regal household arrangements, in which reference was made to "Prince LOUISE" and "Princess ALBERT VICTOR." When an editor is so far gone on monarchy as this indicates, he ought to confine himself to discussions of the N. P.

Young men who may have occasion to decline proposals of marriage during 1880, should commit to memory SAMUEL J. TILDEN's response to a reporter, when that venerable bachelor was asked something he did not care to make direct reply to, "I would prefer that it be considered that you had not asked the question."—Fond du Lac Reporter.

THE ASTOUNDING BROOD.

"Two minds with but a single thought,
Two hearts that beat as one."

J. BRUCE & Co.,
118 KING STREET WEST.
xii-22-17.

TO PHONOGRAPHERS!

REVISED PRICE-LIST OF ISAAC PIT-
MAN'S PUBLICATIONS.

Compend of Phonography	5 cts
Exercises in Phonography,	5
Grammologies and Contractions,	15
Questions on Manual,	20
Selections in Reporting Style,	20
Teacher,	20
Key to Teacher,	20
Reader,	20
Manual,	50
Reporter,	75
Reporting Exercises,	20
Phrase Book,	35
Railway Phrase Book,	25
Covers for holding Note Book,	20
The Reporter's Guide, by Thos. Allan Reid	60
Self-culture, corresponding style,	75
The Book of Psalms, corresponding style,	35
The Book of Psalms, cloth	75
Common Prayer morocco, with gilt edges	$2.50
The Other Life, cloth	50
New Testament, reporting style,	$2.50
Phonographic Dictionary,	1.50
Pilgrims Progress, corresponding style,	55
Pilgrims Progress, cloth	90
Æsop's Fables, in Learner's Style	20
Ten Pounds and Other Tales, cor. style	20
That Which Money cannot Buy, etc. cor. style	20
Being and Seeming, My Donkey, & Parish Clerk's Tale, etc. cor. style	20
Character of Washington, Speech of George Canning at Plymouth, etc., with print & key, rep. style	20
Address of the Earl of Derby, on being installed Lord Rector of the University of Edinburgh, etc., rep. style	20

Sent post-paid to any address on receipt of price.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

Next Post Office, Toronto.

A Queer Brood.

The following paragraph is at present going the rounds:

A lady residing at Cow Island, Louisiana, and wishing to "set" a hen, went into a field adjoining her residence where some of her chickens had been "laying," and produced some seventeen eggs and placed under the hen. When in the course of "human events" the chickens were hatched, lo, and behold, there came forth four small sized alligators. It is supposed that alligators from an adjoining marsh had deposited their eggs in the field, and she not knowing the difference placed them under the hen. And what is more strange, the young alligators follow the mother hen around the premises as happy as a Colorado beetle in a potato patch.

If there are any who feel inclined to doubt the literal truthfulness of this story (though there is nothing scientifically improbable about it)—let them consider it as a political parable, and take the above sketch as an interpretation thereof.

Rural Rhymes.

NO 5.—"OUT ON THE FARM."

I once loved a sweet rural beauty who had
The rosiest cheeks you could see,—
The only girl of a wealthy old dad,
And I thought she was spooney on me.
Some three times a week I was sure to be there,
Never caring for sunshine or storm,
To coddle the old man, and whisper soft words
To my fair maiden out on the farm.

I know the old chap had sufficient of stamps
To make us both jolly for life,
And I said to myself, she's the girl for me,
And determined to make her my wife;
And I never went there but she met me with smiles,
And a welcome so loving and warm,
So I reckon'd myself just in clover knee-deep,
With my rural maid out on the farm.

Now often we roam'd near the old orchard gate,
While she pointed out to my view
The trees, where in Autumn the turnips hung,
And the bush where the pop-corn grew;
And she shew'd me her favorite cow, which she said
Gave the butter milk luscious and warm,
And I took it all in, for I firmly believed
In my sweet maiden out on the farm.

But now I know better, and see I've been fool'd,
By this maiden so knowing and sly,—
She had made up her mind that the old man's cash,
Was all that I had in my eye.
But the worst of it is, my companions all know,
And I shun them with dread and alarm,
For fear they should ask when the wedding's to be
With the rural maid out on the farm.

"All the world's a stage," and many men and women are satisfied to steal a ride behind.—N. Y. Express.

S. R. QUIGLEY,
ENGRAVER & JEWELLER,
MASONIC & SOCIETY REGALIA, EMBLEMS, &c.
71-2 ADELAIDE ST. EAST, TORONTO. xiii-4-17

HEWITT FVSH,
Manufacturer of all kinds of
CHOICE CAKES AND CONFECTIONERY,
222 YONGE STREET.
Wedding cakes a specialty. xiv-3-127

SALMON ANGLING.

DEPARTMENT OF MARINE & FISHERIES,
FISHERIES BRANCH,
OTTAWA, 31st Dec., 1879

WRITTEN OFFERS will be received to 1st April next, for the ANGLING PRIVILEGES of the following rivers:

River Kegashka (North Shore).
" Washeeshoo do
" Washecootai do
" Romaine do
" Musquar do
" Pashasheeb do
" Corneille do
" Agwanus do
" Magpie do
" Trout do
" St. Marguerite do
" Pentecost do
" Mistassini do
" Beesie do
" Little Cascapedia (Baie des Chaleurs).
" Nouvelle do
" Escumenc do
" Malbaie (near Percé).
" Magdalen (South Shore).
" Montlouis do
" Tobique (New Brunswick).
" Nashwaak do
" Jacquet do
" Charlo do
" Jupiter (Anticosti Island).
" Salmon do

Rent per annum to be stated: payable in advance
Leases to run for from one to five years.
Lessées to employ guardians at private cost.

By Order,

W. F. WHITCHER,
Commissioner of Fisheries.

xiv-8-47.

Try the - ALBERT COFFEE ROOMS for DINNER.
Best Brands of OYSTERS Always on hand.
Prices, with Tea, Coffee or Cocoa
11 ALBERT STREET, TORONTO.

6 Tickets for $1.00
Raw 25c., Stewed, 25c., Fried, 30c.
xiv-8-10-137.

PUBLISHERS' NOTE.

Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.

Subscription price, $2 per annum, strictly in advance. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied BENGOUGH BROS.

USE ONLY

ONTARIO
Baking Powder.

Ask your Grocer for it.

MANUFACTORY:

247 King Street West,
TORONTO.

xii-20-17

MACHINERY HALL
55 Front St. East.

SECOND-HAND
MACHINERY
FOR SALE:

- 1 Sticker.
- 1 Sewing Machine Lathes.
- 1 Milling Machine.
- 1 3 h. p. Water Engine and Boiler.
- 1 3 h. p. Engine with 4 h. p. Boiler.
- 1 6 h. d. Engine with 7 h. p. Boiler.
- 1 30 h. p. Engine with 40 h. p. Boiler.
- 1 68 h. d. Engine with 2 Boilers 48 inch shell 22 feet long, 16 in. flues.
- 1 Boiler 44 inch shell at feet long 14 inch flues.
- 1 (Stearns) Circular Saw Mill.
- 1 (Stearns) Log Turner.
- 1 (Stearns) Double Edger.
- 1 Stock Gate with Crank Shaft, Crank Pulleys and Press Rollers.
- 1 Slabbing Gate with chain feed.
- 1 Counter Shaft (4 inch) 7 feet long with Pillar blocks, drums and pulleys.
- A lot of drums and pulleys suitable for a mill.
- 1 No. Gordon Press (new).
- 1 Power Motor, good as new.
- 1 Water Moulding Machine, Wooden Frame.

WE ARE AGENTS FOR
REID'S

Patent Seamless Water Trap,
The best, because the strongest Trap in the Market. We invite the inspection of Plumbers and Architects.

Wm. Dingman & Co.,
55 Front St. East.

Machinery taken on consignment and no charge for storage. We guarantee every Machine leaving our establishment in good working order.

CHEAP READING.

We will send to subscribers of "GRIP" any of the following magazines and papers for one year at prices annexed.

- Scribner, $4.50, Grip $2, both, $5.50.
- St. Nicholas, $3, Grip, $2, both $4.50.
- Harper's Magazine $5.50, Grip $2 both $6.50.
- Harper's Weekly $5, Grip $2, both $6.
- Harper's Bazar $5, Grip $2, both $6.
- Scientific American, $3.20, Grip, $2, both $4.75.
- Detroit Free Press, $2, Grip, $2, both $3.25.

BENGOUGH BROS.

$1500 TO $6000 A YEAR, or $5 to $20 a day in your own locality. No risk. Women do as well as men. Many make more than the amount stated above. No one can fail to make money fast. Any one can do the work. You can make from 50 cts. to $2 an hour by devoting your evenings and spare time to the business. It costs nothing to try the business. Nothing like it for money making ever offered before. Business pleasant and strictly honorable. Reader if you want to know all about the best paying business before the public, send us your address and we will send you full particulars and private terms free; samples worth $5 also free; you can then make up your mind for yourself. Address GEORGE STINSON & CO., Portland, Maine. xiii-10-17

NOW READY

GRIP'S COMIC ALMANAC!
FOR 1880.

(TRADE MARK REGISTERED)

TORONTO, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1880.

GRIP OFFICE, } The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; } 5 CTS. EACH.
IMPERIAL BUILDING. } The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool. } $2 PER ANNUM.

"CARICATURE."

A HUMOROUS ACCOUNT OF THE RISE AND PROGRESS OF CARICATURE AS AN ART.

"Mr. CHRIS. COLUMBUS."

A MOST AMUSING AND INSTRUCTIVE BURLESQUE DIGEST OF THE HISTORY OF CANADA, FROM EARLY TIMES UP TO THE PRESENT DAY.

NOTICE TO SOCIETIES, CLUBS, &c.—Mr. J. W. BENGOUGH may be engaged to deliver either of the above lectures, with Impromptu Crayon Illustrations, embracing Sketches of well-known Local Men; or to give his popular "CHALK CHAT" as a feature in an evening's programme. For terms, &c., address—

GEO. BENGOUGH, Business Manager, Grip Office.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach Grip office not later than Wednesday. Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, Grip Office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.

S. GOULDEN, JEWELLER,
4 King St. East, Diamond Mounter &c. Every description of Jewellery made to order. Fine rings a specialty. Repairing, Gems set, &c. xiv-3-17

$66 A WEEK in your own town, and no capital risked. You can give the business a trial without expense. The best opportunity ever offered for those willing to work. You should try nothing else until you see for yourself what you can do at the business we offer. No room to explain here. You can devote all your time or only your spare time to the business, and make great pay for every hour that you work. Women make as much as men. Send for special private terms and particulars, which we will mail free. $5 Outfit free. Don't complain of hard times while you have such a chance. Address H. HALLET & CO., Portland, Maine. xiii-10-17

BENGOUGH BROS.
Are prepared to execute orders for
ENGRAVING

in the highest style of the art.

Type Metal Plates

MADE FROM

Pen and Ink Sketches, Photographs, Lithographs, &c.,

More perfect, true and lasting than any wood engraving, and at a much lower cost. Call and see specimens at

GRIP OFFICE,

Next door to Post Office, Toronto.

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY. The tens of thousands who are making exclusive use of the COOK'S FRIEND Baking Powder, thereby rendering UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY to its superiority. Retailled everywhere. xii-12-17

SNOWFLAKE

If you want extra good bread, very white, light and flaky, and of good flavor, order the favorite "Snow Flake Rolls," made only at

CRUMPTON'S BAKERY,

171 KING ST. EAST.

2 for 13 cents, delivered daily

Readers of "GRIP"

Desiring anything in the Book or Music line, which they may not be able to procure at home, can have them forwarded, at once, if in the city, by addressing BENGOUGH BROS., next P.O., Toronto.

$300 A MONTH guaranteed. $12 a day made at home by the industrious. Capital not required; we will start you. Men, women, boys and girls make money faster at work for us than at anything else. The work is light and pleasant, and such as anyone can go right at. Those who are wise who see this notice will send us their addresses at once and see for themselves. Costly Outfit and terms free. Now is the time. Those already at work are laying up large sums of money. Address TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine. xiii-10-17

COAL AND WOOD, AND AT LOWEST PRICES, NAIRN'S. Office, Next Post Office. Docks, Foot of Church Street.

Literature and Art.

HERR WAGNER, who has been seriously ill with erysipelas, is now reported better.

Our gifted friend, GEORGE STEWART, JR., has been lecturing before the Literary and Historical Society of Quebec on "Alcott, the Concord Mystic." The theme was handled in such a manner as to delight the large and refined audience present on the occasion.

MENDELSSOHN's oratorio, "Elijah," was lately given at Sala Dante, Rome, by the Roman Philharmonic Academy. This was its first production in Rome, and it was listened to by a large and enthusiastic audience, among whom were many distinguished men.

The Glee Club of University College promises to do exceedingly well, and be very popular this year. At the regular practice on Monday last, some additions were made to the roll, and it is now expected that there will be about twenty-five active members. The four parts are well balanced with the exception of the first tenor, which is yet weak. The club will practice some choruses for the Company dinner at their next meeting, and will throughout the winter appear at the concerts mentioned below.

Mr. OLIVER JOHNSON's series of papers concerning WILLIAM LLOYD GARRISON and the early anti-slavery struggle have been collected and wrought into a volume entitled, "William Lloyd Garrison and His Times." Mr. JOHNSON's personal relations with Mr. GARRISON, and his own active connection with the anti-slavery struggle both in its early and in its later days, give him special ability to write the history of that struggle, and his present work will take its place at once among authoritative contributions to, a most interesting and an important part of American history.

A series of organ recitals by Mr. FISHER, the talented organist of St. Andrew's church, will be given in Convocation Hall, University College, this term, commencing on Saturday, February 13th. The College Council has generously granted the use of the hall for the purpose, and a fine Warren organ will be set up on the dais at once. It is Mr. FISHER's intention to give four recitals, on alternate Saturday afternoons, and the literary society will assume charge of the entertainment and will issue invitations. In the absence of conversazione these concerts will prove a means, which we are sure will be welcome to the students, for their entertaining and returning to some degree the kindness of their Toronto friends.

A remarkable discovery has been made by Mr. WILLIAM MORRIS, photographer, of Gourock, by which he can photograph underneath the water at a depth of ten fathoms. Two of the negatives he has secured are remarkably distinct, but the others are rather dim, owing to defects in the apparatus, but which he will have improved. The camera is enclosed in a water-tight glass case, suspended by the centre and inclosed in a cover, which is drawn off after the camera—which is fixed on a loaded tripod—has reached its position. One of the views, taken in the bay fifty yards west of the yacht Selene, shows a sandy bottom, with a number of large boulders covered with seaweed, and an old anchor; and in the shade three mooring cables belonging to a small yacht close at hand. When the weather calms down and the light becomes stronger he intends to carry out his investigations with improved apparatus, when he expects to achieve greater results.

TO SHIPPERS.

The Credit Valley Railway Comp'y

Are now prepared to give

Prompt Despatch to Goods from any Warehouse in the City to the following stations on their line:—

Lambton,	Drumbo,	Sligo,
Cooksville,	Blandford,	Church's Falls,
Streetsville,	Innerkip,	Alton,
Milton,	Woodstock,	Orangeville,
Campbells',	Beachville,	Erin,
Schaw,	Ingersoll,	Hillsburg,
Galt,	Meadowdale,	Garafraxa,
Ayr,	Brampton,	Fergus,
Wolverton,	Cheltenham,	Elora.

All rates include cartage in Toronto.

Office of the Company—No. 6 Wellington Street East.

General Offices—32 Front Street East.

G. LAIDLAW, President.

JAMES ROSS, Superintendent.

BENGOUGH BROS.

Book and Job

PRINTERS

Are prepared to execute every description of

Plain and Fancy Printing

WITH

NEATNESS,

CHEAPNESS,

AND

DESPATCH.

OUR mechanical department being under the superintendence of an experienced and skillful foreman, we can guarantee satisfaction to all who favor us with their patronage.

OFFICE—

IMPERIAL BUILDINGS, ADELAIDE ST.

(NEXT THE POST OFFICE),

WORKS—

55 FRONT STREET EAST.

Stage Whispers.

In February VERDI goes to Paris to direct the rehearsal of his opera of Aida.

A juvenile "Humpty Dumpty" troupe is the latest Bostonian contribution to dramatic combinations.

M. WIENIAWSKI is still suffering severely from asthma at Moscow, and his concert tour has been suspended.

Dr. VON BULOW gave a recital at the Gewandhaus Leipsic on January 4, after which he went direct to England.

Miss KELLOGG has been obliged to give up her Russian engagements on account of the illness of her mother, with whom she will spend the winter in Paris.

At the eleventh Gewandhaus concert, a new choral work, "The Divine Promise," by JADASSOHN, was produced. The piece is a lament of the Jews in their captivity.

With JOSEFFY's inflamed finger, SHERWOOD's sprained ankle, PERABO's rheumatic shoulder, PEASE's lame thumb and PETERSILEA's inflammatory rheumatism, the fates seem to be decidedly against pianists and lovers of their music.

PATTI carried the day at Berlin. The receipts were about $4000, of which over half was paid to the Diva and NICOLINI. The opera was "Traviata," and Prince CHARLES went behind the scenes to congratulate her in person.

Miss MARIE VAN ZANDT, daughter of Mrs. JENNIE VAN ZANDT, was announced to make her debut at the Opera Comique, Paris, on the 15th, in Mignon. This was, we believe, the first time that an American girl has appeared upon the stage of the Salle Favart.

It is reported that Miss MINNIE HAWK has signed a contract with the management of the English Opera at London for a series of three representations, in which she will create the roles of Mignon, Elsa and Aida in English, for which she will receive the sum of £1,000.

The Grand Opera House of this city is to be opened on the 9th inst, by Miss NEILSON, who will speak an opening ode, and afterwards appear in one of her splendid Shakespearean parts. The new theatre is declared to be in every respect superior to its ill-fated predecessor, which is saying a great deal. Mr. PITOU promises a succession of first-class entertainments.

Miss THURSBY is of a poor family, and her success has been wholly due to her extraordinary talent. She has served in several church choirs, the latest having been that of the Broadway Tabernacle, where her salary was $5,000. There is at the present time a great pressure to secure positions in church choirs, and it is probable New York contains sufficient talent to support a thousand first-class churches.

A European correspondent of the Occident says that Mr. FALCONER, who died last month, made one hundred thousand dollars by the Peep o' Day which ran two years at the Lyceum. Up to that time he had been a struggling, provincial actor, and by embarking his capital in redecorating and running Drury Lane with a piece called Bonny Dundee—an utter failure—he lost all. The correspondent adds that "Old Drury" effectually cleans out every manager who tackles her.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

By BENGOUGH Bro's, Proprietors. Office:—Imperial Buildings, next to the Post Office, Adelaide Street, Toronto. GEO. BENGOUGH, Business Manager.

SUBSCRIPTION TERMS:—Two dollars per year, payable in advance. Subscriptions and advertisements are received at the office, or by Wm. R. BURRAGE, General Subscription and Advertising Agent, 26 Adelaide Street East, Toronto.

EDITED AND ILLUSTRATED BY J. W. BENGOUGH.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

The Disappointed Speculator.

My friend, an energetic man,
Who knows his own Canadian nation,
And quickly seizes any plan
For gaining wealth by speculation,
The other day perused with care
The biggest of the morning papers,
Then suddenly rose from his chair
And cut a half-a-dozen capers.

He had engaged in former days
In many paying enterprises,
Knew every dodge the wind to raise,
And planned some very queer surprises;
But never, never had he seen
Till then, such chance of making money—
No wonder that his joy was keen,
And that his acts were rather funny.

His eye, in glancing down the sheet,
Stopped where a telegram made mention,
"The Princess had refused to eat,"—
"Was sea-sick coming out"—invention
At once thrilled through the reader's brain,
He longed to reach the good Sarmatian,
And rushed to take the early train,
With Portland as his destination.

Vain were the task to tell the fears,
The hopes, with which his heart was shaking
As on he sped—the hours seemed years
Till he should end his undertaking.
His object simply was to try
With every kind of artful slyness,
The china wash-basin to buy
Used by Her Seaside Royal Highness.

He saw a fortune in control
If once the steward made concession,
And placed that precious china bowl
Safely within his sole possession;
Not as a sacred relic he
Would keep it—no, his sole ambition
Was to exact a dollar fee
By placing it on exhibition.

Well did he know how crowds would pay
To see the bowl o'er which in sadness
A royal Princess spent the day
In anguish little short of madness.
Well did he know that loyal thrills
Would make all good Canadians eager
To see the relic of the ills
Which made Her Royal Highness meagre.

How vain are human hopes—the snow
Came down in heavy flakes, impeding
The progress of the train—and oh!
How for my friend my heart is bleeding:
He reached his journey's end too late,
Far was the steamer on the ocean,
The sacred basin gone; and Fate
Had mocked a loyal heart's devotion.

Dyspeptic Papers.

NO. VII.—GOOD FELLOWS.

"Dick swipes hard, owes everybody who has trusted him, and has the foulest mouth of any man in town, but he's a good fellow," said TONIC the other day.

"Is he kind to his wife?" I enquired.

"Well, he neglects the little woman a good deal, and cuts up pretty rough when he's corned, I'm afraid. But she's awfully fond of him—he's such a good fellow, you know."

"Are his parents still alive?" I asked.

"His father is—poor old boy. Rubs along somehow or other on a few dollars a year. Dick got into an infernal scrape about money and the old gentleman had to lay down his savings to help him out. Mother died about that time, heart-broken they say. Perhaps you remember how nice her rosy cheeks used to look under her white hair? No! I used to think she was good for a century. Queer how she snuffed out so suddenly. Dick hasn't got over it yet—cries about her often when he's in liquor. Such an awfully good fellow!"

"To whom?" I enquired.

"Well, to everybody. They say he will share his last dollar with a friend, when he is flush. Tells the best stories of any man I know. Always ready for fun. Never quarrels, can't be put out of temper. It does me good just to see him smiling away at all hours of the day and night. Other men get fagged out toward morning over a game of loo or draw-poker. Dick, generally a loser, keeps his cheerfulness till the last."

"Perhaps he is thinking of his wife sitting up for him," I suggested, "or the children going to bed with a prayer for 'dear papa,' and a regret that he couldn't possibly give them a romp that evening."

"Just as likely as not," said TONIC, "he's such a loving nature—always thinking fondly of somebody."

"Except his creditors," said I.

"No, I believe he forgives the beggars. Never says a harsh word about them. There was one brute who followed him everywhere—a carpenter, I think, that Dick got to put up a shed for him. The man dunned him on post cards; besieged him at the office; tried a garnishee, but Dick had got his pay every morning; brought him up on judgement summons. Dick never said a harsh word against him, even when the fellow accused him in public of murdering his wife, 'who had died for want of wine and chickens,' I think he said. Fancy, 'wine and chickens' for a carpenter's wife! No wonder the man was taken to the lunatic asylum. And after all Dick had suffered from him, he actually put his hand in his pocket and subscribed for the support of the children."

"He is a charming character, certainly," said I, and TONIC went away to chant elsewhere the praises of the remarkably good fellow.

Do we not all know at least one of these good fellows who are said to be "nobody's enemy but their own?" Men who indulge all their own appetites, sloth at work but active in seeking amusement, neglectful of every serious duty, good-hearted to those who treat them with the indulgence of indifference, and veritable destroyers of the beings who depend on them for love and sympathy? The poor soul, rendered morose by constant anxiety for the future of those who depend on him, is treated to few friendly handshakes. The earnest, austere young man endeavouring to aid his fallen fellow creatures is called a prig—and, by the way, he generally is a prig. The just business man is considered selfish. None of these are widely liked, but they all unite in liking the Good Fellow. Yet weld together the morose fellow, the austere prig, and the selfish man in one person and gift him with a thousand disagreeable qualities of temper, and it will be difficult to make such an utterly abominable wretch in effect as the Good Fellow, who is "nobody's enemy but his own." "Dyspepsia," you say, "afflicts me." True, and I feel almost thankful for the indigestion which, beginning with my early manhood, effectually saved me from the worse fate of becoming a Good Fellow, after the ideal of my friend TONIC.

"The Conceit of Toronto."

A writer in our spirited contemporary, the Montreal Spectator, occupies nearly a page of a recent issue in decanting on the Conceit of Toronto. According to this competent authority—for judging by the self-sufficiency which shines like burnished brass in every sentence, nobody could be more competent to deal with the subject of Conceit—Toronto is about the most intolerable place in the world. Boorish ignorance and ineffable vanity are the chief characteristics of its citizens. The critic looks at us from musical, artistic and literary points of view, and from each point he sees conceit—nothing but conceit. As to music, our organists are all pretentious amateurs; as to art, our painters are daubers without exception; as to literature, our poets are the most egregious twaddlers of doggrel. Now Mr. GRIP doesn't feel called upon to say that this description of Toronto is too severe—because it all depends. This writer may have been "glossily" offended by Toronto, for it is undeniable that Torontonians have an unpleasant way of snubbing certain officious and preposterous young fellows who come from the Old Country, and expect to be accepted as oracles amongst the "Colonists." But, as a matter of fact, Toronto is not distinguished for conceit more than Hamilton, London or Montreal. GRIP will frankly admit that Toronto is proud—with a most pardonable pride—of certain glorious institutions which she possesses. For example, she is proud of her Aldermen, on account of their ability and unswerving rectitude; of her School Board, on account of their ingenious devices for cramming the rising generation; of her Ward Politicians, on account of their disinterestedness and scholarly attainments; of her magnificent Church edifices, on account of their imposing debts; and of thousands of other things, but chiefly of her GRIP, or account of his unrivalled influence, always exerted in a good cause.

"Imitation the Sincerest Flattery."

GRIP is a Canadian and proud of his country. He has felt right along that Canada really played first violin in the Orchestra of the Nations. There is now no doubt that we take the leading part. Like all wise children we are teaching our mother, and she learns rapidly, for the following is from a reliable London (Eng.) newspaper:—"The office of Registrar-General has been given to a person who happens to be private secretary of one member of the Government, and brother-in-law, as we are told, of another, but who is perfectly innocent of all practical knowledge of the very peculiar skilled work of the office he has been pitchforked into. A valuable servant of long standing, &c., &c. has been passed over for this well connected private secretary with the silver spoon in his mouth."

The influence of precept and example, so beautifully combined in our Canadian leading statesmen, has told at last on the "old fogies" in the old foggy land. This is the "missing link," missed so long, which will bind our interests so thoroughly to sympathy with the Motherland that no Political Economy Society, though the Hon. GEORGE himself should lead it with his banner of "revenue tariff" stiffening to the breeze of Annexation and Independence, can ever disturb us more. Why sigh for "Independence," when our statesmen already set the fashion and lead the van of progress towards united "family compacts" in all lands. They don't print such words as "independence," "manliness," &c., or similar foolishness in modern English Dictionaries at all, because no meaning can possibly be attached to them.

Going to England.

Sir ALEX. GALT, to the Court of St. James, which is anxiously awaiting his advent as Canadian Ambassador.—“In the words of A. WARD, ‘I’m coming along—slowly along—down tords your place.’”

Advice to Tilley.

Oh, oh, Sir BUDGET TILLEY,
You are very, very silly
To be jibeing and a jeering UNCLE
SAM at such a rate—
You surely ought to know
That every time you crow,
You excite his wounded feelings
so that he'll retaliate!

Of course it may be right
For a brave Financial Knight
To recount his deeds of valour at a jolly banquet board—
But you ought to draw it mild,—
UNCLE SAM is getting riled,
And he'll hit you pretty hard if you once rouse him, take GRIP's word!

Jubilation!

The Globe came out of the BOYLE libel suit right side up, and there was rejoicing in the editorial room accordingly!

The Tale of the Clerk.

The clock struck four; but one hour more and then he would be free; up King to walk, with measured stalk, a certain one to see. As five rang out, with gleeful shout, each book away he put; swift combed his hair, then down the stair into the street did strut. His green eye beamed, his red nose gleamed, his longing heart beat high, as up and down the busy town the fair in droves passed by. Alas! no lass of his did pass, although the crowd grew thinner; so home he went, gave grief its vent, and—ate a hearty dinner.

Why is the Reform Party like a tape-worm? Because it is popularly supposed to have no head.

Perrault Annexed.

Mr. PERRAULT has brought out his much-talked-of organ, the Colonial Emancipator. It does not present a very creditable appearance typographically, but there can be no doubt as to its sentiments. It is crammed with annexationism of the most bare-faced type, with bold headlines of black-faced type, and it will not be for want of strong language on the part of its editor if we do not forthwith go over to the majority across the line. And yet the Emancipator falls flat; it lies upon the book-sellers' counters in the most pitiful neglect. This must be very discouraging to Mr. PERRAULT, but there is one resource which GRIP would affectionately point out to that unappreciated philanthropist—if Canada won't have Annexation, Mr. PERRAULT himself may. There is no law to compel a lover of Republicanism to live under the bondage of the monarchical system, and nobody would think of interfering if Mr. PERRAULT should allow himself to be literally carried away by American ideas, in the manner represented above.

A Very Unreasonable Boy.

This is our little boy TOMMY, aged seven. He is the most unreasonable child that ever lived.

It doesn't seem to do any good to scold him, coax him, or warm his jacket.

He is just as unreasonable in a warm jacket as in a cold one.

It is very singular, too, that his unreasonableness is only manifested in one particular direction.

He is fond of taffy; he enjoys trundling a hoop; he glories in snow-balling; he has an evident relish for his meals.

In all other respects he is a sane and sensible little fellow.

But he is most unaccountably queer on one point.

He don't like going to school!

No snail that SHAKESPEARE ever saw crept there so unwillingly.

We, his parents, have done our best to show him the absurdity of this repugnance. We have assured him time and again that this country has the finest school system in the world—that is, in the known world.

TOMMY replies that the known world must be hard up for school systems, then.

His chief objections to our admirable educational institutions, the Public Schools, seem to be:

1. The hours (from half-past nine, a. m., to four, p. m.) are outrageously long for youngsters like him, especially when the grown-up pupils of the High Schools get off at half-past three.

2. The atmosphere of the school room is insufferably bad, owing to the over-crowding of pupils.

3. The tasks imposed upon the children are absurdly heavy, and necessitate an altogether unreasonable amount of study.

4. The discipline in the schools is cruelly severe, resembling that of a reformatory prison more than anything else.

Now, of course, we, his parents, are aware that these charges are only too true, but what can we do about it?

We can't help but sympathise with poor little TOMMY, even though he is so unreasonable.

And, by the way, he quite repudiates this charge: he says it is the Board of Trustees we ought to talk to and not him.

Heraldry.

An exchange says:—

“G. R. Lambton, formerly of Montreal, has been appointed herald to Her Royal Highness the Princess Louise.”

“Ottawa King-at-Arms” will be his title, no doubt. It will probably be his duty to examine the numerous crests and other heraldic devices of which native notables now make such extraordinary use. The comparison of escutcheon with pedigrees will be exceedingly interesting.

"NEVER BEFORE WAS CANADA SO PROSPEROUS AS IT IS TO-DAY."

—SIR S. L. TILLEY at Sherbrooke.

THE JOKER CLUB.

"The Pun is mightier than the Sword."

Held for further hearing—The ear trumpet.—N. Y. News.

The New Orleans Picayune thinks that all dinners are remembered according to their deserts.

To win, a base-ball club must start well. It all depends on good big innings.—N. O. Picayune.

There is something saddening about a pair of scissors—alas! they meet but to sever.—Cleveland Voice.

Correspondent: "What is the Order of the Bath?" Go and soak your head.—Cincinnati Saturday Night.

The difference between COURTNEY and an oyster is that the former is not good in a half shell.—Rhinebeck Gazette.

But few men can handle a hot lamp chimney and say there is no place like home at the same time.—Oswego Times.

No matter how finely a dentist's parlor is furnished, no one cares to take a seat in his drawing room.—Lockport Union.

The amount of space occupied by a woman when she calls at the post office is simply remarkable.—Oil City Derrick.

The most "tony" thing in the kitchen is the rolling pin, because it rolls right over the upper crust.—American Punch.

For Sale: A full set of resolutions: new the first of the year, but considerably out of repair now.—Middleton Transcript.

Trying to get a bashful young lady at a party to give you a song is, in one respect, a please-sing matter.—Ottawa Republican.

The milk of human kindness wells up from the heart, but cow's milk comes from the udder place.—Syracuse Sunday Times.

Everything at Niagara Falls has been fenced in, with the exception of the roar of the falls and the hackmen.—New Orleans Picayune.

He said he was a banker, and when they went to see him they found him in a sand bank digging away like a good fellow.—Steubenville Herald.

Nothing looks more melancholy than the variegated quack medicine advertisement on the side of a maroon barn on a drizzly day.—New York Star.

As many women learn to know their husbands, they wish they had learned to "No" them when they were only sweethearts.—Steubenville Herald.

"A tail that is tolled," remarked the gate-keeper when he caught a horse by the conclusion while he made the rider pay the fare.—Steubenville Herald.

In some cities, where the blue ribbon does not prevail over-much, the other side of the soda fountain does the most business.—Quincy Modern Argo.

The man who had a boil on his right hip and was obliged to lie on his left side a couple of weeks realized that it is a long lain that has no turn.—Keokuk Gate City.

Student, fresh from college, to conductor: "I wish to get on the penultimate car." Conductor: "We have no peanut car; you can take the smoker."—Rochester Express.

"I never argy agin a success. When I see a rattlesnake's head sticking out of a hole, I bear off to the left and say to myself, that hole belongs to that snake."—Josh Billings.

Every time two women meet on the street and kiss, the thermometer sinks seventeen degrees and people hustle around and bank up their cellar windows.—Keokuk Gate City.

The average woman can lay her hands on about 1000 receipts for cookery, and the average family clings to the same dishes known for three generations past.—Detroit Free Press.

A commercial report says: "The fall of leather causes an uneasy feeling in hides." We have often remarked this in youth while laying across the maternal knee.—Modern Argo.

"My darling," said he, "what a delicious taste your lips have." Then she jumped up and yelled, "Goodness, JOHN, you haven't been eating my lip salve?"—Syracuse Sunday Times.

Reject not the trifles. One single tear seen gently flowing down a fond mother's cheek will often produce far deeper feelings than two-hundred admonitions.—Yonkers Gazette.

Mr. EDISON should hurry up his electric light. Thousands are anxiously waiting to see how the shining skull of a bald-headed man will glitter in the new illumination.—Philadelphia Chronicle.

The reason why the ancients took the owl for an emblem of wisdom was because he saved his talk and filled his stomach. Remember this when you are invited to a banquet.—Detroit Free Press.

They call it a romantic marriage in Michigan when a couple of the neighbors get the bride's father into a back room and sit on him to prevent his interrupting and breaking up the wedding.—Boston Post.

Let us then be up and clipping,

With an eye for every jest;

Still a-pasting, still a-snipping,

Fill our paper with the best.

—Toledo Blade.

"Hey, JIM, let's be oarsmen." "Oarsmen! Humph, you can't row." "Who said anything about rowing? Do HANLAN and COURTNEY row? And ain't they the greatest oarsmen in the country?"—Oil City Derrick.

Said one of society's smart ornaments to a lady friend: "This is leap year, I suppose you will be asking some one to marry you?" "Oh, no," was the reply, "My finances won't permit me to support a husband."—Oil City Derrick.

"What does 12mo mean?" asked a pupil of her teacher, a few days since. "12mo; why don't you know what that means? It means the same as d&weowly. Haven't you seen it in advertisements in a newspaper?"—Oswego Times.

Nothing makes a woman so mad as to go to a shoe store to buy a cheap pair of slippers for her husband and have a clerk try to sell her the identical pair she had just worked for a Christmas present to her minister.—Binghamton Republican.

"Thro' all these shining winter days, I cannot sing to you," writes FANNY DRISCOLL, the poetess. We are very sorry, FANNY. We had arranged for a vacation with the expectation that you would come and warble to us all winter.—Keokuk Gate City.

'What is your name?' asked a teacher of a boy. 'My name is JULE,' was the reply; whereupon the teacher impressively said: 'You should have said, JULIUS, sir.' And now, my lad,' turned to another boy, 'what is your name?' 'BILLIOUS sir.'—Philadelphia Press.

A young lady who came in last week to advertise for kitchen help said with a sigh and a wring of her dainty, gloved hands: "Oh! I do hope we'll get one soon. For it does almost break my heart to see mother wash dishes, with rheumatism, too."—McGregor News.

About these days the local politician reaps his reward. He marches proudly to the common council chamber, is sworn in, and in the name of humanity, justice and equal rights demands that a new street shall be cut through his father-in-law's peat meadow.—New Haven Register.

'The Unwilling Bride' is the title of a Ledger story. We have not read it, but we think if the bride was unwilling to get up mornings, bring in the coal and start the kitchen fire that ROBERT BONNER should not encourage our wives by upholding such conduct.—Whitehall Times.

Does the court understand you to say, Mr. JONES, that you saw the editor of The Auger of Freedom intoxicated? "Not at all, sir; I merely said that I had frequently seen him so flurried in his mind that he would undertake to cut out copy with the snuffers—that's all."—New York Star.

ROBERT, who fears he is rejected—"But you know, REBECCA, we are commanded to love everybody." REBECCA—"Yes; so I do love everybody." "ROBERT—pinaforically—"What, everybody?" REBECCA, shyly—"Well you know, present company is always excepted."—Yonkers Statesman.

There are a half a dozen 'great financiers' in this village so engrossed in making arrangements to 'pay the national debt' that they forget to pay any of their own debts. The credulous grocer who trusts any of them to the extent of a No 3 mackerel will be a sadder and a wiser man.—Catskill Recorder.

"Youth will ne'er return," says the poet, but we guess he's wrong, for in our own personal experience we knew a youth who had absorbed the ideas of BUFFALO BILL, and with a dollar and a half shot gun started West to hunt the savage to his lair; but he returned, and the Indian question was left undisturbed for an indefinite period.—Baltimore Every Saturday.

A Hastings debating club is discussing the question: "Resolved, that woman is man's political equal." If any woman down there who holds this opinion will come to Stillwater the night before an election, and make the grand rounds with the boys, she will immediately decide that she is not man's political equal, and does not want to be.—Stillwater Lumberman.

A four-year-old neighbor of ours lately said a good thing. His mother had promised that in a few days she would communicate something that would make him very happy, provided he was a very good boy in the meantime. But he did not want to wait. So he urged her to tell it now, promising not to repeat it, and offering other inducements. Finding that everything failed, he said, as his last argument, "Whisper it to me, mamma, and I'll forget it."—Yonkers Statesman.

The Spirit Anchor.

AN IDYL OF THE SEA.

Composed in my idyl moments.

Did you ever hear the story told
Of RALPH, the redhand rover bold,
Who in an evil moment sold
His best bower anchor, all for gold?

This RALPH, the redhand rover brave,
Sailed gaily o'er the dancing wave,
Nor thought the reckless daring knave
His fate should be a watery grave.

He swept the main and scoured the seas
In search of merchant ships to ease
Of cargoes rich. He loved to freeze
To other people's goods like these.

The breeze soon freshened to a gale,
And RALPH, the redhand, shortened sail,
Low on the winds was borne a wail
That made the bravest there turn pale.

The wild winds whistled loud and shrill,
Weird chords among the cordage till
The soul of RALPH began to fill
With strange forebode of coming ill.

"If we can ride this awful sea,
And round the rocks upon our lea,
We still may hope for life," said he,
That wild wail shrieked, "It shall not be!"

"And who art thou?" the rover groaned—
Above the roar of tempest, moaned
A voice distinct, but yet low-toned.
"The best bower anchor thou once owned."

Then RALPH the rover clasped his hand
Upon his brow; he called his band
Of gallant men, and bade them stand,
And wait for death on yonder land.

Thus met these valiant knaves their luck,
They died like men of iron pluck,
And when their good ship ran amuck,
They for the first and last time struck.

But RALPH himself was saved by quite
A fluke, for there to his delight
His best bower anchor floated right
Before him, and with all his might
He struggled on in eager fight
'Gainst angry billows, crested white,
At last he gained that anchor bright,
And seated on it grasping tight,
Was cast upon a rocky height.
The anchor then dissolved from sight.—
RALPH lives there yet—an anchorite.

Historic Anecdotes.

FROM THE FORTHCOMING "MEMOIRS OF LORD SNOGGLETHORPE."

I was once at a dinner party at which the Duke of WELLINGTON engaged in a lively discussion with Sir ROBERT PEEL on the Irish question. "It always seemed to me," said the Iron Duke, "that the landlords rather than the tenants, should engage in riotous and hostile demonstrations against the peace of our sovereign lady the Queen, her crown and dignity." "Why so?" observed Sir ROBERT, fixing his mouth for a laugh at the anticipated jeu d'esprit. "Because," replied His Grace, "they are the proper rioters, d'ye mind." The greatest enthusiasm prevailed.

During the reign of LOUIS PHILIPPE I was attached to the embassy at Paris, and one day when I had been granted an audience our conference was interrupted by the entrance of the official printer, who had come to receive instructions about the issuing of a royal proclamation. "How now, minion?" said His Majesty, somewhat vexed at having our interview disturbed—"Mais sire," replied the worthy craftsman, "s'il vous plaît je ne suis pas minion au contraire je suis bourgeois." His Majesty felt in his pocket for a louis d'or to give the witty printer as a mark of esteem, but finally concluded to bestow upon him the Cross of the Legion of Honor. It came cheaper. Shortly afterwards he was guillotined by the populace as a bloated aristocrat.

It was the same magnanimous ruler who when kindly enquiring after the health of Prince METTERNICH, was informed that the latter was prostrated by an attack of gout. "En bien, chacun a son gout," was the royal reply. The audience remarked "Ha, ha!" This piquant observation created a profound sensation in diplomatic circles, and is believed to have averted serious complications.

I have numerous other anecdotes of this stripe on hand, collected in the course of a lengthened public experience, which I am prepared to furnish to enterprising journals at fifty cents per anecdote—a liberal discount being made to clubs. If desirable they can be brought down to our day and applied to modern personages. A few rare BEACONSFIELD stories on hand in assorted lots to suit Grit or Topy purchasers as desired.

Different Views of the Judicature Act.THE GOVERNMENT.

We must do something, so we will copy the English Land Reform Bill. It is very long and will show well before the country.

THE OPPOSITION.

We have not yet quite read the act through—but being introduced by MOWAT it must be wrong in most points. We therefore will make some great objections to it. The old names of the Courts should not be kept—it isn't original—it must be opposed.

THE LAWYERS OF THE HOUSE.

We think it will increase litigation, and occasion a number of judgments before any one knows what it means. Its general principles are good.

THE FARMERS OF THE HOUSE.

We don't understand it, and we don't want to. We'll go with MOWAT—or MEREDITH.

THE HON. WILLIAM MACDOUGALL.

If I were there I would show them a wrinkle or two about that bill.

THE GENERAL PUBLIC.

It looks as if the Fusion were going to turn out Confusion.

TENDERS

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned and marked "Indian Tenders," will be received at this office until noon of the 1st MARCH 1880, for supplying the following articles, or any of them, at the undermentioned places, or any of them, by the 1st JULY next, in such quantities as may be required; also, for supplying any of the same articles or others described in Schedule obtainable at this office, at any of the places in the Northern or Southern districts of the North West Territories, and at any date or dates between the 1st JUNE, 1880, and the 30th MAY, 1881, and in such quantities as may be ordered:—

MANITOBA.

St. Peters, Fort Alexander, Broken Head River, Rosseau River, Swan Lake, Sandy Bay, Long Plain.

NORTH WEST TERRITORIES, LAKE MANITOBA AND THE WEST OF IT.

Manitoba House, Ebb and Flow Lake, Lake St. Martin, Little Saskatchewan, Water Hen Lake, Riding Mountain.

LAKE WINNIPEG.

Black River, Berens River, Fishers River, Grand Rapids, The Pas Mountains, Norway House, Cross Lake, Dog Head, Blood Vein River, Big Island, Sandy Bar, Jack Fish Head, Moose Lake, Cumberland.

LAKE OF THE WOODS AND EAST OF IT.

Shoal Lake, Coutcheecheing, Lac Seul, Rat Portage, Mattawan, Ishington, Assabaskung.

NORTH WEST TERRITORIES, NORTHERN DISTRICT.

Fort Ellice, Touchwood Hills, Prince Albert and Edmonton.

NORTH WEST TERRITORIES, SOUTHERN DISTRICT.

Fort Walsh, Fort McLeod.

Flour,	132,800 lbs.	Whiffletrees (for
Tea,	6,736 "	ploughs)	130
Sugar,	5,075 "	Whiffletrees (for
Tobacco,	3,999 "	harrows),	16
Bacon,	30,166 "	Scythe Stones,	144
Beef,	15,000 "	Sickles,	258
Pork,	20,850 "	Grain Cradles,	135
Woolen Shirts,	250	Scythes for do	135
Stout Trousers,	250	Flails,	292
Canvas Shirts,	250	Hose (steel)
Canvas Trousers,	250	Garden,	458
Moccasins,	500 prs.	Do (to in. turnip)	178
Ploughs,	21	Shovels (steel),	58
Harrows,	45	Do Scoop,	28
Scythes,	209	Blacksmiths'
Snails,	209	Tongues,	23
Hay Forks,	132	Pick Axes,	36
Axes,	865	Hay Knives,	23
Hoes,	1,134	Shingle Nails,	2,500 lbs.
Spades,	572	Borax,	92
Grindstones,	18	Blue Stone,	400
Cross Cut Saw		Fanning Mills,	22
Files,	144	Pit Saw Files,	180
Hand Saw Files,	130	Pit Saws,	24
Carts,	29	C. C. Saws,	24
Cart Harness,	29	Hand Saws,	96
Light Waggon,	6	Hammers,	12
Double Harness,	6	Augers,	120
Plough Harness,	38	Rakes,	171
Plough Harness,		Nose Bags,	84
Ox,	56	Plough Lines,	40
Do, Pony,	54	Tool Chests,	22
Sweat Collars,	88	Frowls,	28
Ploughs, break-		Single Barrel
ing,	125	Guns,	45
Plough Points,	360	Double do do	45
extra,		Gun Caps,	800
		Ammunition and Twine.

- 4 Hand Saws 26 in., } Equal in quality to 5 x 5.
4 Rip do 28 " }
4 Jack Planes, ordinary C. S., double irons with stand.
4 Steel Squares, 24 by 18, divided to 8ths.
4 Sets Augers, 1-1 in., 1-1 1/2, 1/2, short convex eye cut bright.
4 Drawing knives, extra quality, solid C. S. 13 in.
4 Cast Steel Hunch Axes, handled, best quality.
4 Adzes, handled, (house carpenters best C. S.)
4 Solid Steel Claw Hammers, Canadian patent.
Chisels (socket firmer) with ringed handles 1 1/2 in., 1 3/4 in.
Chisels, 1-1 in., 1-1 1/4, 1-1 1/2. 1-2 in. socket, cast steel handles.
4 Oil Stones.
4 Oil Cans.
4 Scratch Awls.
8 Gimlets 1 1/2, 1 3/4.
4 C. S. Compasses or Dividers.
4 2-Foot Rules, 4 fold arch joints.
4 Shoeing Pincers.
Forms of tender and schedules containing full particulars may be obtained on application at this office, whereat as well as at the Indian Office, Winnipeg, samples of some of the articles can be seen and descriptions of the other articles can be obtained.

Each party or firm tendering must submit the names of two responsible persons, who will consent to act as sureties, and the signatures of the proposed sureties must be appended to a statement at the foot of the tender to the effect that they agree to become surety for the due fulfilment of the contract, if awarded to the maker or makers of the tender.

By order,

L. VANKOUGHNET,

Deputy Superintendent General: of Indian Affairs.

Department of the Interior,
Indian Branch,
Ottawa, 28th January, 1880.

xiv-12-4t

FOR SALE.

A DESIRABLE DWELLING HOUSE, No. 2 Smith's Terrace, Seaton Street. The house (which is comparatively new) contains ten rooms, tastefully painted and papered, and is in excellent condition throughout. Hard and soft water on the premises; also a work shop suitable for a carpenter or painter. Will be sold on easy terms, or would be leased for a term of years at a liberal rate to a suitable tenant. For particulars apply at Grip Office, Adelaide Street.

BALDNESS!

Neither gasoline, vasoline, carboline, or Allen's, Ayer's or Hall's hair restorers have produced luxuriant hair on bald heads. That great discovery is due to Mr. Wintercorbyn, 144 King-street West, opposite Revere Block, as can be testified to by hundreds of living witnesses in this city and Province. He challenges all the so-called restorers to produce a like result.

Send for circulars.

xii-12-17

THE BABY-FARMER.

MRS. BROWN ENGAGING "FINANCE" TO SLAY THE RAG-BABY.

THE WELCOME OF THE PRINCESS.

DEDICATED, WITH PROFOUND LOYALTY, TO THE BRITISH NATION, BY MR. GRIP.

"Two minds with but a single thought,
Two hearts that beat as one."

J. BRUCE & Co.,

118 KING STREET WEST.

TO PHONOGRAPHERS!

REVISED PRICE-LIST OF ISAAC PITMAN'S PUBLICATIONS.

Compend of Phonography	5 cts
Exercises in Phonography,	10
Grammatical and Contractions,	15
Questions on Manual,	20
Selections in Reporting Style,	20
Teacher,	20
Key to Teacher,	20
Reader,	20
Manual,	50
Reporter,	75
Reporting Exercises,	20
Phrase Book,	35
Railway Phrase Book,	25
Covers for holding Note Book,	20
The Reporter's Guide, by Thos. Allan Reid	60
Self-culture, corresponding style,	75
The Book of Psalms, corresponding style,	35
The book of Psalms, cloth	75
Common Prayer morocco, with gilt edges	$2.80
The Other Life, cloth	50
New Testament, reporting style,	$2.50
Phonographic Dictionary	1.50
Pilgrim's Progress, corresponding style,	55
Pilgrim's Progress, cloth	90
Esop's Fables, in Learner's Style	20
Ten Pounds and Other Tales, cor. style	20
That Which Money cannot Buy, etc. cor. style	20
Being and Seeming, My Donkey, A Parish Clerk's Tale, etc., cor. style	20
Character of Washington, Speech of George Canning at Plymouth, etc., with printed key, rep. style	20
Address of the Earl of Derby, on being installed Lord Rector of the University of Edinburgh, etc., rep. style	20

Sent post-paid to any address on receipt of price.

BENGOUGH BROS.,

Next Post Office, Toronto.

The Baby Farmer.

Auld Mrs. Broon has for some time been pestered with the troublesome Rag Baby—a most uncanny little creature, that has given her more trouble than she feels at all disposed to suffer. The bairnie was thrust upon her hands volens volens, and as it bore the unmistakable marks of Tory parentage, Mrs. Broon's first and natural impulse was to put it out of existence. This she has earnestly endeavored to do, but in vain. She has dosed it with ridicule, blistered it with sarcasm, whalloped it with logic, and starved it with thin wit—but the unspeakable youngster has continued to thrive to such an extent that Mrs. Broon has become decidedly alarmed. She foresees that in a short time, at this rate, the Baby will become one of the powers of Toryism, and so she has taken desperate measures. She has engaged a regular Baby-Farmer—a ruthless creature known as "Finance"—to murder the little wretch with the weapon of Argument. "Finance" has delivered three formal thrusts up to the present writing, but their effect upon the Baby has not been fatal. On the contrary the child seems livelier than ever. Mr. Grip holds himself in readiness, however, to chronicle its demise at any moment.

Nonsense.

It was a bad boy who pooh-poohed Propositions to have him tattooed Like the Princes have been :
"They must be deuced green."
Said that boy—Oh! how naughty and rude!

His mother and sisters declare That if the dear Princess did wear Tattoo marks like those On forehead or nose, They'd at once get tattooed—anywhere.

Answers to Correspondents.

Mrs. FITZ G.—We cannot advise you to get your little boy's nose tattooed immediately. It would certainly be a fine thing to have him lead the fashion, but perhaps the noses of the young Princes are not done in fast colors. We do not yet know the size or the outline of the device adopted by the Royal youths. You had better wait till the exact truth has been ascertained by the Globe's Ottawa correspondent.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

Adelaide St. West. Mr. AUG. PITROU, Manager. Open for the Season. Saturday Matinees.

ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.

King St. West. Mr. LUCIEN BARNES, Manager. Popular Saturday Matinees and Evening Performances.

HEWITT Fysh,

Manufacturer of all kinds of

CHOICE CAKES AND CONFECTIONERY,
222 YONGE STREET.

Wedding cakes a specialty.

xiv-3-121

FARM FOR SALE,

Or Exchange for City Property.

That valuable farm, containing 50 acres and being the N.W. ¼ of Lot 8, Con. 2, of the Township of Reach, County of Ontario. There is an orchard of 60 fruit trees of choice varieties, a frame house, and a barn with stone foundation and underground stables. The soil is a rich clay loam.

GEO. BENGOUGH,

Drawer 2673, Toronto.

"GRIP" Now in its seventh year and Fourteenth Volume, and more popular and influential than ever before.

$2 Per Annum, Free of Postage.

PRESS OPINIONS.

Grip deserves increased prosperity, and should receive liberal support. It is one of the best educators we know of, and if taken into the family circle—as it can be with pleasure and profit—it would stimulate the desire of the younger members of the family to acquire a knowledge of public affairs. It should be in every house, so also should Grip's Almanac.—Lindsay Post.

Grip's Comic Almanac for 1880 is out. It's a buster. The man who advertises anti-fat medicine may sell out, for everybody is going to "laugh and grow fat" over this side-splitting little volume. It will bear reading all the year round. Don't forget to ask your bookseller for it, And if he hasn't got it, tell him to send for it.—Fredericton Farmer.

Happy is the individual who has received a copy of the Grip Almanac, from Toronto, Ont. As for ourselves we have done nothing but laugh since first looking into its contents. It is brimming over with good things, nonsensical and otherwise, and one must be sure their vest buttons are sewed on strongly before they commence reading the funny morsels it contains.—Meriden (Conn.) Recorder.

Try the - ALBERT COFFEE ROOMS for DINNER.
Best Brands of OYSTERS Always on hand.

11 ALBERT STREET, TORONTO.

6 Tickets for $1.00

Raw 25c., Stewed, 25c., Fried, 80c.
xiv-8-to-131.

PUBLISHERS' NOTE.
Grip is published every SATURDAY morning, at the new Office, Imperial Buildings, first door west of Post Office.
Subscription price, $2 per annum, strictly in advance. For sale by all newsdealers. Back numbers supplied. BENGOUGH BROS.

USE ONLY
ONTARIO
Baking Powder.
Ask your Grocer for it.
MANUFACTORY:
247 King Street West,
TORONTO. xii-20-1y

MACHINERY HALL,
55 Front St. East.
SECOND-HAND
MACHINERY
FOR SALE:
1 Re-Sawer, Goldie, McCulloch & Co.
1 Binder.
1 Sticker.
1 Sewing Machine Lathes.
1 Milling Machine.
1 15-h.p. Watrous Engine and Boiler.
1 u. p. Engine with 4 h.p. Boiler.
1 u. p. Engine with 7 h.p. Boiler.
1 30 h.p. Engine with 40 h.p. Boiler.
1 68 h.p. Engine with 2 Boilers 48 inch shell 22 feet long, 16 in. flues.
1 Boiler 44 inch shell 21 feet long 14 inch flues.
1 (Stearns) Circular Saw Mill.
1 (Stearns) Log Turner.
1 (Stearns) Double Edger.
1 Stock Gate with Crank Shaft, Crank Pulleys and Press Rollers.
1 Slabbing Gate with chain feed.
1 Counter Shaft (4 inch) 7 feet long with 11 pulleys, drums and pulleys.
A lot of drums and pulleys suitable for a mill.
1 No. Gordon Press (new).
1 Water Motor, good as new.
Power Mowing Machine, Wooden Frame.

WE ARE AGENTS FOR
REID'S
Patent Seamless Water Trap,
The best, because the strongest Trap in the Market. We invite the inspection of Plumbers and Architects.
Wm. Dingman & Co.,
55 Front St. East.
Machinery taken on consignment and no charge for storage. We guarantee every Machine leaving our establishment in good working order.

CHEAP READING.
We will send to subscribers of "GRIP" any of the following magazines and papers for one year at prices annexed.
Scribner, $4.50, Grip $2, both, $5.50.
St. Nicholas, $3, Grip, $2, both $4.50.
Harper's Magazine $5.50, Grip $2 both $6.50.
Harper's Weekly $5, Grip $2, both $6.
Harper's Bazar $5, Grip $2, both $6.
Scientific American, $3.20, Grip $2, both $4.75.
Detroit Free Press, $2, Grip, $2, both, $4.25.
BENGOUGH BROS.

$1500 TO $6000 A YEAR, or $5 to $20 a day in your own locality. No risk. Women do as well as men. Many make more than the amount stated above. No one can fail to make money fast. No one can do the work. You can make from 50 cts. to $2 an hour by devoting your evenings and spare time to be business. It costs nothing to try the business. Nothing like it or money making ever offered before. Business pleasant and strictly honorable. Reader if you want to know all about the best paying business before the public, send us your address and we will send you full particulars and private terms free; samples worth $5 also free; you can then make up your mind for yourself. Address GEORGE STINSON & CO., Portland, Maine. xiii-10-1y

"THE CHAMPION ROCKAWAY."
BY PROF. A. KOERBER.
One of the most tuneful and taking Pianoforte Compositions ever published in the Dominion.
We have a few copies of this Rockaway left which we are offering at half-price. Sent to any address on receipt of 25 Cents.
BENGOUGH, BROS., Publishers.

GRIP OFFICE, } The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl; } 5 CTS. EACH.
IMPERIAL BUILDING. } The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool. } $2 PER ANNUM.

"CARICATURE."
A HUMOROUS ACCOUNT OF THE RISE AND PROGRESS OF CARICATURE AS AN ART.
AND
"Mr. CHRIS. COLUMBUS."
A MOST AMUSING AND INSTRUCTIVE BURLESQUE DIGEST OF THE HISTORY OF CANADA, FROM EARLY TIMES UP TO THE PRESENT DAY.
NOTICE TO SOCIETIES, CLUBS, &c.—Mr. J. W. BENGOUGH may be engaged to deliver either of the above lectures, with Impromptu Crayon Illustrations, embracing Sketches of well-known Local Men; or to give his popular "CHALK CHAT" as a feature in an evening's programme. For terms, &c., address—
GEO. BENGOUGH, Business Manager, GRIP Office.

EDITOR'S NOTE.
ORIGINAL contributions will always be welcome. All such intended for current No. should reach GRIP office not later than Wednesday.—Articles and Literary correspondence must be addressed to the Editor, GRIP office, Toronto. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned.
S. GOULDEN, JEWELLER.
4 King St. East, Diamond Mounter &c. Every description of Jewellery made to order. Fine rings a specialty. Repairing, Gems re-set, &c. xiv-3-1y

$66 A WEEK in your own town, and no capital risked. You can give the business a trial without expense. The best opportunity ever offered for those willing to work. You should try nothing else until you see for yourself what you can do at the business we offer. No room to explain here. You can devote all your time or only your spare time to the business, and make great pay for every hour that you work. Women make as much as men. Send for special private terms and particulars, which we will mail free. $5 Outfit free. Don't complain of hard times while you have such a chance. Address H. HALLET & CO., Portland, Maine. xiii-10-1y

BENGOUGH BROS.
Are prepared to execute orders for
ENGRAVING
in the highest style of the art.

Type Metal Plates
MADE FROM
Pen and Ink Sketches, Photographs, Lithographs, &c.,
More perfect, true and lasting than any wood engraving, and at a much lower cost. Call and see specimens at
GRIP OFFICE.
Next door to Post Office, Toronto.

DRUGGIST'S Labels,
in plain black, or gold and fancy colors, Prescription Books and Pads, and every description of Medical and General Job Printing, at
BENGOUGH BROS.
30 Adelaide St. and 55 Front St. E.

GOOD BREAD
13 CTS. A superior BREAD. We ask you to try it: 4lb Loaf. Delivered Daily.

CRUMPTON'S,
171 KING ST. EAST.

Readers of "GRIP"
Desiring anything in the Book or Music line, which they may not be able to procure at home, can have them forwarded, at once, if in the city, by addressing Bengough Bros., next P.O., Toronto.

$300 A MONTH guaranteed. $12 a day made at home by the industrious. Capital not required; we will start you. Men, women, boys and girls rake money faster at work for us than at anything else. The work is light and pleasant, and such as anyone can go right at. Those who are wise who see this notice will send us their addresses at once and see for themselves. Costly Outfit and terms free. Now is the time. Those already at work are laying up large sums of money. Address TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine. xiii-10-1y

Literature and Art.

SWINBURNE's new volume of poems will shortly be published. The entire collection is new. The longest of these poems has "Sappho" for its subject. Those who have seen the manuscript of this poem describe it as one of the strongest efforts of Mr. SWINBURNE's muse. The poet, who is suffering from ill-health, is now in the South of France.

Miss CLARKE, of Hamilton, made her debut as a reader before a Toronto audience, on Thursday evening of last week. She possesses a fine stage appearance and a good voice, but appears to lack the artistic instinct, or to fully grasp the idea of her authors. As an interpreter of Irish dialect she is superior to the majority of lady readers, though her best performance on this occasion was decidedly her reading of the "Fall of Pemberton Mill," an excellent pathetic composition.

Mrs. SCOTT-SIDDONS, on Saturday afternoon gave her positively last farewell performance till next time. Happy thought,—why not announce it as her positively au revoir appearance, seeing that she will be sure to take the advice of MINNIE PALMER's School-master and "come again." Of course on this occasion she was received with great enthusiasm, not that her reading is at all what it is "cracked up to be," but because she has such lovely dresses; such a glorious pair of eyes, such a classic nose, and such a fascinating business-like smile.

ROSA BOUHEUR is engaged upon a great painting representing horses trampling out wheat in the south of France. As yet it is only to be seen in its beginnings, though a French paper—perhaps finding prophecy catching in the almanac season—announced it last winter as a finished work. The picture is about three times as large as the famous "Horse Fair," and there are many signs that it is intended to be the artist's magnum opus in the figurative as in the literal sense. Every form and figure in it, every detail of the landscape will be studied from the natural object.

MACAULAY has pointed out that the first English author who really made a good paying business of literature was RICHARDSON, for the good reason that he published his own works. A statement has lately been made that SWIFT "had no pecuniary interest in his writings," but a correspondent of the Athenæum points out that in a letter to Mr. PULTENEY, in 1735, he says: "I never got a farthing by anything I writ, except one about eight years ago, and that was by Mr. POPE's prudent management for me." About eight years ago corresponds with the date of publication of "Gulliver," for which $1,000 is alleged to have been paid. Probably it has earned for the booksellers by this time $100,000.

The London Athenæum discusses whether men whose names are softened into diminutives often make a name in letters. We do not speak of FRANK BACON or JACK MILTON or SANDY POPE but in Scotland you hear of BOBBIE BURNS, and there is something endearing in the names of TOM MOORE, TOM HOOD, and DICK STEELE, especially. All the SAMUELS, of whom many are great—SAM JOHNSON, SAM WILBERFORCE, &c.—are called by the diminutive. Statesmen in England have often received this diminutive, not always justified by intimacy on the part of those who employ it. PAM, BOBBY PEEL, JOHNNY RUSSELL, TOM MACAULAY, TOM DUNCOMBE, are expressions still used, and profanity has gone so far as to call the present Prime Minister BEN D'ISREALI.

The Baby's Debut.

We have watch'd your infant years,
Baby mine, baby mine,
We have had our griefs and fears,
Baby mine, baby mine,
Now proudly we can own,
That you're stout and healthy grown,
And you now can "go alone,"
Baby mine, baby mine!

Though you waddled when you walked,
Baby mine, baby mine,
And you mumbled as you talked,
Baby mine, baby mine,
Yet now we can rejoice,
That there's music in your voice,
And you're bound to make a noise,
Baby mine, baby mine!

Though the Globe may rant and rave,
Baby mine, baby mine,
And has wished you in your grave,
Baby mine, baby mine,
We can laugh at all their spleen,
And their slanders vile and mean,
For now you're all serene,
Baby mine, baby mine!

Now kick out and let them see,
Baby mine, baby mine,
How lively you can be,
Baby mine, baby mine,
Though the Grits are looking blue,
And mischief wish to do,
Now Sir JOHN will see you through,
Baby mine, baby mine!

For sale by all leading grocers.

Toronto Agency, 19 ADELAIDE ST. EAST.

CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY.

TENDERS for a second 100 miles section WEST OF RED RIVER will be received by the undersigned until noon on Monday, the 29th of March, next.

The section will extend from the end of the 48th Contract—near the western boundary of Manitoba—to a point on the west side of the valley of Bird-tail Creek.

Tenders must be on the printed form, which, with all information, may be had at the Pacific Railway Engineer's Offices, in Ottawa and Winnipeg, on and after the 1st day of March next.

By Order.

DEPT. OF RAILWAYS & CANALS,
Ottawa, 11th February, 1880.

F. BRAUN,
Secretary.
XIV-14-6t.

BALDNESS!

Neither gasoline, vasoline, carboline, or Allen's, Ayer's or Hall's hair restorers have produced luxuriant hair on bald heads. That great discovery is due to Mr. Winter-corn, 144 King-street, West, opposite Revere Block, as can be testified to by hundreds of living witnesses in this city and Province. He challenges all the so-called restorers to produce a like result.

Send for circulars.

xii-12-17

Stage Whispers.

LEVY will toot his horn at Manhattan Beach next summer, to the tune of $500 a week.

MARSHALL JEWELL lectures occasionally on "A Russian Winter." A cool subject certainly.

When BRUTUS and CASSIUS were boys the girls used to say that BRUTE was such a nice fellow, but they preferred CASH. The girls haven't changed one bit.—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

The managers of the Aquarium in London fired a girl from a cannon and she hit a grocer and broke three of his ribs. If girls could be used in place of cannon balls the government would effect a great saving.

"Pinafore," translated into Russian, is to be performed simultaneously at St. Petersburg and Moscow. The Nihilists are evidently going to try a new manoeuvre against the life of the poor old persecuted Czar.—Louisville Courier Journal.

"H. M. S. Parliament" is drawing large audiences to the Grand Opera House this week. The keen political hits and the likenesses of the leading characters to the great originals are very good and call forth frequent bursts of applause. We advise any of our readers at all interested in political matters to go and see this novel entertainment; take your ladies also, they will enjoy it. Monday and Tuesday 15th and 16th STRAKOSH's Grand Italian Opera Co., will appear at this house.

Mr. SMALLEY, The London correspondent of the New York Tribune, in writing of the big dinner IRVING, the actor, gave to several hundred of his friends, says: "His festival was given in commemoration of an event unique in the history of Shakespearian performances, the hundredth consecutive representation of the 'Merchant of Venice.' I don't know that there is any record of any play of SHAKESPEARE's having had a run of 100 nights, 'Hamlet' excepted." The Tribune ought to know better than that. EDWIN BOOTH played "Hamlet" for a hundred consecutive nights in New York, while "Julius Cæsar" ran for more than a hundred nights.

HIS UNPREMEDITATED SPEECH.—"Ladies and gentlemen," said Colonel SOLON, pulling up a roll of paper from his jacket, "this call was entirely unexpected. I am not prepared to speak and didn't know five minutes before I was called on that I was expected to say anything here, so I merely jotted down a few remarks yesterday that I intended to make. You must excuse all blunders, as my speech is entirely impromptu and all the manuscript so poorly written I can hardly read it. Drunkenness is a terrible virtue. I have known men, after a short career of dissipation, fill a drunkard's grave before they were three years old. I have seen rich men pass the wine-cup around their well-filled tables and their poor children crying for a crust of bread. You see men on every corner who have filled drunkards' graves. You see men reeling about the streets, who, if they had died of cholera infantum, would have starved the saloon keepers to death. As SHAKESPEARE says: Oh, that men should put an enemy in his mouth to commit petty larceny on his brains.' My hearers, epury bus—epury bus—my hearers, the squire has rung in some Greek on me and as I don't understand Latin I'm obliged to quit."

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

By BENGOUGH BRO'S, Proprietors. Office:—Imperial Buildings, next to the Post Office, Adelaide Street, Toronto. GEO. BENGOUGH, Business Manager.

Original contributions paid for. Rejected manuscripts cannot be returned. Literary and Business communications to be addressed to BENGOUGH BRO'S.

SUBSCRIPTION TERMS.—Two dollars per year, payable in advance. Subscriptions and advertisements are received at the office, or by WM. R. BURRAGE, General Subscription and Advertising Agent, 26 Adelaide Street East, Toronto.

EDITED AND ILLUSTRATED BY J. W. BENGOUGH.

The gravest Beast is the Ass; the gravest Bird is the Owl;
The gravest Fish is the Oyster; the gravest Man is the Fool.

Parliamentary Autographs.

The correspondent of the London Advertiser says that autograph hunters are always to be found at this time of the year hanging around the House of Commons, and pestering the notable members for contributions to their albums. It is mentioned that Mr. BLAKE has a mortal horror of these nuisances,—a feeling which is no doubt shared by many other distinguished representatives. This repugnance is easily accounted for. The autograph hunters expect something "original," and none of these great men possess the happy faculty of extemporizing poetry. A little hand-book containing epigrams and stanzas adapted to the circumstances and characteristics of our leading statesmen would "fill a want long felt." Mr. GRIP commends this suggestion to his friend Mr. CARROL RYAN, the bearded poet of the capital. It might be called the Parliamentarian's Companion, and the ready-made contributions might be modelled after the following:—

For Sir John A. Macdonald.

You ask me for something poetic,
An "original measure," you say,
I'll get the Grit party to make one,
And then bring it down (signed)

JOHN A.

For Senator McPherson.

One unaccustomed to write
May have a message to men,
Mine is—"don't wear silk stockings
On a cold winter night,
For bronchitis punishes the vanity
Of showing one's legs.

P.S.—This should be sent to my office if the rhyme is not correct.

D. L. MCP.

The poet's mind sees all things well,
The beauty of earth and air and sea,
And in political life the poet can tell
The great and glorious benefits of the N.P.

J. BURR X. PLUMB.
Mark.

How sad would life be to the earnest student if he did not look to future generations for justice.

R. W. PHIPPS.

'Tis truth—I've put it to the touch
In many a year of contest keen—
"No statesman can protest too much,
But he whose hands are really clean."

JOHN A. MACDONNELL.

I love the cold sequestered shades
Of opposition well, because
Therein the virtuous man parades
His rectitude, nor shows its flaws.

ALEX. MCKENZIE.

How sweet to hear the rude Reformers bray
Of contract frauds, and money thrown away;
I listen and I know they play my game,
And mark me as the heir of great JOHN A.,
Whom all good Tories love more for his shame.

The more the Grits declare that I'm Springhill
The more I'm sure of disappointing TILLEY.

CHARLES TUPPER.

Reflection profound is the Mother
Of deeds that will alter the Ages:
Action the turbulent Brother
Of Thought the maker of Sages.
'Tis good to think and to act,
A chancery practice is good,
So is a knowledge of fact.—
Long has a Great One stood
Scanning the universe wide,
After the glow worm fashion,
By the light of his own inside;
Now he thrills with passion
And fateful deeds betide.

EDWARD BLAKE.

Be pious in your youthful days,
Be temperate likewise,
Religious reputation pays
The man who wants to rise.
He who has character may quit
His principles at will,
With crooked chaps in office sit
And feel quite moral still.

S. L. TILLEY.

De Tale of De Spanish City.

IN TWO BOOKS.

BOOK I. CHAPTER I.THE ASSIGNATION.

"Meet me by moonlight alone."

—John Stuart Mill.

'Twas eve; myriads of stars flung a subdued, enchanting light o'er a grove of orange-trees, whose blossoms were gently tipped by the effulgence of the summer moon silently rising, and whose rich perfume stole on the enraptured senses like the sound of sweet music—soft and low. 'Twas eve, and through the groves of orange and jessamine the summer night winds sighed, sweet and soft on the cheek as is the breath of the dreamy Tarantula o'er the slumbers of a slumbering child.

Half reclining they sat on a rustic seat, arched over by the purple limbs of the luscious vine, whose heavy branches of ripe fruit hung dependent, almost to their heads. No sound was heard save the occasional cry of the Fata Morgana from some neighbouring thicket, or the quick, metallic chirrup of the Cantharides or Spanish fly, which made the air musical.

"Non e ver carissima!" he gently murmured, "SANTISSIMA TRINIDAD, donna e mobile."—"Why do you thus doubt me?" she rejoined, casting her eyes down, "is it not enough that I have promised? Per Baccho di tanti palpiti, il flauto magico e il BARBIERE DI SEVIGLIA. Nozze di Figaro! Will that not even satisfy you?"

CHAPTER II.THE PROMISE.

"Promises were made to be broken."

—Bollingbroke.

They were lovers.—She, dark as the beauty of the night shade, or the lithe Cachuca, scion of a princely lineage, daughter of the Hidalgo BOLERO COSPETTO STILETTO!!—He, fair as is the flaxen blue-eyed Olla Podrida, only son of GUANO MANUERO, the city scavenger!!! Their lips met. "Swear it," he gasped; "swear it, ISIDORA, on the graves of your ancestors!" Seizing the unresisting female by the voluminous mantilla or pull-back, which hung in heavy folds from her queenly form, he with mad haste dragged her to the aforesaid graves. Standing on them in the dim, weird, dreamy starlight, ISIDORA swore a very big oath.

CHAPTER III.THE RIVAL.

"At last I have thee! oh! mine enemy."

—P. T. Barnum.

He was tall and dark, his mustaches tied lightly behind each ear, slightly revealing his pearly teeth clenched as though in rage. Dressed in black velvet chiaro oscuro, and with his trusty sombrero at his side, he was a nobleman of Hispaniola. He strode to and fro impatiently—a footstep—"Tis she!!! With an ecstatic pas seul, he clasped her in his muscular arms, and gazed fondly, longingly, and with a fierce love, on the face of—his grandmother! "How can this be?" pondered the blue-eyed MANUERO, who was secreted behind the arras.

CHAPTER IV.THE MEETING.

"But see! what light from yonder window breaks."

—Dr. Watts.

Night,—darkness,—black darkness envelops the city as in a shroud. No sound but the roaring of the tempest through the forest of chimney cans, or the wail of the torrent hurrying to the sea down the gutters. Night,—darkness,—a solitary light beams from her casement. The light twanging of a guitar mixes with the sound of the wrestling trees. The light twanging of the trees mixes with the sound of wrestling guitar. MANUERO serenades the Donna ISIDORA. So does the Rival. They meet in deadly combat, and MANUERO utters a piercing cry as his opponent cuts all the strings of his beloved mandolin with one trenchant blow of the afore-mentioned sombrero.

CHAPTER V.

"Water! water! everywhere."

—Petruchio.

Above the shrill fandangos and war shouts of the combatants, an ominous sound arises. "Hark! what's that?" said the breathless MANUERO. "Fish, and find out," gasped the Rival, as he hurled a cast-iron gas pipe at his opponent, who meditatively avoided it, allowing it to strike the Alhambra such a blow that the famous gridiron trembled. Again the sound, the ominous sound, made itself heard. "'Tis she," said the Rival. "Ah," said MANUERO, "it is, it is—" "Boiling water, you villains!" sang a feminine voice from the battlements, as a shower descended on the true lovers' heads.

The scene of the fight next morning presented a fine exhibition of cuticle to the curiosity spectator.

(To be Continued in our Next.)

The Mail on Mr. Dymond.

The Mail argues that because Mr. A. H. DYMOND reported Mr. HOOPER as guilty of defalcation, the report was worthless. Whereupon Mr. DYMOND writes to the Mail that he was not the Commissioner in Mr. HOOPER'S case. To which the Mail makes this remarkable reply:

"Of course Mr. DYMOND'S statement sets the matter at rest so far as he is concerned, but it is a little singular that he has been connected with the Lennox Commission by men and journals on both sides of politics. Probably the Lennox Commission has been confounded with the Cornwall case, in which he certainly was Commissioner. This does not, however, effect our argument in the slightest."

Our contemporary has possibly been reading Middlemarch. It will be remembered that Mrs. FAREBROTHER was once told that HYDGATE was a natural son of BULSTODES. She

"did not fail to tell her son of it observing, 'I should not be surprised at anything in BULSTODE but I should be sorry to think of Mr. HYDGATE.'"

